The following TEST-PIECES are chosen for the above Examinations, and can be supplied by Messrs. NOVELLO & Co., Ltd.:—

ASSOCIATE EXAMINATIONS.	Net s.	d.
BACH, J. S.—Prelude and Fugue in A (Novello & Co.'s Edition, edited by Bridge and Higgs, Book 3, p. 64)	3	0
BACH, J. S.—Sonata No. 5, in C (first movement). (Novello and Co.'s Edition, edited by Bridge and Higgs, Book 5, p. 134)	3	0
BACH, J. S.—Choral Prelude. "Nun danket alle Gott" (Novello and Co.'s Edition, edited by John Pointer, Book 14, p. 5)	3	0
SMART, HENRY.—Three-part Study (Smart's Original Compositions, No. 27)	1	6
BUXTEHUDE, D.—Prelude and Fugue, in F sharp minor (Original Compositions, No. 351)	2	0
MENDELSSOHN.—Sonata No. 5	2	6
RHEINBERGER, J.—Sonata in B minor (Op. 146) (Fantasie and Finale only)	4	0
REGER MAX.—Choral-Vorspiele (Op. 67) (Book 1, Nos. 10 and 12)	3	3

The Subject for the Essay will be taken from "Music in its Relation to the Intellect and the Emotions," by J. Stainer. Price 1s. Paper Boards, 1s. 6d. Cloth, 2s. 0d.

FELLOWSHIP EXAMINATIONS.
BACH, J. S.—Prelude and Fugue in G (No. 16, Novello & Co. Edition, edited by Bridge & Higgs)	1	0
WESLEY, S. S.—Andante in F (Edited by G. M. Garrett)	1	6
BEETHOVEN.—Largo from Pianoforte Sonata in A, Op. 2, No. 2 (No. 74, W. T. Best's Organ Arrangements)	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Musical Times

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

MAY 1, 1912.

MR. GERVASE ELWES.

Mr. Gervase Elwes was born at Billing, near Northampton, on November 15, 1866. His father, Valentine Cary Elwes, of Billing Hall, Northampton, and the Manor House, Brigg (Lincolnshire), displayed no special musical faculty, but his mother, who was a daughter of the Hon. and Rev. Henry Ward, Rector of Killinchy, co. Down, Ireland, possessed considerable gifts as a singer, and she had studied as an amateur under Charles Deacon. Mr. Elwes states that all he knew of music as a boy was derived from the careful instruction he had from his mother.

In 1877 the boy was sent to the school which was a section of the Oratory, Birmingham, founded by Cardinal Newman. Here some facility young Elwes had acquired in violin-playing was utilised and developed. He used to play second violin in the school quartets and with the musical fathers of the Oratory, and he recalls the fact that the Cardinal, who was known to have some practical acquaintance with the violin, was often present at these practices and evidently much enjoyed them. Young Elwes had a very good high treble voice, and was therefore a useful member of the school choir. In 1881 he was removed to Woburn School at Weybridge, Surrey, and soon after his arrival there his voice began to break. Singing was now abandoned, but the violin and the pianoforte were not neglected. He left Weybridge in 1885, and went to Christ Church, Oxford. Whilst there he did not study music seriously, but he learned many songs of various degrees of art-value, and he took some part in the activities of the Musical Club. His voice at this stage appeared to promise to become a baritone, but the low notes of the compass were not satisfactory. He left the University in 1888, and, with a view of qualifying himself for the Diplomatic Service, he went to Munich to study foreign languages. But he soon returned to England in order to fulfil an important engagement he had contracted whilst he was at Oxford, namely, to unite himself in what are called the 'bonds of matrimony' to Lady Winefride Feilding, a daughter of the Earl of Denbigh. The marriage of Mr. Elwes and Lady Winefride took place in London in 1889, and the couple went to Munich for a time. Whilst there, besides studying foreign languages Mr. Elwes practised the violin, but he did not take up singing. In 1890 he returned to London to pursue general studies, and in 1891 he was appointed as an honorary attaché to the British Embassy at Vienna. There he studied harmony under Mandyczewski. One day, when he was about to have his usual lesson, he found in the room an elderly gentleman with a fine head and a great beard, to whom he was introduced by Mandyczewski. It was the great Johannes Brahms, one of Elwes's gods, whose gospel he now preaches with so much subtlety and insight. The composer did not stop for the harmony lesson! Elwes left Vienna in 1892 to take up an appointment at the British Legation at Brussels. He remained there three years. At this period his voice began to develop, and in his leisure time he studied voice-production and singing generally under Demest, a professor at the Brussels Conservatoire. He made the acquaintance of numerous French songs, and sang a good deal as an amateur in private circles. There was still doubt as to his class of voice, the baritone quality being even now more or less in evidence. In 1895, after due cogitation, he decided to abandon the Diplomatic Service, and returned to England and resided with his father at Brigg. There he remained several years without clear views as to a career. He continued to exercise his voice and to sing as an amateur. One day, at a country concert at which Mr. (now Sir) Alfred Scott Gatty and he were singing, Gatty told Elwes that he had far too good a voice to be neglected, and urged him to go to London to study with a view to entering the profession. This advice Elwes not only listened to but took, and came to the Metropolis and put himself under Henry Russell, who also encouraged him to believe that he would succeed as a public singer. The claims of a growing family impelled a decision, and acting on the suggestion of a fellow vocalist, Mr. J. Campbell McInnes, he went to Paris to study under Bouhy. Under this well-known professor Elwes did not work so much at voice-production and breathing as he did at the æsthetical side of a singer's equipment and at French pronunciation. As Bouhy's musical entourage was a large and important one, Elwes made the acquaintance of some of the best vocal artists then in Paris, and profited greatly thereby. Early in his course with Bouhy, Elwes asked the professor whether he (Elwes) would be justified in adopting singing as a profession, one doubtful factor being his age. Bouhy replied that as Elwes had done so much musical study in early life he was not at a great disadvantage, and he encouraged the idea, with the proviso that voice-production should be assiduously studied. Thus fortified Elwes worked as he had never worked before in his life. This is stated on the testimony of his wife, who avers that she never knew him get up so early and work so hard. He took ten lessons a week of various kinds—two with Bouhy, four with Miss Sturmfels, one of the ablest of his assistants, two in Bouhy's opera-class, and two in another opera-class. He studied several regulation operatic rôles—'Faust,' 'Romeo and Juliet,' 'Carmen,' &c.—not with a view to the stage, but to gain that ease and freedom, that ordered vent for temperament, which only dramatic experience can give. He stayed in Paris for two winter seasons. It was during this period that he obtained his first professional engagement. He sang at an hotel concert, and received as fee a note for 100 francs. He wishes now that he had kept this note and had it framed, but at the time there were other more utilitarian uses for the little scrap of paper. One incident of his Paris life he remembers keenly, because of the lesson it drove home. He tells the story gladly, although it is against himself. Mr. Higgins, of the Royal Italian Opera Syndicate, was in the habit of visiting Paris periodically to find singers for Covent Garden. Elwes sang to him, and chose 'If with all your hearts.' Higgins, after saying some nice things, blandly added that if he had not known the aria he could not have guessed in what language Elwes had sung! After this Miss Sturmfels recommended Elwes to practise singing and reading aloud with a pencil between his teeth. This advice Elwes at once followed, and read novels in various languages to his wife, and sang his songs at and past the pencil. Whether it was this practice that led to the exceptionally clear enunciation which is one of the happiest qualities of Elwes's singing to-day we cannot say, but no doubt the concentrated attention on the articulatory organs involved in the plan must have had a salutary effect. But did it tend to stiffen the jaw? It is possible, because later, in Elwes's case, this matter seriously engaged his attention. One set of muscles can rarely be restrained without the action of other muscles being impeded. Yet in the complicated evolution of the singer's artistic progress he is almost compelled to risk this in order to fight the enemy in detail.

LADY WINEFRIDE ELWES.

(Reproduced from a drawing by John S. Sargent, R.A., by his kind permission.)

Elwes was now launched as a public singer. His first professional engagement in this country was at the Westmorland Festival in 1903, an institution created by the late Miss Wakefield, who was a keen appreciator of good art. The numbers on the programme at the Festival in which Elwes was concerned were Somervell's cantata, 'The power of sound,' and Elgar's 'Coronation Ode.' Mr. Coleridge-Taylor conducted. An engagement with the Handel Society in London ensued, and Elwes began to be known as a singer. Some criticisms on his performance were not altogether favourable, and his sense of their justice—a modest assessment of his own capabilities being at once one of his engaging virtues and one of his faults—led to a period of depression and self-depreciation.

The Daily News, apropos his first recital given at the Bechstein Hall on October 26, 1903, said:

> Mr. Gervase Elwes, the new tenor, is one of those singers who should be compelled to retire from the concert-platform for the purpose of further study. He has a beautiful quality of voice and intelligence. The production, however, is not clear, and the voice requires more training in the upper register. I am sure that the slightly hoarse timbre of the voice could be cured, and the method of breathing improved.

He wondered whether after all he had made a right decision in entering the profession. But light came, chiefly through the incurable optimism of Lady Winefride, and he determined to study again. He had a slight acquaintance with Victor Beigel, of Vienna, who at this time was teaching in London. Elwes sought and obtained this able professor's advice and assistance, with the happiest results. Beigel soon diagnosed the case, revised his pupil's production and his mode of breathing, and coached him in German lieder generally, and more particularly in Brahms's songs, in the interpretation of which Elwes is to-day an acknowledged master. Elwes speaks very enthusiastically of Beigel, and considers that he was his musical salvation at a critical and harassing period from which he emerged with a belief in himself and a moral support indispensable to a public executant. On February 10, 1904, he had the honour to be 'commanded' to perform at Windsor Castle before the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra. In April of the same year he sang in 'The dream of Gerontius' for the first time, the occasion being one of the series of concerts given by Professor Kruse. Elwes was an immediate success in this part, and he has since become closely identified with it in the public mind. Up till now he has sung in the work no fewer than sixty-three times. In 1907 he went with Miss Fanny Davies on a professional tour in Germany, visiting Berlin, Leipsic, Munich, Frankfort and Cologne. Whilst in Berlin he sang (to the accompaniment of Buhlig) a number of Brahms's songs to Schweitzer, who warmly appreciated the performance and presented him with a volume containing all the poems which Brahms had set to music, and in it he wrote as follows: 'Mr. Elwes in Dankbarkeit für den reinen Genuss und in Erinnerung an den herrlichen, unvergesslichen Gesangsabend—Eugen und Algunde Schweitzer.'

Amongst the criticisms his singing in Germany elicited is one by Professor Winterberger, which appeared in the Leipziger Neueste Nachrichten (January 30, 1907):

Our introduction to the tenor, Mr. Gervase Elwes, gave us the greatest of pleasure. He incorporates all we can look for in a first-class concert-singer, and though his voice is perhaps less resonant in the middle and lower registers than on the higher notes, he masters it so completely that the slightly veiled quality of this part of his voice cannot enter into consideration, because it is entirely put into oblivion by the highly artistic and intelligent performance of his songs. Free of all mannerism, true in expression, he captivates the hearer from the first and compels the keenest interest. He sang old and modern French, English, and German songs, and it was perfectly surprising to us how much Mr. Elwes, in the admirable interpretation of Brahms's songs, proved his mastery of the German language. We have not heard any other singer give such songs as 'Die Kränze,' 'Komme bald,' 'Am Sonntag Morgen,' and 'Botschaft' with such soul-stirring expression as he did. Mr. Gervase Elwes achieved a sensational success. (Translation.)

In 1909 Elwes went to New York to sing 'Gerontius' and the 'St. Matthew' Passion under Frank Damrosch, and whilst there he gave two vocal recitals, besides one at Boston and one at Philadelphia, and he sang with Walter Damrosch's orchestra in New York. During his stay in the States his voice became affected, and he consulted the well-known surgeon Dr. Curtis, who found it necessary to burn away a nasal obstruction. This resulted in a great improvement in the quality of the tone of his voice and in the ease of delivery.

Among the amusing incidents of his professional career he recalls what happened when he appeared at Newport (Monmouth). He was singing Gounod's setting of 'O that we two were Maying' when the jaded memory deserted him, for he found himself singing with soul-stirring expression

'O that we two were Maying,
Under the churchyard sod,' the verses being mixed up. Mr. Henry Bird, who was accompanying, and the audience were convulsed.

Mr. Elwes has no leanings towards opera. He is content to devote his attention to art-songs and oratorios, &c. He and Lady Winefride have great faith in the educative value of the musical competition movement, and they have both devoted considerable time to establishing a centre in that part of Lincolnshire in which they reside when away from London. The Festival this year takes place at Brigg on April 23, 24, with every prospect of success.

Mr. Elwes's singing is distinguished by much subtlety and refinement. His voice-quality is consistent throughout the compass. In his early days as a tenor singer the tone was often curiously veiled, but now the study and experience he has enjoyed have brightened and enriched the resonance. His vowels are very pure and the consonants are clearly articulated, consequently his words are unusually easy to follow. But it is not the technique of his singing nor the quality of the tone of his voice that engages attention, for he sings without obvious art; it is the intellectuality and spiritual elevation of his interpretations that fascinate an audience. His reading of Gerontius is especially sympathetic and moving. He can express poignancy as few other singers can. Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion is another work in which he is a peculiarly fit exponent. His speciality in the singing of Brahms's songs has already been mentioned. This alone would suffice to justify his fame.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY OF LONDON.

(Concluded from April No., p. 228.)

Before proceeding to trace the history of the Society after the resignation of Cusins in 1883, some corrections of and additions to our two former articles must be made. Joachim's first appearance at these concerts was on May 27, 1844 (he was born June 28, 1831), when he played the Beethoven Concerto, Mendelssohn conducting. A facsimile of the programme of this concert with Joachim's signature added was given in our issue for July, 1899, p. 457. Madame Norman-Neruda (Lady Hallé) made her first appearance at a Philharmonic Concert on June 11, 1849 (she was born March 29, 1839), when she played a De Beriot Concerto. She had previously appeared in London on April 30, 1849, at the Princess's Theatre. She was not, as stated, the first lady violinist to appear at a Philharmonic Concert. The Sisters Teresa and Maria Milanollo appeared on June 9, 1845. It was stated in our April number that Brahms's 'Requiem' was given by the Society for the first time in this country on April 2, 1873. But a private drawing-room performance, with pianoforte accompaniment, had been given under Lady Thompson (née Miss Kate Loder) in London on July 10, 1871, and, besides, students of the Royal Academy of Music gave a public rehearsal of a selection from the work on the day before the Philharmonic performance.

About 1836 Richard Wagner composed the Overture 'Rule, Britannia,' and in 1837 he sent the score to the Philharmonic committee, hoping, no doubt, that the subject would appeal to their patriotism. Later, in 1839, when on a short visit to London, Wagner says ('My Life,' p. 205):

During my last visit to Dresden I had sent 'Rule, Britannia,' the Overture composed at Königsberg, to Sir John [George] Smart, President of the Philharmonic Society. It is true he had never acknowledged it, but I felt it the more incumbent on me to bring him to task about it. I therefore spent some days trying to find out where he lived, wondering meanwhile in which language I should have to make myself understood, but as the result of my inquiries I discovered that Smart was not in London at all.

In 1840 Wagner wrote to the Society to demand an answer or for the score to be returned. The Directors met and with the result that it was:

Resolved—That the score of the Overture be returned, with an apology for having kept it so long, and explaining that, being written upon a theme which is here very commonplace, it precludes the performance of it at the Philharmonic Concerts.

Wagner, who at that time, to quote Disraeli, was 'suffering the ignoble melancholy arising from pecuniary embarrassment,' thus records his reception of the score and message ('My Life,' pp. 224-25):

> One morning, when we had been anxiously consulting as to the possibility of raising our first quarter's rent, a carrier appeared with a parcel addressed to me from London; I thought it was an intervention of Providence, and broke open the seal. At the same moment a receipt book was thrust into my face for signature, in which I at once saw that I had to pay seven francs for carriage. I recognised, moreover, that the parcel contained my overture, 'Rule, Britannia,' returned to me from the London Philharmonic Society. In my fury I told the bearer I would not take in the parcel, whereupon he remonstrated in the liveliest fashion, as I had already opened it. It was no use; I did not possess seven francs, and I told him he should have presented the bill for the carriage before I had opened the parcel. So I made him return the only copy of my overture to Messrs. Laffitte & Gaillard's firm, to do as they liked with it, and I never cared to inquire what became of that manuscript.

It may be interesting to note that the Argyll Rooms, in which the Philharmonic Concerts were held until the building was destroyed by fire on February 6, 1830, stood where now stand 246, 248 and 250, Regent Street.

Although Schubert's great Symphony in C was not performed by the Society until May 22, 1871,* history records that in 1839 Mendelssohn tried to persuade the committee to give it during that season, and that during his régime in 1844 the work was rehearsed, 'but' (says Grove) 'the behaviour of the band towards the Symphony—excited, it is said, by the continual triplets in the Finale—was so insulting that he refused to go on with it.'

In 1884 four honorary conductors were appointed. These were George Mount, C. V. Stanford, John Francis Barnett and Frederic H. Cowen. On March 20 Dvorák made his first appearance at these concerts. He conducted his own overture 'Husitská' and the 'Sclavische Rhapsodie.' Previous to that the 'Inflammatus' from his 'Stabat Mater' had been sung by Madame Patey. Cowen made his débût as conductor on May 28, and brought forward his Symphony in B flat minor.

In 1885 Sullivan was appointed conductor, and he remained in this position until the end of the 1887 season. Among the most notable works presented were Dvorák's Symphony No. 2, in D minor, his Pianoforte concerto in C minor, and the Violin concerto in A minor. Brahms's third and fourth Symphonies were also brought forward by Sullivan. A new Concerto for the 'Piano pedalier' by Gounod was played by Madame Lucie Palicot on April 21, 1887. Among the first appearances of artists during this period were those of Oscar Beringer (1885), Fanny Davies and Agnes Larkcom (1886), all now happily with us. At the concert given on May 19 Frederick Corder conducted his new orchestral 'Roumanian' Suite, which was composed for the Society.

* Not 1878, as stated in our April number, p. 228, col. 2.

Frederic Cowen was appointed conductor in 1888, and except for a short interregnum to enable him to conduct at Melbourne, he remained conductor until the end of the 1892 season. On May 3, 1888, Grieg appeared for the first time in this country. He played his own Pianoforte concerto in A minor, and he conducted his two 'Elegiac melodies' for stringed orchestra. Johann Svendsen, of Copenhagen, conducted the last two concerts. On November 14, 1889, Grieg conducted his 'Peer Gynt' Suite (Op. 46), and his wife sang five of his songs.

In 1888 Tchaikovsky visited London, and conducted at the Philharmonic his Serenade for strings and the Variations from the third suite. His works made a better impression when he came for the second time on April 11, 1889, and conducted his Orchestral suite in D and the Pianoforte concerto in B flat minor, which was played by Sapellnikoff. Ysaye's first appearance took place on May 5, 1889, when he played Beethoven's Concerto. Sir Hubert Parry's Symphony in C was given on May 23 of that year.

In 1893 Sir Alexander Mackenzie was appointed conductor, and remained in the office until the end of the 1899 season.

Since 1869 the concerts had been given at St. James's Hall, Piccadilly, now no longer in existence, and in 1894 they were transferred to Queen's Hall, in which arena they have been held ever since.

On June 15, 1893, Gorski played the popular G minor Violin concerto by Max Bruch, which was conducted by the composer. February 28, 1894, was a red-letter day in the history of the Society, for it introduced to this country Tchaikovsky's 'Pathetic' Symphony. The work was repeated at the next concert. Mackenzie conducted on both occasions. Another work now well known, Dvorák's Symphony, 'From the New World,' was introduced on June 21, 1894, and Stanford's D minor Symphony, No. 5, received its first performance on March 7, 1895. A Purcell bi-centenary concert was given on November 22, 1895.

In 1896 the high pitch, A = 450 or C = 540 vibrations, hitherto used at the Philharmonic Concerts, was abandoned, and the pitch A = 439 at Fahrenheit 68°, or A = 435 at Fahrenheit 59°, was adopted. This pitch is now known as the new Philharmonic pitch. During the 1897 season many works by British composers were introduced, Hamish MacCunn, Mackenzie, Frederic Cliffe, Cowen, Herbert Bunning, Hubert Parry, Edward German, figuring in the programmes. In 1898 Corder's 'Pippa Passes' Suite was played, and in 1899 Coleridge-Taylor's Ballad in A minor was performed. Sir Alexander Mackenzie now resigned the conductorship, and Frederic Cowen was reappointed. Busoni appeared in 1900, and in the same year Granville Bantock's Symphonic-poem, 'Jaga-naut,' was brought forward.

In 1901 Elgar was represented for the first time by his 'Cockaigne' Overture, and during the same season William Wallace's Symphonic-poem No. 4 was played. British music was again to the front in 1902, and in 1903 the American composer, Edward MacDowell, played his own Pianoforte concerto. In 1904 César Franck was represented by his fine Symphony in D minor, and the new French school was illustrated by Vincent d'Indy's 'Lied maritime.' Mackenzie's 'Canadian' Rhapsody, Edward German's 'Welsh' Rhapsody, Arthur Hervey's Overture, 'In the East,' César Franck's Symphonic variations for pianoforte and orchestra, and Stanford's Violin concerto were features of the 1905 season. During 1906 Weingartner's Symphony in G, Stanford's second 'Irish' Rhapsody, Dohnànyi's Pianoforte concerto, Elgar's Introduction and Allegro for strings, York Bowen's Pianoforte concerto and Vocal scenas by Gustav von Holst and Joseph Holbrooke were given.

At the concert given on March 13, 1907, Christian Sinding conducted his new Violin concerto, which was played by Johannes Wolff. Richard Strauss was afforded a first hearing on May 16 of the same year, when his 'Don Juan' Tone-poem was performed, and at the same concert another Symphonic-poem, 'Cleopatra,' by G. W. Chadwick was heard.

Henry J. Wood conducted for the first time on January 29, 1908, on which occasion Sibelius's 'Finlandia' was performed for the first time at these concerts. He also conducted on February 13, when Bach's 'Brandenburg' Concerto for strings (No. 3 in G), Elgar's Variations, and Strauss's 'Till Eulenspiegel' were all performed for the first time at the Philharmonic. Sibelius conducted his new Symphony in C on February 27, Landon Ronald made his début as a Philharmonic conductor on March 26, and Nikisch was in command on May 14. A series of concerts was commenced in the winter of 1908, at one of which Delius's orchestral piece, 'In a summer garden,' was given under Landon Ronald. Camille Chevillard (Paris), Mancinelli, Bruno Walter (Vienna) conducted the spring concerts given in 1909. Dr. Ethel Smyth's overture, 'The Wreckers,' was a feature of the concert given on March 3. Nikisch conducted Elgar's Symphony in A flat on May 13, and Elgar conducted his overture, 'In the South,' and his 'Wand of Youth' Suite No. 2 on November 11. William Wallace's 'Villon' was performed for the first time at these concerts on February 10, 1910, and also on this date a revised version of Parry's E minor Symphony was given. Holbrooke's Tone-poem, 'Queen Mab,' and Rachmaninoff's Symphony in E minor were features of the remaining concerts of the season. The 1910-11 season began memorably on March 10, 1910, when Elgar's new Concerto for the violin received its first public performance, Herr Kreisler being its exponent and the composer conducted. The success was phenomenal, and the work was repeated on March 30, 1910, again before an enthusiastic audience.

It is not necessary to give later details; but it may be well to note that for this season, 1911-12, no general conductor has been appointed. This plan of having many conductors has its obvious disadvantages, but at least it provides a spice of interest. The most striking appearance this season (1911-12) was that of Mengelberg, who conducted Schumann's fourth Symphony and Liszt's 'Les Préludes' with magnificent success on November 7.

During the whole period of the existence of the Society the following have been secretaries: H. Dance (1813); C. J. Ashley (1813-15); W. Watts (1815-47); G. W. Budd (1847-50); G. Hogarth (1850-64); Campbell Clarke (1864-66); Stanley Lucas (1866-80); Henry Hersee (1880-84); and Francesco Berger (1884-1911). Mr. William Wallace was appointed in November, 1911.

THE SOCIETY'S BEETHOVEN MEDAL.

This has been bestowed upon Albani, Sterndale Bennett, Brahms, Von Bülow, Clara Butt, W. G. Cusins, Arabella Goddard, Gounod, Joachim, Kreisler, Kubelik, Fanny Linzbauer, Edward Lloyd, Stanley Lucas, Kirkby Lunn, Christine Nilsson, Paderewski, Patti, Louisa Pyne, Parepa-Rosa, Rubinstein, Santley, Sauer, Lemmens-Sherrington, Tietjens, and Ysaye, and last month it was presented to Mr. Pablo Casals, the eminent violoncellist. The medal was struck by Wyon in commemoration of the centenary of Beethoven's birth in 1870. On one side it bears a profile portrait of the great composer, taken from the well-known bust given to the Society by Fanny Linzbauer, while on the reverse are the words, 'Presented by the Philharmonic Society of London, founded 1813.'

Mr. Myles B. Foster,* to whom we are greatly indebted in compiling this sketch, informs us that the Society, during the hundred years of its existence, has given the following performances of Beethoven's Symphonies:

	No. of Performances.
No. 1, in C	19
2 „ D	39
3 „ E flat ('Eroica')	52
4 „ B flat	54
5 „ C minor	77
6 „ F ('Pastoral')	69
7 „ A	65
8 „ F	47
9 „ D minor ('Choral') ...	17

The appointment of Mr. William Wallace bodes well for the future of the Society. He represents as a composer what is called the 'young' school of British composers, whose problem is now not so much what it used to be, namely, a struggle for recognition by concert-givers, but how to convince concert-goers that British music ought to be listened to. Not very many years ago Mr. Wallace was one of the leaders—and a very able one he showed himself—in the campaign undertaken on behalf of the submerged young British composers in the early 'nineties. We will not say more at present as to Mr. Wallace and his work, because we hope to return to the subject on a later occasion, but we can now cordially wish him success in helping to steer the Philharmonic Society into smooth water.

* A full history of the Philharmonic Society by Mr. Foster will be published shortly by Messrs. Dent & Co.

CONCLUSION.

The unique record of a hundred years is, as we said at the outset of these articles, one of which we are all proud. In these times of severe competition the Society is faced with difficult problems. Is it too much to expect that support for such an institution will be forthcoming from those who hold the purse-strings?

MR. FRANCESCO BERGER.

As already recorded, Mr. Berger was in office (which, it should be noted, has been since 1881 an honorary one) from 1884 until he resigned in 1911, a period of twenty-seven years. He was born in London on June 10, 1834. His father was an Austrian merchant who had settled in London, and his mother was a Bavarian.

Very early in his boyhood he developed talent for pianoforte playing, and after several public appearances was taken to Trieste at eleven years of age to study operatic compositions under Luigi Ricci, and pianoforte under Lickl. Here, in conjunction with three fellow-students, he composed an opera, 'Il Lazzarone,' which was a decided success. He also wrote single-handed an opera, 'I Ciarlantini,' and a Mass for choir, organ, orchestra and tenor solo, performed at the Cathedrale San Giusto. In the early 'fifties he went to Leipsic to study composition under Moritz Hauptmann, and pianoforte under Plaidy. Here he enjoyed the acquaintance of Moscheles and Ferdinand David, and came into personal contact with Brahms, Berlioz, Rubinstein and Wieniawski, and here he formed a life-long friendship with Francis Edward Bache.

MR. FRANCESCO BERGER.

A few years later he came to London, and settled down as a composer and teacher. His works include part-songs (among these his popular 'Night, lovely night'), songs, trios, duets, and pianoforte solos. Many of his works became very popular, and his songs were frequently performed by the leading vocalists. He has also contributed to Novello's series of 'Primers' an elementary method, 'First steps at the Pianoforte,' which at the time of its issue was described in these columns as the best book of its kind extant.

He became an Associate of the Philharmonic Society in 1859, a Member in 1871, a Director in 1880, and he was elected as honorary secretary on June 28, 1884. In 1864 he married Miss Lascelles, a well-known contralto singer. In 1893 Mr. Berger was presented with an illuminated address, the terms of which are as follow:

18 November, 1893.

The Members, Associates, Fellows, Subscribers and Guarantors of the Philharmonic Society whose names are appended to this document desire to congratulate you on the complete success which has attended your arduous labours as Hon. Sec. of the Society since November, 1884.

We recognise the fact that the present position of the Society is greatly due to your indefatigable and self-denying zeal, and, as a token of our high esteem and regard, we beg your acceptance of this brief record, together with a cheque for 150 guineas.

The address bears one hundred signatures, amongst which are: The Lord Chief Justice of England, E. Aguilar, Henry Banister, J. F. Barnett, Henry Bird, R. Blagrove, Jaques Blumenthal, Sir Frederick Bridge, Broadwood, Dr. Campbell, Carrodus, Sir Richard Causton, M.P., Cliffe, Gerard Cobb, Dr. Cummings, Sir William Cusins, Beringer, Dorrell, Messrs. Erard, Gadsby, Gardner, Gilbert, Otto Goldschmidt, Sir George Grove, Sir Frederick Halliday, Sir George D. Harris, Kemp, Dr. Harford Lloyd, Sir A. C. Mackenzie, Novello, Ewer & Co., Sir Thomas Payne, Randegger, Renaut, General Roddey, De Rougemont, Shakespeare, Sir John Stainer, Sir Charles Stanford, Steinway, Franklin Taylor, Thomas Threlfall, John Thomas, Lady Thompson, Dr. Turpin, Visetti, Dr. Vincent, Fred Walker, Judge Meadows White, and many more.

Among his souvenirs of many distinguished people, musical and literary, whom he has known in a career extending over sixty years, he values exceedingly his connection with Charles Dickens, which arose from an invitation, made by the novelist to Mr. Berger, to compose the overtures and incidental music of two plays, written by Wilkie Collins—'The Lighthouse' and 'The Frozen Deep'—in which Dickens, with some members of his family and some intimate friends, acted. He cherishes personal recollections also of Thackeray, Wilkie Collins, Mark Lemon, Shirley Brooks, Albert Smith, Dr. Charles Mackay, Owen Meredith, Frances Ridley Havergal, Mrs. Gaskell, Dora Greenwell, Miss Muloch, Amelia B. Edwards, Henry F. Chorley, Palgrave Simpson, and others known to fame.

Mr. Berger's numerous friends will wish him all the joy of comparative repose to which a long and useful life entitles him.

THEODOR STREICHER.

By Ernest Newman.

It was only natural that after the death of Hugo Wolf a number of good Germans, acting on the belief that one remarkable man is bound to follow close upon the heels of another, should have promptly set about looking for the next great song-writer. And as there is never any difficulty in finding what you really want to find, our friends soon discovered, as they thought, Hugo Wolf's successor in the person of the Austrian composer Theodor Streicher. A claim of that kind seems exaggerated now; but all the same Streicher is an interesting phenomenon,—interesting not only in his successes but in his failures. For as a straw will show the way the wind is blowing better than an obelisk can, so certain of the main currents of art, in a time of change, can often be better studied in the smaller than in the greater men. Streicher's errors become in this way illuminants of a good deal of the misdirected effort we can see here and there in modern music.

Like most present-day song-writers, he faithfully accepts the poem as his starting-point; the music must not be imposed upon it, but grow out of it. There is no good principle, however, that cannot be turned into a bad one by misapplication of it; and Streicher certainly spoils this one in practice time after time. It is rather depressing to see how progress in music consists not of a steady advance, but of sudden leaps forward followed by a certain amount of retrogression. Humanity no sooner masters a device or a principle than it begins to turn it into a nuisance by applying it in the wrong way or the wrong place. The fugal form and sonata form have each in their turn become an obstacle to free expression,—the latter especially, for it stood for a long time in the way of the free poetic style, marring, for example, as Wagner pointed out, the dramatic unity of works like the 'Leonora' No. 3 overture. Then, when poetic freedom became a real thing in music, it almost at once degenerated into license. Wagner and Wolf showed that it was possible to discard the conventional system of metrics in vocal music and still give the impression of balance and unity. Their successors are inclined to rely too much upon merely poetical methods of articulation, and so to get out of touch with musical form,—for a genuinely musical form there must be in every piece of musical expression, whether poetical or abstract. The ill-instructed gibe against Hugo Wolf was that he merely 'followed the words.' What he did, in reality, was not simply to follow the words, but to create a living musical organism in the process. Every part of a Wolf song bears upon every other part; the limbs exist only in virtue of the whole, the whole only in virtue of the limbs; they are held together by the same osseous structure and nourished by the same circulatory system. A song of Hugo Wolf's satisfies one's sense of musical form as completely as a Bach fugue or a Beethoven Symphony,—for the simple reason that, susceptible as he was to poetic suggestion, when he came to compose a song the musician in him overrode everything else. It is because Streicher, and others of his school, are insufficiently musical,—poets with a turn for music rather than musicians with a feeling for poetry,—that they so rarely produce a perfect work of art.

In justice to Streicher, however, it must be said that the two elements are about equally strong in him: according to the works of his that we happened to light upon first, we should write him down either as a good musician with an imagination something like that of Wolf's, or a merely gifted musical amateur with a considerable faculty for musico-poetic characterisation, but with an insufficient supply of truly musical fire, and without the art of giving organic unity to his snippets of illustration. Anyone who took up a number of songs of the latter class first might be forgiven for losing patience, and closing Streicher's account with a vow never to reopen it. The songs of this kind uniformly begin well and end ill. Some of the German critics have commended them for their declamatory freedom: in the 'Werd ein Kind,' for example, there are thirteen changes of time in forty-four bars. No one would object to forty-four changes of time in forty-four bars if the thing were artistically managed, and the final effect were a unified one. What Streicher too often does is to drift helplessly on the stream of the verse, modifying his musical rhythm in accordance with the verbal accentuation, and faithfully re-painting each poetic picture as it comes forward, but leaving us in the end only with an impression of many hares started but none caught, of a dozen or so threads left untied at the finish. Most of all is this apparent in narrative songs, such as the 'Liebesdienst,' that have merely continuity without concentration. A song should give the impression of one picture within one frame; there should be a reason for it commencing just here and ending just there. This faculty of concentration—of seeing the final page in the first, as Pater expressed it,—is frequently lacking in Streicher. And he is generally far too prone to spoil what promises to be a good song by suddenly flying off at a tangent in order to insist upon the verbal meaning of a particular line. The charming beginning and end of the cradle song 'Buko of Halberstadt,' for example, are quite nullified by the unmusical or imperfectly musical passages that come between them. Except on rare occasions, indeed, Streicher's imagination does not attain the swift incandescence that enables a Schubert, a Schumann or a Wolf to conceive a song as an indivisible organic whole. And this leads to a curious paradox. Streicher's aim is perfect poetic naturalism—a system of musical speech that shall have the ease, the adaptability, the freedom from formality, of good poetry. But it is only the great musicians like Wolf who can attain this poetic ease and elasticity; while the writers who are more poets than musicians, like Streicher, only manage to give an impression of both musical and poetic disjointedness.

That Streicher is more poet than musician could, I think, be reasonably inferred from much of his work. A genuinely musical mind would have seen the impossibility or the futility of some of the things he has attempted,—the drearily humorous genre pictures, for example, and the cold moralising of many of the songs. A thorough musician would have felt instinctively that music is not a branch of book illustration, or even of ethics, but simply—music; and that though it can ally itself with pictorial or ethical suggestion, it must always be by way of taking these up into its own superior being and endowing them with its own magic. Music at once becomes a garrulous dullard when it allows itself to sink into a subsidiary position with regard to painting or poetry, content merely to point a moral or adorn a tale. It lives on a plane of a higher emotional temperature than either of these other arts, and can only reduce its light and heat and speed to the level of theirs at the expense of something of its very essence. In some of the shorter aphoristic settings of Streicher we have a reductio ad absurdum of didacticism in music. He has set, for instance, this aphorism of Richard Dehmel's:

Lebe mit Zweck,
Wirf dich nicht weg,
Gib dich den andern hin,
Mit eignem Sinn;

(Wary advance,
Eye the main chance,
Yield to thy friend his due,
But to self be true;)

and this of the same writer:—

Schlauheit erwägt das Schlechte,
Klugheit das Rechte,
Weisheit die Mächte,
Schlauheit fristel sich hin,
Klugheit bringt Gewinn,
Weisheit schenkt dem Leben Sinn;

(Cunning aspires to vices,
Prudence to justice,
Wisdom to greatness.
Cunning thwarts its own end,
Prudence brings reward, Wisdom gives man strength of mind.*)

all of which may be quite true, but sententiousness of this kind is so much beyond, or short of, the scope of music that one wonders at a musician troubling to try to find the equivalents for it. Moreover, as the second of these settings occupies only eight bars, and the first only four, it is evident that nothing of a specifically musical nature can arise from them; the music merely aims at underlining the words, and of course does not even succeed in doing that. But that Streicher should seriously think this kind of thing worth doing at all proves him to lack something of the real musician's constitution. And so with the rambling formlessness of many of his songs. He does not see that form is not something external to a work of art, and so negligible at will, but an emanation from and expression of its very being. †

On the other hand he has done some finely symmetrical work, and much that undoubtedly shows the musician's hand. In the 'Fonte dos Amores' he manages a single motive throughout with skilful persistency and expressiveness. He is a genuine creative musician again,—not a mere tracker of the poet—in songs like the 'Lied des jungen Reiters' (though here the interest, as so often happens with Streicher, is not sustained quite to the end), 'Ein Fichtenbaum steht einsam' (which will well bear comparison with the best of the older settings of the same words), the very beautiful 'Maria sass am Wege,' the genuinely humorous 'Der Hut im Meer,' 'Die Jungfrau,' 'Die Teilung der Erde,' the deeply-moving 'Nachtlied des Zarathustra,' the 'Erntelied,' with its broad close, of a kind that Streicher excels in, 'Aurora,' 'Hier liegt ein Spielmann begraben,' and the powerful 'Weinschröterlied'—to name only a few of the best. There are also some fine things among the Hafiz Lieder, though these as a whole have nothing of the charm, the ardour and the humour of Mr. Bantock's settings of the Ghazals; with Streicher the sententious element generally comes too much to the forefront, and his style, for all its occasional happiness and its commendable freedom from convention, has neither the richness nor the abandonment requisite for poetry like this. Again we meet with a paradox,—the man who is always trying to give his songs the air of an improvisation only manages to create a tissue stiffer, slower, less improvisatory than that of composers who apparently work on more formal lines. But when all is said, Streicher remains an interesting personality. He may often lack the great artist's instinctive sense of fineness of style, but one cannot deny him considerable fertility of imagination and scope of expression. Apart from one or two of the songs I have mentioned, he probably reaches his greatest height in the 'Mignons Exequien,'—a setting for mixed chorus, children's choir and orchestra of a well-known scene from Goethe's 'Wilhelm Meister.' It is a very expressive and effective little work that has won much popularity in Germany, and would be well worth the attention of English choral Societies. Our male-voice choirs, too, should look at 'Die Schlacht bei Murten' (male chorus, baritone solo, and orchestra), and the 'Vier Kriegs- und Soldatenlieder' (male chorus, occasional baritone solos, and brass orchestra,—possible, though, with pianoforte). In this collection we have the fine 'Weinschröterlied' already mentioned (from the 'Dreissig Lieder aus Des Knaben Wunderhorn') worked up chorally and made twice as effective, as in the similar case of Wolf and his 'Feuerreiter.' The fiery and massive 'Kriegslied gegen Karl V.,' too, would apparently suit the great male-voice choirs of the Midlands and North to perfection.

* I quote Mr. Claude Aveling's translations of both poems.

† His error is like that of Whitman and the latter's imitators. Rhyme, rhythmic pattern, and other characteristics of good poetry are not mere outer dressings, but æsthetic factors of expression inextricably inwrought with the idea.

Occasional Notes.

The story of the foundering of the 'Titanic' early on Monday morning, April 15, has thrilled civilized humanity. One of the most striking incidents of that great catastrophe was the heroic fortitude and courage displayed by the members of the liner's band, in playing until the end came. It is stated by survivors that the last piece they played was the well-known setting (Dr. Dykes's) of Sarah F. Adams's hymn, 'Nearer, my God, to Thee.' The following are the names of the players:—

W. Hartley, Bandmaster (Dewsbury).
J. Hume (Dumfries).
P. C. Taylor (London).
J. W. Woodward (Headington, Oxon.).
R. Bricoux (Lille, France).
F. Clarke (Liverpool).
G. Krius (London).
W. T. Brailey (London).

Nothing that could be said would be more eloquent and touching than the statement of the simple fact. As The Times says: 'It will live with the "Birkenhead" among the greatest stories in our history.'

Evidence is continually appearing of the increased attention that is being paid to British music on the Continent. A further illustration of this welcome tendency has reached us in the form of an important article upon Elgar and his works, written by Mr. R. A. Streatfeild, published (in English) in the April issue of De Nieuwe Gids, a prominent Dutch monthly. The same article appears in a French translation by M. L. Pennequin in the Revue du temps présent for April 2. The writer gives special prominence to Elgar's recent symphonic works, and elaborates an interesting analysis of their emotional scheme which we hope to deal with in our next issue.

That the 'futurist' movement would extend to music (if, by the way, it has not already got past the future) was certain. It was too tempting a field for operation to suffer neglect. So in April (it must have been on the 1st) we were informed from America that some futurists propose a new sort of tune from a scale of seventy-two notes to the octave, which, it is considerately explained, means nine degrees from one degree of the decadent scale to the next. But the arithmetic is obviously futurist, for the semitones of the decadent scale are overlooked.

An important change is likely to take place in the direction of the next Leeds Festival, which is to take place from October 1 to 4, 1913. The tendency of the last twenty or thirty years has been to make conducting an art of its own, and the public have grown correspondingly critical, and, applying the principle of specialism to this branch of executive art, expect a conductor to be not only an expert in it, but to hear him, so far as is practicable, in the type of music with which he is in special sympathy. Bearing this in mind, and also having regard to the extensive field covered by a Festival programme, the Leeds committee have come to the conclusion that a joint-conductorship would add to the all-round efficiency and attractiveness of their Festival. It is understood that this policy, having been submitted to Sir Charles Stanford, who has conducted the last four Festivals, has not met with his approval, his view being that there should be sole control vested in one person. The result is that he has not seen his way to take part in a multiple control, and the committee has adopted a resolution 'regretting that Sir Charles Stanford is unable to see his way to accept the new arrangement and act as one of the conductors at the next Festival,' adding that 'we gratefully acknowledge his assistance in the past, and desire to place on record our appreciation of the valuable services he has rendered during the last four Festivals, and our sincere regret at the severance.' So far the committee have secured the services of Nikisch for at least four of the concerts, and of Dr. H. P. Allen, the conductor of the Bach Choir, to direct a performance of the B minor Mass. It is rumoured that Sir Edward Elgar has been invited to conduct a programme of his own music, but this and other possible engagements are not yet settled. The divided control is of course no novelty; the recent example of Newcastle will occur to everyone, but the experiment is sufficiently debatable to present an interesting problem, and its results when applied to the next Leeds Festival will be awaited with eagerness by musical people generally.

The 189th Three Choirs Festival will be held at Hereford on September 10, 11, 12 and 13, under the general conductorship of Dr. G. R. Sinclair. The following works will be given in the Cathedral:

Morning	'Elijah'	Mendelssohn.
Evening	Symphony No. 4	Beethoven.
	Solo Cantata, 'O amantissime Sponse Jesu'	Christian Ritter.
	'Requiem'	Brahms.
Morning	'St. Matthew' Passion	Bach.
Morning	'The dream of Gerontius'	Elgar.
	'Ode of the Nativity' (New work)	Parry.
	'Parsifal' (Good Friday and Grail Music)	Wagner.
Evening	A Christmas Choral Fantasia (New work)	Vaughan Williams.
	Motet (8 parts, unaccompanied) 'Surge Illuminare'	Palestrina.
	A short work (New)	Walford Davies.
	'Stabat Mater'	Dvorák.
Morning	'The Messiah'	Handel.

The opening service will take place on September 8, in the afternoon. A miscellaneous concert will be given at the Shire Hall on the evening of September 11, when a new orchestral work by Mr. Granville Bantock will be produced; and on September 13 (evening) the Festival will close with a chamber concert.

The opinions of well-known composers upon the music of their well-known contemporaries always make interesting reading, especially when they are conceived in the brotherly spirit adopted by M. Ravel. In the Sammelbände Internationalen Musikgesellschaft for April, M. Ravel discusses, with a light touch, the most recent Parisian musical sensation—the discovery by M. Pierné of M. Fanelli—and incidentally indulges in gentle sarcasm at the expense of those who would minimise the importance of M. Debussy:

A critic, carried away by his zeal, did not hesitate to lay down that in this tone-poem (the 'Tableaux symphoniques') 'the conception and harmonic writing are clearly Debussian, or rather, pre-Debussian,' no doubt because 'M. Fanelli overdoes the use of those progressions of major triads which in 1883 were a discovery and a novelty.' The worthy critic is referring to chords built upon the whole-tone scale. Now, he does not seem to be aware that about the middle of the last century this procedure had already been indulged in first by Liszt and then by Dargomijsky, who did more than abuse it: a whole act of 'Le Festin de pierre' is built upon this scale.

M. Debussy is usually subject to an annual attack of this character. We knew already that the discovery of his harmonic system was entirely due to Erik Satie, that of his operatic method to Moussorgsky, and that of his orchestration to Rimsky-Korsakoff. Now we know whence comes his impressionism. In spite of this poverty of invention he merely remains the most notable and the most profoundly musical of the composers of to-day.

As for M. Fanelli, there are, to my knowledge, few French composers of his generation who could in 1883 be compared with him for boldness of orchestration and strength of inspiration. (Translation).

At the 1891 Handel Festival a 'Gloria Patri' for double chorus and double orchestra was performed, the parts having been copied from a MS. score in the possession of Dr. Cummings, containing this movement in isolated form. In the Monthly Musical Record for June, 1897, an article appeared, signed 'T. W. Bourne,' in which the writer gave convincing reason for supposing that this 'Gloria' was really the final movement of the 'Nisi Dominus'; and later on the Psalm with this ending was published by Messrs. Novello under the editorship of Mr. Bourne. Messrs. J. Pearson & Co., of 5, Pall Mall Place, S.W., now have among other interesting and valuable musical autographs a Concertino band part of this Psalm in the composer's handwriting, in which the double 'Gloria' appears as the concluding movement so now, if any doubt previously existed on the point, it may be considered to be finally removed. The MS. bears no signature, but this would not be expected on a band part. The title reads:

CONCERTINO
NISI DOMINUS
a 5 con V.V.
del Signor G. F. Hendel.

The first word denotes that the part is for the 'Concertino,' as opposed to the 'Ripieno,' band; it is as a matter of fact for the leading first and second violins, the bass and vocal parts being in places added as cues. As some misunderstanding has arisen as to the meaning of the third line of the title, 'a 5 con Violini,' it may be well to add that it means 'for five voices with accompaniment of Strings,' and was the usual way of denoting the nature of such a work in Italian MSS. of the period, the numeral in each case being made to correspond with the number of voices employed in the work described.

THE HISTORICAL ORGAN IN THE CHURCH OF ST. MAGNUS-THE-MARTYR, LONDON BRIDGE.

St. Magnus's Church is chiefly famous on account of its organ, the gift of Sir Charles Duncombe, Lord Mayor of London, 1708, and Alderman of the Ward of Bridge. (Charles Duncombe was born in 1648, and was apprenticed to Alderman Backwell, the leading goldsmith of London at that time. Duncombe remained a City banker till 1695, when he purchased the estate of Helmsley, in Yorkshire, which had been bestowed by the House of Commons on Fairfax. After his retirement from business he took an active part in politics, and was returned for the Borough of Downton, in Wiltshire, which he represented from 1695 to 1698, and again in 1702 till his death. At a cost of £600 he erected a 'curious dyall,' which projects from the front of the steeple of St. Magnus,' in remembrance of having himself, when a boy, being detained on this spot, ignorant of the time.) This historical instrument, built in 1712, contained the first nag's head swell, which was introduced by its inventor, Abraham Jordan.

In the Spectator of February 8, 1712, we find the following announcement: 'Whereas Messrs. Abraham Jordan, Senior and Junior, have, with their own hands (joynery excepted), made and erected a very large organ for St. Magnus Church, at the foot of London Bridge, consisting of four setts of keys, one of which is adapted to the art of emitting sounds by swelling the notes, which never was in any organ before; this instrument will be publicly opened on Sunday next, the performance by Mr. John Robinson. The above said Abraham Jordan gives notice to all Masters and Performers that he will attend every day next week at the said church to accommodate all those gentlemen who shall have a curiosity to hear it.'

According to Mr. Henry Leffler, Jordan was assisted in the building of this organ by Christopher Schreider (son-in-law of Father Schmidt). Mr. Leffler gives the specification of St. Magnus' organ as he found it in 1795:

3 setts of keys from GG to D, short octaves. Swell to G. Great (11 stops)—Op. Diap., No. 1, 52 pipes; Op. Diap., No. 2, 52 pipes; Stop. Diap., 52; Prin., 52; 15th, 52; Tierce, 52; Sesquialtera, IV. ranks, 208; Cornet to C♯ IV. ranks, 130; Trumpet, 52; Clarion, 52.

MR. G. F. SMITH, ORGANIST OF ST. MAGNUS.
(From a Photograph by Arthur Weston, 16 & 17, Poultry, E.C.)

Swell (8 stops)—Op. Diap., 32 pipes; Stop. Diap., 32; Prin., 32; 12th, 32; 15th, 32; Tierce, 32; Trumpet, 32; Clarion, 32.

Choir (5 stops)—Op. Diap., 52 pipes.; Stop. Diap., 52; Flute, 52; 15th, 52; Vox Humana, 52.

A very fine old organ. 1795 organist—Mr. Cook.

Dr. W. B. Gilbert, in his 'Antiquities of Maidstone, shows that the Jordans were an ancient family located in that town as early as the 15th century. He says: 'Thomas Jordan resided (in 1477) at the ancient family seat in Stone Street, called for some centuries "Jordan's Hall." Many members of the family have at various times been concerned in the affairs of Maidstone, and one of the Jordans in the last century was a distiller in the town. Having a genius for organ-building, he removed to London, where he made many fine instruments.'

Mr. J. W. Billinghurst, who inspected this organ in May, 1855, says that it was repaired in 1825 by Parsons, and again in 1850-51 by Gray & Davison. By 1855 the specification recorded sixty years previously by Mr. Leffler (in 1795) had undergone the following changes:

Great (reduced to ten stops): Tierce and Cornet both gone. A Mixture replaces the latter. Compass extended upwards to F.

Swell (nine stops): Compass extended downwards to Tenor C, upwards to F♯. Double diapason, Oboe and Sesquialtera added; 12th and Tierce taken away; Cornopean substituted for Trumpet.

The organ was afterwards altered by Messrs. Hill & Son, and re-built in 1879 by Brindley & Foster. At present the specification stands thus:

Great (ten stops): Open diapason No. 1, 8 ft.; Open diapason No. 2, 8 ft.; Stopped diapason 8-ft. tone; Principal, 4 ft.; Harmonic flute, 4 ft.; 12th., 2⅔ ft.; 15th., 2 ft.; Mixture, III ranks; Trumpet, 8 ft. Clarion, 4 ft.

THE CHURCH OF ST. MAGNUS-THE-MARTYR, LONDON BRIDGE.

Choir (six stops; compass same as Great): Principal added. Vox Humana replaced by Cremona. Pedal (CCC to D, 27 notes; 1 stop); Open diapason (by Gray & Davison).

Couplers (three): Swell to Great; Great to Pedal; Choir to Pedal.

Accessories: two composition pedals (acting on Swell stops only). Reeds on Swell remarkably fine, Chorus very brilliant. Choir stops excellent in quality.

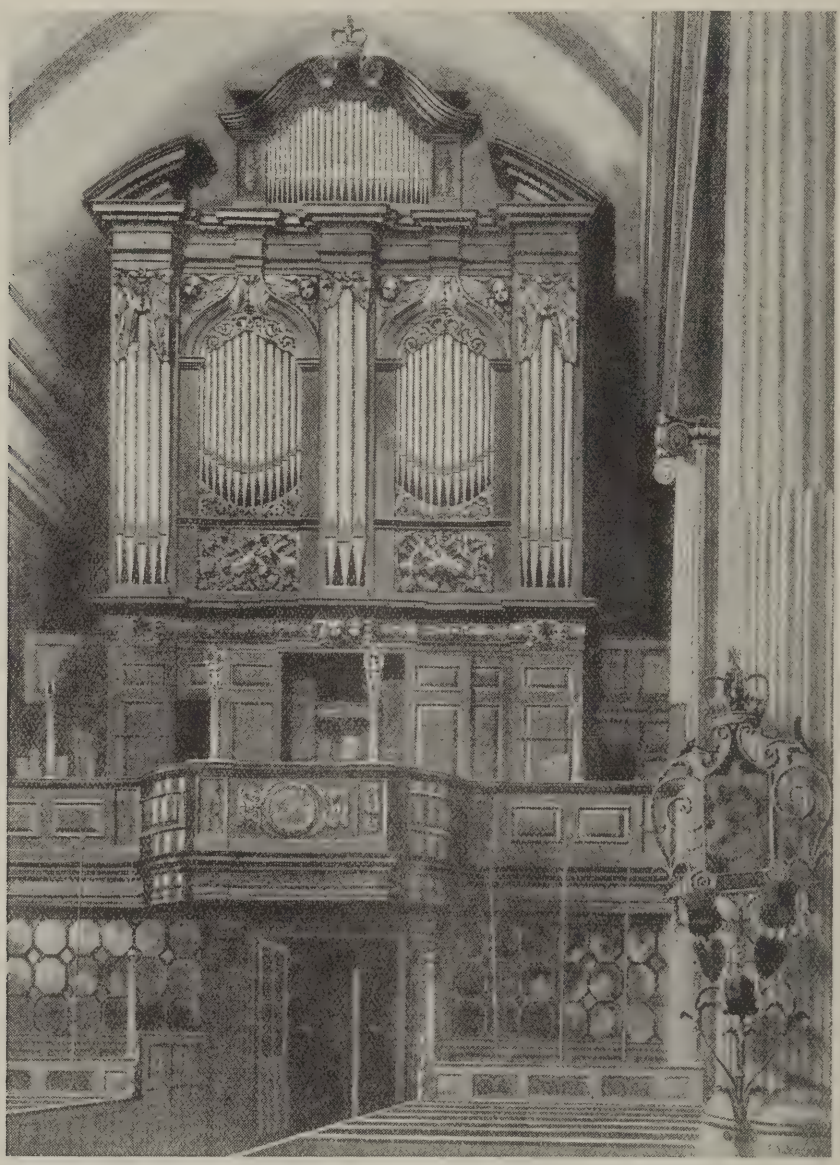
Swell (thirteen stops): Double diapason, 16 ft.; Open diapason, 8 ft; Keraulophon, 8 ft.; Stopped diapason, 8-ft. tone; Gamba, 4ft.; Principal, 4 ft.; 15th., 2 ft.; Voix celeste, 8 ft.; Mixture, IV ranks; Contra fagotto, 16 ft.: Cornopean, 8 ft.; Oboe, 8 ft.; Clarion, 4 ft.

Choir (seven stops): Open diapason, 8 ft.; Dulciana, 8 ft.; Stopped diapason, 8 ft.; Principal, 4 ft.; Suabe flute, 4 ft.; Orchestral oboe, 8 ft.; Cremona, 8 ft.

Pedal (four stops): Sub-bass, 32-ft. tone; Open diapason, 16 ft.; Bourdon, 16-ft. tone; Trombone, 16 ft.

Couplers (seven): Great to Pedal; Swell to Pedal; Choir to Pedal; Swell to Great; Swell sub-octave to Great; Choir sub-octave to Great; Great octave Accessories: three composition pedals to Great; four composition pedals to Swell; Tremulant to Swell (by pedal).

Dr. C. Steggall, organist to the Hon. Soc., Lincoln's Inn, and harmony under Sir John Goss. He was appointed organist of St. Barnabas', South Lambeth, 1871; Mare Street Chapel, Hackney, 1874; St. John's Angell Town, Brixton, 1875; St. Magnus', London Bridge, Easter, 1880 Fellow of the Royal College of Organists, 1873. He entered the Royal Academy of Music, 1874; was elected Associate, 1882, and was appointed a professor at the Guildhall School of Music in 1887.



THE ORGAN OF ST. MAGNUS' CHURCH. (THE FIRST SWELL ORGAN.)

The organists of St. Magnus' include the following: John Robinson, 1712-27, afterwards organist to Westminster Abbey; Mr. Cook, 1795; Mr. Thomas Charles Reynolds; James Coward, organist of the Crystal Palace (died January, 1880); George Frederick Smith, appointed Easter, 1880.

The present organist, Mr. G. F. Smith, entered the choir of the Temple Church as a chorister under Dr. E. J. Hopkins in 1866. He studied the organ under Both in construction and artistic design the organ is probably the most interesting instrument extant The case is very fine, and is considered the most beautiful specimen to be found in any country, the carving by Grinling Gibbons being elaborate as well as unique. It is proposed to clean all old pipes, re-voice reeds, replace old action by tubular pneumatic, add a fourth manual, additional new stops, and a new engine; remove the thick coating of varnish from the case and re-varnish it; and to re-gild the front pipes. To effect these alterations and additions a sum of nearly two thousand pounds is required. It would ensure the preservation of a valuable and unique instrument of great historical interest, noted for the great beauty of its tone, situated in a church from which rises one of Sir Christopher Wren's finest towers.

The church possessing no funds from which the money required can be drawn, an earnest appeal is made to all lovers of the king of instruments throughout the British Empire to assist in preserving this beautiful relic of the City, and to celebrate in the most fitting manner the two-hundredth anniversary of the opening of the organ.

A History of 'The organ and organists of St. Magnus-the-Martyr' (with illustrations) is in preparation, and a copy will be sent to all subscribers. It is intended that the work of reconstruction shall be entrusted to Messrs. William Hill & Son.

Remittances may be sent to the hon. treasurer, Mr. Henry J. Calder, Vestry Clerk, 3, Adelaide Place, London Bridge, E.C.; the bankers, Messrs. Robarts, Lubbock & Co., 15, Lombard St., account 'St. Magnus' Organ Fund'; or to the hon. sec., Mr. George F. Smith (organist of St. Magnus'), 'Seabourne,' Bonham Road, Brixton Hill.

MR. JOSEPH HOLBROOKE'S NEW OPERA, 'THE CHILDREN OF DON.'

By Hermann Klein.

After the successful production of 'The Ring' at Bayreuth in 1876, trilogies and tetralogies rather came into fashion. Some fifteen years ago I heard at Dresden one of the elaborate series of music-dramas composed by August Bungert around the noblest of all epics, Homer's 'Iliad.' At about the same time I read portions of three beautiful operatic libretti written by Mr. Frank Coutts on the subject of 'Merlin,' all, or nearly all of which were, I believe, set to music by the late Isaac Albeniz, whose charming one-act opera, 'Pepita Jimenez,' ought long ago to have been heard in this country.* A little later Mr. Francis Neilson, M.P., when working as régisseur at Covent Garden, gave me interesting particulars of a trilogy founded upon the saga of the North American Indians, which he had written for the late Anton Seidl, and of which that gifted disciple of Wagner—much better known, of course, as a conductor than as a composer—actually sketched a large portion prior to his premature death at New York in 1898.

And now comes our talented young countryman, Mr. Joseph Holbrooke, with a big trilogy of music-dramas also dealing with a Welsh subject, though one much less familiar to most people than the 'Merlin' trilogy constructed by Mr. Coutts. The author of the libretto in this case veils under the nom de plume of 'T. E. Ellis' the personality of Lord Howard de Walden, who seems, so far as I can at present judge, to have manifested both dramatic deftness and poetic feeling in the moulding and development of his extremely intricate material. Anyhow, to this distinguished alliance the English composer owes the rare and welcome fact that one of his music-dramas is to see the light at the London Opera House on Friday, June 7. Influence less weighty would scarcely have induced Mr. Hammerstein (who has no particular love for English opera) to embark upon this interesting venture. Double reason, therefore, for us all to hope that the work and the presentation thereof, under the guidance of such a masterful conductor as Arthur Nikisch, may result in the achievement of a brilliant and enduring success for all concerned.

Following the Wagner precedent, Mr. Holbrooke has not set his trilogy to music in the precise order of its sequence. Thus the second section, entitled 'Dylan, Son of the Wave,' bears the opus number 53, while the first, 'The Children of Don,' stands as Op. 56†; and this latter work it is that will be given in London next June. The story is based upon the Cymric legend of 'Math Mathonwy,' and is divided into a prologue and three Acts. The incidents of the prologue, and in some degree of the whole opera, centre upon a certain magic cauldron, which is stolen from a cave in Arnwn by Gwydion, son of Don (the Nature-Goddess), and installed in a Druidic temple of Arvon governed by Math, the Priest-King. Between Gwydion and Math no love is lost. A great destiny has been predicted for the children of Don, of whom, besides Gwydion, there are Govannion, who hates the Druids, but loves one of their priestesses; and Elan, who becomes the mother of Dylan, the future hero of their race. Math's discovery of the course of events gives rise to the great scene of the second Act, where Gwydion is sentenced to be transformed into a beast and left bound in the temple. He and Elan are about to take poison from the magic cauldron, but are prevented by their gods. Nevertheless Gwydion becomes a wolf, and there is much trouble before Math (in the third Act) removes the spell from Gwydion and his brother, Govannion. The latter subsequently attempts to drown the child Dylan, but the sea cannot harm him, he being a 'son of the wave.' However, the ferocious Govannion kills the Arch-Druid, Gwion, thus making way for Gwydion to fill his place as chief of the Druids and publicly 'adopt' Dylan as his son. Thus do the brothers regain control of their long-lost cauldron.

This seems to be a picturesque plot. It is certainly set forth in picturesque verse; and, judging by a brief perusal of the score, has been treated by Mr. Holbrooke in highly dramatic and impressive fashion. Of both, however, more anon! Meanwhile, the cast, so far as it has been selected, will include Mr. Henry Weldon (Math), Mr. Alan Turner (Gwydion), Mr. Frank Pollock (Arawn), Mr. Frederick Blamey (Gwion), Madame Augusta Doria (Elan), Miss Blomfield (Don), and Madame Jeanne Jomelli (Goewin).

The Imperial Choir of London, which came into such prominence last year at the official opening of the Festival of Empire at the Crystal Palace, before their Majesties the King and Queen, will this year perform at the opening of the 'Shakespeare's England' exhibition at Earl's Court, on May 11, under Dr. Charles Harriss's direction. The choir will consist of thirty-nine choral Societies of greater London, supplemented by the Queen's Hall Orchestra and the New Symphony Orchestra. Miss Phyllis Lett will sing, and the conductors will be Sir Henry Wood and Dr. Harriss. The performance will commence at 3.30 p.m. In accordance with Dr. Harriss's ideas the programme will be entirely British.

* It was first performed at the Liceo, Barcelona, in 1896—not, as stated in Grove's 'Dictionary,' in 1895.

† Both vocal scores are published by Novello & Co., Ltd.

Church and Organ Music.

We have already referred in these columns to Sir Walter Parratt's lecture on 'The teaching of organ-playing,' delivered at the Royal College of Organists on February 22 of last year. But we think his remarks (which are published in full in the recently issued report of the College) are so valuable to all interested in the subject, and so suggestive of many relative points, that we venture to treat his discourse in closer detail. For this purpose the kind consent of Sir Walter Parratt and Dr. Harding (secretaries of the Royal College of Organists) has been given.

At the outset Sir Walter claims, as being necessary to the teacher, a fairly competent knowledge of his subject and a vivid personality. The touch of sarcasm in the first qualification is of course only intended to show the great importance of the second, and we fully agree that 'many people with less music would be able to control their classes better on account of their personality than others with more music and less personality.' Sir Walter put clearly before his audience the importance of studying the various widely divergent characteristics of pupils, some of whom think slowly, some quickly, others being highly intelligent in anything but music, others again unaccountably quick in music to the exclusion of all else. He quoted instances of University men who seemed to have found a new study into whose territory they had no passport, and of first-class, clever men who could not be taught to play the organ nearly so well as a boy of ten or eleven, who hardly knew his alphabet. All this fully justifies the assertion that 'no teacher can hope to succeed unless he discovers the personal equation of his pupil.' We feel confident that no examination in teaching (and they are becoming more and more numerous) can be of much value unless this aspect of the question be considered. Many instances have presented themselves in which teachers who have graduated in the art of teaching have signally failed through trusting to a fixed series of rules which they apply to all their pupils indiscriminately.

The complex nature of the organ is, we think, not always grasped by the average person, and there are no doubt many who would never become even fairly good performers, simply because they do not possess the control of mental and muscular action so necessary to the organist. Sir Walter described the familiar jokes of patting the head with one hand and stroking the waistcoat with the other; describing circles in the air with one foot, and at the same time writing imaginary capital letters with the hand. But these, and his recommendation to change the knife and fork into opposite hands, certainly contain a great deal of valuable suggestion. The organist's left hand is too often weak, and may be observed at its weakest moment when extemporising. How seldom does it fail to accompany the pedals an octave higher! The advice to 'send some thoughts down your left arm' is valuable indeed. In speaking of the organist's position at the instrument, we are delighted to find ourselves supported by the greatest living authority in our contention that the radiating pedal-board is the best. Sir Walter says 'fortunately they [radiating pedal-boards] are becoming universal.' But we are inclined to doubt whether his fear that the appearance of the extra F♯ and G on modern pedal-boards will alter the whole scale is well founded. Our conviction is that these are merely extra notes infrequently used, and should therefore be considered negligible.

The all-important subject of independence between the left hand and feet naturally received some attention from one who has so entirely mastered its intricacies. The allusion to Sir John Stainer's 'Primer,' and to Best's 'Pedal Studies,' was graceful and apt. And it is not as widely recognised as it should be that pedal exercises alone are of little value, and only when, as in the case of Best's examples, they are accompanied by manual passages of contrived and contrasted difficulty can they be considered of high educational value. The recommendation to practise organ finger-studies on the pianoforte is of course very sound, as, though only two distinct touches are available on the organ, viz., legato and detached, the equality of tone obtainable on the pianoforte will result in the equal note-division so vital to good touch on the organ.

'Make your pupils think.' This advice contains practically the whole of the teacher's art, and cannot be too strongly insisted upon. But until the pupil possesses a knowledge of harmony we believe no teacher can obtain the best results. Even with that knowledge it is surprising how slowly some pupils comprehend the harmonic structure of, for example, so simple a chord as a first inversion, if it be presented in some musical figure. When once this faculty has been acquired the way for rapid progress will be clear, and the work of the teacher lightened in no slight degree. We also recommend a course of study in analysis, as a contrast to the synthetic processes of the student of harmony. It is just as necessary to understand the methods of construction adopted by the composer as the rules which govern the building up of a simple exercise in harmony, and we think every teacher should keep this before his pupils.

In saying that 'nothing will induce people to play [on the organ] scales or scraps of them with the usual fingering,' Sir Walter Parratt touches upon a weakness which is, alas, far too common. Unnecessary finger-changing and wriggling in the simplest succession of scale-notes are the prevailing custom, and the example he gives (Mendelssohn's sixth Sonata, 1st variation R.H.) most happily — or should we say unhappily? — describes the pains which the student will often take over a simple passage of five notes. There are the consecutive notes, A, F, G, A, &c., and the sort of fingering frequently used is 4th changed to 3rd, 2nd to 3rd, 4th to 3rd, and so on. The next sentence is, indeed, too true — 'The organist's fingering is, as a rule, deplorable.'

But the fingering of scale-passages is not the only difficulty with organists. One too often sees unsystematic fingering of arpeggios, as for instance in such a chord as the second inversion in G major, when the B is as often as not played by the middle finger of the right hand, while we remember having seen the first inversion of the same chord fingered similarly!

But in drawing attention to such inaccuracies as incomplete note- and rest-values, omission of repetition of notes, strict observance of the accuracy of notes, &c., Sir Walter strikes at the root of much which is responsible for bad musicianship, and we hope his advice will be accepted and acted upon by those who may be conscious of any weakness in these matters. His illustrations from the Bach Passacaglia and the little G minor Fugue of chords of intentionally thin construction which some organists unthinkingly 'fill up,' are excellent examples of that lack of reverence to the composer's intention, which is too frequently in evidence.

The high importance of distributing the manual parts evenly, or at least comfortably, between the two hands it is impossible to over-estimate, and, as Sir Walter says, 'the pupil's great desire, which under much discomfort he tries to gratify, is to play all the parts written in the treble staff with the right hand, and all written in the bass with the left.' The observation that most organists always commence a fugue with the right hand is curiously true, and the advice equally valuable—that the matter should be settled by whether the answer appears above or below the subject. This all supports the advice given before to 'make the pupil think.' We have long ago said in these pages that the organ-loft has been the nursery of so much that is inartistic, and it may all surely be traced to lack of thought.

The subject of 'phrasing' was admirably treated by Sir Walter, both by his remarks and his illustrations, and nothing makes so great a demand upon the organist's musicianship. As was pointed out, Bach left almost everything to the player, while in such works as Mendelssohn's Sonatas, the phrase marks are not to be taken literally, but as a general indication. Rheinberger's Sonatas, again, are quite inaccurately phrased, if taken as printed.

Choice of music should receive careful thought, and the pupil's taste be considered. There can be no doubt that, given suitability, greater progress will be made by a pupil with a piece of his own choice than with one with which he has little sympathy. Closely allied to this is the encouragement which should be given to pupils to exhibit their own interpretation of great works, 'especially,' as Sir Walter adds, 'in the case of Bach.' The plea for the more frequent use of uncoupled manuals, diapasons and reeds alone, single stops, and the more frequent absence of 16-ft. pedal stops, is sound enough, and anything which makes for restraint has our warmest support. The method of practice should most certainly be under the control of the teacher, at least so far as he can offer advice. Some pupils are tempted not only to trifle with their practice, but to spend too long over it, having regard to physical strength. The organ is not, as Sir Walter says, necessarily more fatiguing than a grand pianoforte, especially where pneumatic action is used, but the mental effort may often be greater, and must be taken into account. The advice he gives with regard to organ recital programmes is valuable indeed, and when we read 'there is something about the unyielding sound of the organ which cannot be borne for long,' as the opinion of so great an organist and lover of his instrument, we accept it in full agreement, as we do the suggestion that a recital should not last for more than an hour, and even then include music for a voice or violin. We fully believe that the organ would become much more widely appreciated were it more often used in combination with other instruments, especially of the stringed variety. Works far too seldom heard are the Suite for violin, violoncello and organ by Rheinberger, and the same composer's Theme and Variations for violin and organ.

Here is a new field for composers, as yet very inadequately explored, but capable of great development.

Sir Walter Parratt's lecture is of the highest possible value, not only for its admirable exposition of the art of teaching organ-playing, but for the healthy and broad outlook on the work of the teacher generally. His influence on the organ-playing of this country has already had a profound result, and will, as time goes on, be handed down by his numerous pupils, many of whom are highly gifted. It need hardly be said that his principles are held in common with the greatest teachers of any country and of any art. They may be summed up in the phrase, 'The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

The annual meetings of the Free Church Musicians' Union were held in Birmingham on April 9 and 10, under the presidency of Dr. Henry Coward. The arrangements included a reception, organ recitals by Mr. R. A. Ernest Payne and Mr. C. W. Perkins, a 'tea-table' conference conducted by Mr. John Heywood, of Newcastle, and a public conference at which Dr. Coward delivered his presidential address. Mr. H. F. Nicholls was re-elected general secretary and Mr. J. E. Leah treasurer. It was decided to hold the meetings next year at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

We understand that the organ of Ripon Cathedral is to be re-built and brought up to date, and that the work will be carried out by Messrs. Harrison & Harrison. From the middle of May until the middle of August the choral services will be sung without accompaniment.

At the 258th anniversary of the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy at St. Paul's Cathedral, on May 2, the anthem will be a setting of the 126th Psalm, specially composed by Dr. Walter Alcock, organist and composer to His Majesty's Chapels Royal.

Mr. Edwin H. Lemare gave two recitals at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, on April 13. He played transcriptions of modern orchestral music, the Toccata in F major, and Prelude and Fugue in D major of Bach, and Mendelssohn's Organ sonata No. 6. The audiences were large and demonstrative.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

On Friday, March 29, Bach's 'Passion according to St. John' was performed by the Bach Choir in Westminster Abbey, by permission of the Dean. The choir sang admirably throughout, special excellence being shown in the softer numbers. Dr. Hugh P. Allen conducted, and proved by his efforts in that direction, how specially he had studied the meaning of the work and its composer's intentions, and the care with which he had prepared his choir. The soloists were Miss Rhoda von Glehn, The Hon. Norah Dawnay, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. J. Campbell McInnes, and Mr. Bertram Mills. Sir Frederick Bridge lent invaluable aid at the organ.

Bach's Passion music ('St. Matthew') was, in accordance with annual custom, given in St. Paul's Cathedral on the Tuesday in Holy Week. The Cathedral choir was supplemented by members of the choirs of Westminster Abbey, the Chapel Royal, St. James's, the Temple Church, and others. The solo portions were, of course, taken by members of the Cathedral choir. The accompaniments and instrumental portions of the work were given by an orchestra and the organ. Mr. Charles Macpherson was the organist, and Sir George Martin conducted a performance remarkable for its reverence, and one worthy to rank with the best of those which have contributed to the famous traditions of the Metropolitan Cathedral.

On Tuesday, March 26, a performance of Brahms's 'Requiem' was given at St. Martin's Church, Scarborough, by the choir of the church and the members of the Scarborough Philharmonic Society. The choruses were most impressively sung, and special mention should be made of the singing of the boys, who were trained by Mr. C. Hylton Stewart. The soprano and baritone solos were finely given by Miss Botterill and Mr. Bruce Hylton Stewart respectively. The accompaniments were played by an orchestra of strings and drums, while invaluable help was given by Mr. C. Hylton Stewart (organist of the church) at the organ. Dr. Thomas Ely conducted a performance which will rank as a memorable one for all concerned, while it was highly appreciated by the large congregation.——On April 3 the choir of All Saints' Church sang Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater' before a large congregation. The interpretation given under Mr. A. C. Keeton's direction was marked by dignified expression and uninterrupted precision. The tone and balance of the voices were admirable. The principals were Master Hewitt, Miss Leather, Mr. F. C. Camidge and Mr. J. D. Nichol. Mr. G. T. Pattman was at the organ.

Recent services at Ripon Cathedral have included performances of Mr. Charles Macpherson's notable setting of the Psalm, 'By the waters of Babylon,' and of Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater.' On both occasions Mr. C. H. Moody, organist of the Cathedral, conducted.

Bach's Passion music ('St. Matthew') was sung at St. John's Church, St. Leonard's-on-Sea, on March 20, by the choir and the St. John's Musical Society, under the direction of the organist and conductor, Mr. Leonard O'Connor. The organist was Mr. Guyer, of the Parish Church of Bexhill.

Handel's 'Passion' (in the abridged edition) was sung by the choir of the Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Bedford Park, on March 21, Palm Sunday and Good Friday, under the direction of Mr. J. Hurst Bannister, organist and choirmaster. The soloists were Mr. A. Winter, Messrs. F. W. Bates and A. J. Bing. On Easter Sunday Gounod's 'Messe Solennelle' was sung with orchestra, Mr. J. F. Escudier officiating at the organ.

A special service of music for female voices, consisting of Pergolesi's 'Stabat Mater' and the Benedictus from Ethel Smyth's Mass in D, was given in St. Peter's Church, Harrogate, on March 22, under the direction of Mr. John Pullein.

An earnest spirit inspires the musical administration of St. Saviour's, Upper Chelsea, since Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater' (in the English version) was performed there on March 24 and Brahms's 'German Requiem' on Good Friday. The choral interpretation of both works, under the direction of Mr. F. Hampton Smith, organist and choirmaster of the church, was deeply appealing in its reverence and attractive in its musical qualities. The solos were taken by Master Price, Mr. Reginald Newcombe, Mr. Sidney Clark, and Mr. Frank Bryant.

Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' and Part 1 of Spohr's 'The Last Judgment' were sung on April 1 at St. Bartholomew's Church, Dalston, by the Choral Society of sixty voices, under the conductorship of Mr. Clement Meek, organist and choirmaster at the church. Stainer's 'Crucifixion' was sung on Good Friday evening; Mr. John F. Turner was the organist.

Harold Moore's 'The Darkest Hour' was sung at the Sutton Wesleyan Church on April 3 by the church choir, with orchestral accompaniment. The composer conducted an excellent performance. Mr. R. V. Seddon, the organist and choirmaster, was at the organ.

A performance of Bach's Passion ('St. John') was given at St. Gabriel's Church, Warwick Square, on Maundy Thursday, April 4, by the St. Gabriel's Oratorio Choir (70 voices) under the conductorship of Mr. Edward E. Douglas-Smith, the organist of the church. A feature of the performance was the uninterrupted merit of the choral singing. The expressive unaccompanied singing of the chorales added greatly to the artistic effect of the performance. The principal soloists were Miss Amy Knightly, Miss J. Coleman, Mr. Alexander Webster, and Mr. Bevington Rosse. The organist was Mr. Leonard Hart.

On Good Friday a special Musical Service was held in Shifnal Parish Church, when the oratorio choir sang Gounod's 'O come near to the Cross,' Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm, and other works. Mr. W. Brennand Smith presided at the organ.

We have received notice of the following performances of 'The Crucifixion':

Christchurch, Yokohama, March 8.—Conductor, Mr. C. H. Thorn; organist, Mr. A. R. Catto.

Magdalen College School, April 2.—Organist, Mr. P. Pickford.

St. Jude's, Southwark, April 3.—Organist, Mr. Leonard C. Johnson.

St. Bede's, Hartington Road, Liverpool, under the direction of Mr. Ernest H. Smith.

Halifax Place Chapel, Nottingham, Good Friday.—Conductor, Mr. E. M. Barber; organist, Mr. C. E. Blyton Dobson.

Kingsgate Baptist Church (The Kingsgate Choral Society), Good Friday.—Organist, Mr. Walter L. Hearn.

Maunder's 'Olivet to Calvary' was performed at the British Embassy in Paris on Good Friday, under the direction of Mr. Percy J. Vincent, organist and choirmaster of the Church. Mr. West was the organist.

'Olivet to Calvary' has also been performed at the following places of worship:

St. Paul's Church, Worcester, March 17.—Conductor, Mr. J. Phipps.

Lambourne Church, March 24.—Conductor, Mr. H. Lebbon; organist, Mr. H. Riding.

Chigwell Church, Good Friday.—Conductor, Mr. H. Riding; organist, Mr. E. Cuthbert Nunn.

Sutton Coldfield Congregational Church, April 3.—Conductor, Mr. George Russell; organist, Mr. James C. Parsons.

Emmanuel Church, Lambeth, March 31 and April 3, under the direction of Mr. R. C. Law.

Wallace Green Church, Berwick-on-Tweed, April 1.—Conductor, Mr. George Ballantyne; organist, Mr. Gwilym Thomas.

Holy Trinity Church, Meir, Staffordshire, March 28, under the direction of Mr. C. Bebbington.

All Saints' Church, Richmond, March 28.—Conductor, Mr. Charles Warren; organist, Mr. Blanchett.

About thirty other performances have come to our notice.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. Alfred Hollins, Wesley Chapel, High Street West, Glossop—Grand Solemn March, Smart.

Mr. T. Hanforth, Sheffield Parish Church—Minuetto and Scherzo, Aloys Claussmann.

Mr. Herbert Hodge, St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, E.C.—Reverie in A flat, Stainer.

Miss J. Barclay M. Mair, Hope Park United Free Church Edinburgh—Prelude and Fugue on B-A-C-H, Liszt.

Mr. W. H. Collins, St. Giles's Church, Shipbourne—Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach.

Mr. Ernest H. Smith, St. Bede's Parish Church, Liverpool—Adagio in E, Merkel.

Mr. Arthur G. Charles, St. Katharine Cree Church—'On a bass,' Stainer.

Mr. Cottrill, Wesley Chapel, High Street West, Glossop—Caprice in B flat, Guilmant.

Mr. C. E. Juleff, All Saints' Church, Weston-super-Mare—Overture, 'Julius Cæsar,' Handel.

Mr. James Tomlinson, Public Hall, Preston—Fantaisie in E flat, Saint-Saëns.

Mr. A. E. Jones, Town Hall, Bolton—March upon a theme of Handel, Guilmant.

Mr. Aloys Hiff, Town Hall, Oxford—Passacaglia, Buxtehude.

Mr. Arthur E. Davies, St. Margaret's Church, Barking—Sonata No. 4, Rheinberger.

Mr. C. J. Brennan, Ulster Hall, Belfast—Prière (de l'Oratorio de Noël), Saint-Saëns.

Mr. E. Harold Melling, St. Edmund's, Downham Market—Prelude in B minor, Bach.

Mr. Alfred Alexander, St. John-the-Evangelist, Edinburgh—Sonata in F minor, Mendelssohn.

Mr. Paul Rochard, Hinckley Parish Church—Grand Chœur Dialogue, E. Gigout.

Mr. C. H. Moody, Ripon Cathedral—Fugue in G major, Guilmant.

Mr. Bernard Gilbert, Public Hall, Canning Town—'Old Easter Melody with Variations,' John E. West.

Mr. R. M. Cadman, Trent College Chapel—Choral Prelude, 'Wer nur den lieben Gott lässt walten,' Bach.

Dr. M. J. Monk, Truro Cathedral—Third Sonata, Guilmant.

Mr. Walter Hearn, Kingsgate Baptist Church—Solemn Melody, Walford Davies.

Dr. A. W. Pollitt, St. George's Hall, Liverpool—Solemn Prelude, Pollitt.

Mr. G. H. E. Bower, Girls' Model Village Church, Barkingside—Prelude and Fugue in G minor, Bach.

Mr. Allan H. Brown, United Methodist Church, Peckham—Grand Offertoire in D, Batiste.

APPOINTMENT.

Mr. James H. M. Ledger, organist and choirmaster, Parish Church, Alloa, N.B., to be Borough Organist, Alloa.

Reviews.

GAELIC MUSIC.

Journal of the Folk-Song Society, No. 16. (vol. iv., part 3). [The Folk-Song Society, 19, Berners Street, London, W.]

The Folk-Song Society has already done noble work in collecting and printing folk-tunes and texts, but its sixteenth Journal excels all former numbers in interest, consisting as it does of 105 Gaelic traditional songs, admirably noted by Miss Frances Tolmie, a Hebridean lady well-known to the 'master-gleaners' of Gaelic song and lore. The words are supplied with English translations by the collector, and the songs reveal a mine of exquisite beauty to the music-lover.

Notwithstanding some Norse influence the Gaelic music is practically pure, and stands quite distinct from Lowland-Scottish or English folk-music. This purity is of great assistance to the student of national music. There seems certainly an Eastern element in some of the airs, which have characteristics recalling those found in Indian, Persian and, predominantly, Arabian music, as well as Sicilian. This may strengthen the theory, alluded to by Miss Broadwood in her note on the Gaelic scale-system, that the West Highlands were peopled by a Mediterranean-Iberian stock. Scales are at the best of times a most debatable subject. We think, however, that in her essay which accompanies Miss Tolmie's collection Miss Gilchrist has effectually solved the problem of the Gaelic scale-system. We have carefully tested her theory by means of a large number of Gaelic airs, published and unpublished, to which we have successfully applied the five modes of the Scottish pentatonic scale according to her schedule.

Miss Gilchrist seems a little in doubt as to the true 'tonic' of some of the airs. For the sake of the uninitiated we suggest that hearing the songs sung by a Highlander would solve most of those keynote difficulties. Gaelic songs are as a rule sung in the following way: The chorus opens softly, increases in volume, and dies away to ppp. The verse is attacked with full voice and appropriate use of diminuendo and crescendo, ending with a gentle rallentando to lead to a repetition of the chorus. Where the last word of the chorus consists of two syllables—the accent in Gaelic being always on the first syllable—the second is allowed to rise or fall in a low tone according to the pleasure of the singer, the rising or falling often varying in the different verses. Miss Gilchrist is therefore quite correct in taking the last accented note to be the true 'tonic' in the case of songs Nos. 28, 76 and 94.

One cannot emphasise too much the impossibility of putting English words to Gaelic airs (see Journal, p. 182). When they are wedded to metrical translations all the characteristics of the Highland music are lost, as English seldom allows of a soft terminal syllable or of ending a phrase on the weakest part of a bar.

As regards the obscure syllables or 'nonsense-refrains' referred to in connection with songs Nos. 20 and 69, we frequently in English folk-songs meet with phrases and words which have no meaning. For example, in 'Creeping Jane' (see 'Folk-songs from Somerset') the phrase 'She never was a vallid as a Pea ne lalli day,' seems to have been interpolated by the singer, who had forgotten the correct words. The same applies to Gaelic, and we are convinced that it is a mistake to try to explain the nonsense passages or to alter them. Even these meaningless phrases have a subtle charm about them. With reference to Dr. Jules Combarieu's finding that nonsense-refrains were used 'magically' earlier than rhythmically (see Journal, p. 176), we can hardly think that the Gaelic refrains in question are connected with magic, although it is well-known that the Gaels were, and still are, a very superstitious people.

In the Gaelic language the rule is that 'when l, n, or r is followed by b, g, m, or p, a vowel is sounded between the two consonants,' e.g., cal., cal*a*g; airm, air*i*m, &c. Hence in 'Poca Sil ant-Sealgair,' song No. 40, the words 'Sealgair' and 'falbh' are properly pronounced 'Seal*a*gair' and 'fal*a*bh.' As these words, therefore, do not illustrate the interpolation of a 'parasite' vowel such as we find in the folk-songs of some other nations (cf. the English country singer's 'primèrose' and 'wordelking' for 'primrose' and 'walking'), Miss Gilchrist's comparison on p. 195 does not apply.

It is difficult to say which amongst Miss Tolmie's collected airs may have been affected by Norse influence; the air 'Dhomhnuill a Dhomhnuill' is, to our mind, certainly not pure Gaelic, but we can recall no Scandinavian tune like it. Songs 28 and 94 have a decidedly modern ring about them, whilst No. 69, 'Iù ri ribh O!' we cannot think to be a Gaelic tune.

The finest form of Highland music is the 'Cumha' or 'Lament,' and one could wish for more examples of this type amongst Miss Tolmie's collection. 'Cumha Dhiarmad' and 'Caoidh Leannain' are two of the most beautiful and plaintive songs in the Journal.

As a collection of Gaelic folk-music and poetry, one cannot too highly praise this Journal. The thanks of all song-lovers are due to the editorial committee, and we hope that they may see their way to giving us another Gaelic volume as instructive and helpful. In conclusion, we may add that the Journal is supplied only to members of the Folk-Song Society. Persons desiring to obtain this number may do so by forwarding one year's subscription (ten shillings and sixpence), naming the year 1911, to Mr. Frederick Keel, Hon. Sec. Folk-Song Society, 19, Berners Street, London, W.

Symphony No. 2, in E flat. By Edward Elgar. Arranged for pianoforte solo by Sigfrid Karg-Elert.

Coronation March. By Edward Elgar. Arranged for pianoforte solo by Harold L. Brooke.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

The transcriber of orchestral music, especially such as Elgar's, is faced by many problems, the solutions of which may be irreconcilable. He has to decide the relative importance of melodies, counter-melodies and figures of accompaniment. He has to consider whether orchestral doubling in the octave is designed to affect the pitch or merely the tone-colour of a melody. In the former case he has to transcribe in octaves, or, if this is impracticable, to decide whether the upper or lower line best represents the orchestral effect. He has to observe, from an orchestral hearing or from his own instinct, to what extent marks of dynamical expression affect the balance of tone. He has to consider how far an elusive orchestral passage can be freely interpreted in terms of pianoforte music. With all this he has to take into account the limitations of ten fingers and a technique that falls short of virtuosity. In Elgar's second Symphony the elaborate texture of the music presents a constant succession of difficulties of the general character of those described and others more minute and particular. Mr. Karg-Elert has encountered them with conscientious care, and has assiduously marked out a media via between the claims of composer and pianist. The first movement involved some bold 'laying-out' for pianoforte purposes, but the boldness of the music demands it. No pianoforte arrangement, of course, could convey the magical colours of the development section depicting, in the composer's own words, 'ghostly lovers in a garden.' As was to be expected, the second movement falls most gratefully from the pianist's fingers—even those big moments when rushing scale-passages and piled up harmonies lead to the two climaxes are represented, and can be played, quite effectively. The Mephistophelian Rondo loses none of that character in the transcription. The Finale, apart from the opening passages of its free section, supplies some of the most flowing pianoforte music of the whole Symphony.

Those who make their first acquaintance with the work in this form cannot fail to be deeply impressed with it, although they cannot in reason grasp the full significance of music in which the orchestral expression is not so much a framework as part of the essence of the ideas. At the same time, those who have drunk in its full emotional purport at an orchestral performance will suffer no disillusionment on looking more closely into its details by means of the pianoforte score; rather will their admiration be heightened for a composer whose work can be so broadly and so minutely interesting.

The simpler outlines of the 'Coronation March' rendered Mr. Brooke's task less exacting than Mr. Karg-Elert's, but nevertheless left abundant scope for the exercise of ingenuity and insight. The march makes an excellent effect on the pianoforte, and it is to be hoped that the transcription will help to spread due appreciation of its individuality and high musical value.

Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous. Anthem suitable for a dedication festival, or the opening of an organ. Composed by Edward Ellis Vinnicombe.

[The Vincent Music Co., Ltd.]

This is a most welcome example of church music, artistically conceived and written. Founded on a chorale, the main theme is excellently employed without becoming wearisome. An effective soprano solo is included, and the part is later accompanied by a well-written chorus. The organ accompaniment is mostly independent, while giving support where needed. We look with confidence for further productions of the kind, as the composer possesses the rare gift of combining simplicity with effect and skilful musicianship.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Set to music in the key of E flat. By A. von Ahn Carse.

I will magnify Thee, O God, my King. Anthem for Festival use. Composed by Charles H. Lloyd.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

The above is a remarkable example of a setting of the Canticles to music of an entirely unemotional character. It is written by an accomplished musician, and the fact of its possessing unusual strength and showing independent thought and treatment will naturally attract the many who deplore the effeminacy of so much so-called church music. It is within the means of any average church choir.

The name of Dr. C. H. Lloyd is a sufficient guarantee that his music shall exhibit the highest qualities. This anthem is a specially good example of his work. Written for the South London Choirs Festival, Southwark Cathedral, for this year, it should prove in every way suitable for the occasion. The simple and effective opening chorus is followed by a most effective semi-chorus, which is equally suitable as a quartette, the accompaniment being a prominent feature. A short interlude then leads to the final chorus, which consists of a repetition of the first, but with the addition, most ingeniously devised, of the 'Old Hundredth,' sung by the second choir. The anthem should become well known and appreciated.

Correspondence.

THE TEACHING OF COMPOSITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—I must apologise for returning to the charge over a technical matter which I fear is likely to bore most of your readers, but I am anxious to clear up the point at issue between your reviewer and myself. His complaint is that progress in English music is being retarded because pupils are taught to be so skilful that they can do anything and imitate anybody, and that therefore their individuality is being strangled. I do not exactly follow this sequitur, but your reviewer is distinctly in error if he supposes that the pupils of a good teacher are incited to consciously imitate the work of great writers, past or present. They cannot help doing so, because you must begin somewhere; but if your reviewer will glance at the first and last pages of my book he will see that originality is the one thing one seeks to encourage, and I fearlessly maintain that a fine technique is indispensable before one can take the first step in that direction. Your reviewer gives no hint of what his own educational theories are, but surely—surely he cannot accept the amateur's belief that the way to be original is not to know anything.

As to your reviewer having not yet heard of any English work 'which shows signs of having enlarged the mainland by the acquisition of new territory,' why, such works do exist, but are hardly likely to be performed—let alone accepted. Holbrooke and Bowen and Bax are too new for most people. What is imitative of their contemporaries is more or less admired; what they possess of originality is just what is entirely disliked. So it always has been and always will be. Fifty years ago the English critics uttered the same complaint; then came along Parry, Mackenzie and others, but the critics and the public took to their bosom Arthur Sullivan!

Yours faithfully,

F. Corder.

OLD CHOIR-BOYS' ASSOCIATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—In connection with many of our Cathedrals there is an 'Old Boys' Association.' These Societies are patronised by the Bishop of the Diocese and presided over by the Dean and Chapter and organist of that particular Minster. There is a movement afoot to amalgamate these Societies, and to have a secretary and committee meeting at Canterbury or London, and another at York.

May I suggest a similar movement in connection with our churches, to be presided over by the vicar and churchwardens of the parish and the organist.

If this proposal meets with the approval of the clergy and laymen involved, I should suggest the ultimate affiliation of the 'Church Choir Old Boys' Society' with that of 'Cathedral Old Boys' Association.'

If this scheme could be accomplished, what a harmonious brotherhood would be formed, not only of musicians but of Christian churchmen for the mutual benefit of all concerned.

Ernest D. Preston,
Lincoln Old Boy.

English Church, St. Petersburg.

[Other letters are held over.]

Obituary.

We regret to have to record the following deaths:—

Mr. John Henderson Kennedy, who was taken suddenly ill whilst on a journey to Bristol on April 15, and succumbed after a severe operation the next day. He was the youngest son of the late David Kennedy, the well-known Scottish singer. He had successfully practised as a solicitor at Edinburgh, but eventually had turned to the art in which he had been immersed from youth upwards. Here he directed his keen legal, analytical mind on the problems of voice-production, and his only recently published booklet, 'Common-sense and singing,' proved how he had been working on these problems in a far more rational way than had so far been done; and many a young artist has found his teaching indeed practical and to the point. It is to be hoped that his many recent lectures and MSS. will be rendered available, so that the valuable work he had accomplished may not be lost to the public.

Mr. H. Trotère (Henry Trotter), the composer of 'In old Madrid,' 'The deathless army,' 'Asthore,' and 'My old shako,' songs which won and still retain enormous popularity, and others that were scarcely less successful. He was born in London in 1855.

Mr. S. W. Thomas Chater, professor of voice-production and singing, at the age of eighty-nine.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

A vivacious performance of 'The Gondoliers,' given by students of the Guildhall School on March 29, was the best theatrical work that has been done at that institution in recent years. All the parts were adequately filled; the singing was on a good artistic level, the comedy was refined and pointed, the chorus was notably good in vocal tone, and the orchestral playing was admirable under the direction of Mr. Landon Ronald. The principals were Miss Alice Ennis Smith (Gianetta), Miss Nellie Walker (Tessa), Miss Winnie Browne (Casilda), Miss Aimée Shergold (Duchess), Mr. Carl True (Giuseppe), Mr. Alfred Steed (Marco), Mr. Owen Claydon (Luiz), Mr. Paul McAllister (Duke), and Mr. L. Holloway (Inquisitor).

MR. W. W. COBBETT ON CHAMBER MUSIC.

A paper on Chamber Music was read by Mr. W. W. Cobbett to the members of the Musical Association at Messrs. Broadwood's Rooms on March 19. Dr. Cummings was in the chair.

Mr. Cobbett opened by stating that the object of his paper was to give his reasons, after a lifetime of experience, for thinking that the private practice of chamber music was so conducive to personal happiness as to be of real interest to the community at large as well as to a small section of it, and to suggest a means for its expansion and development. His definition of chamber music did not apply to the public performance of chamber works in large concert rooms, however distinguished the players. Such conditions made for self-consciousness, less absorption in the music, and a change in the style of execution, adopted consciously or unconsciously to accord with the surroundings. This he preferred to call 'solo chamber music.' He was only concerned with the music of intimacy, the Hausmusik of the Germans, the 'music of friends,' as it had been happily styled by Mr. Richard Walthew.

Mr. Cobbett said that if parents and guardians with musically-gifted children to bring up realised that by giving them the opportunity in early youth of acquiring a taste for the practice of concerted music, both vocal and instrumental, in the home, they would afford them at the same time a chance of filling their leisure, during a lifetime, with happiness of a very pure kind. Chamber music might well form part of our nation's life, 'not regarded as life's serious duties are—I do not wish to suggest that musicians should become hedonists—but more highly regarded than games.'

The lecturer then dwelt on the peculiar charm of the string quartet, a charm which, he said, defied analysis. He passed in review some of its factors, and among them the altruism practised by the good quartet player, whereby an ethical element is allied to an art form. He pointed out that violinists of the greatest distinction as soloists have failed to make their mark in quartet playing through introducing too much of the personal element into their leading and keeping the other performers in subjection, whilst the many solo quartets written, notably those by Spohr, have fallen into oblivion.

Chamber music, Mr. Cobbett said, was the true medium for those who wished to live the musical life for its own sake. It was by such music that the sub-conscious or sub-liminal self was constantly awakened into life, and so, in Bergsonian phrase, the area of the garden of the soul was widened. 'In common, I suppose, with every absorbing occupation, the practice of chamber music precludes all suffering from ennui. By its means you can escape from the sullen grey hours which are often the portion of the leisured man.' Mr. Cobbett spoke always of playing, not of listening. One could hear chamber music much better played by artists than by oneself; but listening, he said, was of more limited range than playing, though it provided some exquisite and unforgettable moments. But if listening were permanently enjoyable there would be no inducement to practise an instrument except for a livelihood or the mere love of applause. By nature's law any pleasure derived without personal effort was apt to pall in the end. Playing, of course, involved the practice which is often slightingly spoken of as drudgery; but this was a misnomer when the violinist or violoncellist had some object in view such as preparation for chamber performances. Unlike the pianoforte his instrument was not self-sufficing. It was capable of effects which gave it many advantages over the pianoforte; but it was dependent. 'This dependence upon others,' said Mr. Cobbett, 'makes violinists what they are, gregarious animals; which is not a bad thing.'

Mr. Cobbett introduced the subject of intonation by saying that 'in the capacity of all the instruments of the string quartet to play with just intonation lies one of its chief charms. Modern composers, with their increased use of enharmonic modulation, have added to the difficulties of what might be called the technique of the ear, and brought into relief the importance of perfect justesse.' He said much on this subject that was interesting, making a reference to the Indian scale upon which Miss Maud MacCarthy (Mrs. Mann) had recently given lectures. He then passed on to the subject of tone-quality, which, he said, could not be dismissed merely as a matter of sensuousness. 'String tone at its best affords to those who are its bond slaves thrills which are of the nature of mystery, and nowhere in instrumental music is it heard to such advantage as in the string quartet. Think of some of the chords which Beethoven wrote, which seem to lead one to the brink of the infinite. Without the co-operation of string tone they could not be given with the same ravishing effect.'

In dealing with the intellectual interest of quartet music, Mr. Cobbett put in a good word for the musically-uneducated amateur, who was debarred from participating fully in the intellectual enjoyment of chamber works. Such an amateur, he said, 'has frequently an intuitive appreciation of music the excellences of which he may be unable to analyse. He is not less various in his taste and judgment than the professional player, worships the same gods, and is very prone to desperately-exclusive devotion to the classical school.' Mr. Cobbett then spoke at length upon romantic feeling, which he considered as anything but a negligible quantity.

Proceeding, he took the opportunity of recommending writers of string quartets to make their violin parts of equal importance, thus encouraging violinists of equal technical efficiency to play together in the same quartet, to its signal advantage.

So far Mr. Cobbett had taken as his theme the factors which constitute the charm of the string quartet. He then turned to the question: How to widen the area of an art which is said to be declining, or at least not receiving its share in the progress of musical life. The object of efforts in this direction, he said, should be to increase the number of actual players. There was, however, always the difficulty of providing opportunities for the players to come together. Mr. Cobbett then referred to the various clubs devoted to the more or less private cultivation of chamber music: such were the Oxford and Cambridge Musical Club, the Music Makers' Guild, the Strings Clubs (in which, under Miss Gwynne Kimpton's guidance, amateurs and professionals played together), the Hampstead Musical Club, the new Chamber Music Club, the King Cole Club, and the Guild of Home Music.

He suggested, as a means of supporting and centralizing this effort, and in particular for promoting private practice for its own sake, the foundation of an Institute of chamber music. At the present day, in the absence of a benevolent English millionaire willing to rival the work of Belaieff in Russia, such an Institute would have to be subsidized. Mr. Cobbett said, however, that he did not reject the possibility of finding a benefactor who would do for an Institute of chamber music what John Barber Beaumont did for the People's Palace and Sir Ernest Palmer for the Patron's Fund.

'Elementary consideration,' he said, 'would be the stocking of a library with every worthy work of chamber music, from Bach to Debussy, and the building of a suite of rooms of various dimensions suited for the practice of ensemble music for every conceivable combination. . . . . Protean talents would be a sine quâ non in the resident professors, for it should be possible for intending performers to drop in at any time and find it always feasible to play chamber music written for one of the many combinations which exist. . . . . Ensemble classes under the direction of competent professors would be a feature the advantage of which need not be confined to members of the Institute. Such classes might be self-supporting if the fees were not prohibitive.' Mr. Cobbett proceeded to outline many forms of activity of which the Institute might be the home. It might have attached to it an important Musical Club, unconnected with music practice, on ordinary West-End lines.

'For membership of the Institute proper,' Mr. Cobbett added, 'the rich would no doubt willingly pay subscription fees at a generous rate. But I would have, in this Utopia of mine, every one of the advantages I have foreshadowed extended to those whose means are limited, with a nominal fee, and sometimes without any fee at all; to provide joy for the well-to-do would stimulate no philanthropist!' Here an interesting digression compared the claims of chamber music to be considered aristocratic or democratic, and introduced the name of Thomas Britton and his famous concerts in the small-coals room. Recurring to his Institute, and the tradition of chamber-music cultivation which it might inaugurate, Mr. Cobbett said, 'The raw material no doubt exists in the classes for string practice to be found attached to County Council and National schools, to the Polytechnic and other institutions, the authorities connected with which would be likely to take much interest in a scheme tending to provide students with an additional incentive to work. The National Union of School Teachers is shortly giving a concert at the Crystal Palace in which 6,000 violinists are to take part—a somewhat startling fact which gives one furiously to think.'

Mr. Cobbett concluded as follows: 'The musical world appears at present to be undecided as to whether chamber music is of universal or merely esoteric interest. This scheme carried out, if only for a single probationary year, would go far to settle the question for many years to come, if not for good. In any event it seems intrinsically sound to contend that what makes for happiness will ultimately prevail, and that viewed only as experimental work it would be of the greatest value to musicians; an interesting chapter in the history of chamber music would be written, and one more link forged in the chain of human strivings towards ideal aims, of which music is the modern expression.'

In the discussion that ensued the chairman, Dr. T. Lea Southgate, Sir F. Bridge, and Dr. Maclean took part.

WESTMINSTER CATHEDRAL.

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER MUSIC, 1912.

Last year the feature of the Holy Week music was the revival of a large quantity of works of the now moribund but once flourishing Spanish School. This year, with one or two exceptions, it was entirely of the English and Italian Schools. Byrd's Masses for four and five voices were given, as were also Tye's 'Missa Euge bone' for six voices, and Tallis's 'Missa Sine titulo' for seven voices. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday being 'de Feria,' the Mass music had to be of ferial proportions, but on each day a single number of the Mass was given to music by English composers, viz., 'Kyrie eleison' from a Mass by Mundy entitled 'Upon the square,' 'Sanctus' from a Mass by Tye entitled 'The Western Wynde,' 'Benedictus' from a Mass by Thomas Shepherd, on the same theme, and 'Agnus Dei' by Thomas Morley. Thomas Tallis was also represented by 'Hosanna Filio David,' 'Plorans ploravit,' two settings of 'Te lucis' and two of 'O Salutaris,' as well as by his five-part 'Lamentations' for Tenebrae; and by an 'Alleluia' on the plain-song of 'Victimae Paschali.' William Byrd was represented by 'Nunc dimittis' (five voices), 'Ave Regina,' 'Tantum ergo,' 'Civitas sancti tui' (five voices), from which is adapted the well-known English anthem 'Bow Thine ear,' 'Ne irascaris,' from which the English anthem 'O Lord, turn Thy wrath' has been adapted; also by his dramatic Passion music for Good Friday, 'Haec dies' (six voices), 'Resurrexi et adhuc,' 'In resurrectione' (five voices), and 'Pascha nostrum.' Robert Whyte was represented by his beautiful and pathetic five-part 'Lamentations' for Tenebrae, and by a 'Te lucis' for five voices on the Compline hymn 'Christe qui lux,' the melody of which forms the first bass part. Peter Philips was represented by 'Ave Regina,' 'Regina coeli,' and 'Alleluia surgens Jesus,' all for five voices. Other interesting items were Mundy's 'Te lucis,' two motets by Thomas Morley—'Domine fac mecum,' and 'Eheu sustulerunt'—a 'Jerusalem' by Thomas Shepherd, and a 'Nunc dimittis' by William Blythman.

The Passions of SS. Matthew, Mark, and Luke, were each sung to music by Soriano. The 'Lamentations' used, other than those of Tallis and Whyte, were those of Palestrina and Allegri. The 'Responsoria' at Tenebrae were, as usual, the settings of Ingegneri and Vittoria. Anerio's 'Christus factus est' was sung at each tenebrae, as was also the 'Miserere' of Allegri. An interesting experiment in modal writing by a modern composer is the 'Missa Jesu Coroan Virginum,' by the Rev. Anthony Pollen. This was given on Easter Tuesday. Palestrina was largely drawn upon for Magnificats and other incidental items, the most interesting perhaps being his 'Stabat Mater' for eight voices; his Magnificat in the third mode, from the 'Gloria Patri' of which is adapted the well-known tune to the hymn, 'The strife is o'er, the battle done,' and his famous 'Improperia.' A large selection from Di Lasso's 'Penitential Psalms' was sung between the discourses at the 'Three Hours' Service.' Dr. Terry, organist of the cathedral, contributed a Benedictus on 'Tonus Regalis' (similar in character to Stainer's well-known 'Miserere,' but with different harmonies) and a setting in the Dorian mode of the alternate verses of 'Vexilla Regis,' sung in procession. Perhaps the most exacting test the choir had to undergo was the singing in procession of Palestrina's elaborately contrapuntal 'Ingrediente Domino' and his 'Sicut cervus desiderat.'

INDIAN MUSIC.

Three highly-interesting lectures were given recently by Miss Maud McCarthy (Mrs. Mann) on Indian music, a subject with which she made expert acquaintance during her recent period of residence in India. She subdivided her topic into Time, Tune and the Religious and Poetical aspects of Indian music. The lecturer herself provided vocal illustrations and accompaniment on the tambura and drum. We take the following from the report published in The Times: 'The music of India—and, possibly, of the rest of the East—presents several points of interest to the musician of Europe. He will be attracted first by what is curious in it; and he may, if he pleases, rest content, with Wagner in "Faust," to "contemplate the wisdom of the past and see the splendid thing we've made of it at last." In the process it will come home to him that music is not, as it is sometimes called, a universal language; but that in this case he must just sit down and learn it as he would Urdu or Sanskrit. If he has the luck to hear any of the real thing he will be astonished at the simplicity and the depth of the contour of mere melodic outline and rhythmic pattern. In view of the probability that this music has gone on for as many thousands of years as harmonized music has for centuries, he will dismiss the idea of its being primitive; and the marked homogeneity, in spite of local differences, of these tunes through a population three-quarters of that of Europe will convince him that the system is not haphazard. He will perhaps try to transplant them, but will watch these exotics droop in a foreign atmosphere; or will imprison them between the bars of the staff notation and find that he has acquired a collection of dried flowers. They must be heard in their birthplace; but to hear them truly, even there, demands the ready sympathy and the quick imagination of the people who made them.'

THE 'JENA' SYMPHONY.

This interesting discovery was brought to the test of public performance by Mr. Landon Ronald with the New Symphony Orchestra at Queen's Hall on March 30. The remainder of the programme, which was brilliantly carried out, included Mozart's Concerto in E flat for two pianofortes and orchestra, played by the Misses Satz, and Tchaikovsky's fifth Symphony. In our January issue we gave a summary of the circumstances under which the 'Jena' Symphony was discovered and of the reasons for considering it to be an early work of Beethoven's. The evidence of the music itself is inconclusive, and the following symposium of opinions from the daily Press will show how varied were the impressions it made upon discerning minds:

'A comparison of the "Jena" Symphony with Haydn's "Salomon" Symphony in the same key, C major (1791-92), gives a strong suggestion that the latter was definitely used as a model for the former. That Haydn, having written the "Salomon" Symphony, should write the "Jena" is inconceivable, but that the young Beethoven should set himself to copy the style of a masterpiece as a technical exercise is highly probable.'—The Times.

'There is no genuine Beethoven touch to prove beyond question that it was composed by him, but then Beethoven's individuality was slow in development. He was still taking lessons in composition considerably after the date of this supposititious Symphony, and yet that work has every sign of mature musicianship. I do not declare absolutely that the "Jena" Symphony is not Beethoven's work, but in view of the weak circumstantial evidence and of the smooth musicianship I do not believe it can have been written by Beethoven before he left Bonn for Vienna, and it certainly was not composed afterwards.'—Daily News.

'There are technical matters also, not conveniently to be referred to in these columns, that quite definitely discountenance the attachment of Beethoven's name to the work, if periods of development are at all trustworthy considerations. To put the matter frankly, the accepted first Symphony is a very unsatisfactory work; nobody wants to play it, and nobody wants to hear it. The new discovery, played very clearly and appreciatively by Mr. Landon Ronald, is even more unsatisfactory. It is not representative of the best work of a prolific period, and it is not representative of Beethoven in that stage of his career when he began to assume distinction. It has, consequently, not the slightest artistic or historic value.'—Observer.

'So far as internal evidence goes, there is nothing in the Symphony to make one discredit its attribution to Beethoven. It is a very charming and accomplished little work, redolent of Haydn and Mozart, and, though containing nothing very original either in ideas or treatment, by no means unworthy of the future composer of the "Eroica." A point that has escaped Dr. Stein, who has written a learned article on the Symphony in a German periodical, is the close resemblance between the theme of the slow movement and that of Cupid's song in Gluck's "Orpheus," an opera which Beethoven probably knew well, since he played for some years in the opera orchestra at Bonn.'—Graphic.

'If it is by Beethoven it is probably but a student effort. If it were possible for some irrepressible interviewer to visit him in the Elysian Fields, he would no doubt receive from the irascible master a severe castigation for suggesting that the work was from his pen. The historical evidence is flimsy and the internal evidence slight that Beethoven is the author of it.'—Sunday Times.

'There is much less Beethoven in many of the works traceable to him than in the Symphony brought forward by Mr. Landon Ronald on Saturday afternoon . . . . . who else but Beethoven could have written some of the "working-out" in the first movement, certain chord passages in the Adagio, and the chorale-like episodes in the final Allegro?'—Evening Standard.

'It would be futile to argue for or against the authenticity of a work that bears upon it nothing but the purely conventional stamp of the period. Beethoven or not Beethoven, it is very "little" music, and as such it might well have been allowed to languish in merited neglect. The fact that the composer has given no hint as to the existence of the "Jena" Symphony is fair comment upon its claims to notice.'—Standard.

'The influence of Mozart and Haydn is apparent throughout, but at the same time Beethovenish touches—early Beethovenish touches—are by no means wanting. There is nothing, it may be, so characteristic as the solo drum passage in the slow movement of the Symphony in C hitherto regarded as the first of the immortal Nine, or the Minuet and Trio in the same work; but every movement has its features of interest, and the music as a whole is undeniably beautiful and effective in the style of its day. Altogether therefore there need be no hesitation in accepting the Symphony as a genuine example of the master, even if it is in its way "only a little one."'—Westminster Gazette.

THE MENDELSSOHN CHOIR OF TORONTO.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

The Toronto concerts of the Mendelssohn Choir of that city were given, with the usual success, on the evenings of February 5, 6, 7, and 8, with an orchestral concert on the afternoon of the 8th, making a cycle of five concerts in all. The large hall, seating 3,300 people, was filled to its capacity at each performance. Among the many present were choral enthusiasts from as far-distant points as Calgary, Montreal, Ottawa, New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, and many other cities of Canada and the neighbouring Republic. The works performed included Wolf-Ferrari's 'La Vita Nuova,' Berlioz's Te Deum, Verdi's 'Manzoni' Requiem, and Grieg's 'At the cloister gate,' besides portions of Bach's B minor Mass, Wagner's 'Meistersinger,' and smaller accompanied and unaccompanied choruses chosen from the works of Lotti, Elgar, Gounod, Bantock, Van der Stucken, Brockway, Von Storch, Bullard and Grieg. On the evening of February 26 the Choir sang in Buffalo, New York, on February 27 and 28 concerts were given in Carnegie Hall, New York City, and on February 29 the organization appeared for the first time in Boston. In all of these concerts the splendid Theodore Thomas Orchestra of Chicago co-operated with the Choir. The reception accorded the Choir in all of its concerts was of the most enthusiastic character.

Mr. Henry E. Krehbiel, the veteran critic of the New York Tribune, declared the singing of the Choir to be 'as perfect technically as can well be imagined. The perfection of choral singing on this side of the Atlantic is to be heard from the choristers from Toronto, whom Dr. A. S. Vogt has the honour to conduct.' Similar appreciative and enthusiastic comments on the work of the Choir appeared in all the foremost daily and musical papers of the metropolis and Boston.

THE MARY WAKEFIELD, WESTMORLAND FESTIVAL.

This is a biennial Festival now named after the estimable lady who founded it in 1885 on competitive lines. It was begun in the town of Kendal, and has taken place there on every occasion. Miss Mary Wakefield, to the deep regret of a wide circle of friends, died on September 16, 1910. Although her strong personality was thus removed, the impress she made still remains and the Festival is carried on in her honour with unabated zeal and usefulness. It is divided into two departments of activity, the competitive (regarded as a means to an end) and the presentation in a complete manner of great works of musical art (the end). Each serves the other. It is not too much to say that the scheme is an ideal one, and is one of the finest object-lessons in the value of the competitive-festival movement when inspired by inflexible, high aims. During the existence of the Festival, a countryside where formerly there was very little music going on has been transformed into one of the musical centres of England. This year's event, the twenty-second of the series, occupied four days, April 16 to 19. The first day was occupied with orchestral and other competitive classes, the second day was for the children, and thirteen villages besides four from the town of Kendal sent in choirs. On the 18th, nine adult choirs, and on the 19th seventeen others, sang in competition during the morning, and in the evening combined to give the concerts which are the special feature of the occasion. The competitive work is dealt with in our Supplement, the Competition Festival Record. We have to do here only with the concerts. The fact that Sir Henry Wood was conductor, and that the Queen's Hall Orchestra was the instrumental force, warranted the highest efficiency. The choral works had been sectionally rehearsed throughout the winter by Mr. Alfred H. Willink, under Sir Henry's direction. We cannot give a detailed description of the performance of the two long programmes; it must suffice to give the names of the chief works and to say that the performances were splendidly adequate:

Choral Ode	'Out of the Silence' (In memory of Miss Wakefield)	Rathbone
Requiem Mass		Mozart
Symphonic-poem	'Death and Transfiguration'	Strauss
Lohengrin's Narration	Mr. Alfred Heather.	Wagner
Overture	'Egmont'	Beethoven
Isolde's Liebestod	'Tristan und Isolde' Miss Carrie Tubb.	Wagner
Lyrische Suite	(Four Numbers)	Grieg
The Captive Queen	(Ballade for Chorus and Orchestra)	Sibelius
Cantata	'God's time is the best'	Bach
Elsa's Dream	'Lohengrin' Miss Ada Forrest.	Wagner
'The Flower Song'	'Carmen' Mr. John Collett.	Bizet
'The Blessed Damozel'	(for Female Voices and Orchestra)	Debussy
Symphony	'From the New World'	Dvorák
Sachs's Monologue, 'Was Duftet doch der Flieder'	Mr. Frederick Ranalow.	Wagner
'Blest Pair of Sirens'		Parry

Mr. Rathbone, who is a product of the Festival, he having been a successful competitor as a boy, displays fine taste and breadth in his composition. The words are by Gordon Bottomley. The work was sung on both nights and made a deep impression. The 'Requiem' and the Bach Cantata were finely presented, and the Queen's Hall Orchestra played admirably. The vocal soloists besides those named above were Miss Phyllis Lett and Miss Sibyl Cropper.

THE BERLIN MUSICAL SEASON.

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

In passing the recent season in review, we must emphasise those events that give Berlin musical life its distinct physiognomy. The dilettante and the favourite are just as characteristic of London as of Berlin or elsewhere, so that we are spared the trouble of mentioning them. Amongst the men that do count, it is remarkable that during the past few years practically the same names represent Berlin's high-water mark of musical culture—Oskar Fried, Busoni, in theatrical matters Max Reinhardt, Siegmund von Hausseger, Strauss; and now Arnold Schönberg claims attention.

Fried gavè his first concert In Memoriam Gustav Mahler. Since Mahler was lost to Europe, and doubly now since his death, it is beginning to dawn upon people that this man was a genius. Like Wagner's, his aspirations are such as will fertilize many generations to come. His second Symphony in C minor, which Fried played on this occasion, is a kind of Hero's Progress. A whole life's struggles, defeats and victories are depicted in it, and at last the trumpets of the Last Judgment are heard, and the work ends with a choral movement after Klopstock's 'Resurrection Ode.' The one composer to whom the gigantic strength and manner of Mahler's expression of the world in music—the infinite delicacy of touch at the other extreme—has a parallel is Beethoven. The latter case was illustrated in the Kindertoten Lieder (wonderfully sung by Messchaert). This is one of Mahler's later works, and it is impossible to give any idea in words of the perfect art with which it is composed. Not a note, not an instrument too many, and the intensity of expression obtained has hardly been surpassed even by Mahler himself.

It was a splendid festival in Mahler's honour, and Fried, who has done so much in Berlin for his friend and master, surpassed himself on this occasion.

The composer Busoni came into his right at another of Fried's concerts. Liszt affords an example of a composer who was also the greatest pianist of his time being refused recognition, and Busoni has met with like injustice. The public, which is indolence itself, applauds the person of the pianist because it is most reachable, and ignoring his musicianship packs his compositions away into the same pigeon-hole. The works chosen on this occasion were the 'Fantasia Contrappuntistica,' the Concerto, and the Berceuse. The idea of the 'Fantasia Contrappuntistica' is a great one. The kernel of the work is Bach's 'Kunst der Fuge,' which he did not live to terminate. In the fragment 'Bach planned four fugues, two of which were left completed, the third only begun.'* Busoni completed this Fugue, and taking the three given themes, along with the principal theme of the 'Kunst der Fuge' and a fifth of his own, built up the astounding contrapuntal climax of the work. The wonderful Chorale and the Variations and Intermezzo which subdivide the work are also by Busoni. Its highest interest however does not lie in the 'completion' of Bach. It is rather that out of this fragment a new and entirely modern work of art has grown. The Concerto is an earlier work, and breathes youth and freshness. It is probably this work in particular that has forced people's attention upon Busoni's compositions, and it is consequently the best known. The movements are worked out with extreme skill, and the choral Finale makes a very effective close. The instrumentation is masterly and the originality in the combination of pianoforte and orchestra is built upon those possibilities of the pianoforte which Busoni himself has developed. In the Berceuse, Busoni's latest work, the composer has attained an ideal directness of expression. Few things in modern music are so poignantly beautiful as the 'Cradle-song' section.

We may also recall here shortly the performances of Gozzi's 'Turandot,' with Busoni's music, at the Deutsches Theatre. Karl Vollmöller had translated the play afresh, and Max Reinhardt was metteur-en-scène. The acting was admirable. As to the music, one is surprised that it is not played oftener.

The last concert was made memorable by the production of Delius's 'Paris.' The more one hears of Delius, the more distinctly the master's hand can be recognised. The great originality and extraordinary subtlety in the 'Stimmführung,' which goes hand in hand with his sense of orchestral colour, are things which call for sincere admiration.

Amongst other concerts must be mentioned first of all Busoni's unforgettable six Liszt recitals. Such events do not pass without leaving a trace on the future, and for lukewarm imaginations this celebration must have decisively enhanced Liszt's fame as a composer. Unfortunately I cannot speak of Siegmund von Hausegger's concerts from personal hearing. In one was a splendid performance of Delius's 'Dance Rhapsody,' and if Bruckner's seventh Symphony was so finely given as the fourth last years, it must have greatly widened the circle of this composer's admirers in Berlin, as the seventh is also the maturer and finer work.

Strauss is always merciless to his 'Abonnenten.' In this season he has given three of the giants amongst modern Symphonies with the Royal Orchestra—the 'Domestica,' Mahler's third and Bruckner's ninth, the last named superbly. And in addition a new choral Symphony by Sigmund von Hausegger, of which the best judges spoke in the very highest terms.

The 'Rosenkavalier' is an enormous success; the performance under Mack's direction is always excellent.

* For the best account of the concert and the work, see Busoni's Selbstregenzien,' in Pan, No. 11.

MR. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S MUSIC TO 'OTHELLO.'

Musicians are much indebted to Sir Herbert Tree for quite a considerable quantity of significant and charming music, resulting from the actor-manager's commissions to composers to write for his sumptuous productions of Shakespearian and romantic plays at His Majesty's Theatre. Prominent among these composers is Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, who provided the incidental music for 'Herod' (1900), 'Ulysses' (1901), 'Nero' (1902) and 'Faust' (1908). To this list is now to be added his score for the production on April 9 at His Majesty's Theatre of Shakespeare's 'Othello.' A distinguishing feature of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's music to all the above-mentioned plays is the melodious character of the principal themes, and this is particularly marked in his latest contribution to the stage. Another peculiarity is that, following Sir Herbert's version of the play, the music accentuates the martial and pathetic elements rather than the sinister and the tragic factors. Thus the prelude is chiefly remarkable for 'pomp and circumstance,' and is so tuneful, well proportioned and cleverly orchestrated that it might be transferred direct to the concert-room with excellent effect. The Entr'acte between the first and second Acts is also of vigorous character. The dance introduced by Sir Herbert in the second Act is illustrated by strong and rhythmic music. Strenuous sentiment marks the opening of the prelude of Act 3, but this is tranquillised by the beautiful melody to which the 'Willow song' is set. The motif associated with Desdemona, one of winsome pathos, provides the chief material for the introduction to the fourth Act, and at the beginning of the third Act is heard a captivating part-song. From the above it will be perceived that there is abundant material for an attractive suite, which should live long after Sir Herbert's production has become historical. It should be added that the music was excellently interpreted, Miss Neilson-Terry's singing of the 'Willow-song' in particular accentuating the affecting character of the final scene.

THE EDWARD MASON CHOIR.

At the concert given by this admirable Choir at the Queen's Hall on March 25, the skilfully-constructed programme consisted entirely of works by living English composers, and, be it noted, was found interesting to a good audience. A novelty was 'Lochinvar' (scene from 'Marmion'), for chorus and orchestra, composed by Haydn Wood. It is a vigorous and lively work, but the intrusiveness of the instrumentation suggested that the composer thinks rather too much in terms of the orchestra. Another first performance was that of 'Sunset at sea,' by Edgar L. Bainton, also for chorus and orchestra. The words are by Reginald R. Buckley, and are very modern in their idiom, at least in so far as they are by no means easy to understand. This difficulty seems to have been shared by the composer, whose cleverness and craftsmanship are, notwithstanding, constantly in evidence. One of the most impressive sections of the programme consisted of three choral and orchestral settings—'Battle Hymn,' 'Hymn to the Unknown God,' 'Funeral Hymn'—from the 'Rig Veda' (first group), by Gustav von Holst. Here the Oriental atmosphere of the music had a novel effect, and much mastery was displayed. Mr. von Holst can command both breadth and beauty. A setting of the well-known folk-song, 'I'm seventeen come Sunday' (to an astonishing, quite uncalled-for version of the words for a mixed-voice choir to sing), by Mr. Percy A. Grainger and Mr. Cecil Forsyth, was a lively item. Other numbers were a 'Birthday Overture,' by Landon Ronald, 'Sappho' songs, by Bantock, 'Sea-pictures,' by Elgar (both sets sung by Miss Phyllis Lett), the unaccompanied choral setting, 'Go, song of mine,' by Elgar (sung well if not very impressively by the choir), the 'Welsh Rhapsody,' by German, and a chorus, 'For Empire and for King,' by Percy E. Fletcher. The choir is well equipped with good tone. It needs more drill, more compact unity, and a deeper expression if it is to attain to a first-rate standard. It may be hoped that the members of the choir will support Mr. Mason, their able conductor, in his desire to reach a high level of execution. The New Symphony Orchestra, led by Mr. John Saunders, supplied the instrumental parts, and Mr. Herbert Hodge was at the organ.

MR. BALFOUR GARDINER'S CONCERTS.

The second and third of Mr. Balfour Gardiner's concerts presented a varied interest. That given on March 27 was mainly orchestral and provided a first hearing, under Mr. Balfour Gardiner's direction, of a new 'Festal Overture' by Mr. Arnold Bax. Without disparagement to its originality this overture can be said to provoke comparisons. A modern Irish Dvorák might have written it. The spirited subject-matter, constant high pressure of inventive detail and contrast of buoyancy and romantic feeling recall, in the best sense, the great Bohemian at his best. At the same concert Elgar's second Symphony was played under the composer's direction. The performance had considerable finesse and expressiveness, but was more remarkable for its vigour. Mr. Percy Grainger played Tchaikovsky's B flat minor Pianoforte concerto brilliantly. The remainder of the programme consisted of the Polovtsian dances from Borodin's 'Prince Igor.'

The large share taken by the Oriana Madrigal Society in the concert of April 19 lent a distinct character to the concert. Their singing of Benet's 'All creatures now are merry-minded' was the best of a series of dignified interpretations of Elizabethan works, the chief merit of which was that their expressiveness had no jarring note of 'point-making.' The more modern examples in their programme consisted of two Psalms by Grieg with baritone solo (Mr. Ernest Groom), Stanford's 'The Witch' and 'Chillingham,' and Mr. Balfour Gardiner's vigorously-conceived and boldly-harmonized part-song, 'The stage coach,' which received its first performance. The orchestral numbers were a joyous Rhapsody by Mr. Frederic Austin, last heard at a Beecham concert some years ago; Mr. Balfour Gardiner's Promenade success, 'Shepherd Fennel's Dance'; Dr. Vaughan Williams's 'Norfolk' Rhapsodies, Nos. 2 and 3, produced at the Cardiff Festival of 1907; and an interesting but not very important piece for string orchestra by Mr. Percy Grainger entitled 'A Mock Morris.' The older works were well worth the re-hearing. The conductors were Mr. Balfour Gardiner, Mr. Austin and Mr. Grainger.

At both concerts the instrumental body was Mr. Landon Ronald's New Symphony Orchestra.

LONDON CHORAL SOCIETY.

This Society still pursues its self-imposed course with determination, and gives a helping hand to works that need and deserve it. The concert given on April 18 brought to London Dr. David Vaughan Thomas's 'The Bard,' the most advanced work by any Welsh composer, which was produced at the Cardiff Festival in September, 1910. The same concert gave a second hearing to Mr. Balfour Gardiner's 'News from Whydah' and Mr. Arnold Bax's 'Festival' Overture, both of which had been produced with success at the Balfour Gardiner concerts. Finally Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan' was performed for the second time by this Society. The soloists of the concert were Miss Leah Felissa, Miss Dilys Jones, Mr. Daniel Beddoe and Mr. David Brazell. Mr. Arthur Fagge conducted, and the accompaniments were played by the New Symphony Orchestra and Mr. C. H. Kempling (organ).

GOOD FRIDAY CONCERTS.

At the Albert Hall the Royal Choral Society gave their annual performance of 'The Messiah,' under the direction of Sir Frederick Bridge. The occasion was made additionally interesting by the fact that Madame Ruth Vincent was the soprano soloist and that the artistic excellence of her singing secured a signal success. Her colleagues were Madame Kirkby Lunn, Mr. Alfred Heather and Mr. Robert Radford. Mr. H. L. Balfour was the organist.

Excerpts from 'Parsifal' were as usual the centre of interest in the concert given in the afternoon by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, at Queen's Hall, under Sir Henry Wood. Madame Kirkby Lunn gave a notable interpretation of Kundry's 'Herzeleide.' The programme included other Wagner music, a 'Brandenburg' string concerto, and Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony. In the evening Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford drew a large audience to a sacred ballad concert, in which Miss Sylvia van Dyck, Mr. Gervase Elwes and Mr. Charles Barré (violinist) also took part.

Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' was given in state at the Crystal Palace in the afternoon by the Crystal Palace Choir, the Crystal Palace Military Band, and the London Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock, with Madame Gleeson-White, Madame Ada Crossley, Mr. Ben Davies and Mr. Robert Radford as soloists.

At the Alexandra Palace a Ballad Concert with eleven artists whiled away the afternoon, and in the evening the Alexandra Palace Choral and Orchestral Society, under Mr. Allen Gill, gave an admirable performance of 'The Messiah.' Mr. G. D. Cunningham was at the organ, and the solo parts were taken by Miss Esta d'Argo, Miss Phyllis Lett, Mr. Webster Millar and Mr. Watkin Mills.

London Concerts.

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA.

Señor Casals made all that is to be made of Dvorák's Violoncello concerto at the Symphony Concert on March 23, and also played the Intermezzo from Lalo's Concerto in G minor. The remainder of a diversified programme consisted of Strauss's 'Don Juan,' Brahms's Variations on a theme by Haydn, Saint-Saëns's Prelude, 'Le Déluge,' Ravel's 'Pavane' and Scheinpflug's 'Overture to a Comedy of Shakespeare.'

The annual Endowment Fund Concert took place on April 14, when both Sir Henry Wood and Mr. Mischa Elman gave their services. The violinist played Beethoven's Concerto and introduced to London a work for violin and orchestra by Max Vogrich entitled 'Memento Mori.' It depicts in vivid but not very significant music the thoughts of a dying Trappist monk in his cell. The remainder of the programme consisted of familiar Wagner excerpts.

Dvorák's Symphony in E flat, which has only recently been published, was played by the Royal Artillery Band, under Mr. E. C. Stretton's direction, at Queen's Hall on March 22. It was written in the early 'seventies, and betrays lack of maturity, although the composer's individuality and nationality impart considerable interest to the greater part of it.

The Royal Amateur Orchestral Society added to their most notable achievements an admirable performance of Tchaikovsky's 'Romeo and Juliet' at Queen's Hall on March 22, under the direction of Mr. Arthur W. Payne. Madame Kirkby Lunn and Mlle. Yvonne Astruc (violinist), added by their talent to the enjoyment of a large audience.

At the orchestral concert for young people which was given by Miss Gwynne Kimpton at Steinway Hall on March 23, Mr. Stewart Macpherson took Brahms as his theme for discussion. The 'Academic Festival Overture' and the two Minuets from the Serenade in D were performed in illustration under Miss Kimpton's direction, and the programme further included the last two movements of Mendelssohn's 'Scotch' Symphony.

A performance of Mozart's 'Requiem' was the most important item of the concert given on March 25 by the University of London Musical Society. The quartets were admirably sung by the Frau Musika Quartet. The programme also included Elizabethan madrigals, three vocal quartets with pianoforte accompaniment by R. H. Walthew, and Stanford's 'Phaudrig Crohoore.' Mr. R. H. Walthew conducted.

A cleverly-written light overture, entitled 'Ode to St. Cecilia,' by Mr. R. H. Walthew, was produced under the composer's conductorship by the North London Orchestral Society at Queen's Hall on April 1. The remainder of an enterprising programme, carried out under the direction of the Society's conductor, Mr. Lennox Clayton, included Brahms's C minor Symphony. Mr. Gerald Walenn played Saint-Saëns's B minor Violin concerto. Miss Lilian Stiles-Allen was the vocalist.

The Stock Exchange Orchestral and Choral Society gave their concert at Queen's Hall on April 16, under the direction of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor (orchestral) and Mr. Munro Davison (choral). The most interesting and important feature was an excellent performance of Dvorák's picturesque fourth Symphony. Madame Ruth Vincent was the vocalist of the occasion.

CHAMBER CONCERTS.

The three Misses Eyre played Beethoven's D major Pianoforte trio and sang a number of vocal trios at Æolian Hall on March 21, the occasion being a Broadwood Concert. Mr. Paul Reimers added lieder to the programme.

Glière's picturesque Quartet in G minor was well played by the Wesseley Quartet at Bechstein Hall on March 23. The string players were joined by Mr. E. Howard-Jones in an exhilarating performance of Brahms's F minor Quintet.

Mr. Joseph Holbrooke's concert at Steinway Hall on March 25 was a banquet of wind-instrument music, a form of musical fare of which the appetite soon languishes. However, variety (and at the same time great length) was imparted to the programme by Mr. B. J. Dale's Viola and Pianoforte fantasia, and songs sung by Miss Joan Ashley. Mr. Holbrooke's works were represented by his Miniature Quintet for flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon and horn, which we described in our issue for April, 1910; his Sextet for the same instruments with pianoforte; an Adagio and Rondo for clarinet and pianoforte; and a Nocturne, 'Fairyland,' for viola, clarinet and pianoforte. The length of the list leaves no space for criticism, except to say that Mr. Holbrooke's music was never unoriginal or dull. The concert came to an end with a Serenade by Jadassohn for ten wind instruments.

At the 'Twelve o'Clock' concert given at Æolian Hall on March 28, Mr. A. E. Sammons and Mr. T. W. Petre, accompanied by eight string players from the Beecham Symphony Orchestra, directed by Mr. Thomas Beecham, played Bach's double Concerto for two violins.

The Parisian Quartet were heard at Bechstein Hall on March 29, under the auspices of the Société des Concerts Français, and gave highly-refined readings of César Franck's Quartet and one by J. B. Ganaye. The vocal programme given by Mlle. Germaine Sanderson de Crowe consisted of an interesting selection of songs by Chausson and Alexis de Castillon, both pupils of Franck.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

Mr. David Levine, who gave his first recital at Æolian Hall on March 20, should do good work in the future. Acquaintance was renewed with the known capabilities of Miss Winifred Christie (Bechstein Hall) on March 21, Miss Susanne Morvay (Æolian Hall) on March 26, Mr. Herbert Fryer (Æolian Hall) on March 28, Mr. Norman Wilks (Bechstein Hall) and Mr. Alexander Roab (Æolian Hall) on March 30. Music for two pianofortes was played by the Misses Sutro at Steinway Hall on March 29.

Four of M. Godowsky's pupils at the Vienna Imperial Academy—Miss Becky Davison, Miss Antonie Geiger, Mr. Theo Henrion, and M. Jaques Rischensky—played concertos at Queen's Hall on March 25, accompanied by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, under Mr. Percy Pitt's guidance.

Herr Max Pauer, a pianist of outstanding capacity, gave recitals at Bechstein Hall on April 13 and 20.

Miss Winifred Purnell, a young pianist from Australia, showed high ability at Bechstein Hall on April 16.

VOCAL RECITALS.

The recital of German and French songs given by Madame Julia Culp at Bechstein Hall on March 25 gave one of the opportunities we too rarely get in London of enjoying the unsurpassed beauty and significance of her lieder singing.

Mr. Albert Dudley, a young baritone, made a successful début at the house of Mrs. Rivière, Portland Place, on March 26.

Recitals were given by Miss Victoria Millbank at Steinway Hall and Mr. Gordon Granville at Æolian Hall on March 26, and by Miss Gertrude Lonsdale at Æolian Hall on March 27.

Mr. Theodore Byard gave a characteristically varied and interesting recital at Bechstein Hall on March 28.

An interesting first appearance was that of Miss Daker-Fletcher at Bechstein Hall on April 15. She sang with refinement and versatility.

OTHER RECITALS AND CONCERTS.

The ninth and tenth Classical concerts, which were given at Bechstein Hall on March 20 and 27, were again made memorable by the violoncello playing of Señor Casals, who played Beethoven's F major Sonata and Bach's Suite No. 4 in E flat, with the full eloquence of his tone and all the finesse of a violinist. He seems not to be subject to moods of varying vitality, as his playing always fulfils the ideal of expressiveness and technical completeness. His colleagues at these two concerts were Miss Elly Ney and Mr. Donald Francis Tovey (pianists).

Mr. Franz von Vecsey's virtuosity triumphed over the difficulties of Sibelius's D minor Violin concerto at Bechstein Hall on March 21, and he gave an exhilarating interpretation, assisted at the pianoforte by Mr. Richard Epstein.

Miss Winifred Smith (violinist) and Mr. Charlesworth Fawcett (clarinettist) assisted Miss Mathilde Verne to carry out an interesting programme at the 'Twelve o'Clock' concert given on March 21.

Mr. Alfred Hobday (viola) and Mrs. Hobday (pianist) played the chief part in a pleasant concert given at the Broadwood Rooms on March 22. The programme included a Sonata by Milandre for viole d'amour.

Herr Ferencz Hegedus, who had not been heard in London for three years, gave an interesting violin recital at Bechstein Hall on March 22.

Mr. Percy Grainger and Dr. Henschel displayed their striking individuality at a Broadwood Concert given at Æolian Hall on March 28.

A concert of her own compositions given by Miss E. A. Chamberlayne at Æolian Hall on March 29 revealed the ease and refinement, rather than the inspiration or technical merit, of her style.

Mr. Fraser Gange (vocalist) and Don Luiz Figuéras (violoncellist) gave an attractive joint recital at Steinway Hall on April 2.

At Æolian Hall, on April 16, Señor José Gomez (violinist) and Mr. Lorne Wallet (vocalist) were heard in an exacting programme.

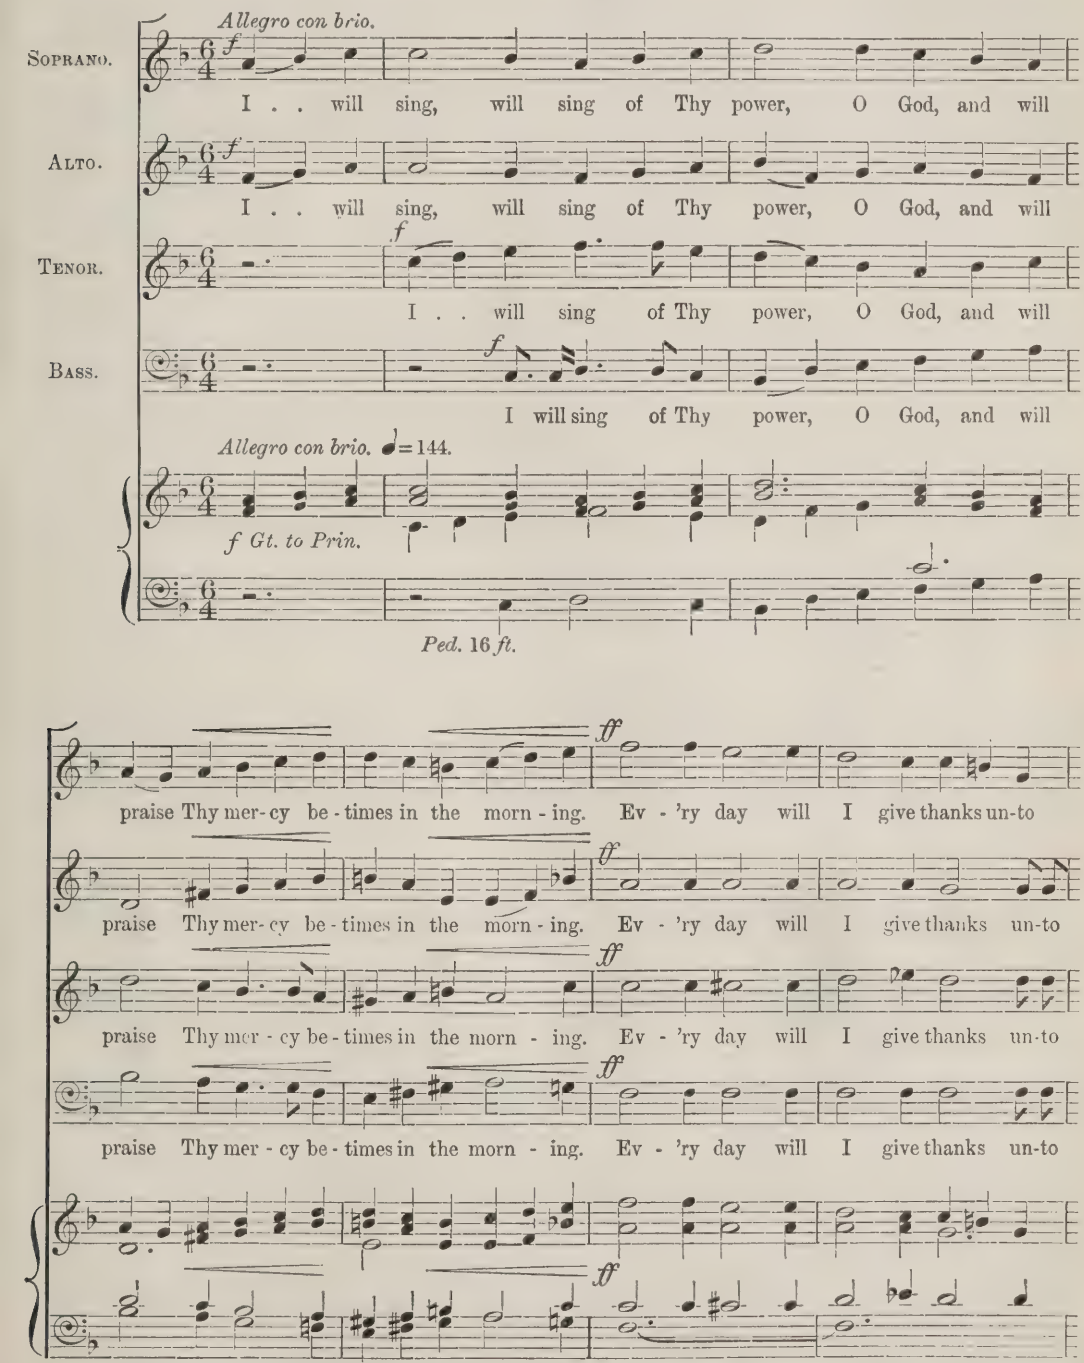
I will sing of Thy power, O God.

FULL ANTHEM FOR FESTIVAL OR GENERAL USE.

Psalms lix. 16, 17 ; cxlv. 2.

Composed by OLIVER KING.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.



Allegro con brio.
SOPRANO.
ALTO.
TENOR.
BASS.
I . . will sing, will sing of Thy power, O God, and will
I . . will sing, will sing of Thy power, O God, and will
I . . will sing of Thy power, O God, and will
I will sing of Thy power, O God, and will Allegro con brio. ♩=144.
f Gt. to Prin.
Ped. 16 ft.
praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn-ing. Ev-'ry day will I give thanks un-to praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn-ing. Ev-'ry day will I give thanks un-to praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn-ing. Ev-'ry day will I give thanks un-to praise Thy mer-cy be-times in the morn-ing. Ev-'ry day will I give thanks un-to Copyright, 1912, by Novello and Company, Limited.

Thee, and praise Thy ho - ly Name, Thy ho - ly Name . . for ev - er and Thee, and praise Thy ho - ly Name, Thy ho - ly Name . . for ev - er and Thee, and praise Thy ho - ly Name, Thy ho - ly Name . . for ev - er and Thee, and praise Thy ho - ly Name, Thy ho - ly Name . . for ev - - - -
mf ev - er. For Thou . . . hast been my . . de - fence . . . and
mf ev - er. My de - fence . . . and ev - er.
er. . . .
Harmonic Flute 8 ft.
mf Sw.
ref - uge,
ref - uge, Thou hast been . . my de - fence . . and . .
mf
For Thou . . . hast been . . my de - fence . . and . .

ref - uge,
ref - uge,
mf
My de - fence . . . . in the day of my
mf for Thou hast been . . my de - fence . . . and
mf for Thou hast been my de - fence and
mf
for Thou hast been my de - fence and trou - ble, for Thou hast been my de - ref - uge in the day, - - the day of my ref - - - uge in the day, the day of my ref - uge in the day, the day of my
- fence and ref - uge in the day of my trou - ble, I . . will sing, will sing of Thy power, O God, and will praise Thy mer-cy be - trou - ble, I will sing, will sing of Thy power, O God, and will praise Thy mer-cy be - trou - ble, I . . will sing, will sing of Thy power, O God, and will praise Thy mer - cy be - trou - ble, I will sing, will sing of Thy power, O God, and will praise Thy mer - cy be - Gt.

- times in the morning, for Thou hast been my de - fence and ref - uge, I will sing of Thy
- times in the morning, for Thou hast been my de - fence and ref - uge, I . . will sing, will
- times in the morning, for Thou hast been my de - fence and ref - uge, I will sing, will
- times in the morning, for Thou hast been my de - fence and ref - uge, I . . will sing, will power I will sing of Thy power, . . . for Thou . . hast sing of Thy power, . . . I will sing, will sing of Thy power, for Thou hast sing of the power, . . I . . . . will sing of Thy power, for Thou hast . .
sing of Thy power, . . I will sing, will sing of Thy power, for Thou hast been my .. de - fence and ref - - uge in the day of my been my de - fence . . and ref - uge in the day of my been my de - fence . . and ref - - uge in the day of my been my de - fence and ref - - uge in the day of my trou - - ble. Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to trou - - ble. Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to trou - - ble. Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to trou - - ble. Un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un - to ff marcato.

Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, Thou art my mer - ci - ful God, un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to mer - ci - ful God, un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to mer - ci - ful God, un - to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, un-to mer - ci - ful God, un - to Thee, O my strength will I sing, un-to Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my Thee, O my strength, will I sing, for Thou, O God, art my accel.

ref - - - - - - - uge, Thou art my ref - - - uge, Thou . .
accel.
ref - - - - - uge, Thou art, Thou . .
accel.
ref - - - - - - - uge, Thou art my ref - uge, Thou
accel.
ref - - - - - - - uge, Thou . . . . art . .
accel.

Più mosso.
. . art my ref - uge, and my mer - ci - ful God.
art . . my ref - uge, and my mer - ci - ful God.
art . . my ref - uge, and my mer - ci - ful God.
art my ref - uge, and my mer - ci - ful God. A - - - Più mosso.
Full Organ.
A - - - - - - - - men, A - - - - - - -
A - - - - - - - - men, A - - - - - - -
A - - - - - - - - men, A - - - - - - -
- men, A - - - men, A - - - - L.H.
- men. . . . . .
- men. . . . . .
- men. . . . . .
- men. . . . . .
Sw.
Gt.

Suburban Concerts.

The complete Trilogy of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from the song of Hiawatha' was performed on March 21, at the Baths, by the Barking Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. Stanley C. Attwood. The choir and orchestra of 120 fulfilled their task with highly creditable efficiency and expressive meaning. Solo parts were undertaken by Miss Edith Hays, Mr. A. Webster and Mr. D. S. Richards.

The concert given by the Dulwich Philharmonic Society at the Crystal Palace on March 23 was of exceptional interest. The chief work performed was Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' which the choir sang with an easy precision that indicated the efficiency of their training at the hands of Mr. Julius Harrison. The male and female sections of the choir were heard separately in Elgar's 'Songs from the Greek Anthology' for men's voices, and Mr. Harrison's 'Rosalys' for soprano ladies' voices and orchestra. This work, which was performed for the first time, is an expressive musical interpretation of a somewhat fantastic sentiment expressed in verse by Mr. Gerald Cumberland, and is remarkable for masterly orchestral coloration. The soloists of the concert were Miss Clara Butterworth, Miss Amy Bosworth, Mr. Harold Wilde and Mr. Robert Chignell.

An exacting, varied, and highly agreeable choral programme was chosen for the concert given by the South London Institute of Music at Surrey Masonic Hall on March 25. It consisted of Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan,' Stanford's 'The Revenge,' and Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night,' which the choir sang with spirited expression and consistently good tone, under the able direction of Mr. L. C. Venables. The solo parts were taken by Miss Maude Willby, Miss Marion Battishill, Mr. Ben Morgan and Mr. Graham Smart. The orchestra, besides playing accompaniments, contributed three numbers from Moszkowski's suite 'From foreign parts.'

The Great Western Railway Musical Society brought their season to a close with an admirable performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan' and a selection of orchestral and vocal music on March 26, at Paddington Station, under the able direction of Mr. Henry A. Hughes. The solos were sung by Miss Dorothy Cook-Smith, Miss Ethel Archer, Mr. Philip Ritte, and Mr. Joseph E. Farrington. Mr. Reginald Hughes was the pianist.

Notable performances of Brahms's 'German Requiem' and 'Tragic' Overture, and Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise,' were given by the Ealing Choral and Orchestral Society on March 27, under the able direction of Mr. Albert Thompson. The solo parts were taken by Miss Carrie Tubb, Miss M. Allwright, Mr. Frank Mullings and Mr. Constantine Morris, and the organist was Mr. H. Goss Custard.

The Chiswick and Gunnersbury Philharmonic Society gave a highly-effective performance of Gounod's 'The Redemption' on March 29 at Chiswick Town Hall. The choir numbered upwards of 150 voices and sang with great expression and good volume of tone. The clear enunciation of this choir has often been strongly commended, and in this performance it was again apparent. The orchestra, always a complete one for this Society's concerts, was specially increased to sixty-five performers. The conductor was Mr. David M. Davis, to whom the great success achieved is primarily due. The soloists were Miss Mary Fielding, Miss Daisy Collins, Mr. Ager Grover, Miss Nellie Cooper, and Messrs. Jackson Potter and Henry Piggott. Mr. A. J. Piper was the organist.

The Golders Green Garden Suburb Orchestral Society gave the second concert of the season at the Institute on April 13. A large audience assembled to hear a somewhat ambitious programme, to which the orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Edric Greiffenhagen, did considerable justice. It included Weber's Overture to 'Freischütz,' Beethoven's Symphony No. 1, and Mendelssohn's G minor Pianoforte concerto, the solo part of which was played by Miss Ivy Parkin. Songs were contributed by Miss Evelyne King.

The tenth musical festival of the Hackney and Finsbury Evening Schools Choral Union, which took place at the Alexandra Palace on March 30, under Mr. Allen Gill's direction, is reported in the School Music Review for May.

Music in the Provinces.

(BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

BELFAST.

The season of the Philharmonic Society ended on March 22 with a miscellaneous programme, the first half of which was entirely occupied by the Finale of the first Act of Wagner's 'Parsifal.' The solo parts were sung by Mr. Daniel Beddoe and Mr. Thorpe Bates, with whom was associated Mr. J. Frankland (a member of the Society). The choir performed their difficult part with much ability and steadiness.

The second half was filled by songs by the artists named and Miss Raymonde Amy, and the orchestra gained credit for several items. The concert concluded with excerpts from 'Tannhäuser.'

After the concert a most remarkable and entirely spontaneous outburst of feeling was shown by the choir and orchestra by way of farewell to their conductor, Dr. F. Koeller, who has brought the Society to its present state by the patient and skilful training of twenty-five years. The best wishes of the Society and all his friends accompany Dr. Koeller to Australia, where he intends to make his future home.

BIRMINGHAM.

The local musical season is nearly ended, and already steps are taken towards securing sufficient choral rehearsals in connection with the Triennial Musical Festival to be held on October 1, 2, 3 and 4, the first rehearsal having taken place at the Midland Institute on April 15. There will be in all sixty-six rehearsals, the chorus-master being Mr. R. H. Wilson, of Manchester, and the choral steward Mr. E. P. Beale, in place of Mr. H. A. Wiggin.

The newly-formed Birmingham Madrigal Singers held their first concert at Queen's College on March 26, under the direction of Miss Winifred Kingsford, the Society's trainer and conductor, assisted by the clever pianist Miss Kathleen Bruckshaw. The choir numbers at present thirty-seven mixed voices of an exceptionally fine timbre, and in due time their number will undoubtedly be augmented. The selection of madrigals and part-songs submitted to the large audience present covered a wide range, including examples from Orlando Gibbons, Palestrina, Schumann, Elgar, Bantock, Jensen, Wareing, Coleridge-Taylor, Cliffe and Forrester, and a melody by G. Hookham, arranged as a part-song by Miss Kingsford. The singing denoted careful training, sense of rhythm, and artistic gradation of light and shade.

The Birmingham Festival Choral Society's last concert of the current series was given in the Town Hall on March 28, under Dr. Sinclair's excellent conductorship, the work chosen for performance being Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' last performed by this Society in October, 1905. The hall was crowded to overflowing, and those present were rewarded by hearing a performance on lines of Festival grandeur, the singing of the choir being quite remarkable in perfect ensemble, tone-power and declamatory nuances. The principals, Mesdames Mary Conly and Ada Crossley, and Messrs. John Adams and Thorpe Bates, did their share of the work admirably, evidently being inspired by the singing of the choristers. The part of the Youth was allotted to Master B. A. Watt, and the organ part to Mr. C. W. Perkins.

The Free Church Musicians' Union inaugurated their annual meetings on April 9 by holding a reception at the Y.M.C.A. building. The visitors, who came from all parts of the country, were welcomed to Birmingham by a deputation of Free Church ministers and local musicians. Mr. J. Marriott, President of the Birmingham and District Evangelical Free Church Council, said, in the name of the Free Churches of Birmingham, representing 144 congregations, how pleased they were to welcome the Conference. Dr. Henry Coward, of Sheffield, President of the Union, recalled with pleasure his previous visits to this city as music critic and conductor, and expressed his hope that the Conference would have beneficial results.

The customary Good Friday Concert was again provided by the Midland Musical Society on April 5, the Town Hall being crowded to its utmost seating capacity. Mr. A. J. Cotton, the conductor, for once discarded Gounod's 'Redemption,' which has been given almost every year since the oratorio was first heard at the Birmingham Festival of 1882, and in its place came Brahms's 'Requiem' and Bach's church cantata, 'Sleepers, wake,' in addition to Elgar's melodious instrumental interlude, 'Sursum Corda,' finely played by the orchestra. In spite of the ambitious nature of this effort on the part of an amateur Society, the performance far exceeded one's expectation—indeed, Mr. Cotton and his rank and file never did better work. Mr. C. W. Perkins was the organist.

Mr. Thomas Facer, the founder, trainer and conductor of the Birmingham Choral Union, who retires after twenty-five years' service, was entertained at dinner by the committee and his colleagues on March 30. His successor, Mr. Richard Wassall, was one of the invited guests, and the chair was occupied by the president, Mr. P. H. Deacon.

BOURNEMOUTH.

Mr. Dan Godfrey has seen to it that the interest of the current musical season shall be sustained to the finish, and in illustration of this it is sufficient merely to glance at the programmes of the recent Symphony concerts. A notable date, for instance, was March 21, when Mr. Granville Bantock conducted performances of two of his compositions, the lovely 'Dante and Beatrice' tone-poem exceeding all anticipations. Then we have had Symphonies by Goldmark (in E flat), Brahms (in C minor), Tchaikovsky (the 'Pathetic'), Elgar (No. 2), and that ascribed to Beethoven and entitled the 'Jena.' Among the soloists brought to our notice, with the works they played, have been Miss Lena Kontorwitch (Mendelssohn's Violin concerto), Miss Phyllis Emanuel (Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte concerto in C minor), Miss Grace Triggs (Violin concerto by D'Ambrosio), Miss Marie Novello (Liszt's 'Hungarian Fantasie' for pianoforte and orchestra), and Mr. Arnold Trowell (Violoncello concerto in A minor by Saint-Saëns). Excellent performances of the following interesting compositions must not be overlooked: Weber's 'Oberon' Overture, 'Three Celtic Dances,' by Edgar Bainton (conducted by the composer), Morceau Symphonique, from César Franck's 'Redemption,' Prelude and Angel's Farewell ('The dream of Gerontius') by Elgar, Glazounow's 'Chopiniana' Suite, and Goldmark's 'Sakuntala' Overture.

Other events at the Winter Gardens have included the fulfilling of engagements by Godowsky, Pablo Casals (orchestral concert), Miss Marie Hall (orchestral concert), and Madame Alice Esty. Nor must reference be omitted of the well-earned Benefit Concerts of the Municipal Orchestra, on March 30, which brought welcome visitors in the persons of Miss Esta D'Argo, Mr. Philip Simmons, and Mr. Peter Dawson.

The Poole and Parkstone Philharmonic Society gave a performance of Handel's 'Messiah' on March 27 at the Gymnasium, the soloists being Madame Hilda Sands, Miss Hazel Gray, Mr. George Sands, and Mr. A. R. Mutter. Mr. A. E. Wilshire is the Society's conductor.

A development in the policy of the management of the Westover Palace, primarily a skating rink, was the important concert given on April 13. The chief attraction was the appearance of Miss Felice Lyne and Mr. Orville Harrold, and if the vocalism of the former was not quite so electrifying as the London critics would have us believe, the balance was more than restored by the phenomenal singing of Mr. Harrold. A word of praise must be bestowed on Mr. Adolph Mann's solo-playing and accompanying.

BRISTOL.

The most recently formed musical association in Bristol, the Cecilian Choral Society, gave their first concert at the Victoria Rooms on March 23, when there was a large attendance. This new Society is composed of employees of Messrs. J. S. Fry & Sons, Ltd., who rehearsed under the direction of Mr. Charles Read, conductor of the West Bristol Choral Society, and a member of the firm's staff. Band and choir numbered 200. Appropriately the preliminary work performed was 'St. Cecilia,' by Benedict, the second part of the concert being devoted to Hamish MacCunn's 'Lay of the last Minstrel.' The principal vocalists were Madame Alice Boaden, Miss Marion Neale, Mr. R. Hoare Byers, and Mr. Graham Smart. The performance was highly creditable, and the audience gave frequent tokens of gratification.

On March 30, the second concert of the season given by the Bristol Musical Society was held at the Victoria Rooms, and there was a performance of Sullivan's 'The Golden Legend.' The musical forces numbered 300, Mr. Hubert W. Hunt (organist of Bristol Cathedral) being at the organ, and Mr. F. S. Gardner heading the principal violins. The soloists were Miss Winifred Thomas, Miss Joan Ashley, Mr. Alexander Webster, Mr. Charles Tree and Mr. James York. Mr. C. W. Stear conducted with his accustomed judgment, and the manner in which the work was presented reflected credit upon all concerned. A miscellaneous selection followed.

The Bristol Branch of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants gave their annual concert at Colston Hall on April 5, and there was a crowded audience. The Bristol and Clifton Orchestral Society played agreeably, the leader being Mr. Charles Lovell and the conductor Mr. Edward Pavey, whose daughter, Miss Nellie Pavey, was solo violoncellist in a concerto by Golterman. Miss Carrie Lanceley, Miss Lucy Nuttall, and Mr. Anderson Nicol were the vocalists, and Miss Daisy Randall was the accompanist. That the concert afforded gratification was evinced by the enthusiastic manner in which most of the pieces were received.

On April 17 the West Bristol Choral Society performed 'Judas Maccabæus' at the Victoria Rooms, band and choir numbering 150. Mr. Charles Read was the conductor. The principal vocalists were Madame Alice Boaden, Miss Marion Neale, Mr. D. Appleyard (Wells Cathedral), and Mr. Herbert Tracey. A creditable performance was given, and considering the comparatively limited number of singers, the choruses were effective.

The series of four chamber concerts organized by Mr. Hubert Hunt and given by him during the past season at Victoria Rooms, Clifton, has been a consistent artistic success and has moreover paid its way. The regular performers were Mr. Hunt and Miss K. Tudor Pole (violin), Miss Gladys Home (viola), and Mr. Roger Bucknall, replaced during indisposition by Mr. Percy Lewis (violoncello). They were joined from time to time by pianists. The programmes, which were almost entirely classical, were of unbroken merit. Mr. Hunt deserves congratulation upon the gratifying result of his venture.

DEVON AND CORNWALL.

THE THREE TOWNS.

Chief among musical commemorations and celebrations of Good Friday and Easter were two performances of 'The Redemption' on March 30 by the Guildhall Choir, with orchestra conducted by Mr. H. Moreton, borough organist. The chorus-singing was artistic and technically good. The principals were the Misses Emily Breare and Emily Sutton, and Messrs. Hughes Macklin, Graham Smart and Bridge Peters. Mr. Maurice Alexander led a good band.

Members of the Western Amateur Operatic Society gave a miscellaneous concert from their répertoire at Plymouth on March 25, Mr. E. Astbury conducting. On April 3 'The Hymn of Praise' was excellently sung by an augmented choir with band in Ebenezer Wesleyan Church, under the direction of Mr. David Parkes, good performances being given also of 'God is a Spirit' (Bennett) and Beethoven's 'Hallelujah' Chorus. Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer,' and 'Come, let us sing' were given with artistic success on April 17 by the choir of Mutley Baptist Church, Mr. Harold Lake conducting the choir and a small band. The principals were Madame Lillian Langdon and Mr. Aldrovand Maynard. The cantata, 'Sir Francis Drake,' was given by St. Gabriel's Junior Choir on April 17, with Mr. L. A. Dobson as accompanist.

The penultimate concert of the present series of Mr. J. W. Newton's Symphony Concerts on April 11, at Stonehouse, was the occasion of a pleasurable performance of Schumann's first Symphony, Op. 38, and of a fine interpretation of the Böellmann 'Variations Symphoniques' for violoncello and orchestra, with Mr. C. G. Pike as soloist. Beethoven's overture, 'King Stephen,' and some Massenet music were included.

OTHER DEVONSHIRE TOWNS.

The South-Western section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians' meeting at Tavistock on March 30, under the chairmanship of Mr. W. Clotworthy, discussed methods for increasing the interest of the sectional meetings.

On April 10 Ermington Church choir sang the cantata 'The Village Blacksmith' (Moyse), and Chagford Musical Society, on the same date, gave good performances of 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast' and Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night,' conducted by Mr. R. Percy Collings. Mr. F. J. Pinn, conductor of the Exeter Male-Voice Choir, realised some good results of his training at the annual concert on April 11, when a varied programme of pieces by Goss, Sullivan, Cruickshank, Girschner, Bridge, Mackenzie, Lloyd and Cooke was crowned by a good performance of Mendelssohn's 'Festgesang.' Dr. H. J. Edwards, conductor of the Barnstaple Musical Society, received honour on April 15 by a second performance (the former was in 1886) of his oratorio 'The Ascension,' when choir and band evidenced their high regard for the work and its composer by giving of their very best. The Misses Christine Bywater and May Peters, and Messrs. H. Turnpenney and J. M. Northcote were the principals, and Mr. P. Parish led the band. 'Melusine,' MacCunn's delightful cantata, was creditably performed on April 16 by the Plympton Choral Society, conducted by Mr. David Parkes. On the same date Ilfracombe Choral Society made a new start after several years' suspension, and gave a good performance of Gade's 'Psyche,' under the baton of Mr. A. W. S. Salter, the soloists being Miss Copner, Mrs. Dew, Mr. J. M. Northcote, Mr. C. G. Pike (violoncello), and Miss Hilda Pugsley (leader of the band). April 17 was a big day for the Exeter Oratorio Society, with which is incorporated the Western Counties Musical Association. The works comprising the Festival were Hamish MacCunn's 'Lord Ullin's Daughter' and overture 'The land of the mountain and the flood,' Smart's 'The Bride of Dunkerron,' and Haydn's 'The Creation.' The first three works were conducted by Dr. D. J. Wood, and the oratorio in the evening by Dr. H. J. Edwards. The work of both conductors was honorary. Mr. Allan Allen has trained the choir as hon. chorus-master. Band and singers numbered 350, and the choir showed advance in refinement, as well as volume of tone and general intelligence, though in attack and enunciation they were somewhat deficient. The principals were Miss Doris Carter and Messrs. H. Turnpenney and W. Douthitt.

At their eighteenth concert on April 11, at Torquay, the Haydn String Quartet played Mendelssohn's Quartet in E flat (Op. 12) and Mozart's in G, No. 14. Miss Vera Watkins gave a vocal recital at Exeter on April 12; and on April 19 Miss Morwenna Trefusis, at her pianoforte recital in the same city, gave further evidence of her artistic qualities and technical attainments.

St. Mary's Church organ was re-opened after reconstruction and enlargement by Hele & Co. with two organ recitals by Mr. H. Moreton (Plymouth). Miscellaneous events have included a concert at Elburton on March 23, when quartets were sung by the Misses Moore and Shillabeer and Messrs. Lawry and Read; and a concert in aid of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, at Torquay, arranged by Miss Middleton on April 10.

A new fantastic opera by Mr. de Blois Rowe was produced at Tavistock on April 10 and 11. The name of the piece, 'Dido,' is that of the heroine of a slight libretto written by D. G. Arkell and De Blois Rowe. The opera needs revision, especially as regards the orchestration. The subject matter of the music is too good to be lost, and it is cleverly worked and treated, and many ingenious effects are suggested. The operetta 'The Court Card' was creditably given at Broadhempston on April 11 by the junior choir.

CORNWALL.

Camborne Methodist Church choir sang 'Saviour of Men' on March 24, conducted by Mr. W. Clemo. Paignton Choral Society gave good performances on March 27 of Schubert's 'Song of Miriam' and Bach's 'God so loved the world,' the ladies also singing Max Bruch's 'Die flucht nach Egypten' with Miss Margaret Layton as soloist. Mr. Wilfrid Layton conducted, and an efficient orchestra participated; Beethoven's 'Prometheus' overture was also in the programme. On April 7, Gunnislake Male-Voice Choir were conducted in the singing of several choruses by Rev. W. Bickford, and on the same date Ferris Tozer's 'The Way of the Cross' was sung by Kenwyn Church Choir, under Mr. A. W. Gill; and 'The Elder Brother' was sung at Rosendian, Miss Annie James being at the organ. Mullion Choral Society sang miscellaneous pieces on April 8, under the direction of Mrs. Odgers and Miss M. Davies. Marazion Ladies' Choir, at their annual concert on April 10, sang Smart's 'King René's daughter,' and concerted numbers, Mr. A. H. Thorne conducting.

DUBLIN.

On March 21 a performance was given of 'The Messiah' by the Philharmonic Society, under Dr. Charles Marchant. The soloists were Miss Agnes Treacy, Miss Alicia Keogh, Mr. Robert Harrison and Mr. Percy Whitehead.

The Dowse Quartet, consisting of the Misses Marie, Bertha, Hilda, and Lilian Dowse, gave a recital on March 22 in the Aberdeen Hall. The programme included quartets by Mozart and Beethoven, and Saint-Saëns's Sextet with pianoforte and double-bass, in which the string quartet were joined by Miss Annie Lord and Miss Lily Simpson. Mr. W. Egbert Trimble, a Feis Ceoil gold medallist, was the vocalist, and Miss Madeleine Moore the accompanist.

On April 1 the Dublin Orchestral Society gave an evening concert in the Gaiety Theatre. The programme, conducted by Dr. Esposito, consisted of Wagner's 'Faust' Overture and 'Tristan' Vorspiel, Beethoven's C minor Symphony, Elgar's funeral march, 'Grania and Diarmid,' and Dukas's 'L'apprenti sorcier.' Their Excellencies The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and the Countess of Aberdeen were present.

On April 2 the Dublin Oratorio Society, under Mr. Vincent O'Brien, gave a performance of 'The dream of Gerontius' at the Theatre Royal. The soloists were Miss Alice Lakin, Mr. Hay and Mr. Wilfrid Douthitt. Much regret was expressed at the absence through indisposition of Mr. Gervase Elwes.

The usual performances of Bach's 'Passion' were given in St. Patrick's Cathedral on the first four evenings of Holy Week, Mr. Walter Bapty once again taking the tenor solos.

On April 17, Mr. Percy Whitehead gave a song recital at the Aberdeen Hall. His programme included songs by Brahms, Schumann, Stanford, Vaughan-Williams, and traditional airs arranged by Somerville, Hamilton Harty and Herbert Hughes. Mr. Whitehead was assisted by Mr. Sydney Rosenbloom (solo pianist) and Mr. C. W. Wilson (accompanist).

EDINBURGH.

Miss Jessie Davidson, a promising young pianist, who is a pupil of Madame Carreño, assisted by Miss Agnes Copeland (violinist) and Miss Edith Leitch (contralto), gave a well-attended concert in the Oak Hall on March 21.

The third concert of the Amateur Orchestral Society's present series was held in the Music Hall on March 25. Under Mr. T. H. Collinson's able direction praiseworthy performances were given of Mendelssohn's 'Melusina' Overture, Haydn's 'Oxford' Symphony, and pieces by Elgar, Thomé, Moszkowski, Dvorák, and Rossini. The soloist was Miss Wilfreyda Jamieson. The first concert of Mr. Little's choir took place on March 25; the programme included madrigals and part-songs.

In conjunction with the St. George Orchestra the Western Choral Society, conducted by Mr. W. B. Moonie, gave its eleventh annual concert in the Music Hall on March 27. Goring Thomas's 'The sun worshippers' and MacCunn's 'The wreck of the Hesperus,' were the works performed, and in these the choir gave evidence of careful training. Miss Marie Thomson and Mr. W. H. Oldham were the soloists. Mr. Paterson Lamb was the accompanist.

The pupils of the advanced class of the Choral Union gave their twenty-third annual concert to a crowded audience in

The Musical Times. EXTRA SUPPLEMENT. May 1, 1912.

No. 125. NOVELLO'S SHORT ANTHEMS. Price 2*d.*

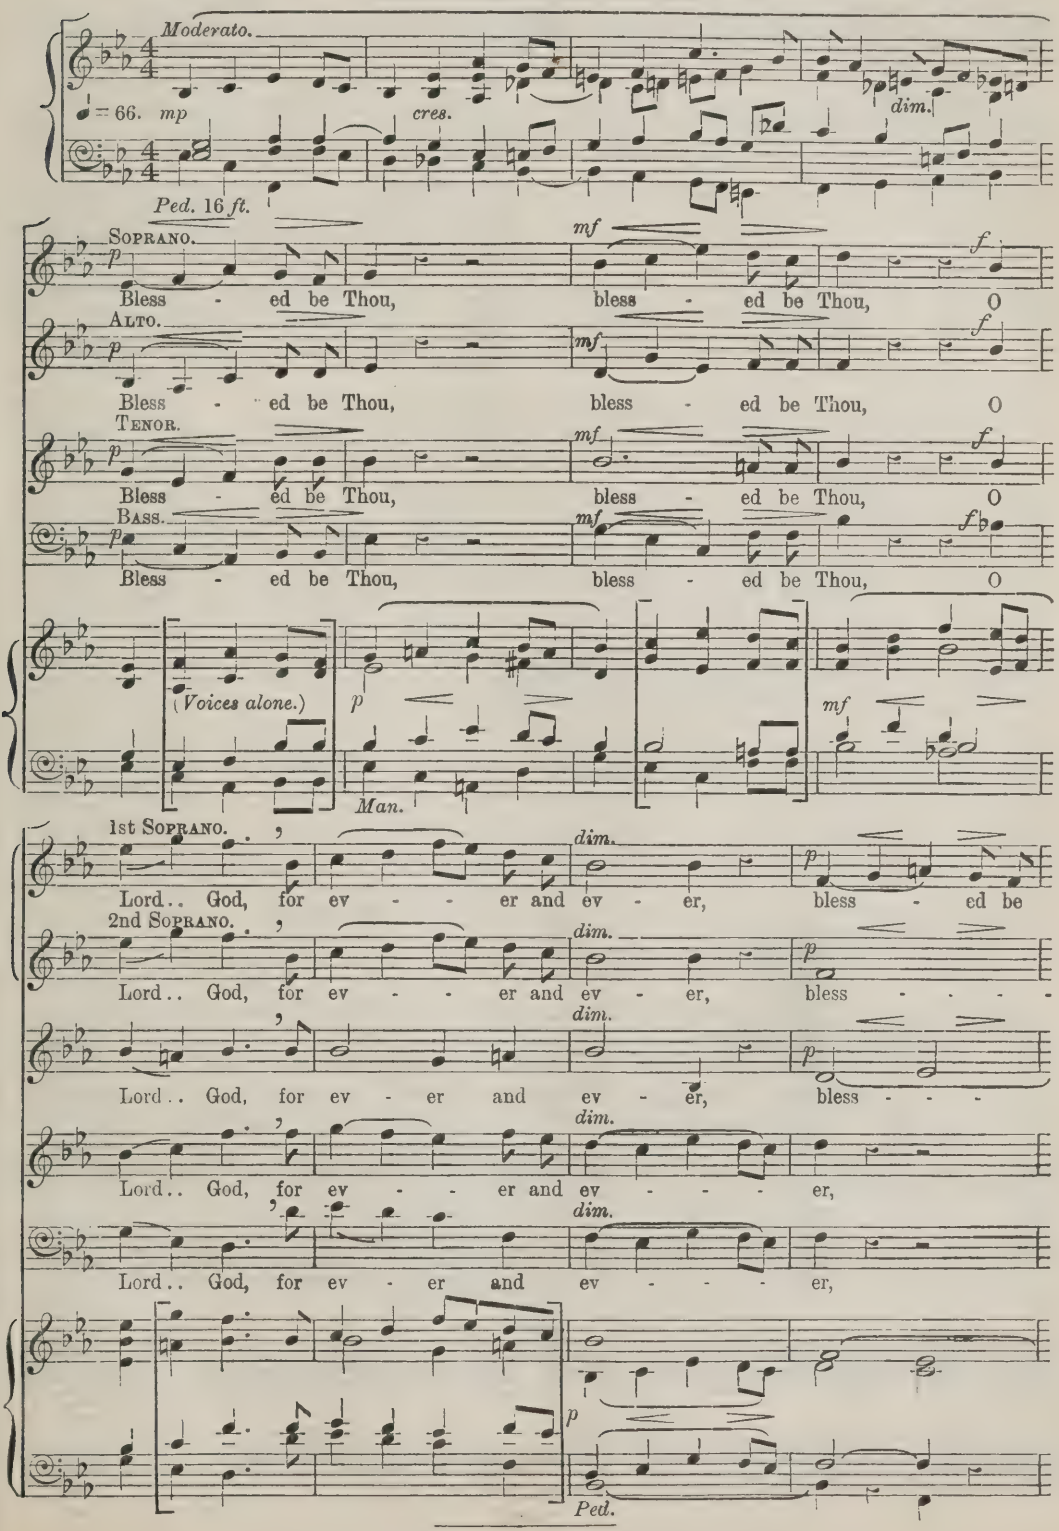
COMPOSED FOR THE BENEDICTION OF THE NAVE OF TRURO CATHEDRAL, 1903.

Blessed be Thou, O Lord God.

1 Chronicles xxix. 10—12, 14. SHORT FULL ANTHEM. Composed by C. H. Lloyd.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., New York.



Moderato.
♩ = 66. mp
cres.
dim.
Ped. 16 ft.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
mf
f
Bless - ed be Thou, bless - ed be Thou, O (Voices alone.)
p
Man.
1st Soprano.
2nd Soprano.
Lord.. God, for ev - - er and ev - er, bless - ed be Lord.. God, for ev - - er and ev - er, bless - - - -
Lord.. God, for ev - er and ev - er, bless - - -
Lord.. God, for ev - - er and ev - - - - er,
Lord.. God, for ev - er and ev - - - - er,
Ped.

Copyright, 1903, by Novello and Company, Limited.

Thou, O Lord . . God.
- ed for ev - - er.
- - - ed, bless - ed be Thou.
bless - ed be Thou, O Lord. bless - ed be Thou. Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the 1st & 2nd Sopranos.
Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the Thine, O Lord, Thine the Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the glo - - ry, Thine the glo - ry, Thine . . the glo - - ry, Thine the glo - ry, and the vic - to-ry, and the ma - jes-ty, the vic - to-ry, and the glo - ry, and the vic - to-ry, and the ma - jes-ty, the vic - to-ry, and the glo - ry, and the vic - to-ry, and the ma - jes-ty, the vic - to-ry, and the glo - ry, and the vic - to-ry, and the ma - jes-ty, the vic - to-ry, and the ma - jes - ty: for all that is in the hea - ven and in the earth is ma - jes - ty: for all that is in the hea - ven and in the earth is ma - jes - ty: for all that is in the hea - ven and in the earth is ma - jes - ty: for all that is in the hea - ven and in the earth is ff

Thine; Thine, Thine is the king - dom, O Lord,
Thine; Thine, Thine is the king - dom, O Lord,
Thine; Thine, Thine is the king - dom, O Lord,
Thine; Thine, Thine is the king - dom, O Lord, sempre ff
meno f
ff
and Thou art ex - alt - ed as Head a - bove all. Both and Thou art ex - alt - ed as Head a - bove all... Both and Thou art ex - alt - ed as Head a - bove all. Both and Thou art ex - alt - ed as Head a - bove all. Both mf
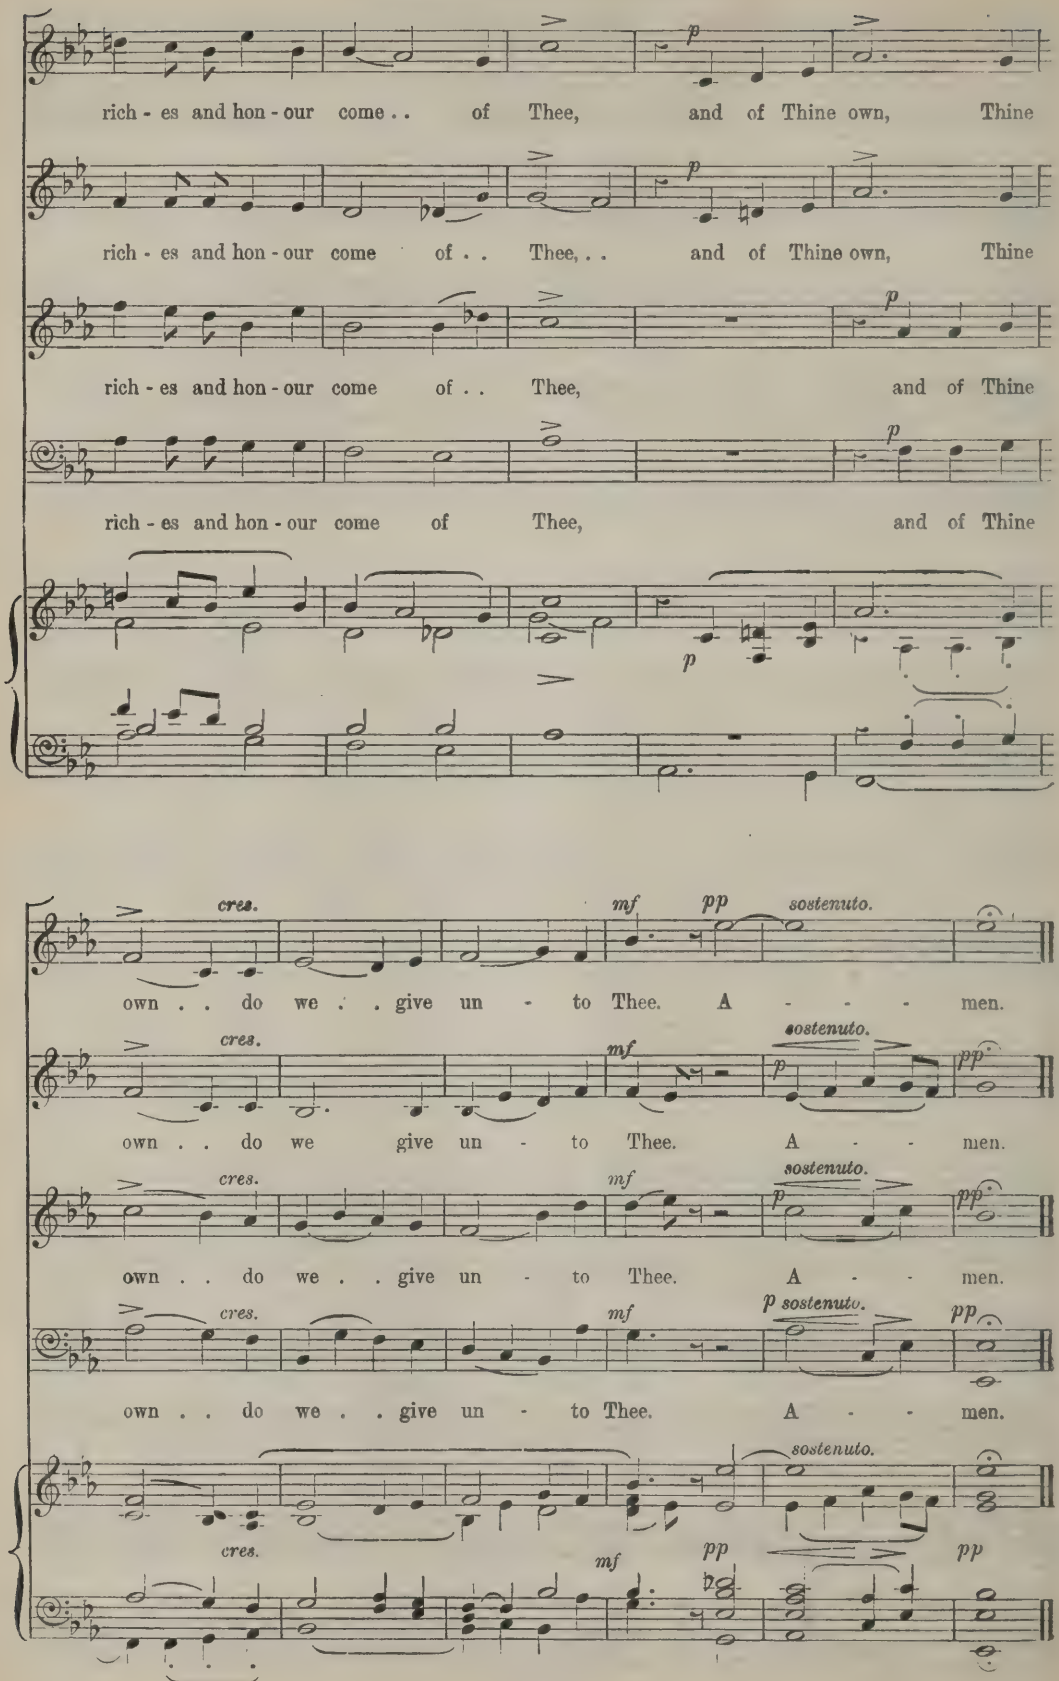
meno f
ff
mf



rich - es and hon - our come . . of Thee, and of Thine own, Thine rich - es and hon - our come of . . Thee, . . and of Thine own, Thine rich - es and hon - our come of . . Thee, and of Thine rich - es and hon - our come of Thee, and of Thine
cres.
mf
pp sostenuto.
own . . do we . . give un - to Thee. A - - - men.
own . . do we give un - to Thee. A - - men.
own . . do we . . give un - to Thee. A - - men.
own . . do we . . give un - to Thee. A - - men.

the Music Hall on April 7. The concerted numbers, which were tunefully and tastefully sung, comprised selections from 'The Messiah,' the Bridal chorus from Cowen's 'The rose maiden,' and miscellaneous items. Songs were contributed by Misses Lizzie Morham, Grace Valentine, Mary Fraser and Bessie McLennan; and by Messrs. George Barclay, W. L. Kenton and Master Simon Cockburn. Mr. C. H. F. O'Brien at the pianoforte, and Mr. Gavin Godfrey at the organ, provided the accompaniments. During an interval in the programme Mr. James Dowie, the conductor—who, after a service of thirty years as teacher of theory to the music classes of the Edinburgh Royal Choral Union, has intimated his resignation—was presented on behalf of the Choral Union with a handsome illuminated address, in which the directors expressed their great appreciation of the services of the recipient and the appreciation of the many thousands of pupils who had enjoyed his tuition. Professor Niecks made the presentation.

The thirteenth annual concert of the St. Cecilia Orchestral Society, conductor Mr. W. G. Crawford, was given in the Queen's Hall on April 12. The programme included works by Mozart, Délibes, Liszt, Elgar and others. An item of special interest was the first performance in public of the 'Procession and Dance' from the conductor's opera 'The Grand Lama,' which had a very cordial reception. Miss Jean Monro and Mr. John Cowan contributed a number of songs in excellent style. The accompanist was Mr. E. F. Spaven.

GLASGOW.

The concert season has come to a speedy close this year, and consequently there is little to record this month. The Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society, conducted by Mr. W. T. Hoeck, gave a successful concert on March 20. Beethoven's eighth Symphony was the most important number on the programme, which also included Handel's Concerto for string orchestra, with obbligati for two violins and violoncello, and the overtures to Mendelssohn's 'Son and Stranger' and Mozart's 'Don Giovanni.' In the Symphony the band did their best work. Vocal solos were contributed by Miss Esther Yunson to the accompaniments of Mr. Hoeck. Hamilton Choral Society, under the able direction of Mr. T. S. Drummond, showed considerable enterprise in presenting such works as Sullivan's 'The Golden Legend' and Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' at their concert on March 27. The singing of the choral music was highly praiseworthy, especially in Mendelssohn's work and in the unaccompanied portions of 'The Legend.' The solo music was sung by Misses Helena Hartley and Catherine Mentiplay, and Messrs. Richard Metcalfe and Alexander Richard, the two ladies deserving special mention. The instrumental part was played by a small but efficient orchestra led by Mr. R. Daeblitz and supplemented by Mr. B. W. Hartley at the organ.

The notable feature of the Western Amateur Orchestral Society's concert on April 2 was the first performance here (following, three days later, the first British performance) of the 'Jena' Symphony. The playing, although lacking somewhat in the finish we are accustomed to with a professional band, was marked by most creditable precision, which bore testimony to the painstaking and skill of the conductor, Mr. John Mactaggart. The orchestral programme was varied by songs sung by Miss Mary Lang.

The Denhof Operatic Festival, albeit artistically successful, received only a fair measure of public support, but this may have been due to the dislocation of the train services consequent upon the labour troubles.

The first annual business meeting of the Glasgow Southside Society of Organists was held on April 13, when satisfactory reports on the Society's first year's operations were submitted and office-bearers for the coming year elected. As other organists in the city have expressed a wish to join the Society it was decided to change the name to 'The Glasgow Society of Organists.' The annual concert of the Scottish National Song Society took place on April 18. The remarkably expressive singing of some Scottish part-songs by the Orpheus Choir under Mr. Hugh S. Roberton gave a note of distinction to the evening's music.

GLOUCESTER AND DISTRICT.

The Gloucester Instrumental Society, of which Mr. Joseph Woodward is the conductor, gave their annual concert on April 10. The Society's contributions were the Pageant music from the Rev. H. E. Hodson's 'Golden Legend,' Beethoven's 'Eroica' Symphony, an Orchestral suite of Coleridge-Taylor's, Cowen's 'Language of flowers' suite, and Friedemann's 'Slavonic' rhapsody. The instrumentalists played exceedingly well, and their performance was characterized by crispness, expression, and accuracy. The soloists were Signor Lenghi and Mr. Charles Collier (harpist), who also played Saint-Saëns's Fantasia in A very beautifully.

Among the special musical services held at churches in Gloucester and district during Easter may be mentioned the performance of the Passion music from Sir Julius Benedict's oratorio 'St. Peter' at All Saints', Gloucester. Mr. Joseph Gurney is master of the choir, which is a large one. The soloists were Miss Edith Barnard, Miss Agnes Rayson, Mr. Ernest Evans, and Mr. James E. Mott.

At Westbury-on-Severn Parish Church, Stainer's 'Crucifixion' was given under the conductorship of Mr. Gerald Vaughan-Hughes by the Westbury Choral Society. The soloists were Mr. Herbert Saunderson (Gloucester Cathedral) and Mr. J. E. Mott. The quartet 'God so loved the world' was sung by Mrs. T. Godwin Chance, Mrs. Sweetapple, Mr. Gerald Vaughan-Hughes and Mr. J. E. Mott.

LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

The twelfth and closing concert of the Philharmonic Society was conducted by Sir Frederic Cowen on March 19. The programme included Saint-Saëns's 'Le Rouet d'Omphale,' Rossini's 'William Tell' Overture, and Tchaikovsky's 'Pathetic' Symphony. The re-appearance of Miss Muriel Foster on the concert-platform gave general satisfaction. She effectively displayed her beautiful voice and earnest style in Purcell's 'Mad Bess,' and also in three Brahms songs, to which Sir Frederic Cowen provided sympathetic pianoforte accompaniments. Haydn's Violoncello concerto in D was delightfully played by Señor Pablo Casals, and the choir were encored for their expressive singing of Bantock's Shelley part-song, 'On Himalay.'

The Catholic Philharmonic Society, at their concert on March 26, revived Dvorák's beautiful 'Stabat Mater,' in which the vocal principals were Miss Emily Breare, Madame Amy Dewhurst, Mr. Gervase Elwes and Mr. Thorpe Bates. The three last named also sang the solos in Bach's Cantata No. 6, 'Bleib bei uns' (Bide with us), a short work of exalted beauty. Led by Mr. V. Akeroyd, there was an adequate orchestra, with Mr. C. H. Fogg as organist. Chorally the performance of both works was marked by characteristic features of restraint. An increase of tenor and bass tone would improve the choral balance. But there would appear to be some danger of the choir disappearing altogether from the musical institutions of the city, among which, under Mr. H. P. Allen's capable and zealous guidance, the Catholic Philharmonic Society has already found a definite and useful place. From a statement made during the interval it appears that the concerts are not paying their way, and that unless a sufficient guarantee is received before next season the Society will be dissolved. Such a failure after splendid and strenuous work would reflect special discredit on the Catholic community, from whom the Society especially deserves hearty support, the more so as its programmes are not primarily designed to attract the general public.

Two memorable pianoforte recitals were given on March 27, in the saloon of the Philharmonic Hall, by Mr. Leopold Godowsky, who too seldom has visited Liverpool.

The tenth and final concert of the Rodewald Concert Club was held in the Carlton Hall on March 25, when the Manchester Trio (Messrs. Isaac, Catterall and Fuchs) gave an interesting performance of works by Brahms, Goldmark, and Schubert. From the success which has attended the series of concerts it is clear that they are widely appreciated. The promoters and subscribers look forward to their continuance next season under the presidency of Sir C. V. Stanford.

The fourth and closing Chamber Concert of the Brodsky Quartet was held in St. George's Hall on March 30, with an admirably-played Beethoven programme, which included the Trio in E flat, Op. 70 (pianist, Mr. R. J. Forbes.)

At the 156th concert of the Societa Armonica, on March 30, the excellent performance given of César Franck's fine Symphony in D minor afforded a further revelation of its thematic interest and beauty. It is a remarkable example of the individuality of its composer, and of his happy blend of French grace with German seriousness. Mr. Joseph Holbrooke's 'Gwyn ap Nudd' made a highly-favourable impression. It is a work of immense spirit and invention, unconventional in feeling, although cast in conventional concerto form. It was brilliantly played as regards the important pianoforte part by Mr. Frederic Brandon. Professor Granville Bantock's 'Overture to a Greek Tragedy' was also heard for the first time here. The interest of an exceptional programme, which marked the closing concert of a successful season, was completed by Miss Edith McCullagh's artistic singing. Mr. Vasco Akeroyd, as usual, conducted.

A performance (the first in this country) of the oratorio, 'The seven last Words of Christ,' by Dr. Paul Hartmann, a Roman Catholic priest resident in Munich, was given by the choir of St. Mary's Church, Hardman Street, under Dr. A. W. Pollitt's direction, on April 2. The accompaniments were sustained by the organ, ably played by Mr. Hague Kinsey, and the vocal solos were excellently sung by Mrs. Owen (in the soprano music of the 'Narrator'), and by Mr. Samuel Mann in the bass music allotted to Christus, to the penitent thief, and to the Roman centurion. Dr. Pollitt's well-trained choir was heard to advantage, although the work is laid out for a more powerful chorus, as well as for orchestral accompaniment on a fairly large scale.

Under the baton of Mr. J. E. Matthews, the Oxton and Claughton Orchestral Society, numbering eighty players, gave a successful closing concert on March 23 in the Birkenhead Town Hall, at which Mr. Plunket Greene sang and Mrs. A. C. Bamford gave a brilliant performance of the solo part in Tchaikovsky's B flat minor Pianoforte concerto. On the same evening another Cheshire Society doing good work, the Liscard Orchestral Society, closed its season with a concert at which Mr. Josef Greene played Schumann's Pianoforte concerto, and Miss Nellie Judson sang.

The Walton Philharmonic Society, under its accomplished conductor, Mr. Albert Orton, sang Parts 1 and 2 of Gounod's 'Redemption' in Walton Parish Church on March 28, with Mr. Branscombe at the organ, the vocal soloists being Mr. Howard Stephens, Miss Rutherford, Miss Beattie, Mr. Val Thompson, and Mr. S. Mann. At the Society's closing concert on April 18, Stanford's Irish ballad 'Phaudrig Crohoore' was effectively sung by the well-trained choir of eighty voices.

The usual free performance of the 'Messiah' on Good Friday in St. George's Hall was given to a crowded audience, which was intended to be exclusively composed of poor people. The choir was made up of contingents from the various choral Societies, brought together through the medium of the Philharmonic Society's secretary, Mr. W. J. Riley. The vocal soloists were Mrs. Alice Phillips, Miss Dorothy Jones, Mr. Roland Jackson, and Mr. Hamilton Harris. Mr. Branscombe was at the organ, and Mr. J. C. Clarke conducted.

A performance of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan' was given with pianoforte accompaniment by the Waterloo Choral Society, conducted by Mr. J. W. Appleyard, on April 13. The soloists were Mrs. W. F. Barry, Miss Bond, and Mr. R. Gray, who, along with the choir, acquitted themselves most creditably. Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's beautiful choral ballad, 'Beside the ungathered rice,' was a feature of the miscellaneous music, which also included Bach's 'God's time is the best.'

Stainer's 'Crucifixion' was largely sung in the churches and chapels during Lent and on Good Friday. The Liverpool contingent of the Catholic Philharmonic Society sang Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater' in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church on Good Friday afternoon, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Booth, the accompaniments being sustained on the organ by Mr. Alfred Benton, and in the evening Dubois's 'Seven last Words' was sung by the choir of St. Clare's.

The Ormskirk Musical Association, a flourishing organization, sang Brahms's 'Requiem' and a miscellaneous selection on March 27. Mr. John Ball conducted the choral and orchestral forces of 120, and the soloists included Miss Alice Hare and Mr. Bridge Peters.

Mr. E. H. Lemare gave two organ recitals at St. George's Hall on April 13, which created widespread attention, the attendance at the evening recital being one of the largest on record. A tribute to the memory of Dr. Peace was fittingly paid by Mr. Lemare, who prefaced each recital with a funeral march.

MANCHESTER AND DISTRICT.

To-day there is no feeling of tip-toe expectancy such as was the case twelve months ago with regard to our premier institutions here, it having been decided that Mr. Michael Balling shall take charge of the greater portion of our orchestral and choral life. Already he has chosen his choral programme for next season, the two hardy annuals 'Messiah' and 'Elijah' being reinforced by 'Lobgesang.' To balance these we are to have 'Gerontius,' Berlioz's 'Requiem,' Bruckner's 'Te Deum,' and some portion of 'Parsifal.' It may be hoped that Mr. Balling will secure more adequate justice being done to the choral part of the two last-named works than was the case on the occasion of their performance a few years ago—the perfunctory nature of many of the choral performances at the Hallé concerts has been the cause of quite general dissatisfaction in recent years. Whatever may be done orchestrally under the new régime, there is ample room for great improvement in matters choral.

There was great disappointment that Dr. Richter was unable to keep his promise of last June to conduct the Hallé Orchestra Pension Fund concert, on March 21, particularly as the announcements of his inability were made rather late, despite rumours and counter-rumours as to his intentions, and Mr. Carl Fuchs, the secretary, was to be sympathised with under the conditions. However, Miss Muriel Foster's presence atoned for much, and the band had a crowded house. We had one of the two occasions this season when notably great singing has been heard in conjunction with the equally fine orchestral playing. Despite his onerous duties in connection with the Denhof opera, then in Scotland, Balling stepped into Richter's place and proved that he is a safe interpreter of the classics.

On April 2 Mr. W. Handel Thorley, son of a distinguished original member of the Hallé Orchestra, gave a concert at which he appeared (probably for the first time in his native city) as conductor-composer. The programme included Tchaikovsky's fifth Symphony and the so-called 'Jena' Symphony of Beethoven, which did not arouse much enthusiasm. One of the Hammerstein 'stars,' Euzo Bozano, sang a Verdi aria and a dramatic setting of Lessing's poem, 'Der Tod.' At Eastertide the centre of Lancashire's orchestral life shifted to Blackpool, where there was a positive riot of music in her 'lordly halls of pleasure.' There were two good instrumental concerts each day, three or four on Easter Sunday, Handelian oratorio on Good Friday, conductors like Ronald and Speelman, vocalists such as Caroline Hatchard, Clara Butt and Kennerley Rumford, and Felice Lyne, to name only a few, whilst light opera filled her theatres and a nimble 'tanner' enabled one to hear any of it.

The final Schiller-Anstalt concert gave us an evening of unqualified delight, Casals and Johanne Stockmarr playing Bach and Brahms as only they (and a few others) can. The following evening Lamond devoted his energies to a long Beethoven programme, and on the next night the Brodsky Quartet celebrated the attainment of its hundredth concert by playing a trio of quintets—Mozart, Schumann and Schubert. Dr. Brodsky is invariably called upon for a speech after the final concert of each winter's session. This time he had occasion to remind us that recent years have witnessed a steady decline in the patronage extended to the chamber concerts of his series, and that the absence in the centre of the city of any really satisfactory hall suitable for quartet-playing might force them in the near future to return to the hall of the Royal College of Music, where the quartet concerts were originally held.

At the first of the annual examination-concerts in connection with the establishment of which Dr. Brodsky has long been the Principal, one of the most brilliant pupils of the Royal College, Mr. Seth Lancaster, took leave of his fellow-students prior to departure for New York. Mr. Lancaster is a native of North-East Lancashire—that remarkable musical nursery of the County Palatine—and no finer player has emerged from this part of the country in recent years.

Following closely on the visits of Petri and Lamond, came Frederick Dawson in a programme which he has played with some frequency in Lancashire of late. In some respects his playing is not to be surpassed by any pianist at present before the public.

In choral matters there has not been much to record, save the Catholic Philharmonic Society's performance of Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' and Bach's cantata 'Stay with us,' conducted by Mr. H. P. Allen, the soloists being Miss Emily Breare, Madame Amy Dewhurst, Mr. Gervase Elwes, and Mr. Thorpe Bates.

Two typical Lancashire amateur instrumental bodies—the Beethoven of Manchester and the Bolton Orchestral Society—have had successful seasons. The former, conducted by Mr. Gordon Cockrell (celebrating its twenty-fifth year next season) very often relies upon local instrumental soloists, Miss Clarice Dunnington playing Saint-Saëns's Violin concerto on April 15, a movement from Hugo Kaun's 'Fatherland' Symphony also figuring in the programme.

The Bolton band (conductor, Mr. Andrew Morris), like the Oldham Society, caters on a lavish scale for its subscribers in the matter of first-class soloists, besides giving them orchestral music in various aspects; at the final concert of their season Johanne Stockmarr, Phyllis Lett, and Julien Henry (the brilliant Beckmesser of the Denhof-Balling season) were the soloists.

The Blackburn Ladies' Choir, conducted by Mr. F. Duckworth, besides handing over the proceeds of its concerts to varied benevolent objects, contrives to keep well abreast of the best modern music for its particular combination of voices, singing, on March 21, two new 'Eastern Pictures' by Gustav von Holst, in addition to some better known part-songs by Bateson, Schubert, Elgar, &c. Two of the soloists had distinguished themselves in the last year or two in the 'Rose Bowl' competition at the Blackpool Festivals, where the eight best soloists of each Festival sing in this special class.

Until Denhof and Quinlan came along with their generously-organized operatic companies, most provincials were entirely dependent upon the annual visits of the Carl Rosa, Moody-Manners, or Castellano opera companies. Although we have relished the richer diet of the last two years, yet we cannot forget that our appetite had been nourished on the simpler operatic fare provided by the earlier companies. The Carl Rosa visit to Manchester, April 15-20, brought a revival of Boïto's 'Mefistofele' and a performance of 'Tannhäuser,' in which Mr. Hedmondt sang the principal rôle for about the six-hundredth time. Madame Ortmann sang 'Elizabeth' for the first time in English, although she has had a most extensive Continental opera-house experience. Mr. Eugene Goossens conducted.

At Preston and Blackburn, on March 27 and April 3, Dr. E. C. Bairstow again gave a convincing demonstration of the wisdom of co-operation in choral matters in adjoining towns, which has been noted in these columns in previous years. The Preston Choral Society and the Blackburn St. Cecilia Society rendered mutual assistance in Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion,' and two performances resulted which far exceeded anything likely to have occurred had the task been undertaken single-handed. At present Blackburn labours under the great disadvantage of having no really satisfactory concert-hall (to be remedied ere another year has passed), and the Olympia Theatre can hardly be called an ideal place for 'Passion' music; still, the performance was most praiseworthy. At Preston, Miss Edith Evans, Miss Myra Dixon, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. George Parker, and Mr. Campbell McInnes were the soloists, Miss Evans labouring under the disadvantage of late arrival and no rehearsal owing to disorganized train service. At Blackburn, Mr. Frank Mullings replaced Mr. Elwes, Miss Leighton singing the soprano and Miss Elsie Bradley the contralto solos.

One of Lancashire's oldest musical Societies is to be found at Middleton, i.e., the 'middle town' between Oldham and Rochdale. Here, where now the pulse of Lancashire's industrialism beats most strongly, in the midst of collieries, huge six-storied factories, and refuse-heaps, the Middleton Musical Society has flourished since the days when George the Third was King. Then its members were bidden to assemble 'in the evening on the first Monday after full moon at the "White Hart."' From far and near, by lane and field, with the aid of horn-lanthorn and links, these songsters were wont to come, paying sixpence per month for the privilege, two-thirds of which (according to rule) was to be spent in 'malt liquor,' the balance going to the Society's funds for music! Passing through many vicissitudes, but never actually breaking down, it celebrated its 140th birthday on March 23 last. Started as a men's Society, it has sometimes been an orchestral body and at others a mixed-voice choir, if one may judge from early entries in the minute-books of the last years of the 18th century. The zeal for orchestral work has died out to a great extent, but despite its old age, blood still courses freely through its veins. Conducted by Mr. J. Kirkman, who has sat at the feet of Mr. Walter Nesbitt, of Manchester fame, it has thrown itself heart and soul into the competitive movement, with not a little success. To this last-named 'son of art' was entrusted the toast of 'the Society' on the above anniversary occasion.

NEWCASTLE AND DISTRICT.

On March 20 two choral Societies wound up their season. The Newcastle Harmonic Society gave one of its frequent programmes of unaccompanied music, presenting Bach's motet 'Praise the Lord,' some madrigals, Brahms's 'Marienlieder,' two modern English part-songs by Bantock and Bainton, and some of Stanford's Irish folk-song arrangements. The choir was unfortunately thinned in numbers, and lack of men hindered the possibility of a good balance. Mr. E. L. Bainton conducted. Miss Dorothy Silk, who sang most beautifully, and Mr. Alfred Heather were the vocalists. Jarrow Philharmonic Society, under the baton of Mr. G. Dodds, gave a concert with orchestra, and performed Cowen's 'John Gilpin' and Coleridge-Taylor's new cantata, 'A tale of Old Japan.' The soloists were Miss N. Evans, Miss Hilda Crag-James, and Messrs. J. Collet and C. Morris.

The chief interest of the local choral world was centred in the first production here of the third ode from Bantock's 'Atalanta.' The only Society capable of attempting it is the Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union, which has already produced Parts 2 and 3 of 'Omar Kháyyam,' and has announced Part 1 for next season. Bantock moves easily in his new medium and writes with no sign of a 'prentice hand. Choirs are set antiphonally against each other, or are used in contrasting manners at the same time. The minute subdivision of voices gives many opportunities of producing ethereal effects of highly-placed soft chords or deeply-set low ones, lovely tints are obtained, and the whole produces a kaleidoscopic picture which is at once new and charming. The choir went energetically and enthusiastically to work, and only flattened a quarter of a tone throughout the exacting number. Far asunder as the poles were this and Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' which was sung with much power. Dvorák's 'Spectre's bride' (soloists Miss M. Lindsay, Mr. Morgan Kingston and Mr. Thorpe Bates) and Hamish MacCunn's overture, 'The land of the mountain and the flood,' were also performed. Dr. Coward conducted, and the Leeds Symphony Orchestra was engaged. The following evening the Sunderland Philharmonic Society divided its programme between the aforetime opponents, Brahms and Wagner. Mr. N. Kilburn was happy in producing from his choral and instrumental forces (the latter the Leeds Symphony Orchestra) a dignified and beautiful reading of the 'German Requiem.' On April 17 the Whickham Choral Society sang (with pianoforte accompaniment) Coleridge-Taylor's 'The Death of Minnehaha.' Mr. Maddock conducted.

The closing chamber concert of the season was given by the Walenn Quartet on March 22, when numbers by Mozart, Schumann, and Frank Bridge were played. Madame Marie Brema astonished the audience by singing a number of familiar humorous nursery ditties, in addition to a large selection of serious songs. The Northumberland Amateur Orchestral Society showed considerable advance at their concert the following evening, when Mr. Cuthbert Horsley conducted, among other numbers, Beethoven's second Symphony. The large force of instrumentalists followed his beat with sympathy and enthusiasm.

NORWICH AND DISTRICT.

The final report of the last Norfolk and Norwich Triennial Musical Festival has now been published, and it is gratifying to record that there is not only an increase in both the gross and net receipts, but also a considerable increase in the attendance over that of the two previous Festivals. The result is no doubt mainly attributable to the excellence of the programme and the zeal and energy of Sir Henry Wood, and to the admirable choral training of the choirmaster, Mr. Haydon Hare. While many provincial Festivals have shown decreased receipts and attendance, and in some cases a deficit, it is satisfactory to find that East Anglia is able to record a surplus.

The Saturday Popular Concerts under the conductorship of Dr. Bunnett are now approaching the end of the season, which has been a successful one. The band of the 16th Lancers, conducted by Mr. G. D. Markey, have presented most interesting programmes on four occasions, and the Norwich Amateur Operatic Company made a welcome re-appearance at these concerts and attracted an audience of upwards of 1,800 persons.

A performance of Verdi's 'Requiem' was given by the Norwich Philharmonic Society and the Norwich Choral Society at the Cathedral, under the direction of Dr. Bates, on March 28, the vocalists engaged being Miss Caroline Hatchard, Miss Sara Silvers, Mr. A. E. Benson and Mr. Vincent Jones. A good interpretation was given by both band and choir.

The enterprising small body known as the Norwich Chamber Music Society gave a concert at the Assembly Rooms, Theatre Square, on March 19, when some interesting instrumental music was given. Miss Lefroy was the vocalist, and sang a group of songs by Mendelssohn, Schumann, and Massenet. Mr. Ludwig von Weeks is the new leader and secretary of the Society, and is to be congratulated on a successful concert.

SHEFFIELD.

The Sheffield Musical Union occasionally depart from their serious aims and indulge in music of lighter calibre. They adopted this course at their spring concert, when they performed Mr. Hubert Bath's 'Wedding of Shon Maclean,' and some shorter pieces, including Mr. Rutland Boughton's 'Song of liberty.' The members waxed merry over the 'Scottish' Rhapsody, and realised its breezy humour with the requisite gusto. Mr. Boughton's piece is in more serious vein, being a setting of some idealistic verses by Mrs. Granville Bantock. The music is no doubt sincere, but hardly sounds spontaneous, and suffers from an austerity of phrase and handling which will militate against its acceptance. It was not helped by the insecurity of a quartet of solo voices who had to sing without rehearsal. The choir sang with much spirit. Dr. Coward directed a neatly-finished performance of the 'Jupiter' Symphony, and other works by MacCunn and Berlioz. The soloists were Miss Jenny Taggart and Mr. Charles Tree.

The Amateur Instrumental Society, an old-established organization, is enjoying a fresh lease of life under the energetic direction of Mr. Frederick Dawson. As is the case with many amateur orchestras there is a preponderance of violins; but in other respects the balance is excellent. At their second subscription concert the members played with smart precision in Weber's 'Oberon' Overture and Mozart's G minor Symphony, and tackled bravely the intricacies of Tchaikovsky's 'Romeo and Juliet' fantasia. Mr. Alfred Barker played violin solos and Miss Doris Carter was the vocalist.

An enthusiastic little choral body, the Wincobank and Blackburn Harmonic Society, although situated in the heart of an affected district, refused to allow labour troubles to deteriorate their musical efforts. A capable performance of 'Judas Maccabæus,' under Mr. L. Chadwick, gave evidence of their fixity of purpose and the excellence of their training.

Mr. F. Shimeld, conductor of the Hillsborough Choral Society, is so highly regarded by his singers that he has been the recipient of a gratifying presentation. The intelligent singing of his choir in 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast' at the closing concert of the season proved the value of his work. Mr. J. Gregory, with the Shiregreen Choral Society, in a recent performance of Handel's 'Saul,' and Mr. L. H. Crowther, with the Burngreave Congregational Choir, in Bennett's 'May Queen,' have also won satisfactory choral results.

The Sheffield Choral Union has celebrated the close of its thirtieth season by a concert performance of Auber's 'Masaniello.' The Society being in some difficulty with regard to a change of conductor, Lieutenant Suckley, who for many years occupied the position, agreed to direct the concert. His ability and popularity brought about the return of many former members, and the Union it is hoped has been relieved of many of its difficulties. The welcome access of interest and enthusiasm on the part of the members showed itself in their spirited and accurate singing. The ladies' voices were especially fresh and brilliant. A small orchestra played neatly under the conductor's firm beat. The soloists were Miss Eva Rich, Mr. J. Lycett, Mr. J. A. Hinde, Mr. A. S. Burrows and Mr. W. Nicholls.

STAFFORDSHIRE.

The local season was brought to a close by two important concerts given by the leading choral Societies, the Hanley Glee and Madrigal Society and the North Staffordshire District Choral Society. Two London orchestras were engaged; with the former the Queen's Hall Orchestra appeared, with the latter the Beecham Symphony Orchestra. The primary object in the engagement of London orchestras is reciprocity, and it is understood that in this instance the North Staffordshire Society will appear at a future Beecham Symphony Concert. At neither concert did the public attend as could have been desired, probably owing to the trouble in the labour world.

The Glee and Madrigal Society's concert took place in the Victoria Hall, Hanley, on March 7, the programme containing only Wagner excerpts. Miss Ina Hill, Mr. Lloyd Chandos and Mr. Ivor Foster were the principals, and Mr. John James conducted. This Society announces Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan' as next season's novelty. Much interest centred upon the performance of 'The dream of Gerontius,' given by the North Staffordshire and District Choral Society on March 22, for it is well known that Mr. Herbert Whittaker, the conductor, has raised the chorus singing to a pitch of excellence and refinement not hitherto attained, and the cantata did not fail to make a deep impression. Miss Alice Lakin, Mr. Webster Millar, and Mr. Hamilton Harris were the principals. The orchestral items conducted by Mr. Beecham included Dr. Ethel Smyth's overture to 'The Wreckers,' and the 'Blue Danube' Waltz! The novelties announced by this Society for next season are Brahms's 'Requiem' and Bantock's 'Atalanta in Calydon.'

YORKSHIRE.

LEEDS.

The Leeds New Choral Society, on March 27, gave a performance of the first and second parts of Haydn's 'Creation,' followed by 'The Hymn of Praise.' Under Mr. Turton's direction, the choir sang Haydn's straightforward music with very pleasant freshness and enthusiasm, and it made a most agreeable impression. The soprano, Miss Doris Carter, has a voice and style well suited to the music, and Messrs. Eisdell and Montague Borwell were satisfactory in the other solo parts. On March 20 the Leeds Musical Evenings came to an end, and as it was the anniversary of Beethoven's death a programme of his music was played by Mr. Edgar Haddock, Mr. Laurence Lowe, Mr. W. Warburton, and Mr. F. Sant-Angelo (pianoforte), Mr. Charles Lunn being the vocalist. A further tribute to Beethoven was given by Mr. Haddock on April 1, when he conducted a small orchestra in a performance of the 'Jena' Symphony, which not only seems very likely to be correctly ascribed to the composer, but is in itself very charming music. At the same concert the solo part in Mozart's Pianoforte concerto in E flat was nicely played by a very young pianist, Miss Mildred Langley. On March 26 the very capable Armley Choral Society gave an excellent performance of Brahms's 'German Requiem,' under Mr. Pickard's direction. The soloists were Miss Bertha Armstrong and Mr. William Hayle. On April 1 the annual performance of Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion took place at the Leeds Parish Church, under the direction of the organist, Dr. Bairstow, and a performance at All Souls' Church of Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' under Mr. C. L. Naylor's direction, also calls for mention. The Leeds Trio brought a very successful season to a close on March 29, when an admirable performance of Ravel's String quartet in F formed the feature of the programme, the rest of which was given up to music of a lighter character—Schütt's graceful 'Walzer Märchen' for pianoforte trio, and Dvorák's charming 'Bagatellen,' in which the original harmonium part was employed.

OTHER TOWNS.

Among the Holy Week performances in the churches, in addition to those chronicled above, have been Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater' in Ripon Cathedral on April 3, under Mr. C. H. Moody, and in Dewsbury Parish Church on April 2, under Mr. G. H. Hirst. In Wakefield Cathedral, on March 28, Graun's 'Tod Jesu' was given under Mr. Hardy's direction. At Bradford the free chamber concerts which Mr. S. Midgley has organized with such success have come to the end of their second season. On February 25 Schubert's 'Trout' quintet was given, together with the less familiar and very charming Quintet in C minor of Goetz. Beethoven's early String trio in E flat was also included in the programme, and Miss Carrie Birkbeck was the vocalist. On April 15 the last free concert took the form of a recital of Brahms's songs by Miss Pauline Cramer, accompanied by Mr. Armbruster, whose running commentary on the songs added to their interest. On February 26 the Huddersfield Subscription Concert was of exceptional importance, the greater part of the programme consisting of Beethoven's music, interpreted by Sir Henry Wood and the Hallé Orchestra. The C minor Symphony received a characteristic reading, brilliant and forceful if not distinctly impressive, and the Pianoforte concerto in the same key had full justice done to it by both the soloist, Miss Muecia Albertini, a very sensitive and sympathetic young artist, and the orchestra. On March 26 the Hull Vocal Society gave Bach's B minor Mass for the first time in that town. Dr. G. H. Smith conducted a performance creditable to all concerned, the choruses being in many cases admirably sung. The soloists were Miss Betty Booker, Miss Lucy Nuttall, Mr. F. Slater and Mr. Francis Harford.

On April 17 the Middlesbrough Musical Union's programme included Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night,' Gade's 'Crusaders,' and Svendsen's Symphony in B flat. Mr. Kilburn conducted, and the principals were Miss Florence Taylor, Mr. Alfred Heather and Mr. Robert Charlesworth. The choral performance was of conspicuous excellence.

The Harrogate Symphony Concerts began on April 10, when Mr. Julian Clifford directed a refined performance of Dvorák's 'New World' Symphony, and Mr. Epstein was the soloist in Beethoven's C minor Pianoforte concerto. From now till the middle of October these excellent concerts will be given every Wednesday, and among the works which are new to them, and have been selected, are Symphonies by Beethoven (No. 7), Brahms (No. 4), Frederic Cliffe (C minor), and Speer (E minor); Pianoforte concertos by Paderewski, Liszt (No. 2, in A), Tchaikovsky, and Ames; Violin concertos by Brahms, Max Bruch, Stojowski and Elgar. Mr. Hervey's Variations, 'Life moods,' a new Symphonic-poem by Mr. Clifford, and Variations for Strings by Arensky are other novelties promised.

A large audience attended the orchestral concert given by Trinity College of Music at Queen's Hall on March 26. Among the soloists the most prominent were Master Richard Ball Johnson (pianist) and Miss Edith Roeder (vocalist). Mr. Wilhelm Sachse conducted. The annual prize-giving took place at Stratford Town Hall on March 28.

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either prepared from local newspapers or furnished by correspondents.

Correspondents are particularly requested to enclose a programme when forwarding reports of concerts.

Aberdeen.—The concert given by the Aberdeen Male-voice choir, on March 30, attracted a crowded audience. The programme was one of great interest and variety, and well calculated to display the outstanding powers of interpretation of this, one of our most progressive choral organizations. The numbers given by the choir included Schumann's 'The lotos flower' and 'Song of Freedom,' Max Reger's 'Death the Mower,' Brahms's 'The Sandman' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'O mariners out of the sunlight.' Pleasing variety was given to the programme by the excellent singing of Miss Maggie Kirkbride. Mr. A. Collingwood, who has been conductor since the choir's inception in 1902, conducted with his customary zeal and insight.——On April 2, the Aberdeen Bach Choir gave their second performance of Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion at St. Machan's Cathedral, and created a deep impression by their devotional expression and choral efficiency. A full orchestra took part in the accompaniment, and the solo parts were taken by Mrs. J. W. Milne, Miss Jessie Gray, Mr. Henry Brearley and Mr. W. Hoyte.

Bath.—Mozart's 'Requiem' was given a refined and appealing interpretation by the Avon Vale Musical Society at Bath Abbey on March 20, under the direction of Mr. J. S. Liddle. The singing of Miss Gertrude Sichell, Miss Dorothy Trollope, Mr. T. B. Moore and Mr. J. L. Ward in the solo and quartet was on the same artistic level.

Cardiff.—The Harmonic Society distinguished itself on March 27 by giving a notable performance of Brahms's 'German Requiem,' the adequate singing of which put their expressive and technical capabilities to a severe test. Mr. Roderick Williams conducted, Mr. Arthur Angle's orchestra accompanied, and the solos were given by Miss Emily Breare and Mr. David Hughes.

Chippenham (Wilts).—On April 15 the Chippenham Amateur Orchestra gave their annual concert under the conductorship of Mr. W. R. Pullein. The programme included the Overtures 'Calm sea and prosperous voyage' and 'Leonora' No. 3, and the 'Peer Gynt' Suite. The soloists were Mrs. Chester, Master W. R. Hargreaves, and Mrs. D. Collen (violin).

Dunkeld.—The annual concert of the Dunkeld and District Musical Association was given in the City Hall on March 15, when Haydn's 'Creation' (Parts 1 and 2) and a choral fantasia from 'Die Meistersinger' were presented to a large audience. At the close, Mr. David Watson, Baron Bailie of Dunkeld, congratulated Mr. Graves, the conductor, and the members of the choir on their fine work and on the value of their studies to the music of the district. The principal singers were Miss Phyllis Graves, Mr. W. Murdoch and Mr. A Loutit, all of whom sang with effect. The works were accompanied by a string band led by Miss Alice Martin, and assisted on the organ and pianoforte by Mr. Mowat Wilson, Miss McDougal, and Miss Fyfe.

Hythe.—The Choral Society gave the third concert of their ninth season on March 28, when the programme included Liszt's 13th Psalm, Haydn's 'Kaiser' Quartet, and Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise.' The professional soloists were Miss Marjorie Walker and Mr. Herbert Thompson; Miss Mary Noverre was principal first violin; and Dr. A. T. Froggatt conducted.

Kidderminster.—The Choral Society gave their twentieth concert on March 20. The principal works performed were Brahms's 'German Requiem,' Beethoven's 'Leonora' Overture No. 3, and Sibelius's 'Valse triste.' Both choir and orchestra came through this exacting test in a highly creditable manner. The soloists were Miss May Eaves, Miss Gertrude Haywood, and Mr. Charles Tree. Mr. J. Irving Glover conducted.

Kilmarnock.—The High Kirk Choir, conducted by Mr. J. Reid Highet, gave a concert on April 4, and attracted a good audience. The part-singing throughout was characterized by precision and fine expression, among the pieces performed being Schumann's 'Gipsy life,' Faning's 'Daybreak,' Elgar's 'As torrents in summer,' Macfarren's 'The three fishers,' and Mr. Highet's 'Morning song.' A number of songs were contributed by members of the choir, and violin solos by Mr. D. Maitland.

Kimberley.—On March 13 occurred what was described as the greatest musical event in the history of the Diamond Fields—a recital by M. Paderewski. Needless to say it was a great success and occasioned great excitement. The distinguished visitor was much fêted.

Maidstone.—Elgar's 'King Olaf' and the second part of Bach's B minor Mass put the powers of the Choral Union to a severe test on March 26, when excellent performances were given under the direction of Mr. F. Wilson Parish. The choir displayed ability to deal with the contrasted expressive and technical requirements of the two works adequately. Miss Marjorie Hallowes, Miss Muriel Hallowes, Mr. Lloyd Chandos and Mr. Robert Charlesworth were responsible for the solos.

Milford-on-Sea.—The Choral Society gave their last concert for the season on April 17. The choral works were Walthew's 'Pied Piper of Hamelin,' Beethoven's 'Calm sea and prosperous voyage,' Stanford's 'Revenge' and 'Drake's drum,' the last being sung by the Rev. M. C. H. Collet with the orchestra and male-voice choir. An excellent little band of twenty professional and amateur performers was engaged, and the choir sang with good attack and enunciation. Mr. Bertoncini (violinist) and Mr. Illingworth (violoncellist) played solos. The conductor was Mr. C. F. Abdy Williams.

Peterhead.—On March 27 the Choral Society, ably conducted by Mr. Warren T. Clemens, gave the first performance in Scotland of Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan.' The work was well performed, and the audience expressed unmistakable enthusiasm for the music. Miss Leah Felissa, Miss Jessie Gray, Mr. Maurice d'Oisly and Mr. Herbert Brown were the solo singers. The miscellaneous section of the programme included Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer' and Elgar's 'Go, song of mine.'

Portsmouth.—The Philharmonic Society made an advance upon their previous efforts on March 21 with an admirable performance of Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion, under the direction of Mr. H. A. Burry. The choral singing was marked by precision and appealing expression, and by the effective co-operation of a choir of seventy boys. Miss Gladys Honey, Miss Edith Clegg, Mr. Alfred Heather, and Mr. Frederick Ranalow were the soloists, and Mr. Charles Macpherson assisted at the organ.

Solihull.—The Musical Society gave a highly successful concert, under the conductorship of Mr. S. Lindsay Kearne, on April 16. Hamish MacCunn's 'The Wreck of the Hesperus,' which was the chief attraction of the programme, was performed with noteworthy intensity by both choir and orchestra. A new five-part song, 'Daybreak,' by Mr. Kearne, written with accompaniment for strings, was enthusiastically received. The solo artists were Mrs. Poncia (vocalist) and Miss Gertrude Fuller (violinist). The orchestra played two movements from the 'Eroica' Symphony, and other items.

Southport.—On March 20 a remarkably fine performance of Elgar's 'The Kingdom' was given by Mr. Arthur W. Speed and his well-known Southport Choir. The concert-hall in this town does not yet contain an organ, and Mr. Speed has wisely transferred his performance of works of a sacred character to Chapel Street Congregational Church, in which is a fine Willis instrument. He had taken considerable pains to make an effective arrangement of the score for strings, organ and grand pianoforte, for the execution of which string players were engaged from the Hallé Orchestra. The principals were Miss Maude Phillips, Miss Annie Johnson, Mr. Henry Brearley, and Mr. Robert Charlesworth, all of whom sang with great care and good taste. Of the singing of the choir it is impossible to speak too highly. The balance of tone was excellent, and the promptness of attack and release, and the really good and sustained vowel-tone, were thoroughly satisfying. All that the choir did was good, but particularly in Parts 3 and 5 their singing created an atmosphere which was charged with most reverent feeling. Mr. Arthur Speed as conductor proved himself a thorough master of the situation. He announces that he will next season bring Elgar's 'The Apostles' to a first hearing in Southport, under similar conditions.——One of the best and most interesting concerts ever given by the Southport Choral Society was held in the Cambridge Hall on Tuesday, March 26, when Saint-Saëns's 'The Deluge' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan' were presented. Both works received fine performances, and Mr. J. C. Clarke, the conductor, is to be congratulated on the rich tone and artistic singing of the choir. The accompaniments were well played by an excellent orchestra, which also contributed Walford Davies's 'Solemn Melody' and Edward German's 'Prelude to Romeo and Juliet.' The soloists, who all distinguished themselves, were Madame Annie Walker, Miss Hilda Cragg-James, Mr. Frank Webster, and Mr. Julien Henry.

Stockport.—Under Mr. A. C. Seddon's direction the Cheadle Choral Society gave a concert on March 26 at which Cowen's 'St. John's Eve' was the principal work performed. Efficient orchestral accompaniment added to the good effect of the choral-singing, and additional pleasure was afforded by the work of Miss Edith Thorp, Miss Helena Joy, Mr. Vernon Firth and Mr. W. Horne as soloists. The miscellaneous programme included Saint-Saëns's 'Valse Caprice' for strings and pianoforte, in which Mr. Seddon was the pianist.

Tunbridge Wells.—The Vocal Association gave its forty-second annual oratorio concert in the Great Hall, Tunbridge Wells, on March 27, before a very large and enthusiastic audience. The works performed were Elgar's 'King Olaf' and 'The Black Knight.' The Association has given, with one exception, the whole of Elgar's works for the first time in this part of the country, and deserves the heartiest commendation for its enterprise. The choir and orchestra (largely professional) numbered nearly 200 performers. The solo parts were admirably sung by Miss Nora Newport, Mr. Alfred Heather and Mr. William Higley. The choir had been very carefully trained under their able conductor, Mr. W. W. Starmer, who completely succeeded in obtaining that enthusiasm and understanding which are absolutely necessary for the proper artistic interpretation of such works. The special features of the singing of the choir were excellent tone-quality, perfect intonation in the unaccompanied items, and great precision in attack.

Wishaw.—Coleridge-Taylor's 'The death of Minnehaha' and a miscellaneous selection formed the programme of a concert given by the E.U. Congregational Church on April 11. Part-songs were given by the choir, and vocal solos by Miss Minnie Kennedy, Mr. Robert Addie and Mr. Harry Gold. Mr. Alexander Allan conducted.

Woking.—The Woking Musical Society gave their second concert of the season at the Public Hall on March 26, under the conductorship of Mr. Patrick White. The first part of the programme consisted of J. F. Barnett's 'The Ancient Mariner,' which was excellently sung, the solo parts being undertaken by Miss Lucy France, Miss Helen Blain, Mr. Henry Turnpenney and Mr. Eric Davidson. The second part opened with Rossini's overture to 'Semiramide.'

Wolverhampton.—The performance of Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion given by the Festival Choral Society on March 21 was one of the finest achievements in the Society's career. The singing of the chorales in particular was memorable for its purity and devotional significance. The solo parts were taken by Madame Annie Walker, Madame Sara Silvers, Mr. John Collett and Mr. Harry Downing, and Mr. George Halford conducted. The choir was assisted by the choristers from St. Peter's Collegiate Church.

The annual prize-distribution at York Minster Choir School took place on April 8. The report of Mr. G. A. Scaife, the head-master, placed on record a highly creditable list of examination successes won by pupils.

Foreign Notes.

AMSTERDAM.

Under the direction of Herr Willem Mengelberg, Mahler's eighth Symphony has been performed three times with great success.

ANTWERP.

At the Flemish Theatre, Jan Blockx's opera 'La Fiancée de la Mer' has been successfully revived.

BASEL.

Hans Huber's opera 'Simplicius' (libretto by A. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy) was recently produced with success at the Municipal Theatre.

BERLIN.

The Meiningen Hofkapelle, now conducted by Dr. Max Reger, performed Reger's 'Lustspiel-Ouverture' and his Variations and Fugue on a theme by Joh. Adam Hiller at the last concert.——Three new works—a Symphony in G minor by Julie Weissberg, Maximilian Steinberg's 'Dramatische Phantasie,' and a Violin concerto by Georges Enesco—were given at a concert conducted by Herr Leonid Kreutzer.——At the Garnisonskirche a good performance of Bach's 'Johannes Passion' was given by the Bachverein from Leipsic (conductor Professor Karl Straube).——At the ninth symphony concert given by the Königliche Kapelle (conductor Dr. Richard Strauss), a Serenade for string orchestra by Ernst Eduard Taubert was played. On the same occasion Berlioz's Symphony 'Harold en Italie' was heard.——At the last concert of the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde, Delius's orchestral tone-poem 'Paris' was given. Herr Oscar Fried, who conducted on this occasion, acted for the last time in this capacity, as he has terminated his engagement with the Society.——At the Royal Opera a new opera, 'Der Traum,' by J. G. Mrazek, was recently produced under Herr Leo Blech's direction, with considerable artistic success. The libretto is an adaptation of Grillparzer's famous work, 'Der Traum ein Leben.'——A new comic opera, 'Der Fünfuhrthee' (The five o'clock tea), by Theodor Blumer, was produced at the Kurfürstenoper.——The Königliche Kapelle terminated the season with a magnificent performance of Beethoven's ninth Symphony under Dr. Richard Strauss's direction.——The Domchor (conductor, Professor Rüdel) gave a concert devoted to rarely-heard choral compositions by Schubert. The programme included a Hymn for eight-part choir and thirteen wind instruments, the 'Stabat Mater' (to the German text of Klopstock), and the twenty-third Psalm.

BRAUNSCHWEIG.

On March 31 a new opera, 'Der Waldschratt,' composed by Hans Sommer to the libretto of Eberhard König, was produced at the Court Theatre. The work is said to have many features to admire.

BREMEN.

Scriabine's tone-poem, 'Prométhée: le Poème du Feu,' was given at the eleventh Philharmonic concert under the conductorship of Herr Ernst Wendel for the first time in Germany. The extraordinary harmonies contained in the work did not arouse unmixed enthusiasm.——An interesting programme, including Reger's 'Weihe der Nacht' for alto solo, male choir and orchestra, 'Ein Harfen Klang,' by Karl Bleyle, and Nicodé's symphonic-poem (with chorus), 'Das Meer,' was submitted by the Lehrergesangverein at its last concert.

BRUGES.

The Société de Musique recently performed César Franck's choral work 'Rebecca' and Massenet's 'Narcisse.'

BRUSSELS.

At the last Concert-populaire Paul Gilson's interesting new Symphony was produced under the direction of M. Otto Lohse on March 21.——A new opera, 'La farce du Cuvier,' by Gabriel Dupont, was produced at the Théâtre Royale de la Monnaie. Another example of the active policy of this theatre was the successful production on April 11 of M. Charles Radoux's opera 'Ondelette,' the libretto of which is by Richard Liedent.

BUDA-PEST.

Count Zichy's three-act opera 'Rodosto' has been produced with success at the Royal Opera. The work forms the conclusion to the composer's 'Rákoczy' Trilogy.

COLOGNE.

At the municipal opera-house the first performance o Albert Gorter's one-act opera 'Der Paria' took place recently. The revival of Marschner's 'Der Vampyr' proved also of considerable interest.——The programme of the tenth Gurzenich Concert was devoted to Russian music, and included Glazounoff's Symphony in E flat, Liadoff's orchestral-poem 'Die verzauberte See,' and Rachmaninoff's Concerto in C minor (with the composer as soloist).

DRESDEN.

Handel's oratorio 'Jephtha,' which is rarely heard in Germany, has been performed by the Robert Schumannsche Singakademie.——At the fifth Symphony Concert of the Königliche Kapelle an interesting ballad, 'Ebbe Skammelsen,' for baritone and orchestra, by the Danish composer Paul von Klenau, was produced.

FRANKFURT.

Under the direction of Herr Willem Mengelberg the sacred musical Festival has taken place in the Festhalle. The chief features were Mahler's eighth Symphony and Bach's 'Matthäus Passion.' 2,000 performers took part in Mahler's work, which evidently made a great impression.——A special matinée was recently given by musical forces from Amsterdam. The Concertgebouw orchestra played Mahler's fourth Symphony, and the choir of the Maatschappy tot Bevordering der Tonkunst sang Van Diepenbrock's 'Te Deum.'

LAUSANNE.

At the last Symphony concert of the season Mahler's fourth Symphony was played for the first time. Other novelties recently heard included Debussy's 'La Demoiselle élue,' Albeniz's 'Catalonia,' the Symphony in C major, by Paul Dukas, 'Scènes de la vie de cirque,' by Dénéreaz; a Symphony, 'Sintram,' by Templeton Strong; a Konzertstück for pianoforte and orchestra by E. R. Blanchet, and the Symphonic-poem 'Scheherazade,' by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

LEIPSIC.

In the absence of Herr Nikisch, Professor Gustav Schreck conducted the twenty-first Gewandhaus concert, when the programme contained only compositions by Bach, including the Suite in B minor for flutes and string orchestra, the motet 'Singet dem Herrn ein neues Lied,' and the G minor Violin concerto.

MUNICH.

At the Royal Opera, Karl von Kaskel's opera 'Der Gefangene der Zarin' was given for the first time with considerable success.

NANTES.

The late M. Bourgault-Ducoudray's operatic legend 'Myrahin' has been produced at the Grand Théâtre and was well received.

NEW YORK.

On March 14 the three-act opera 'Mona,' composed by Mr. Horatio W. Parker to the libretto by Mr. Brian Hooker, was produced at the Metropolitan Opera-house, and was very well received by the public. Out of twenty-four operas submitted, this work had gained the prize of ten thousand dollars offered by the directors of the Metropolitan Opera. The critics generally acknowledge the composer's technical skill and the literary merit of the rather undramatic text, but do not unanimously place the composer's gifts of invention and inspiration on a level with his craftsmanship.——During the last week of March the first Brahms Festival ever held in America took place with great success. At four concerts many of the most representative works were played under the direction of Mr. Walter Damrosch.——The London Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Herr Arthur Nikisch, inaugurated a flying tour through the States with a concert at Carnegie Hall. The programme included Brahms's first Symphony and Tchaikovsky's 'Francesca da Rimini.' Both conductor and orchestra were applauded with great enthusiasm.

PARIS.

Silvio Lazzari's opera 'La Lepreuse' has been produced at the Opéra Comique.——On March 24 Gabriel Pierné's oratorio, 'Les Fioretti de Saint François d'Assise,' was produced with great success at the Colonne Concerts, under the direction of the composer.——At the Grand Opéra Madame Gabrielle Ferrari's two-act opera 'Le Cobzar' was produced on March 30.——Under the auspices of the Société Musicale Indépendente a concert of music by Messrs. Cyril Scott and Vaughan Williams was given recently.

PISEK, BOHEMIA.

Professor Sevick was much fêted here (his week-end residence) by his pupils on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday, March 22.

THE HAGUE.

The young English pianist, Miss Myra Hess, made a highly favourable impression at her first appearance.——A song recital given by Mrs. Elsie Swinton, assisted by Mr. Hamilton Harty, proved very interesting. The programme included a number of Mr. Harty's songs.

VIENNA.

On March 31 Elgar's oratorio 'The Apostles' was performed in the Grosse Musikvereinssaal by the Choral society 'Dreizehnlinden.' We are informed that the hall was crowded and that the occasion was a great success.

Miscellaneous.

At the conclusion of the Easter Term of the Royal College of Music on March 28, the following Awards were made by the Director and Board of Professors:—Council Exhibitions to J. H. Luxton, Gladys Blume, Katherine Vincent, Waldemar E. Pauer, Humphrey S. Bourne and Nellie W. Thom; the Charlotte Holmes Exhibition to A. Ivy Wigmore (violin); the Pauer Memorial Exhibition for pianoforte to Marjorie B. Wills; the Clementi Exhibition for pianoforte to Florence M. Hanson; the Organ Extemporising Prize to Edward H. S. Walker (scholar); the Henry Leslie (Herefordshire Philharmonic) prize for singers to Bessie Jones; the Arthur Sullivan Prize for composition to Joseph A. Taffs (scholar); the Scholefield Prize for string players to John K. Snowden (Violoncello scholar); the Dannreuther Prize for the best performance of a pianoforte concerto with orchestra to Emmie Gregory; the Muriel Foster Prize for female singers to Katherine Vincent; the Challen & Son Gold Medal for pianoforte playing to Douglas G. A. Fox (scholar); the John Hopkinson Medals for pianoforte playing to Jennie Wilson (gold), Bertha Nottingham (scholar) (silver); the Manns Memorial Prize to Philip Levine (Violin scholar).

On the occasion of the Court dinner of the Musicians' Company, held on April 23, at the suggestion of the Master (Mr. A. F. Hill) all present rose and drank in solemn silence to the memory of the hero musicians who played during the sinking of the 'Titanic.' This act of homage to the brave was followed by the performance of the solemn movement known as 'Death and the Maiden' from Schubert's D minor Quartet.

It has been decided to hold a musical festival—in which a competitive section will be included—at Brighton in the last week of November. This welcome project is the outcome of the energies of Mr. Lyell-Taylor, musical director of the Brighton Municipal Orchestra. This town will also be the seat of the Annual Music Trades Convention on May 10-14, 1912.

The Albion Trio (Miss Louise Aumonier, Miss Dorothea Walenn and Miss Phyllis Hasluck) have met with such success in giving their series of luncheon-hour concerts at the Bishopsgate Institute that they have organized a 'tea-hour' series to take place at Clifford's Inn on May 1, 15 and 29.

The spectacular performance of Félicien David's 'Le Désert' (invented and produced by Mr. Holford Bottomley), given by Clark's College at the Albert Hall on April 22, achieved a distinct success. We are not at present able to describe it more fully.

We regret that in our report of the concert given by the Barrow Madrigal Society (April number, p. 256) the conductor was stated to be 'Mr.' instead of Mrs. Bourne.

On March 25 Mr. W. Robinson, the retiring organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Cathedral Church, Malta, was presented with a handsome cabinet of music. The presentation was made by the Governor.

The successful candidates for the Melba and Merchant Taylors' Scholarships at the Guildhall School of Music were Miss Dora Briscoe and Mr. Reginald Herbert.

A new orchestra has been formed at Devonshire Park, Eastbourne, under the conductorship of Mr. Norfolk Megone.

The Louisa Hopkins Memorial Prize (pianoforte) at the Royal Academy of Music has been awarded to Frances Klein.

Answers to Correspondents.

L. R.—The bass should not arrive at the tonic until the strong beat that commences the next bar. At the other point in question relative minor harmony would be preferable.

M. M.—M. Debussy was born near Paris on August 22, 1862. His 'Pelléas et Mélisande' was produced at the Opéra Comique on April 30, 1902.

Stella.—'Die Verschiebung kann bei der Wiederholung genommen werden' means 'the left pedal may be used in the repeat.'

Ellen.—Various well-known musicians of the name of Strauss are distinguished in our issue for August, 1910.

Paris.—See our Competition Festival Record. The answer to your third question is not yet public.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Mr. Gervase Elwes (with Special Portrait)	297
The Philharmonic Society of London	299
Theodor Streicher. By Ernest Newman	303
Occasional Notes	305
The Historical Organ in the Church of St. Magnus-the-Martyr, London Bridge (Illustrated)	306
Mr. Joseph Holbrooke's New Opera, 'The Children of Don.' By Hermann Klein	309
Church and Organ Music	310
Reviews	313
Correspondence	314
Obituary	314
Guildhall School of Music	314
Mr. W. W. Cobbett on Chamber Music	315
Westminster Cathedral: Holy Week and Easter Music	316
Indian Music	316
The 'Jena' Symphony	316
The Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto	317
The Mary Wakefield Westmorland Festival	317
The Berlin Musical Season	318
Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's Music to 'Othello'	318
The Edward Mason Choir	318
Mr. Balfour Gardiner's Concerts	319
London Choral Society	319
Good Friday Concerts	319
London Concerts	319
Suburban Concerts	328
Music in the Provinces	328
Country and Colonial News	335
Foreign Notes	337
Miscellaneous	338
Answers to Correspondents	338
MUSIC:
'I will sing of Thy power, O God.' Full Anthem for Festival or General use. By Oliver King	321

THREE Extra Supplements are given with this number:

1. Portrait of Mr. Gervase Elwes.
2. Blessed be Thou, O Lord God. Anthem by C. H. Lloyd.
3. Competition Festival Record.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

ALCOCK, W. G.—"When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion." Festival Anthem. (No. 1014, Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 6d.

BEETHOVEN.—Cavatina for Violins and Organ. Arranged by N. C. HILL. 2s. Extra Violin Parts. 6d.

BIRCH, G. A.—Kyrie, Gloria, and Gratias, in F. 2d.

BLAIR, HUGH.—"Meditation." (Op. 29, No. 1.) (No. 426, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

—— Phantasie. (Op. 29, No. 2.) (No. 427, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

—— "Slumber Song." (Op. 29, No. 3.) (No. 428, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

—— Ballade. (Op. 29, No. 4.) (No. 429, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

BRAHMS, J.—Five Songs (Op. 49) for Soprano or Tenor. (English and German words.) The English Words by W. G. ROTHERY. 2s.

BUDDEN, HORACE.—"Oh! I'm a Teddy Bear." Song. 1s. 6d.

—— "The City of the Pines." Song. 1s. 6d.

CARSE, A. VON AHN.—Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in E flat. (No. 853, Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

DAVID, W. T.—"Bethlehem." Song. English and Welsh Words. 2s.

DELMAS, MARC.—"The Inn of Life." Chorus for T.T.B.B. English Words by W. G. ROTHERY. (No. 532, The Orpheus.) 4d.

ELGAR, EDWARD.—"Stars of the Summer Night." (Spanish Serenade.) (Op. 23.) Two-part Chorus for Ladies' voices, with Accompaniments for two Violins and Pianoforte. (No. 161, Novello's Two-part Songs for Female or Boys' Voices.) 6d.

ENGELHARDT, CECIL.—"On a Summer's Day." Song. In C, for Contralto or Baritone; in E flat, for Soprano or Tenor. 2s. net.

FANING, EATON.—"Liberty." Dramatic Scene. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; 'Cello and Bass, 1s.

FLETCHER, PERCY E.—"The Deacon's Masterpiece." 1st Violin, 1s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 1s. 6d.; Viola, 1s. 6d.; Violoncello, 1s. 6d.; Basso, 1s. 6d.

FRANCK, CÉSAR.—"Song of the Ermine." Chorus for S.S.A. from the Opera "Hulda." English Words by W. G. ROTHERY. (No. 433, Novello's Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

GARDINER, H. BALFOUR—"Evenèn in the Village." Four-part Song. (No. 1236, Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

GATTY, NICHOLAS C.—"Duke or Devil." A Farcical Opera in one Act. 4s.

GERMAN, EDWARD—"Sleeping." Four-part Song. (No. 1240, Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

—— "In Praise of Neptune." Four-part Song. (No. 1245, Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

GIBBONS, ORLANDO.—"Hosanna to the Son of David." Transposed edition, in E flat. (No. 1015, Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

HILL, CLARENCE S.—"Orion." Song. 2s.

KING, OLIVER—"I will sing of Thy power, O God." Anthem for Festival or General use. (No. 831, The Musical Times.) 1½d.

LEMON, LAURA G.—"Down the blue Niagara." Canadian Love Song. 2s.

—— "Don't go! Teddy Bear, don't go!" Children's Song. 2s.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

MAWDSLEY, R.—Choral Prelude on the Nativity. 2d.

—— Quadruple and Major and Minor Chants to the Te Deum and Benedictus. 2d.

MILLER, GEORGE.—"The Military Band." (No. 83, Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.) 2s.; Paper Boards, 2s. 6d.

PALADILHE, E.—"Invocation." Chorus for T.T.B.B. English words by W. G. ROTHERY. (No. 537. The Orpheus.) 3d.

PARRY, C. H. H.—"The Lotos Eaters." Choric Song. 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s. 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 2s.

PASCOE, C. F.—"Lord, this earth so high and great," and "Lord, this house is all Thine own." 4d.

PECH, RAYMOND.—"The Cavaliers." Barbaric Song for T.T.B.B. The English words by W. G. ROTHERY. (No. 534, The Orpheus.) 4d.

ROSS, W. G.—"The Blind Boy." Trio for S.S.A. (No. 425, Novello's Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW.—No. 239, contains the following music in both Notations:—"High on the Mountain." Unison Song. CHOPIN. "I want to be a Soldier." LADY ARTHUR HILL. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment (8vo). B. Voice Parts only, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

			A.	B.
No.	1068.	"Deep treasured in my heart." Unison Song. SCHUMANN	1½d.	—
,,	1097.	"Hohenlinden." Unison Song. F. A. MARSHALL	—	1d.

CHILDREN'S SINGING GAMES. Edited by ALICE B. GOMME and CECIL J. SHARP:

No.	1101.	"Jenny Jones."	2d.	—
,,	1102.	"The Three Soldiers."	2d.	—
,,	1103.	"There stands a lady."	2d.	—
,,	1104.	"The Farmer's in his den."	2d.	—
,,	1105.	"The Butcher's Shop."	2d.	—
,,	1106.	"Poor Mary sits a-weeping."	2d.	—
,,	1107.	"Looby Light."	2d.	—
,,	1108.	"The King of the Barbarees."	2d.	—
,,	1109.	"The Roman Soldiers."	2d.	—
,,	1110.	"Three Jolly Fishermen."	2d.	—
,,	1111.	"Two jolly sailor-boys."	2d.	—
,,	1112.	"Hark! the robbers."	2d.	—
,,	1113.	"The jolly nigger boy."	2d.	—
,,	1114.	"Wallflowers." / "The gallant ship." / "Queen Mary."	2d.	—
,,	1115.	"Sweet Daisy."	2d.	—
,,	1116.	"Sally go round." / "The Two Pigeons."	2d.	—
,,	1117.	"Ring a ring o' roses." (Two versions)	2d.	—
,,	1118.	"Our shoes are made of leather." / "Green Gravel."	2d.	—

SEBRIGHT, GUY.—Five-fold Amen. On Card. 1d.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT:—

No.	1996.	"Land of my Fathers." Four-part Song. Arr. by HARRY EVANS.	1½d.
,,	2007.	"Ave Maria." Chorus for Female Voices. (Latin and English words.) H. H. HUSS.	3d.
,,	2029.	"O sing unto the Lord." Easter Anthem. J. VARLEY ROBERTS.	1½d.
,,	2031.	"Song of the Ermine." Chorus for Female Voices. CÉSAR FRANCK.	1½d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

WESLEY, S. S.—"Onward, Christian Soldiers" (Excelsior). Processional Hymn. 1½d.

—— "I am Thine, O save me." Full Anthem for five voices. Edited by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 170, Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"Finale Jubilante." (No. 44, The Recital Series of Original Compositions for the Organ. Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE.) 2s.

REDUCED PRICES.

HALL, E. V.—Seven Offertory Sentences. (No. 876, Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

HENSCHEL, G.—Progressive Studies for the Voice. (Op. 49.) In two parts. 2s. 6d. each.

HERVEY, F. A. J.—"The Roseate hues of early dawn." (Castle Rising.) (No. 875, Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

PUBLISHED FOR

THE H. W. GRAY CO., NEW YORK.

ANDREWS, MARK.—Sonata in C minor, No. 2. For Organ. $1.50 (6s.), or separately:

I. Allegro. 50 cents (2s.). III. Scherzo. 50 cents (2s.).
II. Evensong. 50 cents (2s.). IV. Finale. 50 cents (2s.).

BROWN, HAROLD P.—"Let us go hence." Part-song for S.A.T.B. 12 cents (4d.).

GILBERT, HENRY F.—Comedy Overture on Negro Themes. Full Score. $5.00 (20s.).

—— Indian Scenes. Five Pieces for the Pianoforte. $1.50 (6s.).

WEST, JOHN E.—"Eventide" (Holiest, breathe an evening blessing.) Sacred Song.

MR. W. H. GRIFFITHS

Author of "The Mixed Voice and the Registers," "Daily Studies in Speaking and Reading," &c.; Lecturer in Vocal Science to the Church of England Training College, Liverpool; Late Singing Master to the Lancashire and Cheshire County Councils; Consulting Voice Specialist to the Throat Hospital, Liverpool, and Special Correspondent to The Musical Herald, London, and The Musician, New York.

Mr. GRIFFITHS, after 25 years' practical experience in Singing, Voice Production, Choir Training, Elocution, and Defects of Speech, is now prepared to receive a limited number of Teachers and Expert Vocalists to study his methods of teaching. The lessons can be given at periods to suit professional workers, and much of it can be done by post, thus bringing the far-distant operator into direct touch with the most modern ideas and methods. Special classes will be held in London at Vacation time. Teachers are especially invited to write for my latest pamphlet. If accompanied by six stamps, a copy of my latest book (2s. 6d.) will be forwarded free (state voice).

76, Lord Street, Liverpool.
Also at 40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

TENOR WANTED, for All Saints', Devonshire Road, South Lambeth. Address, Walter Attersoll, 21, Thurleston Road, West Norwood.

BASSO CANTANTE, Pupil of well-known London Professor, REQUIRES ENGAGEMENT in Church of England Choir. London or suburbs. For further particulars, apply, A. N., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, London, W.

PIANO BUSINESS FOR DISPOSAL, £800 to £1,000.—Low rent; long frontage to main road; only exclusive music business in large market town (S. of England). Returns last 12 months about 30 per cent. better than previous year. Most satisfactory reason for disposal. Sheet music, small goods, hire system, &c. P. W., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

EVERY COMPOSER should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price Lists (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Songs, &c. 50 Copies of Hymn-Tune, Kyrie, &c., 3s. 6d.: 100, 4s. 6d. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

ORCHESTRELLE PIANOLA PIANO (King Edward VII.).—Metrostyle Themodist. Newest Model. Cost 100 guineas. Sacrifice, £70. "J.," 1, Gordon Road, Ilford.

MR. WARREN TEAR having resigned the post of Organist, &c., of St. John-the-Evangelist, Brixton, through ill-health, can now accept temporary or permanent duty. 44, Telford Avenue, Streatham Hill, S.W.

MELODIOUS TECHNIQUE

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

J. A. O'NEILL.

IN TWO BOOKS:

Price Two Shillings each, net.

These Pianoforte Studies have been highly praised by M. VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN, who has expressed his intention of playing some of them during his Recital Tour in the United States. His testimonial is published with the Work, which consists of Twelve Numbers, specially designed to develop power and skill in the fourth and fifth fingers. The importance of trying to equalize these weaker fingers with the stronger ones is unquestionable, as defective execution is more often traceable to this inequality of the fingers than to any other cause.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE QUEEN'S HALL, OCTOBER 6, 1910.

THE VICAR OF BRAY

VARIATIONS

FOR STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST AUSTIN.

(Op. 35.)

	s.	d.
SCORE	6	0
STRING PARTS	6	0
PIANOFORTE SOLO	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
One inch (displayed)	0	10	0
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with every Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 160, Wardour Street, London, W., not later than

TUESDAY, MAY 21

(FIRST POST.)

This Supplement is part also of the May issue of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, and can be obtained with the REVIEW, price 1½*d.*

The Competition Festival Record

No. 46.

INTERNATIONAL MUSICAL COMPETITION & DEMONSTRATION FOR CHOIRS, ORCHESTRAS, & BANDS.

PARIS, MAY 26, 27 (WHIT-MONDAY), AND 28.

Our recent numbers have given many particulars regarding this great event. Below we now give portraits of those most concerned in the management—M. Alphonse Deville (the president of the Commission), M. Chavanon (the general-secretary), M. Bonnaire (the representative in Great Britain), M. Chapuis, and M. Laurent de Rillé—and we append a list of the own-choice pieces to be sung by the choirs.

M. DEVILLE.
(President of the Commission.)

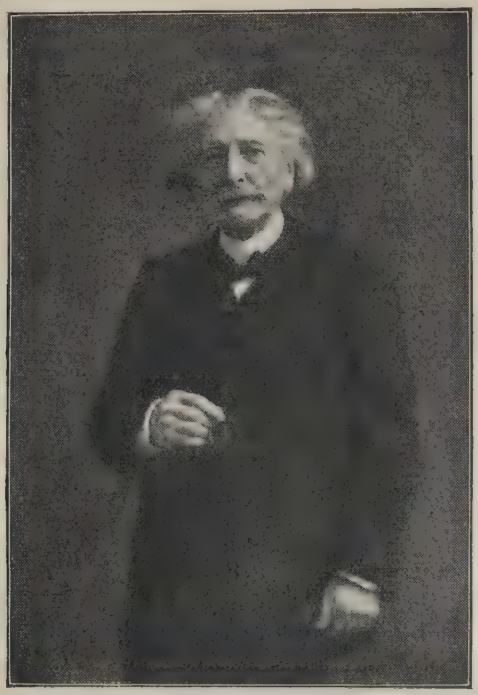
Monsieur Alphonse Deville was president of the Paris Municipal Council in 1903-4, and during that period he received the late King Edward and the King of Italy. He is still a member of the Council, representing the division Nôtre Dame des Champs. He is a very popular man, and was elected almost unanimously. He was born in 1862 in the picturesque town of Dôle in the Jura. He has obtained honours or decorations from almost all countries in Europe, but one he prizes more than all others is the Order (G.C.V.O.) given to him by Her late Majesty Queen Victoria. When he came to London with a delegation of the Municipal Council he was only a member purely and simply, but with his notoriety and influence, and his knowledge of English, he gained considerable popularity with the Royal family at the time, and it is he who made all the official presentations. At the City Council his authority has always been influential. Nothing is done in the service of the Fine Arts, an important department of the offices of the City Council, without his opinion being first obtained.

He is a member of the Fourth Commission of the Municipal Council, which has to deal with matters of the highest importance. He is also always nominated auditor of the Budget of Fine Arts. He is an authority on all subjects relating to sculpture, painting, architecture, and music, and he holds the keys of the administrations of the municipal theatres of Paris.

He was one of the leaders of the movement of the Entente Cordiale, of which he is a most enthusiastic supporter.

M. AUGUSTE CHAPUIS.
(Vice-President of the Commission and Chief Inspector of Singing in the Schools of the City of Paris.)

M. Auguste Chapuis is very popular in his capacity as Chief Inspector of Schools, a position that is considered one of high honour. He is an authority on musical matters in general and also has composed a number of works, some of which—especially such as are written for children—have attained a great vogue. He has written two test-pieces for the Concours.



M. LAURENT DE RILLÉ.

(Vice-President of the Commission and Inspector-General of Singing in the Department of the Seine.)

M. Laurent de Rillé is a very capable musician and a popular composer. He is best known by his numerous male-voice choir pieces. 'The Christian Martyrs' has had great vogue amongst male-voice choirs in this country. M. de Rillé is eighty-two years of age, and is still remarkably active. He had the honour of being invited to compose two of the imposed tests for the Concours, viz., 'The riders of the night' (men's voices) and 'The exiles' (female voices).

M. ANTONIN CHAVANON.

(General-Secretary to the Commission.)

The popular and genial general-secretary of the Municipal Council of the City of Paris Musical Festival is a musical enthusiast. He was a member of the Artillery Military Band of the Fourth Army Corps stationed at Le Mans during 1876-1881, and he became in turn leader and conductor. He has done much to promote musical education in Mid- and South-West France. He established schools for solfeggio, and organized municipal bands at Bord and Argentat in the Department of Corrèze (1885).

In the course of a long stay at Brussels, which ended in 1904, he reorganized the well-known institution, 'L'harmonie Française de Bruxelles,' which he directed. In 1906, under the direction of MM. Gresse, Cavaillé, and Massenet, he managed for the proprietors of the well-known newspaper, Le Journal, a great musical tournament, in which over 300 Societies took part and £8,000 in prizes was distributed. He is the author of two musical Comedies and Revues, one of which had great success at the Scala Theatre, Brussels, and the St. George's Theatre, Paris, in 1905-6. He possesses great skill as an organizer, and this reputation no doubt led the Paris Council to place in his hands the secretaryship of the mammoth Festival to take place at Whitsuntide. His task is a heavy one, and will try his powers to the utmost; but all who know him have confidence in the result.

M. H. BONNAIRE.

(Agent-General in London for the Commission.)

M. Henri Bonnaire, the Agent-General in London for the Paris Tournament, is an energetic and resourceful man just passed the old age of his youth—reckoned by years, but not by vitality. He was born at Paris some forty odd years ago, but he has been in residence in London for many years. In his early youth he displayed musical tendencies, and at the age of nine he was able to play De Beriot's violin concertos and he began to compose music. When he left school he went into business, and soon after his thirtieth year he sold his interests and retired. He then came to London and has resided here since, following a variety of pursuits, chiefly journalistic. He is the editor of the English edition of the 'Universal Music and Dramatic Directory,' a volume of some 1,500 pp. giving cosmopolitan information regarding artists, musical institutes and doings. M. Bonnaire is a good sportsman, and he also keeps up his musical practice as much as his busy life will allow. He and his colleagues in Paris have undertaken a heavy task in arranging the multifarious details of the great tournament. The work in connection with this country has been exceedingly onerous because there has been so much to discuss as to the travelling arrangements and catering for the many thousands who will visit Paris as performers or listeners.

It may be as well to state here that during the tournament M. Bonnaire and Dr. W. G. McNaught will be staying at the Palais Royal Hôtel. If any inquiries are necessary they should be made there in writing, because neither of these gentlemen can undertake to be within doors at stated times.

COMPETING CHOIRS.

List giving the prescribed and 'own-choice' test-pieces:

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Div. Excellence.)

Test: 'The exiles' (Laurent de Rillé).

Irish Ladies' Choir—
'Oft in the stilly night' ... ... } T. R. Jozé
'Savourneen Dheelish' ... ... }

Farmer Road Girls' School, Leyton—
'Fly, singing bird' ... ... Elgar
'Sunbeams' ... ... Landon Ronald

Blackpool Orpheus Glee Society—
'Summer wind' ... ... MacDowell
'Serenade' ... ... Schubert
'A June rose bloomed' ... ... Coleridge-Taylor
'Ballad of Sir Humphrey Gilbert' ... Wolstenholme
'Rest thee on this mossy pillow' ... Smart

Manchester Ladies' Choir—
'Love song' ... ... Brahms
'A June rose bloomed' ... ... Coleridge-Taylor

Madame Layton's Choir—
'The nightingale' ... ... Weelkes
'Ave Maria' ... ... F. Marchetta

Padiham Ladies' Choir—
'The spinning chorus' ... ... Wagner

Gitana Ladies' Choir (Liverpool)—
'The Indian bride' ... ... Percy Fletcher

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Div. Superior.)

Test: 'Beauteous morn' (Edward German), Trio accompaniment.

Birmingham Ladies' Choir—
'The pixies' ... ... S. Coleridge-Taylor
'Gentle spring' ... ... Joseph Holbrooke

Madame Etlinger's Choir—
'Le Marchand de Sable' ... Gustave Ferrari
'The Lord is my Shepherd' ... Schubert

Newport Ladies' Choir—
'To primroses' ... ... Henry Hiles

Triphena Ladies' Choir—
'Sound asleep' ... ... Vaughan Williams
'Urchins and elves' ... ... Ernest Walker
'The Spanish gipsy girl' ... ... E. Lassen

Liverpool Village Choir—
'The snow' ... ... Elgar
'Comrades' song of hope' ... ... Adolphe Adam

Bangor Ladies' Choir—
'Yr Ha' ('The summer') ... ... Gwilym Gwent

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Div. Excellence.)

Test: 'To aviators' (Saint-Saëns).

London Welsh Choir—
'The phantom host' ... ... Friedrich Hegar

Stourbridge Institute Male Choir—
'The Reveille' ... ... Elgar

Swansea and District Choir—
'The Reveille' ... ... Elgar

Southport Vocal Union—
'Feasting, I watch' ... ... Elgar
'The shadows of death' ... ... Max Bruch
'The long day closes' ... ... Sullivan

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Div. Superior.)

Test: 'The riders of the night' (Laurent de Rillé).

Morley Vocal Union—
'I wish to tune my quiv'ring lyre' ... S. S. Wesley

Excelsior Male Choir—
'After many a dusty mile' ... ... Elgar
'The beleaguered' ... ... Sullivan

York Male Choir—
'I wish to tune my quiv'ring lyre' ... S. S. Wesley

Wren Male Choir—
'Give a rouse' ... ... Bantock
'O peaceful night' ... ... German

Habergham Glee Union—
'The Reveille' ... ... Elgar

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Division I. First Section.)

Test: 'The two messages' (H. Maréchal).

Shrewsbury Male Choir—
'The Crusaders' ... ... D. Protheroe

Barclay's Musical Society—
'Yea, cast me from heights of the mountains' ... ... Elgar

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS (without accompaniment).

(Div. Excellence.)

Test: 'The two fiddlers' (A. Chapuis).

Smallwood Metcalfe Choir—
'Moonlight' ... ... Eaton Faning
'The hundred pipers' ... ... W. S. Roddie

Manchester Vocal Union—
'On Himalay' ... ... Bantock
'Cold winter, villain that thou art' ... Debussy

Melton Mowbray Choir—
'Take heed, ye shepherd swains' ... De Pearsall
'My love dwelt in a Northern land' ... Elgar

Halifax Madrigal Society—
'Hard by a crystal fountain' ... ... Morley
'Morning song of praise' ... ... Max Bruch
'The Leprehaun' ... ... Bantock

Glasgow Choral Union—
'The surrender of the soul to the Everlasting Love' ... ... Peter Cornelius
'Fire, fire my heart' ... ... Morley
'Is there a nation so elect' ... Johannes Brahms

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS (with accompaniment).

(Div. Excellence.)

Test: 'Far o'er the bay' (César Franck).

Edward Mason Choir—
'Choral hymns from the Rig Veda' Gustav von Holst

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS (without accompaniment).

(Div. Superior.)

Test: 'The weasel' (F. de la Tombelle).

Ealing Philharmonic Society—
'You stole my love' ... ... W. Macfarren
'Hymn to music' ... ... Dudley Buck

Ayr Burghs and County Choir—
'Weary wind of the West' ... ... Elgar

Willesden and District Choir—
'Sweet honey-sucking bees ... ... Wilbye
'Go, song of mine' ... ... Elgar

Chesterfield and District Choir—
'Go, song of mine' ... ... Elgar
'You stole my love' ... ... W. Macfarren

Glasgow Orpheus Choir—
'By Babylon's wave' ... ... Gounod
'Diaphena' ... ... Walter Hately

London Scottish Choir—
'Break, break, break' ... ... G. Macfarren
'The sea hath its pearls' ... ... Ciro Pinsuti
'Scots wha' hae' wi' Wallace bled' Frederic Archer

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS (with accompaniment).

(Div. Superior.)

Test: 'The charcoal-burner' (A. Chapuis).

St. James's Glee Party—
'Excelsior' ... ... Balfe
'Sir Galahad' ... ... Rutland Boughton

Newport United Choir—
'The sea hath its pearls' ... ... Ciro Pinsuti

THE CHILDREN'S CHOIRS.

Until the end of March there was some doubt whether the London County Council would see their way to accept the invitation of the Paris Council to send 500 children to sing on May 28. Many members of the Council considered that they were not justified in imposing the cost (£600) on the rates, and it was argued that if the Council did vote the sum the Local Government Board would surcharge the members of the Council. In the end it was resolved that the invitation be accepted, and it was decided to endeavour to raise the sum needed privately or by a semi-public appeal by the Chairman. The great point settled is that the children are to go to Paris.

The first task was the difficult one of selecting the school choirs that desired to take part. This was decided by a sort of competition in which forty-five choirs took part. The result was the choice of the following :

Boys.

Aristotle Road, Clapham.
The 'Reay,' Brixton.
Bellenden Road, Peckham.
Gillespie Road, Holloway.
St. Stephen's, Westbourne Park.
Holy Trinity, Greenwich.
Swaffield Road, Wandsworth.
Addison Gardens, Kensington.
Dockhead (R.C.).

Girls.

Mina Road, Walworth.
Swaffield Road, Wandsworth.
Bloomfield Road, Woolwich.
Addison Gardens, Kensington.
The 'Ensham,' Tooting.
Conway Road, Woolwich.
Bellenden Road, Peckham.
Keetons Road, Bermondsey.
Ethelburga Street, Battersea.

Although the invitation of the Paris Council so far as it included board and lodging extended only to L.C.C. children, other schools were cordially invited if they could defray all their expenses. It is gratifying to record that the following extra Metropolitan and provincial schools have entered choirs :

The Romilly School Boys' Choir.
The Goodwin Memorial School, Carlisle (Boys).
Devonshire Road Council School, Blackpool.
Farmer Road Council School, Leyton (Girls).

Schools under the West Ham Council :

Godwin Road.
St. Paul's Church.
Beckton Road.
Colgrave.

The children and their teachers will travel to Paris on Saturday, May 25, and will return on May 29, thus having three clear days in Paris. The Committee in Paris and M. Bonnaire in London have been hard at work arranging for the travelling and the accommodation in Paris.

OPEN LETTER FROM A PARISIAN SCHOOL CHILD, TO A FRIEND.

DEAR HENRIETTE,—I suppose you have heard that a great Festival is going to take place at Paris in May. Our school will have the honour of taking part in it. I am very glad of this, and even a little proud. What I like best, although it gives me some anxiety, is that little English girls, invited by the City of Paris, will also be present at this lovely international fête. Our head-mistress means to ask some of these girls to visit our school, and we are all pleased at the idea But I am wondering how I am going to make myself understood to these stranger children. They are little girls like me, and probably I shall not be much afraid of them, but I have been studying English for only six months, and when I have said 'Good morning, miss,' or 'How are you?' or 'How old are you?' I think my talent will be found wanting. I am going to work hard until May to enrich my vocabulary, and I will compel myself to receive the little English girls as well as I can, to show them that the French are always hospitable and friendly. Meanwhile I send best greetings to my little Henriette.

Yours very sincerely,

Ecole Paul Bert à Aubervilliers, Seine. ADRIENNE MASSON. (13½ years.)

[Sent for publication in THE COMPETITION FESTIVAL RECORD. Translated from the French.]

SYNOPSIS OF FUNCTIONS ON MAY 26, 27.

Sunday, May 26.—Meeting of all Societies in the Tuileries Garden, 6 p.m.—Proclamation of the Grand Prix for Band Contests.—Procession of all Societies, dispersing at Place de la Bastille at 9.30 p.m.—Grand Instrumental and Choral Concert in the Place de l'Hôtel de Ville: this does not affect the British Societies (two huge grand stands will be erected in the Square).—Illumination of Square as on National Fête, July 14.—Public Fêtes in different parts of Paris.

Monday, May 27.—Assembly of Societies at end of Contests.—Proclamation of Grand Prix, Choral Section.—8 p.m., Grand Concerts in following Halls: Trocadéro, Gaveau, Pleyel, Wagram, Bullier, Petit Journal, Gallerie des Champs Elysées, Au Journal, Agricultural Hall. Horticultural Hall, &c.

In the Honours section a Yorkshire choir of three hundred voices, gathered by Dr. Coward from Sheffield and Leeds, will give on Tuesday a two-hours' concert in the Trocadero. The programme will include Bach's 'Sing ye to the Lord' for double choir, the dance from Elgar's 'From the Bavarian Highlands,' several madrigals, and four choruses from the 'Messiah.'

The English members of the jury will be Dr. McNaught, Dr. Henry Coward, Mr. Arthur Fagge, and Mr. Hermann Klein for Choral Classes, and Mr. Henry J. Iles for the Bands. They will be associated with the French members of the jury, and not judge British entries alone.

When the People's Palace Musical Festival, Mile End Road, London, E., was projected a few years ago, great efforts were made on behalf of the 'further east' Festival at Stratford to induce the promoters to abandon the scheme on the ground that it was not needed, and that it would injure the Stratford event. But what has happened? Stratford, we rejoice to record, is more successful than ever, and the People's Palace Festival has a record entry of choirs for its competitions to be held on May 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14 17 and 18. During this period there will appear eighty-five choirs, twenty-two vocal quartets, seven vocal trios, two instrumental trios, three string quartets and five orchestras. On the last day, May 18, Mr. Coleridge-Taylor will conduct the combined choirs at the prize-giving and concert.

Miss Edith Barran has earned the thanks of the East-end community for her generous efforts on their behalf.

Dr. Hadow took the chair at the distribution of prizes—senior day—at the Hexham Competition in March. In the course of his remarks he said he had listened to all the competitions and he congratulated the competitors on their continued progress. He hoped, however, they would bear in mind the wise advice given by the judge (Mr. Harry Evans), especially with reference to two things: (1) Mr. Evans strongly condemned the making of 'points' for no intelligent reason—merely for the sake of making points, and (2) he also said that expression obtained at the expense of purity of tone and intonation was of no value. To bring it home to them Dr. Hadow said he would draw their attention to object-lessons on these very matters in natural history: (1) The creature that has the greatest number of points in the animal kingdom is the hedgehog; (2) No animal so completely combines the maximum of expression with the minimum of pure tone and intonation as the domestic cat. Neither, he said, is a good model for choristers to follow.

MIDLAND MUSICAL COMPETITION FESTIVAL.

We have received the following communication for publication:

The policy of the promoters of a Musical Competition Festival, to be held in the heart of the Midlands, is proving an unqualified success. It had been anticipated that, owing to its central position, a Festival there would have singular advantages, and would draw competitors from all directions. It is now evident that this forecast was justified, and that the meetings to be held in Birmingham this spring, on May 14, 15, 16, 17, and 18, will constitute the greatest event hitherto known in the annals of the movement. The competitors number no fewer than 6,500—a record number—150 choirs have entered for the choral competitions, ten orchestras will play their part, and on the children's day the city will be brightened by the presence of forty-eight children's choirs.

In the list of prizes we note the following: The Daily News (Midland edition) Challenge Shield, for Public Elementary School Choirs (Greater Birmingham); the (3) Birmingham Daily Post Trophies, for Male-voice Choirs, Female-voice Choirs, and Mixed-voice Choirs (Midland Counties); the (3) Schott and Augener Trophies for Chamber Music (open); the Curwen Challenge Shield, for Mixed-voice Choirs; the Breitkopf & Haertel Challenge Shield, for Male-voice Choirs; the Boosey Challenge Shield, for Female-voice Choirs (the last three open to Prize-winning Choirs); the Chappell Challenge Shield for Full Orchestra (open); the (2) Novello Shields for Male-voice Choirs and Mixed-voice Choirs (open); and the Elkington Shield, for Contralto Solo.

Owing to the large number of competitors, the accommodation at any one hall has proved insufficient, and it has been necessary to make arrangements in several quarters. The contests will be carried on simultaneously at the Town Hall, the Midland Institute (Large Theatre, Small Theatre, and Council Room), Queen's College, the Temperance Hall, and the Imperial Hotel (Connaught Room), but of course the Town Hall will be in a sense the headquarters, and it is there that the evening concerts will be held. The Festival will reach its climax on Saturday (May 18), when the contests will take place between eighteen prize-winning choirs of other Festivals, the final results being reached at the Town Hall in the evening.

The Festival will be held under the presidency of the Lord Mayor; there is a strong committee. The hon. directors are Mr. C. B. Bragg, J.P., and Prof. Granville Bantock, and the list of adjudicators is a good one, including such well-known names as Dr. W. G. McNaught, Dr. H. P. Allen (Oxford), Dr. A. H. Brewer (Gloucester), Dr. R. R. Terry (Westminster), Mr. Rawdon Briggs (Manchester), Mr. Harry Evans (Liverpool), Mr. R. H. Wilson (Manchester), Messrs. E. Stephenson, W. Lehmann, and Mrs. Kapp.

Special excursions at reduced fares are being arranged for competitors and visitors from all parts. For these it will be necessary to produce the Festival ticket, which should be applied for (to the Hon. Secs., Queen's College, Birmingham) without delay.

The movement is still growing and is of the happiest augury for the future of music in this country, since it arises spontaneously from the simple love of the art among all classes. Artisans attend their practices week after week (often from long distances), give up a day's pay to take part in the contests, and follow the performances with the keenest interest. There is no make-believe about it; they put to shame some of the languid audiences at our fashionable concerts. And when we remember that at our last great musical period it was also in choral music that we excelled (the Madrigal), the impression of a healthy musical growth is strengthened. It is hoped that the present Festival may prove not only a successful achievement, but a spur to future effort.

BELFAST.—March 8 and 9.

This Festival was held at the Ulster Hall under the presidency of the Earl of Shaftesbury, and with Mr. R. H. Wilson as adjudicator. The scheme was entirely vocal, and comprised solos and choral singing. In the junior choral section, which was well supported, first prizes were won by Albert Street Presbyterian Sunday School (Mr. D. M. Patterson), Great Victoria Street Band of Hope (Mr. F. Neill), St. Enoch's National School (Mr. D. MacMillan), Star of the Sea Convent N.S. (for action-songs), Main Street Boys' N.S., Bangor (Mr. R. Macdonald), Elmwood Girls' Club (Miss May C. Roddie). In the adult group the female-voice classes were alone contested. Messrs. Lowry & Co.'s Choir (Mr. James Woods) were successful in the class for commercial houses, and the G. F. S. Diocesan Lodge Choir (Miss F. Nixon) in the open class.

ISLE OF MAN (DOUGLAS).—March 19, 20, 21.

This was the coming of age of the Isle of Man Festival. The record is a long and proud one, for its operations have kept musical study alive in the Island and revealed the fact that its inhabitants have ample talent. Mrs. Laughton, the secretary, and all associated with her have fully earned the thanks of the community for their disinterested labours. The following were the principal results:

BOYS' CHOIRS.

1st. Demesne Road Board School, No. 2 (Mr. Noah Moore).

GIRLS' CHOIRS.

1st. 'Acacia' (Mrs. H. Rushworth).
2nd. Derby Road Schools, Peel (Mr. P. C. Moore).

SUNDAY SCHOOLS, ETC. (Five entries).

1st. All Saints' S. S. (Mrs. H. Rushworth).
2nd. St. Peter's S. S., Kirk Onchan (Mr. W. A. Craine).

JUNIOR MIXED CHOIRS.

1st. Buck's Road 'Junior Acacia' (Mrs. Rushworth).

JUNIOR CHOIRS (Two-part Sight-singing).

1st. Derby Road School, Peel.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

1st. St. Thomas's (Mrs. Rushworth).

FEMALE-VOICE (Three-part Sight-singing). (Six entries.)

1st. Peel Choral Society, Ladies (Mr. P. C. Moore).

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Country). (Five entries.)

1st. Kirk Onchan (Mr. W. A. Craine).
2nd. Laxey (Mr. Noah Moore).

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Town). (Five entries).

1st. Douglas Choral Society Ladies' Choir (Mr. J. D. Looney).
2nd. Mrs. Rushworth's Ladies' Choir.

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Country).

1st. Rushen Choral Society (Mr. A. Cregeen)

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Town).

1st. Peel Choral Society (Mr. P. C. Moore).

Village Choirs (Four entries).

1st. Laxey (Mr. Noah Moore).
2nd. Kirk Onchan (Mr. W. A. Craine).

Church and Chapel Choirs.

(Smaller Country Districts.)

1st. St. John's (Rev. S. B. Botwood).

(Country Districts—Six entries.)

1st. St. Peter's, Onchan (Mr. W. A. Craine).
2nd. Abbey Church Choir, Ballasalla (Mr. G. Bates).

Men and Boys.

1st. St. George's, Douglas (Miss Cannell).

Open Class.

Test: 'Awake, awake' (Stainer).

2nd. Buck's Road P.M. (Mrs. H. Rushworth).
1st. St. George's, Douglas (Miss Cannell).
Castletown P.M. (Mr. W. H. Cubbon).
Victoria Street Wesleyan (Mr. Gordon E. Stutely).

Choral Sight-singing.

Douglas Orpheus Choral Society (Mr. J. E. Kelly).
1st. Douglas Festival Choir (Mr. Noah Moore).
Laxey Choral Society (Mr. Noah Moore).
2nd. Peel Choral Society (Mr. P. C. Moore).
Buck's Road P. M. Church Choir (Mrs. H. Rushworth).

Choral Societies (Forty voices).

Tests: 'Song of the flax-spinner' (Leslie).
'Fire, fire my heart' (Morley).

2nd. Rushen Choral Society (Mr. Arthur Cregeen).
Kirk Michael Choral Society (Mrs. J. S. Mylchreest).
1st. Laxey Choral Society (Mr. Noah Moore).
Peel Choral Society (Mr. P. C. Moore).

Choral Societies (Sixty voices).

Tests: Choruses from 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast' (Coleridge-Taylor).
'Go, song of mine' (Elgar).

1st. Douglas Orpheus Choral Society (Mr. J. E. Kelly).
2nd. Douglas Festival Choir (Mr. Noah Moore).

COLERAINE.—March 28, 29.

The fourth annual two days' Festival in connection with the Coleraine Musical Festival Association, opened under favourable auspices. There were eighty-seven entries as compared with seventy-three last year. Mr. Daniel MacLaughlin (chairman of the Association) presided. Dr. W. G. McNaught adjudicated. The following were the chief results:

Junior Sight-Reading, 1st Coleraine Model School, Boys (Mr. J. A. Johnstone). Junior Mixed Choirs, 1st Killowen School Choir (Mr. W. J. Bryans). Junior Boys' Choirs, 1st Model School Choir (Mr. Johnstone). Senior Girls' School Choirs (challenge cup); 1st Kelly Memorial School Choir, Portrush (Miss Clarke), 2nd Irish Society's Girls' School, Coleraine (Miss M'Cullough). Female-Voice Choirs, 1st St. Patrick's G.F.S. Choir, Coleraine (Mrs. Dudley).

The evening concert was largely attended. The proceedings opened with the competition for adult mixed choirs, the test-piece being 'Silent, O Moyle,' and 'In silent night.' The entries and results were:

Mr. Croft's Choir.
1st. First Coleraine Presbyterian Choir (Mr. Telfer).
St. Patrick's Episcopal (Mr. F. W. Wood).
2nd. Mr. Martin's Choir.

The concert was contributed to by the various prize-winners.

On the second day most of the competitions were confined to urban and rural schools. The prize-winners were:

(Small rural choirs)—Mrs. M'Shane's choir from the Canning School, Garvagh. (Rural school choirs)—Kilmoyle School (Mrs. Boyd). (Large rural school choirs)—Garvagh School (Miss Agnes Dickson). (Large rural school choirs)—Cullycapple (Mr. A. Boyd). (Junior girls' choirs)—Honourable Irish Society's Girls' School, Coleraine (Miss J. Brattan). (Senior sight-reading)—1st Honourable Irish Society's Girls' School, Coleraine (Miss M'Culloch); 2nd Coleraine Model School (Mr. R. Henry). (Senior boys' choirs)—1st St. Malachy's School choir, Coleraine (Mr. Maguire). (Juvenile choirs, open)—Miss Daly's High School, Coleraine. (School choirs that had never won at a previous Festival)—Castleroe (Mr. Joseph M'Afee). Miss Bella Magee, Portrush, was awarded a special prize for solo singing.

Outstanding features of the Festival were the admirable sight-singing of the Irish Society's Girls' School, Coleraine (Miss M'Culloch), and the beautiful performance of the Portrush children, under Miss Clarke. The singing of the 'Flowers of the forest' (Scotch air) by the last-named choir, made a deep impression.

CIRENCESTER.—March 31.

Folk-songs and Dances.

This competitive meeting and display, held in the Bingham Hall, was highly successful. It was the first held under the auspices of the Cirencester and District Branch of the Folk-Song Society, of which Mrs. Bruce Swanwick is secretary. There were competitions in Morris dances, country dances, Morris jigs, sword-dances and folk-song singing, open to school and other teams, juvenile and adult. Cirencester Council School won many successes; prizes went also in the direction of Coates, Kemble, Birdlip, Stratton and other neighbouring localities. Mr. Cecil Sharp was the adjudicator.

ECCLES.—April 5.

An Eisteddfod on a small scale, organized by the United Welsh Church here, comprised solo and recitative competitions, quartet and choral contests. Ten choirs were heard in Woodward's 'The radiant morn,' the Eccles Vocal (Mr. Hughes) and the Weaste Congregational (Mr. T. Hughes) being declared equal. The sixteen gentlemen and fourteen lady soloists made their own choice of songs, many selecting pieces by the adjudicator, Professor J. Henry, who placed Miss F. Makinson and Miss Rushton at the head of the ladies' list, and awarded Mr. H. T. Davies the first prize for male-voice solo.

STOCKTON.—April 8.

The first Eisteddfod held under the auspices of the Thornaby Cymric Society attracted numerous competitors and listeners. A notable feature was the baritone solo class, in which fifty-eight singers entered. Mr. D. Lewis was the winner. Other solo prize-winners were Miss Marion Nadin (soprano), Mrs. Hough (contralto), and Mr. James Bowman (tenor). In the male-voice choir competition the result was as follows:

South Bank (Mr. Ernest Dallimore).
1st. Stockton Lyric (Mr. D. J. Jones).
Apollo (Mr. T. Nicholas).
Stockton and Thornaby (Mr. A. Howells).

Mr. E. Emlyn Davies adjudicated.

THE MARY WAKEFIELD (WESTMORLAND) FESTIVAL.—April 16 to 19.

This Festival is now held biennially. It is one of the most remarkable growths of the competitive festival movement Commenced in a small way in 1885, under the late Miss Mary Wakefield's fostering care it grew extraordinarily. Not even Miss Wakefield's death (in September, 1910) has hindered its vitality and expansiveness of outlook. The scheme has two distinct divisions, although they are worked sympathetically. The competitive division forces the close study of technique which, when acquired, is applied to the practice of great works. On this occasion two adult choirs, each of about three hundred voices, gave separate concerts. The programmes and other particulars of the concerts are given in the Musical Times for May. Here we have to do only with the competitive division. Mr. Harry Evans and Dr. McNaught adjudicated.

The following are the names of the competing choirs :

JUNIOR CHOIRS.

Ambleside (Miss Stella Hamilton).
Burneside (Mr. Legge).
Crosscrake (Mr. Webster).
Endmoor (Miss E. Cookson).
Heversham (Miss I. Slinger).
Howard Home (Miss M. P. Arnold).
Ings (Miss Alice Reade).
Kendal Boys' Central (Mr. S. J. Bell).
Kendal Parish Church, Girls (Miss Gornall).
Kendal Green (Mr. Gardiner).
Kendal High School (Miss Dale).
Kirkby Stephen (Mr. Stewart).
Levens (Miss R. Pennington).
Milnthorpe (Miss Scott).
Preston Patrick (Miss E. Cookson).
Warton United (Mr. F. Taylor).
Windermere (Miss Stella Hamilton).

ADULT CHOIRS (First Day).

Appleby (Mr. Godfrey Brown).
Ambleside (Rev. H. G. Rodgers).
Burneside and Staveley Choral Union (Mrs. A. H. Willink).
Burton (Mr. J. Atkinson).
Kendal N.W. District (Miss Cuttriss).
Kendal South District (Mr. W. Granger).
Kirkby Stephen (Mr. J. Stewart).
Windermere (Mr. G. Somervell).
Yealand (Mr. P. W. Smale).

(Second Day.)

Arnside (Mr. F. L. Barton).
Burneside and Staveley Choral Union (Mrs. A. H. Willink).
Burton-in-Lonsdale (Mr. J. E. Constantine).
Carnforth (Mr. E. E. Unsworth).
Cartmel (Mr. H. H. Norsworthy).
Cark (Miss H. Stamper).
Eversley Choral Union (Mrs. T. A. Argles).
Endmoor (Mrs. T. A. Argles).
Grange (Mr. H. H. Norsworthy).
Heversham Church Choir (Mrs. W. Nelson).
Hornby (Miss G. M. Illidge).
Kendal N.W. (Miss Cuttriss).
Kendal South (Mr. W. Granger).
Kirkby Lonsdale (Mr. John Taylforth).
Sedbergh (Mr. P. A. Thomas).
Skelsmergh (Mr. J. Robinson).
Windermere (Mr. G. Somervell).

All the competitions are 'close.' Competitors must reside within a given radius from Kendal.

The chief winners in the Junior Competitions were :

JUNIOR CHOIRS (under 17).

Test : 'Drake's drum.'
1st. Kendal Boys' Central.

JUNIOR CHOIRS (Smaller Choirs).

Test : 'Little Sir Hugh.'
1st. Howard Orphan Home.

JUNIOR CHOIRS (Boys only).

Test : ''Tis summertide by Eden side.'
1st. Kendal Boys' Central.

JUNIOR CHOIRS (Girls only).

Test : 'Lord Graeme set free.'
1st. Milnthorpe.

ACTION-SONG.

1st. Kendal Boys' Central.

INSTRUMENTAL COMPETITIONS.

ORCHESTRAL.

Test : Overture, 'Le Nozze di Figaro.'
1st. Penrith 'Brackenburgh' (Mr. Godfrey Brown).
2nd. Windermere (Mr. Max Schaffhausen).

STRING QUARTET.

Test : First movement from Mozart's Quartet No. 1, in G.
1st. Penrith (A).
2nd. Penrith (C).

INSTRUMENTAL TRIOS.

Test : Own-choice music.
1st. Kendal (Trio, Op. 11, one movement, Beethoven).
2nd. Windermere (Allegro, Op. 1, No. 1, Beethoven).

FEMALE-VOICE TRIOS.

Test : 'What can lambkins do ?'
1st. Kendal (C).
2nd. Heversham.

STRING ORCHESTRAS.

Test : Second movement of 'Peer Gynt' Suite, No. 1, 'The Death of Ase.'
1st. Windermere (Mr. Max Schaffhausen).
2nd. Cumberland Orchestral Society (Mr. Bertram Lewis).

VILLAGE CHORAL SOCIETIES.

Test : 'O Friend of souls.'
Ambleside the only entry.

CHORAL SOCIETIES (from 16 to 40 voices).

Test : 'Music's sweet voice.'
1st. Windermere.

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Test ; 'Keep watch.'
1st. Kendal South District.

MADRIGAL (from 16 to 40 voices).

Test : 'Lullaby.'
1st. Burton.

The Grange Cup was awarded to Kendal South, the members having made the best percentage of attendances (92.9) at twenty full-choir practices of the Festival music.

VILLAGE CHORAL SOCIETIES.

Test : 'A song of rest.'
1st. Heversham Church Choir.
2nd. { Horton. / Burton-in-Lonsdale.

CHORAL SOCIETIES.

Test : 'June in Kentucky.'
1st. Carnforth.
2nd. Eversley Choral Union.

MADRIGAL.

Test : 'Shoot, false love, I care not.'
1st. Carnforth.
2nd. { Hornby. / Burton-in-Lonsdale. / Kirby Lonsdale.

CHORAL SIGHT-READING.

1st. Carnforth.

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Test : 'A cradle song.'
1st. Arnside.
2nd. { Carnforth. / Eversley Choral Union.

OSWESTRY.—April 18.

Village choirs were invited to compete in two junior and two senior divisions under the adjudicatorship of Dr. Caradog Roberts. The adult mixed-voice choral contest was won by Weston-Rhyn Choral Society (Mr. W. E. Frith).

Reports of other competitions are given in the SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW edition of the RECORD.

INTERNATIONAL MUSICAL COMPETITION

PARIS: MAY 26, 27 (Whit-Monday), and 28.

The Imposed Tests can be supplied as follows:—

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS:—

		STAFF NOTATION.	SOL-FA.
DIVISION D'EXCELLENCE.
TO AVIATORS (Aux Aviateurs)	C. Saint-Saëns.	*	8d.
* The Vocal Score, French Words only, Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
DIVISION SUPÉRIEURE.
THE RIDERS OF THE NIGHT (Les Cavaliers de la nuit) ...	Laurent de Rillé.	6d.	3d.
DIVISION I.—FIRST SECTION.
TWO MESSAGES (Les deux Messages)	Henri Maréchal.	1s.	4d.
DIVISION I.—SECOND SECTION.
THE INN OF LIFE (L'auberge de la vie)	M. Delmas.	4d.	—
DIVISION II.—SECOND SECTION.
INVOCATION (Invocation)	Paladilhe.	3d.	—
DIVISION III.—SECOND SECTION.
THE CAVALIERS (Les Reitres)	R. Pech.	4d.	—

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS:—

(ACCOMPANIED.)

DIVISION D'EXCELLENCE.
FAR O'ER THE BAY (Chœur des Matelots)	César Franck.	6d.	3d.
DIVISION SUPÉRIEURE.
THE SONG OF THE CHARCOAL BURNER (La Chanson du Charbonnier)	Auguste Chapuis.	—	4d.
Pianoforte Score, French Words only, Price Three Shillings.

(UNACCOMPANIED.)

DIVISION D'EXCELLENCE.
THE TWO FIDDLERS (Les deux Ménétriers)...	Auguste Chapuis.	1s.	6d.
DIVISION SUPÉRIEURE.
THE WEASEL (Le Furet)	F. de la Tombelle	6d.	3d.

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS:—

DIVISION D'EXCELLENCE.
THE EXILES (Les Exilées)	Laurent de Rillé.	6d.	3d.
DIVISION SUPÉRIEURE.
BEAUTEOUS MORN	Edward German.	3d.	2d.

CHILDREN'S CHOIRS:—

TRIO (Unaccompanied). "How merrily we live"... ... Michael Este.

School Music Review, No. 57. Price 1½d. Both Notations together.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

ANTHEMS FOR ASCENSIONTIDE.

Above all praise and all majesty	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	1d.
*Achieved is the glorious work (2nd Chorus)	Haydn	1½d.
*All glory to the Lamb	Spohr	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	M. Wise	3d.
*Christ became obedient unto death	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
Christ is not entered into the Holy Places	Eaton Faning	1½d.
Come, ye children	Henry John King	3d.
For it became Him	Oliver King	1½d.
*God is gone up	Croft	4d.
God is gone up	W. B. Gilbert	2d.
*God, my King	Bach	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	H. Lahee	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee (Collect)	A. R. Gaul	3d.
*Hallelujah unto God's Almighty Son	Beethoven	3d.
*How excellent Thy Name, O Lord	Handel	1½d.
*If ye then be risen with Christ	Ivor Atkins	4d.
If ye then be risen	*F. Osmond Carr and J. Naylor, ea.	3d.
If ye then be risen (Two parts)	Myles B. Foster	3d.
In My Father's house	H. Elliot Button and J. Maude Crament, ea.	3d.
In that day	George Elvey	4d.
In that day (Open ye the gates)	F. C. Maker	3d.
It shall come to pass	B. Tours	1½d.
*I will not leave you comfortless	W. Byrd	3d.
King all glorious	J. Barnby	6d.
*Leave us not, neither forsake us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Let not your heart	Eaton Faning and G. Gardner, each	3d.
Let not your heart be troubled (Double Chorus, unac.)	M. B. Foster	3d.
*Let not (Four-part arrangement, with organ)	Myles B. Foster	3d.
*Let their celestial concerts all unite	Handel	1½d.
*Lift up your heads	Handel and J. L. Hopkins, each	1½d.
*Lift up your heads	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Lift up your heads	W. Turner	2d.
*Look, ye saints	Myles B. Foster	3d.
O all ye people, clap your hands	H. Purcell	3d.
*O clap your hands	J. Stainer	6d.
O clap your hands	T. T. Trimnell	3d.
*O God, the King of Glory	H. Smart	4d.
*O God, when Thou appearest	Mozart	3d.
*O how amiable	J. Barnby	3d.
*O Lord our Governour	H. Gadsby	3d.
O Lord our Governour	Marcello	1½d.
*O risen Lord	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Open to me the gates	F. Adlam	4d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	J. Baptiste Calkin	3d.
*Sing unto God	F. Bevan	3d.
*Ten thousand times ten thousand	Rev. E. Vine Hall	3d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
*The Lord is exalted	John E. West	1½d.
The Lord is King	H. Gadsby, 6d.; H. J. King	4d.
Thou art a priest for ever	S. Wesley	3d.
*Unfold, ye portals	Ch. Gounod	3d.
Where Thou reignest	Schubert	3d.
Who is this so weak and helpless	Rayner	2d.

ANTHEMS FOR WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw	J. Stainer	6d.
*And suddenly there came	Henry J. Wood	3d.
And when the day of Pentecost	Charles W. Smith	3d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
*As the hart pants	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Behold, I send the promise	J. Varley Roberts	4d.
*Come, Holy Ghost	T. Attwood	1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost	Elvey and J. L. Hatton, each	4d.
Come, Holy Ghost	C. Lee Williams and Palestrina, each	2d.
Come, Thou Holy Spirit	J. F. Barnett	3d.
Do not I fill heaven and earth	Hugh Blair	3d.
*Eye hath not seen (Two-part setting)	Myles B. Foster	3d.
*Eye hath not seen (Four-part setting)	Myles B. Foster	3d.
Fear thou not	Josiah Booth	1½d.
Give thanks unto God	Spohr	4d.
Glorious and powerful God	Orlando Gibbons	3d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God is a Spirit	W. S. Bennett	1½d.
*Great is the Lord	W. Hayes	4d.
*Grieve not the Holy Spirit	J. Stainer	3d.
Hail! breath of life	Thomas Adams	1½d.
Happy is the man	E. Prout	8d.
He that dwelleth in the secret place	Josiah Booth	4d.
*Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad Spiritum Sanctum)	G. C. Martin	1½d.
I was in the spirit	Blow	6d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. H. Parry	3d.
*I will not leave you comfortless	Bruce Steane	2d.
*I will pray the Father	Rev. G. W. Torrance	1½d.
If I go not away	Thomas Adams	1½d.
If I go not away	A. J. Caldicott	3d.
If ye love Me	C. S. Heap	1½d.
*If ye love Me	W. H. Monk, Tallis, and R. P. Stewart, ea.	1½d.
If ye love Me	Bruce Steane	2d.
If ye love Me	Herbert W. Wareing and W. J. Westbrook, each	3d.
In My Father's house	J. Maude Crament	3d.
It shall come to pass	G. Garrett	6d.
*It shall come to pass	B. Tours	1½d.
Let God arise	Greene	6d.
Let God arise	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
*Let not your heart be troubled	H. G. Trembath	1½d.
Look down, Holy Dove	B. Luard-Selby	3d.
*O clap your hands	J. Stainer	6d.
*O give thanks	G. Elvey	3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
*O taste and see	Goss	3d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
*O taste and see	Sullivan	1½d.
O Thou, the true and only Light	Mendelssohn	2d.
O where shall wisdom be found	Boyce	6d.
*Our blest Redeemer	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
*Praised be the Lord daily	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
Sing to the Lord	Smart	1s.
*Spirit of mercy, truth, and love	B. Luard-Selby	1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Gibbons	4d.
*The Glory of the God of Israel	T. Adams	3d.
The Lord came from Sinai	John E. West	3d.
The Lord descended	Hayes	1½d.
The Lord is in His Holy Temple	J. Stainer	4d.
The Lord is in His Holy Temple	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
The love of God is shed abroad	S. Reay	1½d.
There is no condemnation	H. S. Irons	3d.
The Spirit of God	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.
*The wilderness	Goss and S. S. Wesley, each	6d.
*When God of old came down from Heaven	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
We will rejoice	Croft	4d.
When the Day of Pentecost	A. Kempton	3d.
Whosoever drinketh	J. T. Field	1½d.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

*Almighty and everlasting God	Gibbons	1½d.
Almighty God, Who hast promised	H. Elliot Button	1d.
*Angel Spirits, ever blessed	Tchaikovsky	2d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	4d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Be ye all of one mind	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	Boyce	1½d.
*Blessing, glory	Bach	6d.
Come, ye children	Josiah Booth	3d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
Grant to us, Lord	H. Elliot Button	1d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	J. T. Field	2d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	G. C. Martin	4d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
Holy, Lord God Almighty	T. Bateson	4d.
*How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity	Tchaikovsky	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweest consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.
*Let Thy merciful ears	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
*Light of the world	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might	William Mason	1½d.
Lord of all power and might (men's voices)	J. Barnby	2d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. Varley Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
O God, Who hast prepared	A. R. Gaul	2d.
O joyful Light	B. Tours	4d.
*O Lord, my trust	King Hall	1½d.
O taste and see	*J. Goss and A. H. Mann, each	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Sing to the Lord	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
Teach me Thy way	Frank L. Moir	3d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
We humbly beseech Thee	H. Elliot Button	1d.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	Mozart	3d.

* Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.*

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CANTIONES SACRÆ

MUSICAL SETTINGS OF THE

ROMAN LITURGY

EDITED BY

DOM SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,

Monk of the Order of St. Benedict.

33.	ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses) with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington	1s.
4.	ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE — Mozart	2d.
22.	ADOREMUS (for Benediction) — F. E. Gladstone	2d.
2.	ADOREMUS (Motet) — C. W. Pearce	6d.
10.	ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER — W. Sewell	2d.
56.	ANGELUS AD VIRGINEM — S. G. Ould	3d.
40.	AVE MARIA, Op. 12, S.S.A.A. — J. Brahms	6d.
42.	AVE MARIA — Edward Elgar	3d.
53.	AVE MARIA — Robert Parsons	3d.
55.	AVE MARIA — Verdonck	2d.
43.	AVE MARIS STELLA — Edward Elgar	3d.
27.	AVE MARIS STELLA — S. P. Waddington	6d.
45.	AVE REGINA CŒLORUM — S. Ould	2d.
11.	AVE REGINA CŒLORUM — W. Sewell	2d.
36.	AVE VERUM (Sol-fa, 1d.) — Edward Elgar	2d.
7.	AVE VERUM — Healey Willan	2d.
26.	BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS — F. E. Gladstone	6d.
6.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) — S. Ould	3d.
59.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) — R. R. Terry	3d.
9.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison) — John E. West	3d.
32.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Four-part) — Agnes Zimmermann	2d.
48.	BONE PASTOR — M. H. Eslava	2d.
38.	CHRISTUS FACTUS EST — Felice Anerio	2d.
29.	COMPLINE HYMN — S. Ould	3d.
52.	COR JESU, SALUS IN TE SPERANTIUM (Motet) — W. Schulthes	3d.
50.	CRUX FIDELIS (Motet) — S. P. Waddington	4d.
3.	DEUS MISEREATUR — F. E. Gladstone	6d.
47.	DEXTERA DOMINI — W. Sewell	2d.
34.	DOMINE SALVUM FAC in G — Ch. Gounod	2d.
30.	DOMINE SALVUM FAC — E. Silas	2d.
12.	DOMINE SALVUM FAC — A. E. Tozer	2d.
17.	HÆC DIES — F. E. Gladstone	3d.
7.	HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS — Peter Philips	4d.
60.	INTENDE VOCI ORATIONIS MEÆ — Edward Elgar	2d.
49.	LAUDA SION — R. O. Y. Cahahorra	2d.
20.	LITANY OF LORETTO, THE — F. E. Gladstone	6d.
44.	LITANY OF LORETTO, THE — S. G. Ould	2d.
23.	MAGNIFICAT in A — F. E. Gladstone	8d.
31.	MAGNIFICAT in E flat — William Sewell	4d.
1.	MAGNIFICAT in B flat — E. Silas	6d.
28.	MAGNIFICAT in D — E. Silas	1s.
15.	MISERERE in F — F. E. Gladstone	3d.
16.	MISERERE in F sharp minor — F. E. Gladstone	6d.
25.	MISERERE (Gregorian Chant) (Harmonized by V. Novello)	3d.
54.	O DOCTOR OPTIME (Motet) — Palestrina	3d.
19.	O SALUTARIS HOSTIA — F. E. Gladstone	2d.
58.	O VOS OMNES QUI TRANSITIS PER VIAM — Sebastian Duron	3d.
41.	O VOS OMNES QUI TRANSITIS PER VIAM — T. L. de La Vittoria	3d.
39.	PANIS ANGELICUS (Italian, 18th Century?) Edited by S. Ould	3d.
46.	RECORDARE — W. Sewell	2d.
51.	REGINA CŒLI — A. Hollins	2d.
8.	REGINA CŒLI — W. Sewell	2d.
14.	RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE. Harmonized by S. Ould	3d.
35.	SALVATOR MUNDI — J. Blow	4d.
24.	SALVE, REGINA in E — R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
13.	SALVE, REGINA — Schubert	2d.
5.	SALVE, REGINA — W. Sewell	2d.
18.	SALVE, REGINA — S. P. Waddington	4d.
21.	TANTUM ERGO — F. E. Gladstone	2d.
37.	VIRGAM VIRTUTIS TUÆ — Leonardo Leo	4d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D. CANTAB.

ORGAN.

Two Organ Sketches	2s. od. net.
Two Short Pieces— Larghetto in F; Pastorale in A	2s. od. ,,
Andantino in G flat	1s. 6d. ,,
Second Set of Six Original Pieces— No. 7. Prelude in A; ,, 8. Andante in F	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 9. Adagio in D flat	1s. od. ,,
,, 10. Andante Pastorale in G; ,, 11. Minuet and Trio	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 12. Toccata in A major	1s. 6d. ,,

PIANOFORTE.

Capriccio in E major	2s. od. net.
Three Musical Sketches— Entitled: Summer, Autumn, and Winter	2s. od. ,,
Gavotte in D	2s. od. ,,
Romance and Mazurka	2s. od. ,,

ANTHEMS.

If ye love Me (Whitsuntide). Four Voices	3d.
I will magnify Thee (Whitsuntide)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
I was glad (Festival)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
O how amiable. Soprano Solo and Chorus	4d.

Communion Services in E major. Four Voices	9d.
Do. in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.

"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
HARVEST ANTHEMS.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord	3d.	2d.
SERVICES.
SERVICE IN G	1/6	1s.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum	3d.	2d.
Benedicite, omnia Opera	2d.	2d.
Benedictus	2d.	2d.
Jubilate	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	8d.	6d.
Pater Noster from the above	2d.	2d.
Amen ditto	1d.	1d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
SERVICE IN CHANT FORM (No. 1)	1s.	8d.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum, &c., with Kyrie	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	6d.	4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
ORGAN.
Voix Seraphique (for Recitals)	2/-
CHURCH CANTATA.
Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General use)	1/6	1s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE CHANT COMMUNION SERVICE

WITH SUITABLE HYMNS.

ARRANGED BY

THE REV. C. W. A. BROOKE, M.A.

The Creed and Gloria in Excelsis have been arranged in verses and pointed both for Anglican and Gregorian chanting, and set to appropriate chants.

Suitable for village or small choirs, and mission services, or for congregations without the aid of a choir.

LIST OF HYMNS AND TUNES.

First Line.	Author.	Tune.	Composer.
Accept our alms	Anon.	Cherry Hinton	G. B. Lissant.
According to Thy gracious Word	J. Montgomery ...	St. John's, Westminster ...	J. Turle.
Bread of the world, in mercy broken ...	Bishop Heber	Eucharist	J. E. West.
		Troyte's Chant, No. 1
		Jam lucis
Faith of our fathers! living still	F. W. Faber	Holy Faith	G. C. Martin.
		Faith	A Swiss Air.
Father, see Thy children bending at Thy throne	W. B. Trevelyan ...	Forward	Dean Alford.
Lord, knowing Thy love and Thy parting command	W. Wade	The Good Shepherd	J. Barnby.
O God of Mercy, God of Might	J. Keble	Refreshment	G. M. Garrett.
Remember Me; show forth My death ...	S. J. Stone	Gadsden	F. B. Townend.
See, Father, Thy beloved Son	W. H. H. Jervois ...	Henman	W. Henman.
When children saw Thee coming, Lord ...	R. F. Smith	Burrator	C. W. A. Brooke.

PRICE FOURPENCE.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

THE NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER

CONTAINING

THE PSALMS OF DAVID

TOGETHER WITH THE CANTICLES AND PROPER PSALMS.

EDITED AND POINTED FOR CHANTING BY

COSMO GORDON LANG, D.D.
(ARCHBISHOP OF YORK).

HENRY SCOTT HOLLAND, D.Litt.
(Canon and Precentor of St. Paul's).

CHARLES H. LLOYD, M.A., Mus.D.
(Precentor of Eton).

GEORGE C. MARTIN, Mus.D.
(Organist of St. Paul's).

WORDS ONLY.

		Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 51.	With Superimposed notes. Demy 8vo	2 6	4 6
No. 61.	With Prosody signs. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 62.	With Prosody signs. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6
No. 71.	With Varied type. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 72.	With Varied type. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6

NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS.

		Paper. s. d.	Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 81.	For Cathedral use, "The St. Paul's Cathedral Chant Book," Revised Edition. F'cap 4to ..	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 81A.	Ditto ditto Post 4to ..	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 82.	For Parish Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than D. F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 82A.	Ditto ditto Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 83.	For Village Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than C. F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 83A.	Ditto ditto Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6

PSALTER AND CHANTS COMBINED.

No. 53.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 54.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 55.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 63.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 64.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 65.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 73.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 74.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 75.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6

The "New Cathedral Psalter," though founded on the old Cathedral Psalter, is a distinct book, and the two books cannot be used together. The old Cathedral Psalter is still in circulation in all its editions.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

DEDICATED (BY PERMISSION) TO
THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF MEATH, P.C., K.P.

MAY 24TH

HYMNS FOR EMPIRE DAY

WITH A SHORT FORM OF SERVICE FOR USE IN SCHOOL OR IN CHURCH.

PRICE THREEPENCE.
Words only, 1d. ; or 5s. per 100.

CONTENTS.

		AUTHOR.	COMPOSER.
1.	LAND OF OUR BIRTH	RUDYARD KIPLING ...	F. R. STATHAM.
2.	FLAG OF OUR COUNTRY	W. H. DRAPER ...	MYLES B. FOSTER.
3.	LITANY OF HUMBLENESS ...	J. S. B. MONSELL ...	JOHN E. WEST.
4.	LET US WITH A GLADSOME MIND	A. P. STANLEY	G. J. ELVEY.
5.	FORWARD GO IN GLAD ACCORD	L. TUTTIET	ARTHUR S. SULLIVAN.
6.	HOW BLEST THE LAND	W. H. DRAPER... ...	"EIN' FESTE BURG."
7.	LORD, WE THANK THEE	T. W. JEX-BLAKE ...	J. LANGRAN.
8.	TO THOSE ACROSS THE SEA ...	W. H. DRAPER... ...	W. G. ALCOCK.
9.	WHAT CAN I DO FOR ENGLAND	W. H. DRAPER... ...	J. H. MAUNDER.
10.	GOD OF OUR FATHERS	A. C. AINGER	A. M. GOODHART.
11.	GOD BLESS OUR NATIVE LAND ...	W. E. HICKSON ...	J. H. MAUNDER.
12.	HOW FAIR WAS THE LAND ...	W. H. DRAPER... ...	J. VARLEY ROBERTS.
	FORM OF SERVICE.	NATIONAL ANTHEM.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE CHILDREN'S

EMPIRE DAY SONG-BOOK.

CONTENTS:

King George V. March	H. Elliot Button
The Empire Flag	A. C. Mackenzie
Let the hills resound	Brinley Richards
The Minstrel Boy	Irish Air
Sons of Britain	Thomas Facer
Children's Coronation Song	G. W. Torrance
Rule, Britannia	Dr. Arne
Heaven bless our Lord the King	Cuthbert Harris
Bonnie Dundee	Scotch Air
Coronation Day	Percy E. Fletcher
March of the Men of Harlech	Welsh Air
God prosper him—our King	J. Barnby
O lovely Peace	Handel
Hail to our King	Thomas Facer
What can I do for England?	J. H. Maunder
A Hymn of the Homeland	Arthur Sullivan
God bless the Prince of Wales	Brinley Richards
God save the King	Dr. John Bull

PRICE EIGHTPENCE.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE UNION JACK

UNISON SONG, WITH ACTIONS
SUITABLE FOR PATRIOTIC GATHERINGS, SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS, ETC.

Words by SHAPCOTT WENSLEY
The Actions by MRS. LOUISA WALKER

MUSIC BY
ALFRED R. GAUL.

England, Scotland, and Ireland, represented by groups of children, each carrying their respective flags, sing appropriate verses connected by symphonies founded on well-known national airs—viz., "Heart of Oak," "Auld Lang Syne," "The Minstrel Boy." Under the British Flag the three groups unite and sing together, the whole concluding with "Rule, Britannia," and "God save the King."

PRICE SIXPENCE; VOCAL PARTS, TWOPENCE.
Band Parts, Sixpence each Part.

Suitable Flags can be hired at ½d. each per week.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HYMNS FOR EMPIRE DAY.

RECESSIONAL

"GOD OF OUR FATHERS, KNOWN OF OLD"

BY RUDYARD KIPLING

SET TO MUSIC BY
J. B. DYKES, E. W. NAYLOR, AND GEORGE C. MARTIN.

Price One Penny each Setting.

LORD OF OUR FATHERS, THOU DIDST BLEND

THE WORDS BY A. C. BENSON

THE MUSIC BY GEORGE C. MARTIN.

Price One Penny.
Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.

GOD OF OUR FATHERS, UNTO THEE

THE WORDS BY
A. C. AINGER

THE MUSIC BY A. M. GOODHART.

Price One Penny.
Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

ADDITIONAL HYMNS
WITH TUNES
FOR USE WITH
HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN
OR ANY OTHER CHURCH HYMNAL.

272 pages, Imperial 16mo. Cloth Boards, price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Hymns only, Imperial 32mo, Cloth Boards, One Shilling.

Hymns only, medium 32mo, diamond type, cloth, 4d.; paper, 3d.

Complete edition, bound with HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN (Quarto), 6s. 6d. net.

As its name implies, this book is designed for use with, and not in place of, other Church Hymnals.

For this reason the Hymns are numbered from 801, so that the numbers may not interfere with the use of any other hymn book, no other Church hymn book having as many as even seven hundred hymns. Each hymn has its own distinctive tune, and no hymn or tune in this work is found in Hymns Ancient and Modern (Old Edition), so that with the two books no duplication occurs.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

SHORT PRELUDES
FOR THE
ORGAN

These Short Preludes are intended for use chiefly as Introductory Voluntaries to Divine Service, more especially in those churches where the time allowed for such is, of necessity, somewhat limited. They occupy in performance from about one to two minutes.

No.
	BOOK I.
1.	Andante Grazioso	Thomas Adams
2.	Andante	W. G. Alcock
3.	Largamente	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante Religioso	Myles B. Foster
5.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
6.	Adagio Cantabile	Alfred Hollins
7.	Larghetto	Charles J. May
8.	Andante con Moto	John E. West
9.	Andantino quasi Allegretto	John E. West
10.	Andante	W. Wolstenholme
	BOOK II.
1.	Andante con Moto	Thomas Adams
2.	Con Moto	W. G. Alcock
3.	Moderato	H. A. Chambers
4.	Marziale, poco Lento	Myles B. Foster
5.	Moderato	Alfred Hollins
6.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
7.	Adagio	Charles J. May
8.	"Hymnus"—Andante e Sostenuto	John E. West
9.	Andante Serioso	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme
	BOOK III.
1.	Moderato e Legato	Thomas Adams
2.	Moderato	W. G. Alcock
3.	Andante con Moto	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante	H. A. Chambers
5.	Grazioso molto Espressivo	Myles B. Foster
6.	"Song without Words"—Con Moto	Alfred Hollins
7.	Andante	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andante Dolente	John E. West
9.	Andante Pastorale	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme

Price One Shilling Net Each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MISSA REGIA
ASCRIBED TO
HENRI DUMONT (1610-1684).

Adapted from the Version in the Solesmes Gradual,
WITH AN ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE ORGAN
BY FRANCIS BURGESS.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TE DEUM AND JUBILATE
IN F.

MUSIC BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CANTATE DOMINO & DEUS MISEREATUR
IN F. By W. J. MILNE MENZIES.
Price Fourpence.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TE DEUM in F. Price 3d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 3d. By A. TOASE.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

ALBUMS FOR THE ORGAN.

No. 1.

TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.

No.
1.	Interlude	Th. Dubois
2.	Chanson de Matin	Edward Elgar
3.	Fantasia on the old melody "Urbs Beata"	W. Faulkes
4.	There is a green hill far away	Ch. Gounod
5.	Marche Triomphale	Alexandre Guilmant
6.	Ave Maria	A. Hensel
7.	Grand Chœur No. 2	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andantino in D flat	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Chanson Triste	P. Tschaikowsky
10.	Prelude to "Lohengrin," Act I.	R. Wagner
11.	Romanza	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Allegretto in E flat	W. Wolstenholme

No. 2.

TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.

No.
1.	Chanson de Nuit	Edward Elgar
2.	Alla Marcia	Myles B. Foster
3.	Minuetto	Alexandre Guilmant
4.	Lied	H. Hofmann
5.	Barcarolle	H. Hofmann
6.	Spring Song	Alfred Hollins
7.	The Curfew	Edward J. Horsman
8.	Pastorale in E	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Ave Maria d'Arcadelt	Franz Liszt
10.	Cantique d'Amour	Theo. Wendt
11.	The Seraph's Strain	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Le Carillon	W. Wolstenholme

No. 3.

Just Published.

TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.

No.
1.	Scherzo in A flat	Edward C. Bairstow
2.	Melody	S. Coleridge-Taylor
3.	Serenade	H. Hofmann
4.	Bridal March	Alfred Hollins
5.	Berceuse	Edwin H. Lemare
6.	Melodie in E	S. Rachmaninoff
7.	Aubade	A. Strelezki
8.	Nocturne in C sharp minor	P. Tschaïkowsky
9.	Procession to the Minster ("Lohengrin")	R. Wagner
10.	Passacaglia	John E. West
11.	Fantasia upon the Plainsong Melody "Ad cœnam Agni"	Healey Willan
12.	Allegretto in A flat	W. Wolstenholme

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence each net;
Cloth, 5s. each net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

	s.	d.
TROIS IMPRESSIONS. Op. 72:—
1. Harmonies du Soir	1	0
2. Clair de Lune	1	0
3. La Nuit	1	0
CHACONNE AND FUGUE TRILOGY, WITH CHORAL (2 Trumpets, 2 Trombones, 2 Tubas, Timpani, Tamtam, and Piatti ad lib.). Op. 73:—
Organ Score	4	6
Wind Parts, &c.	2	0
FIRST SONATINA in A minor. Op. 74	3	6

"Must be classed as one of the finest works in modern organ literature. The first movement is practically in usual Sonata form. The development section is particularly brilliant, and the quiet cadence leading into the recapitulation is of arresting beauty."

"The slow movement, in the nature of a chaconne, is beautiful and restful. A brilliant cadenza leads to an exciting introduction to a most interesting triple fugue (confined to manuals). Afterwards the composer works backwards through the sections preceding the fugue, unwinding himself, as it were, before starting on a magnificent Coda befitting a magnificent work."—Daily Mail.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY ALFRED HOLLINS.

No.		No.
1.	Allegretto grazioso.	7.	Concert Rondo.
2.	Andante in D.	8.	Grand Chœur, No. 1.
3.	Benediction Nuptiale.	9.	Grand Chœur, No. 2.
4.	Bridal March.	10.	Intermezzo in D flat.
5.	Communion.	11.	Spring Song.
6.	Concert Overture in C minor.	12.	Triumphal March.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence net.
Cloth, 10s. net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

No.		No.
1.	Allegretto in E flat.	7.	Finale in B flat.
2.	Allegretto in A flat.	8.	Le Carillon.
3.	Andantino.	9.	Meditation.
4.	Canzona.	10.	Minuet and Trio.
5.	Caprice.	11.	Romanza.
6.	Fantasia in E.	12.	The Seraph's Strain.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence net.
Cloth, 10s. net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

THEODORE DUBOIS.

CONTENTS:

1. PRELUDE	4. INTERLUDE
2. CANTILENE RELIGIEUSE	5. PRIÈRE
3. MARCIETTA	6. POSTLUDE CANTIQUE

7. MARCHE-SORTIE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence ne

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

ALEXANDRE GUILMANT.

CONTENTS:

1. OFFERTOIRE	4. MINUETTO
2. WEDDING MARCH	5. MARCHE TRIOMPHALE
3. BERCEUSE	6. POSTLUDE

7. FANTAISIE SUR DEUX MÉLODIES ANGLAISES.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

RECITAL

SERIES OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No.		s.	d.
41.	Rêve d'Amour .. .. Felix Corbett	2	0
42.	Morceau de Concert (En Forme de Valse) .. Alfred Hollins	2	0
43.	Pavane in A .. .. Bernard Johnson	1	6
44.	Finale Jubilante (Just Published) .. .. John E. West	2	0

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Newly added Numbers.

		s.	d.
The Quest	(No. 31. Original Compositions)	1	6
Rustic Scene	(No. 32. ,, ,,)	2	0
Carillon	(No. 33. ,, ,,)	1	6
Chant Seraphique	(No. 34. ,, ,,)	1	6
Communion ("Peace") ..	(No. 35. ,, ,,)	1	6
Summer Sketches (Dawn; The Bee; Cuckoo; Twilight; Evening.)	(No. 40. Recital Series)	2	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SHORT POSTLUDES

FOR THE

ORGAN.

1.	GRAND CHŒUR	Thomas Adams
2.	ALLA MARCIA	W. G. Alcock
3.	SIEGESLIED	Hugh Blair
4.	POSTLUDE	William Faulkes
5.	CONCLUDING VOLUNTARY ..	Myles B. Foster
6.	POSTLUDE	John E. West

Price Two Shillings net.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ORGAN TRANSCRIPTIONS

BY

GEORGE J. BENNETT

Mus. Doc.; Organist of Lincoln Cathedral.

		s.	d.
1.	INTRODUCTION AND MELODRAMA.—("The Dream of Jubal") .. .. A. C. MACKENZIE	1	6
2.	PRELUDE.—("Lohengrin") .. .. .. WAGNER	1	0
3.	ANDANTINO.—(Symphony, No. 4, in F minor) TSCHAÏKOWSKY	2	0
4.	SLOW MOVEMENT.—(Pianoforte Concerto in B flat minor) .. .. TSCHAÏKOWSKY	1	6
5.	CORONATION MARCH .. .. TSCHAÏKOWSKY	2	0
6.	THREE MINUETS.—(Symphonies in C, G minor, and E flat) .. .. MOZART	2	0
7.	MINUET.—(Sonata in E flat). (Op. 31, iii.) BEETHOVEN	1	0
8.	PRELUDE.—("Colomba") .. A. C. MACKENZIE	1	6
9.	FINALE ("O may we once again")—"Blest Pair of Sirens" .. .. C. H. H. PARRY	1	0
10.	NOTTURNO.—"A Midsummer Night's Dream" MENDELSSOHN	1	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

POPULAR MARCHES

FOR THE

ORGAN.

Volume 1.

1.	Marche Triomphale	F. Archer
2.	The Bride's March, from "Rebekah"	J. Barnby
3.	Harvest Thanksgiving March	J. B. Calkin
4.	March for a Church Festival	E. T. Driffield
5.	Imperial March	E. Elgar
6.	March to Calvary, from "The Redemption" ..	Ch. Gounod
7.	Religious March	G. A. Macfarren
8.	March, from "Abraham"	B. Molique
9.	March in B flat	E. Silas
10.	Festive March in D	Henry Smart
11.	March in G	B. Tours
12.	March in D minor	Agnes Zimmermann

Volume 2.

1.	March for a Church Festival	W. T. Best
2.	Processional Wedding March	H. R. Bird
3.	Festal March	J. B. Calkin
4.	Solemn March, from "The Black Knight"	E. Elgar
5.	Festal March	G. Elvey
6.	Marche Solennelle	Ch. Gounod
7.	March, from "St. Polycarp"	F. A. G. Ouseley
8.	March, with Pastoral Trio	B. Luard-Selby
9.	March in G	H. Smart
10.	Jubilant March	J. Stainer
11.	March in F	J. H. Wallis
12.	Commemoration March	John E. West

Volume 3.

1.	Festal March	George Calkin
2.	Festal March	C. S. Heap
3.	Triumphal March	Alfred Hollins
4.	Secular March	G. A. Macfarren
5.	Solemn March ("Story of Sayid")	A. C. Mackenzie
6.	Pilgrims' March (Symphony No. 4)	Mendelssohn
7.	Marche Religieuse	G. Merkel
8.	Bridal March and Finale	C. Hubert H. Parry
9.	Marche Serieuse	B. Luard-Selby
10.	Grand Solemn March	Henry Smart
11.	March and Chorus ("Tannhäuser")	R. Wagner
12.	Festival March	Herbert W. Wareing

Volume 4.

1.	Marche Religieuse	J. Baptiste Calkin
2.	Wedding March	William Faulkes
3.	Marche Triomphale	Alex. Guilmant
4.	March in E flat	Lefébure-Wely
5.	Funeral March ("Dream of Jubal")	A. C. Mackenzie
6.	Solemn Processional March	C. J. B. Meacham
7.	Schiller-March	G. Meyerbeer
8.	March in E flat	R. Schumann
9.	Nuptial March	B. Luard-Selby
10.	Marche Funèbre	P. Tschaïkowsky
11.	Grand March (Introduction to the 3rd Act of "Lohengrin")	R. Wagner
12.	Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin")	R. Wagner

Price Four Shillings and Sixpence each.
In Cloth, Six Shillings and Sixpence each.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SIX SHORT PIECES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

1. Allegro pomposo.
2. Easter Morn. A Meditation.
3. Prelude on Dykes's Tune "Requiescat."
4. Harvest Song.
5. Impromptu.
6. Passacaglia.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

THE CORONATION MARCH
(1911).
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR
(Op. 65).

	s.	d.
FULL SCORE	7	6
STRING PARTS	4	6
WIND PARTS, ETC.	15	0
ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO	2	0

In the Press.
ARRANGEMENT FOR ORGAN SOLO 2 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CORONATION MARCH
AND HYMN
(Based on two Themes from the music to "Henry VIII.")
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY EDWARD GERMAN.

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts	10	3
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0
Arrangement for Military Band (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

AN ENGLISH JOY-PEAL
(Coronation.—1911.)
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 75.)

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LA SAVANNAH
AIR DE BALLET
FOR ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 72.)

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts, &c.	7	0
Full Score	6	0
Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SYMPHONY No. 2
IN E FLAT
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR
(Op. 63)
ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO
BY
SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TWO BAGATELLES
I. VALSETTE.
II. PIZZICATO.
FOR STRING ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
PERCY E. FLETCHER.

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THREE PIECES
FOR
PIANOFORTE SOLO.

1. VALSE IN A MINOR.
2. AUBADE.
3. CORTÈGE GALANT.

COMPOSED BY
THEO. WENDT.
(Op. 24.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NORWEGIAN MELODIES
ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE
BY
A. VON AHN CARSE.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SCHERZO
IN G MINOR.
From the Octet, Op. 20.
COMPOSED BY
FELIX MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY.

Scored for use with Symphony No. 1.

	s.	d.
Full Score	5	0
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts	3	3
Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

No. 83, NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

THE MILITARY BAND

BY

GEORGE MILLER,

M.V.O., Mus. Bac. Cantab., &c.

Price Two Shillings.

In Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

No. 8, NOVELLO'S ELEMENTARY MUSIC MANUALS.

HINTS

ON THE

ELEMENTARY TEACHING

OF THE

PIANOFORTE

CHIEFLY TO BOYS.

BY

EDWARD D. RENDALL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EDITION (1912).

A

HANDBOOK OF EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC

CONTAINING

600 QUESTIONS WITH ANSWERS

BY

ERNEST A. DICKS,

FELLOW OF THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The scope of this book covers the whole ground of theoretical examinations in music. It supplies an invaluable equipment to candidates entering for the various Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge held periodically throughout the country, and it will be found extremely useful to those who are preparing for the higher grades of Diploma and Degree Examinations.

The book is therefore very comprehensive. Its range includes questions and answers in Theory, Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Fugue, Acoustics, Musical History, Organ Construction, and Choir Training.

By no means the least valuable part of the volume is that section, consisting of upwards of one hundred pages, which contains reprints of past examination papers set by the Associated Board, Trinity College, and the Incorporated Society of Musicians; the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Durham, and Edinburgh; The Royal Academy of Music, The Royal College of Music, The Royal College of Organists, and The College of Preceptors. The advantage of having so many specimens of these actual examination papers within one cover is too obvious to need further comment or commendation.

PREFACE TO THE NINTH EDITION.

The author desires to acknowledge his great indebtedness to the authorities of the London University; the Royal Academy of Music; the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music; The Royal College of Organists; Trinity College of Music, London; and the Incorporated Society of Musicians, for their kindness in allowing him to incorporate copies of their latest Examination Papers in Parts II. and III. of his Handbook, in order that he might present their latest examination requirements. E. A. D.

PRICE, CLOTH, THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.
THE QUESTIONS (separately), PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Reduced Price.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE

With Pianoforte Accompaniment,

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL

(Op. 49).

IN TWO PARTS.

Part I. Studies in Sustained Singing.

Part II. Studies in Florid Singing.

Each Part published for High, Medium, and Low Voice.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WEBSTER'S GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC.

BOOKS I. AND II., 1S. EACH.

The keys to these make them valuable to those preparing for examinations.

NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED, AND ALL MUSIC SELLERS.

NEW MUSICAL BOOKS.

HANDBOOK TO THE VOCAL WORKS OF BRAHMS. An Historical, Descriptive and Analytical Account of the Entire Works of Johannes Brahms. Treated in the Order of their Opus Number. Copious Tables of Reference. By EDWIN EVANS, Senr. Thick 8vo, cloth, 10s.

FROM MENDELSSOHN TO WAGNER. Being the Memoirs of J. W. Davison, forty years music critic of The Times, compiled by his son, HENRY DAVISON, from memoranda and documents. With numerous portraits of musicians of the time, and many important letters, previously unpublished, of Berlioz, Mendelssohn, Gounod, Macfarren, Sterndale Bennett, Jullien, &c. Very thick 8vo, cloth, 12s. 6d. net.

RISE AND DEVELOPMENT OF OPERA. Embracing a Comparative View of the Art in Italy, Germany, France, and England. By JOSEPH GODDARD. Numerous Musical Examples, Portraits, and Facsimiles. Cloth, 4s. 6d. net.

MAKING OF SOUND IN THE ORGAN AND IN THE ORCHESTRA. By HERMANN SMITH. An Analysis of the Work of the Air in the Speaking Organ Pipe of the Various Constant Types, and an Exposition of the Theory of the Air-Stream-Reed Based upon the Discovery of the Tone of the Air by Means of Displacement Rods. Thirty illustrations. Cloth, 6s.

THE ARTIST AT THE PIANO. Essays on the Art of Musical Interpretation. By G. WOODHOUSE. Portrait of Paderewski, with facsimile of his recommendation of this work. 8vo, cloth, 2s. 6d. net (or paper covers, 1s. 6d. net).

MODERN ORCHESTRAL INSTRUMENTS. Their History, Structure, and Capabilities. A Practical Illustrated Handbook. By K. SCHLESINGER. Over 180 Illustrations. 8vo, cloth, 7s. 6d.

ART OF LISTENING TO AND APPRECIATING GOOD MUSIC, or the Education of a Music Lover. By E. DICKINSON, author of "The Growth and Development of Music," &c. 293 pages, cloth, 6s.

IN THE SERVICE OF ART. A Plea for Simplicity in Music. By J. J. NIN. Translated by Mrs. F. LIEBICH. Printed in art style. 1s. net.

LIST OF MUSICAL BOOKS (CATALOGUE "B") Post-free.

LONDON: WILLIAM REEVES, 83, CHARING CROSS RD., W.C.

NOVELLO'S

NEW SONGS

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH NET.

SONG OF THE PILGRIMS.
By EMMELINE BROOK.
Suitable for All Voices.

LOVE IN THE MEADOWS.
By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos or Contraltos.

GALLOPING DICK. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

THE SONGSTERS' AWAKENING (Vocal Waltz). By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos.

SOME PERFECT ROSE. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for All Voices.

TO ALTHEA. By C. HARFORD LLOYD.
Suitable for Baritones.

ON A SUMMER'S DAY.
By CECIL ENGELHARDT.
Suitable for All Voices.

THE CAMEL'S HUMP. By EDWARD GERMAN.
Suitable for All Voices.

SONS OF THE SEA. By COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

COME, DREAMLESS REST. By NOEL JOHNSON.
Suitable for All Voices.

WITH ALL MY HEART.
By WALTER EARNSHAWE.
Suitable for All Voices.

HELIODORE. By BOTHWELL THOMSON.
Suitable for Tenors or Baritones.

LOVE IS FOR EVER. By ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for All Voices.

ZUMMERZETZHIRE (Old Song).
Arranged by ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

WHERE THE CHILDREN SLEEP.
By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Contraltos or Baritones.

A SOUL. By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Tenors.

SWEET NIGHT. By ERNEST AUSTIN.
Suitable for Mezzo-Sopranos or Contraltos.

HOMEWARD. By HAMILTON HARTY.
Suitable for Baritones.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

HOLIDAY SONGS

THE WORDS BY
MRS. ALEXANDER

THE MUSIC BY
LADY ARTHUR HILL.

All things bright and beautiful.
An early cowslip.
A Winter breakfast.
Dreams.
Primroses.
At Sunset.
Two ways.
The Seasons.
Waking.
Longings.
In the distance.
Holidays over.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWILIGHT SONGS

FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.

THE WORDS BY
FRED. E. WEATHERLY

THE MUSIC BY
LADY ARTHUR HILL.

1. Over the water.
2. Birdie's answer.
3. A little child's Christmas prayer.
4. Mother's song.
5. Gipsying.
6. I want to be a soldier.

Price Two Shillings net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

FIVE NEW SONGS

BY

HARVEY GRACE.

MOPSA
Baritone Song. Words by THOS. MOORE.
ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE NET.

THERE'S A FRIEND FOR LITTLE CHILDREN
For Mezzo-Soprano. Words by A. MIDLANE.
ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE NET.

A FAREWELL
For Mezzo-Soprano. Words by CHAS. KINGSLEY.
ONE SHILLING NET.

A WIDOW BIRD SAT MOURNING
For Mezzo-Soprano. Words by SHELLEY.
ONE SHILLING NET.

THE YEAR'S AT THE SPRING
For Mezzo-Soprano. Words by BROWNING.
ONE SHILLING NET.

RICHARDS & CO.,
69, WELLS STREET, LONDON, W.

COUNTRY DANCE TUNES

COLLECTED AND ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE BY

CECIL J. SHARP.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Set.

SET I.
Brighton Camp.	We won't go home till morning.
Galopede.	Speed the Plough.
Ribbon Dance.	Pop goes the Weasel.
The Butterfly.	The Flowers of Edinburgh.
SET II.
Nancy's Fancy.	Haste to the Wedding.
Bonnets so Blue.	Hunt the Squirrel.
The Triumph.	Tink-a-Tink.
Step and fetch her (or Follow your Lovers).	Three meet (or Pleasures of the Town).
SET III.
Jenny Pluck Pears.	Rufty Tufty.
Putney Ferry.	Parson's Farewell.
Mage on a Cree.	The Glory of the West.
The Fine Companion.	Saint Martin's.
Newcastle.	Hey, boys, up go we.
Gathering Peascods.	Grimstock.
Oranges and Lemons.	The Beggar Boy.
Dull Sir John.
SET IV.
Chestnut, or Dove's Figary.	Staines Morris.
The Black Nag.	Amarillis.
Cheerily and Merrily.	Black Jack.
Ten Pound Lass.	Jamaica.
Nonesuch, or A la Mode de France.	My Lady Cullen.
Dargason, or Sedany.	London is a fine Town (or Watton Town's end).
Goddesses.
New Bo-Peep, or Pickadilla.	The Twenty-Ninth of May.

THE COUNTRY DANCE BOOK

EDITED BY

CECIL J. SHARP.

PART I. Containing a description, &c., of the Dances in Sets I. and II.

PART II. Containing a description, &c., of the Dances in Sets III. and IV.

Price, Paper Covers, Two Shillings and Sixpence each Part.
Cloth, Three Shillings and Sixpence each Part.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHILDREN'S SINGING GAMES

EDITED BY

ALICE B. GOMME & CECIL J. SHARP.

Price in Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence each Number, or in Five Books, price Ninepence each.

Sch. Songs. No.	SET I. (School Songs, Book 198.)	Sch. Songs. No.	SET II. (School Songs, Book 199.)
926.	LONDON BRIDGE	932.	NUTS IN MAY
927.	OLD ROGER (First Version)	933.	THE JOLLY MILLER
928.	OLD ROGER (Second Version)	934.	O WHEN I WAS A SCHOOL-GIRL
929.	WALKING UP THE HILLSIDE	935.	WHEN I WAS A YOUNG GIRL
930.	OATS AND BEANS	936.	O! A-HUNTING WE WILL GO / DAME, GET UP
931.	THREE DUKES	937.	PUSH THE BUSINESS ON

Sch. Songs. No.	SET III. (School Songs, Book 227.)	Sch. Songs. No.	SET IV. (School Songs, Book 228.)
		1107.	LOOBY LIGHT
1101.	JENNY JONES	1108.	THE KING OF THE BARBAREES
1102.	THE THREE SOLDIERS	1109.	THE ROMAN SOLDIERS
1103.	THERE STANDS A LADY	1110.	THREE JOLLY FISHERMEN
1104.	THE FARMER 'S IN HIS DEN	1111.	TWO JOLLY SAILOR BOYS
1105.	THE BUTCHER'S SHOP	1112.	HARK! THE ROBBERS
1106.	POOR MARY SITS A-WEEPING

SET V. (School Songs, Book 229.)

Sch. Songs. No.		Sch. Songs. No.
1113.	THE JOLLY NIGGER BOYS	1116.	SALLY GO ROUND / THE TWO PIGEONS
1114.	WALLFLOWERS / THE GALLANT SHIP	1117.	RING A RING O' ROSES. (Two Versions.)
1115.	SWEET DAISY / QUEEN MARY	1118.	OUR SHOES ARE MADE OF LEATHER / GREEN GRAVEL

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

NEWS FROM WHYDAH

BALLAD

FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

THE WORDS BY

JOHN MASEFIELD.

THE MUSIC BY

H. BALFOUR GARDINER.

Price Eightpence.

THE TIMES.

It is a short work which catches the ballad spirit of the words to perfection, and in which strong harmony added to bold rhythm reproduces easily the rough vigour of the verse.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Is full of a rare and glorious energy; it is a real ballad and real music.

MORNING POST.

The best work of the evening was supplied by Mr. Balfour Gardiner himself. It is full of vigour and colour unmistakably British; there is a healthy suggestion of the salt sea and a display of fine musicianship within the short limits. There is a future for the work and similar works on the same wholesome lines.

STANDARD.

Some fine choral writing and vivid orchestral "description" were the main features of Mr. Gardiner's own setting.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

Mr. Balfour Gardiner's spirited and expressive little cantata, "News from Whydah," scored a distinct success.

DAILY NEWS.

Was another success of the evening. It is a most exhilarating composition, full of character, force, and picturesqueness.

YORKSHIRE POST.

This proved a spirited and vivid piece, the music distinctly intensifying the wild and romantic lines.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

The terse, manly, picturesque and dramatic setting of Masefield's "News from Whydah," for chorus and orchestra, by Balfour Gardiner, was perhaps the most original and valuable item in the whole programme and will be heard often, to judge from the genuine enthusiasm of its reception.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC

TO

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

SELECTED AND ARRANGED FOR THE USE OF

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

BY

R. DUNSTAN.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOUR SHAKESPERIAN PART-SONGS

For S.A.T.B. (unaccompanied).

COMPOSED BY

LIZA LEHMANN.

1. I KNOW A BANK.
2. WHEN ICICLES HANG BY THE WALL.
3. TELL ME, WHERE IS FANCY BRED?
4. UNDER THE GREENWOOD TREE.

Price Ninepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1. FIVE-FINGER STUDIES ... ... Part I
2.* ,, ,, ... ,, 2

3. SCALES ... ... Part I
4. ,, ... ,, 2

5. BROKEN CHORDS ... ... Part I
6. ,, ,, ... ,, 2
7. ,, ,, ... ,, 3
8. ,, ,, ... ,, 4
9. ,, ,, ... ,, 5

10. LEFT HAND ... ... Part I
11. ,, ,, ... ,, 2
12. ,, ,, ... ,, 3
13. ,, ,, ... ,, 4

14.* ARPEGGIO ... ... Part I
15. ,, ... ,, 2
16. ,, ... ,, 3

17. VELOCITY ... ... Part I
18. ,, ... ,, 2
19. ,, ... ,, 3
20. ,, ... ,, 4
21. ,, ... ,, 5
22. ,, ... ,, 6
23. ,, ... ,, 7

24. FIGURES IN SEQUENCE ... ... Part I
25.* ,, ,, ... ,, 2

26. BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES ... ... Part I
27. BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES ... ... ,, 2

28. SHAKES ... ... Part I
29. ,, ... ,, 2
30. ,, ... ,, 3

31. DOUBLE NOTES ... ... Part I
32. ,, ,, ... ,, 2
33. ,, ,, ... ,, 3
34. ,, ,, ... ,, 4

35. OCTAVES ... ... Part I
36.* ,, ... ,, 2

37. CHORDS ... ... Part I
38. ,, ... ,, 2

39.* STACCATO

40. REPETITION ... ... Part I
41.* REPETITION AND TREMOLO ... ... ,,
42. ,, ,, ... ,,

43.* PART-PLAYING ... ... Part I
44. ,, ,, ... ,, 2

45.* ORNAMENTS ... ... Part I
46. ,, ... ,, 2

47. ACCOMPANIED MELODY ... ... Part I
48. ,, ,, ... ,, 2

49. EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS ... ... Part I
50.* ,, ,, ... ,, 2

51. RHYTHM ... ... Part I
52.* ,, ... ,, 2

53. EXERCISES FOR THE WEAKER FINGERS. By J. A. O'NEILL.

54. WRIST STUDIES (Handgelenksübungen). By ARNOLD KRUG.

55. EXERCISES FOR FACILITATING INDEPENDENCE OF THE FINGERS (Übungen für die Selbständigkeit der Finger). By ARNOLD KRUG.

56. PRELIMINARY STUDIES IN PLAYING POLYPHONIC MUSIC (Vorübungen für das polyphone Spiel). By ARNOLD KRUG.

* These Books contain Studies composed by Mr. Franklin Taylor specially for this Series.

FIFTY-SIX BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

FROM THE ABOVE:

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS), PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S
ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS.

(TWO VIOLINS, VIOLA, AND VIOLONCELLO.)

The Pieces in the majority of these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte is used, they will sound complete.

No.		S.	D.
1.	DOLMETSCH, ARNOLD—Suite of Four Pieces ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
2.	PURCELL, HENRY—Suite of Five Pieces ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
3.	GERMAN, EDWARD — Three Dances, from the Music to "Henry VIII." Extra String Parts, 1s. each.	5	0
4.	RAMEAU—Gavotte in D ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
5.	HANDEL, G. F.—Six Pieces from the Water Music. 1. Bourrée in F; 2. Air in F; 3. Minuet in F; 4. Hornpipe in F; 5. Aria in G; 6. Allegro in D ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	6
6.	HANDEL, G. F.—Two Bourrées ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
7.	MACKENZIE, A. C. — Benedictus, from Six Pieces for the Violin ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
8.	GOUNOD, CHARLES—Judex, from "Mors et Vita" ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
9.	MENDELSSOHN—Wedding March... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
10.	MENDELSSOHN — War March ("Athalie") ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
11.	MENDELSSOHN—Cornelius March Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
12.	MENDELSSOHN—Funeral March ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
13.	ELVEY, GEORGE — Gavotte (à la mode ancienne) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
14.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 1. Stately Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
15.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 2. Rustic Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
16.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 3. Graceful Dance... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
17.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 4. Country Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
18.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 1. Valse Bohemienne ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
19.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 2. Valse Rustique ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
20.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 3. Valse de la Reine ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
21.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 4. Valse Mauresque ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
22.	SPOHR, L. — Andantino, from the Symphony, "The Consecration of Sound"... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
23.	LANNER, JOSEF — Five Styrian Dances (Ländler) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
24.	TOURS, BERTHOLD—March in G Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	1	6
25.	MACFARREN, W.—Bourrée in C ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
26.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Minuet d'Amour, from A Suite of Old English Dances (Second Set) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
27.	WEST, JOHN E.—Intermezzo from "Seedtime and Harvest" ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6
28.	HOLST, GUSTAV VON — Seven Scottish Airs ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
29.	LEMARE, E. H. — Andantino in D flat ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6
30.	BREWER, A. H.—Auf Wiedersehen... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
31.	ELGAR, EDWARD.—Serenade, from "Wand of Youth" (First Suite) ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE ORGAN WORKS
OF
JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

BOOKS 1—12, EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, MUS. DOC. OXON., AND JAMES HIGGS, MUS. BAC. OXON.

BOOK I.—Price 2s. 6d.

EIGHT SHORT PRELUDES AND FUGUES.

No. 1. in C major.
,, 2. in D minor.
,, 3. in E minor.
,, 4. in F major.
,, 5. in G major.
,, 6. in G minor.
,, 7. in A minor.
,, 8. in B flat major.

BOOK II.—Price 3s.

Allabreve in D major.
Prelude in G major.
Canzona in D minor.
*Fugue in D minor ("The Giant").
Fugue in G minor.
*Prelude and Fugue in E minor
The well-known "Short" E minor, a great favourite of Mendelssohn's).
Prelude and Fugue in C minor.
Trio in D minor.

BOOK III.—Price 3s.

Fantasia in C minor (five parts).
Fugue in B minor
(On a subject by Corelli).
Prelude and Fugue in A major.
*Prelude and Fugue in C major.
Fantasia and Fugue in C minor.
*Fugue in G minor
(The well-known "Short" G minor)

BOOK IV.—Price 3s.

SONATAS OR TRIOS FOR TWO MANUALS AND PEDALS
(Nos. I. to III.).

Sonata I. in E flat.
*Sonata II. in C minor.
Sonata III. in D minor.

BOOK V.—Price 3s.

SONATAS OR TRIOS FOR TWO MANUALS AND PEDALS
(Nos. IV. to VI.).

†*Sonata IV. in E minor.
Sonata V. in C major.
Sonata VI. in G major.

BOOK VI.—Price 3s.

*Toccata in D minor.
*Prelude and Fugue in D major.
Prelude and Fugue in F minor.
Prelude and Fugue in E flat major
(The Fugue known as "St. Ann's").

BOOK VII.—Price 3s.

*Prelude and Fugue in A minor
(The "Great" A minor).
*Prelude and Fugue in B minor
(The "Great" B minor).
Prelude and Fugue in C minor
(The "Great" C minor).
Prelude and Fugue in C major.
Prelude and Fugue in G major.

BOOK VIII.—Price 3s.

Prelude and Fugue in C major
(Printed under the title of "Toccata," in the key of E, in the Bach Society's Edition).
*Prelude and Fugue in E minor
(The "Great" E minor, the Fugue known as "The Wedge").
*Prelude and Fugue in G major
(The "Great" G major).
Prelude and Fugue in G minor.
*Fantasia and Fugue in G minor
(The "Great" G minor).

BOOK IX.—Price 3s.

*The "Great" Toccata and Fugue in C major.
Prelude and Fugue in D minor
(The Fugue arranged from Violin Sonata in G minor).
Prelude and Fugue in C major.
Fantasia in G major.
The "Great" Toccata and Fugue in F major.

BOOK X.—Price 3s.

Toccata and Fugue in D minor (in the Dorian Mode).
Prelude and Fugue in A minor (the "Short" A minor).
Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor.
Fugue in C minor (on a subject by LEGRENZI).
Prelude in A minor.

BOOK XI.—Price 3s.

FOUR CONCERTOS (Arrangements of Works originally written as Violin Concertos, by ANTONIO VIVALDI):—

Concerto No. I. in G major.
Concerto ,, II. in A minor.
Concerto ,, III. in C major.
Concerto ,, IV. in C major.

BOOK XII.—Price 3s.

Fugue in G major.
Fantasia and Fugue in A minor.
Fantasia, with Imitation, in B minor.
Fantasia in G major.
Fugue in D major.
Fugue in G major.
Prelude in C major.
Fantasia in C major.
Prelude in C major.
Fugue in C minor.
Fugue in C major.
Pastorale.
Trio in C minor.
Aria in F.

BOOKS 13 AND 14, EDITED BY

JOHN POINTER AND JOHN E. WEST.

BOOK XIII.—Price 3s.

CHORAL PRELUDES.

Ein' feste Burg ist unser Gott.
Vater unser im Himmelreich.
Fugue on the Choral "Durch Adams Fall ist ganz verderbt."
Wer nur den lieben Gott lässt walten.
In dulci jubilo.
O Mensch, bewein' dein' Sünde gross.
Fugue on the Choral "Allein Gott in der Höh' sei Ehr."
Fantasia on "Komm, heiliger Geist, Herre Gott."
O Lamm Gottes, unschuldig.

BOOK XIV.—Price 3s.

CHORAL PRELUDES AND VARIATIONS.

Gott der Vater wohn' uns bei.
Nun danket alle Gott.
Fugue on the Choral "Vom Himmel hoch da komm' ich her.
Fugue on the Choral "Aus tiefer Noth schrei' ich zu dir."
Fantasia on "Valet will ich dir geben."
Gelobet seist du, Jesu Christ.
Wo soll ich fliehen hin, or Auf meinen lieben Gott.
Nun komm' der Heiden Heiland.
Variations on the Choral "Sei gegrüsset, Jesu gütig."

* These pieces are published separately, price 1s. or 1s. 6d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

TECHNIQUE
AND EXPRESSION
IN PIANOFORTE PLAYING
BY
FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

In the course of my experience as a teacher of the pianoforte, an experience extending over many years, certain ideas have from time to time suggested themselves to me which have proved useful—to myself, as enabling me to express more clearly that which I desired my pupils to understand, and to my pupils, as tending to facilitate their comprehension of the various difficulties they have had to encounter, at the same time leading them to perceive the most practical means of overcoming them, and thus accelerating their general rate of progress.

These suggestions relate to both the mechanical and intellectual sides of the study of pianoforte-playing, or briefly, to Technique and Expression, the chief matters implied by the first of these terms being the production of various qualities of tone, the choice of suitable fingering, and the best methods of attacking certain difficulties; while the second, which may perhaps be more aptly designated the means of expression, includes rhythm, phrasing, variety, and gradation of tone, the use of the pedals, et cætera.

WITH NUMEROUS MUSICAL EXAMPLES FROM THE WORKS OF THE GREAT MASTERS.

Price, Cloth, Gilt, Five Shillings.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

The SOCIETY of BRITISH COMPOSERS.
Music Published in the Avison Edition.

VOCAL.	Net s.	d.
Bath, Hubert—Love's Fulfilment. Song	2	0
Bax, Arnold — Fatherland. For Tenor Solo, Chorus and Orchestra	1	0
Celtic Song-Cycle (Separately, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 5, 1s. each; No. 4, 1s. 6d.)	3	6
Golden Gwendolen. The Fairies	each 2	0
Magnificat. The Song in the Twilight. Song	each 1	6
Bell, W. H.—Music for the St. Albans Pageant. For Soli, Chorus and Orchestra (or pianoforte)	2	6
Booth, Victor.—Serenade. Song, in F and D	each 2	0
Corder, Frederick—Invocation. Madrigal for female voices	0	3
Springtime. Waltz-song for female voices	0	6
Eggar, K. E.—Wolfram's Dirge. Song	2	0
Farjeon, Harry—Vagrant Songs	2	6
Forrester, J. Cliffe—Three Songs: The Cowslip's golden bell; When sleeps the woodland rose; I'd sail away to yonder skies	each 2	0
Two Part-Songs—With a wand'ring to and fro	0	4
With a down-ding-dong	0	3
Gardiner, H. Balfour—Winter	2	0
Gatty, Nicholas—Duke or Devil. A Farcical Opera	4	0
Touch not the nettle. Song	1	0
A Lowland Song; Sae early	each 1	0
Hurlstone, W. Y.—Four Songs	1	6
The Blind Boy; Forbear to braid that shining hair	each 1	0
Jones, Arnold F. Six Short Songs	2	6
Lomax, E. L.—Prince in disguise. Musical Recitation	3	6
McEwen, J. B.—Three Songs	2	0
Brevity; Love 's but a dance. Two Songs	each 1	0
Nunn, E. Cuthbert—Four Songs	2	0
O'Neill, Norman—Five Rondels, 2s. 6d.; Two French Songs	1	6
Roberts, Osborne—The Rose; Wind of the West. Two Songs, ea.	2	0
Rootham, Cyril B.—The Ballad of Kingslea Mere. Song	1	0
Speaight, Joseph—Two Songs	1	0
Lubin is away; Sister, awake	each 1	6
National Nursery Rhymes; I love thee	each 1	6
Stephenson, Morton—Six Fairy Songs for Children	2	6
Swinstead, Felix—Sing-song Cycle	2	0
Four Old English Songs	2	6
Wight, A. N.—The Minstrel's Curse. Ballad for Bass Solo, Chorus and Orchestra	1	6
Williams, R. Vaughan.—On Wenlock Edge. Cycle of Six Songs. For Tenor and Pianoforte (and ad lib. String Quartet Accompaniment), Score only, 5s.; Strings separately, 6s.; Complete	8	0
Wolstenholme, W.—Six English Songs	2	6
Four Little Songs	2	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.	NET. s.	d.
BACH, W. F.—Sonata. Arranged for Two Pianofortes, four hands	6	0
DEBUSSY, Cl.—Le Coucile des Faux Dieux. Pianoforte Solo	2	0
—— Pelleas et Mélisande. Fantaisie. Pianoforte Solo, 3s. net; Pianoforte Duet	4	0
—— Première Rhapsodie. Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo	3	0
DELAFOSSE, L.—Second Barcarolle. Pianoforte Solo	2	0
—— Offrandes. Six Pieces for Pianoforte Solo	4	0
DUKAS, P.—Ariane et Barbe-Bleue. Fantaisie. Pianoforte Solo, 3s. net; Pianoforte Duet	4	0
FRANCK, C.—Organ Works. Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo: Prière, 3s. net; Grand Pièce Symphonique, 4s. net; Final, 3s. 6d. net; 2nd Fantaisie	3	0
GODOWSKY, L.—Walzermasken. Pianoforte Solo; 1. Karneval; 2. Pastell; 3. Skizze; 4. Momento Capriccioso; 5. Berceuse; 6. Kontraste; 7. Profil; 8. Silhouette; 9. Satire; 10. Karikatur; 11. Tyll. Ulenspegel; 12. Légende; 13. Humoreske; 14. Französisch; 15. Elégie; 16. Perpetuum mobile; 17. Menuett; 18. Schuhplattler; 19. Valse macabre; 20. Abendglocken; 21. Orientale; 22. Wienerisch; 23. Eine Sage; 24. Portrait. In four Books each	5	0
LUIGINI.—Ballet Egyptien. Second Suite. Pianoforte Solo, 2s. 6d. net; Small Orchestra	4	0
MARTIN, R. C.—Op. 55, No. 1. Le Premier Bal. Pianoforte Solo, 2s. net; No. 2. Berceuse pour endormir Roland. Pianoforte Solo, 2s. net; No. 3. Entendez vous pres du Moulin. Pianoforte Solo	2	0
POLDINI.—Op. 49. Aquarelles. Pianoforte Solo	2	0
WOLF-FERRARI, E.—Der Schmuck der Madonna. Opera. Pianoforte Solo, 13s. net; Intermezzo from ditto. Pianoforte Duet	3	0

CHAMBER MUSIC.
DEBUSSY.—La Cour des Lys. Prelude. Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
HENNEBAINS, A.—Rêverie-Caprice. Flute and Pianoforte	2	0
LACOME, P.—Passepied en Duo. For Oboe and Bassoon, or Flute and 'Cello	1	6
LUIGINI.—Fantaisie sur le Ballet Egyptien. For Violin and Pianoforte	2	6
MISSA, E.—Cantabile. Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
KNAUER, H.—Paukenschule	2	6
PORTNOFF, L.—Op. 55. Concertino No. 4 in D. Violin and Pianoforte	2	6
RAVEL, M.—L'Heure Espagnole. Piano, Violin, and 'Cello. Trio	5	0
RITZ, E.—Mélodie for Violin and Pianoforte	1	6
SAINT-QUENTIN, G. de.—Idylle. For Flute and Pianoforte, 2s. net; Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
SAINT-SAËNS, C.—Sonata No. 1. For Violin and Pianoforte. Transcribed for 'Cello and Pianoforte	7	0
VIERNE, L.—Op. 27. Sonata. For 'Cello and Pianoforte	8	0
WACHS, P.—Les Incroyables. Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
WAGNER.—Lohengrin-Fantaisie. For Pianoforte, Violin, and 'Cello Trio, with Clarinet and Contrabass ad lib.	5	0
WOLF-FERRARI.—Der Schmuck der Madonna. Opera. No. 1. Intermezzo, Violin and Pianoforte, 2s. net; No. 2. Intermezzo, Violin and Pianoforte	2	6

ORGAN AND HARMONIUM.
BOSSI, M. E.—Op. 134 No. 1. Epousailles. Méditation religieuse. For Violin, 'Cello, Harp (or Pianoforte) and Organ, with Tam-tam ad lib. Score and Parts	5	6
—— Op. 134 No. 2. Improvisation (grand chœur). For Organ	2	0
DEBUSSY, Cl.—La Cour des Lys. Prelude. Organ	2	0
DUBOIS, Th.—Two Transcriptions for Pianoforte, Violin, and Harmonium: 1. Beethoven. Adagio from Grand Septuor. 3s. 6d. net; 2. Mendelssohn. Adagio from Symphony in A minor	3	6
QUEF, Ch.—Twelve Pieces for Organ	8	0
SALOME, Th.—Cantabile. For Organ	2	6
SAINT-SAËNS, C.—Le Rouet d'Omphale. Transcribed for Organ	6	0

VOCAL MUSIC.
DOHNANYI, E. V.—Op. 20. Tanta Simona. Comic Opera. Vocal Score	10	6
GROVLEZ, G.—Trois Mélodies: 1. Des Œillets japonais; 2. Le Don silencieux; 3. Sérénade complete	4	0
RAVEL, M.—Sheherazade. Trois Poèmes. Voice and Orchestra or Pianoforte. French and English Words: 1. Asie, 3s. 6d. net; 2. La Flûte Enchantée, 2s. net; 3. L'Indifférent	2	0
RHENÉ-BATON.—Cinq Mélodies: 1. Nuit d'Autrefois; 2. Nocturne; 3. Au Désert; 4. Sérénade Mélancolique; 5. Tendresse complete	5	0

FULL SCORES AND ORCHESTRAL PARTS.
RAVEL, M.—Ma Mère L'Oye. Cinq pièces Enfantines. Full Score, 20s. net; Orchestral Parts	30	0
SAMAZEUILH, G.—Deux Pièces dans la style ancien. Strings only. Score, 1s. 6d. net; Parts	2	0
—— Divertissement et Musette pour Quatuor à cordes et Instruments à vent. Score, 3s. net; Parts	4	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A Modern School for the Violin

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ AND JAMES BROWN.

THE purpose of this Work is to provide, in one systematic and comprehensive scheme, all that is necessary for the acquirement of the Art of Modern Violin Playing.

"A Modern School for the Violin" consists of Six Books devoted to Daily Technical Practice, Six Books of Studies for Violin alone, and a number of Pieces with Pianoforte Accompaniment, the Violin parts being specially edited for the purposes of teaching.

SECTION A.—TECHNICAL PRACTICE. IN SIX BOOKS.

The foundation of "A Modern School for the Violin" is laid by means of a series of Six Books dealing exclusively with the important subject of DAILY TECHNICAL PRACTICE. The First Book of Technical Practice (Book 1A) is limited to the 1st Position; the Second Book (2A) to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the Third Book (3A) to the first five Positions; and so on. Bowings and other technical devices are introduced in a similarly progressive manner throughout. Each Book of Technical Practice is divided into "Lessons" (or Chapters), and each Lesson contains a number of short repeating Exercises on some definite point of Violin Technique—as Fingering, Bowing, &c., with the needful explanations. Included in each Book will be found a complete set of Scales and Arpeggi, arranged according to the particular stage of advancement reached.

Taken as a whole, this section is intended to facilitate, and to insist on, a thorough, steady, and continuous progress in the mastery of the Instrument, this being the only possible means of preparing the groundwork for artistic achievement with all its lasting delights.

SECTION B.—STUDIES. IN SIX BOOKS.

Section B is formed of a series of original and selected Studies, in Six Books. Each Book of Studies (Section B) is carefully co-ordinated, in respect of difficulty and range of subject, with the correspondingly numbered Book of Technical Practice (Section A). Thus the First Book of Studies (1B) is written in the 1st Position; the Second Book (2B) in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the 3rd Book (3B) in all Positions up to and including the 5th; and so on. It should further be explained that the two Sections are designed to complement one another, and that the "School" must be practised, not in single Books of Technical Practice and Studies alternately, but in pairs. Thus, Books 1A and 1B are to be taken concurrently, then Books 2A and 2B, 3A and 3B, and so on, and the appropriate pairs are now issued bound together in cloth (see Cloth Bindings below).

1A.	TECHNICAL PRACTICE	(1st Position)	2s. od.		1B.	STUDIES	... ...	(1st Position)	2s. od.
2A.	DITTO	(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.		2B.	DITTO		(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. 6d.
3A.	DITTO	... (1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.		3B.	DITTO	... ...	(1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.
4A.	DITTO	... ... (all Positions)	2s. 6d.		4B.	DITTO	... ...	(all Positions)	3s. od.
5A.	DITTO	... ... Do.	2s. 6d.		5B.	DITTO	... ...	Do.	3s. od.
6A.	DITTO	... ... Do.	3s. od.		6B.	DITTO	... ...	Do.	3s. od.

CLOTH BINDINGS.

Book 1.	(1A and 1B, bound together)	in Cloth	5s. od.
,, 2.	(2A and 2B, bound together)	Do.	5s. 6d.
,, 3.	(3A and 3B, bound together)	Do.	7s. od.
,, 4.	(4A and 4B, bound together)	Do.	6s. 6d.
,, 5.	(5A and 5B, bound together)	Do.	6s. 6d.
,, 6.	(6A and 6B, bound together)	Do.	7s. od.

PIECES.

In completion of the scheme of "A Modern School" a number of Pieces are published, in a form designed to fulfil the requirements of Violin Teachers and Students. In each number the Violin part is furnished with complete Fingerings and Bowings, besides remarks as to the methods of rendering, &c.

No. 13.	TWELVE FOLK DANCES FROM DENMARK	(1st Position)	2s. od.	No. 21.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR	J. S. BACH (1st to 6th Position)	2s. od.
No. 14.	SONATA IN G MINOR.	G. TARTINI (All Positions)	2s. od.	No. 22.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR	PIERRE RODE (Op. 9). (All Positions)	2s. 6d.
No. 15.	OVERTURE TO SAMSON.	G. F. HANDEL (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.	No. 23.	TWELVE CAROLS	(1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 16.	SONATINA IN D.	FRANZ SCHUBERT (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.	No. 24.	SONATA IN A.	W. A. MOZART (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 17.	EIGHT HYMN TUNES.	VARIOUS COMPOSERS (1st Position)	1s. 6d.	No. 25.	RÊVERIE.	HENRI VIEUXTEMPS (Op. 22, No. 3). (Advanced)	2s. od.
No. 18.	STYRIAN DANCES (LANDLER) (Op. 165).	JOSEF LANNER (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.	No. 26.	FOUR LITTLE PIECES. (From Op. 8)	IGNAZ PLEYEL (1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 19.	PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR.	J. S. BACH (Advanced)	2s. od.	No. 27.	SARABANDE AND TAMBOURIN.	JEAN-MARIE LECLAIR (1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 20.	SONATA IN G (No. 8).	JOSEPH HAYDN (1st to 6th Position)	2s. od.	No. 28.	BOURRÉE AND GIGUE.	J. S. BACH (1st and 3rd Positions)	1s. 6d.
				No. 29.	BALLADE AND POLONAISE.	HENRI VIEUXTEMPS (Op. 38) (Advanced)	2s. od.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

London:—Printed by NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, at Novello Works, Soho, and published at 160, Wardour Street, Soho, W.
Sold also by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, HAMILTON, KENT AND CO., Ltd., Paternoster Row, E.C.—Wednesday, May 1, 1912.

No. 832

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Price 3d.

FOUNDED 1844

JUNE 1, 1912.

THE ARTIST'S CHOICE.

CHAPPELL PIANOS

THE CHAPPELL AUTOTONE

A Perfect Piano and Player

— combined in one case —

CHAPPELL'S PIANO AND PLAYER-PIANO GALLERIES,
50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Agents in nearly all the principal towns of the United Kingdom and Colonies.

"THE HOPKINSON-ELECTRELLE"

DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHER PLAYERS,
BUT TAKES ANY STANDARD MUSIC-ROLL.

Finest Musical Expression! No Pedalling!!

Goes into ordinary-sized Piano!!!

CALL AND INSPECT BEFORE BUYING ANY OTHER, OR WRITE FOR BOOKLET:

J. & J. HOPKINSON, Ltd., 52, Wigmore St., London, W.

KEMMLER PIANOS

THE KEMMLER BABY GRAND, ONLY 5 FEET LONG.

The Kemmler Small Upright Piano, specially designed for Students' use.
Overstrung scale, full compass, under-damper action. 32 guineas.

PIANOS FOR HIRE FROM 12/6 PER MONTH.

Special terms to Students and the Profession.

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE:—

KEMMLER, BÉNARD & Co., 26, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

CRAMER PIANOS

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS

RECOMMENDED BY

Percy Grainger, Leonard Borwick, Pietro Mascagni, Sir Frederick Bridge, Coleridge-Taylor, York Bowen, Dr. Cummings, Tito Mattei, Emil Bach, Alexandra Canovas, Henry Farmer, Carrie Tubb, Gounod, Benedict, Emil Pauer, Edward Batiste, Joachim, Nilsson, Nikisch, Marie Roze, Scharwenka, Strauss, Thomas, Liszt, Stainer, Guilmant, Saint-Saëns, Carl Rosa, Ketterer, Arditi.

J. B. CRAMER & Co., Ltd., ESTD. 1824.

139, NEW BOND ST., 46, MOORGATE ST., E.C., KENSINGTON HIGH ST.

USED ON ALL

THE GREAT SHIPS OF THE KING'S NAVY

AND ON THE ROYAL YACHT, FOR DIVINE SERVICE.

MALCOLM ORGANS

RECOMMENDED BY THE ORGANISTS OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY, ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, ROYAL ALBERT HALL, CITY TEMPLE, &c.

Malcolm Organs are unequalled for their full & pure tone, rare & beautiful stops.

PRICES FROM £7 7s to 60 gns. Discount to Profession. Catalogues Post-free.

Wholesale only: JOHN MALCOLM & CO., Erskine Road, Regent's Park, N.W.

MURDOCH'S PIANO AND MUSIC STORES, 463, Oxford St., W.

CAMILLE SAINT-SAËNS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

FOUNDED IN 1844.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 832.—Vol. 53.
Registered at the General Post Office for Canadian Postage.

JUNE 1, 1912.

Price 3d.; Postage 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 4s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
Conductor: SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O.

(Season 1912—1913.)

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES. Applicants should have STRONG VOICES OF GOOD QUALITY, and should be prepared to pass an examination in SIGHT-READING. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

YORK GATE, MARYLEBONE ROAD, N.W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

MIDSUMMER HALF-TERM begins MONDAY, JUNE 10.
ENTRANCE EXAMINATION, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, at 3.
Chamber Concert, Queen's Hall, Monday, June 10, at 3.
Orchestral Concert, Queen's Hall, Tuesday, June 18, at 3.

SYLLABUSES for the L.R.A.M. EXAMINATION, THE VOICE CULTURE EXAMINATION, and the SPECIAL TRAINING COURSE EXAMINATION are now ready.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Telegrams—"Initiative, London." Telephone—"1160, Western."

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE CHRISTIAN, K.G.

Director:
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

The HALF-TERM will commence on Monday, June 17.
Syllabus and official Entry Form may be obtained from
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: LANDON RONALD.

HALF-TERM begins June 3.

Individual Tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. 110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Stage Dancing, Fencing, and Opera. Examinations open to general public. Prospectus, Examinations Syllabus, and form of entry, free of Secretary, H. SAXE WYNDHAM, Victoria Embankment. Telephone: 1943 Holborn.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor .. .. Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M., Mus. Doc., LL.D.
Principal .. .. GRANVILLE BANTOCK, M.A.
Visiting Examiner H. WALFORD DAVIES, Mus. Doc.

SESSION 1911-1912.

The Session consists of AUTUMN TERM (September 18 to December 16); WINTER TERM (January 15 to March 30); and SUMMER TERM (April 15 to June 22).

Instruction in all branches of Music; Students' Choir and Orchestra; Chamber Music; Students' Rehearsals and Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

GREAT TRIENNIAL HANDEL FESTIVAL.

Choir & Orchestra 4,000 Performers.

REHEARSAL DAY,
SATURDAY, JUNE 22, AT 12.30 P.M.

MISS PERCEVAL ALLEN. MISS ESTA D'ARGO.
MADAME CLARA BUTT.
MR. BEN DAVIES. MR. CHARLES SAUNDERS.
MR. KENNERLEY RUMFORD. MR. HERBERT BROWN.
MR. ROBERT RADFORD.

"ISRAEL IN EGYPT" PRECEDED BY Overture "GIUSTINO,"
TUESDAY, JUNE 25, AT 2.30 P.M.

MISS PERCEVAL ALLEN. MISS ESTA D'ARGO.
MADAME CLARA BUTT.
MR. CHARLES SAUNDERS.
MR. KENNERLEY RUMFORD. MR. HERBERT BROWN.

SELECTION DAY,
THURSDAY, JUNE 27, AT 2.30 P.M.
MADAME DONALDA.
MADAME CLARA BUTT.
MR. BEN DAVIES.
MR. ROBERT RADFORD.

"MESSIAH."
SATURDAY, JUNE 29, AT 2.30 P.M.
MISS PERCEVAL ALLEN.
MADAME CLARA BUTT.
MR. BEN DAVIES.
MR. ROBERT RADFORD.

SOLO BAND, THE LONDON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.
Principal Violin—Mr. W. H. REED.
ORGANIST—MR. WALTER W. HEDGCOCK.
CONDUCTOR - - SIR FREDERIC COWEN.

POPULAR PRICES (INCLUDING ADMISSION).
Rehearsal Day, Saturday, June 22: Reserved Seats, 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., and 3s. 6d. Unreserved Seats, including admission, 2s. 6d.
Festival Days, June 25, 27 and 29: Reserved Seats, 21s., 15s., 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., and 5s. Unreserved Seats, including admission, 3s. 6d.
Box Office, Crystal Palace ('Phone 1620 Sydenham) and all London Agents.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., LL.D.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The NEW COLLEGE YEAR begins Tuesday, October 1, 1912.
NEW TERM began Tuesday, April 23.
Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.
Students are required to enter upon a complete course of Musical instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.
Fee for the year, £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term. Special Fee for Wind Instrument Course, £15.
Systematic Course for the Training of Teachers included in the curriculum.
The Prospectus, with Scholarship information, Diploma Regulations, and Entry Forms, on application.
New Professor of Singing—Miss Marie Brema.
STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

Examination Regulations, List of College Publications, Lectures, &c. may be had on application.
H. A. HARDING, Hon. Sec.
Kensington Gore, S.W.

THE

ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE R.A.M. AND R.C.M.

FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).

Examinations in Theory held in March and November at all Centres. In Practical Subjects in March-April at all Centres, and in the London district and certain Provincial Centres in November-December also. Entries for the November-December Examinations close Wednesday, October 16, 1912.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).

Held throughout the British Isles three times a year, viz., October-November, March-April, and June-July. Entries for the October-November Examinations close Wednesday, October 9, 1912.

Theory papers set in Examinations of past years (Local Centre or School) can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, post-free.

The Board offers annually SIX EXHIBITIONS tenable at the R.A.M. or R.C.M., for Two or Three Years.

Copies of Syllabuses A and B, Forms of Entry, and any further information, will be sent, post-free, on application to—

Telegrams: "Associa, London." JAMES MUIR, Secretary, 15, Bedford Square, London, W.C.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for degrees in Music are held as follows:—Matriculation, April and October; First Mus. B., March and September; Final Mus. B., and Mus. D., September only.

For particulars, apply Secretary of Examinations, University Office, Durham. Copies of former Examination Papers, 1s. per set.

The Complete Series of Papers set at the Durham Examinations in Music from 1902 to 1907 inclusive, to which the Professor of Music contributes a preface, which deals with the requirements in Counterpoint, may be obtained bound in Paper Boards at 5*s.* 2*d.* post-free from the Secretary of Examinations, University Offices, Durham.

MANCHESTER SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Patron: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart.

Principal: ALBERT J. CROSS (of the Royal Academy, London, and the Leipsic Conservatorium). Sixty Professors.

All Branches of Music taught. Private or Class Tuition.

Full and String Orchestras, Operas, Lectures, Recitals, Chamber and Orchestral Concerts. Prospectus from the SECRETARY, Albert Square.

Orchestral Concert, June 22. Programme includes: Symphony, "Jena," Beethoven, and Overture, "The Wreckers," Dr. Ethel Smyth.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

WESTLAND ROW, DUBLIN.

The Governors are prepared to entertain applications for the position of Senior Professor of the Violin Classes in the Academy rendered vacant by the resignation of Chevalier Adolph Wilhelmj. The appointment to take effect as from September 20, 1912. Applications, in the first instance by letter only, to be addressed to the Secretary. Dated 1st day of May, 1912.

C. E. GRAHAME HARVEY,
Secretary.

THE IMPERIAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

CLAVIER HALL, HANOVER SQUARE, W.

Patron—HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF BEAUFORT.
President—DR. ARTHUR HAYDON.

THE EIDOPHONE DEPARTMENT.

A new method of testing the Singing Voice by means of Floral and Geometrical figures. Fees will include a photograph of Candidates' Voice figure.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Open daily for highest-class tuition in Singing, Pianoforte, Organ, and Orchestral instruments. Opera Class, Elocution, and Stage Dancing. Moderate fees. Examinations for four Free Scholarships will be held in July. Free auditions by appointment. Day and Evening Classes.

EXAMINATION DEPARTMENT.

A. Mus., L. Mus., A.I.C.M., L.I.C.M., F.I.C.M. Diplomas. Examinations for Junior and Senior Students in all branches. Next Examination in July.

Full particulars of above can be obtained from the Registrar.

MUSICAL LECTURES.

Mr. CLIFTON COOKE'S Popular Lecture Recitals: "Secrets of Song and Speech," "Sullivan and his Songs," "History of Oratorio," and "History of Opera," can be booked by Schools and Societies for Season 1912-13.

SIGNOR CELLINI,

The eminent young Italian tenor of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, will illustrate the "History of Opera" Lecture, by special arrangement.

For terms, address Mr. CLIFTON COOKE 20 Bloomsbury Street, London, W.C.

THE MADRIGAL SOCIETY

(FOUNDED 1741).

THE MADRIGAL SOCIETY offers TWO PRIZES, being the "Molineux Prize" of TEN POUNDS, with the Society's Medal, and the "Society's Prize" of FIVE POUNDS, for the best and second best APPROVED MADRIGALS, in not less than four, nor more than six parts, the upper part or parts to be for one or two Treble Voices.

The character of the Composition to be in accordance with that of Madrigals of the best style and form, with imitative part-writing; not a mere Part-Song or harmonized Melody.

The following conditions must be complied with, viz.:—

1. That the Alto and Tenor parts be written in their respective clefs;
2. That the signature be repeated at the head of each page at least;
3. That the intended "Tempo" be clearly indicated;
4. That the words, to be selected by the Composer, be written out in full on a fly-leaf at the beginning; and
5. That not more than one Composition be submitted by each competitor, which must not be in the Composer's autograph.

The Madrigals to be delivered, addressed to the Secretary of the Madrigal Society, Whyteleafe, Bromley, Kent, on or before November 1, 1912, each Composition having a device or motto affixed thereto, with the Composer's name in a sealed envelope bearing a corresponding mark.

The Award of the Judges will be made known at the meeting of the Society in December, 1912.

OSCAR W. STREET, Hon. Secretary.

May, 1912.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

LONDON.

(Under the direction of the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.

Principal: J. H. LEWIS, D.C.L., F.E.I.S., Mus. Doc.

Chairman: J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc. Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.

Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus. Doc., F.I.G.C.M.

Hon. Sec.: GEO. A. STANTON, A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., F.I.G.C.M.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, July, and December.

Local Theoretical Examinations, July, and December.

Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.

Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for Competition.

Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.

All communications to be addressed as usual to the Secretary, Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

INCORPORATED GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

Founded 1888.

Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament XXX. and XXXI. Victoria, Cap. cxxxi., § 23.

President: THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF BRISTOL, D.D.

ASSOCIATE (A.I.G.C.M.), LICENTIATE (L.I.G.C.M.), FELLOWSHIP (F.I.G.C.M.) EXAMINATIONS in London and at approved Provincial Centres in July, and December.

COMPETITIONS FOR 1912.

A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Anthem.
A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Organ Piece.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Kyrie.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Hymn Tune.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Quadruple Chant.

GUILD GAZETTE (QUARTERLY) - - TWOPENCE.

REGISTER OF ORGAN VACANCIES.

Organists (Members) have the FREE use of the Register of Vacant Appointments.

Calendar (gratis) and further information of Dr. LEWIS, Warden, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

27th ANNUAL PRIZE COMPETITION.

£30 OFFERED IN PRIZES.

Send stamp for particulars to JAMES BROADBENT & SON, LIMITED, 13, Brunswick Place, Leeds. Competition closes June 30.

£10 10s. OFFERED for PRIZE TUNES. Competition closes June 30, 1912. For full particulars apply the "Yorkshire Choralist" Office, 98, Louis Street, Leeds.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

Sight - Playing Simplified

The great difficulty with nearly every pianist is to become a good sight-player. If that is your difficulty you have two courses open to you. You may either practise for two or three years for some hours daily or you may gain a far greater efficiency with a 3 months' practice for a short time daily. The latter and very much easier way is possible only by means of which simplifies all existing methods and enables anyone to become a good sight-player with none of the wearisome drudgery of the former method. It is at least worth your while to investigate this System, which has the enthusiastic approval of the hundreds of pupils who have taken the Course.

THE EHREMAYER SYSTEM OF PIANOFORTE SIGHT-PLAYING

A descriptive booklet and full particulars are sent free to any pianist.

L. M. EHREMAYER, 27, CHANCERY LANE, LONDON, W.C.

MUSIC AND MUSCLES.

The difference between the arm and the hand of the "born" pianist and that of the average player is not that many muscles are strong, but that no muscle is very weak. Housework makes strong arms, but it does not help one at the key-board. The small, weak muscles in every arm cause the technical troubles of the pianist, and piano practice only tires them without perfecting them. The Macdonald Smith System strengthens these little muscles directly, and does so in a remarkable way, so that perfect independent control, not only strength, is obtained. What this means to the pianist is described by pupils in "Light on Pianoforte Playing," sent free on application.

COMPLETE COURSE OF LESSONS BY CORRESPONDENCE,

THREE GUINEAS (by Instalments if desired).

Course "B" for Beginners, Course "C" for Players.

"PIANOFORTE PLAYING," and other Articles

by MACDONALD SMITH, 32 pp., post-free, 7d.

Terms and Conditions for Personal Lessons (to Concert Players only) on application.

M. MACDONALD SMITH, 19, BLOOMSBURY SQUARE, LONDON, W.C.

A FINE MODERN VIOLIN.

MADE ENTIRELY BY W. E. HILL AND SONS.

OUR Instruments have for long been recognised as among the finest examples of modern work, and we are now producing at a moderate price an excellent Violin, constructed upon models founded on the most perfect types of the great schools.

These Violins are made throughout in our workshops. None but carefully-selected and seasoned material, and highly skilled workmanship, are employed in their construction; and particular attention is given to the accurate fitting and regulation of each instrument.

PRICE £12 10S.

SOLD BY W. E. HILL & SONS,

Sole Violin and Bow Makers to H.M. THE KING,

AT THEIR PLACE OF BUSINESS,

140, NEW BOND STREET,

LONDON, W.

ESTABLISHED 1750.

Telephone: 1788 P.O. Hampstead. Telegrams: "Cantabile, London."

GRAY & DAVISON,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PRATT STREET, N.W.

48, SOUTHFIELD ROAD, OXFORD.

272, UPPER PARLIAMENT STREET, LIVERPOOL.

Specifications, Estimates, and Designs free of charge.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

PIANO PEDALS.

THE CATHEDRAL, MANCHESTER,
Nov. 8th, 1910.

DEAR MR. MALKIN,

I think your Patent Pedal Attachment, which you have fitted to my Steinway, is simply splendid. I find the action absolutely silent and its touch beautiful.—Yours truly,

R. H. P. COLEMAN, F.R.C.O., Sub-Organist.

Terms:—Cash, or instalments of 8s. per month.

Write for Lists, Prices, and Clients' Opinions, and references, to—

THE MALKIN PATENT PEDAL CO., LTD.,

Works—Hanley, Staffs. NEWCASTLE-UNDER-LYME

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ALICE HARE
(SOPRANO).
44, Ladbroke Grove, W. 'Phone 5195 Western.

MISS DASIE E. AVIS
Contralto Soloist. (Former pupil of Mr. EDWIN HOLLAND.)
Oratorios, Concerts, and Musical At Homes.
"Sunnyside," Wroughton Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MISS LILY GRAHAME
(CONTRALTO).
Oratorio, Opera, Ballads, &c.
38, Mansfield Road, Ilford. Tel. No. 3071 East.

MISS LYDIA JOHN (L.R.A.M.)
(CONTRALTO).
Oratorio, Lieder, Ballads, &c.
24, Belsize Park Gardens, London, N.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR).
"The splendid reputation enjoyed by Mr. Samuel Masters, the well-known tenor, throughout the British Isles is the legitimate result of a remarkably fine voice of great range and almost phenomenal power, and his artistic singing."—Kingston Musical Courier.

Telephone: 613 P.O. Kingston.
Address—8A, Station Buildings, Surbiton.

MR. JOS. REED
(TENOR).
59, Biddulph Mansions, Maida Vale, W.
Telephone: P.O. Hampstead 6778.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. MONTAGUE BORWELL) (SOPRANO).

124, WALM LANE, CRICKLEWOOD, N.W.

Telephone: 415 Willesden. Telegrams: "Soloist, London."

HERBERT MARKS (L.R.A.M.)
(BARITONE).
Oratorios, Lieder, Ballads, &c.
Please note change of address: 83, Woodstock Road, Bedford Park, W.

MR. HERBERT PARKER
(BARITONE).
Leeds Musical Festival, Queen's Hall, and Principal Provincial Concerts.
Address: Rosslyn, Lichfield.

MR. GEORGE DENHAM, L.R.A.M.
Singing Lessons (Lamperti Method) Exams.
60, Berners Street, W.; or Avondale Road, South Croydon.

MR. M. MONTAGU-NATHAN,
Formerly pupil of YSAŸE, HEERMANN, and WILHELMJ,
gives VIOLIN Lessons in LONDON and PROVINCES.
Address: 5, Bechstein Studios, Wigmore Street, W.

HERBERT WEATHERLY
(CONCERT ORGANIST).
Canadian and American Press-notices and particulars.
Apply, Rudolph Bennett, 3, Kelfield Gardens, London, W., England.

MR. W. H. GRIFFITHS
Author of "The Mixed Voice and the Registers," "Daily Studies in Speaking and Reading," &c.; Lecturer in Vocal Science to the Church of England Training College, Liverpool; Late Singing Master to the Lancashire and Cheshire County Councils; Consulting Voice Specialist to the Throat Hospital, Liverpool, and Special Correspondent to The Musical Herald, London, and The Musician, New York.

Mr. GRIFFITHS, after 25 years' practical experience in Singing, Voice Production, Choir Training, Elocution, and Defects of Speech, is now prepared to receive a limited number of Teachers and Expert Vocalists to study his methods of teaching. The lessons can be given at periods to suit professional workers, and much of it can be done by post, thus bringing the far-distant operator into direct touch with the most modern ideas and methods. Special classes will be held in London at Vacation time. Teachers are especially invited to write for my latest pamphlet. If accompanied by six stamps, a copy of my latest book (2s. 6d.) will be forwarded free (state voice).

76, Lord Street, Liverpool.
Also at 40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

MR. W. H. BREARE
VOCAL ADVISER AND TEACHER OF SINGING
TO STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

Author of "Vocalism," "Elocution: Its First Principles," "Vocal Faults and their Remedies."

"The most complete guide to singing in English."—"Lancelot," of the Referee.
"One of the sanest of sane expositions."—Musical Courier, N.Y.
"One step nearer to the ideal."—Referee ("Lancelot").
"Is a reliable expert in all branches."—Gentlewoman.
"A magnificent guide to both teachers and students."—Eastern Morning News.
"Do not hesitate to commend."—Glasgow Herald.
"Well up and enthusiastic in his subject, which he handles in a masterly manner. His technical knowledge is minute, wide, and accurate: what he has to say is well worthy of consideration by public singers and music teachers."—Aberdeen Free Press.
"Has had exceptional opportunities of studying his subject. . . . Common-sense in all he utters."—Leeds Mercury.
"Is an acknowledged authority. . . ."—Western Morning News.
"I have not the slightest fear of contradiction when I say that no one knows more about the voice and vocal production than Mr. W. H. Breare."—"Counterpoint," in the Newcastle Journal.

Further Press Opinions on application.

Address: "HERALD" BUILDINGS, HARROGATE,
or 139, NEW BOND STREET, W.

THE LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS.
DIRECTOR: MR. JAMES BATES.

SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Concerts; also LEADING BOYS for Church Choirs can be supplied for occasional or permanent engagements. Address, E. B. Golding, Secretary, 6, Blomfield Crescent, Hyde Park, W.
Telegrams: "Musicomane, London." Telephone: 490 Mayfair.

MUSICAL REVISER TO MESSRS. NOVELLO FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS.

COMPOSERS' MSS.
REVISED and PREPARED FOR PRINTING; ADVICE GIVEN as to most suitable publishers for various styles of composition.
H. ELLIOT BUTTON, "Harewood," Ardwick Road, Hampstead, N.W.
Reference to the following composers kindly permitted:—
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bt., C.V.O., Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M.,
Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., Dr. WALFORD DAVIES.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. and MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of F.L.C.M., L.Mus.L.C.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., and L.R.A.M. Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Scholarships, Prizes, "Honours," and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of eight hundred and sixty. Dr. Allison is quite willing to teach those who neither require nor desire to pass examinations. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Analysis of Composition by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson St., Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

L.R.A.M. (PAPER WORK).
MR. E. H. BIBBY (Mus.Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.) has SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE COURSE for the "Form and Teaching" and "Rudiments and Harmony" papers set at the L.R.A.M. Exams.
LATEST SUCCESSES:—
L.R.A.M. EXAMS., 1910-11.—Seventeen Correspondence Pupils successful. Address, c/o Forsyth Bros., Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. GEORGE R. CEILEY, L.R.A.M., gives LESSONS in the traditional School of SINGING as taught by CHAS. LUNN and Signor CATTANEO.
The late Chas. Lunn wrote: "I take a special interest in Mr. George R. Ceiley owing to his clear perception, high musical knowledge and the skill in which he applies what I have taught him"; and the late Dr. Turpin wrote: "In that delicate and difficult department of Voice Production, Mr. Ceiley is indeed one of our chief authorities."
Change of address: "Highcroft," Muswell Hill Road, N.

MR. CLIFTON COOKE (25 years' experience MANUEL GARCIA method) will TRAIN a GOOD VOICE on exceptional terms. 80 per cent. of his pupils in the profession. Illustrated reprint, "Mr. Clifton Cooke and his Pupils," post-free.
All communications to MR. CLIFTON COOKE, Studio, 20, Bloomsbury Street, New Oxford Street, London, W.C.

DR. WILLIAM A. HALL, Mus.D. Oxon. (1909), F.R.C.O., specialises in the PREPARATION for UNIVERSITY DEGREES and the RECOGNISED DIPLOMAS, personally or by correspondence. Also personal lessons in Pianoforte, Singing, Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., at 7, Lansdowne Road, Tottenham, N.

MISS H. HEALE COACHES for all EXAMINATIONS in MUSIC (at private residence or at West-End studio), in Pianoforte, Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue, Form, Orchestration, "Teaching," Modulation, Transposition, &c. For terms, &c., apply Dunraven House, 41, Albert Bridge Road, S.W.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc. Dunelm., F.R.C.O., Author of "Examination Questions and How to Work them" (Novello's Primers, No. 70), COACHES for all Musical Exams., personally and by correspondence.

202 SUCCESSES, including:—

A.R.C.O. Paper Work .. 50; Organ Work .. .. 33.
F.R.C.O. ,, ,, .. 51; ,, ,, ... 35.
(F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize twice, and "F. J. Sawyer" Prize.)
FIRST MUS. BAC., Oxford, Durham, and Dublin .. 41.
FINAL MUS. BAC., Oxford and Durham .. .. 22.
MUS. DOC. Oxford, Durham, Dublin, and Montreal .. 4.
MUS. BAC. and MUS. DOC. EXERCISES .. .. 27.

Special sets of papers in Composition, fully covering "Exercise" Work.
Also many successes in A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., L.Mus. and A.Mus., &c., &c.

SUCCESSES IN 1911 include:—

MUS. DOC. EXERCISES, 2. FINAL MUS. DOC. EXAM., 2.
MUS. BAC. EXERCISES, 5. FINAL MUS. BAC. EXAM., 4.
FIRST EXAM. FOR MUS. BAC., 2.
OXFORD EXAMS. May, 1912, one in "First" and one in "Final."
MSS. arranged and revised.
48, Braxted Park, Streatham, S.W. Telephone: 487 Streatham.

THEO. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac. Oxon., F.R.C.O., an experienced and successful COACH to all Music Examinations. Oxford, Durham, and Dublin Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O., with Précis and Hints on Essay, L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M., practical and paper work (Piano and Singing). Jan., 1908, Pupil won F.R.C.O. "Cart" Prize. Shepherd Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus. D. Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. EAGLEFIELD HULL, Mus. Doc. Oxon., F.R.C.O., &c., COACHES for all Examinations, Practical and Theoretical, personally or by correspondence. Correspondence Course for A.R.C.O. Paper Work, A.R.C.O. Playing, F.R.C.O. Paper Work, F.R.C.O. Playing. First Mus. B. Exercise and Final, Mus. D. Exercise and Final, Oxon., London, Dunelm. and Dublin. Special Course in Choir-training and A.R.C.O. Essays.
For Prospectus address, 48, New North Road, Huddersfield.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac. Cantab.; Mus. Doc. Toronto; gives LESSONS by post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM, ACOUSTICS, ORCHESTRATION, &c.
Candidates prepared by Dr. Karn have obtained the degrees of MUS. BAC. or MUS. DOC. at DURHAM, OXFORD, DUBLIN, CAMBRIDGE, and LONDON Universities; also F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M. (Composition, Pianoforte, Organ, Bandmastership, and Conducting), A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, and Pianoforte Teaching). L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M. and T.C.L., ASSOCIATED BOARD, &c. Dr. Karn continues to Coach for all Musical Examinations. Special Preparation in Rudiments, Form, and Teaching for L.R.A.M.
Also PERSONAL Lessons; MSS. revised for publication. Classical Works analysed for Examinations. Terms moderate and inclusive.
106, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W. Telephone, 524 P.O. Hampstead.

DR. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., F.E.I.S., Warden, Incorporated Guild of Church Musicians, gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. 42, Berners St., Oxford St., W.

DR. LEWIS' TEXT-BOOKS:

"HARMONY." (2 vols.) 5s. each, net.
"COUNTERPOINT." 5s. net.
"DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON." 5s. net.
"FUGUE." 1s. 6d. net.
"ELEMENTS OF MUSIC." 2s. 6d. net.
"DEVELOPMENT OF ANGLICAN CHURCH MUSIC." 2s. net.
"PRONOUNCING VOCABULARY OF MUSICAL TERMS." 6d. net.
"DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS." 6d. net.
"MATERIAL OF MELODY." 3d. net.
The above, complete, will be forwarded (carriage paid) for 15s.

MR. DAVID MACKENZIE, L.R.A.M.—Lessons in Singing. Vocal Coach. Arthur Thompson, Esq., F.R.A.M. (Professor and Examiner, Royal Academy of Music), writes: "An admirable Teacher, well and variously equipped to impart instruction in a very difficult art." For appointments, &c., write, Breitkopf Studios, 54, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40, WIGMORE STREET, W., are specially constructed with every convenience and facility that science and money can suggest, providing a magnificent Entrance Hall, Electric Lift, Telephones, separate Lavatories for Ladies and Gentlemen on every floor, also comfortable Lounges for waiting. The Studios are appropriately furnished, lighted by electricity, one or more Horizontal Grands in every Studio, &c., &c.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are in the centre of London's musical life, known by everybody, and already used by over a hundred of the most eminent London and Provincial Professors of Music.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are let by the year for exclusive use, or by single days, the charges being very reasonable and inclusive. Applications should be addressed to:—
THE MANAGER, 40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

MISS F. HELENA MARKS PREPARES for L.R.A.M. and other Examinations. Pianoforte, Harmony, "Form and Teaching," &c. Lessons (oral or by correspondence). Pupils received and visited for the Pianoforte. Many recent successes, L.R.A.M., &c. Pianoforte Classes, 10, Matheson Rd., West Kensington.

DR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus. D. (Dubl.), F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING FOR DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1911, ONE HUNDRED AND TEN SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1911, TWO HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations.
Address, Thornleigh, 6, Elm Park Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON (Mus.D. Dunelm., A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O.), PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c. Preparation for University, R.A.M., R.C.M., R.C.O., and other Examinations. Lessons personally or by correspondence. 30, Mount Park Crescent, Ealing, W.

MR. A. E. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., COACHES (post) for all Musical Examinations. Pupils have passed the A.T.C.L., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.O., and complete MUS. BAC. Course. Pupil was awarded Stillie bursary (Glasgow, 1906). Compositions Revised. Portland House, Lancaster.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., Specialist in Correspondence Tuition for F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O.
RECENT SUCCESSES: 125 Correspondence Pupils have passed F.R.C.O. or A.R.C.O. RECENTLY as follows:
88 A.R.C.O. (Paper Work). 37 F.R.C.O. (Paper Work).
Many Pupils passed A.R.C.O. and F.R.C.O. in January, 1912.
F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize, January, 1912.
Many successes in January, 1911, 1910, and 1909.
15 A.R.C.O., July, 1911. 10 F.R.C.O., July, 1911.
22 A.R.C.O., July, 1910. 11 F.R.C.O., July, 1910.
12 A.R.C.O., July, 1909. 5 F.R.C.O., July, 1909.
12 A.R.C.O., Jan., 1910. 3 F.R.C.O., Jan., 1910.
Address, 8, Harley Road, Harlesden, London, N.W.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 37, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.
GRADUATED POSTAL LESSONS IN HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, THEORY OF MUSIC, FORM AND ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ETC.
Pupils prepared for Mus. Doc., Mus. Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., and other examinations by experienced University Graduates in Music.
Personal lessons for L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., &c.
Terms very moderate; from One to Three Guineas per quarter. Prospectus post-free from the SECRETARY. Telephone: 7729 City.

POSITIONS SECURED for ORGANISTS in Churches in the United States. Write for Terms: INTERNATIONAL CHOIR EXCHANGE, 116, Newark Avenue, Jersey City, N.J. (late of 136, Fifth Avenue, New York). VACANCIES ALWAYS.

OXFORD.

NEW COLLEGE CHORISTERSHIPS.

There will be a trial of voices on THURSDAY, JUNE 27.
Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between 9 and 12 years of age.
For particulars, apply to The Precentor, before JUNE 22.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

CHORISTERSHIPS.—A trial of Voices to fill Vacancies in the Choir School will be held on Friday, July 19.
Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between 9 and 12 years of age.
For particulars apply to The Dean.
Names to be sent in not later than July 13.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.

There are Vacancies for Probationers in the above Choir. Gentlemen's sons, age 9-11, are required. Apply to the Rev. The Warden.

DURHAM CATHEDRAL.

There are VACANCIES in the Choir of Durham Cathedral for ONE TENOR SINGER and ONE BASS SINGER.—Applications, accompanied by Testimonials and Certificates of Birth, must be sent, on or before Wednesday, June 12, 1912, to The Chapter Clerk, The College, Durham, from whom further information may be obtained.
Notice of the Day of Trial will be sent only to Selected Candidates, and their Travelling Expenses and other Necessary Expenses will be paid by The Dean and Chapter.
The College, Durham, May 24, 1912.

SOPRANO SOLOIST WANTED for Dominion Methodist Church, Ottawa, Canada, from September. Salary, £80. Applications to be sent to Dr. Herbert Sanders, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

WANDSWORTH PARISH CHURCH.—SOLO TENOR WANTED. £12. Good Reader essential. Apply by letter only, to Choirmaster, 93, Oakhill Road, Putney, S.W.

SOLO BOY WANTED. Church, N.W.—Some experience necessary. Salary from £15, according to ability. Address, Secretary, c/o F. Green, 118, Fortune Green Road, West Hampstead.

SOLO TENOR REQUIRED.—Hampstead Church. Churchman; Communicant. Good voice and reader necessary. Salary £30. Address, G. A., 58, Gondar Gardens, Hampstead.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

There is a VACANCY in the Choir for a BASS LAY CLERK. Stipend offered, £90 a year.
The Competition will be held in July.
For further information apply to The Dean, King's College, Cambridge.
Applications to be sent in by July 10.

WANTED.—BASS CHORUS SINGER (not Baritone) for Catholic Choir. Must be able to read music and know something of Plain Chant. Apply, J. F. S., 38, Thornton Avenue, Chiswick, London, W.

JULIUS WALTHER, hero tenor, Berlin, Vienna, Hanover Court Opera Houses, eight seasons Wagnerian tenor Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company. TEACHES his PERSONAL SYSTEM of VOICE-PRODUCTION to earnest, ambitious students on moderate terms. 49, Leith Mansions, Maida Vale, W.

WANTED.—Gentleman to fill the office of ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for Mixed Choir, St. John's Parish Church, Blackpool. Submit testimonials and salary equired to The Vicar.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED at once for St. Luke's, Hampstead. Application to be made by letter only, to The Vicar, stating qualifications and salary required.

WANTED, by the First Presbyterian Congregation (Unitarian), Belfast, a fully-competent ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, from July 1, 1912, at the salary of £75 per annum. Apply, with testimonials, to J. S. McTear, Secretary, 6, Arthur Chambers, Belfast.

ORGANIST WANTED for Mallow Parish Church, co. Cork. £50 for competent man. Good opening for tuitions. Address, Canon Flewett, Mallow.

WANTED.—An ASSISTANT-DIRECTOR of MUSIC for large Conservatory in Canada. Must be capable Organist and Teacher of Piano, &c. Applications, with copies of testimonials, to be sent in not later than June 8, to Noël Brunton, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, London, W.

WANTED, for the North of England, GOOD TUNER, who also understands Bench Repairs to Organs and Harmoniums. Apply to Tuner, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

WANTED.—TUNER REGULATOR for good class, old-established connection. Must be thoroughly efficient. Comfortable. permanent berth for reliable steady man. Send references with photo, stating age, to W. Brunt & Sons, Piano Depôt, Tramway Centre, Bristol.

PIANOFORTE-TECHNIQUE.—CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS GIVEN IN MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM by late pupil-specialist. Complete Course, £1 1s. G. F. D., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

REQUIRED for the GIRLS' COLLEGIATE SCHOOL (Government High School), PORT ELIZABETH, Cape Colony, an additional MUSIC MISTRESS, L.R.A.M. or A.R.C.M., to teach the Pianoforte. Must be a good performer. Good experience and success in teaching essential. Salary, £130, with board, residence, and laundry during School Terms; or £180 non-resident. Passage paid on three years' Agreement. The School is of high standing. To sail in September. Apply in writing, giving full particulars—age, education, experience, &c. —to Miss Gruner, 59, Cambridge Street, Hyde Park, W.

TWO ORGANS, Two Manuals, with Pedals. Superior construction. Suitable for small Churches, &c. Specifications and estimates for Organs on application.—W. E. Richardson & Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell & Sons, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

CHURCH ORGANS, built partly with sound, second-hand materials. Inclusive prices, including carriage and erection (if desired), from £200. For particulars, &c., address, Norman & Beard, Ltd., 61, Berners Street, London, W. (Organ Builders to H.M. The King).

PIPE ORGANS FOR SALE.—Two-Manual and One-Manual. New and Second-hand. Suitable for Church or Chamber. Inspection invited. Bate, Organ Builders, 9, Burdett Road, Bow, E.

ESTABLISHED 1839.

AT LIVERPOOL'S CATHEDRAL
ORGAN
WORKS

EVEN EFFICIENCY OF ORGANISATION and SKILL OF CRAFTSMANSHIP are secondary, everything being subordinate to and judged from the Musician's Standpoint.

THE FACT that one of the principals of the firm is a Professional Organist of long standing is a guarantee that the Building of a RUSHWORTH Organ is something far higher than a mere commercial transaction. Every RUSHWORTH Organ—from original plan to final Tuning—is treated as an Art Production designed to fulfil a particular service.

THE TONE of RUSHWORTH Church Organs has always been characterised by breadth, dignity and perfect balance. Further by close study of the Acoustics and other conditions peculiar to each commission Rushworth and Dreaper have been singularly successful in building Organs possessing the precise quality and character of Tone most suitable. In smaller Organs the Rushworth ideal is to secure refinement and devotional quality from a few carefully-chosen Stops, rather than noisy combinations unworthy to lead in Divine Worship.

TO THE MUSICIAN a RUSHWORTH Organ also appeals by its perfection in minor details, its solidity of construction and the ample margin of reserves provided in all departments. RUSHWORTH Organs give the player a delightful sense of comfort and artistic mastery by their ease of control and instant response to every demand.

RE-BUILDING. All authorities recognise that the Re-building and enlarging of old Organs is the severest test of artistic and constructional skill. In this art Rushworth and Dreaper's success is evidenced by their long list of important contracts covering Organs by EVERY MAKER of note.

To all interested in the Building, Re-building or Renovation of an Organ, an art brochure, "The building of an Organ," will be sent free by post if name of Church and an outline of requirements are given.

RUSHWORTH & DREAPER, Ltd.,
DESIGNERS & BUILDERS OF CHURCH & CONCERT ORGANS,
113-115, Great George Street,
LIVERPOOL.

Telephone: 1012 ROYAL. Telegrams: "APOLLO, Liverpool."

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON'S

NEXT SPECIAL HALF-YEARLY SALE

OF

VALUABLE VIOLINS

WILL TAKE PLACE

ON FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1912,

And will include some choice examples of instruments by

STRADUARIUS, AMATI, GAGLIANO, RUGGERIUS, and others, by order of Sir T. COURTNEY WARNER, Bt., C.B., M.P., the executors of the late Thomas Mashiter, Esq., and others.

Amateurs and others having Valuable Violins, Violoncellos, &c., to dispose of, are invited to communicate with the AUCTIONEERS, 47, LEICESTER SQUARE, LONDON, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1765.

ORGAN FOR SALE.—Three Manuals (Conacher), 26 Stops, 6 Couplers, 5 Comp. Pedals. (Being sold to give place for a new memorial organ.) Low price to quick purchaser. Offers to Mr. Claydon, Prudential Buildings, Oldham, Lancashire.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at Bargain Prices. A 190-guinea Bell, two-manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £180 Karn, two-manuals and pedals, 24 stops, 13 sets; a 60-guinea two-manual Boosey "Evans' Patent" Harmonium, 18 guineas; Karn two-manual and Pedal, stops through, concave radiating pedals, bargain. Several Organs and Harmoniums by Alexandre, Trayser, Debain, &c.; one-third usual price. All guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg & Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

THE POSITIVE ORGAN.—A real PIPE ORGAN, giving the effects of two manuals and pedals on its single keyboard. Prices from £70. Over 750 supplied. Estimates given for Repairs, Rebuilds, Two- and Three-Manual Organs, &c.
POSITIVE ORGAN CO., Ltd., 44, Mornington Crescent (opposite Tube Station), London, N.W.

REED ORGANS.—1, 2, and 3-manuals, built, tuned, and repaired. Best material and workmanship guaranteed. Tunings casually or by yearly contract. Distance no object. For years with the late J. W. Sawyer, of Leeds.
F. CRAWFORD, Organ Builder. All communications to 41, Heavitree Road, Plumstead, S.E. Works: Southend Parade, Eltham, S.E.

O.P.C. ORGAN PEDALS for Pianos. We are makers to Organ Builders and Profession, by whom our goods are pronounced "the only perfect," and we are thrice granted H.M.R.L., for real merit. Write, O.P.C. Works, Brinscall, Chorley.

ORGAN PEDALS (R.C.O.) for SALE.—Radiating and Concave. New, with Piano Attachment and seat. Bargain. Organist, 19, Fitzwilliam Road, Clapham, S.W.

LEARN to PLAY the PEDAL ORGAN on YOUR PIANO. Splendid set of Pedals, radiating and concave. Easily fitted any make piano. Guaranteed five years; 50s. T. Eastham, Thornton, Lancs.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three-manual Pipe Organ for Practice—good condition; complete set of Couplers; blown by hydraulic engine. 1s. per hour. Hamilton Evans & Co., 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E. (1 minute from Station). Telephone: 693 Sydenham.

MUSIC STUDIO, 223, Oxford Street, W.—Furnished; light; 10d. an hour; 1s. after 7. W. Dodshon.

EVERY COMPOSER should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price Lists (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Songs, &c. 50 Copies of Hymn-Tune, Kyrie, &c., 3s. 6d.: 100, 4s. 6d. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

100 COPIES OF MS. MUSIC or other pen- (or type-) written Matter can be quickly made by the use of the C. B. D. COPIER. No trouble to use, always ready, and gives bright, clean impressions of the original. Price 15s. complete. British made. The Blickensderfer Co., Ltd., 10C, Cheapside, London, E.C. BEWARE OF FOREIGN IMITATIONS.

BANDMASTERS AND CONDUCTORS OF QUADRILLE BANDS should write to Messrs. Keith, Prowse & Co., Ltd., 162, New Bond Street, W., for particulars of a Prize of £100, offered in connection with their "Sheila Waltz."

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.—"How excellent is Thy mercy." By Stretton Swann, Mus. B. Specimen copy free, 181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

TE DEUM in F. Price 3d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 3d. By A. TOASE.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NORMAN & BEARD, LTD.

PNEUMATIC PEDAL ATTACHMENT FOR THE PIANO.
Write for Price List to 61, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

No. 84. NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS AND EDUCATIONAL SERIES.

EQUAL TEMPERAMENT

IN THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Some remarks as to the Production of Musical Sounds, and the Method by which the Scale forming the basis of Modern Music is built up.

BY

HENRY SPAIN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(INSTITUTED 1872.)

Chairman of Board:
SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., M.A., MUS.D.
Director of Studies: G. E. BAMBRIDGE, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M.
Director of Examinations: C. W. PEARCE, MUS.D.

The College provides Instruction and Training in all Musical Subjects.

Both Amateur and Professional Students are received for the Course or for Single Subjects. The lessons can be arranged for day or evening times.

Approved Complete Courses for the University of London Degrees in Music under recognised Teachers of the University. Also preparation for the degrees of other Universities, the Royal College of Organists' examinations, &c.

Students of the College are entitled to attend the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes without additional fee.

Special Subjects: Pianoforte Technique, Elocution, and the Art of Teaching Music; also Lectures on Musical History, &c.

The Operatic Class is open to outside as well as College students. There is also a Class for Training Boys for Cathedral Choirs.

Tuition in the Rudiments of the Theory of Music, Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Instrumentation, Composition, and the Art of Teaching is also given by Correspondence.

Students are admitted to the Junior School up to 16 years of age.

June 23.—Last day of entry for the Examinations for Teachers' Diplomas and Certificates, to be held in London only.

July 10.—Last day of entry for the next open competition for Scholarships.

Particulars of the Teaching Department, with list of Professors, Fees, &c., and the Syllabuses of the Higher and Local Examinations, on application to the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, London, W.

Just Published.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

THE ORGAN

BY

JOHN STAINER.

EDITED BY JOHN E. WEST.

An important feature of the present Edition of this invaluable and popular Organ Primer is the adoption of the now universally recognized system of fingering—1.2.3.4.5., which is here substituted for the older system—×.1.2.3.4.—in all cases where fingering is marked.

In the explanatory portion of the book, opportunity has been taken of briefly mentioning one or two of the principal additions and improvements to the instrument which have been made since the book was first issued.

Bearing in mind that the Author's aim was to assist, in as concise a manner as possible, the early steps of an organ student, the Editor has refrained from adding any further exercises or pieces to those which were already given. But the addition of a few extra fingering and phrasing marks seemed necessary here and there, and, in the five concluding pieces, the laying-out of one or two of the manual passages has been rendered clearer to the player's eye by means of a slight re-staving.

The admirable explanations and diagrams of the Tubular-Pneumatic and Electric actions have been supplied by Mr. L. Simon, of Messrs. Norman & Beard, Ltd.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BROADWOOD PLAYER-PIANOS

GRANDS AND UPRIGHTS.

THE MOST SENSITIVE PLAYERS ON THE MARKET.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

JOHN BROADWOOD & SONS, LTD.,
CONDUIT STREET, LONDON, W.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

SACRED DUETS

BY

J. SEBASTIAN BACH.

Edited, with marks of expression and phrasing, and an English adaptation, by

E. STANLEY ROPER, B.A., MUS. B.

This edition of Bach Duets has been prepared, by request, for use in schools where the study of classical vocal music is encouraged. The presentation of the items in other than the original keys has been rendered necessary, that the natural compass of the voices usually found in such institutions might not be exceeded.

It has been considered advisable to avoid a strictly literal translation, but the general spirit of the German text has been preserved.

CONTENTS:

MY SAVIOUR IS MINE.
ALAS! MY SAVIOUR CHRIST IS TAKEN.
JESU, THOU MY SHEPHERD ART.
QUICKLY COME, O COME, LORD JESU.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

ALSO READY, BY SAME EDITOR.

SEVEN SACRED SOLOS

OF THE

EARLY ENGLISH SCHOOL

COMPOSED BY

DR. MAURICE GREENE.

For High or Low Voice.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

BOSWORTH & CO.,
17, HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON, W.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.—ASSOCIATE (A.R.C.O.) AND FELLOWSHIP (F.R.C.O.) EXAMINATIONS, JULY, 1912.

The following TEST-PIECES are chosen for the above Examinations, and can be supplied by Messrs. NOVELLO & Co., Ltd.:—

	Net s.	d.
ASSOCIATE EXAMINATIONS.
BACH, J. S.—Prelude and Fugue in A (Novello & Co.'s Edition, edited by Bridge and Higgs, Book 3, p. 64)	3	0
BACH, J. S.—Sonata No. 5, in C (first movement). (Novello and Co.'s Edition, edited by Bridge and Higgs, Book 5, p. 134)	3	0
BACH, J. S.—Choral Prelude. "Nun danket alle Gott" (Novello and Co.'s Edition, edited by John Pointer, Book 14, p. 5) ..	3	0
SMART, HENRY.—Three-part Study (Smart's Original Compositions, No. 27)	1	6
BUXTEHUDE, D.—Prelude and Fugue, in F sharp minor (Original Compositions, No. 351)	2	0
MENDELSSOHN.—Sonata No. 5	2	6
RHEINBERGER, J.—Sonata in B minor (Op. 146) (Fantasie and Finale only)	4	0
REGER MAX.—Choral-Vorspiele (Op. 67) (Book 1, Nos. 10 and 12)	3	3

The Subject for the Essay will be taken from "Music in its Relation to the Intellect and the Emotions," by J. Stainer. Price 1s. Paper Boards, 1s. 6d. Cloth, 2s. 0d.

FELLOWSHIP EXAMINATIONS.
BACH, J. S.—Prelude and Fugue in G (No. 16, Novello & Co. Edition, edited by Bridge & Higgs)	1	0
WESLEY, S. S.—Andante in F (Edited by G. M. Garrett) ..	1	6
BEETHOVEN.—Largo from Pianoforte Sonata in A, Op. 2, No. 2 (No. 74, W. T. Best's Organ Arrangements)	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Musical Times

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JUNE 1, 1912.

DR. CAMILLE SAINT-SAËNS.

By M.-D. Calvocoressi.

Among French composers of to-day, none has enjoyed so long or so glorious a career as Dr. Camille Saint-Saëns, none has displayed so great and so manifold an activity, and none (except, perhaps, M. Massenet) is as popular in his own country and abroad. And, it should be added, none is more fully entitled not only to the praise of those who admire him without restriction, but to the respect of those whose musical ideals happen to be different.

Nature, indeed, has been generous with Dr. Camille Saint-Saëns, endowing him not only with intellect and talents, but also with energy, buoyancy, and an inexhaustible capacity for work. He was born in Paris, October 9, 1835. Having had the misfortune to lose his father (who was from Normandy; his mother was from Champagne) early, he was brought up by his mother and a great-aunt. From his earliest childhood he evinced a great liking for music, and extraordinary musical capacities. It is told that before having completed his third year, he received from his great-aunt his first lessons in pianoforte and in musical theory;* and that at the age of five he could play at sight, faultlessly, Grétry's music in pianoforte scores, and had begun to compose small songs with pianoforte accompaniment. He himself relates, in his 'Essay on the multiple resonance of bells,' that he was gifted with a very discriminating musical ear: 'Often, one would strike common household articles of any description; candlesticks, glasses, &c., and ask me to name the note thereby produced; which I always did without the slightest hesitation.'

He soon became acquainted with the principles of orchestral music: a friend of the family having made him a present of a copy of Mozart's 'Don Giovanni' in orchestral score, he used to study it daily with the utmost eagerness.† At the age of seven, he began to receive pianoforte lessons from Stamaty, and to study harmony with a little-known but earnest and cultured musician named Maleden. On May 6, 1846, at the Salle Pleyel, he appeared for the first time in public as a pianist, performing Mozart's Concerto in B flat and works by Bach, Handel, and Beethoven. The following year, he entered Eugène Benoit's organ class at the Paris Conservatoire (in this class he obtained the second prize in 1849, the first in 1851) and began to study composition with Halévy. It is to be presumed that despite his youth, he—naturally enough—found Halévy's teaching uncongenial to him: for he followed the course during a few months only.

In 1852 he entered the competition for the 'Prix de Rome,' but without success. He was to renew the attempt, though to no better purpose, in 1864, just before reaching the limit age of thirty.

The same year (1852) his first published work—a set of three pieces for the harmonium—appeared; and his 'Ode à Sainte-Cécile' (unpublished) obtained the first prize at a competition opened by the Société Sainte-Cécile, and was performed with great success. In 1853 the same concert Society—which rendered many services to musical art in France at a period when concerts were few and poor—performed his first Symphony (Op. 2, E flat), which he had submitted without disclosing himself as its author (a device to which he had recourse more than once, probably from the conviction that works known to be written by young French composers were foredoomed). The work was received with great favour.

In 1853 also, he became organist of the church Saint-Merry, Paris, and occupied this post until 1858, when he was appointed organist of la Madeleine, one of the most important parishes of the capital. At the age of twenty-six he became pianoforte professor at the Ecole Niedermeyer (where among his first pupils was M. Gabriel Fauré, his junior by ten years). During all that period he composed sedulously, producing a fair quantity of music—symphonic, instrumental and vocal; and he played a great deal in public, deservedly achieving fame as a virtuoso. His playing was, and has remained, remarkable for purity, perspicuity, and ease; the only qualities not displayed by him were poetic intensity and fervour.

In fact it is not only as a pianist that he reveals a certain coldness, an imperturbability greater than one is wont to meet with in musicians, who are, as a rule, the most excitable of artists. Some twelve years ago, passing under review the composer's fertile career, M. Romain Rolland aptly remarked that 'he is tormented by no passion; nothing whatever alters the lucidity of his mind.' His favourite motto, as expressed in his book 'Harmonie et Mélodie' (1885), is: 'Avoid all exaggeration and strive to maintain the entirety of intellectual health.' To this motto he has remained unswervingly true—a fact which no doubt helps to account for the prosperity of his artistic career.

Even from this early date, and notwithstanding the fact of his failing to obtain the consecration awarded to all 'good pupils,' the 'Prix de Rome, (a failure more regrettable for the records of the Conservatoire than for himself), his life runs smoothly; and his biographers have little to recount except sedulous labour, progress and successes. At times, it is true, he met with unaccountable opposition. For instance, though most classical in tastes and in deeds, he found himself branded as a dangerous anarchist. A critic once wrote that 'he ought to be condemned to listen to Beethoven's symphonies: this would surely be to him an insufferable punishment.'* His best opera, 'Samson et Dalila' (begun in 1868), was rejected by all Parisian directors, ultimately to find a champion in Liszt, who caused the work to be produced at Weimar in 1877. Other dramatic scores of his, 'La Princesse Jaune' (Paris, Opéra-Comique, 1872), 'Le Timbre d'Argent' (Paris, Théâtre Lyrique, 1877), were but moderately successful. Another opera, 'Etienne Marcel,' shared the fate of 'Samson et Dalila' in failing to please the Parisian directors. It was produced at Lyons (1879).

* Octave Séré: 'Musiciens français d'aujourdhui,' Paris, 1912. The article in Grove's Dictionary adds the detail, that 'To this day the composer keeps the little old-fashioned instrument on which this dearly-loved relative gave him his first lessons.'

† C. Saint-Saëns: 'Charles Gounod et le "Don Juan" de Mozart' (Paris, 1893).

The composer had evidently sowed the seed of suspicion through enlisting among the champions of modern art. As early as 1871, the better to protest against the universal antipathy evinced toward living French composers, he associated with Romain Bussine in the foundation of the Société Nationale de Musique, whose object was to produce new works of the French school.† Moreover, being gifted with a most spirited pugnacity, he was never loth to defend his own and his brother-composers' cause in articles which stung adversaries to the quick.

But despite these and certain other hostilities, he was not long in finding recognition as a writer of instrumental music. His symphonic-poems, in which he so intelligently followed the example of Franz Liszt without slavishly imitating him ('Le Rouet d'Omphale,' 1871; 'Phaéton,' 1873; 'La Danse Macabre,' 1874; 'La Jeunesse d'Hercule,' 1877); his Pianoforte concertos (1858, 1859, 1869, 1877); his chamber-music (Quintette, 1858; first Trio, 1863; Pianoforte quartette, 1875), and also his songs and his oratorio, 'Le Déluge' (1875), met, in general rule, with success.

In 1875 he began the series of his triumphal journeys, going to Russia, and, the following year, to Austria and to England, where his music soon acquired a lasting favour. In 1881 he was elected Member of the French Institut, and thenceforward found the Paris theatres open to his works, as well as the concerts. 'Henri VIII.' was produced at the Opéra in 1883, 'Proserpine' at the Opéra-Comique in 1887. Then came 'Ascanio' (Opéra, 1890); 'Déjanire' (with incidental music, 1898; re-cast in opera form and produced at the Opéra in 1911); 'Les Barbares' (Opéra, 1901); 'Parysatis' (Arènes de Béziers, 1902); 'Hélène' (Monte Carlo, 1904; Opéra-Comique, 1905); 'L'Ancêtré' (Monte Carlo, 1906; Opéra-Comique, 1911).

Hardly any branch of musical art has been left untouched by Dr. Saint-Saëns; the catalogue of his works comprises music for the pianoforte, the organ, the harp, symphonic and chamber music of all descriptions, songs, choruses, cantatas, oratorios and church-music, incidental music, a ballet, operettas, operas, transcriptions and arrangements. He has completed and published Marc-Antoine Charpentier's incidental music to Molière's 'Le malade imaginaire,' edited the score of Gluck's 'Echo and Narcisse,' and is the general editor of Rameau's complete works issued by the firm A. Durand et fils.

Besides, he is fond of dabbling in literature and science; he has written a book of poems ('Rimes familières,' 1890); farces ('La crampe des écrivains,' played at Algiers in 1891; 'Le Roi Apépi,' played at Béziers in 1903; 'Botriocéphale,' played at Béziers in 1908); an introduction to Dr. Félix Regnault's book, 'Hypnotisme et religion' (1897); essays on 'The phenomena of mirage' (Société Astronomique de France, 1905), and on 'The relationship of plants and animals' (Nouvelle Revue, 1905). His essays on musical and theatrical subjects—part of which collected in his books 'Harmonie et Mélodie,' 1885, and 'Portraits et Souvenirs,' 1899,—are numerous. But—a noteworthy lacuna—he has never written any work intended for the musician's practical education.

In an account of the opera 'Déjanire' (Musical Times, January, 1912), Dr. Saint-Saëns's peculiar position among French composers of to-day—that of a quondam leader of the progressive party become a leader of the conservative—has been alluded to and briefly commented upon. It is merely the outcome of his sturdy fidelity to his own ideals: he is nowadays exactly what he was at the outset of his career. One of his admirers, the late Hughes Imbert, has made the remark that 'he holds his own among the intelligent and independent spirits who did not fear to confront new ideas, but who were not daring enough to attempt capital reforms.'‡ Without lingering on the same writer's supposition that 'perhaps for that very reason his fame will be limited to his own century,' one may agree with this view, which accounts for his apparent change of front. In 1874, Dr. Saint-Saëns, for instance, wrote the following lines:

> Music, nowadays, is barely completing an evolution. The tonality that had afforded a basis to modern harmony breathes its last; the major and minor modes reign no longer unchallenged; the ancient modes are asserting themselves anew, and subsequently the Oriental modes, in infinite variety, will invade art. All that will afford new elements to the exhausted melody; a new and fertile era will open. Harmony will undergo changes; rhythm—of which until now so little use has been made—will develop, and thus will a new Art be born. §

Events appear to have outrun his desire; for, although since 1874 music has progressed exactly as he had foretold, Dr. Saint-Saëns is no partisan of the ultra-modern schools. In fact, he has in a recent article (Le Courrier Musical, 1905) compared certain musicians of to-day to 'infuriated boars rushing through beautiful gardens and playing havoc with the most delicate flowers.'

* Saint-Saëns's 'Harmonie et Mélodie.'

† This Society still exists, and has given (May 18, 1912) its 393rd concert.

† 'Profils de Musiciens,' Paris, 1888.

§ La Nouvelle Revue. See also his discourse to the Institut in 1884, 'Le présent, le passé, l'avenir de la musique.'

He is not, however, superstitiously conservative. And certain of his opinions on ancient music are worth quoting:

> To us Bach's scores are a new world, whose fauna and flora remain alike unknown. By flora, I mean the strange harmonies and the melodies, whose aspect is most unusual. . . The performance, in modern times, of Bach's or Handel's music is a mere chimera; to attempt it is to provide delight for the erudites and bookworms only. Some people esteem that ancient music should be played not with a view to direct and complete æsthetic pleasure, but for educational purposes. Subsequently, beautiful and powerful works of art will appear, and be appreciated according to their merits.*

Dr. Camille Saint-Saëns, who received his Doctorship of the University of Cambridge in 1892, is grand-officer of the Legion of Honour, and wears a great number of foreign orders. He is a member of the Royal Academies of Belgium, Prussia, Sweden, and Spain.

Among the principal works not mentioned above should be named the Septette (Op. 65, 1881), the String Quartette (Op. 112, 1899), Violin and 'Cello sonatas, the third Symphony (Op. 78, 1886—with pianoforte and organ), the Cantata, 'La lyre et la harpe,' (Op. 57), written for the Birmingham Festival of 1879. A detailed catalogue of his productions would occupy several pages.

ORLANDO GIBBONS.

By H. Orsmond Anderton.

Three periods stand out in history as the seasons of a rich efflorescence of the human spirit. These are (1) the 5th century B.C. (roughly speaking), from the battle of Marathon, in 490, onwards—that brilliant outburst of genius that crowned Greece with glory in poetry, sculpture, architecture, politics, and philosophy; (2) the period of the Renaissance in Europe, dating from the fall of Constantinople in 1453; and (3) the Elizabethan period in England. And while it is only with this last that our immediate concern lies, it is well to bear in mind one thing that characterises all three alike. Not only do they produce in the present, but they feed upon the past. Æschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, used, as their daily bread, the Orphic poems; and Homer was the Greek Bible, so to speak. The Renaissance was, of course, the return of man's spirit upon the forgotten things of long ago, the re-awakening of the influence of Greece. And the Elizabethan period was a sort of doubling back upon itself of this Renaissance. In fact, this taking up into the present of the spirit of the past is a necessary condition of all true advance; and we of the present day—a day of rapid growth and vigorous life—should read, mark, learn and inwardly digest the work of the Elizabethan period. A nation, like an individual, suffers a loss of life if its memory lapse. It must take up the past, assimilate it, and bring it into the vivid consciousness of the present. Spenser, the central figure of the new poetry, fed upon Chaucer; yet it is only comparatively lately that Chaucer has received wider recognition. It is done at last in poetry; it should be done also in music. We should make these madrigalists popular—not only to musicians, but in the wider sense. It would hardly be difficult. The thing of peculiarly happy augury for the present movement is the uprising among the artisan classes—the innumerable choirs, with the Festivals, exhibiting an astonishingly high standard of performance. This seems to suggest a healthy, natural growth when we remember that at the time when England led Europe it was precisely in this choral work. For though the writers of that period set instrumental music on its career, they were but pioneers in that: their chief excellence lay in choral music. A few words, then, may not come amiss on one of the chief figures of the time—Orlando Gibbons.

He was born in 1583, being forty years junior to his great contemporary, Byrd, though he died only a couple of years after him, in 1625. Tallis belonged definitely to an earlier generation, dying two years after Gibbons's birth. Bull and Dowland were contemporaries, and died in 1628 and 1626 respectively. When we add to these Farnaby, Wilbye, and Morley, and think of the company of immortals gathered in the 'Mermaid,' that happiest of taverns, in a 'London small, and white, and clean,' we can form some notion of the artistic climate of the time.

Gibbons was the son of a Cambridge Wait, and entered the choir of King's College in 1596, so that from the first he was brought up amid the surroundings of that Anglican Church for which he was to do so much. In March, 1604, he became organist of the Chapel Royal, and two years later took the degree of Mus. Bac. at Cambridge. In 1611 he took his share with Byrd and Bull in the publication of 'Parthenia,' a collection of pieces for the Virginals. About the same time (probably somewhat earlier) the 'Fantasias of three Parts' (for viols) appeared. In 1612 the 'First Set of Madrigals and Mottets of 5 parts, apt for Viols and Voyces,' was published. In May, 1622, he took the degrees of Bachelor and Doctor at Oxford, the anthem 'O clap your hands' being written as the exercise for the occasion. In 1623 he was appointed organist at Westminster Abbey, and two years later was summoned to Canterbury to write music for the reception of Henrietta Maria by Charles I. Here he died of an apoplectic seizure, and was buried in the Cathedral.

Such is a brief outline of his outward career: to his real life, his music, we must devote more space. His main work was, of course, choral. Of his position in church music Dr. Walker says: 'His primary difference from Byrd is that he owes nothing directly to Roman influences, but stands before us as virtually the "father of pure Anglican music." Tallis and others had, indeed, sometimes sacrificed artistic convictions in order to enable the words to be clearly heard by every listener; but then they fell back on the old traditional Latin, and repaid themselves by purely contrapuntal works. Gibbons was the first of the really great men to adopt, in musical matters, the sort of via media which the English Church has always so much favoured. . . . He set nothing but his own native language.'*

* 'Harmonie et Mélodie.'

This fact of itself gives his name and work a peculiar importance, though he is far from depending on any such antiquarian interest. He had not, however, the tenderness, nor a certain mysticism of feeling, of Byrd, though he had a strong vein of meditative seriousness in the contemplation of life And he has a surer feeling for contrast and range of effect than Byrd—the only contemporary who can rank as his peer, or above him. The celebrated Service in F is a fine and solid piece of work, sound in technique and strong. It has, too, a certain noble exaltation; but one must not look for much feeling. He would seem to have been 'English' also in thinking it indecorous to show emotion in public. The references to the sharpness of death and abhorring the Virgin's womb are passed with the same glassy calm as the opening of the Kingdom of Heaven. He could be emotional in his madrigals, but he seems to have regarded this as 'ritual,' and outside human feeling. It is sane and straightforward, and, since the congregation must hear the words, has fewer points of imitation than the madrigals, which were written primarily for the satisfaction of the singers.

In the anthems all is different. Works like 'Oh, clap your hands' and 'God is gone up' (in eight parts) would be a glory to any school. The free sweep of the melody, in the first, at 'He shall choose out an heritage,' the bold imitations, and the individual and highly-vitalized part-writing produce a fine effect and lead to a noble close; while, in the second, the splendid contrasts of tone, the antiphonal shouts of jubilation, and the grand part-writing, give a wonderful impression of multitudinous and ecstatic rejoicing. The 'Hosanna' (six parts), with its bell-like effect, though fine, has neither the grandeur nor the rich contrasts of the last-named. It is, however, one of the most popular of Gibbons's anthems, and deservedly so. A welcome antiphonal passage in the middle, at 'peace in heaven' (p), gives a hint of the central peace in the heart of all true rejoicing; and then the hosannas are renewed. Of course he cannot remain always on these levels, but the work in all is good. 'Lift up your heads' (six parts) is another fine specimen. Of the smaller pieces, 'O Thou, the Central Orb' is interesting, and reminds one of the treatment of Bach's Church cantatas. It was originally written for accompaniment of a quintet of viols, but Novello's have issued it in organ form. It opens for alto solo. After sixteen bars the time changes from 4-2 to 3-2, and the congregation break into the ymn, 'Come, quickly come.' A soprano and alto duet follows, succeeded again by the choir with the hymn. In the next (and last) strophe there are six soli with free sestet imitational writing, and the choir rounds all off with the hymn and an imitational Amen. Altogether there are some fifty-three specimens of anthems and hymns, besides three services, preces, &c. A large number were issued in a collection by Dr. Boyce, and a later gleaning by Gore Ouseley, but are now available separately.

It is difficult to speak temperately of the madrigals. There are twenty, published in part-books in 1612, all in five parts; and as to praise them is really superfluous now, a remark or two will suffice. Gibbons took no part in 'The Triumphs of Oriana' publication (1601-03), and his madrigals are of a somewhat meditative cast, pondering gravely on life. The words were written, as he says in the Preface, by Sir Christopher Hatton, to whom the collection is dedicated, and they reach a very high level. 'Dainty fine bird' has a flavour of Lovelace and of Herrick; and words and music are fitly mated. The close, 'Thou livest singing, but I sing and die,' is a worthy specimen of Gibbons's powers. 'The Silver Swan' is somewhat slight, and has little of the typical madrigal imitation, but always impresses itself upon the mind. The popular copies have an error, apparently owing to the doubt of editors as to Gibbons's writing an unprepared augmented triad. The first note in the alto, bars 10 and 17, should be E♭, not D. The Musical Antiquarian Society's edition is correct. 'Trust not, fair youth' is Elizabethan in sentiment, somewhat in the vein of Shakespeare's sonnets and Herrick's 'Gather ye rosebuds' mingled. A most impressive passage occurs in 'Fair is the rose,' where the poet, speaking of the snow, says: 'So white, so sweet, was my fair mistress' face,' as she lay dead. The music drops, with a sudden hush, into minims and semibreves. The passage is marked in the popular editions with a cresc. and dim.; but it seems that an almost breathless pp would be more fitting. On turning up the Musical Antiquarian Society's edition, we find the passage marked p without cresc. To name a couple of others, 'Oh that the learned poets' and 'Ah, dere Heart' remain in the memory; but to mention some seems invidious when all are so fine.

The instrumental music of the period was, of course, far behind the vocal. It seems to have arisen from the practice of playing the madrigals, &c., on the viols, first to support the voices, and then as a substitute for them: a distinct instrumental style grew only slowly. Gibbons published (possibly in 1609 or 1610) a set of nine 'Fantasies of three Parts,' for viols. The first four are for treble, alto, and bass, the remainder for two trebles and bass. This last arrangement often leads to a somewhat thin effect—what is called all top and bottom. The pieces are cast in fugal mould, but the first subject often drops out, and a new figure towards the end, worked imitationally, makes a sort of peroration. Nos. 1 and 3 were performed by Professor Bantock at Birmingham, and proved interesting. More mature in style is the 'Fantasia of Foure Parts' which appears in 'Parthenia,' a collection of Virginal music published in 1611. It consisted of works by Byrd (8), Bull (7), and Gibbons (6)—twenty-one in all. The Fantasia is not strongly individualised as instrumental music, but is an interesting work, grave and serious in character, and has very markedly the characteristic just mentioned, viz., that a fresh figure appears near the end, and is worked imitationally to make a Coda. Of the other pieces by Gibbons in 'Parthenia,' distinctly the most attractive is 'Lord Salisbury his Pavan.' This appears also in the 'Fitzwilliam Virginal Book,' which contains 297 pieces, and was probably copied out in prison (1608 or 1609-16) as a pastime by the younger Tregian, a Catholic who suffered for his faith. Byrd (59), Bull (36), Farnaby (55), Dowland (3), Morley (9), and others appear; but Gibbons, strangely enough, has only two pieces. The other is 'The Woods so wilde,' which shows traces of the immature instrumental technique of the time. Semiquaver passages of no particular design, above and below the melody, apparently gave pleasure by their mere rapidity. The sound of the instrument seems of itself to have satisfied the hearers. Still, in the quieter portion, there is a noticeable feeling for the sentiment of the title.

* 'History of Music in England,' pp. 74-5.

It is time that these great men came to occupy their true place in the Kingdom of Art. The England of the time has been aptly called a nest of singing birds, and the phrase is equally true of the musicians as of the poets. Of course there is no Shakespeare—he comes only once in the world's history. But not only did these men lead the musical world of their time, they produced work of high perfection, of a distinct character, and which the world cannot afford to lose—work which is among the richest treasures of art, and should be not only the fruit, but the food, of the human spirit.

A proposal of some novelty was made at a recent meeting of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society. It seems that the system of guest-conductors has not met with unmixed approval, as it involves extra expense in fees, and the conductors have, in the opinion of some, shown a tendency to be autocratic at the expense of the Society's profits. From among the floating discontent arose the suggestion:

(1) That it be advertised in the Musical Press that the Liverpool Philharmonic Society is open to receive applications from conductors willing to offer their services to conduct one or more concerts, and to submit beforehand their programme to the committee; (2) that if the programme be approved the conductor shall be paid only a percentage of the profit after all the expenses have been met; (3) should the programme meet the disapproval of any member he shall be entitled to return his ticket to the secretary for sale, and if such ticket be sold one-half of the proceeds shall go to the credit of the member's subscription of the following season, and the remainder to the Society's funds.

It would have been interesting to watch the strenuous rivalry of our best English conductors, and perhaps many from abroad, for the rewards of this democratic competition, but unfortunately the suggestion was not taken.

SYNCOPATION AND EMPHASIS.

By Reginald Gatty.

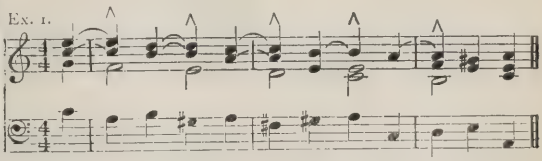
I.

In the following articles an attempt has been made to co-ordinate the various scattered explanations with regard to syncopation and emphasis, and to reconcile the discrepancies that exist between them. It has further been sought to show that although vagueness of definition is partly responsible for the confusion, there also prevails a widespread misconception as to the very nature of some of the effects in question.

First of all it must be pointed out that the one essential feature of syncopation and emphasis is that, being concerned with the so-called rhetorical (or oratorical) accents of music, they depend for their very existence on their unambiguous differentiation from the natural (grammatical or metrical) accents. It is only because they are recognised as dependent contrasts to the regular series of accents associated with the bar-lines that they are able to have their proper effect. Once the rhythm, and consequently the music, becomes obscure, by reason of the fact that they can no longer be differentiated from the natural accents, they have lost their raison d'être, unless we can be sure that this obscurity was the actual intention of the composer. It may seem superfluous to labour the point, but its importance will be realised later on, when it will be found that it is just here where differences of opinion actually occur.

Coming now to syncopation, I define it with Callcott* and Riemann† as the sustaining of a sound that begins on a weak beat (or the weak portion of a divided beat) and ends on a strong one (or the strong portion of a divided beat). The displacement of the accent on to this weak beat from the following (silent) strong beat is rather an accompanying feature of the device than an essential one,‡ as is shown by the fact that suspensions are also syncopations, although the change of harmony preserves the strong accent on the strong beat. This may be seen in the following example quoted from Pauer ('Musical Forms,' Novello, p. 17):

Ex. 1.



Syncopations may be divided into two main classes: those that occur within the bar, and those that go 'through the bars' for their completion. Both may occur either singly or in sequence, in

---

* 'Grammar of Music.' London, T. Hurst. § 86.

† 'Musik-Lexikon.' Article Syncope.

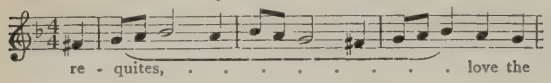
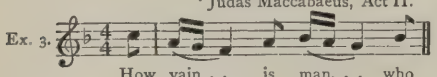
‡ 'Grove's Dictionary' (Article Syncopation) defines the effect as 'An alteration of regular rhythm, produced by placing the strongest emphasis on part of the bar not usually accented,' but in this case, must also be an example of syncopation, which is thus confused with emphasis.

which case there may be one or more in each bar. The following examples are adduced. (a) Within the bar :

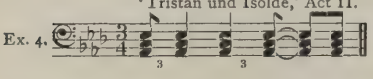
Ex. 2. HANDEL. 'Joshua.' Air, 'Heroes, when with glory.'



Ex. 3. 'Judas Maccabaeus,' Act II.



Ex. 4. 'Tristan und Isolde,' Act II.



Ex. 5. TCHAIKOVSKY, Op. 11.

(b) Through the bars :

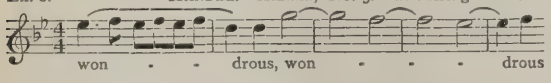
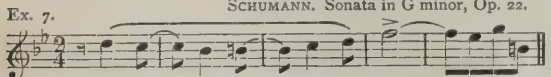
Ex. 6. HANDEL. 'Athalia,' No. 3. 'The rising world.'

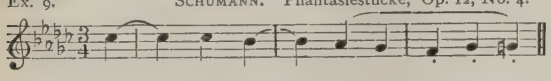


Ex. 7. SCHUMANN. Sonata in G minor, Op. 22.

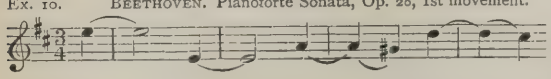


Ex. 8*. SCHUMANN. Pianoforte Concerto, Op. 54. Allegro vivace.

Ex. 9. SCHUMANN. 'Phantasiestücke,' Op. 12, No. 4.



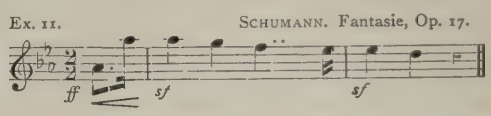
Ex. 10. BEETHOVEN. Pianoforte Sonata, Op. 28, 1st movement.



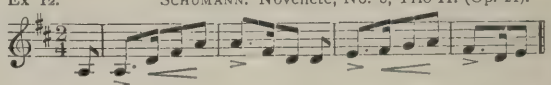
We have now to consider the class of kindred effects, dependent on emphasis, as indicated by phrasing slurs and sforzato-signs (sf, >, ∧).

These are of two main kinds, according as they occur on strong or weak beats, or the weak portions of divided beats. (a) On strong beats :

Ex. 11. SCHUMANN. Fantasie, Op. 17.



Ex. 12. SCHUMANN. Novellette, No. 8, Trio II. (Op. 21).



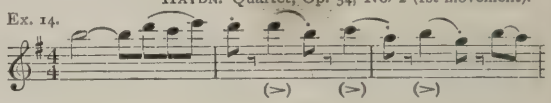
SCHUMANN. Op. 26, No. 1 ('Faschingsschwank').

Ex. 13.

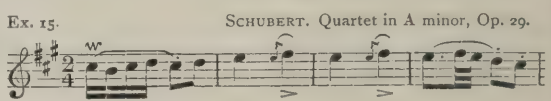
(b) On weak beats, or the weak portions of divided beats :

HAYDN. Quartet, Op. 54, No. 2 (1st movement).

Ex. 14.

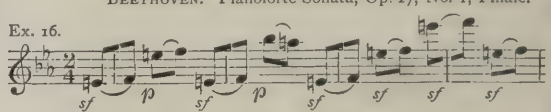


Ex. 15. SCHUBERT. Quartet in A minor, Op. 29.

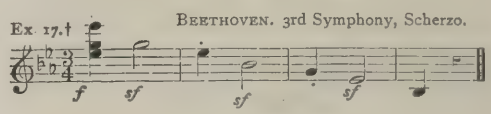


BEETHOVEN. Pianoforte Sonata, Op. 27, No. 1, Finale.

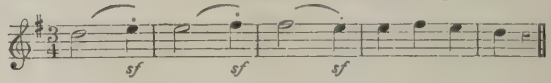
Ex. 16.



Ex. 17.† BEETHOVEN. 3rd Symphony, Scherzo.



Ex. 18. BEETHOVEN. Pianoforte Trio, Op. 1, No. 2.

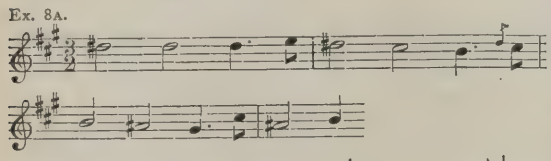


It frequently happens, however, that the phrasing accents, instead of being placed on strong or

---

* Franklin Taylor says of this passage ('Technique and Expression in Pianoforte Playing,' Novello, p. 32): 'The length of the bar is doubled, becoming, as it were, a bar of 3-2 instead of 3-4,' and shows 'the effect of this change' as follows :

Ex. 8a.



But this conversion should rather be &c. Moreover, the resemblance is an accidental rather than a vital one. On this principle of analysis,  is really  'the length of the bar being doubled.' It is perfectly proper to point out the resemblance between the two forms of notation, but it can only lead to confusion to explain all the subtler effects of one time in terms of another, besides ignoring the differences of subjective expression suggested to the player by the particular notation employed.

† This passage is quoted by Corder (Grove's Dictionary, Article Syncopation) as an example of syncopation, but see note ‡ on p. 369. C. F. Abdy Williams ('The rhythm of modern music'), Macmillan, 1909, p. 98), also cites  as an example of syncopation, and gives (p. 97) the following definition : 'An accented note is cut short, or is represented by a short rest, and the succeeding note, entering before its expected time, is made longer than the shortened accented note or rest.' It will be evident, however, if we compare examples (a), (b) and (c), that (b) and (c) are much more akin, by reason of the accented notes ending on the strong beat of each bar, than (a) and (c), where we find the note on the strong beat sounded in (a) but silent in (c). This being the case, it seems less confusing to consider (a) merely as an example of emphasis in triple time rather than as a special kind of syncopation in triple time that still has to be differentiated from (b).

Ex. 18*a*.

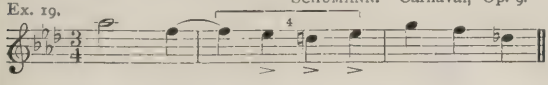
weak beats, or on the weak portions of divided beats, as in the above examples, or on a series of strong and weak beats as in Ex. 19:

Ex. 19. SCHUMANN. 'Carnaval,' Op. 9.



are placed on both strong and weak beats at certain definite intervals, and when we examine the thematic construction of such passages we find that in every case the melodic outline would seem to fit more naturally into bars with a different time-signature than that which is assigned to them. This is of course the familiar device known by the names of 'cross-accents' or 'false-accents,' tempo rubato, tempo d' imbroglio, or tempo della confusione.* For the sake of greater clearness I give skeleton phrasing models of the different varieties, and begin with triple time by reason of its greater frequency. (a) Tempo d' imbroglio in triple time:

Model 1. S 2†. W 2‡. W 2. (S 2. W 2, &c.) &c.

See Ex. 31.

Model 2. W 2. W 2. S 2. (W 2. W 2, &c.) &c.

See Exs. 28 and 29.

Model 3. W 2. S 2. W 2. (W 2. S 2, &c.) &c.

See Ex. 34.

(b) Duple and quadruple time:

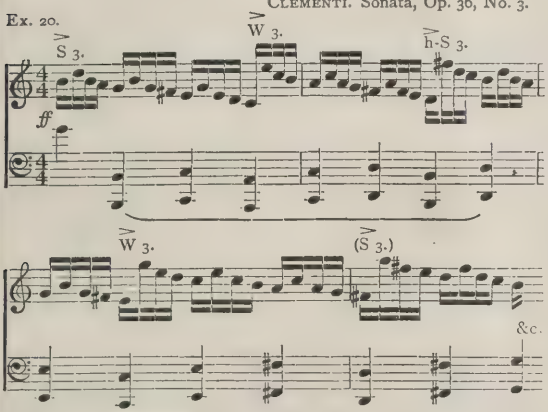
Model 4. S 3. W 3. h-S§ 3. W 3. (S 3. W 3, &c.) &c.

Ex. 20. CLEMENTI. Sonata, Op. 36, No. 3.



Model 5. In quadruple time the scheme of this will be:

W 3, h-S 3, W 3, S 3, (W 3, h-S 3, &c.)

Model 6. h-S 3. W 3. S 3. W 3. (h-S 3, &c.) &c.

BEETHOVEN. Sonata in F, Op. 5, No 1.

Ex. 21.

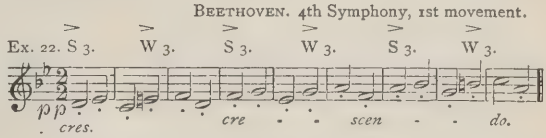
Model 7. In quadruple time the scheme of this will be:

W 3. S 3. W 3. h-S 3. (W 3. S 3, &c.)

Model 8. S 3.‖ W 3. (S 3. W 3.)

BEETHOVEN. 4th Symphony, 1st movement.

Ex. 22.



In the following example we have yet another nuance applicable to this whole class of effects—the nuance of cross motive-accents already mentioned. The music suggests the phrasing scheme just quoted (Model 8), and the accents are made to contradict it, in this case synchronising with the natural accents. It must also be pointed out that as no phrasing-accents are appended to Exs. 20, 21 and 22, it rests with the interpreter whether he adopts what are here termed motive-accents, given above each example, or elects to contradict the implied phrasing scheme by the use of cross motive-accents, such as is expressly called for in Ex. 23. The normal motive-accents are appended in brackets:

SCHUMANN. 'Von Schlaraffenland,' Op. 79, No. 5.

Ex. 23.¶

* Of these various terms tempo d' imbroglio seems the best. Tempo rubato is already used in another sense; tempo della confusione, 'false accents' and 'cross-accents' seem less happy. The peculiar feature about tempo d' imbroglio is that it is the melodic motives that are 'cross' with the natural accents, and it is quite possible to have, by a further nuance, the phrasing-accents 'cross' with the motives (see Ex. 23). Under these circumstances it seems better to term the normal phrasing-accents of tempo d' imbroglio 'motive-accents,' and to use the expression 'cross motive-accents' for those phrasing accents that, as in Ex. 23, supplant the expected motive-accents, and in consequence seem generally to synchronise with the natural accents. The melodic motives of tempo d' imbroglio will be called 'cross-motives.'

† Strong for 2 beats. ‡ Weak for 2 beats. § Half-strong for 3 beats.

‖ In quadruple time, S 6, h-S 6, &c.

¶ Prout says of this example ('Musical Form,' Augener, § 291): 'Here the first six bars are in reality four bars of $\frac{3}{2}$ time, and might be written:

Ex. 23*a*.

As this is the beginning of the song, there can be no feeling of cross-accent here, because the regular accent of $\frac{3}{2}$ time has never been established. The position of the cadences in the second and fifth bars would also be wrong were the time here really duple.' But see note* on p. 370.

Model 9. h-S 6. S 6. (or W 3. S 3.)

In compound duple ($\frac{6}{4}$) the phrasing accents admit of a three-fold treatment, owing to the fact that the six crochets are susceptible to a dual grouping:

(a) $\frac{6}{4}$

and

(b) $\frac{6}{4}$

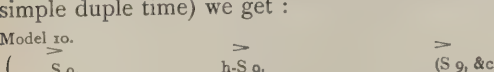
In the first place (corresponding with Model 8 in simple duple time) we get:

Model 10.



and

Model 11. h-S 9. S 9. (h-S 9, &c.)

Then, corresponding with (b) above, we get:

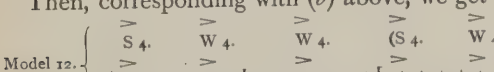
Model 12.



Model 13. $\frac{6}{4}$ W 4. W 4. S 4, &c.

and

Model 14. $\frac{6}{4}$ W 4. S 4. W 4, &c.

Finally, corresponding with (a) above, we get:

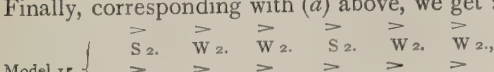
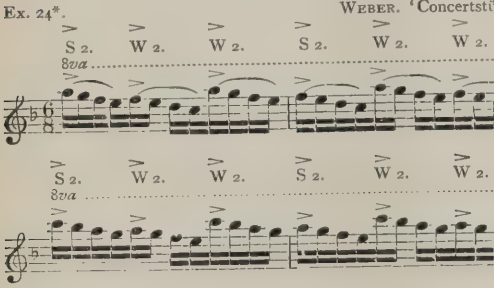
Model 15.



Ex. 24*. WEBER. 'Concertstück.'



Variants of this type will be, of course:

Model 16. $\frac{6}{4}$ W 2. W 2. S 2, &c.,

and

Model 17. $\frac{6}{4}$ W 2. S 2. W 2, &c.

A parallel grouping of the six half-beats in triple time gives the following varieties of phrasing effects:

(a) $\frac{3}{2}$

and

(b) $\frac{3}{2}$

Hence we get the further models for tempo d' imbroglio in triple time:

Model 18. $\frac{3}{2}$ S 1½. W 1½.

Model 19. $\frac{3}{2}$ W 1½. S 1½.

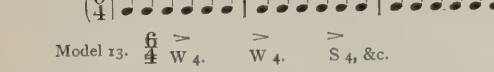
Model 20. $\frac{3}{2}$ S 2. W 2. W 2.

Model 21. $\frac{3}{2}$ W 2. W 2. S 2.

Model 22. $\frac{3}{2}$ W 2. S 2. W 2.

The above list is by no means exhaustive of the possibilities of emphasis in the service of tempo d' imbroglio, but the theorist is well-advised not to cite too many theoretic schemes without the corresponding musical examples. There is, however, still one more recognised variety of tempo d' imbroglio to be mentioned—that obtained by a combination of syncopation and emphasis. Three examples in triple time are appended:

Model 23.



SCHUMANN. Op. 21, No. 4.

Ex. 25*a*.

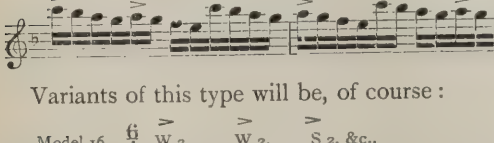
BEETHOVEN. 3rd Symphony, 1st movement.

Ex. 25*b*.

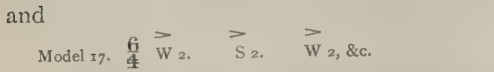
Model 24.

SCHUMANN. 'Carnaval,' Op. 9.

Ex. 26.



Model 25.



STEFFANI.

Ex. 27.* S 2. Syn 2. W 2.

In the next article we will consider the mental effect intended by the employment of tempo d' imbroglio.

(To be continued.)

* Prout remarks of this effect ('Musical Form,' Augener, § 290), that it is 'analogous to the introduction of triplets in common time, e.g., instead of

we have

A glance at Model 15 will make it clear that the grouping of the crotchets actually does amount to the division of compound duple time into triplets.

* It will be clear on a moment's consideration that the effect of syncopation will also be obtained, if a note instead of being sustained throughout, under the conditions proper to syncopation, is shortened of its length and a corresponding rest is substituted.

Occasional Notes.

The programme of the forthcoming Triennial Festival at Birmingham shows a decidedly progressive tendency, although it does not err on the side of gaiety. With 'Elijah' (October 1) and 'The Messiah' (October 4) retained as supports, the committee have gone afield with worthy enterprise. The new works will be Elgar's 'We are the music-makers,' Sibelius's fourth Symphony, 'The song of St. Francis,' by Dr. Walford Davies, and an orchestral work by Mr. Granville Bantock. Scriabine's 'Prometheus,' which Sir Henry Wood is understood to consider the last word in modernism, will be given for the first time in England. Other works representing the present generation will be Elgar's 'The Apostles,' Strauss's 'Don Quixote,' and the 'Dance of the seven veils' and closing scene from 'Salome,' and Delius's 'Sea drift.' Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion will be given on October 3, and the remainder of the scheme includes Verdi's 'Manzoni Requiem,' Brahms's 'German Requiem,' Beethoven's seventh Symphony, and smaller works or excerpts by Bach, Purcell, Haydn, Mozart, Rossini, Verdi and Wagner. In accordance with the wish of Sir Henry Wood, the general conductor, the orchestra will be reduced to a hundred players.

The programme of the Bristol Festival, which takes place on October 23, 24, 25 and 26, is a further instance of independence of view, and follows the modern trend in the direction of musical drama. Saint-Saëns's 'Samson and Delilah' and the whole of Wagner's 'Der Ring des Nibelungen' will be presented in concert form. This wonderfully ambitious project is the outcome of the success of a similar performance of 'Die Walküre' at the last Festival. Its effectiveness will depend largely upon the contents of the printed programme. The complete text, interspersed with a profuse amount of stage directions and scenic descriptions, will drive the music home better than any thematic analysis. We have seen a concert performance of a long Wagner excerpt robbed of success by the careful expunging of all matter explanatory of the stage situations from the printed text. Moreover the latter, by an almost inconceivable piece of mismanagement, was a different English version from that employed by the singers. May the Bristol authorities be preserved from that error! The conditions would be ideal if the programmes, in addition to full dramatic explanations, had a few judiciously chosen thematic elucidations in parallel columns with the text. The remainder of the Bristol programme includes 'Elijah,' 'Caractacus,' and concertos to be played by MM. Paderewski and Kreisler.

In these times of musical unrest, when so much that was considered indispensable by our musical forefathers is regarded as passé, it is worth noting what John Sebastian Bach said regarding Figured-bass in his 'Elementary Instructions' on that subject. He states that:

> The word 'Bassus' is derived from the Greek Βάσις, which signifies the root or foundation of a thing. Others derive it from the old Latin word Bassus, signifying profundus, deep. By the word taken alone is understood the lowest part in music, or any bass part that produces a deep note, whether this note be sung, or played upon a bass viol, bassoon, trombone, or the like.
>
> By the term 'Figured' or 'General-bass,' however, is understood a bass that is played on the organ or clavier with both hands in such a way that all or most of the parts in the music are played generaliter or simultaneously, or in general terms, together. It is also called 'Bassus continuus,' or, with the Italian termination, 'Basso continuo,' because it continues throughout the piece, even when the other parts pause now and then, although at the present day this bass itself frequently pauses, especially in works of great ingenuity of construction.
>
> DEFINITION OF THE TERM.
>
> Figured-bass is the whole foundation of the music, and is played with both hands in such a manner that the left hand plays the notes written down, while the right adds in consonances or dissonances, the result being an agreeable harmony to the glory of God and justifiable gratification of the senses; for the sole end and aim of general-bass, like that of all music, should be nothing else than God's glory and pleasant recreations. Where this object is not kept in view there can be no true music, but an infernal scraping and bawling.

It will be observed that Bach's language is almost as strong as his music. We quote the above from Spitta's 'Life of Bach.'

A London morning newspaper recently recorded the occurrence of what was described as a 'Liberal' concert. 'One of the items of the programme was a song, which [says the report] had been charmingly set to music by Mrs. Reginald M'Kenna (wife of the well-known Cabinet Minister), who is an accomplished musician as well as a composer.' The italics, of course, are ours. We are now on the look-out for a 'Conservative' concert where the composers are not musicians.

The reports to hand of the performances on May 17, 18, 19, in the Circus Schumann at Berlin, of Mahler's eighth Symphony, a work demanding a choral and instrumental force of 1,000, dwell chiefly on the statistical side of the event—the elaborate composition of the orchestra, the subdivisions of the choir, the structural work involved, the fact that the three audiences totalled 10,000 persons. One can imagine effects of noble dignity, an impressive series of slowly-moving tone-colours, and an unusual length of climax which a cultivated and deeply-thoughtful composer such as Mahler would draw from these materials. But it is hard to believe that music which succeeds in gripping the attention under such conditions would fail with half the resources—or even less. With due respect to the composer's memory, one can doubt whether his method of approach to a 'great' work was chosen with supreme artistic conviction.

The fusion of the Daily News and the Morning Leader into one paper marks a change in London musical journalism. Mr. E. A. Baughan, who for many years served as music critic to the first-named paper, will now confine himself to dramatic criticism for the new journal, and Mr. Alfred Kalisch will devote himself to the music.

In our sketch of the history of the Philharmonic Society of London (p. 301, May number), we should have stated that Mr. Myles B. Foster's forthcoming complete history of the Society will be published by John Lane (The Bodley Head), not by Messrs. Dent & Co.

Has a Beethoven symphony ever, before Sunday, April 28, been played to prisoners in jail by a full orchestra? If not, the honour and credit are due to the Maidstone Orchestral Society and Mr. F. Cole, their able conductor, for on the day named they performed Beethoven's second Symphony in Maidstone Prison to an audience of 440 of the inmates. The programme also included the 'William Tell' overture, Dvorák's 'Slavonic Dance' No. 8, and the 'Valse triste' by Sibelius. Mr. Cole, in responding to the thanks of the Governor of the Prison, said that if their music had touched but one heart in the audience their visit had not been in vain. Again we say all honour to the Society for their generous recognition of the mission of music.

SIR GEORGE C. MARTIN, M.V.O.

Presentation for the Degree of Mus. Doc. Oxon.,

Honoris Causâ.

British Universities are seldom moved to recognise any achievement unless it be the result of examination under their own strict rule. It is well that the honour and privilege of any degree should be jealously guarded, for the sake of the degree and for those who by hard work have attained its distinction. But there have been occasions when the life-work of distinguished and gifted men has so thoroughly earned the approval of our greatest intellectual bodies, that the bestowal of an honorary degree has been readily acknowledged to be their due.

Musicians are naturally anxious that honorary musical degrees should be given only to those whose work is recognised as of public, and indeed, of national importance. It is with the greatest satisfaction, therefore, that we endorse the universal approval which greeted the announcement that Sir George Martin was to be granted the degree of Mus. Doc. Oxon., honoris causâ. It would be difficult to think of one more worthy of honour, whether from the point of view of fine work whole-heartedly performed, or for the personal attributes which have secured for him the wide friendship and esteem he undoubtedly possesses.

It is scarcely necessary to enumerate the points of Sir George Martin's brilliant career, but his having been a pioneer of the Palestrina School in our English Church Service, and the development, under his guidance, of the unaccompanied singing in St. Paul's Cathedral until it has become world-famed, may be mentioned as prominent features of his long record. His Church compositions include several which have been specially written for great occasions at St. Paul's and elsewhere, while his anthems and services are widely used and appreciated in this country and abroad. His knowledge of the military band is proved by the effective scoring of his Jubilee Te Deum, composed for the great Thanksgiving Service at St. Paul's in 1897, while another similar example may be found in the Evening Service in B flat, which was originally written with military band accompaniment for a special occasion.

Sir George took the degree of Mus. Bac. Oxon. in 1869, and in 1883 received the degree of Mus. Doc. Cantuar., so that the interesting ceremony which took place at Oxford on May 7 last is in every way a fitting climax to his connection with the University.

Below we give the Latin text and a paraphrase of the speech delivered by Sir Walter Parratt, the Oxford Professor of Music, on May 7, on which date Sir George Martin was formally presented for the degree.

Oratiuncula in Scholâ Divinitatis habita
nonis maiis mcmxii
a Gualtero Parratt, Equite Aurato, Musicae Artis Professore
in honorem
Georgii Clementis Martin, Equitis Aurati, in Musicae Doctorum coetum ab Universitate asciti.

Insignissime Vice-Cancellarie vosque egregii Procuratores, praesento virum Artis Musicae peritissimum Georgium Clementem Martin, Equitem Auratum, quem cum iam novem et viginti abhinc annis ab Archiepiscopo Cantuariensi Doctoris nomine ornatus sit nostra quoque Universitas iure optimo in eundem titulum ascivit.

Nolo longus esse in iis commemorandis quae omnibus satis nota esse crediderim; sed non facere possum quin musici clarissimi virtutes breviter strictimque percenseam.

Primum vero illud animadvertendum est hunc non ex iis esse quos nascentes ita placido lumine vidit Polyhymnia ut adhuc teneri miraculo fuerint audientibus: immo usque ad annum aetatis septimum decimum artis omnino ignarus quasi uno aspectu in amorem deae incidit, fidem semel datam nunquam postea violaturus. Mox casu quodam felici Joannis Stainer, viri in hoc loco semper summa laude nominandi, discipulus factus magistrum sibi tanta caritate, tanta admiratione devinxit ut ille in Aedem Divi Pauli vocatus iuvenem adiutorem arcesseret. Hic ita se gerebat ut praeceptori alumnus, amicus amico succederet opusque ab illo inceptum studio suo atque ingenio adiuvaret. Quid multa? Ecquis tandem nescit hunc tot annos exemplar quoddam Deum Omnipotentem rite per sacra carmina colendi toti patriae proposuisse, Aedemque maximam huius auspiciis munere illo suo amplissime perfunctam esse ut cives acciperet sive luctum communem propter cladem aliquam ingentem exprimere sive aut ob vitam Reginae dilectissimae productam aut ob Regis ab Oriente reditum vehementer exoptatum Deo gratias cum Ipsis agere vellent?

Hunc igitur virum et organistam sollertissimum et choragum si quis alius eximium et in modis componendis leporem gravitate subtiliter temperantem praesento vobis ut admittatur ad gradum Doctoris in Arte Musica, honoris causâ.

(Paraphrase.)

Mr. Vice-Chancellor and Proctors: I present to you a highly-skilled musician, Sir George Clement Martin. Twenty-nine years ago the Archbishop of Canterbury conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Music, and to-day our own University very properly admits him to the same degree.

I will not occupy time in recalling facts which I suppose are in everyone's mind; but I cannot refrain from mentioning very briefly some special features of the illustrious musician's career.

It is remarkable that Sir George Martin is not one of those who were claimed by the Muse from their very birth, and were regarded as infant prodigies. He had made no serious study of music until his seventeenth year, when, as it were, he fell in love with the Goddess at first sight, and he has been faithful to her ever since. By a happy chance he became a pupil of John Stainer, a name ever to be mentioned with honour in Oxford, and he so won the affection and admiration of his master, that the latter, soon after his preferment to the organistship of St. Paul's Cathedral, summoned his pupil to London to be his assistant. Here he so distinguished himself that the pupil succeeded the master, the friend followed the friend; and the younger man, by his application and his talents, further advanced the great work which the elder had begun.

What need to say more? Who does not know that for many years he has set before the whole country a perfect model of what a musical service should be, and that with his co-operation the Metropolitan Cathedral has always been splendidly equipped, and ever ready to give expression to the nation's mourning for any great loss, or to its rejoicing for such an event as Queen Victoria's Jubilee, or the anxiously-desired return of King George V. from India?

This distinguished organist and eminent choirmaster, who as a composer skilfully blends grace with dignity, I now present to you to be admitted to the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causâ.

FRIEDRICH WILHELM MARPURG.

By Jeffrey Pulver.

Of all that brilliant array of musicians, composers, historians, and theorists who flourished in the Prussian capital during the reign of the Great Frederick, there was scarcely one who was, and is, more interesting than Friedrich Wilhelm Marpurg; and of all that company not one has been so undeservedly neglected as this painstaking and didactic writer. While admitting that his compositions are not of the most interesting order, and that his theoretical works are not all of value now, it cannot be overlooked that certain of his writings undoubtedly deserve to live, and, indeed, some of them are valued very highly to-day. Dr. Burney did not share the general opinion that Marpurg's compositions were uninteresting and lacking in charm, for he says that they were both 'correct and pleasing.' But before considering Marpurg's works, a few words may be said of the man himself.

Friedrich Wilhelm Marpurg was born on November 21, 1718, near Seehausen in Prussia. He enjoyed the benefits of a thoroughly good education, first in the school of his native place, and subsequently at the University (Berlin?). Curious it certainly is, as Eitner points out, that in this period of literary activity so little was written of this important personage, notwithstanding the fact that Marpurg's circle of friends and acquaintances included many of the most prolific biographers of the day. And the little we do find is inconsistent and misleading. All we know for certain (and, indeed, for our present purpose we need little more) is that in 1746 he went to Paris as private secretary to General von Rothenburg. While there he associated with such men as Voltaire, d'Alembert, and Maupertuis, and when we remember how high a value was placed upon all things French at Frederick's court and in Frederick's capital, we can easily imagine in what good stead this intimacy with them stood him. But what is more to the point, he had when in Paris, the opportunity of studying the Rameau system of musical theory rather more deeply than would otherwise have been possible; and to what use he put this knowledge we shall see later. Returning to Prussia, he stayed but a short time at the capital, following it by several years spent in Hamburg. In 1763 he was in Berlin again, having been invested by Frederick in the dignity of 'Royal Lottery Director,' and, anomalous as it may seem, was nominated 'Councillor for War.' That these posts were not sinecures is shown by Dr. Burney, who, visiting Marpurg in 1772, regrets that these 'new offices' prevented him from carrying into effect all the designs he had made for historical works on a large scale.

Marpurg's character is quickly outlined. He is said to have been a man of short temper, who could brook no contradiction; easily roused to bitter quarrels and delighting in heated argument. Against this is to be placed his thoroughness in his work, his scrupulous care to ensure accuracy, and his profound knowledge of the subjects he treated. Burney adds that he was 'a man of the world, polite, accessible and communicative.' He appears to have been of great service to the learned English traveller by lending him certain musical manuscripts and giving him much information for the work which caused Burney to undertake the tour that brought him into contact with Marpurg. Among other material which the Doctor had from his Prussian colleague must be mentioned 'a description of a machine for writing down extempore pieces of music . . . . of which I had been long in search.' Indeed, Burney had the greatest admiration for Marpurg, for he says that 'his musical writings may justly be said to surpass, in number and utility, those of any one author who has treated the subject. He was perhaps the first German theorist that could patiently be read by persons of taste; so addicted were former writers to prolixity and pedantry.'

Excepting Kirnberger and the Hamburg Mattheson, Marpurg did more than any other writer to develop the Rameau theories, and bring them to a useful and readable state. His criticism was based upon thorough knowledge, although at times a little severe; but it must be remembered that he lived at a period when as much delight was taken in controversy for its own sake as in the justice of the argument; moreover, openly avowed rivals cannot be expected to pass unbiassed judgment. A letter written by Zelter to Goethe, dated October 27, 1831, contains the following pertinent passage: 'The Hamburg Bach printed a Fugue. Agricola asked him, "Have you read Marpurg's criticism of your Fugue? He handled it rather severely." "No," answered Bach, "had he shown me his criticism first I might have known what to do; but if his own Fugues please him, how can mine do so?"' But remembering how limited the scene of action was for so many really clever men, and how keen was the rivalry between them, we can easily understand and excuse their mutual uncharitableness, and rather accept Burney's finding as being the most unprejudiced one. Still, Zelter's opinion of Marpurg was of the best, for writing to Goethe on June 2, 1819, he said: 'Marpurg belongs to the best, because his style is the best.' Nevertheless, in the Marpurg-Kirnberger quarrel, Zelter is inclined to side with the latter. Marpurg died on May 22, 1795.

His works may be classified under distinct headings. Easily first in importance are his treatises on the Fugue, works not only valued during the period at which the various editions appeared, but even held in high esteem to-day. The first of these appeared in 1753, under the title 'Abhandlung von der Fuge nach den Grundsätzen und Exemplen der besten Deutschen und Ausländischen Meister' (Treatise on the Fugue based upon the theories and examples of the best German and foreign masters), dedicated to Telemann. This enjoyed a very wide popularity, and a second part was published in 1754. In 1758, Marpurg wrote the first part of an analytical edition of Fugues by the best composers; but it was not continued, and Part 1 is all that appeared of this work. A French edition by the author himself was printed in Berlin in 1756, as 'Traité de la Fuge et du Contre-point.' A second French edition followed in 1801 (Paris); and another German edition at Leipsic (Kühnel), in 1806. Diabelli published it again in 1843, this time in Vienna, and Peters of Leipsic did one in 1858. The last-named firm of publishers also issued separately the volume of examples which contains specimens of the Fugue by nearly all Marpurg's contemporaries: Graun, Bach, Muffat, Mattheson, Quanz, Fux, Telemann, &c., besides several by the most famous French and Italian composers.

Scarcely less important are Marpurg's works on the clavier, and how it should be played and taught. His 'Kunst das Clavier zu spielen' (The art of playing the clavier), published in 1750, was one of the best-read books of the day on this popular subject; and this work also enjoyed the favour of several editions. A second was asked for the year following the publication of the first; and a third enlarged edition appeared in 1760. A fourth, further enlarged, followed in 1762. In 1761, Part 2 appeared, with a treatise on the art of accompaniment appended. 1755 saw the publication of the 'Anleitung zum Claviespielen' ('Introduction to the art of Clavier playing'), and moved by the 'Zeitgeist' the author taught how to play 'in accordance with the spirit of the times.' A second issue of this work appeared in 1765. A French edition of the 'Kunst das Clavier zu spielen' (Principes du clavecin) was published at Berlin the same year as the French Fugue treatise (1756). It may be of interest to mention that the 'Méthode des méthodes de Piano,' written by Fétis and Moscheles, and published in Paris in 1840, makes complete use of Marpurg's 'Anleitung.'

As I mentioned earlier, Marpurg did much to popularise in Germany the physical teachings of Rameau. To this end he edited 'd'Alembert's systematic treatise on musical composition' (1757), which was based on Rameau's theories; and wrote the well-known 'Versuch über die musicalische Temperatur' (Experimental treatise on musical temperature) (1776), in which he deals with a subject that became one of such great importance with the growth of the keyed instrument's popularity. In this work he takes great pains to prove that Kirnberger's 'fundamental bass' was not a fundamental bass at all. In 1790 his 'New method of tempering on the Clavier' appeared, in which he again makes use of the foundation laid by Rameau. This work owes its inception to the suggestions made by Baron von Wiese, in Dresden, on newer methods of tuning.

Much has been written on the famous quarrel between Marpurg and Sorge, but neither the 'snappishness' of which Eitner accuses the former nor the faults discovered by the Marpurgists in the works of Sorge can account for the bitterness of it. I do not propose to settle the dispute, but shall content myself by making mention of Marpurg's work, 'Herrn G. A. Sorgens Anleitung zum Generalbasse, &c.' (Sorge's introduction to thorough-bass), 1760, which he wrote with the express purpose of asking his contemporaries to decide with whom the rights of the controversy should rest. He dedicates the book to a long list of artists, whom he calls the 'famous musicians of Germany,' and petitions them to give their judgment in writing. Such names as Agricola, Wilhelm Friedemann Bach, C. P. E. Bach, Franz and Georg Benda, Graun, Leopold Mozart, &c., were included; these could not but feel flattered by being appealed to in this public way, and compelled as we are to suspect them of bias one way or the other, we cannot look to them for criticism that would count in the making of history. In the book Marpurg criticises Sorge's work paragraph by paragraph, and I am afraid he allowed his great technical and theoretical knowledge to gain the ascendency and prevent any charitableness that his good nature might have felt disposed to show from tempering the tone of the tirade. A book on this quarrel was written by Albrecht in 1761, and so great was the public interest in the 'war' that a second edition was called for in 1762.

We must now turn to Marpurg's contributions to the literature of musical theory in general. His valuable work on thorough-bass, 'Handbuch bey dem Generalbasse und der Composition' (Handbook of thorough-bass and composition), was published in 1755. Containing as it did a systematic course for beginners added to exercises in from two- to eight-part writing, it was exceedingly popular, and a second part appeared in 1757, followed by a third part in 1758. The whole work is dedicated to Mattheson. A second enlarged and corrected edition was ready in 1762. In the meantime Marpurg wrote 'Anhang zum Handbuche bey dem Generalbasse,' &c. (Appendix to the above), containing examples for practice in composition and exercises in counterpoint and fugue (1760). A second edition of this coincided with the publication of the second edition of the Handbuch itself in 1762.

Of especial interest and value to those who wrote for the voice was the 'Anleitung zur Singecomposition' (Berlin, 1758) on the art of suiting the composition to the voice and to the text. Detailed instruction is given to help the student avoid violating the rules of prosody, and it is a work, therefore, that would do much good if studied seriously by many of the song-writers of to-day. This work contained a portrait of the author. In 1763 Marpurg published his 'Anleitung zur Musik überhaupt, und zur Singkunst besonders,' &c. (Introduction to Music in general, and to vocalism in particular), which shows not only how to use the voice to best advantage, but also how to teach the art. Both of the last two works still enjoy considerable popularity.

'Anfangsgründe der theoretischen Musik' (First lessons in the theory of music), published at Leipsic by Johann Gottlob Breitkopf in 1757, is, as its name indicates, a text-book of elementary theory; and I am rather inclined to believe that this work did not enjoy anything like the favour shown several of Marpurg's other treatises. The reason is not far to seek; for however interesting and instructive mathematical and physical dissertations may be, they, and elaborate equations and tables of ratios, can hardly be expected to appeal to the beginner in the art of music. Far more valuable was Marpurg's 'Kritische Einleitung in die Geschichte und Lehrsätze der alten und neuen Musik' (Critical introduction to the history of ancient and modern music). This work, published in Berlin (1759), rapidly sketched the history of music from the antediluvian period through those of the Argo's voyage, and the first Olympiad, to that of Pythagoras. For the most part the rest of the book is purely theoretical, but some interesting chapters on the music of the Greeks and their instruments are added.

We have now only Marpurg's periodical publications to consider. A series of papers written over the nom de plume of 'Der Critische Musicus an der Spree,' appeared in Berlin from 1750, and contained some interesting, if somewhat venomous, contemporary criticism. More important were the 'Historisch-Critische Beyträge zur Aufnahme der Musik' (Historical critical essays to further the adoption of music), which were issued periodically from 1754 to 1761, by different publishers. These included some very valuable biographies, bibliographies, reviews and criticism. The series was supplemented and subsequently continued from June, 1759, to September, 1763, under the title of 'Kritische Briefe über die Tonkunst' (Critical letters on music). These open letters, addressed to the various musical giants of the period, offered suggestions and hints on musical interpretation, and gave lectures in musical æsthetics, but more often ironic criticism. Among those to whom these letters were addressed are to be found Leopold Mozart, Philipp Emanuel Bach, Nichelmann, Georg Benda, Agricola, Mattheson, Kirnberger, &c.; occasionally some songs were included in the issue as supplements.

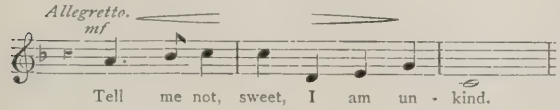
Several other works remain to be mentioned, but the more important have already been named; I will therefore only draw attention to the fact that the list of Marpurg's writings could be considerably lengthened by including the names of all the works he edited and translated. He left a résumé for a 'History of the Organ,' and part of the work itself is in manuscript. Further, Burney tells us that Marpurg intended writing a General History of Music, to 'comprise modern times' also; he likewise 'projected a continuation of Walther's Musical Dictionary and several other interesting works to lovers of music, but he was prevented from executing these designs by his new offices,' as we saw at the beginning of this sketch.

The study of Marpurg's works would do much towards making it easier to understand German musical methods of the late 18th century; it would also show the reader how much science in general, and knowledge of physics in particular, are necessary to those who would write on musical theory, and teach it.

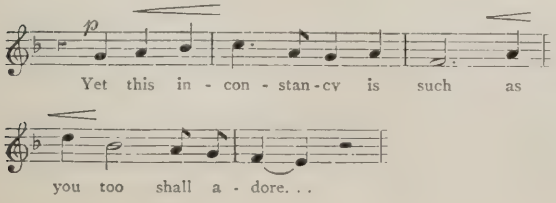
SIR HUBERT PARRY'S SONGS.

'To Lucasta on going to the wars,'—the first song in Sir Hubert Parry's 'Third Set of English Lyrics,'—is imbued with rare feeling and beauty. It is a song that rouses the spirit—not the spirit of war or of adventure, but the spirit that is always asking for Beauty. When the song is done and the book closed, one is startled by the power of its four pages of engraving. The poem is diverse in its emotion, changing swiftly, sometimes by a word, from one condition of feeling to another. It would perhaps be pardonable under such conditions if the music moved from one state to another in a disjointed way; for although music is a plastic force, a composer needs a plastic invention to deal with a poem of this kind in order to produce a well-balanced yet dramatic result. It is this that often makes musical expression a hard matter of art, though when it is done well, one is deceived by the ease of it all.

There is a beauty about the voice part of this song that constantly responds to the words, yet the vocal line remains a composite and continuous whole. The opening passage for the voice to the words 'Tell me not, sweet, I am unkind' has just that tenderness and appropriateness that brings a lump into the throat:



In the final stanza occurs also a passage that is hard to forget:



The first half of this passage has the sense of impersonal explanation, yet before one has realised it the vocal warrior makes his argument imperative by the dictum of the succeeding bars. It is here that a very artistic reserve,—which the composer always allows himself,—is exhibited: the piano of the previous passage is not changed to forte. This is the refinement of feeling, and is characteristic of all Sir Hubert Parry's songs. Hasty critics of English music frequently observe that it lacks warmth, fire, and that scarlet fervour so familiar to us in the music of other nations; but why should Englishmen depart from their special racial faculties, so unattainable by the hot-headed races? Happily, beauty is not always excitement.

The concluding words of the song under review are very happily expressed by the music; a temporary modulation into the subdominant key to the words 'I could not love thee, dear, so much,' giving considerable effect to the final passage 'Loved I not honour more,'—which, in a very subtle way, seems like the hero's confession, lovingly wrested from him. Altogether, this is a love-song of a rare order.

The second song of this set, 'If thou would'st ease thine heart,' is also stamped by the individuality of its composer. One can observe the same ever-changing inflection of sentiment, though in this case it is mostly expressed in a richer and more forcible way. The text demands it. The poet in this song writes of Death as the cure 'of love and all its smart,' so that some foreknowledge of the poem is needed to appreciate the composer's treatment of the words 'Then die, dear, die.' It is curious that in the ending of this song the composer also modulates to the subdominant before the final vocal cadence; the emotional effect is similar, though the nature of the words does not give it such force as in the previous song.

'To Althea from prison,' the third song, is more obviously emotional than the first two. It opens, for the voice, with a gorgeous phrase:

The melody is not finished until the 17th bar, and every note of it seems to add to its vitality. It is an instance of melody-craft that many would like to possess. The whole of the first verse proceeds with fine abandonment, but the succeeding verse of the song is couched in what one might term a 'parenthesis.' It has just that effect, and artistically holds back one's interest, robs one in a way of an expected pleasure. However, it is so well devised that when the third verse is reached and the previous music is resumed, one recognises how excellently the scheme of the song has been evolved.

At the conclusion of the vocal phrase of the second verse, one is athirst for an instant suggestion of tonic harmony to continue the feeling set up by the previous cadence, but the composer withholds the much-desired accidental and breaks off the sense of home-coming. It occurs, however, seven beats later and ushers in the buoyant melody of the first verse. The last vocal phrase is pure ecstasy. The song is one of sheer manliness and beauty:

There is one remaining song of this set, 'Thro' the ivory gate,' that appears to me utterly beautiful. It is reflective and spiritual, is imbued with qualities that will cause it to be a classic. The voice and accompaniment are woven together in a freer way than any of the other songs in this set, and the composer has departed from his customary form of voice-melody: in this instance it belongs to the order of melodic-recitative. Apart from the persistent charm of each bar, the song steadily accumulates in intensity until a climax is reached upon the words 'No friendship dies with death,' and then easing down, finishes calmly with such exquisite feeling. Every note of the accompaniment of this song seems to crave for the orchestra.

EX ANIMO.

STYLE AND SUBSTANCE IN LITERATURE AND MUSIC.

BY HERBERT ANTCLIFFE.

The relative values of style and substance have always been a matter of difference, if not of dispute, between artists; and still more so between critics of the arts. To what extent this difference is caused by the necessary lack of clearness in the definition of artistic terms it is impossible to say. That it is so to a large extent is undeniable. Still more is it caused by the fact that it is impossible to decide where matter ends and manner begins, that is, what exactly is essential and what accidental or circumstantial. These differences and difficulties are more acute in the art of music than in any other art, owing to its generally illusory character. It was one of the most brilliant and sane of our English music critics who a few years ago was responsible for the statement that 'it is style more than substance that keeps art and literature alive.' On the other side we know that in music we have had Franz Liszt, and in literature and the other arts so redoubtable a champion as John Ruskin, who have held views to the contrary. In one of his famous long-winded sentences Ruskin says, 'So far as it leads people to prefer gracefulness of dress, manner and aspect, to value of substance and heart, liking a well-said thing better than a true thing, and a well-trained manner better than a sincere one, and a delicately-formed face better than a good-natured one,—and in all other ways and things setting custom and semblance above everlasting truth; . . . just so far, . . . the feeling induced by what is called "a liberal education" is utterly averse to the understanding of noble art.' Yet, as is often the case, the opinion of Ruskin is not the popular one; for how often do we read of 'the heresy of theme,' 'the truth that in art the treatment is of the first importance,' that 'style is of the essence of thinking,' and last, but by no means least, the ancient saw that 'manners makyth man.' Goethe seemed to be desirous of progressing on a viâ media when he wrote 'the style of a writer is almost always the faithful representative of his mind; therefore, if any man wish to write a clear style, let him begin by making his thoughts clear; and if any would write a noble style, let him first possess a noble soul.' Robert Louis Stevenson also considered that style arose from the inward nature of the man as well as from his education. 'To these homely subjects,' he said, writing of the poems of Robert Burns, 'he communicated the rich commentary of his nature; . . . and they interest us not in themselves, but because they have passed through the spirit of so genuine and vigorous a man. Such is the stamp of living literature.'

One of the causes of these differences, which appears to the superficial observer to be a terminological one, but which actually lies much deeper, is the common confusion of substance and material. In art more than in other matters, these are widely different. Especially is this so in the sonorous arts of music and oratory. The substance of artwork is the message, edifying or amusing, which the artist is impelled by forces within him to deliver. Not of necessity the message which he imagines his circumstances demand that he should deliver; such message is oft-times lost in the feebleness of the utterance or the wrongful direction of its force. The conscious message may in a short time be lost and forgotten, while the underlying substance may live on through generations. The conscious endeavour to do great things, to deliver a message greater and more noble or newer than that of others, often creates a grandiloquence of style which at the moment is mistaken for strength and increases the apparent importance of the subject. The writer such as Burns, who deals with simple subjects in a simple style, is apt to be regarded as one whose substance is of little worth. Yet we know this is not so. The noblest style, the liveliest style, will not give life to that which has it not. It may preserve the life which exists in simple thoughts, but it will not give it to a substance of no inherent vitality. The most commonplace material, however,—phrases, lines, sounds, which any school-boy might use,—may be vitalised by an individual style, and made to deliver a message, to bear substance, which it is impossible they could have done without the style. Even a strikingly original style, if it be backed by no serious and fruitful substance, becomes flaccid and inconsequential, and degenerates into mere virtuosity, or worse into mere eccentricity. The substance of the art of Michael Angelo was not the clay and stone he used; these were his materials. The substance of his art was the truth to nature and the feeling which expressed itself in beautiful forms and compelled the thoughtless to think and the careless to consider. Shakespeare obtained his materials from earlier writers; but the substance of his work was the large humanity which he infused into dead or moribund words and characters. In his case we see style welding his substance and materials into a living unity; but without the substance his style and materials would have formed only a striking but lifeless figure. Handel's style was that of his contemporaries; his materials were the same commonplace turns of melody, the same successions of chords; yet his work lives because its substance is a message of life and art which none but he had received for the edification of mankind. The style of Hummel's works made them to be classed by some of the best judges as superior to those of Beethoven when both composers were still living, but their lack of substance has caused them to wither and die when tested by the flames of time. Mendelssohn's style is incomparably finer than that of Schumann, yet it now seems as if the excellent intentions and remarkable facility in composition which brought about this style will not give to his works the same life which their stronger substance gave to those of Schumann.

Nor is substance necessarily the same as theme. The theme is, as it were, part of the plastic materials in which the artist works. The poet takes as his theme the wayside flower, and makes us breathe anew the fragrance that is dead. Yet the substance of his words is not that the flower was beautiful to see and sweet to smell, but the greatness of the Creator in allowing so small a creature to be so great a delight.

Originality in theme, in subject, in the details of thought even, is practically impossible. The popular saw about there being 'nothing new under the sun' is true in this respect. Therefore to find originality we must look to the style, and perhaps to a small degree to the uncommonness of the thought. 'Le style c'est l'homme même,' said Buffon. The thought itself is gathered, consciously or unconsciously, from others. It has been in the mind of man through long ages; but the manner and form of it which make it expressible and so create the style may be, indeed must be, if they are to be effective, original. May we not therefore say that style is the food, or the breath, of thought, which, though it does not create art, which is the expression of thought or emotion, yet supports and maintains and gives to it activity and effectiveness.

'THE TIMES' ON COMPETITIVE MUSIC FESTIVALS.

The Times recently devoted its Saturday music article to the subject of 'Competitive Festivals: Dangers and Suggestions.' After stating that there exists some difference of opinion as to the value of the movement, the writer says:

The sharpest division of opinion occurs, naturally, between those who advocate the movement and those who maintain the inflexible principle that competition in any form is against the interest of art. That the competitive bacillus, given free play, would produce a spirit of 'pot-hunting,' and that this spirit would throw to the winds, or at least reduce to a secondary consideration, all aims and objects save the primal instinct for victory, seemed at one time the only logical anticipation possible. And in the early days these fears proved justified; to too many competitors the prize was all in all. But nowadays such lower motives have almost disappeared. There are still, indeed, choirs and bands which prowl round the smaller Festivals, 'prize-grabbers' pur sang—every experienced adjudicator can name two or three—but such a spirit is so nearly dead that even those whose early opposition was based on the fear of it will now admit it to be negligible. The only question of interest to competitors used to be, 'Have we won?' In the majority of cases this is now superseded by the question, 'Are we better than we were last year?'

The inclusion of solo-singing is then discussed and advocated because of its educational value and the standards of criticism it creates and spreads:

It is not pretended that such powers of criticism are universal, since competitive festivals have been established for different periods in different districts; but there can be very few places where the life has been for as much as ten years which have not already developed a body of sound judgment, capable of appreciating merit and detecting charlatanry. The discouragement of the losers was once a pathetic spectacle; nowadays the brightest spot is their determination, after comparing their work with that of their rivals, to strive for the higher standard they have recognized. For the competitors as well as the audiences are learning the value of ideals and adapting their critical powers to higher standards. The severest comments of the judge are accepted and digested as the disinterested advice of an impersonal and expert arbiter; and even in the choral contests, where the rivalry of neighbouring towns and villages is sometimes tinged with the bitterness usually associated with politics or religion, petty local pride is crumbling before the knowledge that the value lies, not in the prize, but in the work.

The writer then goes on to describe the fears of the dubious, and to make some suggestions:

The above picture has been purposely somewhat overdrawn, in order that the few criticisms to follow should not be thought to be due to the cavilling of an enemy. The greatest friends of the Festival movement—those who, though not pulling the strings, think they see therein a real chance for the regeneration of English musical taste—have serious fears for it; and those fears range themselves mainly under five heads, which can be briefly stated:

(1) The main attention is given to vocal work. This is, in the present state of instrumental music in country districts, an excusable tendency; but it is none the less shelving a great problem. There are many who think that the passion of the English for choral music is a curse in disguise, inasmuch as it makes the advance of instrumental and all absolute music impossible. There are towns in England which will fill a huge building to overflowing many times a year to hear such a work as Handel's 'Messiah,' and yet will not fill it once to hear an orchestral concert offering them such fare as Beethoven's symphonies, nor will once fill a theatre to hear 'Die Meistersinger,' nor even a small room to hear a string quartet. This want of balance must be remedied; and in the Festivals there seems hope of finding a lever, if only they will fight doggedly and continuously for instrumental music.

(2) It is of supreme importance—possibly the cardinal point of the whole matter—that the music chosen should be of unquestionable worth. In some cases the wise course is taken of asking some first-class musician to choose the entire list; and this course is commended to every Festival committee. But in too many cases a glance through the syllabus of an approaching Festival wrings from one feelings mingled of sympathy for competitors who have had to devote so much time and energy to such worthless trash, and sorrow for the great opportunities thrown away.

(3) The whole Festival, whether as regards music or organization, should be kept entirely free from the influence of any firm of music-publishers.

(4) An opportunity should always be found of allowing the judge to address, in private, the various conductors. The chief influence of these competitions is in the smaller towns and villages, where, in addition to poor material, there is a difficulty in finding expert trainers. Any really experienced choral conductor, after listening to ten choirs singing a madrigal at the Blankshire Festival, knows that with six weeks' work he could turn the last of the ten into the prize-winners. And any judge could in half-an-hour give hints to the assembled conductors which they can get from nowhere else in the world, thereby doing incalculable good to music by elevating the standard of technical training.

(5) Lastly, a coping-stone may be placed on the year's work by adopting the simple plan of ending each Festival with a concert—not given, as now, by the prize-winners (to whom, as we have hinted, cold water might be more salutary than a halo), but consisting mainly of a great choral work, with, if a band is procurable, some orchestral masterpieces. This course is already followed in the case of some Festivals, and should be adopted by all; and knowledge of the work chosen for combined performance should be an unremittable condition attached to any entry for any competition. A wise programme would not only initiate the listeners into the delights of orchestral music, but would also, in the case of a majority of the singers, by giving them their first taste of singing great music under ample conditions, offer them also their first experience of a true emotional 'catharsis.'

If these points could be met by those directly responsible for our Festival competitions, then would the doubts be set at rest of many who, while conscious and sanguine of the potential good, are at present suspicious of the actual accomplishment.

Church and Organ Music.

THE PEDAL ORGAN.

By ARTHUR T. FROGGATT.

'A Suggestion for Improving the Plan of Organs,' recently published in the Musical Times, is not the result of a sudden inspiration: it is a view of the subject which occurred to me several years ago; considered with hesitation; rejected; re-considered again and again in all its bearings, especially with reference to the works of the great masters of organ music; and finally adopted as the only satisfactory solution of an admittedly difficult problem. But if it is ever to meet with the general approval of organists and organ-builders, it must first be subjected to the fullest discussion and most searching criticism; and I therefore most heartily welcome such an article as that which appears in the Musical Times for April, from the competent pen of Lieut.-Colonel Dixon.

When Colonel Dixon says that 'in addition [to the two-fold object mentioned] the Pedal ought to contain within itself a suitably developed harmonic structure,' I really do not understand what he means. A suitably developed harmonic structure, if it already exists on the manuals, will be provided by the continuation of every manual stop on the Pedal. There is not one harmonic structure for the Pedal and another for the Great organ. A Pedal that blends with the manual, not one which stands out apart from it, is the artistic desideratum. To draw for an in-voluntary a few soft stops on the Swell and Choir, with the Pedal large open diapason uncoupled, is a custom, one might hope, confined to the female amateur organist, had I not heard it indulged in by a cathedral organist within the last twenty-five years.

It is true that my plan would not allow of a heavy Pedal solo in combination with a different registration on the Great organ, except in the case of a four-manual instrument. But I cannot agree with Colonel Dixon when he says that such a combination is 'indispensable for the proper rendering of many passages in Bach, not to mention the moderns.' Why should a fugal entry in the bass be made more obtrusive than a similar entry in the tenor or other inner part? And even if it were desirable, on what percentage of English organs is such a combination possible?

As regards the performance of trios on a two-manual instrument, the Pedal would probably be coupled, with or without the 8-ft. pitch, to whichever manual was played by the right hand, as in the great majority of two-manual instruments at present. This is not an ideal arrangement; but the objection would possess greater force if the average organist were in the habit of showing greater enthusiasm for this delightful and refined class of organ music.

Colonel Dixon thinks that 'so far as homogeneity of musical effect is concerned, the gain . . . . is probably more apparent than real.' Why? 'What is required of an efficient Pedal organ is not simply a bass to the Great manual stops, neither more nor less, but a Pedal bass to as many of the leading stops of all the manuals as circumstances will permit, with the addition of such others as will stamp that department with a character of individuality.' (Hopkins & Rimbault, 3rd edition, p. 225.) The italics are Dr. Hopkins's, who clearly regards the first-mentioned requisite as of chief importance. A very simple experiment will show its value. Draw the open diapason on Great and Pedal; play any chord on the Great organ with bass not lower than tenor C, adding the corresponding Pedal bass; then play the chord again, but this time without the Pedal, substituting in place of the latter the octave below on the Great organ; if the diapasons are good, the second arrangement (which is that which my system would provide) will be found far more satisfactory. With a good stopped diapason, a similar experiment may be tried, when the manual bass will be found to be an improvement on the Pedal bourdon; and so with any stop for which a (nominal) Pedal bass may have been provided. I certainly do not share Colonel Dixon's admiration for the large-scaled English Pedal bass; except in very large organs I regard it as a monstrosity; and it was to that I referred when I wrote of 'having no choice beyond that of the dreadful boom being either on or off.' I entirely agree with Mr. Casson in regarding its effect as being analogous to that of the drums in the orchestra, and as such I consider it a luxury rather than a necessity. But for those who desire it, the effect may be retained by continuing to make the twelve lowest pipes of wood, for there is not much 'boom' above tenor C! And in the majority of instruments economy will probably always dictate the employment of wood for the largest pipes.

I do not think Colonel Dixon will find many organists to agree with his depreciation of the Pedal at Doncaster. Hopkins writes of the open diapason, with its 8-ft. and 16-ft. octaves of zinc, as 'a magnificent specimen.' Nor do I understand what is meant by saying that the open wood Pedal has no manual counterpart. It is true that it is seldom to be met with, but it exists. The organ at St. Giles's, Camberwell, built by Bishop to the specification of Dr. Wesley, had three diapasons on the Great manual, of which the third was entirely of wood, and of large scale. I cannot say whether it still remains, not having heard the organ for many years. At St. David's Cathedral there were formerly wood open diapasons (in addition to others of metal) both in the Great and Swell organs. Nor are such stops unknown upon the Continent. The organ in St. Augustine's, Gotha, may be mentioned as an example, where the octave, 8 ft. (corresponding to our open diapason) on the Great organ, has the lowest octave of wood, the pipes from tenor C upwards being made of tin.

Colonel Dixon's remarks concerning soundboards, separate wind-chests, and trunking, are so entirely beside the mark, that I am inclined to fear that my former paper cannot have been as lucid as I had hoped it might prove to be. The reference to the cost of the pipe-work confirms me in this impression. Of course we all know that the largest twelve pipes of any stop cost as much as the remaining forty-four or forty-six; but a stop of twelve pipes cannot cost as much as one of thirty, if both start from the same note. Mention is made of a stop of 32-ft. pitch; but if the Great already possesses a double diapason (and a 32-ft. stop is uncalled for unless this is the case), the addition involves only twelve pipes instead of thirty, and therefore must be cheaper.

Colonel Dixon attempts to traverse my comparison of a Pedal organ on the present system with four stops and 120 pipes and one on my system with ten stops and still only 120 pipes. He points out that by means of an octave coupler and twelve additional pipes to each stop, the practical result would be six stops and only 126 pipes; as, of course, it would. But consider the difference! My critic's Pedal organ of 32 ft., 16 ft., 16 ft., 8 ft., 8 ft., and 16 ft. (which I take to mean double diapason or sub-bourdon, open bass, stopped bass, octave bass, flute bass, and trombone), provides only one stop of 16 ft. as a suitable bass for Swell and Choir organs; while my Pedal of 120 pipes would provide basses for open and stopped diapasons, principal, and trumpet on the Great organ, as well as for two foundation stops on the Swell and two on the Choir. In other words, nine of the unison stops would be carried down to the CCC pipe.

It is perhaps unnecessary to repeat that a Pedal of 120 pipes on my system would be much more expensive than one of the same number of pipes on the present system; but if any ten stops of an organ containing, say, twenty-six stops on three manuals are to be carried through on the Pedal clavier—that is to say, are to be provided with suitable basses—my system would be cheaper than the present clumsy method of duplicating pipes that are very little used. It would not only be cheaper, but far more artistic.

In the next paragraph of his article Colonel Dixon surely contradicts himself. After saying that 'a Pedal entry above middle C would be relatively so weak as to be scarcely discernible while playing on the Great organ,' he adds that 'this defect is likely to be still further exaggerated owing to the unfortunate tendency in many instances not only to increase the manual 8-ft. tone out of all proportion to the rest of the organ, but also to make the tenor and bass octaves of such stops unduly large.' But inasmuch as these are the very octaves which, on my system, would furnish the Pedal, it follows that pipes of unduly large scale will be relatively so weak as to be scarcely discernible!

I am very glad that the force of my argument as to the utilisation of valuable pipes which at present do very little work is admitted. The practice of borrowing manual stops in identical pitch, so strongly advocated by Mr. Casson, was not mentioned, simply because it has no real bearing on my subject. If the paper read by this enthusiastic reformer before the Musical Association in November, 1905, be examined, it will be seen that the dulciana borrowed in identical pitch from the double dulciana on the Great organ is not intended to serve as a bass to any stop on that organ; and the same remark applies to the sub-bass taken from the Swell.

I cannot understand why I should be thought to desire the entire abolition of independent Pedal stops, seeing that I have written that 'there is no reason why one or more independent Pedal stops of thirty pipes should not be included in the specification of a large organ, as before'; although it is true that I regard them as of quite secondary importance. 'In Germany most of the Pedal stops are properly viewed as simply basses to some of the manual stops' (Hopkins, 3rd edition, p. 295).

The custom which sometimes obtained in the last century (as at Westminster Abbey and York Minster) of extending the manuals down to the 16-ft. octave, was perfectly right in principle, although it involved a wrong application of the principle. It was right to carry every manual stop down so far, but it was wrong to extend the manual itself, because it placed the bass out of reach of the player—that is to say, unless the inner parts were to be mutilated. In this article, as in my previous one, I have endeavoured to indicate what I believe to be a more excellent way.

POINTING OF THE PSALMS.

Yet another opinion on the method of pointing the Psalms! Will this question never be settled? Here comes Mr. Seymour Pile with new ideas, which he has carefully explained in a very able paper read before the Union of Directors of Music in Secondary Schools. We refrain from details until the 'Barless Psalter' (in course of preparation) makes its appearance. We are old-fashioned enough to be entirely satisfied with the last series of the 'Cathedral Psalter,' but we hope all the same we are sufficiently broad-minded to examine any new system and, if it should appeal to us, to accept it as an improvement. We say at once that Mr. Pile deserves great credit for attacking a difficult subject in a most interesting manner, and we hope later to speak more fully on his views.

An interesting little book dealing with the organ in Cromer Church has reached us, and we are glad to note that the efforts of the Vicar (the Rev. W. F. T. Hamilton) and the organist (Mr. Alfred Heath) have resulted in the installation of what promises to be a representative instrument. The organ possesses four manuals and Pedal-organ, and though at present out of forty-seven speaking-stops thirteen are 'prepared for' only, it is hoped the regular series of recitals given by Mr. Heath may enable the builders (Messrs. Norman & Beard) to complete the organ before long.

On May 2, the 258th Festival of the Sons of the Clergy was held in St. Paul's Cathedral, when the music included Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'In Memoriam' Overture, the setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C by Mr. C. Lee Williams, the anthem 'When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion,' composed for the occasion by Dr. Walter Alcock, and the Hallelujah Chorus by Handel. The choir was largely augmented, and numbered 250 voices, while the instrumental parts were sustained by a full orchestra and the organ. Sir George Martin conducted all but the anthem, which was under the direction of the composer. Mr. Charles Macpherson was at the organ.

On May 5, the last Oratorio Service of the present season was held at Brixton Church, under the direction of Mr. Douglas Redman (conductor) and Mr. Welton Hickin (organist). Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' was performed by the oratorio choir of 120 voices and a full professional orchestra. The solo parts were taken by Miss Marsden Owen, Miss Lillian Fortescue, and Mr. Frederick Blamey.

A performance consisting of selections from Gounod's 'Redemption' was given under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hodge at St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, on April 30. The soloists were Miss Carrie Tubb, Miss Esther Franklin, Mr. Philip Ritte, and Mr. Montague Borwell.

The third Festival Evensong of the Leytonstone Church Choir Association was held at St. Andrew's Church on May 8, when the Canticles were sung to Foster's setting in A, and Wesley's 'Blessed be the God and Father' and Handel's 'Worthy is the Lamb' were given by a choir of about 130 voices.

Mendelssohn's 'Come, let us sing,' and Spohr's 'God, Thou art great' were performed by the choir and Choral Society at St. Bartholomew's Church, Dalston, on Ascension Day, May 16. The tenor solos were sung by Mr. S. H. Waterman, the other soloists being Miss Emily Carter, Mrs. T. D. Keighly, Miss Katie Daley, and Messrs. Burls, Wharram, and Osborne. Mr. Clement Meek, organist and choirmaster of the Church, conducted, and the accompaniments were sustained by Mr. John F. Turner (organ) and Mr. A. E. B. Ward (pianoforte).

To celebrate the completion of Mr. Stanley James's thirtieth year of work as organist at St. Stephen's Church, Worcester, a special service was held with the assistance of members of the Worcester Vocal Union. Mr. Chris Fleet conducted, and Mr. James was at the organ.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. T. W. Hanforth, Sheffield Parish Church—Sonata No. 7, Guilmant.

Mr. Paul Rochard, Hinckley Parish Church—Sonata in F, Fleuret.

Mr. Nelson Edwards, Colne Parish Church—Overture in C, Hollins.

Mr. Sydney L. K. Crookes, Newlands United Free Church, Glasgow—Sonata in C minor, Guilmant.

Mr. F. E. Wilson, St. Edmund King and Martyr, Forest Gate—Suite Gothique, Boëllmann.

Mr. Walter Johnson, Swadlingcote Parish Church—Toccata and Fugue in D minor, J. S. Bach.

Mr. G. Henry Martin, St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow—Symphony No. 5, Widor.

Mr. Fred Gostelow, St. Stephen's, Walbrook—Toccata, d'Evry.
Mr. Harry Coleman, Century Lesser Concert Room, Manchester—Sonatina in A minor, Karg-Elert.
Mr. Reginald Waddy, Emmanuel Church, Mannamead, Plymouth—Grand Chœur in D, Guilmant.
Mr. T. D. Edwards, Park Hall, Cardiff—Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach.
Mr. Frederick Richens, St. Paul's, Lock Haven, Pennsylvania—Marche Nuptiale in E major, Guilmant.
Mr. Ernest H. Smith, Philharmonic Hall, Liverpool—Fantasia and Fugue in E, Hesse.
Mr. Albert Orton, Walton Parish Church, Liverpool—Sonata No. 4 in B flat, Mendelssohn.
Dr. Caradog Roberts, Ebenezer Wesleyan Chapel, Llandudno—Cantilène Pastorale, Guilmant.
Mr. W. Hercy Maxfield, St. John the Evangelist's, Altrincham—Fantaisie 'Heroïque,' J. A. Meale.
Mr. Herbert Hodge, St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, Queen Victoria Street—Capriccio in C, John Ireland.
Mr. E. Harold Melling, Christ Church, Banbury—Short Prelude and Fugue in C major, Bach.
Mr. Fred Gostelow, St. Stephen's, Walbrook—Choral Prelude in A minor, César Franck.
Dr. A. W. Pollitt, St. Mary's Church, Liverpool—Sonata in G major, Elgar.
Mr. J. Gray, Adam Smith Hall, Kirkcaldy—Grand Solemn March in E flat, Smart.
Mr. Herbert Walton, St. George's Hall, Liverpool—Fantasie and Fugue in G minor, J. S. Bach.
Mr. Joseph Bonnet, the Victoria University of Manchester—Chorale No. 3 in A minor, César Franck.
Mr. C. E. Blyton Dobson, Central Mission, Halifax Place, Nottingham—Toccata on 'Sanctorium Meritus,' Pearce.
Mr. Frank H. Mather, St. Peter's Church, New Jersey, U.S.A.—Prelude and Fugue in G minor, Bach.
Dr. Westlake-Morgan, Victoria Wesleyan Church, Weston-super-Mare—Postlude on hymn-tune 'Quam Dilecta,' C. E. Juleff.
Mr. J. Waugh Owens, Whitefield's—Offertoire in F, Batiste.
Dr. Orlando Mansfield, Belgrave Church, Torquay—Sonatas Nos. 1, 2 and 4, Mendelssohn.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Thomas W. Geraghty, organist and choirmaster, Cashel Cathedral, co. Tipperary.
Mr. Clement Harvey, musical director and choirmaster, St. James's Church, Spanish Place, W.

Reviews.

A NEW BOOK ON MOZART.

W. A. Mozart. By T. de Wyzewa and G. de Saint-Foix, Two vols.

[Paris: Librairie Académique Perrin et Cie.]

If, a very few years ago, a bold prophet had ventured to foretell that a new book on Mozart would appear, rich enough in novel information and critical views, accurate enough in its minutest details to supersede, as a biography, 'Jahn,' and as a catalogue, 'Köchel,' the prophecy would have been received with smiles. Yet the thing has happened, and lovers of Mozart may congratulate themselves.

For a long time indeed the world of writers on music had apparently remained quite content with the current notions; and although now and then some investigators would bring new light on one point or another, none seemed earnestly bent on re-casting the whole of Mozart's biography, the history of his artistic development, and of subjecting all his works to modern methods of investigation and of criticism. In fact, before having read the book that is the result of MM. de Wyzewa's and de Saint-Foix's ten years' labour, one can hardly realise how necessary the labour was.

This book, 'W. A. Mozart, his musical life and his work from his childhood to his full maturity (1756-1777),' forms two stout volumes of five hundred octavo pages—a third volume, embracing the period from 1777 to Mozart's death, is preparing; and the authors have appended its plan as well as the catalogue of Mozart's later works.

The method adopted by MM. de Wyzewa and de Saint-Foix is original and efficient. They start with the following principle, proclaimed by M. de Wyzewa in the introduction: however interesting it may be to study the biography of men of genius, the attention bestowed on the events of their outer life (especially when men of high genius are concerned) may, if carried too far, not only be of no help for the proper understanding of their artistic creations, but become an impediment or even mislead. This way of putting things may be taken by certain readers for a deliberate quest of the paradoxical. In fact it is in flat contradiction to the methods nowadays almost systematically adopted. How far Frau von Wesendonck influenced Wagner when he composed 'Tristan and Isolde,' how far the 'Heiligenstadt-testament' may be brought to bear upon Beethoven's compositions, are among some writers' favourite themes, perhaps because such considerations appear 'scientific' and conduce to a fair amount of ornamental anecdote, whilst intrinsic study of the music is far more difficult. Personally, I cannot help thinking that it is a mistake, and leads one to take much for granted that one does not find in the music itself. If the biography of an artist affords some data to which one thinks that something in the works is bound to correspond, one will be only too inclined to adjust impressions or judgments so as to fit them in with the preconceived theory. Having a few years ago (when endeavouring to investigate Edgar Allan Poe's works) arrived precisely at the corollary that it is often inexpedient to 'conclude from the life to the works,' I am all the more inclined to agree with M. de Wyzewa. 'Men of genius,' says M. de Wyzewa, 'enjoy the privilege of leading a life that, so to say, remains far from and above the fortuitous events of their everyday life, a life in which their dreams and the free creative activity of their brain and their soul play a part far superior to the sundry contingencies to which they are subjected. Even racial or hereditary influences may be greatly overrated and lead to false conclusions.'

Therefore the authors, although following Mozart step by step from his early childhood—from the time when he wrote his first minuets for the harpsichord and was exhibited as an infant phenomenon, 'performing in public on the piano and on the violin, playing on a keyboard covered with a cloth as correctly as if he could see the keys, distinguishing by ear all sounds or even chords produced on any instrument whatever, extemporizing in any given key not only on the piano, but also on the organ,'* to his maturity as a creative artist—attach greater weight to the evolution of his genius and to properly musical influences than to the possible repercussion on his music of the events of his life.

They have divided the biography into no less than thirty-four periods, the last ten of which will form the subject of the third volume, but are summed up in the Appendix. Although this way of proceeding may at first appear rather singular, one sees, as soon as one begins to read, that it is altogether supported by facts; and that, although some of the periods are extremely short and merely transitional, the division is logical as well as helpful.

'The innumerable and soul-stirring vicissitudes of Mozart's "inner drama,"' M. de Wyzewa remarks in his introduction, 'have always occurred through outward musical impulsions. Mozart's nature was essentially feminine. His poetical genius, in order to strike new paths in art, wanted impulses from without—but he transmuted and endowed with new and deeper beauty and purport the ideas or methods suggested to him by the works, accidentally met with, of other musicians. He is a sort of Don Juan, doomed ceaselessly to fall in love, as by a mysterious instinct, with new mistresses, in each of whom he hopes to find a wonderful ideal of impassioned grace, but to each of whom he lends the enchanted reflection of his own beauty: these are the sublime Muses revealed to him by the works of a Johann-Christian Bach, a Schobert, a Michael Haydn. . . .'

So the authors are led closely to study the influences that have borne upon Mozart, and the way in which the young composer has, in making them his own, enriched and extended the style and methods of other masters. And on these masters their book, which would be precious enough as a study of Mozart alone, contains much valuable and novel information and criticism.

* From an advertisement written by Mozart's father, 1763.

The first two periods of Mozart's life extend from the birth to 1763, and include the first lessons with the father and the first compositions; the third comprises the journey to Paris through Munich, Augsburg, Mannheim, and Brussels, during which Mozart became acquainted with some Italian music and some French, and especially with the sonatas of Eckard, an imitation of Philip Emmanuel Bach, which sonatas he imitates in his own first sonatas, written at that time. During the fourth period (1763-1764), we find Mozart in Paris, eagerly studying the Sonatas of Schobert,* whose art influenced him to a remarkable degree. In Schobert, the authors tell us, we must acknowledge 'Mozart's first actual teacher, and one whose influence on him was enduring.' Therefore they have studied his music very carefully, and they show that the sonatas written by Mozart during this Paris period resemble Schobert's not only in form and in style (Schobert being an innovator in both), but also in spirit. Schobert 'understood the poetic function of music admirably.' In his works, Mozart discovered the very road to his own poetic ideals; and one finds in them a certain element of 'romanticism' in the expression of passion, which from time to time will also appear in Mozart's music.

Then comes the sojourn in London and in Chelsea (1764-1765: fifth and sixth periods, both of great importance). Mozart becomes acquainted with Handel's music, with some Italian operas, and also with Italian Sonatas by Giardini or Paradisi, and Italian symphonic Overtures, all of which serve him more or less as models. But the chief and most profitable influence of the 'sixth' period is Johann-Christian Bach's, whose pupil he became.

Towards the end of 1766, Mozart returned to Salzburg; a year later he goes to Vienna, where he lives during all the year 1768. He derives new ideas in the former city from the music of Hasse, Eberlin, Michael Haydn; in the latter from Gluck's 'Alceste,' but to a greater degree from Italian opera-buffe and from the early Viennese symphonists; all of which influences and their results are lucidly studied in Mozart's works taken one by one, according to the method adopted.

Having thus given an idea of the lines on which the book is written, considerations of space prevent my following the authors period by period, despite the interest of the subject; and I will now proceed even more briefly.

After the sojourn in Vienna come the journeys to Italy, between which Mozart returns to Salzburg. After studying counterpoint with Martini, Mozart is more and more influenced by Michael Haydn, and, after, by Joseph Haydn. He casts away part of his newly-acquired Italianism, and becomes a true symphonist. As a sequel to his third journey to Italy (1772), and after the failure in Milan of his opera 'Lucio Silla,' comes what the authors rightly call 'the great romantic crisis' (1773: coinciding with the first period of German romanticism; Bürger's ballads have begun to appear; Goethe's 'Werther' was published in 1774).

'Joseph Haydn also, in 1772-3, began to write more romantic music like the Symphonies in F and in G major, the 'Passione,' the 'Abschieds-Symphonie,' the 'Trauer-Symphonie,' the Pianoforte sonata in C minor. . . . A similar influence transforms Mozart into a romantic poet. All the works written by him during this period are remarkable for a particular juvenile glow, a rejuvenation of Italian beauty in its truer and deeper aspects—that properly belonged to a former period of Italian art.'

When Mozart returns to Salzburg his mind has considerably matured; he has achieved full independence both in spirit and in craftsmanship, acquired a fondness for polyphonic resources, as well as a new ideal and a perfect command of the science of development. He is ready to become once more a true German master: 'the return to the atmosphere of Salzburg, like a violent shock, awoke Mozart from his dream of Italy and of romanticism.' A sojourn in Vienna during the middle of 1773 directed him entirely towards instrumental music. At this time Mozart is influenced by his new teacher, Joseph Haydn. Henceforward 'the two masters' careers will run in parallel courses, and later they will react on one another.' But when Mozart again returns to Salzburg, it is Michael Haydn who influences him most.

After having perused the first volume and about half of the second, one is surprised when one meets with the following heading: 'Twenty-second period—the twentieth year (1776),' which speaks volumes indeed for Mozart's precocity and abundance. And it is with a start that one realises that the subjects of all these disquisitions on form, on style, on creative imagination, on the evolution of musical art, and of a musician's individuality are afforded by the works of a nineteen-year-old composer. No amplification of rhetoric would have been as eloquent.

The task of criticising the book under notice after thus giving an idea of its contents is considerably simplified by the fact that it is (at least as far as I can see) one of the few of which one feels inclined to say that they call for no criticising whatever. From the digest that I have given, it might appear that the work is chiefly a history of the influences undergone by Mozart. But in fact its chief novelty, and one of its most interesting points, is that it not only traces back Mozart's art to its origins, but fully shows to what extent all these influences have been beneficent to the master, and forwarded the development of his own individuality—which is admirably set to light.

The authors study Mozart's works one by one—sometimes in a few lines, sometimes at length and with many remarks of general import, historical, analytical or critical. All these works are catalogued in a new and probably definitive order—many errors in former classifications being detected and set to right. The authors have been at great pains to examine manuscripts and to confront evidence whenever it was possible.† Often the water-marks or the ruling of the paper have enabled them to correct Köchel's arbitrary order. So that the book deserves to be acknowledged as the standard critical catalogue of Mozart's works, as well as the fullest and most accurate biography of Mozart and study of his genius.

It remains to be said that the authors have evinced not only erudition and discrimination, but a genuine and profound artistic understanding, a keen feeling of musical beauty, and, as writers, a fine talent. Long and weighty as it is, their book provides attractive and easy reading; the technical parts are no less excellent than the documentary or the inductive. Such results were well worth the time and trouble expended on so formidable a labour.

M.-D. CALVOCORESSI.

Six Lectures on the Recorder and other flutes in relation to literature. By Christopher Welch, M.A. Oxon.

[Henry Frowde, Oxford University Press.]

The title Mr. Welch has selected for his book is so modest in character that those who have not seen the volume might easily conceive it to be merely a printed copy of half-a-dozen popular lectures on the subject. To many readers, even musicians, the word 'recorder' as a musical instrument will convey but little meaning, while the book itself covers a far wider field than its title implies. The whole range of wood-wind instruments falls within its scope, and there are besides excursions into other fields, including a most interesting digression dealing with the funeral wailings of the Irish peasantry.

Mr. Welch's knowledge of the flute family is as extensive as it is universally acknowledged, and in the book before us he gives us of his best. The illustrations that are so plentifully supplied are of a most interesting character, and clarify details of a subject that would be practically impossible to deal with by merely verbal description. The quaint frontispieces to early flute tutors which are given are delightful, as well as of use in showing the character of instruments at different periods and their method of use.

It is difficult to give an adequate idea of the contents of the book; Mr. Welch divides his 'lectures' into the following heads: 'Literary errors on the subject of the

* On this little-known composer (see article in Grove's dictionary) MM. de Wyzewa and de Saint-Foix have been able to supply some new biographical data; for instance, to discover that his Christian name was Jean.

† Viz.: In the case of practically all extant documents except such as are in the Salzburg Mozarteum, the access to which is strictly prohibited by the custodians. The authors are not the first to complain of this unwarrantable dog-in-the-manger attitude.

recorder,' 'Tone effect of the recorder,' 'Hamlet and the recorder,' 'Shakespeare's allusions to flutes and pipes,' 'Milton on flutes and flute players,' 'The Temple flute player and the tomb piper,' and a supplementary chapter on 'Wailing among the Irish.'

The well-known passage in 'Hamlet,' where the recorder is mentioned, forms the subject of a lengthy and learned disquisition covering many pages, in which the hidden allusions are made clear, and the proper method to be employed in handing the recorder to the Prince of Denmark is indicated by pictorial illustrations.

The Roman and Greek use of pipe and flutes is fully entered into, and there is such richness of material that we cannot but express our admiration for a work which may be regarded as saying the last word respecting the subject Mr. Welch has taken in hand.

The author warns the light reader that the book is not for him, confessing that the work, made up from material gathered for his own gratification, 'abounds in notes, digressions, cross-references, and descriptions, often tedious and sometimes irrelevant.'

The literary critic who wishes to take a superficial glance at the subject may perhaps echo these words, but to the earnest student that which may be considered a fault in arrangement and prolixity becomes part of the book's merit, for a good index enables any portion of its diverse matter to be at once available for reference.

When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion. Festival Anthem. By W. G. Alcock.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

This is a setting of the words of Psalm cxxvi. for voices, orchestra and organ, composed for the 258th Anniversary of the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, held recently in St. Paul's Cathedral. It is the most important contribution to Church music from the pen of Dr. Alcock which we have yet seen, and he is to be congratulated, not only upon the opportunity which has been afforded him of writing for such an event, but upon the distinctive merits of the composition itself. An occasion such as that already mentioned, when the choir of the Cathedral is supplemented by a large body of extra voices, provides excellent scope for variety in the use of vocal resources, and of this Dr. Alcock has taken full advantage.

Thus portions of the anthem are allotted to semi-chorus, quartet, and bass solo. These were sung at the Festival by the Cathedral choir only, the portions marked 'Full' being taken by the whole body of voices.

The music is lofty and elevated in character, and although conceived in a fairly modern spirit, is thoroughly dignified and Church-like throughout. Both voice-parts and accompaniment are most effectively handled, and present many features of interest. The accompaniment, while generally of an orchestral calibre, has been well adapted for organ alone by the composer, and would prove equally effective on that instrument in the hands of a capable player.

Capriccio for the Organ. Composed by John Ireland.

[Stainer & Bell, Ltd.]

Among those modern composers who are endeavouring to raise the standard of organ music must be included the name of Mr. John Ireland. He proves that while it is not necessary to sustain the organ's reputation by writing a Fugue, it is quite possible to present acceptable examples in lighter form and yet to maintain the true character of the instrument. The Capriccio is admirably written, and while within the powers of those possessing even moderate technical skill, should prove a charming addition to the programme of many an organ recital.

Finale Jubilante for the Organ. (No. 44 of the Recital Series. Edited by E. H. Lemare.) Composed by John E. West.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

Mr. West has given us a piece strong and abounding in interest and effective writing which should become well-known and appreciated. As is usual in the composer's work, a great deal is made of rhythmical device, and if there is any danger of the opening figure becoming wearisome, the situation is saved by the contrast afforded by the second subject, which is of a totally different character. An excellently wrought fugal section lends much interest and contains most ingenious counterpoint. The second appearance of the second subject gains in effect by being given to the left-hand. The music is essentially appropriate to the organ, and should prove effective on an instrument of even moderate size.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Pierrette. By Cyril Scott.

Scottish tone-pictures. By Edgar Barratt.

[Elkin & Co.]

Mr. Scott's 'Pierrette' is a characteristic example of his more trifling mood. It has some fascination, with an admixture of waywardness and sweet unreasonableness, and is yet compact and consistent.

Mr. Edgar Barratt's 'Scottish tone-pictures' embody some ventures into impressionism which here and there arrive at some glamour. Occasionally, however, the works are too apparent. For instance, the mere grafting of added sixths, splashes of diatonic notes and similar 'sticky' effects upon clear-cut music, does not raise it from earth to sky. As a rule Mr. Barratt shows sufficient individuality in these six pieces to soar above the conventional without recourse to these means. The collection might be recommended to pianists of moderate technical powers, desirous of making their first acquaintance with the impressionistic style.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Denkmäler der Tonkunst in Oesterreich, 19. Jahrgang: (i.) Wiener Instrumentalmusik im 17. Jahrhundert, (ii.) Triente Codices, (iii.) Fünf messen aus 15. Jahrhunderts. (Vienna, Artaria & Co.; Leipsic, Breitkopf & Härtel.)

From Mendelssohn to Wagner. Being the memoirs of J. W. Davison, forty years music critic of The Times. Pp. 539. Price 12*s.* 6*d.* (London: William Reeves.)

Sea songs, ships, and chanties. Collected by W. B. Whall, master mariner. Second edition, enlarged. Pp. 131. (Glasgow: James Brown & Son.)

Correspondence.

THE ORIGIN OF THE IRISH HARP.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

SIR,—I am very sorry to have misunderstood Mr. Galpin. I certainly thought he admitted that the earliest Irish harps wanted the fore-pillar. I observe that the passage stands as follows in his paper as printed by you: 'The appearance of the harp in Britain coincides with the coming of the Anglo-Saxon and Northman to our shores; though whether these sea-rovers, who were excellent carpenters as well, had added the fore-pillar which henceforth distinguishes their harp from that of Eastern nations we cannot tell.' Now, remembering that the Saxons first appeared in Britain about the middle of the 5th century, the Angles soon after the commencement of the 6th century, and the Danes in the last quarter of the 8th century, this statement is rather vague. Nor is it quite fair to quote me as having said that 'names matter little.' My words were: 'Names matter little, except for purposes of reference.' I maintain that the relative position of instrument and player on the Ullard Cross indicates a performance on the harp, and not on the cruit; nor can I see that the excellent photograph accompanying Mr. Galpin's letter gives the least support to his theory.

If I may be allowed to answer Mr. Galpin's 'practical question,' I say that whatever the difficulty of tuning harps possessing no fore-pillar, there is no reason to suppose it greater in the case of Irish harps than in those of Eastern origin. There were no metal strings in the 9th century, the art of wire-drawing not having been invented until abou 1350. The ancient Irish names of two of the strings sufficiently prove that they were made of gut. D above middle C was 'Tead na feithe-o-lach' (string of the leading sinews), while E above was 'Gilly Tead na feithe-o-lach' (servant to the leading sinews).

Yours faithfully,

Arthur T. Froggatt.

3, Stade Street, Hythe.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Dear Sir,—Mr. Galpin's letter and his photograph of the Ullard harp add nothing to the controversy. One thing is certain: the photograph in your April issue is different from the rubbing he gives of the same harp in 'Old English Instruments of Music,' and neither gives an adequate representation of the sculptured instrument. Let me repeat my former statement that the harp has no fore-pillar.

Mr. Galpin quotes Sir Samuel Ferguson, but he conveniently omits to mention that that distinguished Irish antiquary firmly believed the harp to be without a fore-pillar. Sir Samuel Ferguson carefully examined the Ullard Cross in 1834—seventy-eight years ago—when the figure was much clearer than at present, and he writes to his friend Dr. Petrie: 'I protest it is a true copy.' His sketch is more likely to be correct than an imperfect rubbing or photograph taken nearly eighty years later. Moreover, Mr. O'Leary's definite opinion is not to be thrown aside. Both the Ullard and the Duisk harps seem to have been sculptured by the same artist, and neither of them has a fore-pillar.

I fear that a 'Scandinavian' origin for our Irish Clarseach is about as likely as an 'English' origin. Two years ago Mr. Galpin stated in his valuable book that the Irish harp came from England, but now he holds that 'it owes its origin to the Northern or Scandinavian instrument.' Of course he ignores the exquisite harp on the shrine of St. Moedoc of the 9th century—genuine Irish work.

As to the 'excellent series' of photographs obtained by Mr. Galpin at Ullard, Mr. O'Leary writes: 'The day being unfortunately wet, the rain interfered with his [Mr. Galpin's] getting a good photo of the Cross.'

Yours faithfully,

W. H. Grattan Flood.

P.S.—I fear very much that Mr. Galpin's theory is merely on a par with his extraordinary blunder as to the keys on the drones of Irish bagpipes.

[We have submitted the letters of Dr. Froggatt and Dr. Flood to Mr. Galpin, whose reply we print below. We hope the learned disputants will be content to let the matter rest as it stands. It is one in which a state of permanent disagreement must be accepted as inevitable.—Ed., M. T.]

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—The way by which Dr. Grattan Flood hopes to get over the unfortunate testimony of the photograph of the Ullard 'harp,' reproduced in your April issue, is too evident. It is easy to talk about interference of rain, inadequate representations, imperfect rubbings, and to quote Mr. O'Leary on the subject. The truth is that I did not develop my plates till my return to England, so neither Mr. O'Leary nor I, when we met, could foretell the result. As it proved, and as I was led to expect, the photographs were exceptionally clear and good, and I have no doubt that Mr. Flood would achieve the same result if he would allow the camera to tell its tale, and not rely on rough sketches.

I refuse to be drawn into further correspondence by the postscript on the Irish bagpipe, and what the writer considers 'are extraordinary blunders' on my part. Let me suggest, however, that if he will inquire into the early history of these 'tubes with keys' (called 'regulators' in the Irish pipes), which form an additional accompaniment to the chanter, he will find that not only was the idea anticipated in the otherwise 'droneless' Neapolitan Sindelina of the 17th century, but it also formed an important part in Afranio's Phagotum of a century earlier, about which his nephew Ambrosio says that the second tube was sometimes only a simple drone and at other times, being fitted with keys, it gave a scale of notes. Both the Sindelina and Phagotum were blown with bellows and bag like the Irish elbow-pipes. For references to the use of metal strings by the Irish minstrels, I need only refer Dr. Froggatt to O'Curry's 'Manners and customs of the Irish,' where, in the ancient writings, frequent mention is made of strings of 'findruinne' (artistic bronze or brass), silver, and gold.

Thanking my correspondents for the interest they have shown in my paper. Yours faithfully,

Francis W. Galpin.

FRESH LIGHT ON OLD ENGLISH AIRS.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—I have read the article in your February number, 'Fresh light on old English airs.' I have a fine copy of the edition of 1807 of 'The English Musical Repository, a choice collection of English songs adapted for the voice, violin and German flute (London, Printed for B. Crosby & Co., Stationers' Court, 1807'). This copy also has an engraved frontispiece as well as an engraved title, on which is written the following: 'H. Badley of Liverpool to his friend, R. Benson, Jr., of N. York.' This book contains 288 pages, bound in roan. I went carefully through the book and failed to find any music or words in any way resembling the melodies given on your pp. 102-3. The first song in the book is 'When the rosy morn appearing,' and the last is the 'Death-song of the Cherokee Indian.' There is also a foot-note, 'Oliver & Co., Printers, Edinburgh.' This does not throw much light on the subject under consideration, but does prove the existence of the edition of 1807. I have some 4,000 music collections in my library.—Sincerely yours, Hubert P. Main.

Obituary.

We regret to have to record the sudden death of Mr. Fred. W. Beard, who was long prominently associated with the musical life of Birmingham. For the past five years Mr. Beard had been living in Melbourne, where he was organist of the Catholic Cathedral and choirmaster of some choral Societies. In January he came to Birmingham for a holiday, and to spend a well-earned rest with his parents and friends. He re-embarked for Australia by the 'Orsova' in the latter part of April, and on May 6 came the sad news that he was landed into hospital at Colombo from the 'Orsova' and died on May 5. He was for many years organist of St. Osburg's Catholic Cathedral at Coventry, and afterwards was appointed to a similar post at St. Catherine's Catholic Church in Birmingham, and soon worked the choir and music up to a high degree of excellence. He also founded, trained and conducted the late Birmingham City Choral Society, producing a number of works that had not been heard there previously, and it was he who gave the first and only representation in Birmingham of Liszt's oratorio, 'St. Elisabeth.' In his enthusiasm for music he was largely instrumental in forming the Grand Opera Society, which some years ago produced grand opera at the Theatre Royal. Mr. Beard was also at one time a prominent teacher of the pianoforte and singing, being recognised as a painstaking and successful instructor.

We regret also to record the following deaths:

Mr. W. Marriott, on April 27, at the age of eighty-three. He was well-known throughout the Kingdom as the representative of the firm of Marriott & Williams, and afterwards, for eighteen years, of Messrs. Keith Prowse. In the 'seventies he was honorary secretary of the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society, which owed a great advance in position largely to his work.

Mr. William John Baily, at Herne Bay, on April 23, aged sixty-one, known in many musical circles in South London as the possessor of an exceptional, deep bass voice. He was a member of the choir of St. James's, Marylebone, and for some years was choirmaster at Bellenden Road Methodist Church, Peckham.

HERR FRANZ POENITZ, at Berlin, in his sixty-third year. The deceased, who was one of the finest harpists of his day, had been for nearly fifty years a member of the Royal Orchestra. He was also well-known as a composer for his instrument.

FRÄULEIN LINA RAMANN, the author of the first great biography of Liszt, who passed away at Munich at the age of seventy-nine.

AN ARTICLE ON ELGAR IN A DUTCH JOURNAL.

In our last issue we referred to an article on Elgar's works, by Mr. R. A. Streatfeild, published in De Nieuwe Gids. We now quote below the section that deals with the symphonic works. The same article appeared in a French translation, by M. Pennequin, in Le revue du temps présent for April 2.

During the period of the production of these works he composed nothing else of importance, and we may therefore with reason look upon the two Symphonies and the Concerto as one great work in three sections, a symphonic trilogy—an artistic trinity, three in one, and one in three. I ought to say that Elgar himself has given no hint of the existence of any connection between these three works. They have been performed and published independently of each other, and it is perhaps somewhat fantastic on my part to imagine that they are united by a psychological bond. Yet, having heard all three of them repeatedly, and having studied them with love, reverence and enthusiasm, I have persuaded myself that the connection exists, whether the composer is conscious of it himself or not. Summing up the general tendency of the trilogy, I should describe the three sections of which it consists as illustrating Strife, Contemplation, Joy, the whole composing a vast picture of the development of an artist's soul such as perhaps no other composer of our time has hitherto attempted.

It now remains for me to deal with each work in more detail. Elgar has prefixed no definite programme to his first symphony, but his admission that it represents 'a composer's outlook upon life' gives a broad hint that there is more than a touch of autobiography in it. The struggle of a soul towards the light, the warfare of the material and the ideal—this is what the Symphony paints in the richest and most glowing colours that the modern orchestra can supply, employed with a science such as only a composer profoundly versed in the history of musical development can command. The first movement is all strife and turmoil. It opens, somewhat in the manner of Schubert's great Symphony in C, with the call of the ideal, a melody of arresting breadth and nobility, which pervades the whole work from beginning to end. With this summons to a higher life are contrasted the wiles of the world, the flesh and the devil. Bewildering siren-calls seem to summon the hero to destruction. Pleasure spreads her net around his feet, the call of the ideal sounds brokenly and fitfully, and through the maze of changing harmonies winds ever the dark and sinister theme of sin. The conflict of passions is drawn with astonishing vigour, and the movement surges along its tumultuous course with inexhaustible spirit.

The Scherzo seems to carry us into the world of sheer hard work. The music tingles with life and energy. We seem to be plunged into the midst of the human struggle for existence, and a curiously abrupt and square-cut melody shows us the hero bracing himself for his life's task. By a happily-conceived transition the Scherzo melts, as it were, into the Adagio, a movement of extraordinary beauty, in which the deepest and purest aspirations of the soul of man are clothed in sound. The atmosphere is one of tense yearning and high-wrought rapture. The principal theme soars upward, at first struggling with difficulty like a climber among steep rocks, afterwards mounting aloft as if upon the wings of faith. Throughout the movement the composer's mood is one of peculiar exaltation. He seems to be moving in a world of spiritual ecstasy, through an air growing ever more and more rarified, till at the close the atmosphere becomes so fully charged with mysticism that the hearer seems, like St. Paul in his strange vision, to be 'caught up into Paradise and to hear unspeakable words which it is not lawful for a man to utter.'

The last movement is in some respects the most remarkable of all, and undoubtedly it is at a first acquaintance the most immediately effective. The introduction is curiously eerie in feeling and colour. The hero seems to be sunk in the lethargy of despair. Memories of his old life, of his early struggles and ambitions, flit idly across his mind, but they cannot rouse him to action. At last with a supreme effort he shakes off his torpor, and throws himself once more into the fray. From this point onwards all is feverish energy and exaltation. We are hurried from climax to climax. The horizon seems to widen, the air to grow purer. The magnificent theme of the ideal, transfigured and glorified, seems, like a vast tree, to spread its branches over all, and the work ends in a blaze of triumph and splendour.

Elgar's Violin concerto belongs to the same world of thought and feeling as his first Symphony, but a different atmosphere envelops it. It is throughout less strenuous and more contemplative in tone. As befits a work in which a soloist rules supreme, we are here concerned not with those generalized emotions in the expression of which one man stands as the type of his race, but with individual struggles and aspirations. To what extent cause and effect interact upon each other in these matters it is hard to say. Did Elgar choose the concerto form because he felt it to be the most suitable for what he had to say, or did his choice of the form mould the character of his music? This is a problem which perhaps the composer himself could scarcely solve. At any rate, in treatment, if not in character, the later work forms a striking and beautiful contrast to the earlier. The grand sweep and noble breadth of style which characterize the Symphony are exchanged for a more personal and more intimate note. The hearer seems to be taken into the confidence of the composer, and to be listening to a recital of his private joys and sorrows, of his most secret emotions and aspirations. The first movement of the Concerto resembles, mutatis mutandis, the corresponding movement of the Symphony. It is a picture of warring passions, of the clash of high-strung feelings — not on the tremendous scale of the Symphony, it is true,—but, though less wide in scope, no less deeply felt and no less sincere. On this tempest of emotion the opening notes of the Andante fall like a dewy veil. Peace seems to descend from heaven and to enfold all things in her calm embrace. We seem to be transported to some region of clear air and cloudless radiance. The forms of the blessed seem to move through asphodel meadows under a serener sky than earth has ever known. The deep and tranquil beauty of this movement lies beyond the power of words to express. The music has the serene loveliness of some exquisite fresco by Puvis de Chavannes, some vision of the Elysian Fields, from which all earthly strife and rancour are for ever banished. From the dream-world of the Andante we return once more to the bustle of real life in the Finale, a movement of abounding energy, which hurries along its vigorous course in the most brilliant style. Yet even here the contemplative note, to which I have already referred as characteristic of the Concerto, makes itself felt. The movement is at the zenith of its buoyant career when the solo violin glides almost imperceptibly into a long and elaborate accompanied cadenza—no! that is too conventional a word; I would rather call it a soliloquy—in which, leaving earthly things far beneath, it seems to soar into wondrous regions of spiritual ecstasy. It is as though a man in the midst of his worldly avocations were suddenly rapt away in a trance. The veil of mortal sense is rent asunder, and he stands face to face with the vast mystery of eternity. But the vision fades gradually away, and we are once more on the solid earth. Yet memories of this strange interlude of mystic contemplation still survive, and the work ends upon a strain of grave and exalted nobility.

Elgar's second Symphony completes his great symphonic trilogy in the most satisfying manner. After Strife and Contemplation, comes Joy, and the Symphony in E flat is full of a rapturous exultation which we do not find in the two earlier works. At the head of his score the composer has written the opening lines of a famous poem by Shelley:

Rarely, rarely comest thou,
Spirit of Delight.

But this motto is only to be taken in the most general sense. The Symphony is in no way a musical transcription of the poem. Let no one take Shelley's poem in hand and try to trace it stanza by stanza in the four movements of Elgar's Symphony. It is the Spirit of Delight itself that has inspired the composer, and we must look in his music not for the despondent poet, but for the vision of beauty that he regrets. This vision pervades the Symphony from beginning to end. It is always the beauty of things on which the musician's eye rests, not upon their ugliness. He sings of growth, not of decay. Even in the passages of deeper feeling, in which the Larghetto is rich, the composer derives strength, not weakness, from suffering, and by the magic of his art draws beauty from the sorest trial. The opening Allegro strikes the note which prevails throughout the whole work. Spring is its theme, the Spring of which artists dream and musicians sing. Like a fountain suddenly unsealed the music leaps up to heaven, and surges along in buoyant waves. The swing and rush of it are irresistible. All that Spring ever meant to a poet is here translated into sound—the rising sap, the bursting bud, the opening flower and wild bird-raptures in the clear heaven of March. Yet the movement is not all joy and ravishment. Midway in its course a shadow seems to fall over the scene, and we see the vernal vision as it were in a glass darkly; but soon the sky clears, the sun shines forth again, and the movement ends radiantly upon a note of pure ecstasy.

The Larghetto offers a broad and striking contrast to this carnival of joy. The fact that the Symphony is dedicated to the memory of King Edward VII. caused certain not very clear-sighted critics to suggest that this movement was intended by the composer as a funeral march in honour of the dead King. This is not so, since the Symphony was planned early in 1910, before the death of King Edward, nor does the Larghetto touch a funeral note. In character it is strong, sober and serene. It looks out upon the world with a calm and stedfast gaze, and though it has moments of almost agonized emotion, moments in which one feels that the musician has not won his way to fortitude and tranquillity without inward struggles that are beyond the knowledge of ordinary men, it never suggests the anguish of bereavement.

The Rondo, which takes the place of the usual Scherzo, is in some sort a problem. Judged as absolute music it is effective enough, though it has not Elgar's accustomed distinction of style, but it is difficult to understand its connection with the remainder of the work, and throughout its course one has the uneasy sense of a secret lurking somewhere within it, that baffles the inquiring mind. No shadow of doubt, however, hangs over the superb Finale, in which we return once more to the glittering realm of the Spirit of Delight. We bask in the same glory that illuminated the initial Allegro—the same, yet not the same, for the keen, almost acrid freshness of Spring has yielded to a richer, mellower feeling. Resplendent Summer seems to breathe in the glowing music, and the very heartbeat of the world throbs in the wonderful rhythm upon which the whole movement is built. So the music rolls upon its way, piling climax upon climax, scaling dizzy and still dizzier heights, until, after soaring to one final summit, it sinks back, as it were, into an ocean of tranquillity, and the work ends in a peace all the more divine for the tumult and excitement that came before.

THE LEEDS CHOIR IN PARIS.

A prologue to the great International Festival was enacted in the form of a visit of the choir of the Leeds Philharmonic Society to Paris, to take part in a series of concerts organized by M. Astruc on behalf of the Société Musicale and given at the Trocadéro on April 26, 28 and 30. The Choir sang in Berlioz's 'Requiem,' 'The Messiah,' and Beethoven's Mass in D, and at each performance it was clear that the plan of going so far afield to obtain a choir to interpret these works had fully justified itself in the eyes of the Parisians. At the opening of the first concert the audience were deeply impressed by the singing of 'Nearer, my God, to Thee' in memory of the 'Titanic' disaster. Herr Weingartner was the conductor of the three concerts given with the Leeds Choir and of the remainder of the series. His readings had an individuality that would have been disconcerting to the choralists had they not come from Yorkshire. An impression of the performance has been supplied to us by a correspondent of high authority in the following terms: 'The performance of Berlioz's "Requiem" was magnificent, owing to Herr Weingartner's interpretation of the work and his fine conducting, the beautifully-expressive playing of the orchestra, the terrific and awe-inspiring effect of the four brass bands and timpani in the Last Judgment scene, and to the admirable singing of the Choir. The brass bands consisted of about fifty trombones and tubas, and the French brass tone being of a more velvety quality than ours, the effect was stupendous. It was not by any means a noise, but a gorgeous quantity and quality of tone. The "Messiah" performance was saved by the choral singing; it did not appear as if the orchestra had played the work before, so little appreciation did they show especially in the symphony to "He shall feed His flock," and in the Pastoral Symphony. It may be truthfully said that it was only the choruses that appealed to the audience. The performance of the Mass was good all round, the only weakness noticeable being some of the wood-wind phrasing. The speed of the Gloria was terrific, but the Choir rose to the occasion.'

THE OPERA SEASON IN NEW YORK.

By CLAUDE TREVOR.

When the doors of the Metropolitan Opera House closed in April, the fourth season of Italian Opera came to an end, and taking one thing with another it was successful. Certain frictions there were of course, inseparable from theatrical, and specially operatic, management (or, as in some cases, mis-management), but nothing of grave importance. Smyrnoff, the Russian tenor, retired in great disdain—like Achilles, to his tent: with this difference, that he took the steamer for his own country, or at any rate for Europe, the reason given by him being that unless a singer be an Italian he cannot hope for success at the Metropolitan. How ill-founded is such an assertion may be gathered from the fact that out of seventeen soprani of the company, only one (Tetrazzini) was Italian, while two with Italian names were really American; out of twelve contralti, one only was Italian, while out of seventeen tenors, six only hailed from the land of song, and six baritones out of twelve and four basses out of the same number were Italian. Americans are certainly in the ascendant in matters operatic, not only in their own country but elsewhere, and one very cogent reason is that most of them with any claim to celebrity are capable of singing in English, Italian, French and German,—a circumstance well worth the consideration of artists from other lands. The season alluded to lasted just twenty-four weeks, in which time 186 performances were given, not in New York alone, but including Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and the tournée, the operas produced numbering thirty—fifteen Italian, ten German, three French, one American and one Bohemian. This list at first sight appears imposing, but in reality had not so much variety as one would suppose. Of the Italian works Verdi's and Puccini's were most drawn upon, with the addition of 'Pagliacci' (Leoncavallo), 'Cavalleria Rusticana' (Mascagni), 'Gioconda' (Ponchielli), and 'Lucia' (Donizetti). The German operas consisted of Wagner's and Humperdinck's, with two unimportant ones by composers who have joined the majority—'Lobetanz' (Thuille) and 'Versiegelt' (Blech).

Of absolute novelties there were few, 'Le Donne Curiose,' by Wolf-Ferrari, being the only one which could be said to have caught on. 'Madame sans Gêne' (Giordano) was announced for production, but it fell through. Subscribers clamoured for some home-made opera, and the management stirred itself to endeavour to gratify the laudable desire of its patrons, with the result that 'Mona,' by Parker, was brought forward, but with such poor results that with its very short life it may be allowed to repose in peace. It is not astonishing that if with old favourites the management of the Metropolitan can fill the theatre, it is not anxious to run risks in producing new works of very doubtful value from a money-making point of view, and therefore is content to let those by Debussy, Rance, Xavier, Leroux, Charpentier, and Gaston Salvayre, from whom it has acquired all American rights, remain in the strong-box, along with another American effusion by Nevin, and one by Herbert, which latter was given during the preceding season with such result that it is likely to remain unheard of again. The effect of the desire of a section of the New York public to have home musical products given with English words, as well as works from foreign composers, has acquired some importance, but really, as not one singer in a hundred lets the public hear what he or she is singing about, where the gain is to come in is not quite clear in operas originally written to other than English libretti.

Some excitement may be caused by the rumour of a rival house springing up to compete with the Metropolitan, as Hammerstein's 'Manhattan' did. The chief movers in the enterprise would probably be the tenor, Bonci, and the baritone, Titta Ruffo. Chi vivrà, vedrà.

THE LONDON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA IN AMERICA.

Musical excursions on a grand scale are much in vogue nowadays, and the recent American tour of the London Symphony Orchestra, with Herr Nikisch as conductor, is not the biggest thing of the kind that has happened; but in its rapid covering of the ground it has brought the methods of the American sightseer into a new field. Between April 8 and April 29, 11,000 miles were covered, twenty-seven cities visited, and twenty-nine concerts given. A great impression was evidently made by the virtuosity and fine tone of the Orchestra, and the unity and responsiveness which gave full play to their conductor's emotionalism. The Press notices given below give evidence that many of the effects of execution and interpretation we have become accustomed to hear from the Orchestra were new to the American critics, whose literary imaginations were greatly stirred:

'The Tchaikovsky "Symphony Pathétique" came next. The haunting, soulful first movement, in which the 'cellos worked up a wonderful climax, was equalled by the surpassing charm and sensuous beauty of the waltz music of the second movement, in which the honeyed sweetness of the strings was a notable feature. With the impressive and martial melody of the third, there came the culmination of Adagio lamentoso of the last movement, which was so full of poignant beauty as to leave the audience spellbound, and with the conviction of having listened to an unforgettable performance.'—Buffalo Courier.

'For sheer dynamic potency, bigness of tone, and muscularity of attack no American orchestra has ever given so impressive an exhibition as the London Orchestra offered in Tchaikovsky's fifth Symphony. In cumulative power and momentum the climaxes were stupendous. Such outbursts of tonal splendour, large, massive, colossal in resonance, as Nikisch compelled in the final movement, which he began at a somewhat brisker pace than most of his predecessors, and lashed up to a terrific tempo in the Allegro section, the British band alone can produce.'—The New York Press.

'When the tone was to be delicate, there was often only the aroma of a note, yet when he called forth the thunderbolt, it came straight, if need be, from a cloudless sky.'—New York Tribune.

'So far as the Tchaikovsky "Pathetic" Symphony was concerned, the regular concert-goer may be said to have heard it for the first time in all its poignant significance. Nikisch brought out from the score a meaning and effects which had hitherto remained latent. This remark applies particularly to the first Allegro, the emotional effect of which was so intense that it increased the heart-beats of even blasé musicians, and which seemed to reach the limit of orchestral expression, contrast, climax, pathos and virility.'—Toronto Globe.

The Outlook (U.S.A.) of April 20, after highly commending the playing of the Orchestra, says:

'It is perhaps a little ungracious but natural to wish that Mr. Nikisch might have sacrificed some of the German pieces for a wider range in his programmes. Is there nothing in modern English music that the English Orchestra could have appropriately played?'

LONDON OPERA HOUSE.

By HERMANN KLEIN.

'ROMÉO ET JULIETTE.'

With renewed hope but, alas! a moderate subscription, Mr. Oscar Hammerstein began his second season of grand opera at full prices on Monday, April 22. It was quite a promising start. The house was well filled for what proved to be a capital performance of Gounod's 'Roméo et Juliette'—given (in French) for the first time here—and the young American singers, Mr. Orville Harrold and Miss Felice Lyne, did creditably in the title-rôles, even if they failed to resuscitate the emotions created by Jean de Reszke and Melba when they first gave real life to this opera twenty-three years ago: for more than ever did one realise how much depends upon the Roméo! Patti and Mario failed to popularise Gounod's opera because the great Italian tenor had grown too old. Patti and Nicolini also failed because the latter lacked the magnetism, the genius, for his part. Patti and Jean de Reszke succeeded; but that brief and glorious experience was limited to the few memorable representations given at the Paris Opéra in the autumn of 1888, under the baton of the distinguished composer himself. Then came de Reszke and Melba. But when later on it was Melba and Saléza or Melba and Talazac, or indeed anyone but the famous Polish tenor, the glory faded, the spell broke. The most brilliant of Juliettes proved helpless without a Roméo who was her compeer. So Miss Lyne,—who, if quite inadequate for the tragic side of things, might have satisfied through her girl-like, virginal charm and sweet vocalization,—availed nought beside a Roméo so lacking in the true essentials—manly grace, fascination of voice, phrasing, and diction—as Mr. Orville Harrold. The Frère Laurent of Mr. Henry Weldon and the Capulet of M. Francis Combe were competent, but the remainder of the cast left much to be desired.

Perhaps the most notable feature of this performance (apart from an admirable mise en scène) was the work done by the new conductor, Mr. Fritz Ernaldy—the best, by far, that Mr. Hammerstein has had since Cleofonte Campanini, the hero of his New York campaigns. A musician of evident experience and authority, who knows what he wants and how to get it, a master of tonal gradation and dynamic effects, strong, alert, and keenly intelligent, Fritz Ernaldy may fairly be ranked among the few really great conductors of to-day. The band of the London Opera House is, under his baton, a different body of players. I can imagine what he would do with Wagner if he had the chance.

'MIGNON' AND 'LA FAVORITA.'

These two masterpieces of their respective composers followed on in the opening week. They did not draw any better than, if so well as, 'Roméo.' 'What is the good,' asks Mr. Hammerstein, 'of mounting masterpieces, familiar or otherwise, if they will not draw?' This, it seems to me, is only begging the eternal question, What is the good of mounting operas at all, when you charge a guinea for stalls, unless you are backed by a £100,000 subscription and can control the leading 'stars,' the Puccini operas, the popular German répertoire, and the other Society attractions identified with the London view of 'grand opera in the regular season'? Looked at in this way, the Hammerstein experiment begins to wear a hopeless aspect. Nothing really draws. Nor will it, I fear, be much better when we get Mr. Holbrooke's new opera next month to remind us what fine material we have of our own at home,—if only English opera were once more a 'hardy annual,' if only English opera-singers were as talented and numerous as those of other nations, if only English audiences loved paying to listen to opera sung in their own native tongue, if only—but I have not space to continue the conjectural catalogue!

Truth to tell, there was nothing really satisfying about the representations of 'Mignon' and 'La Favorita.' The former was not vouchsafed, in two newcomers, Mlle. Yvonne Kerlord and M. Jean Buysson, either a Mignon or a Wilhelm Meister endowed with the requisite poetry, sympathy, or vocal charm. Even clever Mlle. Victoria Fer failed to please as Philine; the Laerte and Frédéric were quite unequal to their duties. There were similar 'square pegs' in the cast of Donizetti's fine opera. Shades of Scalchi, of Gayarre, of Graziani, of Bagagiolo! A real Leonora Guzman must have real low notes and a beautiful medium; Madame Augusta Doria looked handsome but lacked the rest. A genuine Fernando must do something more than produce a few ringing high notes—he must act with distinction and sing 'Spirito gentil' like an angel; Mr. Orville Harrold did neither. M. José Danse as Alfonzo XI. was more frequently off the key than on it; Mr. Henry Weldon as Baldassare was heavy and lugubrious. Yet the new conductor did wonders with his orchestra and chorus, and Mr. Jacques Coini gave a splendid stage show. It was merely fine Donizetti singing that was conspicuous by its absence; but that was enough.

'The Tales of Hoffmann' and 'Il Trovatore' have proved the most attractive operas, so far, of Mr. Hammerstein's season. In Offenbach's work only one noteworthy change of cast occurred, namely, when the three characters of Olympie, Giulietta, and Antonia were all undertaken by a new soprano, Madame Berthe Caesar. This artist, the wife of M. Lafont, a French bass who made a highly-promising début as Mephistopheles, justified on the whole the undertaking of so heavy a task. In the once-hackneyed 'Trovatore' an emphatic and unexpected success was achieved by Signor Gennaro de Tura, a robust tenor with a powerful organ, whose somewhat crude style detracted little from the electrical energy of his delivery. Mlle. Eva Olchanski made a sympathetic Leonora, Madame Doria a picturesque if rather overweighted Azucena, and M. José Danse a Count di Luna reliable in all respects save intonation.

'DON QUICHOTTE.'

Barely two years old, yet not Massenet's very latest opera (he has since written 'Roma'), the score of 'Don Quichotte' makes a stronger appeal to the musician than either 'Le Jongleur de Nôtre Dame' or 'Thaïs.' It is more original than the one, less sentimental than the other; it has the advantage of the best story. What is fantastic in 'Don Quichotte' belongs to the noble fantasy of an immortal conception. The wonderfully-pathetic figure drawn by Cervantes stands forth with singular vividness and effect in this play by Le Lorrain, which M. Henri Cain has so ably transformed into an operatic libretto. A few incidents suggested by the lengthy Spanish romance, concentrated into five short Acts, furnish a picturesque framework for the familiar personification of the forlorn Knight-Errant, who, by the way, is scarcely more prominent, though more faithfully depicted by the librettist, than the voluble but somewhat over-educated Sancho Panza. The lovely Dulcinée is a grande dame (if only of the half-world), and by no means heartless at that. She may not requite the Don's wondrous adoration, but can at least perceive what her flattering and offensive admirers cannot, when she says, 'Oui, peut-être est-il fou. . . . Mais c'est un fou sublime!'

The utterance of this sentence is the most touching moment in the opera. The Don has ridden, alert and vigorous, on his faithful Rosinante, accompanied by Sancho on his donkey, into the public square where he first encounters Dulcinée; he has received his commission to recover her stolen necklace of pearls; he has striven gallantly (in a clever realistic scene) against menacing windmills; he has overcome by his simple spiritual grace a band of robbers in the deepest recesses of the Sierra; he has returned to his Dulcinée amidst her revelling and restored the lost pearls to her. It is then that she publicly rejects his suit, yet chides her friends when they scoff at him; and the musical texture of the scene is not less simple and moving than its dramatic poignancy. Pleasing, of course, are the strong Spanish rhythms of the dances and choruses in this and the opening scenes. But the finest pages of the score are the duet for the Don and Sancho in the Windmill scene, the really beautiful prayer with which the knight reduces his bandits to subjection, and the final episode of his death, taking leave of his faithful servitor as he stands leaning against a huge primeval oak in a gloomy forest, until the stiff, lank figure falls forward prone, and the miseries of the Sorrowful Knight are for ever ended.

On the whole, therefore, an interesting opera, and quite deserving of the enthusiastic reception which it had at the London Opera House on May 17. The performance brought credit to all concerned, apart from a splendour of mounting that embodied alike taste and lavish outlay. The difficult rôle of Don Quichotte, created at Monte Carlo by M. Marcoux, was quite admirably portrayed by M. Lafont, who looked the Cervantes figure to the life, acted it with great sympathy, and sang artistically. Sancho Panza had a bluff, earnest representative in M. José Danse, and Mlle. Yvonne Kerlord made an intelligent but not particularly fascinating Dulcinée. Under Mr. Fritz Ernaldy's resolute and inspiring guidance, the chorus and orchestra fully earned their laurels.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

Two cycles of Wagner's 'Ring' and a series of revivals of familiar Italian and French works have constituted the record to date of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden. The doors opened on April 20 with Bizet's 'Carmen,' chosen for the purpose of giving the season a brilliant start—in itself an acknowledgment of the social side of the undertaking.

THE GERMAN SEASON.

The first of the two cycles of the 'Ring' began on April 23. In spite of the fact that no less than three cycles all told were given last autumn, the faithful turned up in large numbers. The day is past when they constituted the few. Everybody likes the 'Ring' nowadays—if only in parts.

It is just thirty years since the work was first given in England. For a time its subsequent representations were supported by a cult, half of it with patriotic aims and the other with a genuine admiration. Borrowed, stolen, or strayed though the features of Wagner's grand style be to-day, they still remain distinctive. His is the master-hand. The colouring is as wonderful as ever, and as personal. The interpretation of the score at this last series of performances gave a new perspective of that colouring. It was derived from Dr. Rottenberg, of Frankfurt. His reading differed from all those offered during the past generation. So far we have been content if occasionally we could catch the sound of a human voice above the roar of the orchestra. Now that is all changed. The orchestra was beautifully subdued into a homogeneous whole, and the voices stood out clear and distinct. It was something altogether novel, something altogether delightful. Dr. Rottenberg remains a blessed memory to those present at the performances. His services should be retained if the 'Ring' is to continue its appeal.

The performers were for the most part familiar. There was Madame Saltzmann Stevens to give her well-read version of the Brünnhildes, reinforced by augmented vocal powers; Madame Kirkby Lunn as the most reliable and grateful of Frickas and Erdes; Herr Van Rooy, in better voice than he has been for some time, as the Wotans, and Herren Fönss, Hensel, Cornelius, Kronen, and Kiess to lend their effective aid. A new Brünnhilde in 'Walküre' and 'Gotterdämmerung' appeared in the person of Frl. Gertrud Kappel. She is a striking example of modern artistic development, for she is both young and efficient. The cycles of the 'Ring' were as usual supplemented by 'Tristan.' Herren Cornelius and Hensel took it in turn to appear as the hero, while Madame Saltzmann Stevens was the Isolde in both representations. The second was conducted by Herr Paul Drach, who, like Dr. Rottenberg, came to the rescue in the disastrous time two years ago, when Dr. Richter's ever-to-be-regretted breakdown in heaith signalized the close of his career at Covent Garden. Herr Drach knows the work and knows its tradition; but it is not the new tradition of Dr. Rottenberg, and though cordially received, his conducting did not have the entrancing charm of his predecessor.

ITALIAN AND FRENCH OPERA.

The first performance of the season, consisting of 'Carmen,' was the means of introducing two new-comers. The first, Mlle. Tarquinia Tarquini, is really here to take part in the new opera, 'Conchita,' to come later; her Carmen was therefore in more than one sense tentative. The second new-comer was Signor Cellini, who is said to be known as someone else under a different name—or some such involved explanation. He did very well, singing the music gracefully. But it was not he or Signor Gaudenzi, who appeared later in 'Madama Butterfly,' who provided the surprise of the season—it was Signor Martinelli. This singer, who came before the public in the first performance of 'La Tosca' on April 22, is a genuine find. He has that rare gift, a true tenor voice that has never been a baritone, and may be confidently expected never to become one. It remains the finest tenor voice heard in England for years. Its quality is luscious, ringing, musical, and delightful to hear. He won his position immediately; the moment he had finished his first cadence of importance the house rose at him. Later, in 'Aïda,' he confirmed and augmented the good impression. Deficiencies as an actor, and a tendency to give out all his voice in insignificant passages, are his present defects; but they cannot discount the value of his organ. The Royal Opera circle has also been widened by the appearance of Mlle. Lipkowska. She has revealed herself as possessing a perfect command of the old Italian style of singing, as it is termed. In other words, it is a knowledge of how to use the voice. Its exploitation in 'Traviata,' 'Rigoletto,' 'La Bohème,' and 'Carmen' (Micaela), has provided another object for London's admiration. Other features of note have been Signor Sammarco as Escamillo in 'Carmen' for the first time; the appearance of a new baritone, Signor Virgilio Romano, who is a young Sammarco; the assumption of the part of La Tosca by Mlle. Edvina to a finely-temperamental and thrilling Scarpia by Signor Marcoux; the re-appearance of Mlle. Emmy Destinn in better voice than she has been at any time during her career; the success of a new contralto, Mlle. Leveroni, and the outstanding excellence of the representation of 'Aïda,' which produced enthusiasm of the kind usually restricted to a boundary hit in a cricket match. The conductors have been Signor Campanini, as vigorous as ever, and Signor Panizza, as sympathetic as of yore.

SHAKESPEARE'S ENGLAND.

OPENING CONCERT, MAY 11.

It was a happy circumstance that permitted the Imperial Choir, organized and conducted by Dr. Charles Harriss, to assist again at the inauguration of a great national Festival of celebration. The Shakespearean note was absent from the music of the occasion, but the Imperial note sounded the wider patriotic feelings of which our reverence for Shakespeare is one form of expression. The concert was carried out in an atmosphere of inspiring enthusiasm. The choralists, about 4,500 in number, drawn from forty-two choral Societies of Greater London, threw themselves with keenness and the confidence born of thorough preparation into the task of performing the following programme:

'The march triumphal thunders,' from 'Caractacus' .. Elgar.
Choral Ballad, 'The crowning of the King' .. .. .. Harriss.
'The comrades' song of hope' Adam, arranged for mixed voices by Percy Fletcher.
'Land of hope and glory' .. .. Elgar.
Soloist .. Miss PHYLLIS LETT.
'Hallelujah Chorus' .. .. Handel.

Dr. Harriss's Choral Ballad, which was performed for the first time, is fluent, grateful music, expressing a glowing pride and containing nothing stiff or ceremonious. It is laid out for big effects, with a knowledge of the means to bring them off, and an enthusiastic performance added to the striking impression it made. In all the choral music the Choir sang with admirable unity, precision, and bright, steady tone, all of which contributed to the excellence of its work and helped to give the concert a high artistic status. Its success as a popular event was unmistakable. 'Land of hope and glory' and 'The comrades' song of hope' were encored. The orchestra was combined of the Queen's Hall and New Symphony Orchestras, and played under Sir Henry Wood's direction Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's Ballade in A minor, Mr. Balfour Gardiner's 'Shepherd Fennel's Dance,' and Sir Charles Stanford's first Irish 'Rhapsody.' Miss Phyllis Lett sang Hatton's fine song, 'The enchantress.'

The musical arrangements at the Exhibition include the happy idea of weekly concerts, each devoted to music connected with a Shakespearean drama. Overtures, symphonic-poems, and lyrical settings provide a fruitful source for the programmes. The orchestra is that of the Queen's Hall, and Sir Henry Wood conducts. The first of the series, on May 18, was a 'Romeo and Juliet' concert.

'THE DESERT' AT THE ALBERT HALL.

'Constructed' by Mr. H. Holford Bottomley, and produced at the end of April—that occasion being the prize-distribution of Clark's College at the Albert Hall—the musical spectacle entitled 'The Desert' proved to be so full of interest from more than one point of view as to make one feel a certain regret that so much real artistic effort should have had to be expended on a production limited to a single performance. Many a spectacle designed for a more or less extended 'run' has had fewer claims to attention—even to admiration—than this, the short-lived result of long, careful and entirely successful preparation. Mr. Bottomley's spectacle aimed at visualising the conception of Félicien David as expressed in his admirable Symphonic Ode, a master-work which, though now nearly seventy years old, remains to-day as vivid, fresh, dramatic, as when it made its original appeal to Paris as the truest possible embodiment of that Oriental spirit which long study in the East had brought within the great composer's range. 'Le Désert' is indeed another 'Song of Destiny': instinct with the deepest religious fervour, it represents, now in sweetest melody, now in descriptive passages of striking intensity, the cult of Allah, of Fate, predominant, all-pervading, inevitable. Thus David's Ode, which conjures up picture after picture of splendour, of solemnity, of beauty, at once suggests a spectacle, a pageant, and this idea was carried out with extraordinary effectiveness at the Albert Hall. There were four scenes, entitled respectively 'The voices of the Desert,' 'The march of the caravan,' 'The desert encampment,' and 'The departure of the caravan.' After the first scene, which served as a sort of prologue or introduction, came a short interval, and thereafter the spectacle unfolded itself without interruption, of special impressiveness being the Storm and the Call to Prayer preceding the final breaking of the camp and departure of the Caravan, leaving the desert in all its old awe-inspiring vastness and silence. Some beautifully suggestive dancing was shown by Miss Lola Lee; Mr. Philip Ritte sang the solo-tenor music with extreme delicacy; Mr. David Beveridge recited the tale of the successive episodes in clear, dignified tones; Mr. Bottomley gave their right importance to the impassioned utterances of the Priest; Mr. Algernon Lindo conducted the rich-toned chorus, and Mr. H. L. Balfour at the organ played David's inspired music with a real sense of its meaning. There was a very large and appreciative company present, and at the close the applause was as genuine as it was well deserved.

MR. BALFOUR GARDINER'S CONCERTS.

This remarkable series retained its interest to the end. The fourth and last took place at Queen's Hall on May 1, with the help of the New Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Balfour Gardiner and various other composers represented. The important feature, and one of the most interesting of the whole series, was the first performance of a suite, 'Beni Mora,' by Mr. G. von Holst, founded on Arab airs and depicting Arabian scenes and emotions. The most striking of its three movements was that named after the 'Street of the Ouled Naïls' (Dancing-girls) in 'Beni-Mora.' Its clever mingling of dance music, such as might issue from the cafés, with the music of an Arab procession passing from the desert through the town and out into the desert again, was an interesting feat of imagination and technique. The programme opened with Mr. Hamilton Harty's thoughtful and ably-written tone-poem, 'With the Wild Geese,' and included an 'English Dance' and a ballad, 'Helen of Kirkconnel,' for baritone and orchestra, by Mr. Cyril Scott, Mr. Norman O'Neill's 'La belle dame sans merci,' for baritone and orchestra, and a new 'English dance' by Mr. Percy Grainger. The last-mentioned work was a surprising example of fluent, striking music almost devoid of thematic interest.

Dr. Herbert W. Wareing, professor of music at Malvern College, and organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, Malvern, has won the first-prize in Class 3 ('Characteristic songs') in the American and International Vocal Prize Competition (instituted by the Theo. Presser Company, Philadelphia) for his song, 'The Ocean's Pride.'

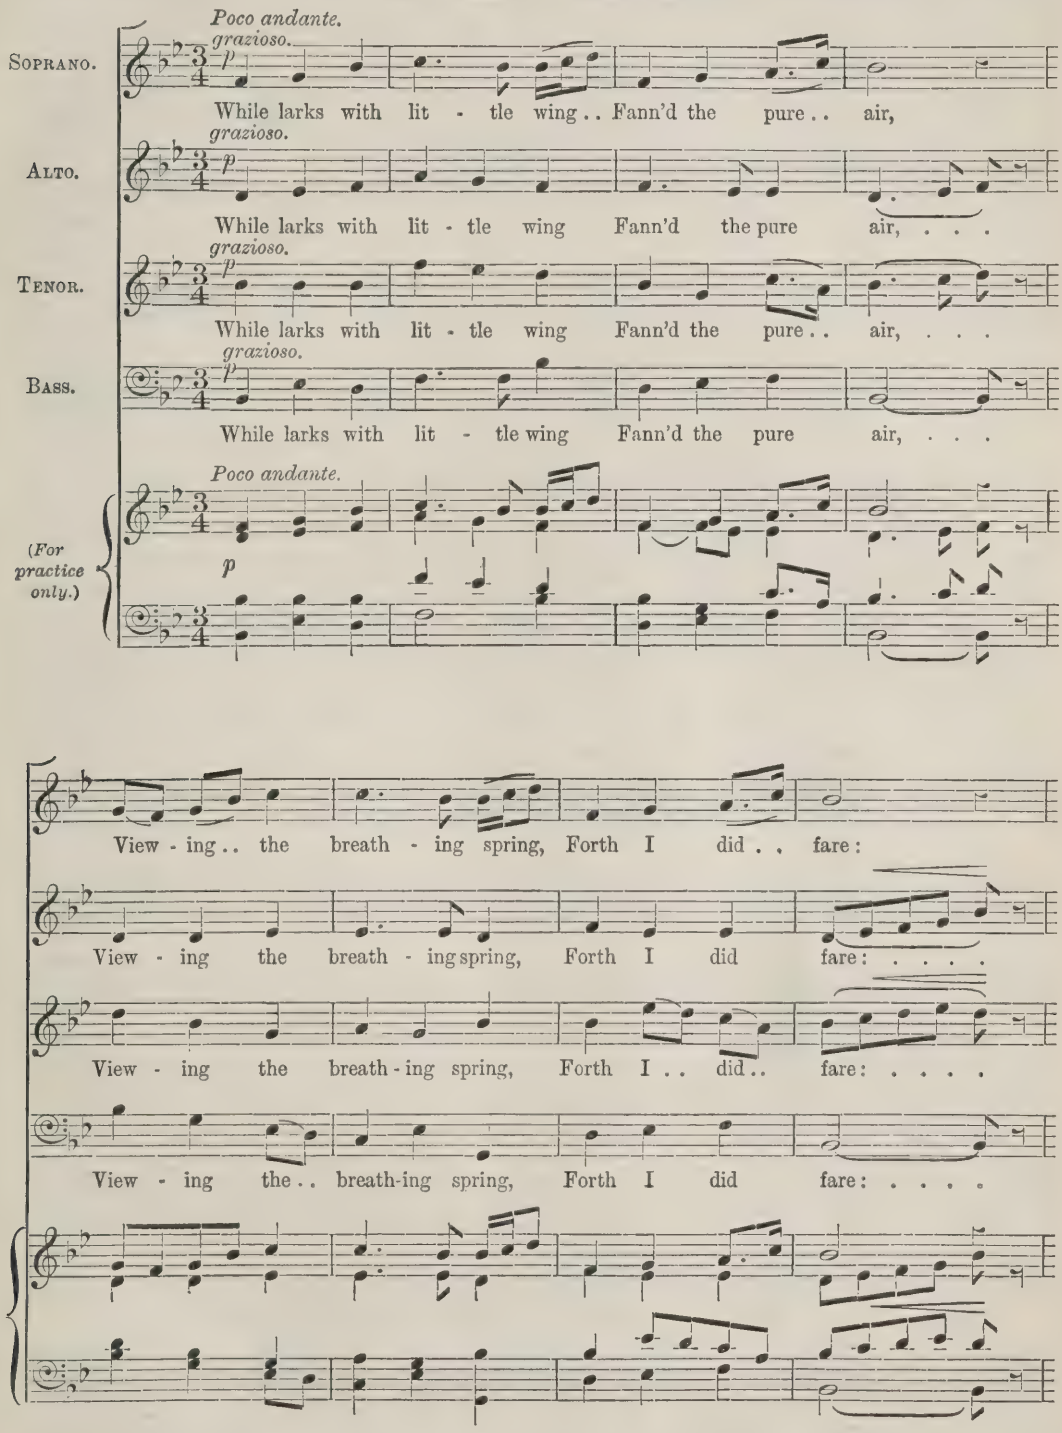
Phyllis the Fair.

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Poem by Robert Burns.

Scottish Folk Melody, arranged by Edgar L. Bainton.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; New York: THE H. W. GRAY CO., Sole Agents for the U.S.A.



Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
(For practice only.)
Poco andante.
grazioso.
p
While larks with lit - tle wing .. Fann'd the pure .. air,
While larks with lit - tle wing Fann'd the pure air, . . .
While larks with lit - tle wing Fann'd the pure .. air, . . .
While larks with lit - tle wing Fann'd the pure air, . . .
View - ing .. the breath - ing spring, Forth I did . . fare:
View - ing the breath - ing spring, Forth I did fare: . . . .
View - ing the breath - ing spring, Forth I .. did .. fare: . . . .
View - ing the .. breath-ing spring, Forth I did fare: . . . .

Copyright, 1912, by Novello and Company, Limited.

mf
Gay, . . the sun's gold - en eye, Peep'd o'er the moun - tains high; "Such thy bloom,"
f
Gay, the sun's gold - en eye, Peep'd o'er the moun - tains high; "Such thy bloom,"
Gay, the sun's gold - en eye, Peep'd o'er the moun - tains high; "Such thy bloom," Gay, the sun's gold - en eye, Peep'd o'er the moun - tains high; "Such thy bloom," rit.
dim. a tempo.
p did I cry . . "Phyl - lis the . . Fair.". . In each bird's care - less song, did I cry "Phyl - lis the Fair.". . In each bird's care - less song, did I cry . . "Phyl - lis the . . Fair.". . In each bird's care - less song, did I cry "Phyl - lis the Fair.". . In each bird's care - less song,
Glad, I did . . share; While yon wild - flowers a - mong, Chance led me . .
Glad, I did share; . . While yon wild - flowers among, Chance led me
Glad, I did . . share; . . While yon wild - flowers a - mong, Chance led . . me . .
Glad, I did share; . . While yon wild - flowers a - mong, Chance led me there: Sweet to . . the . . o - p'ning day, Rosebuds bent the . .

there: . . . . Sweet to the op'ning day, Rosebuds bent the there: . . . . Sweet to the o - p'ning day, Rosebuds bent the there: . . . Sweet to the o - p'ning day, Rosebuds bent the dew - y spray; "Such thy bloom," did I say, . . "Phyl - lis the . .
dew - y spray; "Such thy bloom," did I say, "Phyl - lis the dew - y spray; "Such thy bloom," did I say, . . "Phyl - lis the . . dew - y spray; "Such thy bloom," did I say, "Phyl - lis the rit.
dim. a tempo.
Fair." . . . . Doves . . . . . .
Fair." . . Doves . . . .
Fair." . . Down in a sha - dy walk . . Doves coo - ing . .
Fair." . . . . In a sha-dy walk . . . Doves coo - ing, coo-ing were ;

Caught . . in a
coo - ing were ;
Caught, . . .
were ; . . I . . marked the cru - el hawk Caught in a . .
coo - ing were ; I . . marked the cru-el hawk Caught, . .
snare ; . . So . . kind, . . Such make his . .
caught in a snare ; So . . kind may For - tune be, Such make his snare : So kind may For - tune be, . . Such make his . .
caught in a snare : So kind may For - tune be, . . Such make his des - tin- y, He who would in - jure thee, Phyl- lis, Phyl - lis the Fair.
des - tin- y, He who would in-jure thee, Phyl - lis, Phyl - lis the Fair.
des - tin- y, He who would in-jure thee, Phyl- lis, Phyl - lis the Fair.
des - tin- y, . . He who would in - jure thee, Phyl - lis, Phyl - lis the Fair.

MR. MONTAGUE PHILLIPS'S CONCERT.

The concert of his own compositions given by Mr. Montague Phillips at Queen's Hall on May 17 firmly established his claims as a composer to be considered. It served the important object of introducing to the public his new Symphony in C minor—his first effort in this momentous form. His previous preparation for the task was revealed in the performance of his tone-poem 'Boadicea,' his Pianoforte concerto (with Miss Irene Scharrer as soloist), and his Symphonic Scherzo. Its benefit was clearly shown in the firmer and more experienced constructive workmanship of the Symphony, and the ease with which the composer has built upon his ideas. These are often of great beauty, and their treatment passes from grave to gay in a constantly varied series of moods and colours. It is open-air music, recognizably English without recourse to a folk-song idiom. The only other new work in the programme was the attractive song, 'A soul's anguish,' sung by Mr. Wilfrid Douthitt. Several of Mr. Phillips's lyrics were heard for the first time with orchestral accompaniment, gaining an additional effect that was heightened by the sympathetic singing of Miss Clara Butterworth. The audience was very large and enthusiastic.

London Concerts.

THE HANDEL SOCIETY.

With Beethoven's 'Mount of Olives' and Humperdinck's 'Die Wallfahrt nach Kevlaar' in the programme of their concert at Queen's Hall on May 13, the Handel Society kept up their reputation for independence of choice. The share taken by the choir in the performance of 'The Mount of Olives' had all the merits which its rather scant opportunities allowed. The choralists had a wider scope for their abilities in Humperdinck's charming work, and showed the benefits of their training at the hands of Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor. The solo parts in the above works were taken by Miss Marietta Amstad, Miss Mary Strangways, Mr. Wilbur Reed, and Mr. Bevington Rosse. The orchestral numbers were Beethoven's 'Egmont' Overture, Bizet's 'L'Arlésienne' Suite, and the programme concluded with Schumann's 'Requiem for Mignon.' The audience, as is usual at these concerts, was very numerous.

It is not often that an important orchestral work is produced by an amateur orchestra, and Mr. J. D. Davis is to be congratulated upon securing the first performance of his Suite 'Cleopatra' at the hands of the Strolling Players, under Mr. Joseph Ivimey's direction, on April 23. Based upon Rider Haggard's story, and originally conceived as incidental to a stage version, the work is full of picturesque suggestiveness and facile colouring. The soloists of the concert were Miss Carmen Hill and Mr. Percy Grainger.

Mr. Donald F. Tovey has given this season's series of 'Chelsea' Concerts at Æolian Hall, but has wisely retained the name that has become associated with their artistic value. The first programme, given on April 24, contained Pianoforte trios by Brahms and Schubert, and was varied with songs contributed by Dr. Georg Henschel. The second, on May 1, was devoted to chamber works by Mr. Tovey. The third, on May 6, consisted of a Clarinet and Pianoforte sonata by Mr. Tovey, the Trio for the same instruments and violoncello by Brahms, and Bach's Suite in D minor for violoncello. The violoncellist was Señor Casals. The fourth concert, on May 15, consisted of a Chopin recital by Mr. Tovey. At the fifth, on May 22, it was arranged that Señor Casals and Mr. Tovey should play Beethoven's four Sonatas for violoncello and pianoforte.

At the Æolian Hall 'Twelve o'clock' concert given on April 18, a String quartet in F by Mr. H. Waldo Warner was played by the London String Quartet, of which the composer is a member; a Fantasia, 'Puck,' by Mr. J. Speaight was also introduced. On April 25, at the next concert of the series, the same players were heard in a Tchaikovsky programme, and on May 2 three of their number were joined by Miss Mathilde Verne in a delightful performance of Fauré's Pianoforte quartet.

Some interesting musical experiences have arisen out of the presence of the Spanish violinist, Señor de Manén, in this country. Among these were the performances of Beethoven's 'Kreutzer' and Brahms's D minor Sonatas, which he gave at Bechstein Hall on April 26, in conjunction with Mr. Frederic Lamond.

The season of the Queen's Hall Symphony Concerts came to an end on April 27 with a Beethoven programme. The performance of the 'Leonora' Overtures Nos. 1, 2 and 3 provided an interesting study, and that of the 'Emperor' Concerto, with Madame Carreño as soloist, a memorable example of combined brilliance and dignity in interpretation. The Symphony was that in C minor. M. Jacques Renard played the violoncello solo in the Adagio from the 'Prometheus' Ballet music.

Mr. Frank Merrick and Madame Hope Squire (Mrs. Frank Merrick) gave an interesting concert at Bechstein Hall on May 3, at which they both appeared in the capacity of composer. In a group of songs, sung by Mr. Gale Gardiner, and in a set of pianoforte variations on 'Black-eyed Susan,' Madame Hope Squire showed an interesting individuality and freshness of thought. Mr. Merrick's Trio in F sharp minor was played by Madame Hope Squire, Mr. Willie Woltmann and Madame Edith Evans.

Mr. Hubert Bath's 'The Wedding of Shon Maclean' was performed attractively by the Central London Choral and Orchestral Society at Portman Rooms on May 3, under the direction of Mr. David J. Thomas. Miss Helena Spicer and Mr. F. Proctor-Brown were the solo vocalists. Bantock's clever choral arrangement of 'The Cruiskeen Lawn' was in the programme.

Señor Casals gave a concert at Queen's Hall on May 4, with the help of the Queen's Hall Orchestra under Sir Henry Wood, which served to introduce M. Maurice Ravel's new orchestral suite, 'La mère l'oie' (Mother goose), a series of some of the composer's most characteristically delicate fancies. Señor Casals's playing in Violoncello concertos by Tartini and Dvorák, and in the C major Suite of Bach, was as usual beyond description.

The Wilhelm Sachse Orchestra, not behindhand in ambition or attainment, played Tchaikovsky's fifth Symphony with confident and efficient execution and high expressive meaning at Queen's Hall on May 8, under the direction of Mr. Sachse. The amateur instrumentalists also supplied helpful accompaniment to the refined interpretation of Schumann's Pianoforte concerto given by Mr. Frank Merrick. The vocalist was Miss Dorothy Silk.

To celebrate Brahms's birthday, the London Trio gave a concert of his works on May 8 at Æolian Hall. The Pianoforte trio in B major and the Pianoforte quintet received estimable interpretations—the latter with the assistance of Messrs. Hopkinson and Tomlinson. Miss Beatrice Wilson gave songs.

Mrs. Margaret Meredith gave a concert of her works at Æolian Hall on May 9, with the assistance of the London Glee Club under Mr. Arthur Fagge. The simple dignity of her style was exemplified in settings of Kipling's 'Recessional' and Owen Seaman's 'The passing of King Edward,' and in her 'Sursum Corda.' Miss Phyllis Lett and Miss Fannie Goldsborough interpreted groups of Mrs. Meredith's songs, and instrumental support was given by the composer at the pianoforte, Mr. G. Parkington (violoncellist), and by Mr. Julius Harrison at the organ.

The performance of a Symphony by Mr. Frederic Lamond at Queen's Hall on May 9 served as a reminder that he is an able composer as well as a distinguished pianist. It is a genial, easily intelligible work, in a style that was not advanced at the period of its composition, which occurred in 1889. Sir Henry Wood conducted the Queen's Hall Orchestra in the Symphony and in the accompaniments to Beethoven's G major Pianoforte concerto, finely played by Mr. Lamond, and Brahms's Violin concerto, played by M. Szigeti.

Bach's third 'Brandenburg concerto,' Dvorák's E major Serenade, 'A dream pageant,' by Mr. Frank Merrick, and other works were played by the Woltmann Orchestra at Bechstein Hall on May 9. Miss Evangeline Livens, a small pianist, played her own 'Impromptu.'

An interesting programme of music in which the harp is concerned was given by Mr. Alfred Kastner at Steinway Hall on May 10. A Suite by Julius Wachsman for harp, violin, viola and violoncello was given for the first time in England, as was also a Fantasie by Galeotti for harp alone. A new Suite by Hilse for flute and harp, and Liszt's 23rd Psalm for soprano (Miss Elisabeth Munthe-Kaas), harp and organ, were performed, and twelve harps were heard together in an arrangement of the 'Rakoczy March.' Mr. Kastner's chief assistants were Mr. F. B. Kiddle (organ), Mr. A. Fransella (flute), Mr. S. Dyke (violin), Mr. R. Jeremy (viola) and Mr. John Mundy (violoncello).

A bright-toned Ladies' Choir of twenty to thirty voices, formed by Mr. E. van der Straeten from the chorus of 'The Miracle,' was heard under his direction at Clavier Hall on May 10. The occasion served to introduce the conductor's pleasantly-written part-songs, 'Maids are simple,' 'The curfew,' and 'Crabbed age and youth,' among which the last was specially attractive.

The selections from Herr Siegfried Wagner's operas played by the London Symphony Orchestra under his direction at the Albert Hall on May 12 were inevitably subjected to damaging comparisons. To some extent these are invited by the frank or perhaps unconscious echoing of the father's music in the son's. Herr Siegfried's works cannot claim depth or striking inspiration, but they have undeniable technical merit and often considerable artistic refinement. The operas represented were 'Bruder Lustig,' 'Sternengebot,' 'Banadietrich,' 'Der Kobold,' 'Herzog Wildfang,' and 'Schwarz-Schwanenreich.' Frau Hafgren-Waag and Herr Kirchoff were the vocalists. The programme also included excerpts from Richard Wagner's works.

A Suite for flute and small orchestra by the pianist, Mr. F. S. Kelly, was played at Queen's Hall by Mr. A. Fransella and the orchestra under Sir Henry Wood's direction on May 15. It is refined, subtle, and simple. Mr. Kelly played Beethoven's G major Pianoforte concerto.

The Smallwood-Metcalfe Choir broke little fresh ground for their concert at Queen's Hall on May 15. Mr. G. A. Alcock's 'When I am dead, my dearest,' the only novelty in the programme, proved agreeably melodious.

The famous St. Petersburg Quartet gave a Tchaikovsky concert at Bechstein Hall on May 17. On May 21 they were joined by Mr. Hans Ebell in an ideal performance of Arensky's Pianoforte quintet, and were heard separately in quartets by Beethoven and Schubert. At both concerts they showed the qualities in which they are unsurpassed.

The Misses Adila, Jelly and Hortense Arányi, assisted by Madame Fanny Davies, Mr. Frank Bridge, and Mr. Percy Such, gave a varied and interesting concert at Æolian Hall on May 17. The programme included Dvorák's Pianoforte quintet.

A concert was given by the students of Trinity College of Music on May 20, when several capable vocalists and instrumentalists appeared. The former were Miss Augusta T. Tromp, Miss Margaret E. Gibson, Miss Evelyn Goudie and Mr. Rodolphe Gaillard. Among the latter, Master Alfred J. Tyler showed promise as a pianist of technical attainments. Mr. Sydney H. Sheppard (organist), Miss Blanche Laughton, with a movement from Lalo's 'Symphonie Espagnole' for the violin, and Miss Edna Purdie, a pianist of some advancement, made agreeable contributions. At the end Misses Edith Bird, Aileen Butler and Kathleen Thompson were heard in a movement from a Pianoforte trio in B minor, by Edward Cutler, K.C.

VOCAL RECITALS.

Miss Kathro Bentincke, Bechstein Hall, April 23—Three songs from 'The bard of Dimbovitza,' Liza Lehmann.

Miss Speranza Calo, Bechstein Hall, April 24—Six sacred songs, Beethoven.

Mr. Leon Rains, Bechstein Hall, April 25—'Der Wanderer,' Schubert.

M. Zareh Tiratzian, Queen's Small Hall, April 26—Russian and Armenian Songs.

Mlle. Johanna Fèrina, Bechstein Hall, April 30—'Batti, batti,' Mozart.

Mr. Roland Jackson, Æolian Hall, May 1—'It was a lover and his lass,' Morley.

Mr. Paul Reimers, Bechstein Hall, May 3—'Alte Laute' and 'Der Soldat,' Schumann.

Mr. Vernon d'Arnalle, Æolian Hall, May 6—Four serious songs, Brahms.

Miss Leila Duart, Bechstein Hall, May 7—Songs by Erich Wolff.

Mr. Ernest Groom, Æolian Hall, May 9—'O nuit Déesse du mystère,' Piccini.

Madame Lavalle, Steinway Hall, May 9—Songs by A. von Fielitz.

Madame de St. André, Bechstein Hall, May 10—'Ariette de la fausse magie,' Grétry.

Miss Meta Diestel, Steinway Hall, May 13—'Dichterliebe,' Schumann.

Miss Bessie Mark, Bechstein Hall, May 13—'Ah! fors' è lui,' Verdi.

Mr. Vivian Gosnell, Bechstein Hall, May 14—'O cessate di piargarmi,' Scarlatti.

Signor Tamini, Queen's Hall, May 14—'Quando le sere al placido,' Verdi.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Drew, Bechstein Hall, May 15—'O no, John,' arr. Cecil Sharp.

Mlle. Sonia Darbell, Æolian Hall, May 16—'Lamento d'Ariana,' Monteverde.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

Miss Madeline Price, Bechstein Hall, April 18—Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue, Bach.

Mlle. Germaine Schnitzer, Steinway Hall, April 19, 26, and May 3—Sonata Appassionata, Beethoven.

Herr Max Pauer, Bechstein Hall, April 20—Sonata in C major, Brahms.

Miss Alice Jones, Steinway Hall, April 20—Prélude, Aria and Finale, César Franck.

Mr. Frederic Lamond, Bechstein Hall, April 24—'Pathétique' and 'Moonlight' Sonatas, Beethoven.

Mr. T. P. Fielden, Æolian Hall, April 25—'Waldstein' Sonata, Beethoven.

Mr. Alexander Raab, Æolian Hall, April 27—Suite in D minor, d'Albert.

Dr. Rumschiysky, Bechstein Hall, April 29—Carnaval, Schumann.

Miss Kathleen Bruckshaw, Æolian Hall, April 30—'Tragic' and 'Keltic' Sonatas, MacDowell.

Herr Johan Wysman, Bechstein Hall, April 30—Fantasia in F sharp minor, Mendelssohn.

M. Raoul Pugno, Queen's Hall, May 1—'Faschingsschwank aus Wien,' Schumann.

Mr. Arthur Rubinstein, Bechstein Hall, May 1 and 6—Sonata in A major, Op. 21, Karol Szymanowski.

Mlle. Mania Seguel, Æolian Hall, May 2—Sonata in C major, Op. 24, Weber.

Mr. Ernst von Lengyel, Bechstein Hall, May 4 and 14—Fantasia and Fugue on the theme B A C H, Liszt.

Mr. Frederick Dawson, Steinway Hall, May 6—Sonata Appassionata, Beethoven.

Madame Carreño, Queen's Hall, May 7—'Waldstein' Sonata, Beethoven.

Miss Lilian Gaskell, St. Jonh's Hall, Richmond, May 7—Ballade in G minor, Brahms.

Miss Tora Hwass, Æolian Hall, May 8—Ballade and Intermezzo, Op. 118, Brahms.

Miss Marjorie Adam, Bechstein Hall, May 10—'Capriccio on the departure of his brother,' Bach.

Mr. Egon Petri, Æolian Hall, May 11—'Waldstein Sonata,' Beethoven.

Madame Gabrielle Leschetizky, Bechstein Hall, May 11—Humoreske, Schumann.

Mr. William Murdoch, Bechstein Hall, May 13—Three choral preludes, Bach-Busoni.

Miss Auriol Jones, Æolian Hall, May 13—Variations on a theme in D, Brahms.

Miss Evelyn Dawkin, Æolian Hall, May 14—Sonata in A major, Op. 101, Beethoven.

Mr. Nathan Fryer, Æolian Hall, May 14—Sonata, Op. 42, Schubert.

VIOLIN RECITALS.

Señor Joan Manén, Queen's Hall, April 20 (with the Queen's Hall Orchestra, conducted by Sir Henry Wood)—Introduction, Andante and Variations on a theme by Tartini, Manén.

Master Joseph Kosky, Bechstein Hall, April 25—'Symphonie Espagnole,' Lalo.

Mr. Dettmar Dressel, Bechstein Hall, April 27—Sonata in F major, Beethoven.

Mr. Frederick Stock, Steinway Hall, April 29—Chaconne, Bach.

Mr. Godfrey Ludlow, Queen's Hall, May 7 (with the Queen's Hall Orchestra, conducted by Sir Henry Wood)—Concerto in G minor, Max Bruch.

Herr Fritz Kreisler, Queen's Hall, May 8—'Devil's Trill' Sonata, Tartini.

Miss Aimée Carvel, Æolian Hall, May 8—Sonata in D, Handel.

Mr. Louis Persinger, Bechstein Hall, May 9 and 20—Concerto in E minor, Nardini.

Miss Grace Thynne, Bridgewater House, May 13—Sonata in G minor, Tartini.

Miss Yvonne Astruc, Bechstein Hall, May 16—Concerto in D minor, d'Erlanger.

Miss Marian Jay, Queen's Hall, May 17 (with the Queen's Hall Orchestra, conducted by Sir Henry Wood)—Concerto, Brahms.

Madame Armida Senatra, Bechstein Hall, May 17—Concerto in G minor, Bruch.

OTHER RECITALS AND CONCERTS.

M. Georges Pitsch (violoncello), Bechstein Hall, May 2—Sonata in D, Bach.

Miss Isobel Purdon (violin) and Miss Celia Klein (vocalist), Æolian Hall, May 4—Sonata in A minor, Beethoven; 'When I am laid in earth,' Purcell.

Mr. Arrigo Provvedi (violoncello), Steinway Hall, May 8—Introduction and Polonaise Brillante, Chopin.

Miss Janet Wheeler (pianoforte), and Señor Rubio (violoncello), Steinway Hall, May 8—A Bach programme.

Miss Emma Davidson (vocalist), Miss Dorothea Walwyn (violinist), and Mr. Percival Garratt (pianist), Æolian Hall, May 10—Songs from the 'Brautlieder Cycle,' Cornelius; Sonatensatz in C minor (violin and pianoforte), Brahms.

Miss Mina Rode (violin), and Mr. Fred Helwig (vocalist), Æolian Hall, May 13—Ballade and Polonaise, Vieuxtemps.

Señor Pablo Casals (violoncello), Queen's Hall, May 16—Sonata in E minor, Brahms (with Mr. Arthur Rubinstein).

Miss May Mukle (violoncello), Bechstein Hall, May 17—Invocation, Von Holst.

The concerts given recently by several of the L.C.C. Choral Unions are described in the School Music Review for June.

Suburban Concerts.

The Lewisham Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. Frank Idle, gave an excellent performance of Elgar's 'King Olaf' at the Blackheath Concert Hall on April 18, the soloists being Miss Ada Forrest, Mr. William Maxwell, and Mr. Julien Henry. The second part of the programme consisted of Hubert Bath's 'Wedding of Shon Maclean,' the choir singing with full appreciation of the humour of the work. The accompaniments were played by a full professional orchestra, led by Mr. George Wilby.

A highly-expressive interpretation of Elgar's 'King Olaf' brought the season of the West Norwood Choral Society to a close on April 18, and constituted a popular and artistic success of great credit to the choir and to the conductor, Mr. Percy S. Bright. Such varied numbers as 'I am the god Thor' and 'A little bird in the air' were sung with equal conviction and precision. The solo parts were taken by Miss Retta McAllister, Mr. Richard Ripley, and Mr. Robert Buckland.

On April 18, at the Hammersmith Town Hall, the Cavendish Choir held their twelfth annual concert in aid of the Hospital Saturday Fund. The well-trained choralists, under the direction of their founder and very popular conductor, Madame Grace Evans, gave a highly creditable performance of Henry Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron,' which was marked by clear enunciation and sympathetic expression. The solos were sustained by Miss Barwell Holbrook, Mr. Harold Batt and Mr. William Bond. The choir also sang Parry's 'Descend, ye Nine,' Leslie's 'Song of the Flax-spinner,' and Eaton Faning's fine 'Song of the Vikings.'

A highly-successful concert was given on April 20 by the Hampstead Garden Suburb Male-Voice Choir, under the direction of Mr. T. J. Daniel. Protheroe's 'The Crusaders' and de Rillé's 'Martyrs of the arena' provided the best example of the choir's creditable efficiency. The programme also included Walford Davies's 'Hymn before action,' and Bantock's arrangement of 'Down among the dead men.'

The Stroud Green Choral Association gave a concert on April 23 in St. Luke's Hall, Mayfield Road, Stroud Green. The choral items included in the programme were: Elgar's arrangement of the National Anthem, Somerville's part-song, 'Who rides for the King?' Percy Fletcher's 'Choral Rhapsody on Welsh Airs,' Elgar's 'Go, song of mine,' Hurlstone's choral ballad, 'Alfred the Great,' and Roberton's part-song, 'King Arthur.' Solos were contributed by Madame Lily Jönsson, Mr. F. C. Chanin, Mr. Wilfrid Lawrence, and Mr. W. E. Shepperd (vocalists), Miss Doris Webb (reciter), Miss Mabel Gidden (violinist), and Miss Ethel Osborn (pianist). The accompanist was Mr. C. F. Warner, and Mr. H. J. Timothy conducted.

The Richmond Philharmonic Society gave the final concert of the season on April 24, when the principal choral work was Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan.' The orchestra played Schumann's Symphony in C and the Overtures 'Ruy Blas' (Mendelssohn) and 'Die Freischütz' (Weber). Dr. C. E. Jolley conducted, and the soloists were Miss Doris Pimm, Miss Lily Gover, Mr. A. Webster and Mr. Stewart Gardner.

The Bermondsey Settlement Choral Society, conducted by Dr. J. E. Borland, gave an interesting miscellaneous concert on April 25, with Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer' as the chief work on the list. The soprano soloist was Miss Mary Leighton. Miss Effie Martyn, Miss Louie Stubbs, Mr. Dan Price, and the Grimson Trio also took part.

A concert was given at Leytonstone on April 25 by the Hainault Glee and Madrigal Choir, a body of thirty voices formed by Mr. John Cook about a year ago. The standard of achievement already obtained by this enterprising Choir was indicated by a programme that included the madrigals 'My bonny lass she smileth,' by Morley, 'The messenger of the delightful Spring,' by Pilkington, and 'Matona, lovely maiden,' by Lassus, Cornelius's 'So soft and warm,' Reger's 'A joyous Easter song,' Elgar's 'My love dwelt in a Northern land,' and other well-chosen numbers. The artistic aspirations that dictated this choice were borne out by excellent performances under Mr. Cook's direction.

No more impressive singing has been heard in or near London recently than that of the Alexandra Palace Choral Society, under Mr. Allen Gill's direction on April 27, in Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch' and Wesley's 'In exitu Israel.' The technical beauty and the grandeur of the performance of the anthem will live long in the memory. Sullivan's 'In Memoriam' Overture was the chief contribution of the orchestra.

The Crystal Palace Orchestral Society and Choir brought their season to a close on April 27 with a Bohemian concert, at which Hurlstone's Ballad for chorus and orchestra, 'King Alfred,' was performed efficiently and with attractive spirit under the direction of Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock.

The greatest artistic success in the history of the Ealing Philharmonic Society was obtained on April 27, when the fiftieth concert of the Society took place. Under the able guidance of Mr. E. Victor Williams, the choir and orchestra gave an admirable interpretation of Coleridge-Taylor's popular cantata, 'A tale of Old Japan.' The expression, accuracy, and vocal properties of the singing more than upheld the reputation of the choir. The principals were Miss Clytie Hine, Miss Alice Booth, Mr. George Brierley, and Mr. Joseph Farrington. At the close, Mr. Williams was the recipient of a handsome presentation in honour of his fifteen years' work as conductor.

The Balham Orchestral Society gave their first orchestral concert at the Parochial Hall, Balham, on May 1, under the conductorship of Mr. Allan Brown. The orchestra of forty-nine performers played works by Schubert, Grieg, Handel, and others. The soloists were Miss Gertrude Maxted, Mr. Gwilym Richards, Mr. Thomas Lynes, Miss Eda Dyer (violin), and Mr. W. Hiram Henton (leader). Mr. Ernest Haywood acted as acccompanist.

A concert-version of 'The Sorcerer' (Gilbert and Sullivan) and Mr. Percy Fletcher's choral fantasia on 'Die Meistersinger' were the chief works performed by the Munro Davison Choral Society at the Northern Polytechnic on May 9. The programme also included the conductor's 'Annabel Lee.' The singing of the choir had life and good tone, and capable solo work was done by pupils of Mr. Davison. Mr. Herbert Hodge (organist) and Miss Maud Crouch (pianist) supplied accompaniments.

The closing concert of the season by the East and West Molesey Choral Society took place on May 9, when a very successful performance of Cowen's 'Rose maiden' was given, under the conductorship of Mr. Cecil Abbott, organist of the Parish Church, who is to be congratulated upon the fine work of the choir. The gem of the evening was the chorus, ''Tis thy wedding morning,' which was readily encored. The principals, Miss M. Perrott, Miss W. Fink, Mr. S. Masters, and Mr. B. J. Bonor, acquitted themselves in a creditable manner. Miss Nellie Ridding led a small but good orchestra with ability.

The complete cycle of Coleridge-Taylor's 'The song of Hiawatha' was sung by the Kingston Congregational Church Choir at the Assembly Rooms, Surbiton. In the absence, owing to an injury, of Mr. G. Eaton Hart, the duties of conductor were fulfilled by Mr. H. A. Wellard. The exacting task undertaken by the choir of sixty and the orchestra of twenty-five was ably carried out, and the interpretation was one of considerable spirit and expressive merit. The soloists were Miss Marion Perrott, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. Bertram Mills.

Scenes from Elgar's 'King Olaf' supplied the bulk of the programme ably carried out by the Finchley Musical Society and Orchestra at Woodside Hall recently, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Baggs. The principal artists were Mrs. W. Hollis, Mr. George Foxon, and Mr. Montague Borwell. Miss Maud Crouch was at the pianoforte.

The annual meeting of the Tonic Sol-fa Association took place at the Park Hall, Cardiff, on May 10, with the Lord Mayor of Cardiff in the chair, and Lord Pontypridd, Dr. Coward, and Professor David Evans as chief speakers. Demonstrations of sight-singing and musical dictation were conducted by Mr. W. T. Samuel, and a choral programme was provided by the Cardiff Harmonic Society and juvenile choirs from the district. A full report is given in the School Music Review for June.

Music in the Provinces.

(BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

BIRMINGHAM.

The Moody-Manners Opera Company gave a week's operatic season at the Prince of Wales Theatre, from April 22 to April 27, the only novelty connected with their visit being the first performance here of the dramatised version of Mendelssohn's oratorio 'Elijah.' Much interest was attached to this event inasmuch as 'Elijah' has always been—ever since it was first given here in 1846, under the composer's direction—the most attractive oratorio for local audiences. In some ways the stage production proved a disappointment, as there was little action and the few dramatic instances fell somewhat flat, the only really stirring episode being the scene with Elijah and the Widow, which was exceedingly well enacted. Mr. Graham Marr quite carried off the honours, his magnificent and earnest singing in the rôle of the Prophet being remarkably impressive. The chorus was augmented by a contingent of local choristers culled from various choral Societies, to whom the choral portion of the oratorio offered no difficulties. The other operas given were 'Carmen,' 'Faust,' 'Maritana,' 'Tannhäuser' and 'The Bohemian Girl.'

The great musical event of the month was the Midland Musical Competition Festival, an account of which appears in the Competition Festival Record.

The eighth annual season of the Theatre Royal Promenade Concerts will be held from June 3 to June 22, under the direction of Mr. Max Mossel, and under the conductorship of Mr. Landon Ronald as hitherto. The scheme is an interesting one, and of special interest will be the first performance here of the 'Jena' Symphony. Elgar will be represented by his two Symphonies.

BOURNEMOUTH.

But a momentary cessation of musical activity is entailed by the ending of the winter season, for the summer season treads close upon its heels, and although during the next few months there will be an appreciable slackening in matters artistic, yet sufficient will be going on to occupy the attention of that section of the public which is unable to follow any but sedentary pursuits.

In connection with the future, it would not be out of place at this point to emphasise the fact that on May 13 a vital reorganization of the Borough's musical arrangements came into force. The 'double-handed' instrumentalists are now done away with, and from henceforward the Municipal Orchestra and the Municipal Military Band will be two totally distinct bodies. The financial considerations attaching to this change have been very complex, but great credit is due to Mr. Dan Godfrey that he has been enabled to launch his scheme upon what he hopes will prove to be a profitable basis; it would be superfluous, of course, to speak of the vastly increased artistic efficiency that will arise out of the new policy.

Adverting to the concluding weeks of the winter series of concerts, allusion must first be made to the Symphony Concerts. At the request of many subscribers to these excellent concerts a Beethoven programme was put forward at the thirtieth Symphony Concert on April 25, the very interesting selection of works comprising the 'Egmont' Overture, the C minor Symphony, the Rondino in E flat for wood-wind and horns (a charming yet little-known composition that is much appreciated in Bournemouth), and the G major Pianoforte concerto. The large audience was rewarded by some very fine orchestral playing, and by a delightfully expressive performance of the Concerto at the hands of Mrs. Farnell-Watson, the talented artist who is associated with Mr. Hamilton Law in the direction of the Bournemouth School of Music. Interest in the two remaining concerts was concentrated upon Glazounow's Symphony No. 7, in F, Wagner's 'Siegfried Idyll,' Beethoven's Ninth Symphony (the choral section omitted), and the performances of Godard's 'Concerto Romantique' for violin and two movements of Reinecke's Harp concerto by Miss Leila Doubleday and Miss Jacoba Wolters (of the Municipal Orchestra) respectively. The first-named artist hardly

No. 1136. MY DELIGHT AND THY DELIGHT.—C. Hubert H. Parry. Price 3*d.*

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

A COLLECTION OF PART-SONGS, GLEES, AND MADRIGALS.

IN VOLUMES, CLOTH, GILT, 5s. EACH; OR IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

FIRST SERIES.

No.			No.
17	All among the barley (Prize)	E. Stirling 2d.	11	Integer Vitæ. T.T.B.B.	Fleming 4d.
20	An emigrant's song	W. Macfarren 2d.	24	June (She is coming) (Prize). S.S.A.	Finlay Dun 2d
25	Awake! the starry midnight hour (Serenade)	Mendelssohn 2d.	10	Magdalen College song (Lily, sweet lily)	S.S.A.B. Monk 2d.
3	Boating song (The sun is high)	E. G. Monk 2d.	27	O happy he who liveth. S.S.A.T.B.	Gastoldi 2d.
36	Come away, death. S.A.T.T.B.	G. A. Macfarren 3d.	12	Orpheus with his lute	G. A. Macfarren 4d.
14	Come, heavy sleep	Douland 2d.	1	Our native land	G. Reichardt 2d.
8	Countryman's song (Oh, the sweet contentment)	Rimbault 3d.	22	Pedlar's song	Douland 2d.
2	Cricketers' song (Bestir ye). T.T.B.	G. A. Macfarren 2d.	21	Shepherds' song (Turn, Amarillis)	Brewer 3d
29	Dirge (The glories of our birth)	S. Wesley 2d.	4	Song of the railroads	G. A. Macfarren 3d.
23	Fairies' song (From grassy blades). S.S.S.S.	H. R. Bishop 6d.	30	The angler's trysting-tree	J. Corfe 3d.
15	Fisherman's song. S.S.A.T.B.	E. F. Rimbault 2d.	31	The dream (Prize)	R. P. Stewart 2d
34	Football song (Brawling Boreas blows)	E. G. Monk 3d.	26	The fair flower of Northumberland	E. F. Rimbault 2d.
32	God speed the plough. S.A.T.T.	E. Richter 2d.	6	The home fairy (Quartet). T.T.B.B.	Winter 2d.
5	Good morrow, fair ladies. S.S.T.	T. Morley 2d.	19	The jolly cricket-ball	E. G. Monk 2d.
28	Green leaves (Prize). S.A.T.B.	Bianchi Taylor 2d.	9	The students' greeting. T.T.B.B.	Berner 2d.
13	Harvest song (Prize). S.A.T.B.	W. Macfarren 2d.	33	There is a ladie sweete	Ford 2d.
35	Haymakers' song (Prize)	R. P. Stewart 3d.	7	The wreath	J. Benedict 2d.
16	In all thy need	Douland 2d.	18	When icicles hang by the wall	G. A. Macfarren 2d.

SECOND SERIES.

VOL. I.—SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

No.
37	Old May-day, in A	1½d.
38	Invocation to Sleep	3d.
39	A Night Song	3d.
40	Dirge for the faithful lover	1½d.
41	A Drinking Song (T.T.B.B.)	3d.
42	Sylvan pleasures	4d.

HENRY SMART.

43	Consolation	1½d.
44	Good night, thou glorious Sun	1½d.
45	Hunting Song	1½d.
46	Lady, rise, sweet Morn's awaking	1½d.
47	Summer Morning	1½d.
48	The Sea King	1½d.

G. A. MACFARREN.

49	Orpheus with his lute	1½d.
50	When Icicles hang	1½d.
51	Come away, Death (S.A.T.T.B.)	3d.
52	When Daisies pied	3d.
53	Who is Sylvia	1½d.
54	Fear no more the heat o' the Sun	3d.
55	Blow, blow, thou Winter Wind	1½d.

J. L. HATTON.

56	The Belfry Tower	1½d.
57	England	1½d.
58	Come, celebrate the May	1½d.
59	Song to Pan	1½d.
60	The Indian Maid	1½d.
61	The Pearl Divers	4d.

VOL. II.—G. A. MACFARREN.

62	Robin Goodfellow	3d.
63	Break, break on thy cold grey stones	1½d.
64	Echoes (The Splendour falls)	1½d.
65	Song of the Railroads	1½d.
66	Christmas	3d.
67	Adieu, Love, Adieu	3d.

C. A. MACIRONE.

68	Sir Knight, Sir Knight	1½d.
69	The Wounded Cupid	1½d.
70	Woman's smile	3d.
71	Autolycus' Song	1½d.
72	Footsteps of Angels	3d.
73	The Sun shines fair on Carlisle wall	1½d.

HENRY LESLIE.

74	The Pilgrims	1½d.
75	My soul to God, my heart to thee	3d.
76	Awake, awake, the flowers unfold	1½d.
77	How sweet the moonlight sleeps	1½d.
78	Land, Ho!	1½d.
79	Up, up, ye Dames	1½d.

VOL. II. (continued).

No.
80	Thine eyes so bright	H. Leslie	4d.
81	All is not gold	Westbrook	3d.
82	Hark how the birds	H. Lahee	3d.
83	All ye woods (S.S.A.T.B.)	Do.	1½d.
84	My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.)	H. Leslie	1½d.
85	Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.)	Do.	3d.

VOL. III.—HENRY HILES.

86	When twilight dews	1½d.
87	A Finland love song	1½d.
88	Evening	1½d.
89	To the Morning Wind	3d.
90	To Daffodils	3d.
91	Summer longings	3d.

FRANCESCO BERGER.

92	Night, lovely Night	1½d.
93	Essay, my Heart	3d.
94	Childhood's melody	1½d.
95	Now	3d.
96	Sunset	1½d.
97	Arise, the sunbeams hail	3d.

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.

98	Night winds that so gently flow	1½d.
99	Breathe soft, ye Winds	1½d.
100	My lady is so wondrous fair	1½d.
101	Chivalry of Labour (S.S.A.T.B.)	4d.
102	Come, fill, my boys (A.T.T.B.)	3d.
103	Echoes	1½d.

J. BARNBY.

104	Phœbus	1½d.
105	Luna	1½d.
106	A Wife's Song	1½d.
107	Home they brought	1½d.
108	Annie Lee	1½d.
109	Starry Crowns of Heaven	1½d.
110	The Wind	3d.
111	The Skylark	1½d.

G. A. MACFARREN.

112	The Sands of Dee	1½d.
113	Alton Locke's Song	1½d.
114	The Starlings	1½d.
115	The Three Fishers	1½d.
116	The World's Age	1½d.
117	Sing, heigh ho	1½d.

VOL. IV.—A. ZIMMERMANN.

118	Fairy Song	1½d.
119	Good Night	1½d.
120	Gone for ever	3d.
121	Flowers	3d.
122	To Daffodils	1½d.
123	Good Morrow	3d.

VOL. IV. (continued).
G. A. MACFARREN.

No.
124	Sigh no more, ladies	3d.
125	You spotted snakes (S.S.A.A.)	3d.
126	Take, oh, take those lips away	1½d
127	It was a lover and his lass	4d.
128	O mistress mine	1½d.
129	Under the greenwood tree	1½d.
130	Hark, the lark	3d.
131	Tell me where is fancy bred	1½d.

HENRY LESLIE.

132	The Violet	3d.
133	One morning sweet in May	3d.
134	Daylight is fading	1½d.
135	Down in a pretty valley	1½d.
136	The Primrose	1½d.
137	Arise, sweet love	1½d.

HENRY SMART.

138	'Tis break of day	2d.
139	My true love hath my heart	2d.
140	Doth not my lady come	1½d.
141	Spring Song	1½d.
142	The Curfew	1½d.
143	Hear, sweet spirit	1½d.

SAMUEL REAY.

144	Spring Voices	3d.
145	Waken, lords and ladies gay	3d.
146	As it fell upon a day	3d.
147	Huntsman, rest	3d.
148	'Tis May upon the mountain	3d.
149	Take, oh, take those lips away	1½d.

VOL. V.—ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

150	The Rainy Day	1½d.
151	Oh, hush thee, my babie	3d.
152	Evening	1½d.
153	Joy to the Victors	2d.
154	Parting gleams	1½d.
155	Echoes	1½d.

W. MACFARREN

156	Spring	1½d.
157	Summer	1½d.
158	Autumn	3d.
159	Winter	3d.
160	You stole my love	1½d.
161	Dainty love	1½d.

J. LEMMENS.

162	Drops of Rain	1½d.
163	The Fairy Ring	3d
164	The Light of Life	3d.
165	Oh, welcome him	3d.
166	Sunshine through the clouds	3d.
167	The Corn Field	3d,

VOL. V. (continued).

HENRY SMART.

No.
168	Wake! to the hunting	1½d.
169	Dost thou idly ask	3d.
170	A Psalm of Life	1½d.
171	Only Thou	1½d.
172	I prithee send me back my heart ...	1½d.
173	The Moon	3d.

CIRO PINSUTI.

174	A Spring Song...	3d.
175	An Autumn Song	3d.
176	The Two Spirits	3d.
177	The Crusaders...	1½d.
178	The Caravan	1½d.
179	Stradella	3d.

VOL. VI.—J. L. HATTON.

180	When evening's twilight	1½d.
181	Absence	1½d.
182	April showers	1½d.
183	The red, red rose	1½d.
184	Beware, beware	1½d.
185	The Sailor's Song	1½d.
186	Good Night	1½d.
187	Blythe is the bird	2d.
188	Stars of the summer night	1½d.
189	The hemlock-tree	4d.
190	Jack Frost	1½d.
191	I loved her	3d.
192	The Village Blacksmith	1½d.
193	The Bait (Come, live with me) ...	1½d.
194	Softly fall the shades of evening ...	3d.
195	Auburn (Sweet village)	3d.
196	Bird of the wilderness	3d.
197	The Summer gale	2d.
198	I met her in the quiet lane	2d.
199	If thou art sleeping	3d.
200	Spring Song	3d.
201	Good wishes	3d.
202	Parting and Meeting	2d.
203	Whether kissed by sunbeams ...	3d.
204	The roses are blushing	1½d.
205	The Rivals	3d.
206	The village dance	3d.
207	Song of the Gipsy maidens	1½d.
208	The Waterfall	3d.
209	Over hill, over dale	3d.
210	Love me little, love me long ...	3d.
211	Going a-maying	3d.
212	See, the rooks are homeward flying	3d.
213	Sweet Lady moon	3d.
214	Hark, the Convent bells are ringing	3d.

VOL. VII.—J. L. HATTON.

MALE VOICES.

215	When evening's twilight	1½d.
216	Warrior's Song	3d.
217	Absence...	2d.
218	April showers	1½d.
219	The red, red rose	3d.
220	Beware, beware	1½d.
221	The happiest land	1½d.
222	The Sailor's Song	3d.
223	Busy, curious, thirsty fly	2d.
224	Good night, beloved...	2d.
225	Bacchanalian Song	3d.
226	Stars of the summer night	1½d.
227	King Witlaf's drinking horn ...	3d.
228	Tars' Song	3d.
229	The hemlock-tree	4d.
230	Jack Frost	3d.
231	The Lye	3d.
232	I loved her	3d.
233	The Village Blacksmith	3d.
234	The Letter	3d.
235	Shall I wasting in despair	3d.
236	The way to build a boat	4d.
237	I loved a lass, a fair one	4d.
238	The Lifeboat	3d.

VOL. VIII.—HENRY SMART.

239	The Shepherd's farewell	1½d.
240	The waves' reproof	3d
241	Ave Maria	1½d.
242	Spring	2d.
243	Morning...	3d.
244	Hymn to Cynthia	1½d.
245	Cradle Song	1½d.
246	The joys of Spring	3d.
247	Dream, baby, dream	1½d.
248	A song for the Seasons	3d.
249	O say not that my heart is cold ...	2d.
250	Love and mirth	3d.

VOL. VIII. (continued).

HENRY SMART.

No.
251	Sweet vesper hymn	3d.
252	Crocuses and Snowdrops	1½d.
253	Stars of the summer night	1½d.
254	Wind thy horn	3d.
255	The land of wonders	3d.
256	Ye little birds that sit and sing ...	2d.
257	How soft the shades of evening creep	1½d.
258	How sweet is summer morning ...	2d.
259	Now May is here	3d.

VOL. IX.—WALTER MACFARREN.

260	Hunting Song	1½d.
261	Summer Song	3d.
262	The Curfew bell	3d.
263	The Warrior	3d.
264	Love's heigh-ho !	3d.
265	Good-night, good rest...	3d.
266	The Fairies	1½d.
267	Cradle Song	3d.
268	Morning Song	3d.
269	Ye pretty birds	3d.
270	More life	3d.
271	Sweet content	3d.
272	Sea Song ... ... (T.T.B.B.)	3d.
273	The stars are with the voyager ,,	2d.
274	Autumn ... ... ,,	3d.
275	Highland War Song ... ... ,,	3d.
276	Shortest and longest ... ... ,,	3d.
277	Windlass Song ... ... ,,	3d.
278	O Lady, leave thy silken thread ...	3d.
279	Lover's Parting...	3d.
280	Shepherds all and maidens fair ...	1½d.
281	Night, sable goddess	3d.
282	Hence, all you vain delights... ...	3d.
283	Swallow, swallow, hither wing ...	3d.

VOL. X.—R. L. DE PEARSALL.

284	The Hardy Norseman...	1½d.
285	Nymphs are sporting	3d.
286	O who will o'er the downs	1½d.
286*	O who will o'er the downs (A.T.T.B.)	1½d.
287	Who shall win my lady fair	1½d.
288	Why with toil	1½d.
289	When Allen-a-Dale went a-hunting	1½d.
290	I saw lovely Phillis. Madrigal ...	1½d.
291	The River Spirit's song (A.T.T.B.)	3d.
292	It was upon a Spring-tide day. (5 v.)	3d.
293	Take heed, ye shepherd swains ...	1½d.
294	Spring returns. Madrigal (S.S.A.T.B.)	2d.
295	Great god of love. 8 voices. Madgl.	3d.
296	In dulci jubilo. Christmas Carol ...	3d.
297	The song of the Frank companies ...	3d.
298	How bright in the May-time... ...	3d.
299	The Winter Song	3d.
300	The Bishop of Mentz	1½d.
301	When last I strayed	2d.
302	See how smoothly	2d.
303	Let us all go maying	2d.
304	List! Lady, be not coy. (S.S.A.T.T.B.)	3d.
305	O ye roses. Madrigal ,,	3d.
306	Sing we and chaunt it. Double Choir	2d.
307	Ditto, for 4 voices	2d.
308	The Red Wine flows ... (T.T.B.B.)	2d.
309	Shoot, false love, I care not	1½d.

VOL. XI.—R. L. DE PEARSALL.

310	Laugh not, Youth, at Age. Madrigal	4d.
311	Down in my garden fair ,,	3d.
312	Adieu! my native shore	2d.
313	Purple glow the forest mountains ...	2d.
314	Caput apri defero	3d.
315	A Chieftain to the Highlands ...	2d.
316	A King there was in Thule	2d.
317	Come, let us be merry...	2d.
318	Mihi est propositum ... (A.T.B.B.)	2d.
319	Light of my soul. Madrigal (S.S.A.T.B.B.)	3d.
320	Lay a garland. Madrigal for 8 voices	3d.
321	Summer is y-coming in. (S.S.A.T.B.B.)	2d.
322	Why should the Cuckoo's. Madrigal	3d.
323	Why weep, alas ! Madrigal	3d.
324	There is a paradise on earth (A.T.B.B.)	3d.
325	O! all ye ladies fair and true ,,	2d.
326	War Song of the Norman Baron ...	2d.
327	Why do the roses. Madrigal ...	2d.
328	Sweet as a flower in May. Madrigal	2d.
329	The praise of good wine (T.T.B.B.)	2d.
330	The Watchman's Song (T.T.B.B.) / do. do. (S.A.T.B.)	2d.
331	The Waters of Elle ... (S.S.A.T.B)	2d.
332	No! no! Nigella. For Double Choir	2d.
333	Sir Patrick Spens. In 10 parts ...	4d.

VOL. XII.—ROBERT FRANZ.

No.
334	Already snow has fallen	1½d.
335	At parting	1½d.
336	The fairest time...	1½d.
337	Spring's faith	1½d.
338	May Song	1½d.
339	A morning walk...	3d.

FRANZ ABT.

340	Home that I love	1½d.
341	Eventide	1½d.
342	O thou world so fair	3d.
343	Spring's awaking	1½d.
344	Night Song	1½d.
345	Evening glow on the woods	3d.

F. HENSEL, née MENDELSSOHN.

346	Dost thou hear the trees	1½d.
347	The unknown land	3d.
348	In Autumn	1½d.
349	Morning greeting	3d.
350	The woodland valley	1½d.
351	When woods are glowing	3d.

A. C. MACKENZIE.

352	How I love the festive boy	3d.
353	Autumn	1½d.
354	When Spring	4d.
355	The day of love...	3d.
356	The stars are with the voyager ...	1½d.

E. PROUT.

357	Hail to the chief	4d.

J. L. HATTON.

358	At the coming of the Spring... ...	3d.
359	Calm night	3d.
360	Come, live with me	3d.
361	Echo's last word	1½d.
362	He that hath a pleasant face... ...	1½d.
363	Keep time, keep time	3d.
364	Lo, the peaceful shades	1½d
365	Not for me the lark is singing ...	3d.

VOL. XIII.

366	Spring, the sweet Spring	Hatton	3d.
367	Take heart ... ... ,,		3d.
368	The fishing boat ... ,,		1½d.
369	The lark ... ... ,,		3d.
370	The moon shone calmly bright ,,		3d.
371	The reproach ... ... ,,		1½d.
372	The swing ... ... ,,		3d.
373	The wrecked hope ... ,,		3d.
374	Twilight ... ... ,,		1½d.
375	Twilight now is round us ,,		3d.
376	What is got by sighing ? ,,		3d.
377	Where shall the lover rest ,,		1½d.
378	Night	Gounod	3d.
379	The dawn of day ...	S. Reay	4d.
380	The calm of the sea ...	H. Hiles	4d.
381	The wreck of the Hesperus ,,		6d.
382	Uncertain light	Schumann	3d.
383	Confidence. Double Chorus ,,		3d.
384	The Dream ... ... ,,		1½d.
385	The Boat... ... ... ,,		3d.
386	Spring's approach. Seymour Egerton		3d.
387	Wild rose... ... ,,		3d.
388	In the woods ... ,,		3d.
389	The rose and the soul ,,		1½d.
390	Adieu to the woods ,,		3d.
391	King Winter ... ,,		3d.
392	The Miller ...	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.

VOL. XIV.

393	At first the mountain rill	Macfarren	1½d.
394	All is still ... ... ,,		1½d.
395	Sleep! the bird is in its nest	J. Barnby	3d.
396	Hushed in death ...	H. Hiles	6d.
397	Evening (It is the hour)	Hy. Leslie	1½d.
398	Now the bright morning star ,,		3d.
399	Boat Song (Hail to the chief) ,,		1½d.
400	The triumph of Death	C. Holland	3d.
401	Now the bright morning star	Pierson	3d.
402	The bright-haired morn	S. Reay	3d.
403	Red o'er the forest ... ,,		3d.
404	Sweet is the breath of early morn ,,		3d.
405	Where wavelets rippled	Ciro Pinsut	6d.
406	We'll gaily sing and play ,,		6d.
407	Gently falls the evening	Marenzio	3d.
408	Lilies white, crimson roses (5 v.) ,,		3d.
409	The shepherd's pipes (5 v.) ,,		3d.
410	Spring returns (5 v.) ... ... ,,		3d.
411	See where with rapid bound (6 v.) ,,		3d.
412	Those dainty daffodillies (5 v.)	Morley	3d.
413	Dainty, fine, sweet nymph ,, ,,		3d.
414	Shoot, false love, I care not ,, ,,		3d.
415	O say what nymph (6 v.)	Palestrina	3d.

The Musical Times. EXTRA SUPPLEMENT. June 1, 1912.

No. 1136. NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK. Price 3*d.*
(SECOND SERIES.)

MY DELIGHT AND THY DELIGHT

FOUR-PART SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY ROBERT BRIDGES

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.

Copyright, 1909, by Novello and Company, Limited.

allargando.
. . . Twi-ning to a tongue of fire, Leap-ing live, and laugh-ing higher, Thro' the Twi - ning to a tongue of fire, Leap-ing live, and laugh-ing higher, Thro' the Twi - ning to a tongue of fire, Leap-ing live, and laugh-ing higher, Thro' the allargando.
sf tranquillo. p pp
ev - er - last-ing strife, In the mys - - te - ry of life.
ev - er - last-ing strife, In the mys - - te - ry of life.
ev - er - last-ing strife, In the mys - - te-ry of life.
ev - er - last-ing strife, In the mys - te - ry of life.
sf p tranquillo. pp
animato. f cres. animando. p
Love, from whom the world be-gun, Hath the se - - cret of the sun. Love can Love, from whom the world be-gun, Hath the se - cret of the sun. Love can Love, from whom the world be-gun, Hath the se - cret of the sun. Love . .
Love, from whom the world be-gun, Hath the se - cret of the sun. Love can animato. animando.
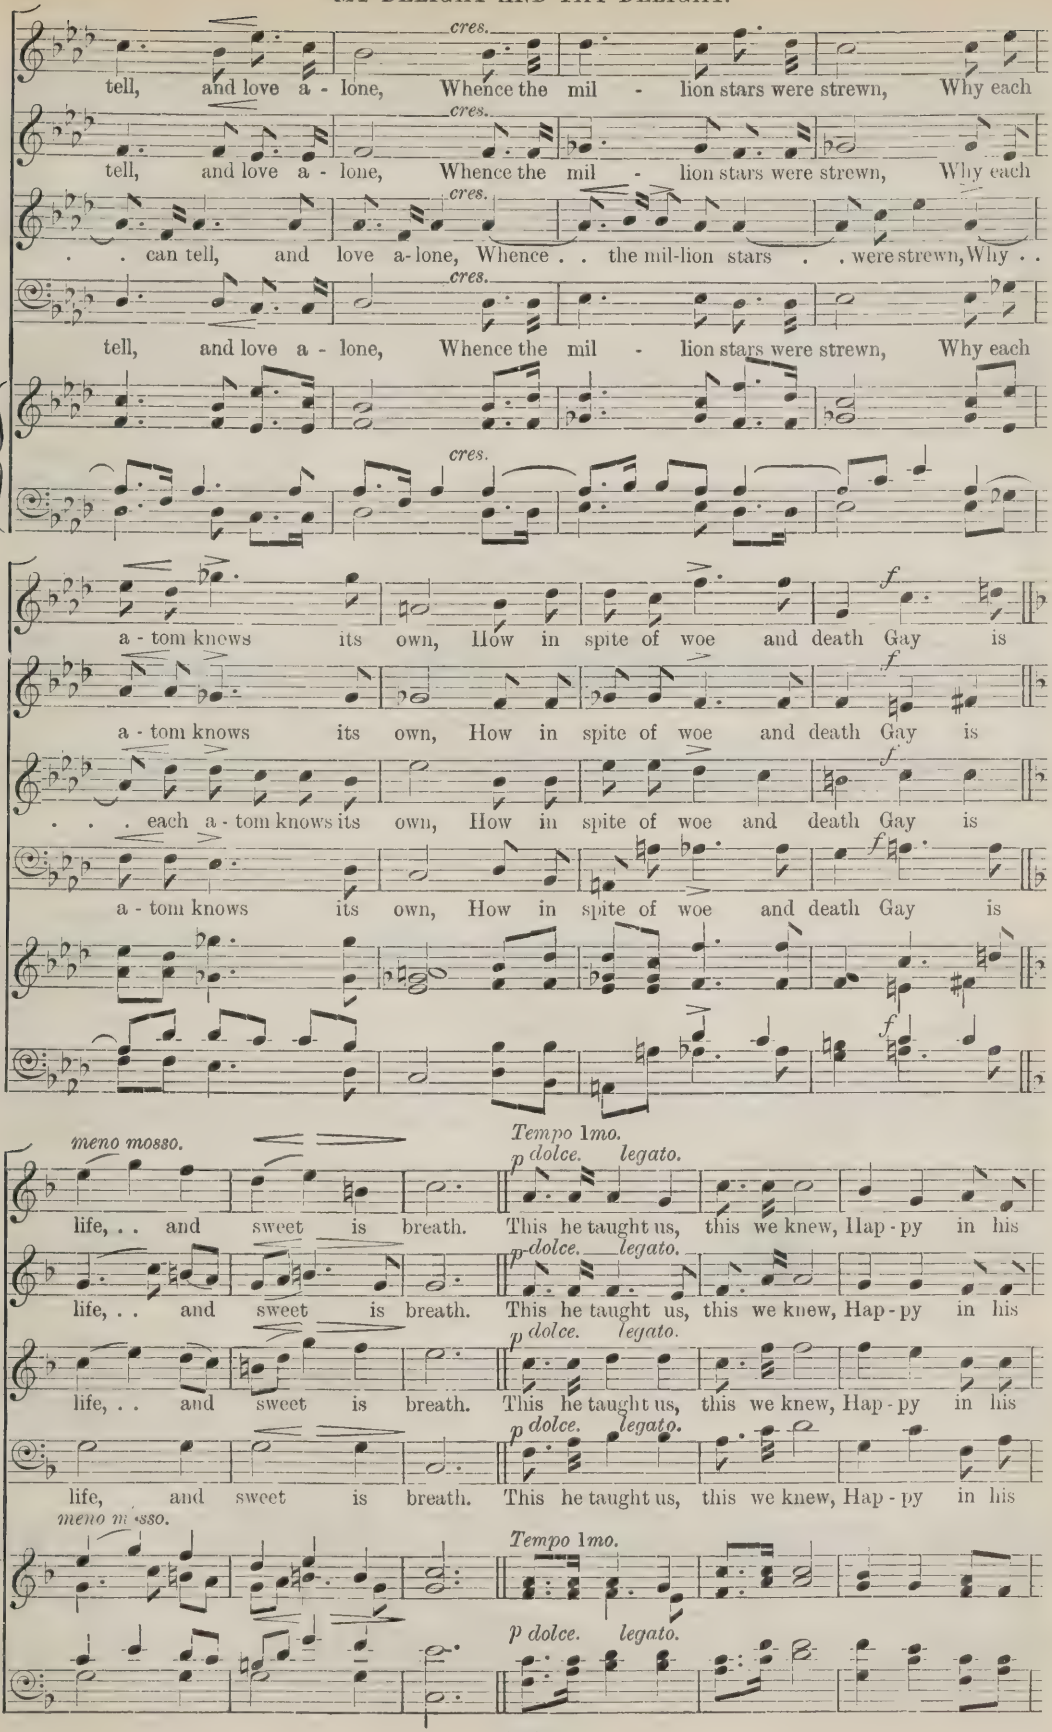
f cres. p



cres.
tell, and love a - lone, Whence the mil - lion stars were strewn, Why each tell, and love a - lone, Whence the mil - lion stars were strewn, Why each
. . can tell, and love a-lone, Whence . . the mil-lion stars . . were strewn, Why . .
tell, and love a - lone, Whence the mil - lion stars were strewn, Why each a - tom knows its own, How in spite of woe and death Gay is a - tom knows its own, How in spite of woe and death Gay is
. . . each a - tom knows its own, How in spite of woe and death Gay is a - tom knows its own, How in spite of woe and death Gay is meno mosso.
Tempo 1mo.
p dolce. legato.
life, . . and sweet is breath. This he taught us, this we knew, Hap - py in his life, . . and sweet is breath. This he taught us, this we knew, Hap - py in his life, . . and sweet is breath. This he taught us, this we knew, Hap - py in his life, and sweet is breath. This he taught us, this we knew, Hap - py in his meno mosso.
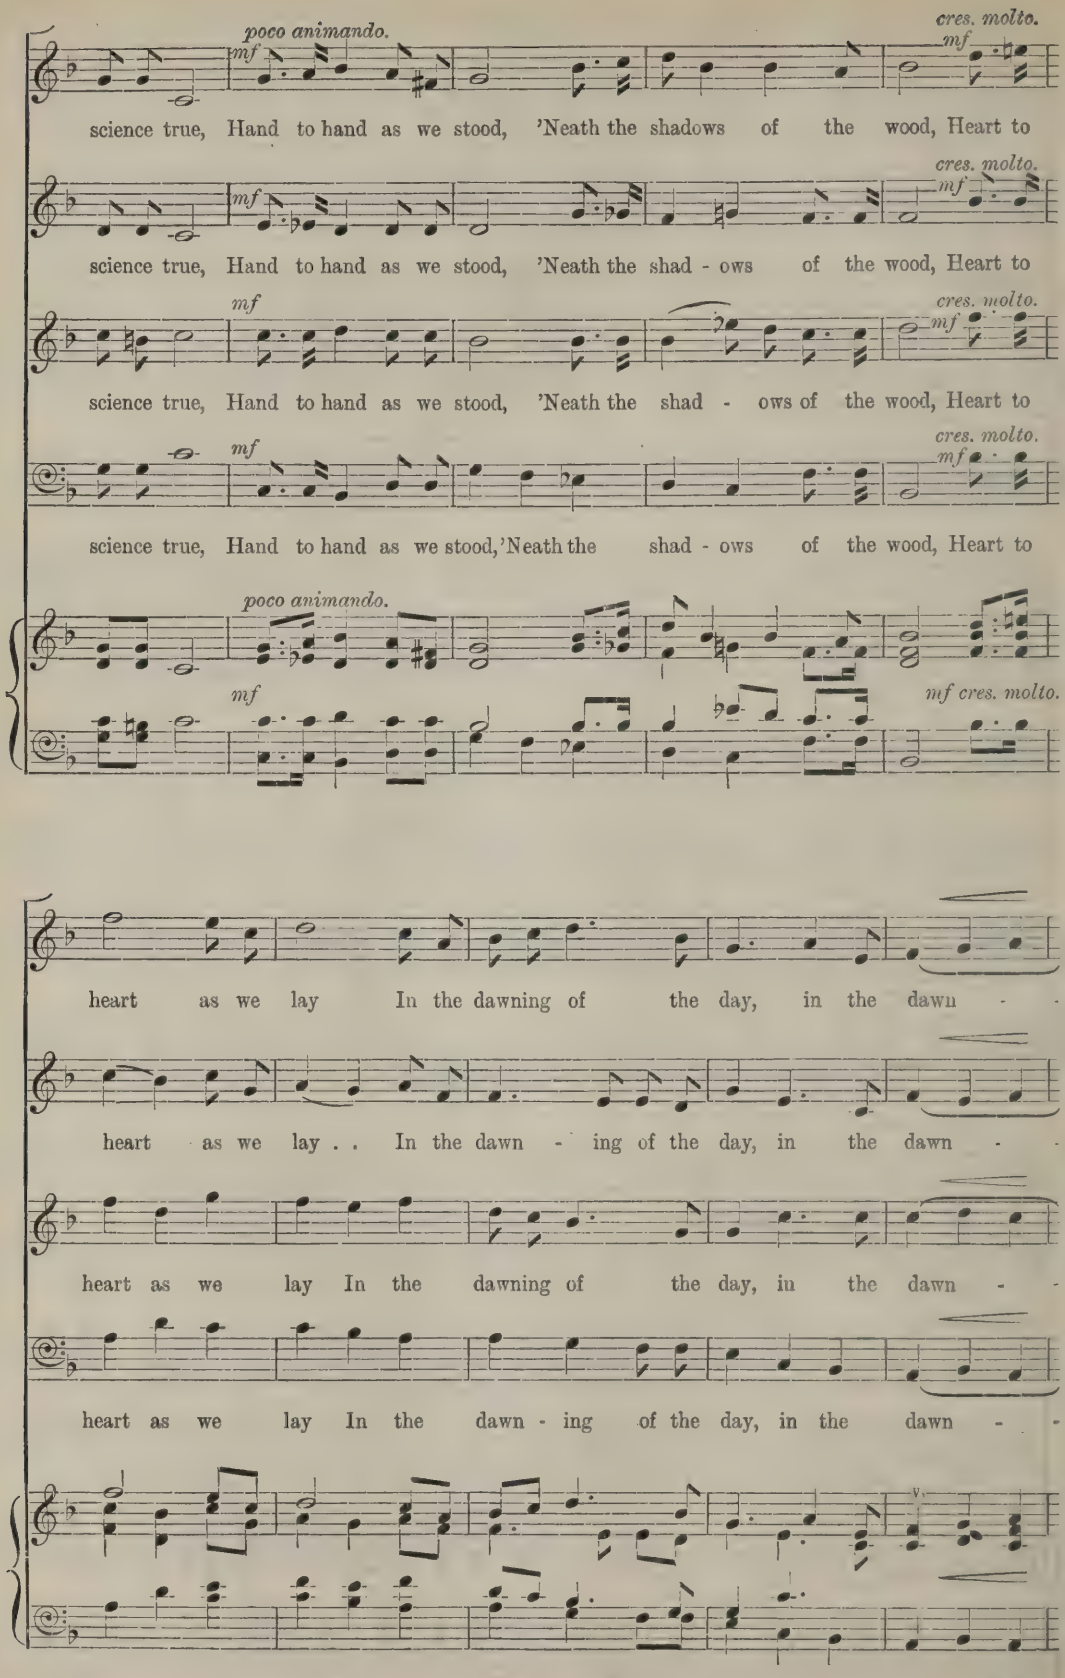
Tempo 1mo.
p dolce. legato.



poco animando.
mf
cres. molto.
mf science true, Hand to hand as we stood, 'Neath the shadows of the wood, Heart to science true, Hand to hand as we stood, 'Neath the shad - ows of the wood, Heart to science true, Hand to hand as we stood, 'Neath the shad - ows of the wood, Heart to science true, Hand to hand as we stood,'Neath the shad - ows of the wood, Heart to poco animando.
mf
mf cres. molto.
heart as we lay In the dawning of the day, in the dawn - heart as we lay . . In the dawn - ing of the day, in the dawn - heart as we lay In the dawning of the day, in the dawn - heart as we lay In the dawn - ing of the day, in the dawn -

mf
pp
- - ing of the day, Heart to heart as we lay, In the dawn - -
- - ing of the day, Heart to heart as we lay, In the dawn - -
- - ing of the day, Heart to heart as we lay, In the dawn - -
- - ing of the day, - Heart to heart as we lay, In the dawn - -
p sempre dim.
rit.
- - - - - - ing, the dawn - - - ing . . . of the day.
- - - - - - ing, the dawn - - - - - - - - ing of the day.
. - - - - - - ing, the dawn - - - - - - - - ing of the day.
- - - - - - ing, the dawn - - - - ing of the day.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK (continued).

VOL. XV.

No.
416	Ye singers all ...	H. Waelrent	3d.
417	Now fie on love...	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
418	Winds of Autumn!	Chas. Oberthür	2d.
419	Softly fall the shades ...	E. Silas	2d.
420	Love me little, love me long	L. Wilson	2d.
421	Shall I tell you whom I love	Wesley	3d.
422	It was a lover and his lass	J. Booth	1½d.
423	Love's question and reply	J. B. Grant	2d.
424	Hence, loathed melancholy (5 v.)	Lahee	4d.
425	Evening Song	E. M. Hill	3d.
426	Welcome dawn of summer's day	„	3d.
427	Charge of the Light Brigade	Hecht	4d.
428	There is beauty on the mountain	Goss	1½d.
429	O my sweet Mary (5 v.)	„	4d.
430	Lo! where the rosy-bosom'd hours	„	4d.
431	Her eyes the glow-worm	„	4d.
432	Bells of St. Michael's	Stewart	4d.
433	The Cruiskeen Lawn (5 v.)	„	3d.
434	The wine cup is circling	„	3d.
435	Ye mariners of England	H. Pierson	1½d.
436	The Vesper Hymn ...	Beethoven	2d.
437	What though sorrow ...	Naumann	2d.
438	The Swallows	Pohlentz	2d.
439	Hope and Faith ...	Weber	2d.
440	Hark, hark, the Lark ...	Kücken	3d.
441	A walk at dawn	... Gade	3d.

VOL. XVI.

442	Winter days ...	A. J. Caldicott	4d.
443	Homeward ...	Henry Leslie	4d.
444	To sea! the calm is o'er	Marshall	4d.
445	Rest hath come...	„	2d.
446	Hymn to the Moon	Josiah Booth	4d.
447	The Brook ...	C. G. Reissiger	3d.
448	The Secret ...	„	3d.
449	Is it to odours sweet ...	R. Müller	3d.
450	On the water ...	...R. de Cuvry	3d.
451	The Water-lily ...	...N. W. Gade	2d.
452	There 's one that I love	F. Kücken	3d.
453	The trees are all budding	„	3d.
454	There sings a bird ...	Franz Abt	2d.
455	O world! thou art so ...	Dr. Hiller	4d.
456	Winter Song	H. Dorn	3d.
457	The arrow and the song	W. Hay	3d.
458	Kings and Queens	...Ciro Pinsuti	3d.
459	Would you ask my heart?	„	3d.
460	The Rhine Raft Song ...	„	3d.
461	The Silent Tide	„	1½d.
462	The April time	„	2d.
463	The Song to Pan ...	„	3d.
464	Autumn is come again ...	F. Corder	3d.
465	My love beyond the sea	F. H. Simms	3d.
466	Lord Ullin's Daughter...	Prescott	4d.
467	Slow, slow, fresh fount	Walmisley	3d.

VOL. XVII.

468	Song of the Wind	Gertrude Hine	4d.
469	Gentle winds ...	J. T. Musgrave	2d.
470	The Curfew ...	... Oliver King	2d.
471	Waken, lords and ladies gay	E. Louis	4d.
472	Tell me where is fancy bred	Pinsuti	3d.
473	Hymn to Cynthia ...	B. Tours	3d.
474	Two lovers	E. Hecht	4d.
475	'Tis twilight's holy hour	Clippingdale	3d.
476	Oh, I wish I were a swallow	O. Wagner	3d.
477	Slumber on, Baby dear	Oliver King	3d.
478	Allen-a-Dale ...	... C. H. Lloyd	4d.
479	The sweet spring	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
480	Rustic coquette	F. Champneys	3d.
481	Pack clouds away	... C. H. Lloyd	3d.
482	A chafer's wedding	L. Lewandowski	6d.
483	Joy in spring	...J. Raff	3d.
484	Ave Maria	„	3d.
485	And then no more	„	2d.
486	This day, in wealth of light ...	„	2d.
487	Starlit is night-time	„	2d.
488	In the moonlight	„	3d.
489	Silent happiness	„	2d.
490	Snowdrops	„	2d.
491	May-day	„	2d.
492	Good-night from the Rhine ...	„	3d.
493	Evening	G. C. Martin	2d.
494	O, too cruel fair	W. S. Rockstro	4d.

VOL. XVIII.

495	The Miller's wooing ...	E. Faning	6d.
496	When twilight dews	J. L. Gregory	2d.
497	The East Indian	„	2d.
498	When at Corinna's eyes	C. H. Lloyd	3d.
499	I love my love... ..	G. B. Allen	1½d.
500	The Troubadour ...	H. Leslie	1½d.
501	The Lass of Richmond Hill	„	1½d.
502	In this hour of softened	C. Pinsuti	1½d.
503	The sea hath its pearls	„	1½d.
504	Ye gallant men of England	E. Hecht	3d.

VOL. XVIII. (continued.)

No.
505	The Moorland Witch	E. Hecht	3d.
506	It was a lover and his lass	J. Barnby	3d.
507	Come live with me	Sir W. S. Bennett	1½d.
508	Looking for Spring ...	C. H. Lloyd	3d.
509	Tell me not, in mournful	C. Pinsuti	3d.
510	There is music by the River	„	3d.
511	O sunny beam ...	R. Schumann	2d.
512	O red, red rose ...	„	2d.
513	Wanderer's Song	„	3d.
514	Evening Song ...	„	2d.
515	Ah! woe is me	H. Lahee	4d.
516	Sweet evening hour ...	S. Reay	3d.
517	Fair land, we greet thee	Ciro Pinsuti	4d.
518	Rise, Fair Goddess ...	H. Smart	1½d.
519	A garland for our fairest	J. L. Hatton	3d.
520	Around the maypole tripping	Hatton	1½d.
521	The boatman's good night	F. Schira	1½d.
522	The serenade	J. Brahms	2d.
523	Vineta	„	3d.
524	The dirge of Darthula	„	4d.
525	As I saw fair Clora ...	F. Corder	3d.
526	Up! up! ye dames ...	W. Bendall	3d.
527	If love be dead	C. Wood	4d.
528	The Norse Queen's gift ...	W. Hay	3d.
529	Cavalry Song ...	C. A. Macirone	3d.
530	The winds that waft	Vincent Wallace	2d.
531	Corin for Cleora dying	„ „	3d.
532	Madeleine ...	J. L. Roeckel	1½d.
533	Earth, with its troubled voices	Costa	3d.
534	Music, when soft voices die	A. King	4d.
535	The days of long ago ...	B. Tours	3d.
536	The present ...	C. Carr Moseley	3d.
537	The triumph of Victoria	J. Stainer	6d.
538	The three merry dwarfs	Mackenzie	4d.
539	Sleep, darling baby. Ricardo	Mähllig	3d.
540	The rosy dawn creeps	C. H. Lloyd	4d.
541	If doughty deeds	C. Lee Williams	3d.
542	Radiant sister Rosalind	F. Ellicott	4d.
543	To Chloris, on her singing	Pringle	3d.
544	The blue-eyed lassie	F. Brandeis	2d.
545	Bonnie Bell ...	A. C. Mackenzie	2d.
546	Peace be around thee	R. F. Ellicott	3d.
547	O Mistress mine	H. MacCunn	2d.
548	There is a garden	„	3d.
549	It was a lass	„	3d.
550	How can a bird help singing?	Abt	3d.
551	In Spring time	„	3d.
552	The Rover's Joy	„	2d.
553	Evening Song	„	2d.
554	The Flowers' review	„	3d.
555	The Rose in October	Wm. Robinson	2d.
556	The Hunters ...	W. W. Pearson	4d.
557	The Inconstants	R. Schumann	3d.
558	The heath rose	„	2d.
559	The Recruit	„	2d.
560	The Highland Lassie ...	„	3d.
561	Rattlin' roarin' Willie	„	2d.
562	The lovely Adelaide ...	Volkslied	2d.
563	To the wood we'll go ...	„	3d.
564	The Douglas raid ...	O. Prescott	3d.
565	When the hunter's horn	J. Benedict	3d.
566	The Fountain	F. Schira	3d.
567	The three lays ...	J. L. Roeckel	2d.
568	Airs of Summer ..	„	2d.
569	O'er the meadows	Boyton Smith	3d.
570	When golden Autumn's	Marschner	3d.
571	The four jolly smiths	R. T. Leslie	1½d.
572	Bells across the snow	Ch. Gounod	3d.
573	Simple flowers... ...	Franz Abt	2d.
574	When the day is dying	„	2d.
575	We'll go gleaning ...	„	2d.
576	Cynthia	W. A. Barrett	3d.
577	Kathleen Mavourneen	F. N. Crouch	1½d.
578	A Battle Song	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
579	To a brother artist	Mackenzie	2d.
580	Upon a bank of roses	John Ward	3d.
581	Home, sweet home	Edward Land	1½d.
582	Auld lang syne ...	„	1½d.
583	Cherry Ripe	„	1½d.
584	Bright Moon ...	John E. West	2d.
585	My love dwelt in a Northern	Elgar	3d.
586	To Morning ...	Ch. H. Lloyd	6d.
587	To Mary in Heaven	G. J. Bennett	3d.
588	Phillis	Walter Hay	3d.
589	Rest	Ricardo Mähllig	2d.
590	Hope	Ch. H. Lloyd	3d.
591	Contentment	F. R. Müller	3d.
592	Sunshine on the sea...	C. Vincent	4d.
593	Shall I compare thee	J. H. Parry	3d.
594	Hie upon Hielands ...	V. Caillard	3d.
595	Maiden fair	J. Haydn	3d.
596	Strike the lyre (S.A.T.B.)	T. Cooke	3d.
597	Water-Lilies ...	F. H. Cowen	3d.
598	Resting ...	F. H. Cowen	3d.
599	Rowing	F. H. Cowen	3d.
600	The dawn of spring	... M. Watson	3d.
601	The broken flower ...	O. King	2d.
602	The hunt is up (S.A.T.B.)	J. L. Hatton	1½d.
603	When golden day ...	A. C. Fisher	2d.
604	Full fathom five ...	C. Wood	2d.
605	The Hemlock tree ...	„	2d.
606	Cupid's lottery	Siegfried Jacoby	3d.

No.
607	The Cavalier	C. Goodall	3d.
608	Wind that softly	E. A. Sydenham	2d.
609	'Tis here ...	Hermann Goetz	2d.
610	Longing	„	2d.
611	Good advice	„	3d.
612	Persevere	„	2d.
613	Faithfulness	„	3d.
614	Absence	„	2d.
615	Comfort	„	2d.
616	The little bird ...	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
617	Merrily fly the hours	„	3d.
618	Ring the joy-bells	„	3d.
619	As the ripples flow	„	2d.
620	The milkmaids...	„	3d.
621	Winter	E. Duncan	3d.
622	Hunting song	„	3d.
623	Song and summer	A. H. Brewer	3d.
624	"Wassail" ...	A. M. Goodhart	3d.
625	The day that saw thy ...	F. Corder	3d.
626	What though I have still	„	3d.
627	If I love will you doom me	„	3d.
628	Hail to the swallow	Goodhart	6d.
629	Serenade—Come forth	Macirone	2d.
630	The fairy lover...	A. W. Batson	2d.
631	Love's adieu	„	2d.
632	Love wakes	W. Noel Johnson	2d.
633	The despairing lover	A. W. Batson	2d.
634	Love's inconstancy ...	„	3d.
635	Cephalus and Procris	„	3d.
636	Ladye fair, thou	Ed. by H. Leslie	2d.
637	Love me little	King Hall	4d.
638	Echoes	O. King	2d.
639	Bright be thy dreams...	„	2d.
640	Three children sliding	A. W. Batson	2d.
641	The Light of Love ...	„	2d.
642	From White's and Will's	J. D. Davis	2d.
643	Give place, you ladies	Wm. Stephens	2d.
644	Spanish Serenade	Edward Elgar	3d.
645	Go, happy rose ...	F. Iliffe	3d.
646	Soft, soft wind ...	C. V. Stanford	2d.
647	Sing heigh ho ...	„	2d.
648	Airly Beacon ...	„	2d.
649	The Knight's Tomb	„	2d.
650	To his flocks	„	3d.
651	Corydon, arise ...	„	3d.
652	Diaphenia... ...	„	2d.
653	Sweet love for me	„	3d.
654	Damon's passion	„	3d
655	Phœbe	„	3d.
656	This morning, at the dawn	H. Leslie	2d.
657	Sad hearts	A. Herbert Brewer	3d.
658	Advice to lovers ...	P. W. Pilcher	2d.
659	Peace; come away	C. V. Stanford	2d.
660	Waiting for father	R. Bartholomew	3d.
661	The blue-bottle's fate	A. H. Ashworth	3d.
662	March like the Victors	R. Rogers	3d.
663	Hark! the Vesper Hymn is stealing		1½d
664	Ye banks and braes		1d.
665	The trysting tree	G. J. Bennett	2d.
666	Jean (Of a' the airts)	Oliver King	3d.
667	Cupid is a wayward boy	C. H. Lloyd	4d.
668	Come, fairies, trip it ...	F. Iliffe	3d.
669	Song of the Silent land	John E. West	3d.
670	The time of youth		2d.
671	Come o'er the burn, Bessie (S.A.B.)		2d.
672	Enforce yourself as ...	E. Turges	3d.
673	Thus musing (S.A.T.)	Wm. Newark	3d.
674	Ah, my dear son (S.S.A.)	... Anon.	3d.
675	Pastime with good Company ...		3d.
676	Hope	J. Rheinberger	2d.
677	The clouds ...	„	3d.
678	The fountain	„	3d.
679	Evening Rest ...	„	2d.
680	The Nightingale	„	3d.
681	Good Advice ...	„	3d.
682	The Storm ...	„	3d.
683	Autumn Song ...	„	2d.
684	The oak tree ...	G. J. Bennett	3d
685	When Flora decks	Noel Johnson	2d.
686	I think on thee in the night	E. Fedarb	3d.
687	The evening wind	Fred. J. Harper	3d.
688	To daisies, not to shut so	Davis	2d.
689	Beauty arise	K. J. Pye	3d.
690	It was a lover ...	Charles Wood	3d.
691	Sweet thrush	J. Danby	3d.
692	Sunshine	L. Spohr	2d.
693	Evening	„	2d.
694	Let me wander ...	„	2d.
695	To the stars	„	2d.
696	Resignation	„	3d.
697	Thoughts of Spring ...	„	2d.
698	When evening casts	C. Bayley	3d.
699	Magdalen at Michael's Gate	Boyce	2d.
700	Queen of fresh flowers	King Hall	3d.
701	Gentle sleep ...	H. W. Schartau	3d.
702	So sweet a kiss	George Sampson	3d.
703	A wet sheet and a ...	Gladstone	6d.
704	On a hill there grows	Stanford	2d.
705	Like desert woods ..	„	2d.
706	Praised be Diana ...	„	2d.
707	Cupid and Rosalind ...	„	3d.
708	O shady vales	„	2d.
709	The Shepherd Doron's Jig	„	2d sustained the reputation she had already won for herself here; Miss Wolters, on the other hand, surpassed all her previous efforts.

For the rest, one can only briefly mention the visits paid by Mischa Elman (orchestral concert), Theodore Byard, Stella Carol, Tivadar Nachez (orchestral concert), and Mr. Vernon Warner, to whom fell the rather thankless task of winding up the season.

Lastly, reference must be made to the spirited performance by the combined forces of the Municipal Choir and Orchestra of the concert version of Gounod's 'Faust.' The music, of course, did not put the capabilities of the choir to any very severe test, but the singing was expressive, and the work of the orchestra was exceedingly fine. The soloists were Miss Emily Breare, Miss Marie Stiven, Mr. Alfred Heather, Mr. David Brazell, and Mr. Charles Tree. Mr. Godfrey's admirable control of both choir and orchestra was particularly marked.

BRISTOL.

The Bristol Choral Society on April 20 gave a miscellaneous concert at Colston Hall before a large attendance. Band and choir numbered 500, Mr. George Riseley directing the performance with skill. The choir were heard in a fine interpretation of Stanford's 'Revenge' and Elgar's 'From the Bavarian Highlands.' Miss Lucy Nuttall was the solo vocalist, and afforded gratification by the charm with which she gave her songs. Herr Bachus, the pianist, displayed his great ability in compositions by Brahms, Chopin and Liszt. The band, with Mr. Harold Bernard as leader, executed the 'Jena' Symphony in C major, which Professor Stein believes to be an early effort of Beethoven's. It is a melodious production, and won much applause.

On April 24 Bristol New Philharmonic Society held a concert at the Victoria Rooms and gave satisfaction by excellent performances of Haydn's 'Spring' (from 'The Seasons'), Debussy's 'Blessed Damozel,' and Stanford's 'Songs of the Fleet.' The principal vocalists were Miss Dorothy Silk, Miss May Shepherd, Mr. David Appleyard, and Mr. Percy Heming. Mr. Harold Bernard was leader of the orchestra, and Mr. Arnold Barter was an efficient conductor.

The Clifton Male-Voice Choir gave a gratifying concert at Redland Park Hall on April 25, and, under the direction of Mr. Walter P. Price, sang a well-arranged programme of part-songs, the performance being varied by instrumental pieces.

There was a pleasing concert at St. John's Parish Hall on April 29, when the Clifton Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. A. Ernest Hill, sang a number of glees and part-songs in a creditable manner. These were much appreciated by a numerous audience. Some songs were contributed by Miss Grace Baldwin, Miss Margaret Dennis, Miss Anstey, Mr. E. Redwood, and Mr. E. R. Hill, and there were solos by Mr. Eric Lewton (violoncello) and Mrs. Stanley Hill (pianoforte).

At the annual concert of the choir of St. Matthew, Kingsdown, in Redland Park Hall on May 2, Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm was carefully given, Miss Marjorie Lockey taking the solos. A miscellaneous selection followed, there being songs by Miss Lockey, Mr. Lionel Venn, and Mr. A. W. Packman, and compositions by a band of which Mr. Edwin Jacobs was the leader. Mr. A. H. Tocknell directed the performance with ability.

DEVON AND CORNWALL.

THE THREE TOWNS.

In every direction the music season is drawing to a close, and may now indeed be considered ended. The season of open-air music is in Plymouth a prominent feature of the list of attractions, and this year it will be more comprehensive than usual; but this description of music cannot be considered educational, hardly indeed serious, from the point of view of art. Only two belated choral events remain to be recorded this month. On May 4 the Plymouth Orpheus Male Choir gave their spring concert, and performed the test-piece which they are preparing for the National Eisteddfod, Jenkins's 'Deep Jordan's banks.' The descriptive song, 'The Tyrol' (Ambroise Thomas), brought out the dramatic capabilities of the choir, whose good tone and balance were further heard in pieces by Sullivan, Müller, Brahms, Reichardt, Maunder and Dudley Buck. The event was made specially important by the appearance of Mr. William Henley, violinist, whose remarkable virtuosity was displayed in somewhat small pieces by Tchaikovsky, Bazzini, Strelezki and Vieuxtemps. On May 12, the choir of the United Methodist Free Church, Ebrington Street, augmented to a hundred voices, sang choruses by Handel, Mendelssohn and Sullivan, Mr. W. Quiller conducting, and Mr. L. Liscombe playing the organ.

The only fault to be found with the final symphony concert given by Mr. R. G. Evans on April 24, was the liberality of the programme. As the first number the second Symphony of Beethoven was interpreted with true musicianly feeling. Then, after some songs by Vaccaj and Nevin, sung with intense power and beauty by Miss Eileen Buck, came the lengthy and emotionally exhausting Concerto in B flat minor of Tchaikovsky for pianoforte and orchestra. Miss Florence Smith interpreted the solo with wonderful resource, contributing in eloquent and sincere manner as fine a performance as could be desired. After this the 'Tannhäuser' Overture was played. The band of the Duke of Cambridge's Own Middlesex Regiment gave a popular concert on May 1, conducted by Bandmaster W. F. Hawkins. According to custom, Mr. J. W. Newton compiled the programme of his final symphony concert at Stonehouse on May 9 by plébiscite. The result showed that among the symphonies played during the season—Mozart's 'Jupiter,' Dvorák's 'From the New World,' Schumann's No. 1, and Rubinstein's 'The Ocean'—the last-named was the most popular. The 'King Stephen' (Beethoven), 'De Phèdre' (Massenet), and 'Der Freyschütz' Overtures were beaten in the ballot by Wagner's 'Rienzi'; and among suites and characteristic pieces Boellmann's 'Variations Symphoniques' for violoncello and orchestra received most votes. This latter was therefore repeated with much effect, with Mr. C. G. Pike as soloist. Miss Georgie Andrews sang songs.

A violin recital was given by Miss Grace Thynne on April 25, her most important item being the 'Symphonie Espagnole' of Lalo. On the same day, Mr. Reginald Waddy closed his series of organ recitals in Emmanuel Church with a programme compiled by plébiscite, the choir singing pieces by Bullock, Stainer and Handel.

To close the series of Plymouth Library Lectures, on April 27, Mr. Waddy gave a paper on 'Elizabethan Lyrics,' with copius illustrations performed by members of Emmanuel Choir and others.

OTHER DEVONSHIRE TOWNS.

Okehampton Choral Society of sixty voices sang 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast,' Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer,' and Gaul's 'The singers,' on April 24, with good attack and balance. Mr. S. J. James conducted. Mr. W. J. Bown, conductor of Newton Abbot Choral Society, obtained a good performance of 'The Messiah' on April 25, on which date also the Axe Vale Musical Society performed Barnby's 'Rebekah' with the same Mendelssohn motet. The choir, numbering forty voices, sang with precision, conducted by Mr. W. C. Walton, and Miss V. Shapcott led the band. The Sidmouth Choral Society sang 'The Messiah' on April 30, conducted by Mr. J. A. Bellamy, with a band led by Mr. R. H. Passmore, and the Misses Carter and May Currie, Messrs. H. Turnpenney and Charles Knowles as principals. 'Judas Maccabæus' was sung by the Exmouth Choral Society on May 1; Dr. D. J. Wood was at the organ, and Mr. Raymond Wilmot conducted; and Crediton Musical Society gave a miscellaneous concert on May 2, with Mr. Dean Trotter as conductor. The Paignton Quartette contributed glees to the programme of a successful concert directed by Mr. E. C. Drew, on May 6. Good choral work was achieved by the Exeter Choral Society in performances of Parry's 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin' and Cliffe's 'Ode to the North-East wind' (first performance in Exeter). This Society, which is worthy of encouragement, sang with welcome vitality as well as accuracy. Mr. Allan Allen conducted. Gaul's 'The Holy City' was given on May 10 by the Buckland Monachorum Choral Society, with assistance from Miss Ethel Pascho, Miss Margaret Toop, and Rev. E. J. White.

Dr. D. J. Wood's Orchestral Society at Exeter gave their spring concert on April 22, when they were enterprising enough to undertake a Beethoven Symphony (No. 4); a 'Miniature Suite' by Eric Coates, the overture to Stanford's 'Shamus O'Brien,' and the Scherzo from Mendelssohn's music to 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' were also given, Mr. C. E. Bell leading. Miss Beatrice Spencer was the vocalist. Beethoven's Overture, 'Leonore,' No. 3, was played by the Teignmouth Orchestral Society on April 25, led by Mr. S. Harris and conducted by Mr. A. J. James. Other numbers were Haydn's 'Oxford' Symphony and Meyer-Helmund's 'Sérénade Rococo.'

A new organ was opened at Honiton on April 25 by Mr. Arthur Trevithick. The choir of Plympton Congregational Church on May 1 contributed the most important number—Mendelssohn's 'Hear my Prayer'—to a sacred concert organized by Miss Winifred Blight, organist.

A recital given by Mrs. Bruce Spooner (pianoforte), Miss Gwyneth Plumbe (violin), and Mr. H. Warner (vocalist) at Yealmpton, on April 25, was successful, and on the same date the Cornwood Band, conducted by Mr. G. Crompton, gave a concert with help from various artists.

CORNWALL.

The Truro and Falmouth Philharmonic Societies continue to work in collaboration, though they have this season severed in respect of conductor. Rev. Canon Corfe remains in that post with the Falmouth party, and Mr. J. H. Williams has taken the baton of the Society in the Cathedral City. The members assist each other with goodwill, and to that end select the same work for performance; thus 'King Olaf' was given on April 14 at Truro, and on April 15 at Falmouth, both events being successful. Selections from 'The Creation' were sung by Camborne Wesley Choir on April 18, conducted by H. V. Pearce, and at a concert given by the Gunnislake Male Choir on April 24, opportunity was taken to make a presentation to the conductor, Rev. W. W. Bickford, who is leaving the neighbourhood.

Maunder's cantata, 'Olivet to Calvary,' was well performed on April 24 by Saltash Baptist Choir, assisted by members of the Mutley and Mount Gold Wesleyan Choirs, conducted by Mr. C. M. Clarke, and on April 30, Mrs. C. Rawling's Saltash Singing Class sang part-songs and choruses. The enterprising little choral Society at Linkinhorne, which is ably worked by Rev. C. C. C. Bosanquet, gave a very good performance of Rogers's cantata, 'The Garden,' on May 2; and the same date was chosen by Newquay Choral Society for performances of 'The song of the Vikings' and part-songs, conducted by Mr. L. N. Bradley.

Penzance Orchestral Society has this season numbered thirty-five players, who gave highly-enjoyable interpretations on May 3 of Schubert's overture 'Rosamunde,' Luigini's Egyptian Suite, two of the Brahms Rhapsodies, and Sibelius's 'Valse Triste.' Messrs. A. W. Robinson, W. Barnes and B. B. Bennetts played Mozart's Pianoforte trio, No. 7. Mr. Walter Barnes conducted. Helston Band gave concerts on May 5 in aid of the 'Titanic' Disaster Fund.

GLASGOW.

The Easter Concert of the Glasgow Bach Choir (Mr. J. Michael Diack, conductor) took place in the Cathedral on April 23. The Choir's performances almost invariably attract large audiences, and on this occasion the ancient building was practically filled. The programme comprised the Chorale cantata 'Christ lay in death's dark prison,' the Church cantata 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' the Easter oratorio, 'Now come, let us hasten,' and the Easter hymn, 'Now let our hearts with joy be filled.' A certain jerkiness marred to some extent several of the choral interpretations, but with this qualification the singing of the Choir was highly praiseworthy. Of the soloists, Miss Isabel Wilkie, the contralto, easily carried the honours. Much of the pleasure of the concert was due to Mr. Herbert Walton's remarkably fine playing of the organ accompaniments. The only other notable event of the month was the second Choral (competition) Festival, on May 3 and 4, referred to elsewhere.

LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

The Church Choir Association has completed the preliminary arrangements for the ensuing annual Festival in November next, an important event into which many considerations enter. The presence of Sir George Martin will for the second time lend distinction to the Festival; he will conduct his Thanksgiving Te Deum in B flat and anthem 'Rejoice in the Lord.' In response to the Committee's invitation ten compositions were submitted anonymously by local composers. Of these, the adjudicator, Dr. Joseph C. Bridge, selected a setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis by Dr. W. B. Brierley, organist of the Parish Church, West Kirby. It will accordingly be sung at the Festival.

The concert given by the Liverpool Village Choir in the Sun Hall on April 20 attracted a large audience, who had the additional enjoyment of feeling they had provided substantial assistance towards the fund for taking the eighty-five girls and boys to the Paris Competitions. By their singing of German's 'Beauteous morn,' the test-piece for their class, the children showed qualities of tunefulness and training which should carry them far towards success.

Another feature of the concert was the admirable singing of the well-known 'prize choir,' the Manchester Orpheus Glee Society, conducted by Mr. Nesbit, in Elgar's 'Feasting, I watch' and 'It's oh, to be a wild wind,' and Hatton's 'When evening's twilight,' an example of the Liverpool composer's work which will long survive. In addition there were songs by Miss Winifred Lewis, Mr. Charles Tree, and a speech from Sir William H. Lever, who admitted his knowledge of music was confined to the National Anthem.

The vacant post of conductor and bandmaster to the City Police Band has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Charles R. Bicks, late bandmaster to the 2nd Battalion Highland Light Infantry. Mr. Bicks, who comes to Liverpool with a high record of useful service at home and abroad, has an opportunity of making his new position as a public functionary even more notable, by widening the musical outlook of the programmes as well as by maintaining the high efficiency of the Band.

The dates of the Philharmonic Society's twelve concerts for next season have already been fixed. Sir Frederic Cowen, the Society's conductor-in-chief, will conduct six concerts, the other six being directed by Messrs. Mengelberg, Landon Ronald, Sir Henry Wood, Fritz Steinbach, and Harry Evans. With regard to the engagement of the last named, who will conduct 'Elijah' at the closing concert, general satisfaction has been given by the committee's recognition of Mr. Harry Evans's personality as a musician and unmistakable genius as a choral conductor: powers which in combination have brought the Welsh Choral Union to a unique position of more than local fame.

The City organistship has for the present been placed in commission, and various players have given recitals on those Saturdays when the great hall is not otherwise engaged by Assize or other business. Since Mr. Edwin H. Lemare's masterly recitals in April, interesting performances have been given by Mr. W. Faulkes, Mr. H. Walton, Mr. Branscombe and Mr. Burstall, who are to be followed by Mr. Goss Custard, Dr. Kendrick Pyne, and Mr. C. W. Perkins. It is probable that the recitals will be temporarily suspended in July, in view of the proposal to remove the central wooden flooring of the Hall in order to exhibit the sunk tessellated pavement, which is usually kept covered.

Among recent events of the rapidly-waning season was the successful vocal recital given on April 16 by Madame Eva Warren, an accomplished lieder singer, who was assisted by Miss Vera Fitzsimons (pianoforte), Mr. Fridolin Weingaertner (violin), and Mrs. Fitzsimons, a tactful accompanist. Another interesting function was the vocal and pianoforte recital given in the Rushworth Hall on May 10 by Miss Mary Turner, whose artistic vocal and instrumental items were ably supplemented by her pupils, Miss Hilda Turner, in two movements of Grieg's A minor Pianoforte concerto, and Miss Mildred Ledsham and Miss Alice Stalker in songs, and by a choir of ladies.

The Fairfield Glee and Madrigal Society, which is composed of between forty and fifty ladies and gentlemen, conducted by Mr. Arthur Davies, gave on April 23 agreeable instances of the good work of earnest amateurs. Their singing of unaccompanied glees and choruses by Callcott, Faning, Elgar and Barnby fully deserved the appreciation it received. Songs were sung by Miss Amy Horrocks, Mr. Oswald Jones, and Mr. T. Ernest Williams, a promising baritone.

At the closing concert of the Anfield Orchestral Society on April 24, a new Romance for violin, by Mr. William Faulkes, proved an interesting and musicianly work as played by Miss Mabel Stocks, a clever young violinist and a member of this large amateur orchestra which Mr. Faulkes so ably directs. The Society continues to improve in tone and ensemble. No fault is to be found with the character of the music performed.

The chief feature of the works performed by the Carl Rosa Opera Company during their week's visit to the Royal Court Theatre, commencing April 24, was the revival of Boito's 'Mefistofele' after an interval of twenty-five years. This later production was an evidence of the completeness in preparation which this company bestow on their presentations, and the work was exceedingly well put on. Whether the revival meets the present public taste is a moot point. The opera is less inspirational than spectacular. The principal parts were in safe hands with Miss Ina Hill as Marguerite and Helen, Miss Maude Albright as Martha, Mr. Arthur Winckworth as Mefistofele, and Mr. Frank Christian as Faust. Mr. Eugene Goossens conducted.

The little company of bandsmen who immortalised themselves by their fortitude and devotion amid the horrors of the 'Titanic' disaster were directly associated with Liverpool in Mr. Fred Clarke, the double-bass player, a young musician of remarkable promise who had a place in both the Philharmonic and Akeroyd Symphony Orchestras. His mother and sisters were largely dependent upon him for a home, and the sympathy felt for them took practical shape at a concert given for their benefit in the Philharmonic Hall on May 10, by a number of instrumental colleagues in both Orchestras. Conducted by Mr. V. Akeroyd, a commendable interpretation was given of the 'Eroica' Symphony and Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture. A brilliant pianist, Madame Marguerite Stilwell (Mrs. Alfred Ross), played Chopin's Andante Spianato and Polonaise, Op. 22, and Miss Amalfi, a local mezzo-soprano whose career is opening with great promise, exhibited her beautiful voice in several songs.

Sir Charles Santley was recently in Liverpool on the occasion of the funeral of his brother, Mr. William Santley, who had for many years been identified with the firm of provision merchants in whose service Sir Charles originally essayed a business career. Mr. William Santley was well known and highly esteemed for his personal qualities. At one time he was a tenor singer of considerable local repute, and otherwise connected with musical circles.

The local musical profession has lost an old member in Mr. Richard Burgess, organist of Christ Church, Sefton Park, for the past twenty-seven years. He had an apoplectic seizure while seated at the organ during morning service on Sunday, May 12, and died on the following Tuesday. Mr. Burgess had formerly been organist of Holy Trinity, Walton Breck, a post at one time held by Mr. W. T. Best.

MANCHESTER AND DISTRICT.

A chronicler of Manchester's musical life during the past month would be constrained to admit that the phrase so frequently heard on the Cotton Market, 'Nothing doing,' most aptly fits the circumstances.

Fugitive concerts have been given, but up to the time of going to press the annual meeting of only one of our premier Societies has been held—the 'Gentlemen's Concerts'—which reported a small credit balance.

Mr. E. J. Broadfield has now been chairman of this Society for twenty-one years, and took occasion to remind the meeting that the Society was in existence, and gave concerts in the years 1740-50, and although the precise date of its foundation was somewhat obscure, it could with confidence be stated that it was the oldest musical Society in the North, if not in the United Kingdom. Suitable acknowledgment was made of Sir Henry Wood's services as the Society's conductor during the past three seasons. Turning to the future, Mr. Broadfield added: 'Mr. Balling will give us old favourites with interesting novelties.' Among the artists already engaged are Eugen d'Albert, Siegmund Feuermann, Campbell McInnes, Plunket Greene, Elena Gerhardt, Paula Hegner, and Doris Woodall.

At the Royal Manchester College of Music a very important post became vacant owing to the retirement of Miss Fillunger. The authorities have tackled the situation boldly by appointing a singer of such universal renown as Miss Marie Brema, probably the most challenging figure in the ranks of women singers of our time. Such a choice is big with future promise, should opera take firm root in Manchester.

The proceeds of the last series of Brodsky Quartet Concerts yielded rather under £50 (much less than the average of past years), so that expenses must be curtailed next year in order that the Students' Sustentation Fund may not be so seriously crippled. The authorities of the College have granted the use of the College Hall for these concerts, a return thus being made to the room in which the earliest of these now famous Chamber Concerts were held.

On March 16 Mr. Egon Petri paid us another flying visit, the occasion serving also to introduce to us his sister, Miss Helga Petri, who bids fair to become a lieder-singer of much distinction.

A highly spirited performance of Verdi's 'Un ballo in maschera' was given by the Manchester School of Music under the direction of Mr. Albert J. Cross on April 19. Vitality characterized the work of all who assisted, and at the same time the proper musical bounds were observed. The vocalism was refined. The performance, which was an all-round success, was repeated on April 20, and again, in aid of the 'Titanic' Fund, on May 9.

In organ-music we had a distinguished visitor in M. Bonnet, and at a meeting of the Royal Manchester College of Music Club on May 20, Dr. Keighley gave an illustrated lecture on the 'Organ-music of Max Reger.' Amongst the eight items played were the beautiful Melodia in B flat from Op. 59, and the splendid Fugue in D.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE AND DISTRICT.

On Wednesday, April 17, the Darlington Choral and Orchestral Society gave their second concert of the season. The chief number was Coleridge-Taylor's 'Death of Minnehaha,' which received a tasteful performance. The choir contributed also some part-songs, and the orchestra was heard in Tchaikovsky's 'Casse Noisette' Suite, three dances from Elgar's 'Bavarian Highlands' Suite, and other items. Mr. T. Henderson conducted, and the Hon. Mrs. Julian Clifford was the soloist. The report of the young Newcastle Philharmonic Orchestra has been issued, and shows a deficit of over one hundred pounds. This is not an encouraging outlook for orchestral music in the North, but the transference of the concerts to a large hall, the fact that concerts can only be given in the afternoon, and the increased financial responsibilities necessitated by an adequate series of rehearsals, naturally made the possibility of a deficit a greater one. But good work has been done, excellent and well-balanced programmes have been presented, and the audiences have steadily increased in number. The committee feel that they are justified in arranging for another series of concerts next winter.

SHEFFIELD.

The senior and junior branches of the Sheffield Philharmonic Orchestra gave two successful concerts in the Albert Hall. That given on April 19 brought to a first hearing in Sheffield the newly-found 'Jena' Symphony, ascribed to Beethoven. The work was played with notable finish, and the members were also heard to advantage in German's 'Gipsy' Suite and Weber's 'Euryanthe' Overture. The junior section played correctly and with carefully-observed expression the same composer's 'Nell Gwyn' Dances, and tackled the difficulties of his 'Hamlet' tone-poem with surprising ability. The soloists were Miss Sarah Birch, Madame Isabelle Foister, and Mr. W. A. Hamer. Mr. J. H. Parkes conducted both concerts.

The Chesterfield Orchestral Society is now a well-equipped body, capable of performing advanced music. The conductor, Mr. J. F. Staton, leans to the modern and picturesque in his sympathies, as was shown by his excellent conducting, on April 17, of Svendsen's 'Carnival' Overture and Kistler's 'Kunehild' Prelude. There was some lack of grip and consistency in his treatment of Beethoven's C minor Symphony, which the orchestra played, technically, very well. The strings produce a refined tone, and the prospects of the Society are encouraging. Miss Laura Evans-Williams and Mr. Morgan Kingston were the vocalists.

It is somewhat surprising that the revised and abbreviated edition of Sir A. C. Mackenzie's oratorio, 'The Rose of Sharon,' has not been more eagerly seized upon by choral Societies. In its new form the oratorio makes an excellent concert-work, picturesque and melodious, grateful to the soloists, and interesting to orchestra and choir. Its performance by the Sheffield Amateur Musical Society, on April 23, successfully established these claims, and will no doubt help to send the oratorio into northern provincial programmes. The choral scene, 'The procession of the Ark,' contains some magnificent writing, to which due effect was given by the Sheffield choristers. The orchestral intermezzi are among the most charming sections of the work. Two, 'Spring morning on Lebanon' and the finely-conceived 'Sleep,' were exquisitely played by the orchestra; the third was omitted. The massed forces, supplemented by Mr. J. W. Phillips's judicious use of the organ, encompassed a number of imposing climaxes, one in particular, at the close of the noble contrapuntal chorus, 'Make a joyful noise,' being especially inspiring. Miss Carrie Tubb sang the soprano music with rare purity of tone and a curiously exalted fervour exactly fitting the music. Miss Florence Brook, Mr. Joseph Cheetham, and Mr. Robert Charlesworth were likewise successful in the solo portions. Mr. J. A. Rodgers, who conducted, also directed a brilliant performance by the orchestra of Tchaikovsky's 'Capriccio Italien.'

The Sharrow Choral Society, in introducing to Sheffield Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's emotional and charming 'A tale of Old Japan,' tested their resources to the utmost. A well-trained choir of about fifty voices realised to the full the delicacy and quaintness of the attractive little cantata. Mr. O. C. Owrid, who conducted, secured precision and a very agreeable tone from the ladies' voices, as was further shown in Jensen's 'Feast of Adonis.'

Another suburban body, the Norton Lees Choral Society, showed further vocal and interpretative progress in a smart performance of Bath's 'Legend of Nerbudda,' directed by Mr. Arnold Bagshaw, and a courageous new-comer, the Anston Musical Society, performed, under Mr. E. Presswood's direction, Lloyd's 'Battle of the Baltic' in a manner creditable alike to choir and conductor.

The name 'Mr. d'Auvergne Upcher' in Sheffield notes for April should have been printed 'Miss d'Auvergne Upcher.'

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either prepared from local newspapers or furnished by correspondents.

Correspondents are particularly requested to enclose a programme when forwarding reports of concerts.

ABERDEEN.—Mr. Warren T. Clemens has been appointed chorus-master of the Aberdeen Musical Festival. The programme of this event for 1913 includes Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion, Elgar's 'Go, song of mine,' and Purcell's 'Soul of the world.'——The fourth music Festival took place on April 27-30, with unequalled success. A full report is given in the Competition Festival Record.

BERKHAMSTED.—A very creditable performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was given on May 4 in Dean's Hall, Berkhamsted School. The solos were well sung by Mrs. F. G. Hawdon, Miss Dora Arnell, Mr. Sydney Clements, and Mr. Montague Borwell, while Miss E. L. Davie, Mrs. Ling, Mr. D. Harrison, and Mr. P. L. Rawes gave very able assistance in the double quartets. The choir and orchestra, numbering over 150, were under the conductorship of Mr. J. T. Bavin.

BRUTON.—The annual concert given by the Bruton Choral Society was an unqualified success. The programme, which included Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast' and 'The death of Minnehaha,' was an ambitious one, but the vocalists and the orchestra showed that they were fully equal to the high standard they had set themselves, and their efforts were enthusiastically received. The soloists in the 'Scenes from Hiawatha' were Miss Clare Leach Lewis, Mr. D. Appleyard, and Mr. A. Vernon, of Wells Cathedral. A miscellaneous programme followed, to which Miss C. Macmillan (solo violin) contributed; and the orchestra, with Mr. Rowland T. A. Hughes as conductor and Miss Beatrice Heginbotham as leader, gave a very fine performance of the 'Old English Suite' by Granville Bantock.

BURTON (CHESHIRE).—A successful performance of Stanford's 'Phaudrig Crohoore' was given by the Burton Choral Society at the Institute on April 29, with pianoforte accompaniment supplied by Mrs. E. W. Morrice. Mr. R. W. Pringle, organist of Hawarden Parish Church, conducted.

CALGARY (CANADA).—Two evening concerts and an orchestral matinée were given in Sherman's Auditorium on April 3 and 4 by the Apollo Choir, conducted by P. L. Newcombe. The Symphony Orchestra of St. Paul, U.S.A., conducted by Mr. Walter H. Rothwell, took part, having visited Calgary especially for this purpose. The choral singing was the most ambitious and effective given in this city. The works included selections from 'The Bavarian Highlands' and Epilogue from 'The Banner of St. George' (Elgar), 'Alta Stella Maris' (Grieg), 'Pater Noster' (Verdi), and 'Sanctus' (Palestrina). The last-named was sung unaccompanied, as were also 'How sweet the moonlight' (Faning) and 'The bold Turpin' (Bridge). There was a fine performance of the Mendelssohn psalm, 'In exitu Israel.' The St. Paul Orchestra distinguished itself in Tchaikovsky's 'Pathetic Symphony,' Weber's 'Oberon' Overture, the ballet-suite from 'Le Cid' (Massenet), and other attractive numbers.

CREWE.—The Philharmonic Society, conducted by Mr. William Dunning, gave Elgar's 'King Olaf' on April 24. The programme also included the same composer's 'Imperial March,' for orchestra, and 'It comes from the misty ages,' for choir and orchestra. The principals were Miss Laura Evans-Williams, Mr. Frank Webster, and Mr. Herbert Parker.

DURBAN (SOUTH AFRICA).—The Musical Association opened their 1912 season by giving an orchestral and choral concert on April 20. The programme included Beethoven's Pianoforte concerto No. 4, in G, played by Mrs. Alexander Buchanan (formerly Miss Gertrude King), with full orchestra, Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture, Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' Gibbons's 'The Silver Swan,' Elgar's 'My love dwelt in a Northern land,' and German's 'Welsh Rhapsody.' Miss Maly von Trutzscheler contributed songs by Schumann, Grieg, Massenet, Campra, and a grand aria from Verdi's 'La Traviata.' Mr. Frank Proudman, musical director to the Corporation and Borough Organist, conducted.

GOLSPIE (N.B.).—The Choral Society gave an excellent concert on April 24, under the conductorship of Mr. Tom Davies. Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was the work chosen for performance, and the interpretation given showed that the choir had been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Davies as conductor. The oratorio was followed by a short programme, which included part-songs by Brahms and Macfarren. The soloists were Miss Forsyth, Miss Maccaskill, Miss Marie Grant, Mr. Hugh Mackay, and Mr. J. Mennie, who sang with fine effect, and Messrs. Davies and Mennie (violinists).

GREAT YARMOUTH.—A notable performance of Elgar's 'The dream of Gerontius' was given on April 18 by the Great Yarmouth Musical Society, which had assisted in the performance of the work at the Norwich Festival and in London. An efficient orchestra had been collected and, under Mr. Haydon Hare's direction, the interpretation was one of technical precision and much enthusiastic and telling expression. The solo parts were ably taken by Miss Alice Lakin, Mr. Frank Mullings, and Mr. Herbert Heyner.

Hertford.—The East Herts Musical Society concluded its twenty-second season on April 18, with a performance of the concert version of German's 'Merrie England.' Under Mr. J. L. Gregory's skilful and sympathetic conductorship an excellent interpretation of the work was secured. A special word of praise is due to the choir, whose singing was of a very high order of merit. The solo parts were entrusted to Mrs. Dupont Harrington (a pupil of the conductor and a singer of much distinction), Madame Cecile Vicars, Mr. Henry Turnpenney, Mr. Greeves Johnson, and Mr. A. R. Willson. Mr. J. E. Hilton acted as leader of the band.

Kibworth.—Haydn's 'The Creation' was performed with excellent effect on April 18 by the Kibworth and District Choral Society, which has only recently come into existence. Mr. Richard Iliffe conducted, and the soloists were Miss Jessie Imlay, Miss Eva Tabberer, Mr. A. H. Dams, Mr. C. H. Iliffe, and Mr. A. J. Hill.

Leamington.—On May 2, the Madrigal Society gave a concert in aid of the 'Titanic' Relief Fund. Mr. E. Roberts West directed excellent performances of Clutsam's 'The Cavaliers,' Leslie's 'Lullaby of life,' and Percy Fletcher's choral fantasia on 'Die Meistersinger,' and songs were given by Miss Margaret Hoskins, Mr. Jesse Hackett, and Mr. Sidney Stoddard.

Leicester.—Coleridge-Taylor's 'A tale of Old Japan,' and Act 2 of Gluck's 'Orpheus' formed the programme chosen by the Holy Trinity Choral Union for their most recent concert. The spirit, intelligence and precision with which the choir entered into their task, under the direction of Mr. Vincent Dearden, earned great favour for the new cantata. Gluck's work was interpreted with the proper quiet dignity. In both works the orchestra gave helpful assistance. The solo parts were taken by Miss Doris Carter, Miss Aimée Parker, Mr. Roland Jackson, and Mr. George Baker.

Letchworth.—Coleridge-Taylor's complete cycle of 'The song of Hiawatha' was performed by the Philharmonic Society, under Mr. H. Gomersall's direction, on May 1, and the agreeable nature of both the music and the singing contributed to the success of the undertaking. The principal parts were taken by Miss Lucie Lenoir, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. William Burt.

Maidstone.—The Holy Trinity Choral Society gave very successful performances of 'The Revenge' and the 'Hymn of Praise' on April 30. Mr. Horton conducted. He now leaves Maidstone for an appointment in the north of England.

Malvern.—The Malvern Link Musical Society gave a successful concert recently under its new conductor, Mr. Leslie Penn, to whose abilities the high merits of the singing were a tribute. The chief work performed was Gaul's cantata, 'Una.' The solo artists were Mrs. W. T. Potter, Mrs. T. G. Dobbs, Mr. A. Dagger, and Mr. H. Brown.

Neath.—The performance of Elgar's 'The Dream of Gerontius,' given by the Choral Society on April 25, was notable for its appealing expression. The singers had been well impressed with the devotional meaning of the work by Mr. T. Hopkin Evans, the able conductor of the Society, and they reproduced it with the strength of conviction. Their execution, moreover, in common with the work of the orchestra, was of the highest efficiency. The solo parts were interpreted by Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, Mr. Alfred Heather, and Mr. James Coleman.

Okehampton (Devon).—The annual concert of the Choral Society took place on April 24. The principal item was Coleridge-Taylor's popular cantata, 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast,' which was well interpreted, Mr. Aldrovand Maynard being the soloist. Miss Myrtle Ross sang the solo-part in Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer,' and the choir gave Gaul's part-song, 'The singers.' Mr. Sydenham Jones was the conductor, and Miss Olive Beard accompanist. Attractive violoncello solos by Mr. C. G. Pike, and songs by Miss Ross and Mr. Maynard, completed a programme which was much appreciated by the large audience.

Reading.—The Reading Orpheus Society celebrated the completion of its thirtieth year by a special concert in the Town Hall on Wednesday, May 1. There was an augmented choir of eighty-five voices, and a special orchestra under the conductorship of Dr. F. J. Read, who founded the Society in the year 1882 and has ever since been its honorary conductor. Included in the programme were Félicien David's symphonic ode, 'The Desert,' and a scena entitled 'The eve of the battle,' composed for the Reading Orpheus Society by Dr. Read in 1889. Altogether the concert was one of very high excellence, and was greatly appreciated by the large assembled audience.

Stettler (Alberta, Canada).—Gaul's 'Ruth' was performed in the Methodist Church by an augmented choir on April 18. This is the first work of its kind to be given here, and a distinct success is recorded. The choir sang well, and there was not the slightest suggestion of flattening. A noticeable feature was the responsiveness of the choir. A miscellaneous programme followed, including 'Awake, Æolian lyre,' 'The Rhine raft song,' and 'Sleep, gentle lady,' sung by the choir. Songs were given by the soloists, and a trombone and violoncello duet. Mr. H. J. Unwin, choirmaster of the church, conducted.

Stourport.—With Coleridge-Taylor's new and popular cantata, 'A tale of Old Japan,' and Hofmann's 'Melusina' as a programme, and enthusiasm and good form on the part of the choir, the concert given by the Stourport Church Choral Society on April 24 was a notable success. The training of the choir constitutes pioneer work on the part of Mr. Jackson, and the efficiency with which it is carried out, as shown on this occasion, is highly creditable. The solo parts were sung by Miss Emily Breare, Miss Gertrude Evers, Mr. Frank Mullings, and Mr. W. H. Price.

Wallington.—At the Lecture Hall, on May 2, Mr. H. Francis Gregg gave his annual concert before a large audience, the chief feature being an admirable performance of Mendelssohn's Violin concerto by Miss Mary Law. Pianoforte solos by Schuman, Liszt, and MacDowell were contributed by the concert-giver and Miss Edith Rock. Songs were contributed by Miss Mabel Mann (a promising young contralto), Misses Maidstone, Campbell, and Annie Kees, and Messrs. Muir, Miller, and Ernest Stepan.

Welbeck.—The annual concert of the Choral Society was given in the Abbey Picture Gallery on April 18 before a large audience. Part 1 consisted of Gaul's 'Joan of Arc,' accompanied by a string orchestra, with Mr. J. D. Chandler at the pianoforte and Mr. A. W. Pitchford at the organ. The work received a splendid interpretation. The chorus singing was of a high order, the tone of the sopranos being specially noteworthy. The soloists were Miss Laura Bick, Mr. B. Franklin Taylor, and Mr. Constantine Morris. The second part, of a miscellaneous character, consisted of some excellent part-songs sung by the Society, and solos by the above-named and Lady Maud Warrender, whose beautiful and artistic singing aroused great enthusiasm. The concert was under the direction of Mr. Harry Minchin, the Abbey organist, who conducted.

Foreign Notes.

BERLIN.

At the Royal Opera House a season of comic opera, new and old, has been opened with revivals of Dittersdorff's 'Doktor und Apotheker' and the charming one-act musical play 'Die Maienkönigin,' the music of which has often been ascribed to Gluck. It is now known that Gluck only acted as editor of the work, which was originally in French. The music is a collection of old French chansons and contemporary operatic airs.——Herr Felix von Weingartner, who is legally prevented from appearing in Berlin for some years, has arranged to conduct during the next season four special symphony concerts at Fürstenwalde, a small town not far from the capital. Special trains will be run from Berlin.——At the Kurfürstenoper the first performance of the tragic opera 'Oberst Chabert,' by H. W. von Waltershausen, took place recently.

BRESLAU.

The Bach Festival will this year be held at Breslau. The Church cantatas No. 80, 'Ein feste Burg'' (A Stronghold sure), No. 17, 'Es ist ein trotzig und verzagt Ding,' and No. 19, 'Es erhub sich ein Streit'; the 'Brandenburg Concerto' for violin, with flutes and strings, and the Pianoforte concerto in D minor, constitute the programme. On Sunday there will be a Festival service, at which works by Pachelbel and Hassler are announced, the cantata being Bach's 39th, 'Brich dem Hungrigen' (Give to the hungry man). At the same time some of Bach's pieces will be included in the High Mass at the Catholic Cathedral. A chamber concert follows at noon, when, besides Bach, some early French music is announced. In the evening will be a concert containing Church Cantatas Nos. 103, 56, and 161; also a Motet by one of the older Bachs, Johann (1604-73), and two choruses by Schütz—'Woman, why weepest thou,' and 'Saul, why persecutest thou Me'—which should be exceptionally interesting. The last concert takes place on Monday evening, and contains the Kyrie from the short Mass in G major, one of the orchestral Suites in D, the Pianoforte concerto in F minor, and the cantata 'Æolus appeased.' The harpsichord is to be generally, though not always, used, instead of the pianoforte. The conductor will be Professor Dohrn, of Breslau; the soloists include several who appeared at the last Bach Festival, held in 1910 at Duisburg.

BRUSSELS.

The operatic season at the Théâtre Royal de la Monnaie terminated with special performances of Wagner's 'Tristan and Isolda' and the 'Ring des Niebelungen,' both given in German, with the most famous German Wagnerian artists in the leading parts.

CHICAGO (U.S.A.).

Under the direction of Mr. Friedrich Stock, the Thomas Orchestra has played many interesting works during the season, including Elgar's second Symphony, the Violin concerto (with Mr. Albert Spalding as soloist), Rachmaninoff's second Symphony, and his symphonic-poem, 'Der Toteninsel.' The rarely-heard third Symphony in C minor by Saint-Saëns was also performed.

CHRISTIANIA.

Wagner's 'Lohengrin' has been given for the first time in Norway at the National Theatre. The Danish tenor, Herr Vilholm Hérold, sang the title-part. No other work by Wagner has so far been performed in Norway.

DORTMUND.

At the fifth concert of the Musikverein (conducted by Professor Janssen) Mozart's little-known Grand Mass in C minor, as edited by Aloys Schmitt, was performed.

DRESDEN.

Two choral works, Max Reger's 'Weihe der Nacht' and Bruckner's 'Helgoland,' were sung for the first time in Dresden at a concert given by the Buchdrucker-Männergesangverein under the direction of Herr Theodor Werner.——At the Royal Opera, Humperdinck's 'Königskinder' has been performed for the first time.——Richard Mandl's 'Ouverture zu einem gascognischen Ritterspiel' was introduced at one of the last symphony concerts of the Königliche Kapelle.

FRANKFORT.

A new two-act comic opera, 'Dunja,' by Professor Iwan Knorr, principal of the Hoch'sche Conservatoire, was produced at the Opera House on April 14 with genuine success.

HAMBURG.

On April 13 Signor Ferruccio Busoni's first opera, 'Die Brautwahl,' was produced at the Municipal Theatre under the conductorship of Herr Gustav Brecher. It has three Acts and an epilogue. The composer has himself written the libretto, which is an adaptation of one of the fantastic stories from Hoffmann's 'Die Serapionsbrüder.' In spite of much interesting detail and distinct novelty and originality of treatment, the work was not a decided success.

LEIPSIC.

Herr Max Martersteig has been appointed director of the Municipal Theatres in succession to Herr Volkner. His activities commenced with a highly-creditable revival of Gluck's 'Iphigenia auf Tauris.' A new opera, 'Ninon von Lenclos,' composed by Michele A. Eulambio to the libretto of Ernst Hardt, was produced on April 27.

MAGDEBURG.

Liszt's choral works, 'The legend of St. Elisabeth' and the 'Graner Fest Messe,' were given recently by the Lehrergesangverein and the Kirchengesangverein.——Another interesting choral work, the 'Totentanz,' by Felix Woyrsch, was performed for the first time by the Reblingsche Gesangverein, conducted by Professor Kauffmann.

MANNHEIM.

Under the auspices of the Philharmonischer Verein (conducted by Herr Bodanzky) two festival concerts devoted to compositions by Gustav Mahler have been given before crowded houses. The programmes included the 'Lied von der Erde,' for alto and tenor solo and orchestra, the fourth Symphony (with soprano solo), and the stupendous eighth Symphony (with the choral section).

MARSEILLES.

Isidore de Lara's new tragic opera, 'Les trois Masques,' has been successfully produced at the Opera House.

MILAN.

The programme of the first of a series of orchestral concerts given at the Scala Theatre contained works by Wolf-Ferrari, Brahms and Roger Ducasse, and the 'Symphonia Domestica' of Richard Strauss, which was performed for the first time in Italy.——Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera 'La Pskovitana' has been given at the Scala Theatre for the first time in Italy with great success. The leading part was excellently played by M. Chaliapin.

MOSCOW.

A new Symphony, No. 3, by Glière, was produced recently and made a deep impression

MUNICH.

A new comic opera, 'Fanfreluche,' by Wilhelm Mauke, was produced recently at the Royal Opera. The libretto, by Georg Schaumberg, is an adaptation of a novel by Théophile Gautier.

NICE.

The new operas, 'Sangre y Sol,' by Alexandre Georges, and 'Gina,' by Jaques Larmanjat, have been produced at the Casino Theatre.

PARIS.

César Franck's oratorio 'Le Rédemption' was performed recently at a Conservatoire concert. Two oratorios, 'In memoriam patris' and 'Transitus animæ,' by the Abbé Lorenzo Perosi, have been given under the composer's direction, at the Lamoureux Concerts. At the same concerts, M. Vincent d'Indy conducted his second Symphony, Op. 57, and Sylvia Lazzari's orchestral work, 'Effet du nuit,' was also performed.——At the Salle Pleyel, the Lejeune Quartet submitted an interesting programme containing a String quartet by the Swedish composer, Wilhelm Stenhammar; three Idylles for string quartet by Frank Bridge; 'Le Soir,' four impressions for pianoforte, by Egon Wellesz (a pupil of Arnold Schönberg); and the Sestet for strings, 'Nuit transfigurée,' by Arnold Schönberg.——A two-act opera, 'Les Fugitifs,' by André Fijan, has been produced at the Opéra-Comique.——On April 24, M. Massenet's new five-act tragic opera, 'Roma,' was performed at the Grand Opéra for the first time in Paris. The libretto, by M. Henri Cain, is founded upon Alexandre Parodi's drama, 'Rome vaincue,' and affords many opportunities for dramatic treatment. M. Massenet's music is a not altogether successful attempt to assume a grander style. The work was, however, very well received.——The Théâtre-Lyrique de la Gaité produced M. Isidore de Lara's opera, 'Naïl,' on April 22.——At the last concert of the Société Musicale Indépendante a very complex and original Pianoforte quintet by Herr Janco Birnenbaum, a young German composer, was heard for the first time.——The series of Conservatoire Concerts terminated with a performance of Chausson's Symphony in B minor.

PRAGUE.

A new opera by Karl Weis, 'Der Sturm auf der Mühle,' has been produced with success at the Tschech National Theatre.——Under the direction of Herr Zemlinsky, Mahler's eighth Symphony was performed for the first time in Prague and made an excellent impression.——At the Deutsche Landestheater the first performance of Kienzl's opera, 'Der Kuhreigen,' proved very successful. Madame Clara Butt was well received on the occasion of her first appearance in Prague.

ROME.

A short season of opera-buffa has been given at the Costanzi Theatre. Among the works represented were Pergolesi's 'Serva padrona,' 'Il matrimonio segreto,' by Cimarosa,' and Donizetti's best works, 'L'Elisir d'amore' and 'Don Pasquale.'

ROUEN.

Under the direction of M. Albert Dupré, Haydn's rarely-heard 'The seven last words of Christ' proved an impressive work on its recent revival.

ST. PETERSBURG.

Bruckner's ninth Symphony was played for the first time at a concert given by the Imperial Court Orchestra.——At a concert devoted to modern music, an unpublished dramatic fragment from Moussorgsky's unfinished opera, 'Das Jahrmarkt von Ssorotchinzy,' proved highly interesting. On the same occasion the composer's series of pianoforte pieces, 'Tableaux d'une exposition,' were played.——Under the direction of Messrs. Naprawnik and Albert Coates, Wagner's 'Der Ring des Niebelungen' was very well performed.

SCHWERIN.

On May 3 and 4, a Festival devoted to chamber music by Danish composers took place with much success. The programmes contained a Pianoforte sonata and a Trio by Victor Bendix, a Violin sonata by Otto Malling, a String quartet by Carl Nielsen, and Hakon Börresen's Sextet for strings. Miss Ellen Beck sang Heise's song-cycle, 'Dyvekes Sange.'

STRASSBURG.

A performance of the 'St. Matthew Passion' by Heinrich Schütz, given by the Akademischer Kirchenchor under the direction of Professor Spitta, proved highly interesting.

STUTTGART.

Under the direction of Herr Max Schillings, Hans Sommer's interesting comic opera 'St. Foix' was given for the first time at the Royal Opera with considerable success.

VIENNA.

Marziano Perosi's opera 'Pompeii' has been performed here for the first time at the Volksoper. The libretto has been adapted by Messrs. Schreder and Prosl, from Bulwer Lytton's 'The last days of Pompeii.'——At the Imperial Court Opera a new ballet, 'Des Teufels Grossmutter,' with charming music by Oscar Nedbal, proved very successful when recently produced.——Cyril Scott's overture to 'Princess Maleine,' for orchestra, mixed chorus and organ, was produced at the seventh concert of the Philharmonischer Chor, conducted by Herr Schrecker.

WIESBADEN.

Gluck's 'Armida,' as edited by G. von Hülsen and Joseph Schlar, has been revived at the Royal Theatre with much success.

Miscellaneous.

The fortieth Annual Festival of the London Sunday School Choir will be held on June 12 at the Crystal Palace, when three concerts will be given by this old-established Choir. At the first, 5,000 juveniles, conducted by Mr. J. Wellard Mathews, will give a programme of part-songs, action-songs, and Sunday School music. At the second, the Festival Choir, under the direction of Mr. William Whiteman, will give selections from Handel's 'Solomon,' Balfe's 'Bohemian Girl,' Gounod's 'Faust,' and anthems and part-songs by Spohr, Woodward, German, Hatton, &c. A full orchestra, conducted by Mr. Wesley Hammet, will take part. The third concert will be given in the concert-room at 8 p.m., when Jenkins's Mandoline and Guitar Band (the largest in the world) will perform. In addition, the annual competition for the Founders' Grand Challenge Shields for Junior and Senior Choirs will take place. Mr. Leonard C. Venables will be the adjudicator.

The students of the London Academy of Music gave performances of Racine's 'Athalie,' with Mendelssohn's music, at the Hampstead Conservatoire, on April 24 and 25. The work was produced for the first time in England in its original dramatic form at St. George's Hall in June, 1900, owing to the enterprise of Dr. Yorke Trotter and Mr. Charles Fry, and it was then evident how much Mendelssohn's music gained in dramatic significance. At the performances under notice the choruses were effectively sung under the inspiriting direction of Mr. Henry Beauchamp, the solo parts being undertaken by Miss Queenie Watt, who sang the soprano music capably, Miss Althaus, and Miss H. Boatwright. The orchestral assistance was efficient. The dramatic part of the work was very ably carried out. The stage-production was again in the experienced hands of Mr. Charles Fry, who has been so long identified with this work on the concert-platform.

An urgent appeal is being made for funds to restore the organ at St. Peter's Church, Vere Street, W. As past organists of the Church include such names as William Boyce, Theodore Aylward (who lies buried in St. George's Chapel, Windsor), Dr. Burney, Walter Bache, Dr. Rimbault and others, and the music for many years past has been on a high level of excellence, it is hoped that music-lovers will be tempted to assist in the scheme to bring the organ up to modern requirements. Cheques may be sent to the London County & Westminster Bank, Stratford Place, W., made payable to the 'St. Peter's Church, Vere Street, Organ Fund.'

Miss Evelyn Osborne, a pupil of Madame Edith Hands, has been awarded the Parepa-Rosa Scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music.

Answers to Correspondents.

STUDENT.—(1) The dots mean a separate movement of the bow to each note, and do not necessarily destroy the legato. (2) Buck's 'Unfigured harmony' (Oxford: The Clarendon Press), published at 6*s.* is the best book for your purpose. (3) There are useful instruction books on orchestration by Prout (Novello, small), Corder (Curwen, larger), Prout (Augener, large). The treatises of Berlioz (Novello) and Gevaert (Henry Lamoine, Paris) are both published in English.

J. E. BROOKE.—William Vincent Wallace, the composer of 'Maritana,' was born in 1814 and died in 1865. 'Son of mine' was written by Mr. William Wallace, the present secretary of the Philharmonic Society.

L. WAITE.—The Caxton Hall, Westminster, has a platform designed for orchestras, raised at the back, and seats upwards of 500.

S. S.—We hope to give an account of the life and works of Sibelius in the near future.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Dr. Camille Saint-Saëns (with Special Portrait). By M.-D. Calvocoressi	365
Orlando Gibbons. By H. Orsmond Anderton	367
Syncopation and Emphasis.—I. By Reginald Gatty	369
Occasional Notes	373
Sir George C. Martin, M.V.O.	374
Friedrich Wilhelm Marpurg. By Jeffrey Pulver	375
Sir Hubert Parry's Songs	377
Style and Substance in Literature and Music. By Herbert Antcliffe	378
'The Times' on Competitive Music Festivals	379
Church and Organ Music	380
The Pedal Organ. By Arthur T. Froggatt	380
Reviews	382
Correspondence	384
Obituary	385
An Article on Elgar in a Dutch Journal	386
The Leeds Choir in Paris	387
Opera Season in New York. By Claud Trevor	387
The London Symphony Orchestra in America	388
London Opera House. By Hermann Klein	388
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	389
Shakespeare's England	390
'The Desert' at the Albert Hall	390
Mr. Balfour Gardiner's Concerts	390
Mr. Montague Phillips's Concert	395
London Concerts	395
Suburban Concerts	397
Music in the Provinces	398
Country and Colonial News	402
Foreign Notes	403
Miscellaneous	405
Answers to Correspondents	405

MUSIC:

'Phyllis the Fair.' Part-Song for S.A.T.B. Arranged by EDGAR L. BAINTON	391

THREE Extra Supplements are given with this number:

1. Portrait of Dr. Camille Saint-Saëns.
2. My delight and thy delight. Four-part Song. By C. Hubert H. Parry.
3. Competition Festival Record.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

ALLEN, G. P.—Andantino. For Violin (or Violoncello) and Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

ARCHER, J. STUART.—Canzonet in A. (No. 425, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

BAINTON, E. L.—"Phyllis the fair." Scottish Folk-Melody. Arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 832, The Musical Times.) 1½d.

BARNBY, J.—"King, All-glorious." Motet for Soli and Chorus. The Chorus arranged for Four Voices by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 997, Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

BRIDGE, SIR FREDERICK.—"Carmen Feriale Westmonasteriense." 3d.

—— "When father votes." Humorous Quartet for A.T.B.B. 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

CHENEY, H. J.—"When I am dead, my dearest." Song. 2s.

CLASSICAL SONGS (Vol. 3).—Thirty-eight by various Composers. 1s. 6d. (For contents, see page 412.)

CUTHBERT, J.—Romance. For Violin and Pianoforte. (Op. 24.) 1s. 6d.

DAVIES, E. HAROLD.—Five Songs of Childhood. 2s. (For Contents, see page 419.)

DAVIES, H. WALFORD.—Solemn Melody. Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD.—Romance. For Bassoon and Orchestra. (Op. 62.) Full Score. 5s.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—"My bonnie lass, she smileth." Four-part Song. (No. 1247, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

—— "Sweet day, so cool." Four-part Song. (No. 1239, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

GLUCK, C. W.—Musette from "Armide." Arranged for Two Violins, Violoncello (ad lib.), and Pianoforte by J. W. SLATTER. (No. 24, Novello's School Band Music.) 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Violoncello, 3d.; Pianoforte, 1s.

GREY, EDITH.—Six Album Leaves. For Pianoforte. (Op. 17.) 2s.

HARRISON, JULIUS.—"Come away, death." Trio for S.S.A. (No. 428, Novello's Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

HARRISS, ALFRED.—Kyrie in G, and Quadruple Chant in E flat. On Card. 2d.

HEGAR, F.—"The Wandering Jew." (Op. 34.) Cantata for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. The English Words by PAUL ENGLAND. 2s.

IDLE, F.—"Puck is King." Four-part Song. (No. 1229, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

JENNINGS, W. E.—Kyrie, Gloria, and Gratias, from Communion Service in F. 1d.

JEROME, H.—Serenade. Song. For Tenor. 2s.

—— "Rapelle-Toi." Song. French words. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

KREUZ, EMIL.—Norwegian Suite. (No. 25, Novello's School Band Music.) 1st Violin, 1s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Basso, 1s.

—— Patriotic Suite. (No. 26, Novello's School Band Music.) 1st Violin, 1s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 1s. 6d.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Basso, 1s.

LLOYD, C. H.—Four Characteristic Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. 3s. (For Contents, see page 418.)

LOWTHIAN, CAROLINE.—"The Wattle." Unison Song. 6d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—Saltarello, from Six Pieces for Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. (Op. 37.) 2s.

MACPHERSON, CHARLES.—"Adieu, sweet Amaryllis." Four-part Song. (No. 1227, Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

MOODIE, J.—"Through the day Thy love has spared us." Hymn and Tune. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa together. 1d.

NOVELLO'S Albums for the Organ. No. 3. Twelve Selected Pieces. 3s. 6d.; Cloth, 5s. (For Contents, see page 417.)

PITT, PERCY.—"Love is a sickness full of woes." Madrigalian Part-Song for S.S.A.T.B.B. (No. 1248 Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

REID, MABEL.—"Bluebells." Song. 1s. 6d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW.—No. 240 contains the following music in both notations: "Bird-Song" (May.) Unison Song. COLIN TAYLOR. "Mother's Song." Unison Song. LADY ARTHUR HILL. 1½d.

SCHUBERT, F.—Litany for All Souls' Day. Arranged for S.A.T.B. by SEYMOUR DICKER. 2d.

SELBY B. LUARD.—"The days when we gathered the daisies." Two-part Song. (No. 159, Novello's Two-part Songs.) 1½d.

SMITH, H. ARNOLD.—"Come back." Song for Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

SULLIVAN, A.—"The Beleaguered." Four-part Song. Arranged for S.A.T.B. by HAROLD BROOKE. (No. 1238, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

THORNE, E. H.—Sonata in F minor. (No. 430, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 3s.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT:

No. 2035. "Rest, dearest, rest." Part-song for T.T.B.B. J. KÜCKEN. 1½d.

,, 2036. "Evening and Morning." Anthem. SIR HERBERT OAKELEY. 1d.

,, 2037. "Theme sublime of endless praise." Chorus from "Jephtha." HANDEL. 1½d.

,, 2038. "Spirit of Night." Eight-part Song. GRANVILLE BANTOCK. 4d.

,, 2042. "The Frog." Humorous Part-song for T.T.B.B. ERNEST NEWTON. 1½d.

TYE, C.—"Missa Euge Bone." For Six Voices. Edited by R. R. TERRY. 2s.

WESLEY, S. S.—"Blessed is the Man." Anthem for A.T.T.B. 2d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"The little sandman." German Volkslied, arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 1224, Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE.—Te Deum and Jubilate in F. 3d.

MANCHESTER CATHEDRAL.

The post of Sub-Organist will shortly be vacant. Salary £100 per annum. Applications, stating age and experience, to be sent by June 3, to The Organist, Cathedral, Manchester, from whom particulars can be obtained.

STUDENT-TEACHER.—VIOLINIST with knowledge of piano WANTED in School of Music near London. Good opportunity for young gentleman to study and learn teaching business with view to permanency. Small premium, salary to commence. State qualifications, age, &c., to M. A., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, London, W.

VOICE-PRODUCTION AND SINGING.—Advertiser desires to meet young gentleman to train as Teacher of Singing at College of Music, London. Splendid opening. Premium £50. Address, first instance, B., 74, Abinger Road, Bedford Park, W.

ALTO REQUIRED (Voluntary) for West-End Church. Quarterly expenses 25s. allowed. Apply, G. N., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

ORGAN PEDALS TO PIANOS.—Effective, reliable, and cheap. Bonâ-fide testimonials from eminent organists. One shop-soiled set £3. Rossiter Bros., Uxbridge.

GRAND ÆOLIAN ORCHESTRELLE ORGAN. 17 Stops. Italian walnut case. 27 Records. Sacrifice £45. R. B., 93, Marina, St. Leonards.

NEW EDITION (1912).

A HANDBOOK OF EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC
CONTAINING
600 QUESTIONS WITH ANSWERS
BY
ERNEST A. DICKS,
FELLOW OF THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The scope of this book covers the whole ground of theoretical examinations in music. It supplies an invaluable equipment to candidates entering for the various Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge held periodically throughout the country, and it will be found extremely useful to those who are preparing for the higher grades of Diploma and Degree Examinations.

The book is therefore very comprehensive. Its range includes questions and answers in Theory, Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Fugue, Acoustics, Musical History, Organ Construction, and Choir Training.

By no means the least valuable part of the volume is that section, consisting of upwards of one hundred pages, which contains reprints of past examination papers set by the Associated Board, Trinity College, and the Incorporated Society of Musicians; the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Durham, and Edinburgh; The Royal Academy of Music, The Royal College of Music, The Royal College of Organists, and The College of Preceptors. The advantage of having so many specimens of these actual examination papers within one cover is too obvious to need further comment or commendation.

PREFACE TO THE NINTH EDITION.

The author desires to acknowledge his great indebtedness to the authorities of the London University; the Royal Academy of Music; the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music; The Royal College of Organists; Trinity College of Music, London; and the Incorporated Society of Musicians, for their kindness in allowing him to incorporate copies of their latest Examination Papers in Parts II. and III. of his Handbook, in order that he might present their latest examination requirements.

E. A. D.

PRICE, CLOTH, THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.
THE QUESTIONS (separately), PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
One inch (displayed)	0	10	0
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with every Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 160, Wardour Street, London, W., not later than FRIDAY, JUNE 21.

(FIRST POST.)

SERENADE

FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA

BY

PERCY PITT.

(Op. 39.)

CONTENTS:

1. Allegretto scherzando.
2. Alla marcia.
3. Intermezzo.
4. Pizzicato.
5. Alla Gavotta.

	s.	d.
FULL SCORE	10	6
STRING PARTS	5	6
WIND PARTS	9	6
PIANOFORTE SOLO	2	6

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

From the opening Allegretto scherzando—a particularly fresh and blithesome section—to the concluding Gavotte and Musette, the music runs a simple, melodious course. . . . The work is conceived throughout in a joyous mood, but the composer, by his deft use of rhythms, never allows the hearer to experience any sense of sameness.

STANDARD.

On many occasions Mr. Percy Pitt has proved his versatile musical gifts, but rarely have they been indicated in a more attractive way and with such a pleasant vein of fancy as in his "Serenade." . . . These five sketches are like little water-colours in their lightness of design and delicacy of hue, and appeal to the imagination because of their unpretentious, simple, yet interesting character.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

The "Serenade" scored one of the most brilliant successes of the season. It has everything in its favour—melody, piquant orchestration, and clever musicianship.

DAILY MAIL.

It is a work which should be immensely popular.

DAILY NEWS.

The Suite as a whole made very pleasant hearing, and should prove popular with conductors of small orchestras.

SUNDAY TIMES.

Its melodiousness, clearness, and deft orchestration make it delightful hearing.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST BEFORE BED-TIME

SIX LITTLE SONGS FOR GOOD CHILDREN

THE WORDS BY

ELPHINSTONE THORPE

THE MUSIC BY

J. M. CAPEL.

1. Stilton Hall.
2. A kipper and his slipper.
3. Robin's Reward.
4. Greedy Grub, the Spider.
5. A mouse in the moon.
6. Wise Mrs. Rabbit.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.
Or Singly, One Shilling each net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOUR

SHAKESPERIAN PART-SONGS

For S.A.T.B. (unaccompanied).

COMPOSED BY

LIZA LEHMANN.

1. I KNOW A BANK.
2. WHEN ICICLES HANG BY THE WALL.
3. TELL ME, WHERE IS FANCY BRED?
4. UNDER THE GREENWOOD TREE.

Price Ninepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COUNTRY DANCE TUNES

COLLECTED AND ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE BY

CECIL J. SHARP.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Set.

SET I.
Brighton Camp.	We won't go home till morning.
Galopede.	Speed the Plough.
Ribbon Dance.	Pop goes the Weasel.
The Butterfly.	The Flowers of Edinburgh.
SET II.
Nancy's Fancy.	Haste to the Wedding.
Bonnets so Blue.	Hunt the Squirrel.
The Triumph.	Tink-a-Tink.
Step and fetch her (or Follow your Lovers).	Three meet (or Pleasures of the Town).
SET III.
Jenny Pluck Pears.	Rufty Tufty.
Putney Ferry.	Parson's Farewell.
Mage on a Cree.	The Glory of the West.
The Fine Companion.	Saint Martin's.
Newcastle.	Hey, boys, up go we.
Gathering Peascods.	Grimstock.
Oranges and Lemons.	The Beggar Boy.
Dull Sir John.
SET IV.
Chestnut, or Dove's Figary.	Staines Morris.
The Black Nag.	Amarillis.
Cheerily and Merrily.	Black Jack.
Ten Pound Lass.	Jamaica.
Nonesuch, or A la Mode de France.	My Lady Cullen.
Dargason, or Sedany.	London is a fine Town (or Watton Town's end).
Goddesses.
New Bo-Peep, or Pickadilla.	The Twenty-Ninth of May.

THE COUNTRY DANCE BOOK

EDITED BY

CECIL J. SHARP.

PART I. Containing a description, &c., of the Dances in Sets I. and II.

PART II. Containing a description, &c., of the Dances in Sets III. and IV.

Price, Paper Covers, Two Shillings and Sixpence each Part.
Cloth, Three Shillings and Sixpence each Part.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SOLEMN MELODY

COMPOSED BY

H. WALFORD DAVIES.

FULL ORCHESTRA.

	s.	d.
FULL SCORE	3	0
STRING PARTS	1	3
WIND PARTS	3	9

STRINGS AND ORGAN.

SCORE	2	0
STRING PARTS	1	3
ORGAN	0	6
PIANOFORTE SOLO	1	6
ORGAN SOLO	1	6
VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE	1	6
(In the Press.)
VIOLONCELLO AND PIANOFORTE	1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

No. 81, NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

THREE-PART STUDIES

FOR THE USE OF

SCHOOLS AND LADIES' CHOIRS,

BY

HUGH BLAIR,

WITH PREFACE AND DIRECTIONS FOR PRACTICE

BY JAMES BATES.

Price Ninepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS
FOR TRINITYTIDE.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Almighty and everlasting God	Gibbons	1½d.
Angel spirits ever blessed (Hymn to the Trinity, No. 3)	P. Tchaikovsky	2d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	4d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Be ye all of one mind	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed angel spirits (Hymn to the Trinity)	P. Tchaikovsky	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	Boyce	1½d.
*Blessing, glory	Bach	6d.
Come, ye children	Josiah Booth	3d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	J. T. Field	2d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	G. C. Martin	4d.
He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.), in Key of A	F. Hiller	1½d.
*He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.), in Key of A flat	F. Hiller	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
Holy, Lord God Almighty	Thomas Bateson	4d.
*How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity (Blessed angel spirits)	P. Tchaikovsky	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity, No. 3 (Angel spirits, ever blessed)	P. Tchaikovsky	2d.
I am Alpha and Omega	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.
*Light of the world	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might	William Mason	1½d.
Lord of all power and might (Men's Voices)	J. Barnby	2d.
Lord, we pray Thee	H. A. Chambers	1½d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. Varley Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
O joyful Light	B. Tours	4d.
*O Lord, my trust	King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see	John Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Sing to the Lord	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	John Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
*We give Thee thanks	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
We have heard with our ears	H. Aldrich	1s.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	Mozart	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES

124a	Almighty God, Who hast promised	H. Elliot Button	1d.
124b	Grant to us, Lord	H. Elliot Button	1d.
*7b	Let Thy merciful ears	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
22	O God, Who hast prepared	A. R. Gaul	2d.
69	Teach me Thy way	Frank L. Moir	3d.
124c	We humbly beseech Thee	H. Elliot Button	1d.

* Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.
D

CANTIONES SACRÆ
MUSICAL SETTINGS OF THE
ROMAN LITURGY
EDITED BY
DOM SAMUEL GREGORY OULD,
Monk of the Order of St. Benedict.

33.	ADESTE FIDELES. The complete Text (8 verses) with a Prelude by Dr. F. E. Gladstone, and varied Accompaniments by H. B. Collins, Dom Samuel G. Ould, Sir Walter Parratt, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Dr. C. W. Pearce, William Sewell, Dr. A. E. Tozer, and S. P. Waddington		1s.
4.	ADORAMUS TE, CHRISTE	Mozart	2d.
22.	ADOREMUS (for Benediction)	F. E. Gladstone	2d.
2.	ADOREMUS (Motet)	C. W. Pearce	6d.
10.	ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER	W. Sewell	2d.
56.	ANGELUS AD VIRGINEM	S. G. Ould	3d.
40.	AVE MARIA, Op. 12, S.S.A.A.	J. Brahms	6d.
42.	AVE MARIA	Edward Elgar	3d.
53.	AVE MARIA	Robert Parsons	3d.
55.	AVE MARIA	Verdonck	2d.
43.	AVE MARIS STELLA	Edward Elgar	3d.
27.	AVE MARIS STELLA	S. P. Waddington	6d.
45.	AVE REGINA CŒLORUM	S. Ould	2d.
11.	AVE REGINA CŒLORUM	W. Sewell	2d.
36.	AVE VERUM (Sol-fa, 1d.)	Edward Elgar	2d.
7.	AVE VERUM	Healey Willan	2d.
26.	BENEDICTA ET VENERABILIS	F. E. Gladstone	6d.
6.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison)	S. Ould	3d.
59.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison)	R. R. Terry	3d.
9.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Unison)	John E. West	3d.
32.	BENEDICTION SERVICE (Four-part)	Agnes Zimmermann	2d.
48.	BONE PASTOR	M. H. Eslava	2d.
38.	CHRISTUS FACTUS EST	Felice Anerio	2d.
29.	COMPLINE HYMN	S. Ould	3d.
52.	COR JESU, SALUS IN TE SPERANTIUM (Motet)	W. Schulthes	3d.
50.	CRUX FIDELIS (Motet)	S. P. Waddington	4d.
3.	DEUS MISEREATUR	F. E. Gladstone	6d.
47.	DEXTERA DOMINI	W. Sewell	2d.
34.	DOMINE SALVUM FAC in G	Ch. Gounod	2d.
30.	DOMINE SALVUM FAC	E. Silas	2d.
12.	DOMINE SALVUM FAC	A. E. Tozer	2d.
17.	HÆC DIES	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
7.	HODIE SANCTUS BENEDICTUS	Peter Philips	4d.
60.	INTENDE VOCI ORATIONIS MEÆ	Edward Elgar	2d.
49.	LAUDA SION	R. O. Y. Cahahorra	2d.
20.	LITANY OF LORETTO, THE	F. E. Gladstone	6d.
44.	LITANY OF LORETTO, THE	S. G. Ould	2d.
23.	MAGNIFICAT in A	F. E. Gladstone	8d.
31.	MAGNIFICAT in E flat	William Sewell	4d.
1.	MAGNIFICAT in B flat	E. Silas	6d.
28.	MAGNIFICAT in D	E. Silas	1s.
15.	MISERERE in F	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
16.	MISERERE in F sharp minor	F. E. Gladstone	6d.
25.	MISERERE (Gregorian Chant)	(Harmonized by V. Novello)	3d.
54.	O DOCTOR OPTIME (Motet)	Palestrina	3d.
61.	O REX GLORIÆ (Edited by J. Varley Roberts)	S. Webbe	2d.
19.	O SALUTARIS HOSTIA	F. E. Gladstone	2d.
58.	O VOS OMNES QUI TRANSITIS PER VIAM	Sebastian Duron	3d.
41.	O VOS OMNES QUI TRANSITIS PER VIAM	T. L. de La Vittoria	3d.
39.	PANIS ANGELICUS (Italian, 18th Century?)	Edited by S. Ould	3d.
46.	RECORDARE	W. Sewell	2d.
51.	REGINA CŒLI	A. Hollins	2d.
8.	REGINA CŒLI	W. Sewell	2d.
14.	RESPONSES AT MASS AND OFFICE.	Harmonized by S. Ould	3d.
35.	SALVATOR MUNDI	J. Blow	4d.
24.	SALVE, REGINA in E	R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
13.	SALVE, REGINA	Schubert	2d.
5.	SALVE, REGINA	W. Sewell	2d.
18.	SALVE, REGINA	S. P. Waddington	4d.
21.	TANTUM ERGO	F. E. Gladstone	2d.
37.	VIRGAM VIRTUTIS TUÆ	Leonardo Leo	4d

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE CHANT COMMUNION SERVICE

WITH SUITABLE HYMNS.

ARRANGED BY

THE REV. C. W. A. BROOKE, M.A.

The Creed and Gloria in Excelsis have been arranged in verses and pointed both for Anglican and Gregorian chanting, and set to appropriate chants.

Suitable for village or small choirs, and mission services, or for congregations without the aid of a choir.

LIST OF HYMNS AND TUNES.

First Line.	Author.	Tune.	Composer.
Accept our alms	Anon.	Cherry Hinton	G. B. Lissant.
According to Thy gracious Word	J. Montgomery ...	St. John's, Westminster ...	J. Turle.
Bread of the world, in mercy broken ...	Bishop Heber	Eucharist	J. E. West.
		Troyte's Chant, No. 1
		Jam lucis
Faith of our fathers ! living still	F. W. Faber	Holy Faith	G. C. Martin.
		Faith	A Swiss Air.
Father, see Thy children bending at Thy throne	W. B. Trevelyan ...	Forward	Dean Alford.
Lord, knowing Thy love and Thy parting command	W. Wade	The Good Shepherd	J. Barnby.
O God of Mercy, God of Might	J. Keble	Refreshment	G. M. Garrett.
Remember Me ; show forth My death ...	S. J. Stone	Gadsden	F. B. Townend.
See, Father, Thy beloved Son	W. H. H. Jervois ...	Henman	W. Henman.
When children saw Thee coming, Lord ...	R. F. Smith	Burrator	C. W. A. Brooke.

PRICE FOURPENCE.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

THE NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER

CONTAINING

THE PSALMS OF DAVID

TOGETHER WITH THE CANTICLES AND PROPER PSALMS.

EDITED AND POINTED FOR CHANTING BY

COSMO GORDON LANG, D.D.
(ARCHBISHOP OF YORK).

HENRY SCOTT HOLLAND, D.Litt.
(Canon and Precentor of St. Paul's).

CHARLES H. LLOYD, M.A., Mus.D.
(Precentor of Eton).

GEORGE C. MARTIN, Mus.D.
(Organist of St. Paul's).

WORDS ONLY.

		Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 51.	With Superimposed notes. Demy 8vo	2 6	4 6
No. 61.	With Prosody signs. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 62.	With Prosody signs. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6
No. 71.	With Varied type. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 72.	With Varied type. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6

NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS.

			Paper. s. d.	Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 81.	For Cathedral use, "The St. Paul's Cathedral Chant Book," Revised Edition.	F'cap 4to ..	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 81A.	Ditto ditto	Post 4to ..	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 82.	For Parish Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than D.	F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 82A.	Ditto ditto	Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 83.	For Village Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than C.	F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 83A.	Ditto ditto	Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6

PSALTER AND CHANTS COMBINED.

No. 53.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 54.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 55.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 63.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 64.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 65.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 73.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 74.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 75.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6

The "New Cathedral Psalter," though founded on the old Cathedral Psalter, is a distinct book, and the two books cannot be used together. The old Cathedral Psalter is still in circulation in all its editions, with the exception of No. 1, formerly published at 9d.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S HYMNS AND TUNES

FOR

Sunday School Anniversary Services.

No.
	SET I.
1.	Come, children, on and forward	GEORGE C. MARTIN
2.	For the freshness of the morning	Lady EUAN-SMITH
3.	I love to hear the story	FREDERIC CLAY
4.	Come, O come! in pious lays	J. STAINER
5.	Thine for ever! God of Love	W. C. HARVEY
6.	Jesu, Whom Thy children love	H. ELLIOT BUTTON
7.	Sweetly o'er the meadows fair	F. A. CHALLINOR
8.	Would you gain the best in life	C. J. MAY
9.	On our way rejoicing	WALTER B. GILBERT
10.	Now the daylight goes away	J. ADCOCK
	SET II.
1.	Again the morn of gladness	J. STAINER
2.	The Angels' Song	ALBERTO RANDEGGER
3.	Forward, Christian children	ALFRED MOFFAT
4.	The Golden Shore	J. STAINER
5.	Saviour, blessèd Saviour	JOHN E. WEST
6.	Enter with thanksgiving	F. H. COWEN
7.	Man shall not live by bread alone	J. VARLEY ROBERTS
8.	Stars, that on your wondrous way	J. STAINER
9.	The day is past and over	JOSEPH BARNBY
10.	God will take care of you	FRANCES R. HAVERGAL
	SET III.
1.	We march, we march, to victory	JOSEPH BARNBY
2.	Hark! hark! the organ loudly peals	GEORGE J. BENNETT
3.	O what can little hands do?	H. ELLIOT BUTTON
4.	While the sun is shining	T. ADAMS
5.	I love to hear the story	H. J. GAUNTLETT
6.	The roseate hues of early dawn	A. SULLIVAN
7.	Lord, Thy children guide and keep	A. S. COOPER
8.	In our work and in our play	F. WESTLAKE
9.	The Beautiful Land	J. STAINER
10.	Gentle Jesus, meek and mild	J. STAINER

Both Notations, price Fourpence per Set.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TEN HYMNS (SET I.)

WITH TUNES

FOR USE IN SCHOOLS AND FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS.

(Suitable also for Flower Services or Sunday School Festivals.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN, JOHN STAINER, GEORGE ELVEY, A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.

TEN HYMNS (SET II.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, F. H. COWEN, J. LANGRAN, S. SMITH, A. SULLIVAN, J. STAINER, AND OTHERS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100, each Set.

TEN HYMNS (SET III.)

NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES FOR CHILDREN'S USE.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, H. WALFORD DAVIES, J. H. MAUNDER, J. BARNBY, FREDERICK CLAY, C. HARFORD LLOYD, JOHN E. WEST, H. DAVAN WETTON, B. TOURS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

The Ten Hymns, complete, price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D. CANTAB.

ORGAN.

Two Organ Sketches	2s. od. net.
Two Short Pieces—
Larghetto in F	2s. od. ,,
Pastorale in A
Andantino in G flat	1s. 6d. ,,
Second Set of Six Original Pieces—
No. 7. Prelude in A	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 8. Andante in F
,, 9. Adagio in D flat	1s. od. ,,
,, 10. Andante Pastorale in G	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 11. Minuet and Trio
,, 12. Toccata in A major	1s. 6d. ,,

PIANOFORTE.

Capriccio in E major	2s. od. net.
Three Musical Sketches—
Entitled: Summer, Autumn, and Winter	2s. od. ,,
Gavotte in D	2s. od. ,,
Romance and Mazurka	2s. od. ,,

ANTHEMS.

If ye love Me (Whitsuntide). Four Voices	3d.
I will magnify Thee (Whitsuntide)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
I was glad (Festival)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
O how amiable. Soprano Solo and Chorus	4d.
Communion Services in E major. Four Voices	9d.
Do. in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.

"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
HARVEST ANTHEMS.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord	3d.	2d.
SERVICES.
SERVICE IN G	1/6	1s.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum	3d.	2d.
Benedicite, omnia Opera	2d.	2d.
Benedictus	2d.	2d.
Jubilate	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	8d.	6d.
Pater Noster from the above	2d.	2d.
Amen ditto	1d.	1d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
SERVICE IN CHANT FORM (No. 1)	1s.	8d.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum, &c., with Kyrie	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	6d.	4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
ORGAN.
Voix Séraphique (for Recitals)	2/-
CHURCH CANTATA.
Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General use)	1/6	1s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

ADDITIONAL HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR USE WITH

HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN

OR ANY OTHER CHURCH HYMNAL.

272 pages, Imperial 16mo. Cloth Boards, price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Hymns only, Imperial 32mo, Cloth Boards, One Shilling.

Hymns only, medium 32mo, diamond type, cloth, 4d.; paper, 3d.

Complete edition, bound with HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN (Quarto), 6s. 6d. net.

As its name implies, this book is designed for use with, and not in place of, other Church Hymnals.

For this reason the Hymns are numbered from 801, so that the numbers may not interfere with the use of any other hymn book, no other Church hymn book having as many as even seven hundred hymns. Each hymn has its own distinctive tune, and no hymn or tune in this work is found in Hymns Ancient and Modern (Old Edition), so that with the two books no duplication occurs.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

SHORT PRELUDES

FOR THE

ORGAN

These Short Preludes are intended for use chiefly as Introductory Voluntaries to Divine Service, more especially in those churches where the time allowed for such is, of necessity, somewhat limited. They occupy in performance from about one to two minutes.

No.
	BOOK I.
1.	Andante Grazioso	Thomas Adams
2.	Andante	W. G. Alcock
3.	Largamente	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante Religioso	Myles B. Foster
5.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
6.	Adagio Cantabile	Alfred Hollins
7.	Larghetto	Charles J. May
8.	Andante con Moto	John E. West
9.	Andantino quasi Allegretto	John E. West
10.	Andante	W. Wolstenholme
	BOOK II.
1.	Andante con Moto	Thomas Adams
2.	Con Moto	W. G. Alcock
3.	Moderato	H. A. Chambers
4.	Marziale, poco Lento	Myles B. Foster
5.	Moderato	Alfred Hollins
6.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
7.	Adagio	Charles J. May
8.	"Hymnus"—Andante e Sostenuto	John E. West
9.	Andante Serioso	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme
	BOOK III.
1.	Moderato e Legato	Thomas Adams
2.	Moderato	W. G. Alcock
3.	Andante con Moto	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante	H. A. Chambers
5.	Grazioso molto Espressivo	Myles B. Foster
6.	"Song without Words"—Con Moto	Alfred Hollins
7.	Andante	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andante Dolente	John E. West
9.	Andante Pastorale	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S CLASSICAL SONGS

VOL. III.

CONTENTS.

Art thou troubled (Dove sei)	Handel.
But the Lord is mindful of His own	Mendelssohn.
Butterfly, The	Cornelius.
Courage	Schubert.
Dawn, gentle flower	W. Sterndale Bennett.
Erlaf-lake	Schubert.
Fishermaiden, The	Schubert.
Full-orbed Moon, The	Schubert.
Good-night, my dearest child	Brahms.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel.
I will sing of Thy great mercies	Mendelssohn.
In May	Schumann.
Joy of Spring, The (Frühlingslied)	Mendelssohn.
Know'st thou the land?	Schubert.
Lay of the imprisoned huntsman	Schubert.
Let the bright Seraphim	Handel.
Little Sandman, The	Brahms.
Lord of our being (Sorge nel petto)	Handel.
Memory, A	Brahms.
Morning Song	Mendelssohn.
Nazareth	Gounod.
Nymphs and Shepherds	Purcell.
O, my love 's like the red, red rose	Schumann.
O rest in the Lord	Mendelssohn.
O think of me	Cornelius.
Ode to Joy	Schubert.
Oft in my dreams	Cornelius.
Oh! had I Jubal's lyre	Handel.
Out over the Forth	Schumann.
Peace	Schubert.
Sandman, The	Schumann.
Sing, Maiden, sing	W. Sterndale Bennett.
Smiling dawn of happy days	Handel.
Spring advancing (Frühlingsglaube)	Mendelssohn.
Swallow 's flying west, The	Brahms.
Trout, The	Schubert.
Violets	Cornelius.
Wanderer's Night-Song	Schubert.

Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HARVEST FESTIVAL MUSIC.

CANTATAS.

SONG OF THANKSGIVING
FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS (OR CONTRALTO) SOLI AND CHORUS
WITH HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED BY
SHAPCOTT WENSLEY
THE MUSIC BY
J. H. MAUNDER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Paper boards, Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.; Words only, 10s. per 100; String Parts, price 9s.; Wind Parts, 14s. 6d.

A GOLDEN HARVEST
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI AND CHORUS
WITH HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION
THE WORDS AND HYMNS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY HENRY KNIGHT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS,
Organist and Director of the Music at St. Alban's, Holborn.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE RAINBOW OF PEACE
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN
BY
THOMAS ADAMS.

Price One Shilling.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

HARVEST-TIDE
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN OR SMALL ORCHESTRA
BY
HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling.
Words only, 5s. per 100. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA
FOR CHORUS, SEMI-CHORUS, AND ORGAN
BY GEORGE GARRETT.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 5s. per 100; or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA
FOR SOPRANO (OR TENOR) AND CONTRALTO (OR BARITONE) SOLI AND CHORUS
THE WORDS BY
ROSE DAFFORNE BETJEMANN
THE MUSIC BY
JULIUS HARRISON.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
FOR SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS
BY
JOHN E. WEST.

Price Two Shillings.
Words only, 5s. per 100; or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

A SONG OF THANKSGIVING
FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
BY
FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE GLEANER'S HARVEST
FOR FEMALE VOICES
BY
C. H. LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA
FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY
C. M. VON WEBER.

Price One Shilling.
Full Score, 21s.; String Parts, 8s.; Wind Parts, 7s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST SONG
FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS
BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Words only, 5s. per 100.
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

HYMNS, ETC.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST
Selected from THE HYMNARY.
Price One Penny.

LET ALL OUR BRETHREN JOIN IN ONE
HARVEST HYMN BY J. BARNBY.
Price One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

SOWING AND REAPING
HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT.
Price Twopence. Words only, 1s. per 100.

THE JOY OF HARVEST
HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST HYMN OF PRAISE
BY J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING
HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. BARNBY.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS
HARVEST CAROL BY F. A. J. HERVEY.
Price Twopence.

O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, AND SEA
By J. BARNBY.
On Card, Price One Penny.

COME, YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME
BY WALTER B. GILBERT.
Price One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

THE WANDERING JEW.

A CANTATA

FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

THE ENGLISH WORDS BY

PAUL ENGLAND.

THE MUSIC BY

FRIEDRICH HEGAR

(Op. 34).

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MISSA EUGE BONE

AD SEX VOCES INEQUALES.

AUCTORE

CHRISTOFERO TYE.

EDITIT

RICARDUS R. TERRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MISSA REGIA

ASCRIBED TO

HENRI DUMONT (1610-1684).

Adapted from the Version in the Solesmes Gradual,
WITH AN ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE ORGAN
BY

FRANCIS BURGESS.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TE DEUM AND JUBILATE

IN F.

MUSIC BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC

TO

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

SELECTED AND ARRANGED FOR THE USE OF

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

BY

R. DUNSTAN.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHORISTER'S AID TO MONOTONING

BY

C. S. FOSBERY, M.A.

Headmaster, St. John's School, Montreal;

Late Choirmaster to the Church Choral Union (Howden Deanery, Yorks).

PRICE THREEPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

20,000

WEBSTER'S CHILD'S PRIMER

OF THE

THEORY OF MUSIC.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and all Music Sellers.

WORKS by F. DAVENPORT,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC.

Crown 8vo, One Shilling.

Elements of Harmony and Counterpoint.

Crown 8vo, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

LONGMANS, GREEN AND CO., 39, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

TECHNIQUE

AND EXPRESSION

IN

PIANOFORTE PLAYING

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

In the course of my experience as a teacher of the pianoforte, an experience extending over many years, certain ideas have from time to time suggested themselves to me which have proved useful—to myself, as enabling me to express more clearly that which I desired my pupils to understand, and to my pupils, as tending to facilitate their comprehension of the various difficulties they have had to encounter, at the same time leading them to perceive the most practical means of overcoming them, and thus accelerating their general rate of progress.

These suggestions relate to both the mechanical and intellectual sides of the study of pianoforte-playing, or briefly, to Technique and Expression, the chief matters implied by the first of these terms being the production of various qualities of tone, the choice of suitable fingering, and the best methods of attacking certain difficulties; while the second, which may perhaps be more aptly designated the means of expression, includes rhythm, phrasing, variety, and gradation of tone, the use of the pedals, et cætera.

WITH NUMEROUS MUSICAL EXAMPLES FROM THE WORKS OF THE GREAT MASTERS.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, FIVE SHILLINGS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF PART-SONGS.

SELECTED LISTS OF RECENTLY PUBLISHED PART-SONGS.

MIXED VOICES (S.A.T.B., Unaccompanied or Accompaniment ad lib. where not otherwise indicated).

Angelus	E. Elgar	4d.
Autumn Song, An	B Luard-Selby	1½d.
Beside the river (Op. 28, No. 3)	A. Jensen	2d.
Black Monk, The (arr. by Rutland Boughton)	Welsh Folk-song	3d.
Bring me a golden pen	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Call of the breeze, The	J. Cliffe Forrester	1½d.
Cheshire Cheese, The (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
Chloe, that dear bewitching prude	Healey Willan	2d.
Come away, death (arr. by G. Shaw)	Arne	2d.
Come out across the heather (Op. 28, No. 2)	A. Jensen	3d.
Come, lasses and lads (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
§Comrades' song of hope (arr. by Percy E. Fletcher)	A. Adam	2d.
Crossing the bar	C. Lee Williams	2d.
Cruiskeen Lawn, The (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	3d.
David of the White Rock (arr. by H. Evans)	Welsh Air	2d.
Day Dreams	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
Death, the reaper (Op. 75, No. 6)	Schumann	1½d.
Emer's lament for Cuchulain (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	3d.
Evening brings us home	F. H. Cowen	1½d.
Evening Star, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
Fairy Spring	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
§Fly, singing bird	E. Elgar	6d.
§For Empire and for King	Percy E. Fletcher	6d.
Gallant Swabian Captain, A	F. Hegar	3d.
Gay Madcap (Op. 67, No. 2)	Schumann	3d.
Go, song of mine (6 parts)	E. Elgar	6d.
God sends the night	R. Somerville	1½d.
Had I a cave	Healey Willan	2d.
Heart of the night, The (Accompanied)	Hubert Bath	3d.
In praise of Neptune	E. German	3d.
In pride of May	John E. West	1½d.
In the silent West (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	4d.
Joan to the Maypole (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
June	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Kindred hearts	C. Lee Williams	2d.
King of Thule, The (Op. 67, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
Kitty of Coleraine (arr. by C. H. Lloyd)	Irish Air	2d.
Lee Shore, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	2d.
Leprehaun, The	Granville Bantock	4d.
Links o' Love, The	J. B. McEwen	1½d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No. 4) (arr. by John E. West)	Brahms	1½d.
§March triumphal thunders, The ("Caractacus")	E. Elgar	6d.
Men of Harlech (arr. by Rutland Boughton)	Welsh Folk-song	3d.
Merry time of Maying, The (arr. by Brahms)	German Folk-song	3d.
Midnight by the sea	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Morning Song (arr. by Brahms)	German Folk-song	3d.
My love and I (Op. 28, No. 5)	A. Jensen	2d.
My soul would drink those echoes (8 parts)	A. C. Mackenzie	4d.
§News from Whydah	H. Balfour Gardiner	8d.
Night softly falling	G. Lewin	3d.
Nocturne, A.	F. H. Cowen	3d.
North or South (Op. 59, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
O tender sleep	M. F. Phillips	1½d.
One with eyes the fairest	Granville Bantock	1½d.
§Our Island Home	Eaton Faning	3d.
Out of the darkness (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Out of the silence (8 parts)	G. Rathbone	6d.
Out upon it	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Phillida flouts me	C. Lee Williams	3d.
Pride of youth, The	John E. West	3d.
Prithee, why?	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Qui Vive!	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Rest comes at eve (Op. 28, No 6)	A. Jensen	1½d.
Sleeping	E. German	3d.
§Snow, The	E. Elgar	6d.
Song of Fionnuala, The (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	1½d.
Song of love's coming, A	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Song of Proserpine	S. Coleridge-Taylor	2d.
§Soul of the world ("St. Cecilia's Day")	Purcell	2d.
Spirit of night (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Spring-enchantment (5 parts)	Granville Bantock	3d.
Stage Coach, The	H. Balfour Gardiner	3d.
Storm, The (Op. 67, No. 4)	Schumann	2d.
Sweet day, so cool	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Three Knights, The	E. German	3d.
§Three ships, The	Colin Taylor	3d.
Throstle sings, The	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
Thuringian Volkslied	Abt	1½d.
To a bee	T. W. Stephenson	3d.
Twilight (8 parts)	C. Lee Williams	3d.
When lilies are blowing (Op. 28, No. 7)	A. Jensen	3d.
When Sunday's bells did chime	Hans Sitt	2d.
When the tendrils deck the vine (Op. 28, No. 4)	A. Jensen	2d.
When you sing	Hubert Bath	1½d.
Where the bee sucks (arr. by G. Shaw)	Arne	1½d.
Whispers of Summer	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
Who rides for the King	R. Somerville	3d.
Winter is past, The (arr. by E. L. Bainton)	Scotch Folk-song	2d.
Wrong not, sweet Empress	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Young May Moon, The (arr. by C. H. Lloyd)	Irish Air	2d.

MALE VOICES (T.T.B.B., Unaccompanied or Accompaniment ad lib. where not otherwise indicated).

Alexander (Humorous) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	2d.
§Bacchanalian Chorus	J. W. Elliott	4d.
Battle Song	Laurent de Rillé	3d.
Boy, The (Humorous) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Duncan Gray (T.T.B.B.)	A. M. Richardson	3d.
Early one morning (arr. by T. F. Dunhill) (A.T.B.B.)	Folk-song	2d.
Evening Song	Laurent de Rillé	3d.
Festival Song	Granville Bantock	4d.
Glories of our blood and state, The	Granville Bantock	3d.
Hymn to Harmony	Laurent de Rillé	4d.
Laird o' Cockpen	Granville Bantock	4d.
Lament, A (arr. by H. Elliot Button)	German Folk-song	2d.
Land of the leal, The (arr. by H. Elliot Button)	Scotch Air	2d.
Lass of Richmond Hill, The (A. (or T.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Let the hills resound (arranged)	Brinley Richards	4d.
Little Sandman, The (arr. by John E. West) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	German Folk-song	3d.
Lotus flower, The (Op. 33, No. 3)	Schumann	2d.
Lucifer in starlight (6 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No. 4) (arr. by John E. West)	Brahms	1½d.
Lullaby, A (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	C. Lee Williams	2d.
Mad Dog, The. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	4d.
Marching (Op. 41, No. 4) (Humorous)	Brahms	2d.
Night March, The (Op. 62, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
Orpheus. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	3d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	Granville Bantock	4d.
Piper o' Dundee	Granville Bantock	4d.
Softly fall the shades of evening (arranged)	Hatton	3d.
Soldier, rest	A. Somervell	3d.
Song of Freedom (Op. 62, No. 2)	Schumann	3d.
Song of the Quarrymen (T. solo)	Laurent de Rillé	4d.
That very wise man. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	3d.
There was an old man. Humorous (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
United are we (Op. 41, No. 2)	Brahms	2d.
§Viking Song	Julius Harrison	4d.
Walpurga (Op. 30)	F. Hegar	6d.
Ware, Wire!	C. Lee Williams	3d.

FEMALE VOICES (THREE-PART (S.S.A.) and with Accompaniment where not otherwise indicated).

Annie Laurie (arr. by C. Macpherson)	Scotch Air	3d.
Ballad of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, The	W. Wolstenholme	6d.
Beauteous morn	E. German	3d.
Blow, ye gentle breezes (4 parts unaccomp.)	J. C. Marks	3d.
Earth and Man, The	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Encincture with a twine of leaves	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Evening Song (2 parts)	J. Ireland	3d.
Fall of the leaf, The (Op. 43, No. 2) (2 parts)	Schumann	2d.
Flaming Sun is dying, The	F. Hiller	1½d.
Forest Fay, The (Op. 69, No. 2) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	1½d.
Full fathom five (2 parts)	J. Ireland	1½d.
Golden slumbers (2 parts)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Good-night	M. F. Phillips	3d.
Good-night, beloved (arranged, unaccomp.)	Pinsuti	1½d.
In midst of ocean (Op. 91, No. 6) (6 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	3d.
In the warm blue weather (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
It is not always May	Pinsuti	2d.
June roses (Op. 29, No. 2)	Schumann	1½d.
Love-song, A. Accompaniment for Harp (or Pianoforte), Violin and Violoncello	Granville Bantock	4d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No 4) (arranged)	Brahms	1½d.
Ditto (2 parts)	Brahms	1½d.
Maiden of the "Fleur de Lys" (arranged, unaccomp.)	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
Mermaid, The (Op. 69, No. 5) (5 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	3d.
Pixies, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Rest thee on this mossy pillow	H. Smart	1½d
Rhyme of the four birds, The	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
River King, The (Op. 91, No. 3) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	1½d.
See, see what a wonderful smile (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
Shed no tear (4 parts unaccomp.)	E. Austin	2d.
Sleep, little baby (S. solo) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
Softly fall the shades of evening (arranged, unaccomp.)	Hatton	3d.
Song of morning, A	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Song of the Ermine	César Franck	3d.
Stars of the Summer night (2 parts)	E. Elgar	6d.
There is a garden in her face (2 parts)	J. Ireland	1½d.
Three Fishers, The (4 parts unaccomp.)	W. Wolstenholme	3d.
To Blossoms	P. Bowie	3d.
What can lambkins do?	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Who shall be fairest?	T. S. Holland	3d.
Ye banks and braes (2 parts)	A. M. Richardson	3d.
You spotted snakes	J. D. Davis	3d.
Young love	Granville Bantock	2d.

§ Orchestral Accompaniment.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

RECITAL

SERIES OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No.		s.	d.
41.	Rêve d'Amour .. .. Felix Corbett	2	0
42.	Morceau de Concert (En Forme de Valse) .. Alfred Hollins	2	0
43.	Pavane in A .. .. Bernard Johnson	1	6
44.	Finale Jubilante (Just Published) .. .. John E. West	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Newly added Numbers.

		s.	d.
The Quest	(No. 31. Original Compositions)	1	6
Rustic Scene	(No. 32. ,, ,,)	2	0
Carillon	(No. 33. ,, ,,)	1	6
Chant Séraphique	(No. 34. ,, ,,)	1	6
Communion ("Peace") ..	(No. 35. ,, ,,)	1	6
Summer Sketches (Dawn; The Bee; Cuckoo; Twilight; Evening.)	(No. 40. Recital eries)	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SHORT POSTLUDES

FOR THE

ORGAN.

1.	GRAND CHŒUR	Thomas Adams
2.	ALLA MARCIA	W. G. Alcock
3.	SIEGESLIED	Hugh Blair
4.	POSTLUDE	William Faulkes
5.	CONCLUDING VOLUNTARY ..	Myles B. Foster
6.	POSTLUDE	John E. West

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORGAN TRANSCRIPTIONS

BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

		s.	d.
1.	PRELUDE AND ANGEL'S FAREWELL ("GERONTIUS") EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
2.	FUNERAL MARCH (from the Music to "GRANIA AND DIARMID") .. .. EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
3.	CHANSON DE NUIT .. .. EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
4.	CHANSON DE MATIN .. .. EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
5.	PASSACAGLIA (from "A SONG OF JUDGMENT") C. H. LLOYD	2	0
6.	CANTO POPOLARE (from "IN THE SOUTH") EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
7.	CANTIQUE D'AMOUR .. .. THEO. WENDT	1	6
8.	AVE MARIA / IL LAMENTO .. .. ..ADOLPH HENSELT	2	0
9.	PROCESSION TO THE MINSTER ("LOHENGRIN") WAGNER	1	0
10.	IN TE DOMINE SPERAVI J. W. G. HATHAWAY	2	0
11.	SOUVENIR DE PRINTEMPS JOSEPH HOLBROOKE	1	6
12.	TANNHÄUSER'S PILGRIMAGE (Introduction to Act III.) .. .. WAGNER	1	6
13.	AUF WIEDERSEHEN .. .. .. A. H. BREWER	1	6
14.	WALTHER'S PREISLIED (DIE MEISTERSINGER) WAGNER	1	0
15.	AN ETON MEMORIAL MARCH C. H. LLOYD	2	0

(To be continued.)

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

POPULAR MARCHES

FOR THE

ORGAN.

VOLUME 1.

1.	Marche Triomphale	F. Archer
2.	The Bride's March, from "Rebekah"	J. Barnby
3.	Harvest Thanksgiving March	J. B. Calkin
4.	March for a Church Festival	E. T. Driffield
5.	Imperial March	E. Elgar
6.	March to Calvary, from "The Redemption" ..	Ch. Gounod
7.	Religious March	G. A. Macfarren
8.	March, from "Abraham"	B. Molique
9.	March in B flat	E. Silas
10.	Festive March in D	Henry Smart
11.	March in G	B. Tours
12.	March in D minor	Agnes Zimmermann

VOLUME 2.

1.	March for a Church Festival	W. T. Best
2.	Processional Wedding March	H. R. Bird
3.	Festal March	J. B. Calkin
4.	Solemn March, from "The Black Knight"	E. Elgar
5.	Festal March	G. Elvey
6.	Marche Solennelle	Ch. Gounod
7.	March, from "St. Polycarp"	F. A. G. Ouseley
8.	March, with Pastoral Trio	B. Luard-Selby
9.	March in G	H. Smart
10.	Jubilant March	J. Stainer
11.	March in F	J. H. Wallis
12.	Commemoration March	John E. West

VOLUME 3.

1.	Festal March	George Calkin
2.	Festal March	C. S. Heap
3.	Triumphal March	Alfred Hollins
4.	Secular March	G. A. Macfarren
5.	Solemn March ("Story of Sayid")	A. C. Mackenzie
6.	Pilgrims' March (Symphony No. 4)	Mendelssohn
7.	Marche Religieuse	G. Merkel
8.	Bridal March and Finale	C. Hubert H. Parry
9.	Marche Serieuse	B. Luard-Selby
10.	Grand Solemn March	Henry Smart
11.	March and Chorus ("Tannhäuser")	R. Wagner
12.	Festival March	Herbert W. Wareing

VOLUME 4.

1.	Marche Religieuse	J. Baptiste Calkin
2.	Wedding March	William Faulkes
3.	Marche Triomphale	Alex. Guilmant
4.	March in E flat	Lefébure-Wely
5.	Funeral March ("Dream of Jubal")	A. C. Mackenzie
6.	Solemn Processional March	C. J. B. Meacham
7.	Schiller-March	G. Meyerbeer
8.	March in E flat	R. Schumann
9.	Nuptial March	B. Luard-Selby
10.	Marche Funèbre	P. Tschaïkowsky
11.	Grand March (Introduction to the 3rd Act of "Lohengrin")	R. Wagner
12.	Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin")	R. Wagner

Price Four Shillings and Sixpence each.
In Cloth, Six Shillings and Sixpence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SIX SHORT PIECES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

1. Allegro pomposo.
2. Easter Morn. A Meditation.
3. Prelude on Dykes's Tune "Requiescat.
4. Harvest Song.
5. Impromptu.
6. Passacaglia.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

ALBUMS FOR THE ORGAN.

No. 1.

TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.

No.
1.	Interlude	Th. Dubois
2.	Chanson de Matin	Edward Elgar
3.	Fantasia on the old melody "Urbs Beata"	W. Faulkes
4.	There is a green hill far away	Ch. Gounod
5.	Marche Triomphale	Alexandre Guilmant
6.	Ave Maria	A. Henselt
7.	Grand Chœur No. 2	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andantino in D flat	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Chanson Triste	P. Tschaïkowsky
10.	Prelude to "Lohengrin," Act I.	R. Wagner
11.	Romanza	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Allegretto in E flat	W. Wolstenholme

No. 2.

TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.

No.
1.	Chanson de Nuit	Edward Elgar
2.	Alla Marcia	Myles B. Foster
3.	Minuetto	Alexandre Guilmant
4.	Lied	H. Hofmann
5.	Barcarolle	H. Hofmann
6.	Spring Song	Alfred Hollins
7.	The Curfew	Edward J. Horsman
8.	Pastorale in E	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Ave Maria d'Arcadelt	Franz Liszt
10.	Cantique d'Amour	Theo. Wendt
11.	The Seraph's Strain	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Le Carillon	W. Wolstenholme

No. 3.

Just Published.

TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.

No.
1.	Scherzo in A flat	Edward C. Bairstow
2.	Melody	S. Coleridge-Taylor
3.	Serenade	H. Hofmann
4.	Bridal March	Alfred Hollins
5.	Berceuse	Edwin H. Lemare
6.	Melodie in E	S. Rachmaninoff
7.	Aubade	A. Strelezki
8.	Nocturne in C sharp minor	P. Tschaïkowsky
9.	Procession to the Minster ("Lohengrin")	R. Wagner
10.	Passacaglia	John E. West
11.	Fantasia upon the Plainsong Melody "Ad cœnam Agni"	Healey Willan
12.	Allegretto in A flat	W. Wolstenholme

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence each;
Cloth, 5s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

	s.	d.
TROIS IMPRESSIONS. Op. 72:—
1. Harmonies du Soir	1	0
2. Clair de Lune	1	0
3. La Nuit	1	0
CHACONNE AND FUGUE TRILOGY, WITH CHORAL (2 Trumpets, 2 Trombones, 2 Tubas, Timpani, Tam-tam, and Piatti ad lib.). Op. 73:—
Organ Score	4	6
Wind Parts, &c.	2	0
FIRST SONATINA in A minor. Op. 74	3	6

"Must be classed as one of the finest works in modern organ literature. The first movement is practically in usual Sonata form. The development section is particularly brilliant, and the quiet cadence leading into the recapitulation is of arresting beauty."

"The slow movement, in the nature of a chaconne, is beautiful and restful. A brilliant cadenza leads to an exciting introduction to a most interesting triple fugue (confined to manuals). Afterwards the composer works backwards through the sections preceding the fugue, unwinding himself, as it were, before starting on a magnificent Coda befitting a magnificent work."—Daily Mail.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY ALFRED HOLLINS.

No.		No.
1.	Allegretto grazioso.	7.	Concert Rondo.
2.	Andante in D.	8.	Grand Chœur, No. 1.
3.	Benediction Nuptiale.	9.	Grand Chœur, No. 2.
4.	Bridal March.	10.	Intermezzo in D flat.
5.	Communion.	11.	Spring Song.
6.	Concert Overture in C minor.	12.	Triumphal March.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Cloth, 10s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

No.		No.
1.	Allegretto in E flat.	7.	Finale in B flat.
2.	Allegretto in A flat.	8.	Le Carillon.
3.	Andantino.	9.	Meditation.
4.	Canzona.	10.	Minuet and Trio.
5.	Caprice.	11.	Romanza.
6.	Fantasia in E.	12.	The Seraph's Strain.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Cloth, 10s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

THEODORE DUBOIS.

CONTENTS:

1. PRELUDE	4. INTERLUDE
2. CANTILENE RELIGIEUSE	5. PRIÈRE
3. MARCIETTA	6. POSTLUDE CANTIQUE

7. MARCHE-SORTIE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

ALEXANDRE GUILMANT.

CONTENTS:

1. OFFERTOIRE	4. MINUETTO
2. WEDDING MARCH	5. MARCHE TRIOMPHALE
3. BERCEUSE	6. POSTLUDE

7. FANTAISIE SUR DEUX MÉLODIES ANGLAISES.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE CORONATION MARCH

(1911).

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 65).

	s.	d.
FULL SCORE	7	6
STRING PARTS	4	6
WIND PARTS, ETC.	15	0
ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO	2	0

In the Press.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORGAN SOLO 2 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

CORONATION MARCH

AND

HYMN

(Based on two Themes from the music to "Henry VIII.")

FOR

FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts	10	3
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0
Arrangement for Military Band	7	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LA SAVANNAH

AIR DE BALLET

FOR ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 72.)

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts, &c.	7	0
Full Score	6	0
Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

Arrangement for Military Band (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SYMPHONY No. 2

IN E FLAT

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 63)

ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO

BY

SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR CHARACTERISTIC PIECES

1. In Modo d'una Sonata.
2. Cavatina.
3. Mazurka.
4. Moto Perpetuo.

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

COMPOSED BY

C. H. LLOYD.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ROMANCE

FOR

BASSOON AND ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 60).

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

	s.	d.
Arrangement for Bassoon and Pianoforte	2	6
Arrangement for Violoncello and Pianoforte	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TWO BAGATELLES

I. VALSETTE.
II. PIZZICATO.

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

PERCY E. FLETCHER.

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NORWEGIAN MELODIES

ARRANGED FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

BY

A. VON AHN CARSE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE VICAR OF BRAY

VARIATIONS

FOR STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST AUSTIN.

(Op. 35.)

	s.	d.
SCORE	6	0
STRING PARTS	6	0
PIANOFORTE SOLO	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

NEW SONGS

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH NET.

SONG OF THE PILGRIMS.
By EMMELINE BROOK.
Suitable for All Voices.

LOVE IN THE MEADOWS.
By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos or Contraltos.

GALLOPING DICK. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

THE SONGSTERS' AWAKENING (Vocal Waltz). By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos.

SOME PERFECT ROSE. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for All Voices.

TO ALTHEA. By C. HARFORD LLOYD.
Suitable for Baritones.

ON A SUMMER'S DAY.
By CECIL ENGELHARDT.
Suitable for All Voices.

THE CAMEL'S HUMP. By EDWARD GERMAN.
Suitable for All Voices.

SONS OF THE SEA. By COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

COME, DREAMLESS REST. By NOEL JOHNSON.
Suitable for All Voices.

WITH ALL MY HEART.
By WALTER EARNSHAWE.
Suitable for All Voices.

HELIODORE. By BOTHWELL THOMSON.
Suitable for Tenors or Baritones.

LOVE IS FOR EVER. By ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for All Voices.

ZUMMERZETZHIRE (Old Song).
Arranged by ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

WHERE THE CHILDREN SLEEP.
By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Contraltos or Baritones.

A SOUL. By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Tenors.

SWEET NIGHT. By ERNEST AUSTIN.
Suitable for Mezzo-Sopranos or Contraltos.

HOMEWARD. By HAMILTON HARTY.
Suitable for Baritones.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

FIVE SONGS OF CHILDHOOD.

1. A Sea Song from the Shore.
2. Daisies.
3. The Rainbow Fairies.
4. Tree Buds.
5. Grasshopper Green.

COMPOSED BY

E. HAROLD DAVIES.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HOLIDAY SONGS

THE WORDS BY

MRS. ALEXANDER

THE MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

All things bright and beautiful.	Two ways.
An early cowslip.	The Seasons.
A Winter breakfast.	Waking.
Dreams.	Longings.
Primroses.	In the distance.
At Sunset.	Holidays over.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWILIGHT SONGS

FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.

THE WORDS BY

FRED. E. WEATHERLY

THE MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

1. Over the water.	4. Mother's song.
2. Birdie's answer.	5. Gipsying.
3. A little child's Christmas prayer.	6. I want to be a soldier.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MELODIOUS TECHNIQUE

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

J. A. O'NEILL.

IN TWO BOOKS:

Price Two Shillings each.

These Pianoforte Studies have been highly praised by M. VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN, who has expressed his intention of playing some of them during his Recital Tour in the United States. His testimonial is published with the Work, which consists of Twelve Numbers, specially designed to develop power and skill in the fourth and fifth fingers. The importance of trying to equalize these weaker fingers with the stronger ones is unquestionable, as defective execution is more often traceable to this inequality of the fingers than to any other cause.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	Part 1
2.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
3.	SCALES	Part 1
4.	,, ...	,, 2
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	Part 1
6.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
7.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
8.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
9.	,, ,, ...	,, 5
10.	LEFT HAND	Part 1
11.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
12.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
13.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
14.*	ARPEGGIO	Part 1
15.	,, ...	,, 2
16.	,, ...	,, 3
17.	VELOCITY	Part 1
18.	,, ...	,, 2
19.	,, ...	,, 3
20.	,, ...	,, 4
21.	,, ...	,, 5
22.	,, ...	,, 6
23.	,, ...	,, 7
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	Part 1
25.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 1
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	,, 2
28.	SHAKES	Part 1
29.	,, ...	,, 2
30.	,, ...	,, 3
31.	DOUBLE NOTES	Part 1
32.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
33.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
34.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
35.	OCTAVES	Part 1
36.*	,, ...	,, 2
37.	CHORDS	Part 1
38.	,, ...	,, 2
39.*	STACCATO
40.	REPETITION	Part 1
41.*	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	,, 2
42.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
43.*	PART-PLAYING	Part 1
44.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
45.*	ORNAMENTS	Part 1
46.	,, ...	,, 2
47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	Part 1
48.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	Part 1
50.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
51.	RHYTHM	Part 1
52.*	,, ...	,, 2
53.	EXERCISES FOR THE WEAKER FINGERS. By J. A. O'NEILL.
54.	WRIST STUDIES (Handgelenksübungen). By ARNOLD KRUG.
55.	EXERCISES FOR FACILITATING INDEPENDENCE OF THE FINGERS (Übungen für die Selbständigkeit der Finger). By ARNOLD KRUG.
56.	PRELIMINARY STUDIES IN PLAYING POLYPHONIC MUSIC (Vorübungen für das polyphone Spiel). By ARNOLD KRUG.

 These Books contain Studies composed by Mr. Franklin Taylor specially for this Series.*

FIFTY-SIX BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

FROM THE ABOVE:

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS), PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

A Modern School for the Violin

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ AND JAMES BROWN.

THE purpose of this Work is to provide, in one systematic and comprehensive scheme, all that is necessary for the acquirement of the Art of Modern Violin Playing.

"A Modern School for the Violin" consists of Six Books devoted to Daily Technical Practice, Six Books of Studies for Violin alone, and a number of Pieces with Pianoforte Accompaniment, the Violin parts being specially edited for the purposes of teaching.

SECTION A.—TECHNICAL PRACTICE. IN SIX BOOKS.

The foundation of "A Modern School for the Violin" is laid by means of a series of Six Books dealing exclusively with the important subject of DAILY TECHNICAL PRACTICE. The First Book of Technical Practice (Book 1A) is limited to the 1st Position; the Second Book (2A) to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the Third Book (3A) to the first five Positions; and so on. Bowings and other technical devices are introduced in a similarly progressive manner throughout. Each Book of Technical Practice is divided into "Lessons" (or Chapters), and each Lesson contains a number of short repeating Exercises on some definite point of Violin Technique—as Fingering, Bowing, &c., with the needful explanations. Included in each Book will be found a complete set of Scales and Arpeggi, arranged according to the particular stage of advancement reached.

Taken as a whole, this section is intended to facilitate, and to insist on, a thorough, steady, and continuous progress in the mastery of the Instrument, this being the only possible means of preparing the groundwork for artistic achievement with all its lasting delights.

SECTION B.—STUDIES. IN SIX BOOKS.

Section B is formed of a series of original and selected Studies, in Six Books. Each Book of Studies (Section B) is carefully co-ordinated, in respect of difficulty and range of subject, with the correspondingly numbered Book of Technical Practice (Section A). Thus the First Book of Studies (1B) is written in the 1st Position; the Second Book (2B) in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the 3rd Book (3B) in all Positions up to and including the 5th; and so on. It should further be explained that the two Sections are designed to complement one another, and that the "School" must be practised, not in single Books of Technical Practice and Studies alternately, but in pairs. Thus, Books 1A and 1B are to be taken concurrently, then Books 2A and 2B, 3A and 3B, and so on, and the appropriate pairs are now issued bound together in cloth (see Cloth Bindings below).

1A.	TECHNICAL PRACTICE	(1st Position)	2s. 0d.		1B.	STUDIES	(1st Position)	2s. 0d.
2A.	DITTO	(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. 0d.		2B.	DITTO	(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. 6d.
3A.	DITTO ...	(1st to 5th Position)	3s. 0d.		3B.	DITTO	(1st to 5th Position)	3s. 0d.
4A.	DITTO	(all Positions)	2s. 6d.		4B.	DITTO	(all Positions)	3s. 0d.
5A.	DITTO	Do.	2s. 6d.		5B.	DITTO	Do.	3s. 0d.
6A.	DITTO	Do.	3s. 0d.		6B.	DITTO	Do.	3s. 0d.

CLOTH BINDINGS.

Book 1.	(1A and 1B, bound together) in Cloth	5s. 0d.
,, 2.	(2A and 2B, bound together) Do.	5s. 6d.
,, 3.	(3A and 3B, bound together) Do.	7s. 0d.
,, 4.	(4A and 4B, bound together) Do.	6s. 6d.
,, 5.	(5A and 5B, bound together) Do.	6s. 6d.
,, 6.	(6A and 6B, bound together) Do.	7s. 0d.

PIECES.

In completion of the scheme of "A Modern School" a number of Pieces are published, in a form designed to fulfil the requirements of Violin Teachers and Students. In each number the Violin part is furnished with complete Fingerings and Bowings, besides remarks as to the methods of rendering, &c.

No. 13.	TWELVE FOLK DANCES FROM DENMARK (1st Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 14.	SONATA IN G MINOR. G. TARTINI (All Positions)	2s. 0d.
No. 15.	OVERTURE TO SAMSON. G. F. HANDEL (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. 0d.
No. 16.	SONATINA IN D. FRANZ SCHUBERT (1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. 0d.
No. 17.	EIGHT HYMN TUNES. VARIOUS COMPOSERS (1st Position)	1s. 6d.
No. 18.	STYRIAN DANCES (LANDLER) (Op. 165). JOSEF LANNER (1st to 5th Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 19.	PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR. J. S. BACH (Advanced)	2s. 0d.
No. 20.	SONATA IN G (No. 8). JOSEPH HAYDN (1st to 6th Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 21.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. J. S. BACH (1st to 6th Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 22.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. PIERRE RODE (Op. 9). (All Positions)	2s. 6d.
No. 23.	TWELVE CAROLS .. .. .. (1st Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 24.	SONATA IN A. W. A. MOZART (1st to 5th Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 25.	RÊVERIE. HENRI VIEUXTEMPS (Op. 22, No. 3). (Advanced)	2s. 0d.
No. 26.	FOUR LITTLE PIECES. (From Op. 8) IGNAZ PLEYEL (1st Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 27.	SARABANDE AND TAMBOURIN. JEAN-MARIE LECLAIR (1st to 5th Position)	2s. 0d.
No. 28.	BOURRÉE AND GIGUE. J. S. BACH (1st and 3rd Positions)	1s. 6d.
No. 29.	BALLADE AND POLONAISE. HENRI VIEUXTEMPS (Op. 38) (Advanced)	2s. 0d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S
ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS.

(TWO VIOLINS, VIOLA, AND VIOLONCELLO.)

The Pieces in the majority of these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte is used, they will sound complete.

No.		s.	d.
1.	DOLMETSCH, ARNOLD—Suite of Four Pieces ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
2.	PURCELL, HENRY—Suite of Five Pieces ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
3.	GERMAN, EDWARD — Three Dances, from the Music to "Henry VIII." Extra String Parts, 1s. each.	5	0
4.	RAMEAU—Gavotte in D ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
5.	HANDEL, G. F.—Six Pieces from the Water Music. 1. Bourrée in F; 2. Air in F; 3. Minuet in F; 4. Hornpipe in F; 5. Aria in G; 6. Allegro in D ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	6
6.	HANDEL, G. F.—Two Bourrées ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
7.	MACKENZIE, A. C. — Benedictus, from Six Pieces for the Violin ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
8.	GOUNOD, CHARLES—Judex, from "Mors et Vita" ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
9.	MENDELSSOHN—Wedding March... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
10.	MENDELSSOHN — War March ("Athalie") ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
11.	MENDELSSOHN—Cornelius March Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
12.	MENDELSSOHN—Funeral March ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
13.	ELVEY, GEORGE — Gavotte (à la mode ancienne) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
14.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 1. Stately Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
15.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 2. Rustic Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
16.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 3. Graceful Dance... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
17.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 4. Country Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
18.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 1. Valse Bohemienne ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
19.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 2. Valse Rustique ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
20.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 3. Valse de la Reine ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
21.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 4. Valse Mauresque ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
22.	SPOHR, L. — Andantino, from the Symphony, "The Consecration of Sound"... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
23.	LANNER, JOSEF — Five Styrian Dances (Ländler) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
24.	TOURS, BERTHOLD—March in G Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	1	6
25.	MACFARREN, W.—Bourrée in C ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
26.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Minuet d'Amour, from A Suite of Old English Dances (Second Set) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
27.	WEST, JOHN E.—Intermezzo from "Seedtime and Harvest" ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6
28.	HOLST, GUSTAV VON — Seven Scottish Airs ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
29.	LEMARE, E. H. — Andantino in D flat ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6
30.	BREWER, A. H.—Auf Wiedersehen... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
31.	ELGAR, EDWARD.—Serenade, from "Wand of Youth" (First Suite) ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6

To be continued.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

JUST PUBLISHED.

No. 83, NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

THE MILITARY BAND

BY

GEORGE MILLER,

M.V.O., Mus. Bac. Cantab., &c.

Price Two Shillings.

In Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

No. 8, NOVELLO'S ELEMENTARY MUSIC MANUALS.

HINTS

ON THE

ELEMENTARY TEACHING

OF THE

PIANOFORTE

CHIEFLY TO BOYS.

BY

EDWARD D. RENDALL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The SOCIETY of BRITISH COMPOSERS. Music Published in the AVISON EDITION.

	Net s. d.
INSTRUMENTAL.
BAX, ARNOLD—Trio. Pianoforte, Violin, and Viola	6 6
BEETHOVEN.—Cavatina. For Violin and Organ. (Extra Violin Parts, 6d. each)	2 0
BELL, W. H.—Arabesque. Violin and Pianoforte	1 6
Arcadian Suite. Full Score	15 0
CORDER, F.—Elegy for Orchestra. Full Score	2 6
CORDER, PAUL—"Dross." Music-Drama without words	3 6
DIXON, H. C.—Andante Religioso for Violoncello and Pianoforte	1 6
GARDINER, H. BALFOUR—Quartet in one movement for Strings. Score net 2 0 | Parts	3 0
HARTLEY, LLOYD—Two Pieces. Violin and Pianoforte	3 0
HURLSTONE, W. Y.—Variations for Orchestra. Full Score	10 0
Trio. Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello	7 6
JERVIS-READ, H. V.—Phantasy Trio in B minor. Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello	5 0
MCEWEN, J. B.—"Grey Galloway." Border Ballad for Orchestra. Full Score	10 6
MACKENZIE, A. C.—Suite. Violin and Orchestra (or Pianoforte) Full Score 20s. | Piano Score net 5s. | Separately, each	2 0
MATTHAY, TOBIAS—Quartet in one movement	5 0
SPEAIGHT, JOSEPH—Spanish Love Song. Violin and Pianoforte	1 6
Spinnerlied; Evensong. Violoncello and Pianoforte each	1 6
WESSELY, HANS—Kreutzer Studies, with accompaniment for Second Violin. Two Books each	2 6
PIANOFORTE.
AUSTIN, ERNEST—Poem for Pianoforte	2 6
BOWEN, E. YORK—Miniature Suite	3 0
Separately: Humoresque, 1s.; Nocturne, 1s.; Scherzo	1 6
First Ballade; Polonaise each	2 6
CORDER, PAUL—Nine Preludes, 4s. 6d. Separately, each	1 0
COX, G. H.—Song of Spring	2 0
DALE, B. J.—Sonata	5 0
EGGAR, K. E.—Sketches: The Old Castle; The Wishing Well, ea.	1 6
FORRESTER, CLIFFE—Summer's Call; The Exile each	2 0
Variations on an Original Air	2 0
GARRATT, PERCIVAL—Scherzo-Toccata	2 6
GATTY, NICHOLAS—Five Waltzes	2 6
HARTLEY, LLOYD—Four Miniature Impressions	2 6
Two Concert Pieces 3 0 | Moods	2 6
HAWLEY, STANLEY.—Dance Sketch, No. 1	2 0
HICKIN, WELTON—Suite Mignonne	2 6
HURLSTONE, W. Y.—Capriccio	1 6
JERVIS-READ, H. V.—Five Impressions	2 0
MATTHAY, TOBIAS—Toccata; Albumblatt; Dirge each	1 0
QUILTER, ROGER—Three Studies	2 6
SPEAIGHT, JOSEPH—Passepied, 1s.; Miniatures, 1s. 6d.; Legends	2 0
SWINSTEAD, FELIX—Prelude in D	1 6
Variations on a Theme by Concone	2 6
WIGHT, A. N.—Barcarolle. In the Bay	2 0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.	NET. s. d.
BAZELAIRE, P.—Op. 95. Prelude and Fugue, 3s. 6d. net; Op. 100. Ballade, 3s. 6d. net; Op. 102. Lied. Pianoforte Solos	2 0
BERNHEIM, M.—Danses Grecques. Pianoforte Solo	3 0
BORSKY, S.—Menuet, 2s. net; Le Rêve. Pianoforte Solos	2 0
BREDON, CH.—Croques. Twelve Pieces. Pianoforte Solo	6 0
BRON, E.—Barcarolle. Pianoforte Solo	2 0
D'INDY, V.—Andante from Quatuor. Op. 35. Pianoforte Duet	2 6
FRANCK, C.—Organ Pieces transcribed for Pianoforte Solo. 2nd Fantaisie (No. 1 of Three Pieces), 3s. net; Final, 3s. 6d. net; Grand Pièce Symphonique	4 0
HAHN, R.—Le Dieu Bleu. Ballet. Pianoforte Solo, 7s. net. Separate Numbers: 1. Danse des Musiciennes, 1s. net; 2. Danse des Bayaderes, 2s. net; 3. L'Enchantement Divin	3 0
—— La Fête chez Thérèse. Ballet Pantomime in Two Acts. Pianoforte Score	10 0
NEYMARCK, J.—Sonata in E flat minor. Pianoforte Solo	8 0
SCHMITT, FL.—Pièces Humoristiques. Pianoforte Duet. Complete, 8s. net; 1. Marche Militaire, 2s. 6d. net; 2. Rondeau, 2s. 6d. net; 3. Bucolique, 2s. 6d. net; 4. Scherzetto, 2s. 6d. net; 5. Valse Sentimentale, 2s. net; 6. Danse Grotesque	2 6
SWAN, HENNESSY.—Op. 40. En Passant (Etudes d'après Nature). Pianoforte Solo	2 0
—— Op. 39. Incunabula. Three Pieces. Pianoforte Solo	2 0
TURINA, J.—Coins de Seville. Four Pieces. Pianoforte Solo	5 0

CHAMBER MUSIC.
BACH.—Chorus from Cantata No. 3. Transcribed for Two Violins and Pianoforte	2 6
BAZELAIRE, P.—Op. 87. Fantasiestück. Harp and Pianoforte	8 0
COUPERIN.—Le Rossignol-en-amour. Flute and Pianoforte	2 0
DELPORTE, J.—Op. 6. Cantabile for Violin, 'Cello and Pianoforte. Contrabass ad lib.	2 6
FAIRCHILD, B.—Op. 27. Quatuor for Two Violins, Viola and 'Cello. Score, 7s. net; Parts	10 0
—— Op. 31. Légende for Violin and Pianoforte	5 0
FANELLI.—Humoresque for Clarinet and Pianoforte	6 0
FAURÉ, G.—Op. 50 Pavane. Cello and Pianoforte	2 6
NOREN, H. G.—Op. 39. 1. Légende; 2. Danse slave. Violin and Pianoforte	2 0
RUYSSEN, C.—Ballade, 2s. net; Berceuse, 2s. net; Caprice caractéristique, 2s. 6d. net; Frère Jacques, Berceuse badine, 2s. net; Rêves evanouis, Elégie, 2s. net; Solitude, Elégie, 1s. 6d. net; Sourires et Parmes. 'Cello and Piano Pieces	3 0
SCHIDENHELM, R.—Ballade. Op. 7. 'Cello and Pianoforte	6 0
—— Op. 8. Lied. Two 'Celli and Pianoforte	4 0
—— Op. 9. Scherzo-Sérénade. 'Cello and Pianoforte	5 0
SCHUBERT, F.—Le Roi des Aulnes. 'Cello and Pianoforte	2 0
TSCHAIKOWSKY.—Op. 26. Sérénade mélancolique. Viola and Pianoforte	2 6

ORGAN AND HARMONIUM.
BOSSI, M. E.—Op. 134. No. 1. Epousailles. Méditation religieuse. For 'Cello, Violin, Harp (or Pianoforte) and Organ, with Tam-tam ad lib. Score and Parts	5 6
—— Op. 134. No. 2. Improvisation (Grand Chœur) for Organ	2 0
FAHRMANN, H.—Op. 48. Six Fantasiestücke, for Organ, 1. Träumerei; 2. Caprice; 3. Abendandacht; 4. Waldesfrieden; 5. Herbstgedanken; 6. Elégie. each	1 6
OVEREEN, M. VAN.—Op. 19. Hymne de l'Office du Soir (Vêpres) Violin (or 'Cello), Piano (or Harp) and Harmonium	2 0
—— Op. 20. Hymne de l'Office du jour (Laudes). 'Cello (or Violin), Harp (or Piano) and Harmonium	3 0
—— Op. 21. Hymne de l'Office de Nuit (Matines). Violin (or 'Cello). Harp (or Piano) and Harmonium	3 0
PERGOLESI.—Arie (Tre giorni). Harmonium and Pianoforte	1 0
REHBAUM, TH.—Op. 24. Mondnacht. Violin, 'Cello, Harmonium, and Pianoforte	2 6
—— Op. 24. Mondnacht. Harmonium and Pianoforte	2 0
SCHARTEL, R.—Op. 12. Seestudien. Duos for Harmonium and Pianoforte. 1. Meerestille und glückliche Fahrt, 1s. 6d. net; 2. Einsame Insel, 1s. 6d. net; 3. Barcarolle, 2s. net; 4. Im weiten Weltmeer, 2s. net; 5. Scirocco	1 6
SCHUBERT.—Unfinished Symphony (B minor). Arranged for Violin, 'Cello, Harmonium and Pianoforte	7 6
VIERNE, L.—Third Symphonie. Organ. Op. 28.	7 0

VOCAL MUSIC.
BAZELAIRE, P.—Op. 98. Villanelle. Voice and Pianoforte	2 6
BERTELIN, A.—La Chimère. Mezzo or Baritone and Pianoforte	2 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S
LATEST SONG AND BALLAD SUCCESSES.

LIZA LEHMANN—
"Daddy's Sweetheart"
"Little Moccasins"
"Clementina's Song"
"Everybody's Secret"

GUY D'HARDELOT—
"My Message"
"Until one day"
"Un Rien" (A Word)
"Come!"
"Till you looked up"
"Thy voice, beloved"
"The Lark's Song"

FLORENCE AYLWARD—
"Solace"
"Sunshine and Daffodils"
"The Romany Fiddle"
"Morning—and you!"
"Dear heart, I love"
"A Tree Song"
"Three"

TERESA DEL RIEGO—
"Little Brown Bird"
"Your Picture"
"Hayfields and Butterflies"
"The red rose wooed the white rose"
"I lay my laurels at your feet"
"Shadow March"

DOROTHY FORSTER—
"Look down, beloved"
"In the Twilight"
"Where violets grow"
"Margaret"
"Mifanwy"
"Rosamond"
"Rose in the Bud"

EMMELINE BROOK—
"To a Seabird"

KATIE MOSS—
"The Floral Dance"

F. PAOLO TOSTI—
"Never"
Two Little Songs: "Could I but tell" / "I cannot tell" } Published together.

S. LIDDLE—
Two Short Songs: "Open my window to the stars" / "Love, pluck your flowers" } Published together.

HUBERT BATH—
"I have a rose"
"Reconciliation"
"Destiny"
"Sea Memories"

KENNEDY RUSSELL—
"The Farmer's Pride"
"Old Farmer John"

BOTHWELL THOMSON—
"The First Kiss" / "The Flower Bird" } Published together.
"Lullaby Lady"
"Velvet eyes"

ERIC COATES—
"When the robin goes a-singing"
"The gates of Spring"
"Sweet-and-Twenty"

NOEL JOHNSON—
"Gray Days"

HAYDN WOOD—
"May in my garden"

TURLAY ROYCE—
"Billee Bowline"
"Love's window"

GRAHAM PEEL—
"Boot, saddle, to horse"
"Twenty years hence"
"Loveliest of trees"
"Wind of the Western Sea"
"April"
"The Early morning"

FRANK LAMBERT—
"Love that is gone"

EDWARD GERMAN—
"An old English Valentine"
"Love in all Seasons"

HERMANN LÖHR—
"There's a hill by the Sea"
"Little grey home in the West"
"Life has sent me many roses"
Two Songs of Summer: "Summer in the country" / "If I were a swallow" } Published together.
"Rose of my heart"
"Where my caravan has rested"
"It is not because your heart is mine"
"Unmindful of the roses"

W. H. SQUIRE—
"The Irish Fusilier"

ROBERT CONINGSBY CLARKE—
"The Wind in the Corn"
"Blackbird and Rose"
"A little Geisha singing"
"Poppies for forgetting"
"The charm of Spring"
"O, my garden, full of roses"

PERCY E. FLETCHER—
"Life's blessing"

PAUL A. RUBENS—
"The Admiral's yarn"
"Help me to love"

ERNEST HALSEY—
"Beat upon mine, little heart"
"Wynken, Blynken and Nod"

MONTAGUE F. PHILLIPS—
"Night is nigh"
"A Soul's Anguish"
"Sleep"
"My Dreamland Rose"
"In Harbour"
"Starry woods"
"Rosette"
"Grey eyes"

NEW AND POPULAR VOCAL ALBUMS.

LIZA LEHMANN—
"Cowboy Ballads"
"Songs of a Flapper"

DOROTHY FORSTER—
"Songs of Farewell"

HERMANN LÖHR—
"Roumanian Songs"
"Romany Songs"

MONTAGUE F. PHILLIPS—
"Dream-Songs"

R. CONINGSBY CLARKE—
"A Third Sheaf of little Songs"

GRAHAM PEEL—
"Songs of a Shropshire Lad"

CHAPPELL & Co., Ltd., 50, New Bond Street, London, W.

NEW YORK, TORONTO, AND MELBOURNE. AND OF ALL MUSIC SELLERS.

London:—Printed by NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, at Novello Works, Soho, and published at 160, Wardour Street, Soho, W.
Sold also by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, HAMILTON, KENT AND CO., Ltd., Paternoster Row, E.C.—Saturday, June 1, 1912.

This Supplement is part also of the June issue of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, and can be obtained with the REVIEW, price 1½*d.*

The Competition Festival Record

No. 47.

THE PARIS CONCOURS.—May 26, 27, 28.

As the RECORD had to be prepared before Whitsuntide, we are not able to notice this great event in the present issue. A full report will appear in our July number.

The arrangements for the English Children's day are very complete and satisfactory. The L.C.C. staff have taken special pains to ensure the comfort and pleasure of the 500 children for whom they are responsible. On May 16, a full rehearsal of the choirs was held. It took the form of a preliminary competition. Each choir sang the stipulated test-piece 'How merrily we live' and an own-choice piece. 'La Marseillaise,' 'Charlie is my darling,' and 'God save the King' were rehearsed under Dr. Borland for combined performance in Paris.

THE MIDLAND MUSICAL COMPETITION FESTIVAL (BIRMINGHAM)—May 14 to 18.

This is a new centre of competitive activity. It owes its origin to Professor Granville Bantock, who is deeply impressed with the importance of the movement as an educational force. He succeeded in gathering around him a number of keen enthusiasts who brought to bear on the scheme exceptional skill in organizing and an almost phenomenal capacity for hard work. The first inquiry was into the plans and management of the most successful existing Festival of the kind held in this country, namely, Blackpool, which in its turn had modelled its scheme on that of Morecambe. Although the Birmingham scheme, as outlined by Professor Bantock, had a devouring aspect and might well have been considered as a rival, the Blackpool administration, true to its simple purpose, the advancement of the practice of the art of music, generously laid bare to the Birmingham promoters all the results of their great experience. The Midland scheme was therefore built on a solid foundation, and it started with a valuable goodwill. The result of its comprehensive appeal surpassed all the anticipations of its most sanguine promoters. The Festival at its birth was full-grown and at once made a record. It drew about 6,500 competitors, many of whom travelled from distant parts of the country. On the 'Open' day there was an unprecedented gathering of many of the finest small choirs from the North and elsewhere, whose technique and power of interpretation have been brought to an amazing point of perfection in the stern and exacting school of competition.

The test-pieces selected for this mammoth event were of the highest standard. We imagine that the hardiest sceptic as to the value of the competition movement could not resist a tribute of admiration to a scheme which forced thousands of musical amateurs to study the 130 pieces—a large proportion of which are gems of musical art—enumerated in the admirably-compiled and edited programme-book of 130 pages. This handsome book contains a full list of the competitors, and the words, English and foreign, of all the vocal pieces, and it was sold for sixpence! It is impossible in our limited space to report such a Festival in much detail; we must be content to deal chiefly with the choral classes, and to summarise the statistics of the other classes. There were about 350 vocal soloists, nearly 300 instrumental soloists, 50 school and other junior choirs, 95 adult choirs, 30 vocal quartets, and 10 orchestras.

A feature of the children's day was the admirable performance, by 400 massed children, of Rathbone's cantata, 'Vogelweid,' under Dr. McNaught.

The most remarkable performances were those given on the last day in the open sections. No one present is likely to forget the ravishing beauty of the performances of Brahms's trio, 'The death of Trenar' (one of the four pieces sung in the female-voice class), by St. James's Ladies' Choir, Barrow (Mrs. Bourne), and Mr. Aldous's Lancaster Choir.

In the male-voice section the performances of the Manchester Orpheus (Mr. W. S. Nesbitt) and Stourbridge (Mr. Harry Woodall) in Granville Bantock's picturesque 'Lost leader' were equally notable. But perhaps the deepest impression was made by the mixed-voice choirs in Elgar's 'Go, song of mine,' Wilbye's 'Sweet honey-sucking bees,' and Havergal Brian's exciting setting of Longfellow's 'Daybreak'—a virtuoso piece presenting great difficulties magnificently overcome on this occasion. This class was confined to first-prize winners at former important Festivals, and brought forward eight choirs. The premier position fell to Coventry (Mr. John Potter). This choir was excellent all through, but its superb and moving performance of the Elgar piece, surely one of the noblest of this composer's compositions of this class, left one unstrung and uncritical.

The Slaithwaite Philharmonic Society gained the first place in the full orchestral section by a very fine performance of the 'Meistersinger' Overture.

The solo-singing and the instrumental solo-playing were sometimes extraordinarily good. In all the chief solo-singing classes, each competitor had to sing three songs, and was thus tested with unusual thoroughness.

The competitions took place in the Town Hall, the Midland Institute, Queen's College Hall, the Temperance Hall, and the Imperial Hotel. All these places were sometimes occupied simultaneously, and thus the audience was spread. The attendance on the first day was only fair, but on the last day every seat in the Town Hall was occupied even while another hall was in use.

The arrangements for dealing with the great complication of the business of the Festival were marvellously complete. Nothing was left to chance, and everything went quite smoothly. For this foresight and business skill the credit is due to Mr. Arthur Collins (Chairman of the Executive), Mr. George T. Bowker and Mr. F. W. Stevens (Hon. Secs.),

Professor Granville Bantock and Mr. C. B. Bragg (Hon. Directors), and a willing and able staff of stewards.

The adjudicators were Dr. W. G. McNaught, Dr. H. P. Allen, Dr. A. H. Brewer, Mr. Rawdon Briggs, Mr. Harry Evans, Mrs. G. M. Kapp, Mr. Willy Lehmann, Mr. Edwin Stephenson, Dr. R. R. Terry, and Mr. R. H. Wilson.

The official accompanists were Mr. G. H. Manton, Mr. Clarence Raybould, Dr. A. J. Silver, and Mr. Arthur Woodall.

CHILDREN'S CHOIRS (Open).

(20 to 40 members, under 16 years of age.)

Tests: Two-part song, 'The lark's grave' (Stanford). Three-part song, 'Thuringian Folk-song' (from School Music Review) (Traditional).

Mr. W. Turner's Girls' Prize Choir, Notts (Mr. W. Turner).
Hope Street Council School, Birmingham (Mr. Walter J. Adams).
Station Road Boys' Council School, Harborne (Mr. William Mackenzie Randle).
Quarry Bank Primitive Methodist Children's Choir (Miss J. E. Tolson).
Boulton Road Council School, Handsworth (Mr. H. R. Sheppard).
Summer Lane Boys' Council School, Birmingham (Mr. John Thomas Tibbetts).
Bingley Street Council School, Wolverhampton (Mr. S. Johnson Lloyd).
Conference Hall Juvenile Choir, Small Heath (Mr. Charles Edmunds).
St. Clement's Boys' School, Nechells (Mr. J. W. Brittain).
St. Matthew's Girls' School, Birmingham (Miss D. A. Davis).
Lyng Council Boys' School, West Bromwich (Mr. J. Randall Cooke).
St. John's School, Harborne (Mr. Charles H. Peppiette).

1st. Farmer Road Girls' Choir, Leyton, London, N.E. (Miss Margaret Nicholls).
College Road Council School, Moseley (Miss Lambie).
Elborow Boys' School, Rugby (Mr. G. H. Newbold).
Wolverhampton Higher Grade School (Mr. J. West).

2nd. Church of England Waifs and Strays Society, Leicester (Mr. Walter Cole).
Loxton Street Council School, Birmingham (Mr. Walter A. Bell).
Lake Road Band of Hope Choir, Portsmouth (Mr. William T. Sayer).
Dudley Children's Choir (Mr. Joseph Lewis).
St. Peter's Church of England School, Harborne (Mr. George Holmes).
Birchfield Road Council School, Birmingham (Mr. Harry Mason).

PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOL CHOIRS.

Tests: Two-part song, 'A lake and a fairy boat' (Dunhill).
Cantata, 'Vogelweid, the Minnesinger' (Rathbone).
Any passage selected by the adjudicator.

St. Clement's Boys' School, Nechells (Mr. John W. Brittain).
Foundry Road Council School, Birmingham (Mr. W. W. Millard).
Rookery Road Senior Council School, Handsworth (Mr. H. H. Knight).
Station Road Girls' School, Aston (Miss A. L. Toye and Miss Roden).
Council School (Girls), Acock's Green (Miss E. Norman).
Grove Lane Council School, Handsworth (Mr. J. A. Toye).

2nd. City Road Council School, Edgbaston (Mr. D. M. Hopkins).
Girls' School, Alma Street, Aston (Miss M. L. Barkham).
St. Paul's Vincent Street Mixed School, Birmingham (Mr. J. Lord).
Smith Street Council School (Boys), Birmingham (Mr. J. Frederic Goode).
Church of England Boys' School, Moseley (Mr. Frank Greenhill).

1st. Boulton Road Council School, Handsworth (Mr. H. R. Sheppard).
Hope Street Council School, Birmingham (Mr. Walter J. Adams).

CLASS VI.

JUNIOR CHILDREN'S CHOIRS.

(20 to 40 children under 10 years of age.)

Test: Unison Song, 'Blow, blow, thou winter wind' (Arne).
Girls' Council School, Alma Street, Aston (Miss Ella Surman).

2nd. St. Matthew's Girls' School, Birmingham (Miss F. E. Short).

1st. Bloomsbury Council School, Birmingham (Mr. George H. Llewellyn).
St. Peter's Church of England School, Harborne (Miss Louisa Jevons).

ACTION-SONG.

Test: Folk-song 'Sweet nightingale' (18th century), (accompanied).
(Actions to be invented and adapted by the Choirs).

2nd. Acock's Green Council School (Miss A. A. Tanner).
Moor End School (Infants) (Miss Emie B. Stent).

1st. Grove Lane Council School, Handsworth (Miss W. Bellingham).
Alma Street Council School, Aston (Miss M. L. Barkham).

SECONDARY SCHOOL CHOIRS.

(Girls.)

Test: Three-part song, 'Dreams' (Parry).

2nd. Orme Girls' School, Newcastle, Staffordshire (Miss Edith Turner).

1st. St. Paul's High School for Girls, Edgbaston (Mr. James Makepeace).

(Boys.)

Test: Three-part chorus, 'Black is the darkness' (Echo) (Wood).

1st. Handsworth Grammar School, Birmingham (Dr. Alfred J. Silver).

WORKING GIRLS' CLUB CHOIRS.

Test: Choral trio, 'The approach of May' (Walmisley).

2nd. St. John's Girls' Club Choir, Kidderminster (Miss Gertrude H. Larr).
Allcock Street Adult School Girls' Club Choir, Birmingham (Mr. Arthur Wright).

1st. The Birmingham Working Educational Association (Mrs. Kirkaldy).
Boldmere G.F.S., Erdington (Miss Kimbell).

WORKING MIXED CHOIRS.

Test: Four-part madrigal, 'Come again, sweet love' (Dowland).
Bournville Works Choral Society (Mr. F. W. Sylvester).
Friends' Hall, Cotteridge (Mr. Arthur H. Taylor).

1st. Conference Hall Choir, Small Heath (Mr. Charles Edmunds).
The Birmingham Working Educational Association Choir (Mrs. Kirkaldy).

2nd. Salters' Works Choir, West Bromwich (Mr. J. Randel Cooke).
United Methodist Church, Bournville (Mr. W. E. Leech).

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: Four-part chorus, 'Now all the roses are blooming' (Brahms).
Three-part chorus, 'The Pixies' (Coleridge-Taylor).
Handsworth Teachers Ladies' Choir, Handsworth (Mr. H. H. Knight).
Church of England College Vocal Class, Edgbaston (Madame Baugh Humphries).
2nd. Astwood Bank Ladies' Choir, Redditch (Mr. Alfred James Hodges).
Dudley Ladies' Choir, Dudley (Mr. Joseph Lewis, jun.)
Birmingham Ladies' Select Choir and Madrigal Society, Birmingham (Mr. T. Appleby Matthews).
1st. Birmingham Ladies' Choir, Birmingham (Mr. W. Johnson Peters).
Stourbridge Ladies' Choir, Stourbridge (Mr. Arthur Woodall).
Moseley Musical Club Choir, Moseley (Mr. Charles Hyde).
Bournville Works Choral Society (Mr. F. W. Sylvester).
St. George's Singing Class, Redditch (Rev. G. L. Michell).
The 'Riley Hall' Ladies' Choir, Handsworth (Mr. William Bennett).
Rotton Park Ladies' Choral Society, Edgbaston (Mr. D. M. Hopkins).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: Part-song, 'Viking song' (Harrison).
Four-part chorus, 'Whether I find thee' (Elgar).
Four-part chorus, 'Dance of gnomes' (MacDowell).
West Bromwich Male-Voice Prize Choir (Mr. J. Randall Cooke).
Hednesford and District Society of Gleemen (Mr. Ernest Amphlett).
1st. Leamington Male-Voice Choir (Mr. A. E. Gibbs).
2nd. Cradley Heath, Oldhill and District Male-Voice Choir (Mr. A. Hickman).
Redditch Male-Voice Choir (Mr. Alfred James Hodges).
Brockmoor Male-Voice Choir (Mr. Arthur Woodhall).
Brierley Hill Male-Voice Choir (Mr. J. T. Randle).
Aston Manor Male-Voice Choir (Mr. Fred J. A. Eccles).

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: Five-part madrigal, 'The Silver Swan' (Gibbons).
Four-part song, 'Evening scene' (Elgar).
Conference Hall Choir, Small Heath (Mr. Charles Edmunds).
The Birmingham Select Choir and Madrigal Society (Mr. T. Appleby Matthews).
Dr. Silver's Part-Song Choir, Handsworth (Dr. Alfred J. Silver).
1st. Walsall Madrigal Society (Mr. Frank Mullings).
Birmingham Madrigal Singers (Miss Winifred Kingsford).
Acock's Choral Society (Miss Agnes C. Birch).
Mr. W. Johnson Peter's Choir, Birmingham (Mr. W. Johnson Peters).
2nd. Moseley Musical Club Choir (Mr. Charles Hyde).
'Ellis' Choir, Leicester (Mr. William Langley).

VILLAGE CHOIRS.

Tests: Madrigal, 'Come, shepherds, follow me' (Benet).
Part-song, 'In autumn' (Brahms).
1st. Astwood Bank Baptist Choir (Mr. Alfred James Hodges).
2nd. Hartlebury Choral Society (Mr. R. A. Taylor).
Quinton Madrigal Society, Birmingham (Mr. Ernest H. Wright).

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: Part-song, 'Gentle spring' (Holbrooke).
Part-song, 'A March night' (Brahms).
Moseley Musical Club Choir, Moseley (Mr. Charles Hyde).
Norton Ladies' Choir, Birmingham (Mr. W. E. Mason).
The 'Riley Hall' Ladies' Choir, Handsworth (Mr. William Bennett).
Wednesbury and District Ladies' Choir, Wednesbury (Mr. Ernest Amphlett).
Dudley Ladies' Choir, Dudley (Mr. Joseph Lewis, jun.).
2nd. Birmingham Ladies' Select Choir and Madrigal Society (Mr. T. Appleby Matthews).
1st. Mr. W. Turner's Girls' Prize Choir, Nottingham (Mr. W. Turner).
Birmingham Ladies' Choir, Birmingham (Mr. W. Johnson Peters).
Lake Road (Portsmouth) Ladies' Temperance Choir (Mr. William T. Sayer).
Stourbridge Ladies' Choir, Stourbridge (Mr. Arthur Woodall).
Salford Girls' Institute, Salford (Miss Say Ashworth).

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: (a) Part-song, 'The mountain spirit' (Jensen).
(b) Part-song, 'Slumber song of the Madonna' (Colin Taylor).
(c) Part-song, 'The death of Trenar' (Brahms).
(d) Part-song, 'The Spanish gipsy girl' (Lassen).
Ancoats Girls' Institute Choir, Manchester (Miss Say Ashworth). Second-prize winners, 'Southport,' 1909.
2nd. Mr. Aldous's Choir, Lancaster (Mr J. W. Aldous). First-prize winners, 'Southport,' 1911.
Sale and District Musical Society, Manchester (Mr. Alfred Higson). First-prize winners, 'Buxton and North Derbyshire,' 1910.
1st. St. James's Ladies' Choir, Barrow (Mrs. T. M. Bourne). First-prize winners, 'Blackpool,' 'Barrow,' and 'Morecambe.'
Wheatley Street Institute Choir, Coventry (Mrs. Laura R. O. Petty). First-prize winners, 'Alexandra Palace,' 1911.

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Prize-winners at other competitions.)

Tests: 'It's oh! to be a wild wind' (Elgar).
Part-song, 'Feasting, I watch' (Elgar).
Part-song, 'The lost leader' (Bantock).
Butt Lane Co-operative Male-Voice Choir, Talke, Staffs (Mr. George Clarke). Second-prize winners, 'New Brighton,' 1911.
Nelson Arion Glee Union, Nelson (Mr. Lawson Berry). Second-prize winners, 'Blackpool,' 1911.
2nd. Stourbridge Institute Male-Voice Choir, Stourbridge (Mr. Harry Woodall). First-prize winners, 'Blackpool,' and 'Worcester,' 1911.
Church Gresley P.M. Choir, Church Gresley (Mr. George Walton). First-prize winners, 'Buxton and North Derbyshire,' 1911.
1st. Manchester Orpheus Glee Society, Manchester (Mr. W. S. Nesbitt). First-prize winners, 'Blackpool,' 1911.

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS.

(Prize-winners at other competitions.)

Tests: Five-part madrigal, 'Sweet honey-sucking bees' (Wilbye).
Part-song, 'Daybreak' (Brian).
Madrigal, 'Down the hills Corina trips' (Bateson).
Part-song, 'Go, song of mine' (Elgar).
Sale and District Musical Society, Manchester (Mr. Alfred Higson). First-prize winners, 'Barrow,' 1911.
Portsmouth Temperance Choral Union, Portsmouth (Mr. W. E. Green). First-prize winners, 'South and West London,' 1911.
Stourbridge Institute Madrigal Society, Stourbridge (Mr. G. H. Woodall). Second-prize winners, 'Blackpool,' 1911.
Barrow Madrigal Society, Barrow (Mrs. T. M. Bourne). First-prize winners, 'Lytham,' 'Morecambe,' 1911.
2nd. Mr. Aldous's Choir, Lancaster (Mr. J. W. Aldous). First-prize winners, 'Preston,' 1911.

Nottingham Philharmonic Society, Nottingham (Mr. William Turner). First-prize winners, 'Buxton and North Derbyshire,' 1911.

1st. Coventry Co-operative Festival Choir, Coventry (Mr. John Potter). First-prize winners, 'Nottingham,' 1911.

Blackpool Glee and Madrigal Society, Blackpool (Mr. Herbert Whittaker). Second-prize winners, 'Lytham' and 'Morecambe,' 1911.

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: Part-song, 'Fear no more the heat of the sun' (Anderton).
Madrigal, 'Sister, awake' (Bateson).

1st. Birmingham Select Choir and Madrigal Society (Mr T. Appleby Matthews).
Walsall Madrigal Society (Mr. Frank Mullings).
Acocks Green Choral Society (Miss Agnes C. Birch).
Wednesbury Choral Association of Ladies' Choir and Gleemen (Mr. Ernest Amphlett).

2nd. Millom Vocal Union (Mr. R. R. Johnston).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS

Tests: Part-song, 'Love' (Strauss).
Part-song, 'The Crusaders' (MacDowell).

Holme Valley Male-Voice Choir, Huddersfield (Mr. Irving Silverwood).

1st. Birmingham Victoria Male-Voice Choir (Mr. W. E. Robinson).
West Bromwich Male-Voice Prize Choir (Mr. J. Randall Cooke).

2nd. Hadley and District Orpheus Male-Voice Choir (Mr. H. R. Jones).
Leicester Glee Club (Mr. Vincent Dearden).
Wednesbury and District Society of Gleemen (Mr. Ernest Amphlett).
Kidderminster Male-Voice Choir (Mr. R. A. Taylor).
Boots' Choral Union, Nottingham (Mr. Edwin S. Waring).
Wolverhampton 'Apollo' Choir (Mr. Harry Underwood).
Oundle 'Avondale' Male-Voice Choir (Mr. Hallam Sanderson).
Barrow Male-Voice Choir, Barrow-in-Furness (Mr. Roland R. Johnson).
Curzon Male-Voice Choir, Birmingham (Dr. A. J. Silver).

EAST CHESHIRE.—April 18, 19.

The East Cheshire Musical Competitions, which this year were again held at Macclesfield, owe their origin mainly to the efforts of the Hon. Blanche Stanley, who some three or four years ago inaugurated a series of village singing-classes. Keeping this idea in view, the contests were divided into 'open' and 'village choir' classes; and in the juvenile competitions, classes were also arranged for the smaller village schools as well as the larger ones from the towns. Dr. J. C. Bridge, of Chester, adjudicated on the children's singing, and Dr. H. D. Allen on that of the adult choirs.

The chief results were as follows: Action-song (children under 8)—1st, St. Peter's, Macclesfield; St. John's, Macclesfield. Schools of less than 100 pupils (three entries)—1st, Prestbury (Mr. Albert Loose); 2nd, Adlington (Mr. G. Worthington). Schools of less than 200 pupils (six entries)—1st, Bellingham Cross (Mr. A Hulme); 2nd, Lord Vernon's Girls', Poynton (Miss Robinson); 3rd, St. Chad's, Romiley (Mr. W Warburton). Class open to all schools in East Cheshire—(Tests: 'The lamb,' Walford Davies; 'The rover shanty,' Stanford)—1st, Mill Street Higher Grade, Macclesfield (Mr. J. H. Owen); 2nd, St. Chad's, Romiley (Mr. W. Warburton); Bollington Wesleyan (Mr. Jesse West). Mill Street, Macclesfield, also gained the first place for sight-singing. Village singing classes (five entries)—1st, Birtles and Siddington (Rev. Canon Elstob); 2nd, Longley (Mr. A. W. Dale). Open class (five entries)—(Tests: 'O happy eyes,' Elgar; 'God is our hope and strength,' Bach)—1st, Poynton (Mr. Fred Green); 2nd, Macclesfield Merles (Hon. Blanche Stanley). Male-voice choirs (village)—1st, Langley (Mr. A. W. Dale); Prestbury (Mr. E. Sanford). Male-voice choirs, open class (five entries)—1st, Congleton (Mr. F. Green); Bollington (Mr. S. Knight; Die Wandernden Sanger, Macclesfield (Mr. C. Seal). Female-voice choirs, village (three entries)—1st, Langley (Mr. A. W. Dale). Female-voice choirs, open class—1st, Netherlaw.

There were also contests between church or chapel choirs (two classes), and the Festival wound up with a concert, at which the combined choirs sang Handel's 'And the glory,' Mendelssohn's 'Thanks be to God,' and the two Bach Chorales, under the baton of Dr. Allen.

PERTHSHIRE CHURCH CHOIR UNION.

The sixteenth Festival of this organization, held on April 19, 20 and 21, furthered the progress it has made in recent years. Rural choirs were still diffident, but elsewhere the support was good. There was a great advance in the standard of all the competitions, a notable improvement being the intonation of the children's choirs.

There were three classes for church choirs, each with a prescribed sacred test and an 'own-choice' secular test. In the chief class the former was Hollins's 'O worship the Lord.' The North U.F. Church Choir (Mr. Edward Nicol), with Elgar's 'My love dwelt in a northern land,' retained the cup against St. John's West Parish Church (Mr. D. T. Yacamini), who chose West's 'Song of the silent land,' and St. Leonard's Parish Church Choir (Miss Fyfe). In the class for small towns, Alyth South U.F. Church Choir (Mr. J. Howe) were first, and in that for rural districts, Forteviot Parish Church Choir (Miss Nairn). There was a ladies' voice division, in which St. John's West Parish Church (Mr. D. T. Yacamini) were successful, and competitions for day schools and Sunday schools, in which the first prizes went to Caledonian Road School (Mr. E. Nicol) and Bridgend U.F. (Mr J. Morris) respectively. Miss Norah Brough (soprano), Miss Donaldson (contralto), Mr. James Macintyre (tenor), and Mr. J Auld (bass) won prizes for solo-singing. The adjudicator was Mr. David Stephen.

ABERDEEN (N.-E. SCOTLAND) FESTIVAL.

April 26, 27, 28.

This influential event had three main divisions, namely, (a) a concert given by a Festival orchestra, organized by Professor Terry (who holds the Chair of History at the University); (b) a competition of choirs of the workers in various industries and large business establishments; and (c) a Church choirs' service. We have here to deal with the competitive section, which was heard on April 27. This is the fourth Festival of its kind held in Aberdeen. At the previous Festivals numerous children's choirs and choral Societies from many parts of N.-E. Scotland appeared, and the gatherings were a great success, spreading far and wide ideals of good tone and general treatment of music. Last year one class in the competition attracted great attention, because it seemed to open up a vista of usefulness. This was a class for choirs from business establishments. So much were the promoters impressed with the potentialities revealed, that it was determined that this year the competitive section of the Festival should be entirely devoted to an exploration in this promising field. The result was successful beyond all anticipation. Numerous choirs were at once formed. Amongst these was one from the Aberdeen Post Office, and another from the local railway employés. All these choirs were set to work on suitable music, and their efforts culminated on the fateful day. The interest in the event and the excitement were great. But the most gratifying feature of the occasion was not that this or that choir won or lost, but that such excellent vocal capacity was exhibited and that it was so plastic in the hands of the skilled conductor. As Dr. McNaught (who adjudicated and conducted) remarked, Aberdonians had been living near a gold mine without being aware of the fact. No doubt the general excellence of the results is a fruit of the labours of school-music experts. One has sorrowfully to confess that such teaching does not often produce the fruit it deserves. But this is merely because there is no provision made for the young scholars immediately after they leave school.

The following is a list of the choirs that competed, printed in the order in which they emerged after the competition :

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS.

Stoneywood Works (Mr. James Hay).
Broadford Works (Miss Muriel Norris Adams).
(The Mugiemoss Works entered, but were unable to attend.)

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Aberdeen Post Office (Mr. Warren T. Clemens).
Aberdeen Railway Employés (Mr. G. Crookshanks).
Ogston & Tennant (Mr. John S. B. Cheyne).

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

1st. Playfair & Co. (Mr. Warren T. Clemens).
Watt & Grant (Miss Nan Watt).
Pratt & Keith (Mr. George P. Adam).
Berryden Works (Rev. A. Austin Foster).
Esslemont & Mackintosh (Mr. James Murray).
Broadford Works (Miss Muriel Norris Adams).

FEMALE-VOICE (Girls' Clubs).

*Elgin White Ribbon (Mr. John Barritt).
*Oldmachar Girls' Guildry Co. (Miss Margaret Skakle).
Holburn (Miss J. M. Wright).

* Tied.

Three hundred of the sopranos and altos of the choirs combined to give a performance of Rathbone's cantata, 'Orpheus,' accompanied by the Festival orchestra. There was not much time for rehearsal of the band and choir together, but notwithstanding this disadvantage a good performance on the whole was secured.

The concert given on the previous evening and the Church choir service are briefly reported in the Musical Times.

CORNWALL.—April 29 to May 4.

COUNTY COMPETITION.

Motto : 'Bedhens Kernow en Kesenyans'

(Let Cornwall be in concord).

This Festival, originated and energetically promoted by Lady Mary Trefusis, was successful for the third time, attracting abundant entries and producing many good results. St. Austell, conveniently situated on the main line, was the centre for the Eastern Division, where contests were heard on the first three days; and the programme was repeated on the three following days for the Western Division at the quaint country town of Helston. To the great regret of many who were interested and of more who were concerned, instrumental music was deliberately omitted from the curriculum this year, and only the vocal phase of musical art was catered for. On very good authority it may be stated that as a result of the strong protests made in the Press and elsewhere the instrumental tests will be re-instituted next year. The adjudicators were again Dr. H. P. Allen (choral) and Dr. Arthur Somervell (school-singing), and the tests were generally chosen with discernment and some originality. An advance step was marked by making sight-singing compulsory, and by instituting a more definite and satisfactory system of marking. Certificates of merit were awarded on percentage—first class, 80 per cent. and over; second class, 65 per cent. and over; third class, 50 per cent. and over—and challenge banners and shields were given to choirs with the greatest aggregate of marks in one section. The total number of entries was ninety-five—forty-two in the Eastern Division and fifty-three in the Western, the number of competitors involved amounting to over 1,500. Some of the selected pieces were found beyond the capacity of any choir—Cornelius's 'Never can the teardrop tell thee' (part-song for men) and 'O may I join the choir invisible' (Rootham) (ladies' choirs); also the Bach motet, 'I wrestle and pray,' required for combined performance. Several pieces, on the other hand, obtained inspiring performances—Walford Davies's 'Hymn before action' and 'Come, songs of the free' (Brahms), for male choirs, Brahms's arrangement of the German folk-song, 'Love, fare thee well,' and Stanford's choral piece, 'Our enemies have fallen,' for combined choirs (especially at St. Austell). The most conspicuous advance in standard was perceptible in the sight-singing. Throughout the marking was high—perhaps a little indulgent—nearly all performers gaining either first or second class. The distinction of winning maximum marks was achieved by one choir only—that from Mylor School in the class for medium-sized schools. This unqualified success was won in the test for unison sight-reading, for which they used tonic sol-fa (optional). Each afternoon was devoted to combined rehearsal under the adjudicators, the test-pieces and specially prepared music being then practised by the massed choirs and subsequently performed publicly. The value of these rehearsals proved to be so great that they will in future be made a permanent feature. The opportunity afforded to the adjudicators for applying and practically explaining their criticisms of individual performances, and to the competitors for taking advantage of such criticisms and impressing them on their minds, the engendering of the true Festival spirit of common enjoyment and participation in a common object, were only some of the palpable and good results which immediately accrued.

The principal awards were as follows :

EASTERN DIVISION.

Schools (Sight-singing)—First class: Probus, Fowey, Padstow, St. Dennis, and Truro Practising Schools. (Six other entries.)

Prepared Songs—First class: St. Tudy and Bosvigo, Truro. (Three other entries.)

Town Choirs—First class: Bodmin, Gunnislake, Saltash.

Aggregate marks—Awards: Banners to Probus and Truro Practising Schools, and a shield to Bodmin Choral Society.

Village Choirs—First class: Devoran (mixed-voice), Fowey Wesleyan, Sticker, Devoran (male-voice).

Aggregate marks—Awards: A shield to Devoran Choral Society (Mr. W. R. Cook).

WESTERN DIVISION.

Schools (Sight-singing)—First class: Camborne (Basset Road), Redruth Trewirgie, Camborne Roskear, Falmouth (Clare Terrace), St. Paul's (Penzance), Mylor, Helston Church of England, Carn Brea (Pool), Madron, Camborne (Troon), Falmouth Church of England, Penryn. (Five other entries.)

Prepared songs—First class: Penryn, Falmouth Church of England, Camborne (Troon), Falmouth (Clare Terrace), St. Paul's (Penzance), Redruth Trewirgie, Camborne Roskear, Camborne (Basset Road), Carn Brea (Pool), Helston Church of England, Madron, St. Feock. (Four other entries.)

Penryn, Falmouth (Clare Terrace), and Redruth Trewirgie won the trophies for highest aggregates in their respective classes.

Town Choirs—First class: Truro Philharmonic, Truro St. Mary's Wesley (two sections), Truro People's Palace, and Marazion. (Four other entries.) The banner for highest aggregate was awarded to St. Mary's.

Village Choirs—Marazion and Tuckingmill. (Eight other entries.) The Marazion Ladies' Choir was awarded the highest aggregate shield.

SOUTHPORT.—May 2, 3, 4.

This year's Festival was the most successful of the whole series. It drew over 3,000 competitors. The following were among the chief results :

Challenge Shield: Elementary School Choirs (local)—1st, Birkdale Council School; 2nd, All Saints', Wennington Road.

Challenge Shield: Elementary School Choirs (open).—1st, St. Margaret's Higher Grade, Liverpool; 2nd, Birkdale Council School. Action-song—1st, Bank Street Sunday School, Bury; 2nd, Birkdale Council School; 3rd, Simms Cross Council School, Widnes.

Exceptionally good choral performances were given by the Morecambe Girls' Friendly Society under Miss Duff. Other winners of honours were Mr. Aldous's Lancaster Female-Voice and his full Mixed-Voice Choirs, Dr. Siddall's St. Helen's Male-Voice Choir, the Totley Street Baptist (Bradford) Choir (Mr. Wilcock), and Colne Orpheus Union (Mr. L. Greenwood), in the Challenge Shield Male-Voice Choir class. The judges were Dr. W. G. McNaught, Dr. Thomas Keighley, Mr. Harry Evans, Mr. W. A. C. Cruickshank, Mr. J. Weston Nicholl, and Mr. J. P. Sheridan.

THE GLASGOW CHORAL (COMPETITION) FESTIVAL.—May 3, 4.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The second annual Festival at Glasgow, on May 3 and 4, afforded a complete justification, if such were needed, of the educational and artistic value of the Competitive Festival Movement. It is unanimously conceded that the standard of performance this year has been a decided advance on that of last year. Conspicuously was this shown in the Church Choir classes (we make no distinction between church and chapel north of the Tweed). As an instance, the case of the choir which took first place in the Open Challenge class may be mentioned: last year this same choir secured only an average place in the second-class group. Our men's choirs have still much to learn from their southern brethren, but a hopeful sign is the place secured in the final stage of the Open Challenge class by a local choir which may yet be able to secure the trophy the Cleveland Harmonic Choir have for the second time carried back to Middlesbrough. One of the pleasantest recollections of the Festival is the performance of Bairstow's 'The dawn of song' in the Open Mixed-voice Choir class. This charming part-song (and ideal test-piece) was beautifully sung, and through it two Scottish choirs and one English choir passed into the final stage, in which the Ayr Burgh and County Choir took first place. That no award was made in the Mixed-voice Quartet class was not at all surprising, and the competitors in the Male-voice Quartet class narrowly missed a similar fate. These were the two weak spots in the whole Festival. For the first time there was a Sight-singing Competition, for which three choirs entered. No doubt, now that the standard is known, there will be a large number of entries next year. It is to be deplored that owing to the inexplicable attitude of the Glasgow head-masters toward the idea of competition, only one choir from the Glasgow Board Schools entered, but it is gratifying to know that it took first place. In all respects save one the second Glasgow Festival was a success—the exception being that the Festival has resulted in a financial loss which entails a call on the guarantors. This loss was not unexpected, and it has by no means damped the enthusiasm of the promoters who, even now, have indications that next year's Festival will not only pay its way, but will probably yield the nucleus of a reserve fund. The following awards were made by Mr. Allen Gill, the adjudicator:

DAY SCHOOL CHOIRS (Junior Class), 3 entries.

1st. Gorbals Public School, Glasgow (Miss Annie K. Neill).
2nd. Temple Public School, New Kilpatrick (Miss J. H. Linklater).

DAY SCHOOL CHOIRS (Senior Class), 6 entries.

1st. Thornwood Public School, Partick (Mr. James Sinton).
2nd. Main Street Public School, Alexandria (Mr. Thomas Fairhurst).

CHILDREN'S ACTION-SONGS, 5 entries.

1st. Govanhill Parish Church Junior Choir (section 2), (Mr. John Thomson).
2nd. Govanhill Parish Church Junior Choir (section 1), (Mr. John Thomson).

BAND OF HOPE CHOIRS, 2 entries.

1st. Pollokshields East U.F. Church Mission (Mr. John Fyfe, Jr.).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Industrial Class), 3 entries.

1st. Babcock & Wilcox (Renfrew) Choir (Mr. Charles Rennie).
2nd. Glenfield (Kilmarnock) Choir (Mr. Hugh L. Porter).

SIGHT-SINGING COMPETITION, 4 entries.

1st. Carlisle Madrigal Society (Mr. John R. Cockbain).
2nd. Glasgow Glee and Madrigal Society (Mr. B. W. Hartley).

CHURCH CHOIRS (Second Class), 11 entries.

1st. Partick Congregational Church (Mr. D. S. Kerr).
2nd. Parkhead (Glasgow) U.F. Church (Mr. John Findlay).

CHURCH CHOIRS, 9 entries.
(Ure Primrose Challenge Cup.)

1st. Union U.F. Church, Clydebank (Mr. W. A. Miller).
2nd. John Street U.F. Church, Glasgow (Mr. George Taggart).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Scottish Class), 6 entries.
(Pollokshields Philharmonic Challenge Shield.)

1st. Clydebank Choir (Mr. Thomas H. Allwood).
2nd. Oakbank Choir, Glasgow (Mr. W. A. Brodie).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Open Class), 7 entries.
(Palette Club Cup.)

1st. Cleveland Harmonic Choir, Middlesbrough (Mr. Gavin Kay).
2nd. Carlisle Glee Union (Mr. Will. C. Darley).

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS (Open Class), 6 entries.
(Stirling Maxwell Challenge Shield.)

1st. Ayr Burgh and County Choir (Mr. Frederic Ely).
2nd. Carlisle Madrigal Society (Mr. John R. Cockbain).

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS (Scottish Class), 2 entries.
(Bardrochat Challenge Cup.)

1st. Western Choral Union, Glasgow (Mr. Wilfrid E. Senior).

JUVENILE CHOIRS, 1 entry.
(Orpheus Choir Challenge Trophy.)

St. George's Co-operative Junior Choir, Glasgow (Mr. Wm. Wilson).

PEOPLE'S PALACE (EAST LONDON).—May 6—18.

Again this Festival has proceeded to justify itself triumphantly. It has its own clientèle, which supports a highly-elaborated scheme of choral competitions, and shows every year the benefit of the experience gained by competing. In our last issue we gave the results of the elementary school divisions, which had to be held earlier owing to the re-forming of the L.C.C. School classes at Easter, when the school year ends. Below we give the other results of the Festival:

Female-Voice Trios (Advanced).—1, St. Thomas's, Stepney, Musical Society (Mrs. Wilton, Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Frost); 2, Toynbee Hall Choral Society (Misses Rabin, Preston, and Billinge).

Choirs from Places of Worship (mixed voices, membership over 26).—1, Approach Road Wesleyan (Mr. A. Morgan); 2, St. Leonard's, Shoreditch (Mr. W. A. Warren); (membership of 26 and under): 1, King Edward Mission, Spitalfields (Mr. Lester Jones); 2, Richmond Road Wesleyan Choir, Hackney (Miss Wallington).

Instrumental Trios.—1, Queen Alexandra House (Misses Stewart, Bostock, Winter, and Broome).

String Quartets.—1, same.

Orchestras (Amateurs only).—1, Queen Alexandra's House (Miss Daymond); 2, South Place Orchestra, Finsbury (Mr. Walter Gandy).

Male-Voice Choirs (Advanced).—1, Mr. Day-Winter's Male-Voice Choir; 2, Peel Male-Voice Choir, Clerkenwell (Mr. Hammersley).

Female-Voice Choirs (Intermediate).—1, St. Simon's Girls' Club, Bethnal Green (Rev. G. K. S. Marshall); 2, Toynbee Hall Choral Society (Mr. Geoffrey Garrod).

Male-Voice Choirs (Elementary).—1, St. James's, Ratcliff, C.E. Men's Society (Mrs. Atherton Knowles); 2, Union Mission Young Men's Club, Bethnal Green (Mr. R. E. Pearson).

Continuation Schools.—1, Queen's Road, E., Commercial and Art Centre (Mr. Walter Penn); 2, Malmesbury Road E.C.S., Bow (Mr. A. J. Foot).

Female-Voice Choirs (Elementary).—1, Union Mission Girls' Choir, Bethnal Green (Mr. R. E. Pearson); 2, St. Leonard's Working Girls' Club (Miss Ella Warren).

Choral Societies.—(30 voices and under): 1, St. Leonard's (Shoreditch) Choral Society (Mr. W. A. Warren); 2, Peel Mixed Choir (Mr. T. C. Hammersley); (31 to 60 voices); 1, Toynbee Hall Choral Society (Mr. Geoffrey Garrod); 2, St. Peter's Choral Society, London Docks (Mr. W. A. Hook); (over 60 voices): 1, Mr. G. Day-Winter's Select Choir; 2, St. Thomas's, Stepney, Musical Society (Rev. C. J. Beresford).

Female-Voice Choirs (advanced).—1, St. James's, Ratcliff, Young Women's Guild (Mrs. Knowles); Mr. G. Day Winter's Ladies' Choir.

Girls' Secondary Schools.—1, Coborn School Choir, Poplar (Mrs. C. J. Birch); 2, Central Foundation Girls' School, Whitechapel (Miss Amy Lott).

Male-Voice Choirs (Intermediate).—1, St. Thomas's Musical Society, Stepney (Rev. C. J. Beresford); 2, Toynbee Hall Choral Society (Mr. Geoffrey Garrod).

Continuation Schools (Female Voices).—1, Millwall E.C.S., Isle of Dogs (Mr. Leonard Gowings); 2, Queen's Road Ladies' Choir (Mr. Walter Penn).

Female-Voice Choirs (Intermediate, over 20 voices).—1, Guild of St. Mary (Rev. H. J. Kitcat); 2, Shoreditch (Mr. W. A. Warren).

Choirs of Men and Boys (City and Advanced).—1, St. Mary's, Stratford-by-Bow (Rev. H. J. Kitcat); 2, Stepney Parish Church (Mr. Percy Downes). (Other than City and Advanced).—1, Holy Trinity, Stepney (Mr. W. E. Pepper); 2, St. Simon's, Bethnal Green.

There were also competitions for vocal and instrumental trios and quartets and for choral sight-singing. In the latter prizes were won by St. Thomas's Musical Society, Stepney, and St. James's, Ratcliff, Choral Society.

One of the best feats of the Festival was the interpretation of Shaw's 'Weep you no more, sad fountains,' and Wood's 'Echo,' in the advanced female-voice class, with which St. James's Ratcliff Young Women's Guild took the lead over their larger and more experienced rivals.

The adjudicators were Mr. Frank Bridge, Dr. Walford Davies, Mr. T. F. Dunhill, Dr. Arthur Somervell, and Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor.

On May 18 the Festival reached a triumphant finale with a concert of prize-winning choirs, at which Mr. Coleridge-Taylor conducted a combined performance of Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' and the prizes were distributed by H.R.H. Princess Alexander of Teck, President of the Festival.

BUXTON.—May 9, 10, 11.

The sixth Festival of the series held in this beautifully-situated town was unprecedentedly successful. About 3,000 performers took part. There were classes for solo-singing, violin and pianoforte playing, school choirs, and adult choirs of many kinds. The first day was occupied in hearing local classes, the chief choral section in which displayed some very fine resonance and high training. The tests in this class were the madrigal, 'Fly not so swift' (Wilbye), and the splendid chorus, 'The wraith of Odin,' from Elgar's 'King Olaf.' The Buxton Philharmonic Society (Mr. G. H. Lockett) and the Bakewell Choral Society (Mr. V. R. Cockerton), gave adequate performances of both test-pieces. The Buxton Choir especially excelled in the Elgar chorus, and therefore retained the challenge shield which they won last year. The Curbar Ladies' Choir (Mr. V. R. Cockerton) was first in the class for this category. The second day was mainly for the children. The schools that entered for this Festival displayed high-grade singing, most of the teachers having learned the art of teaching voice-production and refined performance. Six schools united to perform Percy E. Fletcher's new children's cantata, 'The walrus and the carpenter,' under the baton of Mr. Harry Evans, who, with Dr. McNaught and Mr. C. H. Fogg, adjudicated during the Festival.

A notable performance was that of the boys of the Offerton Industrial School (Mr. G. W. Cleaver), who gave quite delightful performances of Schumann's delicately beautiful 'Hey baloo,' and the vigorous and stirring 'Vikings' Song' by Coleridge-Taylor. The third day brought forward many excellent organizations and about 150 solo-singers from various parts of the country. The tests were: Female-voice choirs (six entries), 'At the secret gate' (Kauffman); male-voice choirs (six entries), 'Stranger, thou art standing now' (a long, difficult, but very fine choral-ballad by Granville Bantock); mixed-voice choirs (six entries), 'Descend, ye Nine' (Parry), and 'Sweet honey-sucking bees' (Wilbye). The first places fell respectively to Tideswell Ladies' Choir (Mr. C. Ashover), Alfreton Orpheus (Mr. C. Robinson), and Sale and District (Mr. Alfred Higson).

HERTFORDSHIRE AND NORTH MIDDLESEX (ALEXANDRA PALACE).—May 9, 10, 11.

When this was changed from an annual to a biennial event, fears were expressed that the Festival would lose ground. In the event, however, there seemed no cause for anxiety as to the future. The entries were satisfactory in spite of the drawing away of choral forces to the Empire concert at Earl's Court on the Saturday, and by general consent there was an advance in standard. Competitors came from a wider area. In the class for string orchestras the advance was remarkable; Mr. Allen Gill, who adjudicated in this section, said that this one event was sufficient to justify the Festival.

Six orchestras entered, and played a Concerto Grosso by Handel. The first two prizes were secured by Mr. Victor Duane's orchestra, Watford and Palmer's Green and District Orchestral Society.

The tests, entries, and results in the chief adult choral competitions were as follows:

MADRIGAL SOCIETIES.

Tests: 'Ye thrilled me once' (Parry).
'Lady, see on every side' (Marenzio).

Crouch End Congregational (Mr. Josiah Booth).
1st. Ware and District Choral Society (Mr. Nelson Govier).
Northwold Choral Society (Mr. William C. Webb).
3rd. Hertford Festival Choir (Mr. James L. Gregory).
2nd. Hertingfordbury Choral Society (Mr. James Kennerell).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (Open class).

Tests: 'Hymn before action' (Walford Davies).
'A lover's counsel' (Cowen).

Wood Green Men's Adult School (Mr. F. Munns).
3rd. Essendine Choir, Paddington (Mr. W. Kendall).
1st. East Finchley Brotherhood Choir (Mr. Wooding Monk).
The Peel Male Voice Choir (Mr. T. C. Hammersley).
2nd. Hertford Festival Choir (Mr. James L. Gregory).
Ealing Male-Voice Choir (Mr. Albert Thompson).

LADIES' CHOIRS (Open class).

Tests: 'Oh! what comes over the sea' (Dunhill).
'Come away, come away, Death' (Brahms).

Ware and District Choral Society (Mr. Nelson Govier).
2nd. Hitchin Ladies' Choir (Mrs. Walter Carling).
1st. Hertford Festival Choir (Mr. James L. Gregory).

CHORAL SOCIETIES (Open class).

Tests: 'Presentation of Christ in the Temple' (Eccard).
'Cupid and Rosalind' (Stanford).

Hertford Festival Choir (Mr. James L. Gregory).
Hertingfordbury Choral Society (Mr. James Kennerell).
1st. Orpheus Choral Society (Mr. Claud Powell).
2nd. Essendine Choir, Paddington (Mr. W. Kendall).
Ware and District Choral Society (Mr. Nelson Govier).
3rd. Bethnal Green Choral Society (Mr. James J. Cole).

CHURCH CHOIRS.

(From places of over 4,000 inhabitants.)

Tests: 'In Dulci Jubilo' (Pearsall).
'Where Thou reignest' (Schubert).

St. Andrew's, Alexandra Park (Mr. E. W. Agate).
St. Paul's, Winchmore Hill (Mr. Clement Bishop).
2nd. Berkhamsted Parish Church Choir (Mr. William H. London).
St. Peter's, Highgate Hill (Dr. Cecil Hazelhurst).
1st. St. Luke's Choir, West Holloway (Mr. B. J. Dale).

An excellent entry was obtained in the class for male-voice choirs within the area. The tests were 'Hymn before action' (Walford Davies) and 'O peaceful night' (German), and the result as follows:

Wood Green Men's Adult School (Mr. Frank Munns).
1st. East Finchley Brotherhood Choir (Mr. H. Wooding Monk).

2nd. Hampstead Garden Suburb Male-Voice Choir (Mr. F. J. Daniell).
Hertingfordbury Choral Society (Mr. James Kennerell).
3rd. Bowes Park Brotherhood Choir (Mr. G. William Williams).
Sepia Male-Voice Choir, Wealdstone (Mr. Edwin Alldridge).
Hertford Festival Choir (Mr. James L. Gregory).

In the chief class for choral Societies within the area, Elgar's 'Go, song of mine' and Dowland's 'Say, love, if ever thou didst find' proved exacting. Hertford Festival Choir (Mr. J. L. Gregory) were successful against Edmonton All Saints' (Mr. B. J. Hales).

In the four divisions for Elementary Schools, first prizes were won by Chase Side C. S., Enfield (Mr. H. Vincent), South Harringay C. S. (Mr. Walter Penn), Bayford School (Mr. Morgan Biles), and Croxley Green School (Miss O. Clarke). The test-pieces were the same, and the prize-winners met afterwards in competition for the challenge prize of a Broadwood pianoforte. This was secured by Croxley Green.

Prizes in other classes for choral bodies within the area were won by Berkhamsted Ladies' Choir (Mr. J. J. Bavin), Crouch End Congregational (Mr. Josiah Booth), Essendon Church (Mr. E. M. Sheehan), Ware and District Choral Society (Mr. Nelson Govier), St. John's Girls' School, Friern Barnet (Miss A. E. Case), Wood Green County School (Mr. Clement Bishop), St. Joseph's Home, Enfield (Rev. George Bishop), Hertingfordbury Choral Society (Mr. James R. Kennerell), Queen's Road Commercial and Art Centre and Queen's Road Ladies' Choir (Mr. Walter Penn), Bagford Choral Society (Mr. Norman F. Smith), Hatfield G.F.S. (Mr. H. W. Harrison).

The vocal solo prize-winners were Miss P. M. Foster (soprano), Miss Doris Buckley and Mrs. Leigh Kent (mezzo-soprano), Miss M. K. Bonser (contralto), Mr. Oscar A. Ware (tenor), Mr. Evan Elias (baritone), Mr. Frank Wilcock (bass), and Sidney Challis (boys). In the pianoforte classes the first places were secured by Mr. F. S. Heywood (senior), Mr. Harold B. Wood (ages 16-18), Miss Annie L. Miller (ages 14-16), Miss Winifred Holden (ages 12-14). There were also classes for chamber-music, organ, violin and violoncello playing, vocal trios and quartets.

The adjudicators were Mr. G. D. Cunningham, Mrs. Mary Davies, Dr. Walford Davies, Mr. Allen Gill, Mr. T. Dunhill, Madame Alma Haas, Mr. Sydney Nicholson, Mr. C. Jacoby, Mr. W. McNaught, Mr. Dan Price, Dr. A. Somervell, Dr. R. R. Terry and Mr. W. E. Whitehouse.

At the closing concert on May 11, combined choirs sang under Mr. Allen Gill, Mr. Daniel Beddoe gave solos, and the Marchioness of Salisbury presented the prizes.

The retirement of Miss Cecilia Hill threw the great burden of the secretarial work upon the shoulders of Miss Ursula Church, who is to be congratulated upon the results of her organizing labours.

A full list of the competing schools is given in the SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW edition of the RECORD.

BRISTOL EISTEDDFOD.

On May 13 and the following three days the Bristol Eisteddfod, which Mr. W. E. Fowler originated ten years ago, was held at the Victoria Rooms. The gatherings have become so successful that they are now under the auspices of a Musical Council consisting of the principal musicians of the city. The entries at the recent meeting numbered 544, and the competitors 1,500, including 195 pianists, 77 performers for violin, viola, and violoncello, 51 reciters, and 20 choirs. Candidates came from as far north as Sheffield, and from most of the principal towns in the Midlands, South of England, and South Wales, while London was also represented. The adjudicators were, for the vocal competitions, Mr. Harry Evans and Dr. D. Vaughan Thomas; pianoforte, Mr. Sydney Blakiston and Señor Carlos Sobrino; string classes, Mr. Gerald Walenn; elocution, Mr. Guy Pertwee. The greatest interest was evinced in a class for pianoforte playing, the prize a pianoforte value £50. The test-piece was Mendelssohn's 'Variations Serieuses,' and Elsie Gregory (London) was the winner. In the 'Champion' class for pianoforte playing, the test-piece was Chopin's Ballade in G minor and the challenge cup was awarded to Winifred Davey, with a silver medal to Kitty Newton, who came second. The gold-medal class for pianoforte playing had for the test-piece Rhapsody in B minor, by Brahms, and Kitty Newton gained the prize. In the 'Champion' class for violin playing the test-piece was 'Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso,' by Saint-Saëns, won by Ida W. Mayers (Redhill, Surrey). The soprano ballad class had for the test-piece 'Down in the forest' (Landon Ronald), and so pleased was the adjudicator with the singing of Hilda Eager, Violet Johnson and Dorothy B. Holway, that they all received prizes. In the soprano classical air, Florence Hamlin (Bridgwater) won the award, the test-piece being 'Let the bright Seraphim' (Handel). The first in the contralto ballad, subject an 'Irish Folk-song,' by Arthur Foote, was Nellie Huxtable; and in the contralto classical air, subject 'Morning prayer,' from Costa's 'Eli,' Grace Gordon. In the mezzo-soprano competition the test-piece was 'None but the weary heart' (Tchaikovsky), and the prize here was also won by Grace Gordon. The test-piece for the tenor solo was 'The distant shore' (Sullivan), the first award going to William H. Dixon (Oxford). The prize for baritone or bass was secured by David Morgan (Newport). There were three choirs competing in the class for men's voices (not more than 80), and the test-pieces were Bantock's 'Down among the dead men' and Sullivan's 'The long day closes.' Bristol Harmonic (conductor, Mr. J. Jenkins) gained the prize of £10. In the contest for choral Societies (80 voices), Dudley Buck's 'Hymn to music' was the test, and Bristol Temperance (conductor, Mr. F. Stone) received the award, the 'Tollemache' challenge shield and £10.

HULL.—May 17, 18.

Under the auspices of the Hull and East Riding College of Music, competitions were revived here and had a very successful outcome, except for a paucity of entries in the choral sections. There were thirty-six classes, covering instrumental solos, vocal solos and quartets, composition, and choral singing, for schools, churches, and various types of choral Societies. Hull Co-operative Society won the first prizes in the three secular classes for mixed-voice choral singing. Among the Church and Chapel choirs the successful entrants were those of Hessle Parish Church (Mr. Chignell), and Christchurch Congregational (Mr. Albert White). In other divisions the first places were taken by Hull Choristers' Glee Party (male-voice), and Hull Ladies' Musical Union (Miss Eleanor Coward). The chief winning soloists were Miss Miriam K. Cograve (soprano), Miss Annie Kelly (Hull), Mr. J. P. Sowerby (tenor), Mr. W. Clark (bass), and Miss Elsie M. Brindley.

The adjudicators were Dr. E. C. Bairstow, Mr. C. Rawdon Briggs, and Mr. J. Dykes

MIDLAND CO-OPERATIVE CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

The sixth annual Junior Festival was held on Saturday, May 18, in the Co-operative Hall, Peterborough. Mr. J. H. Warner was the adjudicator. The test-pieces for choirs of thirty voices were S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Viking song,' B. Luard-Selby's 'A garden by the sea,' and C. H. Lloyd's 'Twelve by the clock.' The entry and result were the following:

Grimsby (Mr. T. A. Thomas).
Ilkeston (Mr. H. Fletcher).
1st. Long Eaton (Mr. Wm. Woolley).
2nd. Peterborough (Mr. W. R. Roberts).
Derby (Mr. T. H. Bennett).

Prizes in the solo-singing divisions were won by Alice Turburville (girls under sixteen), Lily Digby (girls under thirteen), and Herbert Allen (boys under sixteen). Misses Miriam Pollard and Edith Ruff won a prize for duet-singing.

STRATFORD.

The fact that the Queen's Road Evening Commercial Centre Choir (Mr. Walter Penn) gained the Daily Chronicle Shield for the second time, should have been stated in our report (May issue).

No. 833

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Price JUL3d.7

FOUNDED 1844

JULY 1, 1912.

. . THE . .

BRITISH BRINSMEAD

It is because of its intrinsic qualities that the Brinsmead Piano has attained the unsurpassed reputation in which it is held in all countries. It is the piano that all the world knows, uses, and admires, not because it is British, but because it is best.

WRITE FOR 1911 ART CATALOGUE.

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS, LTD., 18-22, WIGMORE STREET, W.

J. & P. SCHIEDMAYER PIANOS AT THE TURIN EXHIBITION, 1911.

Extract from a leading Continental paper:

"The most important Exhibition amongst German piano manufacturers is that of the world-renowned firm, J. & P. SCHIEDMAYER, OF STUTTGART. This firm has supplied 16 Imperial and Royal Courts, and is in possession of 54 medals and diplomas of honour and four Grands Prix at the International Exhibitions of Paris, 1900, St. Louis, 1904, Roubaix, 1911, and Turin, 1911, and has become as popular in Italy as in other countries. The Concert Room at Turin contains eleven instruments of magnificent construction. All the instruments are distinguished by a full and delightful tone."

Mr. SCHIEDMAYER, head of the firm of J. & P. Schiedmayer, has been officially appointed Judge at 13 Exhibitions (including Brussels, 1910), at all of which his pianos were, of course, "hors concours." This honour acknowledges him to be one of the greatest authorities on piano construction in the world.

The Trade and Profession are invited to call at Archibald Ramsden's, and test for themselves as to the magnificent tone quality and construction of these instruments.

Sole Importers: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN, Ltd.,

103, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W. 12, PARK ROW, LEEDS.

PIANO PEDALS

EVERY ORGANIST should investigate the importance and special advantages of

NORMAN & BEARD'S PNEUMATIC PEDAL ATTACHMENT FOR THE PIANO.

Correct relative position of Keys and Pedals guaranteed.
Gives a perfect touch and repetition.
Does not injure the most delicate Piano, all parts of the Pianoforte action being left perfectly free.

Pedals can be instantly removed.
Does not alter the Piano touch.
Every Attachment made specially in our own Factory.

NORMAN & BEARD, LTD., 61, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams: "VIBRATING," LONDON. Telephone: GERRARD 9145.

May be inspected in the Pianoforte Salon at SELFRIDGE'S, Oxford Street, W.

CRAMER PIANOS

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS

RECOMMENDED BY

Percy Grainger, Leonard Borwick, Pietro Mascagni, Sir Frederick Bridge, Coleridge-Taylor, York Bowen, Dr. Cummings, Tito Mattei, Emil Bach, Alexandra Canovas, Henry Farmer, Carrie Tubb, Gounod, Benedict, Emil Pauer, Edward Batiste, Joachim, Nilsson, Nikisch, Marie Roze, Scharwenka, Strauss, Thomas, Liszt, Stainer, Guilmant, Saint-Saëns, Carl Rosa, Ketterer, Arditi.

J. B. CRAMER & Co., Ltd., ESTD. 1824.

139, NEW BOND ST., 46, MOORGATE ST., E.C., KENSINGTON HIGH ST.

PURE TONE. PERFECT TOUCH.

THOROUGH CONSTRUCTION.

SPENCER PIANOS

Moderate Prices.
DISCOUNT to PROFESSION.
CATALOGUES FREE.

SPENCER PLAYER PIANOS FROM 85 GUINEAS.

Wholesale & Export:
J. SPENCER & CO.,
REGENT'S PARK, N.W.

Large Variety on Show at

MURDOCH'S MUSIC STORES,

463, OXFORD STREET, W., AND BRANCHES.

From a photograph by Varischi & Artico, Milan.

Willem Mengelberg.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

FOUNDED IN 1844.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 833.—Vol. 53. Registered at the General Post Office for Canadian Postage.

JULY 1, 1912.

Price 3*d.*; Postage 1½*d.* Annual Subscription, Post-free, 4*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
Conductor: SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O.

(Season 1912—1913.)

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES. Applicants should have STRONG VOICES OF GOOD QUALITY, and should be prepared to pass an examination in SIGHT-READING. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

YORK GATE, MARYLEBONE ROAD, N.W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

Distribution of Prizes will take place at the Queen's Hall, on Friday, July 19, at 3 p.m.

SYLLABUSES for the L.R.A.M. EXAMINATION, THE EXAMINATION IN VOICE CULTURE and CLASS SINGING for BOYS and GIRLS, and the SPECIAL TRAINING COURSE EXAMINATION are now ready.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Telegrams—"Initiative, London." Telephone—"1160, Western.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE CHRISTIAN, K.G.

Director:
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

The NEXT TERM will commence on Thursday, September 26.
Syllabus and official Entry Form may be obtained from
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

Examination Regulations, List of College Publications, Lectures, &c. may be had on application.
H. A. HARDING, Hon. Sec.
Kensington Gore, S.W.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Within three minutes of Ludgate Hill, Fleet Street, and Blackfriars Station (District Railway).

Managed by the Corporation of the City of London.

Principal: LANDON RONALD.

HALF-TERM began June 3.

Individual Tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. 110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Stage Dancing, Fencing, and Opera. Examinations open to general public. Prospectus, Examinations Syllabus, and form of entry, free of Secretary, H. SAXE WYNDHAM, Victoria Embankment. Telephone: 1943 Holborn.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for degrees in Music are held as follows:—Matriculation, April and October; First Mus. B., March and September; Final Mus. B., and Mus. D., September only.

For particulars, apply Secretary of Examinations, University Office, Durham. Copies of former Examination Papers, 1s. per set.

The Complete Series of Papers set at the Durham Examinations in Music from 1902 to 1907 inclusive, to which the Professor of Music contributes a preface, which deals with the requirements in Counterpoint, may be obtained bound in Paper Boards at 5*s.* 2*d.* post-free from the Secretary of Examinations, University Offices, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

OCTOBER 1, 2, 3 AND 4, 1912.

CONDUCTOR - - - SIR HENRY J. WOOD.

Mesdames—
ACKTÉ, DONALDA, ADA FORREST, CARRIE TUBB, CLARA BUTT, MURIEL FOSTER, DORIS WOODALL.
Messieurs—
JOHN McCORMACK, GWYNNE DAVIS, GERVASE ELWES, THORPE BATES, WILFRID DOUTHITT, HERBERT HEYNER, CLARENCE WHITEHILL.

Pianoforte: HERR ROSENTHAL. Violoncello: SEÑOR PABLO CASALS.

The Programme will include: "Elijah" (Mendelssohn); "Messiah" (Handel); "The Apostles" (Elgar); "The Passion, according to St. Matthew" (Bach); Manzoni Requiem (Verdi); German Requiem (Brahms); "Sea Drift" (Delius); Motet, "Be not afraid" (Bach); Symphony No. 7, in A (Beethoven); "Don Quixote" (Richard Strauss); Piano Concerto No. 1, in E flat (Liszt); 'Cello Concerto, in D (Haydn); Closing Scene, "Salome" (Richard Strauss); "Prometheus" (Scriabine), and expressly composed for this Festival, Sir Edward Elgar's "We are the Music Makers"; Dr. Walford Davies's "The Song of St. Francis"; Mr. Granville Bantock's New Orchestral Work; and Symphony No. 4, in A (Sibelius). With other Orchestral Works and Vocal Solos.

Detailed Programmes will be ready on August 1 next.

J. ERNEST PRITCHARD, Secretary.
King's Court, Colmore Row, Birmingham.

HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SEPTEMBER 8, 10, 11, 12, AND 13, 1912.

Conductor—DR. G. R. SINCLAIR.

PRINCIPALS.

SOPRANOS: Miss Edith Evans, Miss Ada Forrest, Miss Marie Houghton, Miss Ruth Vincent. CONTRALTOS: Madame Ada Crossley, Miss Muriel Foster, Miss Phyllis Lett, Miss Sara Silvers. TENORS: Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. William Green, Mr. Roland Jackson. BASSES: Mr. Thorpe Bates, Mr. Campbell McInnes, Mr. Robert Radford. Solo Violin, Miss Evangeline Anthony. Solo Pianoforte, Mr. Leonard Borwick. The Grimson String Quartet.

"Elijah" (Mendelssohn); Alto Rhapsodie (Brahms); Symphony No. 5 (Beethoven); Solo Cantata, "O amantissime sponse Jesu" (Christian Ritter); German Requiem (Brahms); "The Passion" (St. Matthew) (Bach); "The Dream of Gerontius" (Elgar); "Ode on the Nativity" (New Work) (C. Hubert H. Parry); "Parsifal" (Good Friday and Grail Music) (Wagner); Choral Fantasia on Christmas Carols (New Work) (Vaughan Williams); Motet (8 parts, unaccompanied), "Surge Illuminare" (Palestrina); Song of Offering (New Work) (Walford Davies); "Stabat Mater" (Dvorák); "The Messiah" (Handel).

Programmes, Tickets, and Books of Words may be had, and places secured, on application to Messrs. Jakeman & Carver, High Town, Hereford.

Hon Secs., { REV. PREB. M. HOPTON, Holmer Hall, Hereford.
COLONEL M. J. G. SCOBIE, C.B.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor .. .. Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M., Mus. Doc., LL.D.
Principal .. .. GRANVILLE BANTOCK, M.A.
Visiting Examiner H. WALFORD DAVIES, Mus. Doc.

SESSION 1911-1912.

The Session consists of AUTUMN TERM (September 18 to December 16); WINTER TERM (January 15 to March 30); and SUMMER TERM (April 15 to June 22).

Instruction in all branches of Music; Students' Choir and Orchestra; Chamber Music; Students' Rehearsals and Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

MANCHESTER SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Patron: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart.
Principal: ALBERT J. CROSS (of the Royal Academy, London, and the Leipsic Conservatorium). Sixty Professors.

All Branches of Music taught. Private or Class Tuition.

Full and String Orchestras, Operas, Lectures, Recitals, Chamber and Orchestral Concerts. Prospectus from the SECRETARY, Albert Square.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., LL.D.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The NEW COLLEGE YEAR begins Tuesday, October 1, 1912.
NEW TERM began Tuesday, April 23.
Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.
Students are required to enter upon a complete course of Musical instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.
Fee for the year, £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term. Special Fee for Wind Instrument Course, £15.
Systematic Course for the Training of Teachers included in the curriculum.
The Prospectus, with Scholarship information, Diploma Regulations, and Entry Forms, on application.
New Professor of Singing—Miss Marie Brema.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, READING.

Halls of Residence:—
WANTAGE HALL (Men). ST. ANDREW'S HALL (Women).
ST. PATRICK'S HOSTEL (Men). ST. GEORGE'S HOSTEL (Women).

Department of Music.
Director: H. P. ALLEN, M.A., D. Mus.
OPEN SCHOLARSHIPS AND EXHIBITIONS IN MUSIC.
Three Scholarships, each of the value of about £26 per annum, tenable for one, two, or three years, and one or more Exhibitions, each of the value of about £12 for one year, will be offered for competition on July 18, 1912, in Singing, Pianoforte, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, or Organ. Full particulars may be obtained from the Tutorial Secretary, University College, Reading, to whom entries must be sent by July 7.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC, LONDON.

(Under the direction of the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.
42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.
President: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.
Principal: J. H. LEWIS, D.C.L., F.E.I.S., Mus. Doc.
Chairman: J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc. Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus. Doc., F.I.G.C.M.
Hon. Sec.: GEO. A. STANTON, A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., F.I.G.C.M.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, July, and December.
Local Theoretical Examinations, July, and December.
Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for Competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Secretary, Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

INCORPORATED GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

Founded 1888.
Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament XXX. and XXXI. Victoria, Cap. cxxxi., § 23.

President: THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF BRISTOL, D.D.

ASSOCIATE (A.I.G.C.M.), LICENTIATE (L.I.G.C.M.), FELLOWSHIP (F.I.G.C.M.) EXAMINATIONS in London and at approved Provincial Centres in July, and December.

COMPETITIONS FOR 1912.
A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Anthem.
A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Organ Piece.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Kyrie.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Hymn Tune.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Quadruple Chant.

GUILD GAZETTE (QUARTERLY) · · TWOPENCE.

REGISTER OF ORGAN VACANCIES.
Organists (Members) have the FREE use of the Register of Vacant Appointments.
Calendar (gratis) and further information of Dr. LEWIS, Warden, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

INST., 1895. OF MUSIC, LTD. INCOR., 1900.
London: 149, Oxford Street, W.; Liverpool: 44, Princes Road.
Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.
THOROUGH MUSICAL EDUCATION (all Branches).
LOCAL EXAMINATIONS (all Towns), July.
DIPLOMAS, ASSOCIATE, LICENTIATE, AND FELLOW.

THE MADRIGAL SOCIETY

(FOUNDED 1741).

THE MADRIGAL SOCIETY offers TWO PRIZES, being the "Molineux Prize" of TEN POUNDS, with the Society's Medal, and the "Society's Prize" of FIVE POUNDS, for the best and second best APPROVED MADRIGALS, in not less than four, nor more than six parts, the upper part or parts to be for one or two Treble Voices.
The character of the Composition to be in accordance with that of Madrigals of the best style and form, with imitative part-writing; not a mere Part-Song or harmonized Melody.
The following conditions must be complied with, viz.:—
1. That the Alto and Tenor parts be written in their respective clefs;
2. That the signature be repeated at the head of each page at least;
3. That the intended "Tempo" be clearly indicated;
4. That the words, to be selected by the Composer, be written out in full on a fly-leaf at the beginning; and
5. That not more than one Composition be submitted by each competitor, which must not be in the Composer's autograph.

The Madrigals to be delivered, addressed to the Secretary of the Madrigal Society, Whyteleafe, Bromley, Kent, on or before November 1, 1912, each Composition having a device or motto affixed thereto, with the Composer's name in a sealed envelope bearing a corresponding mark.
The Award of the Judges will be made known at the meeting of the Society in December, 1912.

OSCAR W. STREET, Hon. Secretary.
May, 1912.

VIGGO KIHL

(SOLO PIANIST).
Albert Hall, Crystal Palace, &c.
Concerts and At Homes.

The Times says: "His interpretations, while they remain entirely natural and straightforward, have a charm and individuality of their own."

A few VACANCIES for PUPILS.
For terms and vacant dates, apply,
VIGGO KIHL, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd.,
160, Wardour Street, W.

SPECIAL HOLIDAY TEACHING.

MR. W. H. GRIFFITHS

Has arranged to take a limited number of Singers, Teachers, and Choirmasters through a Special Course of Lessons during August and September, in London.

SUBJECTS:—
THE MIXED VOICE. THE TRAINING OF CHOIR-BOYS.
DEFECTS IN VOICE AND SPEECH.

Address:—
76, LORD STREET, LIVERPOOL; and 46, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

MR. W. H. BREARE

VOCAL ADVISER AND TEACHER OF SINGING
TO STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

Author of "Vocalism," "Elocution: Its First Principles," "Vocal Faults and their Remedies."

"The most complete guide to singing in English."—"Lancelot," of the Referee.
"One of the sanest of sane expositions."—Musical Courier, N.Y.
"One step nearer to the ideal."—Referee ("Lancelot").
"Is a reliable expert in all branches."—Gentlewoman.
"A magnificent guide to both teachers and students."—Eastern Morning News.
"Do not hesitate to commend."—Glasgow Herald.
"Well up and enthusiastic in his subject, which he handles in a masterly manner. His technical knowledge is minute, wide, and accurate: what he has to say is well worthy of consideration by public singers and music teachers."—Aberdeen Free Press.
"Has had exceptional opportunities of studying his subject. . . . Common-sense in all he utters."—Leeds Mercury.
"Is an acknowledged authority. . . ."—Western Morning News.
"I have not the slightest fear of contradiction when I say that no one knows more about the voice and vocal production than Mr. W. H. Breare."—"Counterpoint," in the Newcastle Journal.

Further Press Opinions on application.

Address: "HERALD" BUILDINGS, HARROGATE,
or 139, NEW BOND STREET, W.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

POOR MARKS FOR SIGHT-PLAYING

The usual result in all pianoforte examinations is that the student gets good marks for every other branch of pianoforte tuition and poor marks for sight-playing. This inability to play at sight continues after student days, and deprives the pianist of the pleasure he would otherwise derive from his pianoforte-playing.

There are two ways of becoming a good sight-player. One is by years of practising for many hours daily; the other is by practising for a short time daily for 3 months only. The latter plan, which gives a much greater efficiency, is possible only by means of the EHREMAYER SYSTEM of Pianoforte Sight-Playing.

LESSONS ARE GIVEN BY CORRESPONDENCE, AND ARE AS EFFICIENTLY GIVEN BY THAT MEANS AS PERSONAL LESSONS.

Hundreds of students, and amateur and professional pianists, have taken the Ehremayer Course of Lessons. In practically every case they have become able to play all their new music at first sight.

THE COURSE OF LESSONS IN NO WAY INTERFERES WITH PRESENT STUDIES.

It is worth the while of every pianist to write for booklet describing the System. A post-card, addressed to L. M. EHREMAYER, 27, Chancery Lane, London, W.C., is all that is required.

A FINE MODERN VIOLIN.

MADE ENTIRELY BY W. E. HILL AND SONS.

OUR Instruments have for long been recognised as among the finest examples of modern work, and we are now producing at a moderate price an excellent Violin, constructed upon models founded on the most perfect types of the great schools.

These Violins are made throughout in our workshops. None but carefully-selected and seasoned material, and highly skilled workmanship, are employed in their construction; and particular attention is given to the accurate fitting and regulation of each instrument.

PRICE £12 10S.

SOLD BY W. E. HILL & SONS,

Sole Violin and Bow Makers to H.M. THE KING,

AT THEIR PLACE OF BUSINESS,

140, NEW BOND STREET,

LONDON, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS CICELY EVETTS, A.R.C.M.
Soprano Soloist, Visiting Teacher.
26, St. Margaret's Road, Oxford.

MISS ALICE HARE
(SOPRANO).
4, Ladbroke Grove, W. 'Phone 5195 Western.

MADAME ANNIE V. GREW
CONTRALTO, MEDALLIST.
Pupil of Madame Amy Sherwin.
Open for Oratorio, Ballad, At Homes, &c.
For terms, apply, 54, Dinsmore Road, Balham, S.W., or 213, Regent Street (Madame A. Sherwin's Bureau).

MISS LYDIA JOHN (L.R.A.M.)
(CONTRALTO).
Oratorio, Lieder, Ballads, &c.
24, Belsize Park Gardens, London, N.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR).
"The splendid reputation enjoyed by Mr. Samuel Masters, the well-known tenor, throughout the British Isles is the legitimate result of a remarkably fine voice of great range and almost phenomenal power and his artistic singing."—Kingston Musical Courier.
Telephone: 613 P.O. Kingston.
Address—8A, Station Buildings, Surbiton.

MR. JOS. REED
(TENOR).
59, Biddulph Mansions, Maida Vale, W.
Telephone: P.O. Hampstead 6778.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).
MISS
WINIFRED MARWOOD
(MRS. MONTAGUE BORWELL) (SOPRANO).
124, WALM LANE, CRICKLEWOOD, N.W.
Telephone: 415 Willesden. Telegrams: "Soloist, London."

HERBERT MARKS (L.R.A.M.)
(BARITONE).
Oratorios, Lieder, Ballads, &c.
Please note change of address: 83, Woodstock Road, Bedford Park, W.

MR. HERBERT PARKER
(BARITONE).
Leeds Musical Festival, Queen's Hall, and Principal Provincial Concerts.
Address: Rosslyn, Lichfield.

HERBERT WEATHERLY
(CONCERT ORGANIST).
Canadian and American Press-notices and particulars.
Apply, Rudolph Bennett, 3, Kelfield Gardens, London, W., England.

DR. A. EAGLEFIELD HULL
MUS. DOC. OXON., F.R.C.O.
Address:
MELBOURNE HOUSE, HUDDERSFIELD.

THE LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS.
DIRECTOR: MR. JAMES BATES.
SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Concerts; also LEADING BOYS for Church Choirs can be supplied for occasional or permanent engagements. Address, E. B. Golding, Secretary, 6, Blomfield Crescent, Hyde Park, W.
Telegrams: "Musicomane, London." Telephone: 490 Mayfair.

MUSICAL REVISER TO MESSRS. NOVELLO FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS.
COMPOSERS' MSS.
REVISED and PREPARED FOR PRINTING; ADVICE GIVEN as to most suitable publishers for various styles of composition.
H. ELLIOT BUTTON, "Harewood," Ardwick Road, Hampstead, N.W.
Reference to the following composers kindly permitted:—
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bt., C.V.O., Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M.,
Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., Dr. WALFORD DAVIES.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. and MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of F.L.C.M., L.Mus.L.C.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., and L.R.A.M. Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Scholarships, Prizes, "Honours," and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of eight hundred and sixty. Dr. Allison is quite willing to teach those who neither require nor desire to pass examinations. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Analysis of Composition by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson St., Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

L.R.A.M. (PAPER WORK).

MR. E. H. BIBBY (Mus.Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.) has SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE COURSE for the "Form and Teaching" and "Rudiments and Harmony" papers set at the L.R.A.M. Exams.

LATEST SUCCESSES:—

L.R.A.M. EXAMS., 1910-11.—Seventeen Correspondence Pupils successful. Address, c/o Forsyth Bros., Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. GEORGE R. CEILEY, L.R.A.M., gives LESSONS in the traditional School of SINGING as taught by CHAS. LUNN and Signor CATTANEO.

The late Chas. Lunn wrote: "I take a special interest in Mr. George R. Ceiley owing to his clear perception, high musical knowledge and the skill in which he applies what I have taught him"; and the late Dr. Turpin wrote: "In that delicate and difficult department of Voice Production, Mr. Ceiley is indeed one of our chief authorities."

Change of address: "Highcroft," Muswell Hill Road, N.

MR. CLIFTON COOKE (25 years' experience MANUEL GARCIA method) will TRAIN a GOOD VOICE on exceptional terms. 80 per cent. of his pupils in the profession. Illustrated reprint, "Mr. Clifton Cooke and his Pupils," post-free.

All communications to MR. CLIFTON COOKE, Studio, 20, Bloomsbury Street, New Oxford Street, London, W.C.

DR. WILLIAM A. HALL, Mus.D. Oxon. (1909), F.R.C.O., specialises in the PREPARATION for UNIVERSITY DEGREES and the RECOGNISED DIPLOMAS, personally or by correspondence. Also personal lessons in Pianoforte, Singing, Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., at 7, Lansdowne Road, Tottenham, N.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc. Dunelm., F.R.C.O., Author of "Examination Questions and How to Work them" (Novello's Primers, No. 70), COACHES for all Musical Exams., personally and by correspondence.

292 SUCCESSES, including:—

A.R.C.O. Paper Work	.. 50;	Organ Work ..	.. 33.
F.R.C.O. "	" .. 51;	" " ..	.. 35.

(F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize twice, and "F. J. Sawyer" Prize.)

FIRST MUS. BAC., Oxford, Durham, and Dublin	.. 41.
FINAL MUS. BAC., Oxford and Durham	.. .. 22.
MUS. DOC. Oxford, Durham, Dublin, and Montreal	.. 4.
MUS. BAC. and MUS. DOC. EXERCISES	.. .. 27.

Special sets of papers in Composition, fully covering "Exercise" Work. Also many successes in A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., L.Mus. and A.Mus., &c., &c.

SUCCESSES IN 1911 include:—

MUS. DOC. EXERCISES, 2. FINAL MUS. DOC. EXAM., 2.
MUS. BAC. EXERCISES, 5. FINAL MUS. BAC. EXAM., 4.
FIRST EXAM. FOR MUS. BAC., 2.
OXFORD EXAMS. May, 1912, one in "First" and one in "Final."

MSS. arranged and revised.

48, Braxted Park, Streatham, S.W. Telephone: 487 Streatham.

MISS H. HEALE COACHES for all EXAMINATIONS in MUSIC (at private residence or at West-End studio), in Pianoforte, Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue, Form, Orchestration, "Teaching," Modulation, Transposition, &c. For terms, &c., apply Dunraven House, 41, Albert Bridge Road, S.W.

THEO. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac. Oxon., F.R.C.O., an experienced and successful COACH to all Music Examinations. Oxford, Durham, and Dublin Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O., with Précis and Hints on Essay, L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M., practical and paper work (Piano and Singing). Jan., 1908, Pupil won F.R.C.O. "Cart" Prize. Shepherd Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus.D. Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac. Cantab.; Mus. Doc. Toronto; gives LESSONS by post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM, ACOUSTICS, ORCHESTRATION, &c.

Candidates prepared by Dr. Karn have obtained the degrees of MUS. BAC. or MUS. DOC. at DURHAM, OXFORD, DUBLIN, CAMBRIDGE, and LONDON Universities; also F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M. (Composition, Pianoforte, Organ, Bandmastership, and Conducting), A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, and Pianoforte Teaching), L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M. and T.C.L., ASSOCIATED BOARD, &c. Dr. Karn continues to Coach for all Musical Examinations. Special Preparation in Rudiments, Form, and Teaching for L.R.A.M.

Also PERSONAL Lessons; MSS. revised for publication. Classical Works analysed for Examinations. Terms moderate and inclusive. 106, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W. Telephone, 524 P.O. Hampstead.

DR. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., F.E.I.S., Warden, Incorporated Guild of Church Musicians, gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. 42, Berners St., Oxford St., W.

DR. LEWIS' TEXT-BOOKS:

"HARMONY." (2 vols.) 5s. each, net.
"COUNTERPOINT." 5s. net.
"DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON." 5s. net.
"FUGUE." 1s. 6d. net.
"ELEMENTS OF MUSIC." 2s. 6d. net.
"DEVELOPMENT OF ANGLICAN CHURCH MUSIC." 2s. net.
"PRONOUNCING VOCABULARY OF MUSICAL TERMS." 6d. net.
"DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS." 6d. net.
"MATERIAL OF MELODY." 3d. net.

The above, complete, will be forwarded (carriage paid) for 15s.

MR. DAVID MACKENZIE, L.R.A.M.—Lessons in Singing. Vocal Coach. Arthur Thompson, Esq., F.R.A.M. (Professor and Examiner, Royal Academy of Music), writes: "An admirable Teacher, well and variously equipped to impart instruction in a very difficult art." For appointments, &c., write, Breitkopf Studios, 54, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MISS F. HELENA MARKS PREPARES for L.R.A.M. and other Examinations. Pianoforte, Harmony, "Form and Teaching," &c. Lessons (oral or by correspondence). Pupils received and visited for the Pianoforte. Many recent successes, L.R.A.M., &c. Pianoforte Classes, 10, Matheson Rd., West Kensington.

DR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus. D. (Dubl.), F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING FOR DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1911, ONE HUNDRED AND TEN SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1911, TWO HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations.

Address, Thornleigh, 6, Elm Park Road, Finchley, N.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON (Mus.D. Dunelm., A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O.), PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c. Preparation for University, R.A.M., R.C.M., R.C.O., and other Examinations. Lessons personally or by correspondence. 30, Mount Park Crescent, Ealing, W.

MR. A. E. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., COACHES (post) for all Musical Examinations. Pupils have passed the A.T.C.L., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.O., and complete MUS. BAC. Course. Pupil was awarded Stillie bursary (Glasgow, 1906). Compositions Revised. Portland House, Lancaster.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., Specialist in Correspondence Tuition for F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O.

RECENT SUCCESSES: 125 Correspondence Pupils have passed F.R.C.O. or A.R.C.O. RECENTLY as follows:

88 A.R.C.O. (Paper Work). 37 F.R.C.O. (Paper Work).
Many Pupils passed A.R.C.O. and F.R.C.O. in January, 1912.
F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize, January, 1912.
Many successes in January, 1911, 1910, and 1909.

15 A.R.C.O., July, 1911.	10 F.R.C.O., July, 1911.
22 A.R.C.O., July, 1910.	11 F.R.C.O., July, 1910.
12 A.R.C.O., July, 1909.	5 F.R.C.O., July, 1909.
12 A.R.C.O., Jan., 1910.	3 F.R.C.O., Jan., 1910.

Address, 8, Harley Road, Harlesden, London, N.W.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 37, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

GRADUATED POSTAL LESSONS IN HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, THEORY OF MUSIC, FORM AND ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ETC.

Pupils prepared for Mus. Doc., Mus. Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., and other examinations by experienced University Graduates in Music.

Personal lessons for L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., &c.

Terms very moderate; from One to Three Guineas per quarter. Prospectus post-free from the SECRETARY. Telephone: 7729 City.

MUSIC STUDIO, 223, Oxford Street, W. (Opposite Peter Robinson's).—Furnished; light; 1*od.* an hour; 1*s.* after 7. W. Dodshon.

SOPRANO SOLOIST WANTED for Dominion Methodist Church, Ottawa, Canada, from September. Salary, £80. Applications to be sent to Dr. Herbert Sanders, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40, WIGMORE STREET, W., are specially constructed with every convenience and facility that science and money can suggest, providing a magnificent Entrance Hall, Electric Lift, Telephones, separate Lavatories for Ladies and Gentlemen on every floor, also comfortable Lounges for waiting. The Studios are appropriately furnished, lighted by electricity, one or more Horizontal Grands in every Studio, &c., &c.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are in the centre of London's musical life, known by everybody, and already used by over a hundred of the most eminent London and Provincial Professors of Music.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are let by the year for exclusive use, or by single days, the charges being very reasonable and inclusive. Applications should be addressed to:—

THE MANAGER, 40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

CHORISTERSHIPS.—A trial of Voices to fill Vacancies in the Choir School will be held on Friday, July 19.

Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between 9 and 12 years of age.

For particulars apply to The Dean.

Names to be sent in not later than July 13.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.

There are Vacancies for Probationers in the above Choir. Gentlemen's sons, age 9-11, are required. Apply to the Rev. The Warden.

S. MARY, STOKE NEWINGTON, N.—There is a VACANCY for a SOLO BOY in the Choir of this Church. Adequate terms for a competent Chorister. Address, by letter, M., Burton House, Richmond, Surrey.

BOARD and EDUCATION for £5 A YEAR.—The above offer is made to parents of Boys of good character, having pure voices and musical ear, who will sing in the Choir of the Duke of Newcastle's Private Chapel. Age, 9 to 11 years. For particulars, address The Organist, Clumber Park, Worksop, Notts.

ST. JAMES', GARLICK HILL, E.C.—ALTO WANTED. Good reader. Communicant. Salary, £12 per annum. Address, William A. Hall, Mus. D., F.R.C.O.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

There is a VACANCY in the Choir for a BASS LAY CLERK. Stipend offered, £90 a year.

The Competition will be held in July.

For further information apply to The Dean, King's College, Cambridge.

Applications to be sent in by July 10.

SOLO BASS WANTED for St. Mary's, West Kensington. £15 per annum. Good reader essential. Call at Church, Thursday, July 4, at 9 p.m., or write Dr. Edwards, 20, St. Dunstan's Road, W.

SINGERS (S. A. T. and B.) WANTED, to assist Oriana Madrigal Society next season. Rehearsal and Concert fees; also possibility of Church appointment. Must be good Soloists (of expressive, refined style) and Sight-Readers. Previous applicants should not apply. Hon. Conductor, Leighton House, Holland Park Road, W.

POSITIONS SECURED for ORGANISTS in Churches in the United States. Write for Terms: INTERNATIONAL CHOIR EXCHANGE, 116, Newark Avenue, Jersey City, N.J. (late of 136, Fifth Avenue, New York). VACANCIES ALWAYS.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED for Congregational Church, Herne Bay. (New organ to be installed shortly, £550.) Apply, stating salary required, to A. J. A., Crofton Villa, Beacon Road. Endorsed "Organ."

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER WANTED at St. John the Baptist, San Remo, for next Winter Season, October 20 to end of May. Salary, £50. Apply, with testimonials, to Rev. W. J. Scudamore Emery, Villa Montagna, Davos Platz, Switzerland.

ORGANIST (City Church) can DEPUTISE JULY-AUGUST. London or country. Organist, 64, Penwortham Road, Streatham, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR COWEN (Organist and Choirmaster, St. John's, Isleworth; Conductor, Philharmonic and Operatic Societies), requires an ARTICLED PUPIL in September. Organ, Pianoforte, Violin, Coaching, Oratorio, &c. Exceptional opportunity for studying Voice-Training and Conducting. Apply, 1, Harvard Road, Spring Grove, Isleworth. London Studio: Messrs. Cramer, 139, New Bond Street, W.

MR. HERBERT C. MORRIS, M.A. Cantab., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., Organist of St. David's Cathedral, has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT PUPIL. Reduced terms to one who can act as Assistant-Organist. Address: The Close, St. Davids, Pembrokeshire.

STUDENT-TEACHER.—VIOLINIST with knowledge of piano WANTED in School of Music near London. Good opportunity for young gentleman to study and learn teaching business with view to permanency. Small premium, salary to commence. State qualifications, age, &c., to M. A., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, London, W.

VIOLINIST, Soloist and Experienced Teacher, SEEKS ENGAGEMENT as Professor in College or Institution in England or the Colonies. Pupil of Professors Sevcik, Wirth (Joachim Method), and Auer. References and Press Notices on application. Apply, by letter, H. L., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

TWO ORGANS, Two Manuals, with Pedals. Superior construction. Suitable for small Churches, &c. Specifications and estimates for Organs on application.—W. E. Richardson & Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell & Sons, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

CHURCH ORGANS, built partly with sound, second-hand materials. Inclusive prices, including carriage and erection (if desired), from £200. For particulars, &c., address, Norman & Beard, Ltd., 61, Berners Street, London, W. (Organ Builders to H.M. The King).

ORGANS, IMMEDIATE SALE.—Several 1-, 2-, and 3-Manuals; 5 to 61 Stops; in thorough order. Good tone and power. Low prices. Henry Speechly & Sons, St. Mark's Road, Dalston, N.E.

ORGANS FOR SALE.—Good, modern second-hand Organ; 2-Manual, 11 Stops, and 16-feet Bourdon Pedal Pipes, £80. New 1-Manual Organ, £35. Organs built on the most reliable principles of high-class work at moderate prices. Additions and Repairs. A. Monk, Organ Works, 49, Grayling Road, Lordship Road, London, N.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at Bargain Prices. A 190-guinea Bell, two-manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £180 Karn, two-manuals and pedals, 24 stops, 13 sets; a 60-guinea two-manual Boosey "Evans' Patent" Harmonium, 18 guineas; Karn two-manual and Pedal, stops through, concave radiating pedals, bargain. Several Organs and Harmoniums by Alexandre, Trayser, Debain, &c.; one-third usual price. All guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg & Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

FOR SALE.—AMERICAN ANGELUS ORGAN, by Carpenter Co., Brattleboro, in Walnut Case, with 16 Stops, Pedal Board, Hand and Foot Blower, and Swell Pedal; also Walnut Organ Seat. Can be seen at Taylor's Depository, 1, St. George's Road, Southwark, S.E.

WANTED.—MASON & HAMLIN 2-MANUAL ORGAN. Recent model. Give dimensions. W. H. J., 46, Pall Mall, Liverpool.

THE POSITIVE ORGAN.—A real PIPE ORGAN, giving the effects of two manuals and pedals on its single keyboard. Prices from £70. Over 750 supplied. Estimates given for Repairs, Rebuilds, Two- and Three-Manual Organs, &c.

POSITIVE ORGAN Co., Ltd., 44, Mornington Crescent (opposite Tube Station), London, N.W.

REED ORGANS.—1, 2, and 3-manuals, built, tuned, and repaired. Best material and workmanship guaranteed. Tunings casually or by yearly contract. Distance no object. For years with the late J. W. Sawyer, of Leeds.

F. CRAWFORD, Organ Builder. All communications to 41, Heavitree Road, Plumstead, S.E. Works: Southend Parade, Eltham, S.E.

O.P.C. ORGAN PEDALS for Pianos. We are makers to Organ Builders and Profession, by whom our goods are pronounced "the only perfect," and we are thrice granted H.M.R.L., for real merit. Write, O.P.C. Works, Brinscall, Chorley.

ORGAN PEDALS (R.C.O.) for SALE.—Radiating and Concave. New, with Piano Attachment and seat. Bargain. Organist, 19, Fitzwilliam Road, Clapham, S.W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three-manual Pipe Organ for Practice—good condition; complete set of Couplers; blown by hydraulic engine. 1s. per hour. Hamilton Evans & Co., 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E. (1 minute from Station). Telephone: 693 Sydenham.

FOR SALE.—Genuine Old VIOLONCELLO by Benjamin Banks. Bush, "Avon View," Old Sarum, Salisbury.

FOR SALE. ÆOLIAN ORCHESTRELLE, MODEL V.—Beautiful tone, handsome walnut case, cost £300. Will sell for £175; also a number of rolls in perfect condition, half price. Mrs. Hutchins, The Orchard, Stubbington, Hants.

AMERICAN ORGAN FOR SALE.—(Mason & Hamlin.) 4½ sets of Reeds. In good condition. R. W. L., 50, Defreville Avenue, Cambridge.

FOR SALE.—"MUSICAL TIMES," from January, 1885, to December, 1910, inclusive. The following numbers only wanting: 1889, March and December; 1893, October; 1896, January and October; 1898, August; 1902, November; 1903, February. Price, £1 10s., carriage-paid. Apply, R. H. T., 67, Saxe-Weimar Road, Southsea, Hants.

FOR SALE.—MUS. DOC. OXFORD ROBES, FULL DRESS, new in January last; only used once. Apply, E. S., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

EVERY COMPOSER should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price Lists (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Songs, &c. 50 Copies of Hymn-Tune, Kyrie, &c., 3s. 6d.: 100 4s. 6d. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

TEACHING CONNECTION.—GENTLEMAN (Mus. B., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.) wishes to purchase high-class Connection (Singing or Pianoforte). North of England preferred. Address, "Graduate," c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

TEACHING CONNECTION WANTED.—To Buy, or would Exchange from large inland town to near sea preferred. A. J., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

WANTED.—An APPRENTICE to the SHEET MUSIC TRADE. Must be a smart lad with musical knowledge. Apply, by letter, Apprentice, Murdoch's, 463, Oxford Street, W.

NEW VOCAL DUET OR SOLO.—For Soprano and Contralto, entitled, "I will give you rest," by T. P. Auty. Price 2s. Published by J. Sinclare, 133, Oxford Road, Manchester.

TO VIOLINISTS.—For a first-class solo or encore piece, try "The Romance," by J. Cuthbert. 1s. 6d. net. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd.

VOCAL STUDY.

The August issue of "The Music Student" (published on July 20) will be a special

VOCAL STUDY ISSUE.

Contributors will include Frederic Austin, Ernest Ford, Sir George Power, William Shakespeare, Albert Visetti, &c.

Order now of any Music Seller or Newsagent.

Special MUSIC TEACHERS' ISSUE (July) now on Sale.

"That agreeably unconventional and often valuably suggestive monthly."—"The Times."

ESTABLISHED 1750.

Telephone: 1788 P.O. Hampstead. Telegrams: "Cantabile, London."

GRAY & DAVISON,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PRATT STREET, N.W.

48, SOUTHFIELD ROAD, OXFORD.

272, UPPER PARLIAMENT STREET, LIVERPOOL.

Specifications, Estimates, and Designs free of charge.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

PIANO PEDALS.

THE CATHEDRAL, MANCHESTER,
Nov. 8th, 1910.

DEAR MR. MALKIN,

I think your Patent Pedal Attachment, which you have fitted to my Steinway, is simply splendid. I find the action absolutely silent and its touch beautiful.—Yours truly,

R. H. P. COLEMAN, F.R.C.O., Sub-Organist.

Terms:—Cash, or instalments of 8s. per month.

Write for Lists, Prices, and Clients' Opinions, and references, to—

THE MALKIN PATENT PEDAL CO., LTD.,

Works—Hanley, Staffs. NEWCASTLE-UNDER-LYME.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THIRTY HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

Cloth, Gilt, One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ESTABLISHED 1839.

THE

Facilities and Equipment of

LIVERPOOL'S

CATHEDRAL

ORGAN

WORKS

are unsurpassed by any other Organ Building establishment, at home or abroad. . . . . .

THE ERECTING HALL, for example, is noteworthy for its great height and size, and perfect acoustics. Here there is ample space for the complete erection, adjustment, and thorough trial of five or six large instruments, and as many smaller ones. .

THUS is secured the Artistic and Mechanical efficiency of every RUSHWORTH Organ, even to the smallest details, before it leaves the Works. Nothing is left to chance, and the time and disturbance of final erection are very materially reduced. . .

In acknowledging the interest aroused by the previous announcements in this Journal regarding their 'new' Cathedral Organ Works, RUSHWORTH AND DREAPER desire to point out that these Works are but an extension and modernising of those carried on in Liverpool by the RUSHWORTH Family for over Three-Quarters of a Century. . . . .

Whilst meeting the modern demands for Commercial Efficiency, the firm have not overlooked the inestimable value of old-time sincerity of purpose and artistic enthusiasm. Many of their most highly-skilled Craftsmen have been in the Rushworth employ from 15 to 40 years, and the highest standard of production is rigidly maintained in every department. . .

It is with the fullest confidence, therefore, that enquiries are invited for the Building and Re-Building of high-class Organs of any size, and for Churches or Home use, in any part of the World. . . .

Designs, Specifications, and inclusive Estimates will be submitted free of charge.

RUSHWORTH & DREAPER, Ltd.,

Builders of Church, Concert, and Chamber Organs,

113-115 Great George Street,

LIVERPOOL.

Telephone: 1012 ROYAL. Telegrams: "APOLLO, Liverpool.

$3000.00
PRIZE COMPETITION.
OPEN TO THE COMPOSERS OF THE WORLD.

It is acknowledged by the leading musical authorities all over the world, that in order to attain a thorough musical education, it is necessary for students to become familiar with the modern progress in Musical Art, as is exemplified by the best living Composers.

The ART PUBLICATION SOCIETY, of SAINT LOUIS, MO., U.S.A., which supplies annually over 500,000 copies of Standard Pianoforte Music to Conservatories in the United States and Canada, is desirous of adding to its already extensive editions, a Library of

FIFTY CHARACTERISTIC COMPOSITIONS BY THE GREATEST LIVING COMPOSERS, and in order to obtain these more quickly and from the best sources, offers A PRIZE COMPETITION open to Composers of the world, for Compositions written according to the following specifications:—

CLASS A.

For a Brilliant and Effective Concert Piano Solo, suitable for public performance by an advanced pianist. Form left to the composer, but must be melodious, and not of an involved nature, such as fugues, variations, &c. Length of rendition not to exceed 10 (ten) minutes.

CLASS B.

For a Melodious and Attractive Solo, of character suited for drawing-room. Form unprescribed. Technical difficulty not to surpass 6th Grade, and suitable for public performance by good amateur pianists.

CLASS C.

For the best set of THREE Piano Solos, in contrasted moods and keys, each solo to have a poetic title, written for and appealing to young players. Not to exceed 4th Grade.

The FIRST PRIZE in each Class will be $500.00.
The SECOND PRIZE in each Class will be $300.00.
The THIRD PRIZE in each Class will be $200.00.

Any Composition, to be eligible for a prize in either class, must, in the opinion of the Judges, be of the required grade of excellence.

Compositions awarded prizes will become the exclusive property of the Art Publication Society, without payment of any additional fee or royalties.

As this Competition covers but fifteen Compositions out of the Fifty desired, this Society reserves the right to buy of the Composer, at a price agreed in each instance, such Compositions as, while not gaining the prizes, are nevertheless recommended by the Judges as of unusual Art-Value. These will be bought outright, and paid for in cash, without royalty rights.

CONDITIONS OF THE COMPETITION.

(1) Compositions entered for this Competition must be received on or before October 1, 1912, marked with the Class for which they are entered.

(2) No Composition may bear its Author's name. It must be marked by a motto or nom de plume, and the real name sent with address in full at the same time, in a sealed envelope, bearing the same motto or nom de plume, not to be opened until the Judges have given their decisions. A biographical sketch and photo should accompany MSS.

(3) Composers must preserve a copy of their compositions. While the Art Publication Society will take all possible care of MSS. in transit and in examination, they will not be responsible for MSS. which are lost in transit. They advise sending by registered post. Rejected MSS. will be returned on receipt of Postage.

(4) The Prize Compositions and all those purchased will be published in superior style, each one carrying a photograph of its author, a short biographical sketch, a list of some of his representative works, together with a description of the poetic idea of the Composition, with suggestions as to the study necessary to give a successful performance of the work. This material the Composer will be expected to furnish, after MS. is accepted, preferably in English; otherwise in German, French, or Italian, or any other language.

UNUSUAL ATTRACTIVENESS OF THIS COMPETITION.

No such inviting opportunity for composers of originality has ever before been offered, or can be offered by the music trade, under the prevailing conditions, where every composition is expected to find a market at a profit.

In this case no immediate profit is expected. The Art Publication Society desires to acquaint the many thousand students using its publications, with the BEST MODERN COMPOSERS OF THE WORLD, and through the style of publishing, with annotations for intelligent study, every composition will gain admirers, thus opening the way for other works by the same composers.

The JUDGES are: GEORGE W. CHADWICK, ARTHUR FOOTE, ERNEST R. KROEGER.

Address all correspondence and MSS. to

THE ART PUBLICATION SOCIETY,
No. 1000, GRAND AVENUE, ST. LOUIS, MO., U.S.A.
Prize Competition Dept.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(INSTITUTED 1872.)

Chairman of Board:

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., M.A., MUS.D.

Director of Studies: G. E. BAMBRIDGE, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M.

Director of Examinations: C. W. PEARCE, MUS.D.

MICHAELMAS TERM begins SEPTEMBER 25.

The College provides Instruction and Training in all Musical Subjects.

Both Amateur and Professional Students are received for the Course or for Single Subjects. The lessons can be arranged for day or evening times.

Approved Complete Courses for the University of London Degrees in Music under recognised Teachers of the University. Also preparation for the degrees of other Universities, the Royal College of Organists' examinations, &c.

Students of the College are entitled to attend the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes without additional fee.

Special Subjects: Pianoforte Technique, Elocution, and the Art of Teaching Music; also Lectures on Musical History, &c.

The Operatic Class is open to outside as well as College students. There is also a Class for Training Boys for Cathedral Choirs.

Tuition in the Rudiments of the Theory of Music, Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Instrumentation, Composition, and the Art of Teaching is also given by Correspondence.

Students are admitted to the Junior School up to 16 years of age.

July 10.—Last day of entry for the next open competition for Scholarships.

Particulars of the Teaching Department, with list of Professors, Fees, &c., and the Syllabuses of the Higher and Local Examinations, on application to the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, London, W.

Just Published.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

THE ORGAN

BY

JOHN STAINER.

EDITED BY JOHN E. WEST.

An important feature of the present Edition of this invaluable and popular Organ Primer is the adoption of the now universally recognized system of fingering—1.2.3.4.5., which is here substituted for the older system—×.1.2.3.4.—in all cases where fingering is marked.

In the explanatory portion of the book, opportunity has been taken of briefly mentioning one or two of the principal additions and improvements to the instrument which have been made since the book was first issued.

Bearing in mind that the Author's aim was to assist, in as concise a manner as possible, the early steps of an organ student, the Editor has refrained from adding any further exercises or pieces to those which were already given. But the addition of a few extra fingering and phrasing marks seemed necessary here and there, and, in the five concluding pieces, the laying-out of one or two of the manual passages has been rendered clearer to the player's eye by means of a slight re-staving.

The admirable explanations and diagrams of the Tubular-Pneumatic and Electric actions have been supplied by Mr. L. Simon, of Messrs. Norman & Beard, Ltd.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BROADWOOD

PLAYER-PIANOS

GRANDS AND UPRIGHTS.

THE MOST SENSITIVE PLAYERS ON THE MARKET.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

JOHN BROADWOOD & SONS, LTD.,
CONDUIT STREET, LONDON, W.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

INDISPENSABLE WORKS FOR TEACHERS.

BERINGER'S
PIANOFORTE TUTOR

English or Continental Fingering, 2s. 6d.

MALCOLM LAWSON says: "It is as original in scheme as it is lucid and masterly in detail and development. The learner is led from strength to strength."

BERINGER'S
DAILY TECHNICAL STUDIES

Reduced Price, 3s. 6d.

RELAXATION STUDIES

in the MUSCULAR DISCRIMINATIONS required for TOUCH, AGILITY, and EXPRESSION in PIANOFORTE PLAYING

BY

TOBIAS MATTHAY

(Professor, Examiner, and Fellow of the Royal Academy of Music, &c., London).

Cloth Bound (150 pages, 4to), with numerous illustrations and Musical Examples; with a Portrait of the Author.

Six Shillings net.

BOSWORTH & CO.,
17, HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON, W.
And at LEIPZIG, VIENNA, PARIS, ZÜRICH, and NEW YORK.

JUST PUBLISHED.

To be performed at Westminster Abbey on July 16, at the special service for the 250th Anniversary of the Royal Society.

GREAT IS THE LORD

(PSALM XLVIII.)

ANTHEM

For the Foundation or Commemoration of a Church or for General Use.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 67.)

Price Eightpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Musical Times
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
JULY 1, 1912.

WILLEM MENGELBERG.

It is not from any disrespectful motives that we head this article 'Willem Mengelberg' simply. It is his own particular wish. To call him 'Mr. Mengelberg' hardly seems right, his Dutch friends object to his being known as 'Herr Mengelberg,' and 'Mynheer Mengelberg' somehow looks strange.

Willem Mengelberg's first appearance in London was made on the occasion of the Strauss Festival at the old St. James's Hall in 1903. Those who heard him then remembered the remarkable vitality of his interpretations, and had not forgotten that Strauss looked on him as one of the greatest interpreters of his work, a fact sufficiently proved by the dedication of 'Ein Heldenleben' to Mengelberg and the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam. It is one of the curiosities of London musical life that while so many dozens of conductors from every civilized country should have visited us, nine years should have elapsed before Willem Mengelberg again came to London especially as his fame on the Continent grew steadily all the time. The real reason is one which is scarcely flattering to our national vanity. A great many offers had been made in the interval to him for appearances in England, but the crude, bald fact is that he was receiving so much better fees everywhere else than those suggested to him by such indigent places as London, Liverpool, and Manchester, that he saw no reason for accepting them. This should be generally known, because ninety-nine Englishmen out of a hundred, if they think of such matters at all, still imagine that England is the best paymaster for music in Europe. The strict truth, on the contrary, is that Mengelberg accepted his recent engagement in London at something less than half the fee which he is wont to receive in some Continental cities. His case is curiously parallel to that of Tetrazzini, who also for a good many years would not come to London for less than the sum she received abroad, and also finally agreed to do so because she accidentally had some free time, owing to the cancelling of a previous contract. It was a similar chance which enabled Mengelberg to come to conduct the first concert of the Philharmonic Centenary season and to conquer London, with the consequence that, fortunately for us, he is likely to be a prominent influence in the orchestral music of this country for some time to come.

Willem Mengelberg comes of good artistic stock. He was born at Utrecht, on March 28, 1871, and his father, Frederick Willem Mengelberg, is well known as an authority on Gothic architecture and sculpture, and has taken a prominent part in the work of restoration at Cologne Cathedral. He began his musical education at the School of Music of his native town, and continued his studies at the Conservatoire of Cologne, under Wüllner and Jensen. It had been his original intention to become a solo pianist, but in 1892 he was chosen from among more than eighty candidates as Director of Music in the city of Lucerne. It was there that he had his only experience of operatic conducting.

Three years later he was chosen conductor and director of the Concertgebouw in Amsterdam, as successor to Willem Kes, and that position he has occupied ever since.

He is also conductor of the 'Toonkunst' of Amsterdam, and five or six years ago he was chosen to one of the most important positions in Germany—that of conductor of the Museum Concerts and the St. Cecilia Concerts of Frankfurt-on-Main. He also conducts regularly every year in a good many cities in Germany, and his annual visits to Italy and Russia are eagerly looked forward to.

In 1881 the so-called Park Orchestra in Amsterdam, which had been conducted by W. Stumpff, was dissolved, and Amsterdam was without a permanent orchestra until 1888, when a syndicate was formed and erected the Concertgebouw, and engaged Kes, who worked up the orchestra to a very prominent position in Europe. In spite of this, however, the orchestra was, financially, not a success. For many years the deficit reached over £3,000. Since Mengelberg has been its conductor it has not only grown in fame, but has become a self-supporting institution. In the early days, among the most popular features of the concerts were the Concerto performances of the conductor, who used to conduct the orchestra from his seat at the pianoforte. While the Amsterdam orchestra has become famous as the interpreter of the most modern music, such as that of Strauss, Reger, and Mahler, whose works are perhaps more familiar in Holland than in their native countries, Mengelberg is also a most reverential lover of the great classics, and his Bach performances are looked upon as models. There was a wealthy music-lover in Amsterdam who organized at his own expense a great performance of the 'St. Matthew' Passion every Palm Sunday. At first this was done at considerable loss, but now it is so lucrative that it has to be performed three times every year, and each time results in a considerable profit. It may be added incidentally, as another proof of the solid form which love of art takes in Holland, that when it was suggested that the Amsterdam Orchestra should visit London for the Strauss Festival in 1903, the necessary guarantee, which it had been found impossible to raise in London, was forthcoming in Amsterdam in the course of a single forenoon. It may be mentioned by way of further digression that the Concertgebouw Orchestra enjoys a small subvention from the Municipality of Amsterdam, in return for which it has to give 'Popular Concerts' of classical music, for which the tickets cost fivepence. The Concertgebouw Orchestra gives on an average a hundred and fifty concerts in a year in Amsterdam and the principal Dutch cities.

During May, Mengelberg has conducted a performance of Mahler's eighth Symphony in Frankfurt, before an audience of fifteen thousand people, and also in Berlin. After conducting in London in the middle of last month, he had to hurry back to Amsterdam to busy himself with the preparations for the Dutch National Musical Festival, which will have taken place by the time these lines are in print. The programme of this Festival is interesting, because it contains works by many composers whose very names are new to England. It is one of the great conductor's most cherished objects in life to encourage young composers of all countries. He is very enthusiastic about the possibilities of the Dutch school of music, but there seems to be the same difficulty about the emergence of a national school in the Netherlands as there is in the British Isles. The young Dutch composer seems to suffer from the same disabilities as our own musicians, and his compositions seem to be open to criticism of the same kind.

Willem Mengelberg has a very high opinion of our orchestras and their readiness to respond to the conductor's wishes. He told his friends that the wonderful flexibility and unanimity of the gigantic orchestra which he faced at the Albert Hall on the occasion of the Orchestral Association's 'Titanic' Concert gave him one of the greatest experiences of his life. He freely admits that he approached his task with a certain amount of scepticism, and without any hope that it would yield really artistic results, because his previous experience of very large orchestras with numerous 'passengers' had not been encouraging. A few minutes of rehearsal, however, speedily converted him. During his first visit to England, nine years ago, Mengelberg spent some time at the Handel Festival, and expressed unbounded admiration for the singing of the choir, although he can hardly be called a Handelian in the strict sense. In the last few years a considerable number of English artists have appeared with Mengelberg and his orchestra in Holland, and they have won golden opinions. Among them may be mentioned Mr. Ben Davies, Miss Fanny Davies, Mr. Lionel Tertis (who has played Mr. Dale's Viola suite several times), and Miss Myra Hess.

In private life Mengelberg is the most simple and unassuming of men. What strikes one most in a conversation with him are the manliness and sanity of the man, qualities which to the discerning listener are reflected in all his interpretations. There is no greater enemy of humbug and pretentiousness, either in the affairs of daily life or in art, than Mengelberg, and none with a keener eye for detecting them. Since his stay in Lucerne he has developed a passionate fondness for mountains and the simple life. He spends the greater part of every summer in Switzerland, and has recently acquired a little châlet on the hills in a part of the country off the beaten tourist track, which he is having made habitable. He has, he says, caused respectful surprise to the primitive inhabitants of that remote valley by installing there an up-to-date bath-room. During his holidays he is a great walker, but his summer vacation is always busy, for that is the only time during which he can look through the numbers of scores which are submitted to him during the year. It may be interesting to know that during his four brief visits to London this season he has reaped a harvest, if the metaphor may be allowed, of something like forty British scores.

As a result of his early surroundings, he has an enthusiastic love of art, and often famous experts are glad to have his opinion on disputed questions in connection with Dutch painters. Anyone who, like the present writer, has had the privilege of being piloted through famous European galleries by him will be almost inclined to wonder that there is any room in his head for music. He is an enthusiastic collector, and spends as much time as he can in any town that he happens to be visiting, in seeing all that is to be seen and in bargain-hunting. He has not yet had time to explore London thoroughly. He envies us above all things the Halses in the Wallace Collection and the Maubuse in the National Gallery. His own art-treasures include pictures and furniture, but his special hobby is Eglomisé enamel. During his last visit to London he visited a good many of the most famous dealers, and at one of them the gentleman who showed him round afterwards inquired where he had his place of business. When he was informed that he was a musician he absolutely refused to believe it, saying that he had never met anybody outside the business who knew so much about things in general. History does not report his having any other hobby, unless it be Russian cigarettes. Like all musicians, he is fond of spending a ''busman's holiday' in hearing all the music he can, and he crowded as much concert- and opera-going into the few days of his visits to London as the hardest-worked musical critic. In this connection an interesting little fact deserves to be chronicled. On the evening before he conducted the 'Titanic' concert he arrived in London at 7.0 o'clock, feeling very tired, as he had conducted in Amsterdam the previous evening and had left at 7 a.m. He had the intention of going to bed early, but on arrival he discovered that Nikisch was conducting the Philharmonic concert, so he flung himself into dress-clothes without waiting to dine, and went to hear him. He has often conducted the Gewandhaus Orchestra, and Nikisch has often conducted the Concertgebouw Orchestra, but the two had never met till that evening, nor had Mengelberg ever heard—or should one say seen?—Nikisch conduct. The two great conductors met face to face for the first time at the supper given by the Philharmonic Directors at Pagani's. Though Mengelberg has now heard Nikisch, Nikisch has not yet heard Mengelberg. This fact throws a curious sidelight on the strenuous life of the modern travelling conductor.

In his youth Mengelberg composed a considerable number of important works, which are still heard occasionally in Holland, but he has not composed much of late years.

One of his theories is that it is a great mistake for an artist to try to attract attention by eccentricities of manner or personal appearance. This may seem a small matter in itself, but it is typical of one aspect of his character, which appeals very strongly to British ideals. This being so, there is of necessity not much to be said about his personal appearance. When he was younger it used to be said in Germany that he looked like a Rembrandt with a cherub face. He now looks like any man might look who has great responsibilities and leads an important enterprise. His manner on the platform is eminently simple and straightforward, and offers few temptations to dealers in flamboyant epithets. The clearness and tremendous decision of his beat must impress even the most casual observer from outside, and he inspires his players with confidence, because all he does is meant to guide them, and not to impress the public. He gives his cues in a most unmistakable manner, and wastes neither time nor energy in superfluous gyrations. He is one of the most 'decorated' musicians in Europe. The decoration of which he is proudest is the 'House Order' of Queen Wilhelmina, which has been bestowed by her only on a very few of her subjects, whom she holds in special personal esteem. It is in no way political or official, but purely personal, and carries with it the right of being saluted everywhere in Holland as a General-Officer.

No account of Willem Mengelberg is complete without mention of his wife, who has been his constant companion in all his travels, except when prevented by the illness of her parents. Madame Mengelberg is the most competent of business managers, and is endowed with the greatest charm of mind and manner. She is nearly as great an authority on matters of art as her husband, and, like him, is a most accomplished linguist.

Willem Mengelberg makes his next appearance in London at the first concert of the Philharmonic Society in November.

Alfred Kalisch.

A NOTE ON BACH TRANSCRIPTIONS.

By Ernest Newman.

Schweitzer, in his book on Bach, while recognising that transcriptions of the organ works for the pianoforte have done something to spread the knowledge of them, is mainly against transcriptions in general, and in particular against arrangements of the clavier works for the organ. On the latter point most people would probably be with him. As a rule there is little justification for transferring a work conceived in a smaller medium to a larger one, though there are a few exceptions that will occur to everyone. Max Reger has arranged for the organ a number of Bach's clavier toccatas, preludes and fugues. I am doubtful of the success of some of these transcriptions, particularly of that of the Chromatic Fantasia; but it is a question I prefer to leave to organists. Schweitzer is probably right when he says that 'Bach's clavier works sound restless on the organ. A satisfactory registration cannot be discovered for any of them.' And again, 'The rhythm of the themes of the organ fugues is much simpler than that of the clavier fugues. A few quite elementary syncopations apart, scarcely an accent falls on the weak part of a bar; the main accent always falls on the strong beat. Bach sees quite clearly that any other than this natural accent is impossible on the organ. For clavier and for orchestra he writes much more freely. Thus the object of transcribing clavier fugues for the organ is incomprehensible. No one who really understands the nature of Bach's organ works can listen to transcriptions of this kind.'

The case is different however with transferences to a smaller medium of works conceived in a larger one. As Liszt said, the pianoforte is to the orchestra or the organ what an engraving is to a painting; it helps to disseminate and popularise big works of art. The real justification for these pianoforte arrangements is that, let the purists say what they will, artists delight in making them, the amateur delights in playing them, and the public delights in listening to them. One need not dwell on the obvious fact that were it not for these transcriptions many of the finest of Bach's organ works would be unknown to everyone but organists. To how many pianists and concert-goers, for example, has not Tausig's splendid arrangement of the D minor toccata and fugue brought a new revelation of the power of Bach's imagination? Liszt, again, with his transcriptions of the A minor, C major, C minor, E minor, and B minor preludes and fugues, and the G minor fantasia and fugue, must have opened up a new world to thousands of amateurs. Some loss there is bound to be in an arrangement of an organ work for the pianoforte; but the gain immensely overweighs the loss. Schweitzer, while recognising the good that has been done to Bach and to music by these pianoforte popularisations, still seems to have a lingering doubt about them, and pleads for the old-fashioned domestic style of performance of the organ works, with one player taking the manual parts and another filling in the pedals. That, however, is only a makeshift, and one that does not always act, as everyone can testify who has tried it. Moreover, by a curious paradox, it is only when we handle Bach's organ music with a little freedom that the pianoforte arrangement wins an appearance of naturalness,—only when we add something to him that we seem to get him native and intact. How to do this and yet not overdo it is the great problem of transcription.

The difficulty of arranging the organ works is not merely the facts that three staves have to be compressed into two, but that the pedal has often to be thrown into so low a register that one hand must be devoted to this alone—thus sometimes throwing double work upon the other,—and that we have sometimes to suggest the changes of organ timbre as best we can upon an instrument that does not offer much variety of timbre. At many a point, then, there must be something to which the pedant can object as not being in Bach; and the only excuse we can make is that the alteration gives us the spirit of the original, and that this is unattainable if we keep slavishly to the letter. In Busoni's arrangement of the D major prelude, for example, the transposition of some of the answering phrases to a higher octave than that of their predecessors gives them a point that they lose when they are retained in their original position, as in D'Albert's arrangement of the prelude, with the proposition and answer simply marked piano and forte respectively. This contention that we sometimes get nearer to the spirit of Bach by departing from the letter can be abundantly proved by comparing some of Liszt's arrangements with those of later men. To Liszt every credit as a pioneer is due, but his Bach transcriptions have the timidity and sometimes the inefficiency of much pioneer work. One wishes he had treated Bach with the same boldness and originality as he has applied to certain other composers whose work he has transcribed. In large part all that he has done is to reduce Bach's three staves to two, which merely saves us a little trouble in playing from the organ score—the trouble of settling on the spur of the moment the distribution of the material between the two hands—and often quite fails either to be Bach-like or to be lucid. Take one instance out of many. Here is a passage from his arrangement of the C major prelude:

As he generally does, he keeps the pedal part in the octave of its notation—as of course you have to do if you are simply aiming at making a playable transcription of the music as it stands in the organ score. But it is clear at a glance that the pedal part:

is almost utterly lost in the playing; it mainly exists for the eye alone, not for the ear. This may be fidelity to Bach in the literal sense, but is certainly an infidelity to him in the spiritual sense. The business of the transcriber is surely so to re-arrange the distribution of the notes that while they look on paper different from the organ score they will suggest the sound of this. Let us take as an example the following passage from the fugue of the C major prelude, fugue and andante.*

*It appears in the Bachgesellschaft edition, and in the Breitkopf and other editions of the organ works, in E major. It is also sometimes described as a toccata and fugue.

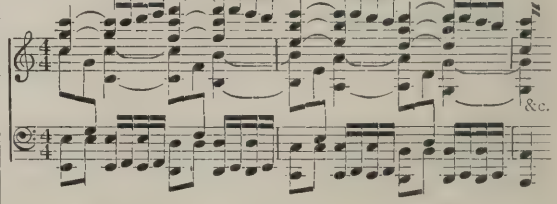
Transcribed in Liszt's literal manner,—a manner, by the way, often followed by D'Albert—it would stand in the pianoforte score thus:

a combination both unplayable and ineffective if it could be played. Look now at Theodor Szántó's arrangement of the passage:

Here, by a judicious thickening of some of the chords, a more organ-like effect is produced, while by the simple device of leaving a note once struck to sustain itself while the finger passes to other notes, the whole of the movements of Bach's parts are retained intact, everything is brought out clearly, and the pedal gets something of the weight of the organ tone.

Or take the ending of the fugue in the same work. Literally transcribed, it would figure thus:

See now how much more effective it is in Szántó's arrangement, how much more playable—in spite of the fearsome look of it at first sight—and how much more like the grandeur of the original:



It is really curious how little Liszt seems to have reflected, in making these Bach transcriptions of his, upon the most obvious possibilities of the pianoforte,—how the skilful use of the sustaining pedal, for instance, could set the hands free to wander into quite other octaves, there striking a note that could in turn be left to sustain itself while the hands returned to their original point of departure, and so on again and again,—as in the fine example last quoted above. It was no doubt this timidity in face of some of the problems that led to his making so few transcriptions of the organ works; for in almost every one of these we are constantly coming upon passages that can only be made really vital upon the pianoforte by consideration of the true nature of that instrument, and a bold forgetfulness of the mere look of the passage in the organ score. Who would say, for example, that the following passage from D'Albert's arrangement of the D major prelude:

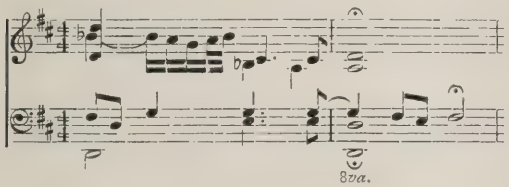
though it is textually faithful to Bach, comes as close to the spirit of him as do the equivalent bars in Busoni's arrangement?

Once we admit the possibility and even the necessity of little devices of this kind,—as I think we are bound to do—the question then arises, Where are we to stop? Here we enter upon thorny ground. The D major prelude, for instance, ends thus:

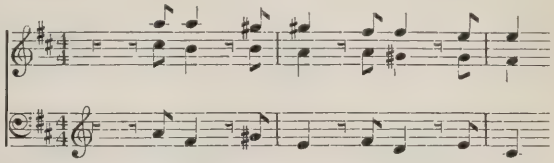


Busoni not only deepens the octaves,—for which, I suppose, no one will quarrel with him,—but adds sixths to the melodic flourish in the penultimate bar:

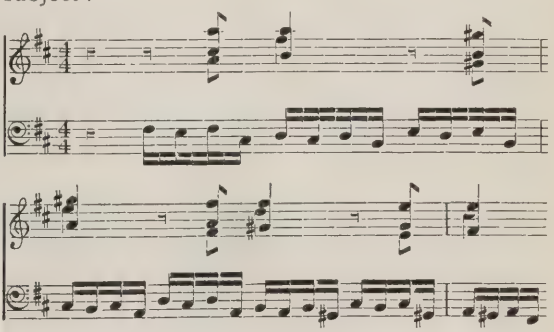
For my own part I cannot see anything very sacrilegious in this. The harmony is implicit in many minds, and no doubt the under notes would be unconsciously supplied by them as they heard the melody. On these lines they would regard the additions as very little more than making visible what they feel to be audible. It is a point of taste, however, on which we dare not dogmatise. Here is a case, though, in which I take it Busoni is justified in slightly altering Bach, making a trifling sacrifice in order to win a substantial compensation.

In the D major prelude there is a passage that D'Albert has arranged thus:

This, it is true, preserves most of the letter of the original, in which the manuals move thus:



But,—apart from the ugliness of some of the doubling—the organ left-hand notes are so placed by D'Albert as not only to muddle slightly the pedal passage, but to make it none too easy to play. Busoni, as will be seen, transposes some of the manual notes into other octaves than in the original. He loses practically nothing that is vital by doing this, while by compressing it all within the compass of the right hand he sets the left free for the clear performance of the very vital pedal part, which contains most of the essence of the fugue subject:



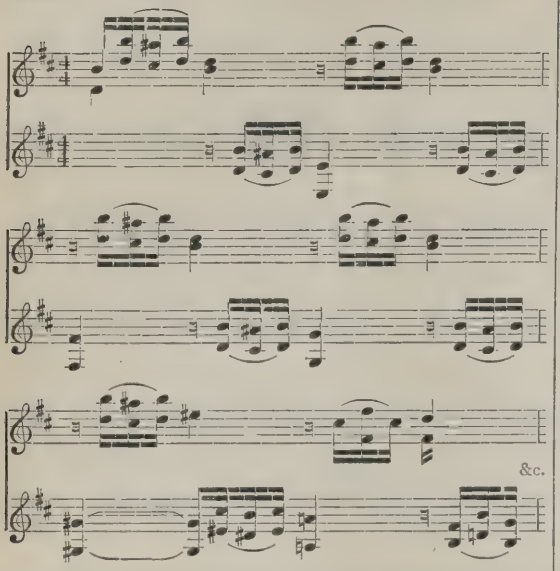
To this, I imagine, none but a pedant could raise any objection.

Let us, however, go a step further still. In the same fugue are single melodic passages of this kind:

Is Busoni justified in expanding them thus:

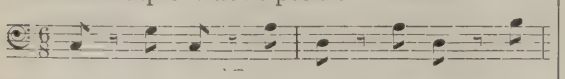
or again in expanding:

into:

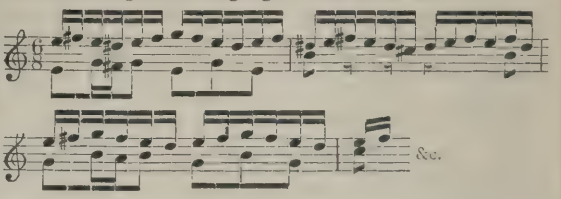


It is not strictly right, but, at the risk of being called a barbarian, I for my part cannot see anything outrageously wrong in it. It gives a more sporting interest to the pianoforte arrangement, without doing grievous violence to the original. But when Busoni transcribes a passage in the C major toccata thus:

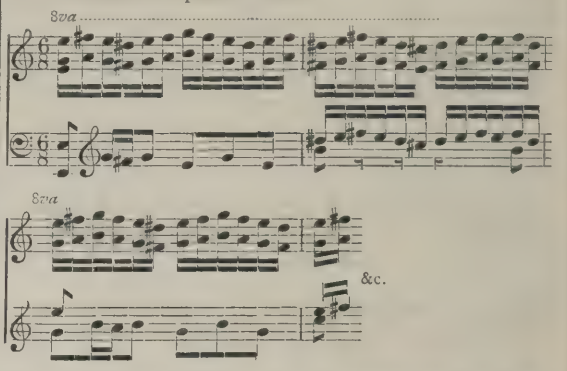
I am unable to see eye to eye with him. His additions here are the upper chords in the left-hand part. No matter how they are played they seem to me to take something away from the athletic tread and leap of Bach's pedal:



This, to my mind, is to add something to the music that is not only not there, but could not possibly be there. In the preceding cases something has been added which, it is true, is not there, but conceivably might be there, and probably would have been there had Bach been thinking in terms of the pianoforte. So with the following passage from the fugue belonging to this toccata:



which Busoni expands thus:

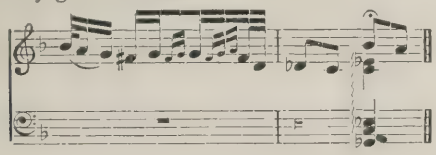


I cannot defend this on any argumentative lines, but for the life of me I cannot see very much wrong in it; it certainly gives the music that brilliant, scintillating effect which we feel to be in the fugue at this point. It may be all, however, a matter of personal taste. When Bülow adds something of his own to the following passage in the fugue of the Chromatic Fantasia:

filling out the second and fourth bars of the quotation thus:

my soul revolts at it as an artistic error and impertinence. To others it may not appear so.

A well-known passage in the Chromatic Fantasia is usually given thus:



Busoni's version of it:

has the support of other authorities: Max Reger, for example, adopts this reading in his arrangement of the work for the organ. This, however, is a matter that cannot be resolved by argument. But when Busoni expands the second and third bars of the D minor organ toccata:

into this:

we may be forgiven for declining to follow him. The original seems to most of us to need no such amplification.

It will be seen that there is ample scope for the ingenuity and the musicianship of the arranger, and for difference of opinion as to the result of his work. What is quite certain is that frequently he must not merely transcribe the organ music as it stands, but re-think it in terms of the pianoforte. The truth of this will be recognised at once by any one who will compare some of Liszt's transcriptions with Tausig's arrangement of the D minor toccata and fugue. It is from this latter that the whole modern art of Bach transcription seems to derive. There is a warmth, a freshness as of youth, about everything that Tausig did that thrills us to this day, and makes it easy for us to understand the affection the gifted boy inspired in Liszt and Wagner and everyone who knew him. Whatever music he touches, of Bach or Strauss or Schubert, he revels in his own part of the work with the clean joy of a colt prancing about in a meadow; and the joy is communicated to every one who plays or listens to an arrangement of his. Tausig's transcription of the D minor toccata and fugue is still the best model for the arranger of Bach for the pianoforte. Busoni has sometimes gone beyond him in daring and effectiveness,—it is interesting, by the way, to compare Busoni's own arrangement of this work with Tausig's—but it is safe to say that without Tausig none of the modern transcribers would have been quite so sure of their ground.

Much good work still remains to be done. As yet we have for the pianoforte hardly more than a few of the organ preludes, toccatas and fugues, the passacaglia (in D'Albert's arrangement, Catoire's, and others), the Brandenburg concertos, which Naumann has arranged for four hands, and a dozen or so of the chorale preludes. The last-named offer a large and inviting field. The chorale preludes are hardly known except to organists, yet they contain some of the rarest quintessence of Bach's art. Many of them offer no difficulties whatever to the transcriber. Some of the simpler ones have been done by Mr. A. M. Henderson.* Max Reger has transcribed about a dozen, and Busoni has issued two volumes of transcriptions of them, containing some that do not appear in Reger's set. The most hardened opponent of transcriptions would surely be softened if the question were boldly put to him, 'Is it not better for the ordinary man to learn from a pianoforte version such divine things as the "Schmücke dich, o liebe Seele," the "O Mensch, bewein' dein' Sünde gross,"† the "Ich ruf' zu dir, Herr Jesu Christ," the "Durch Adams Fall ist ganz verderbt," or the "Das alte Jahr vergangen ist" —things without their superior in all the music of the world—than not to learn them at all?' Our only ground for complaint is not that these few arrangements have been made, but that all the preludes have not been done. The problems they present ought to pique the pride of the pianoforte transcriber. Busoni has, as usual, solved some of them audaciously and brilliantly, and has occasionally added a touch of his own. No reasonable person, I imagine, would object to his darkening of the harmonies of 'Ich ruf' zu dir' at one or two points, or to his repetition of the final phrases an octave lower. Neither device does any violence to Bach. Even when he adds three chords at the end of 'In dir ist Freude,' or interpolates a couple of bars at the end of 'Nun freut euch' and doubles the value of the notes in the final bar, or elaborates slightly the figuration of 'Komm Gott Schöpfer,' it is difficult for the non-pedantic mind to charge him with any very grievous offence. All we could reasonably ask, perhaps, is that where he adds to or alters Bach he should print the original along with his own version.

We must, in short, put pedantry on one side in considering this question. It is easy to look aghast at the idea of transcribing for the pianoforte a work originally written for violin

* Published by Bayley & Ferguson.

† There is a most unfortunate typographical error in the last bar but one of Max Reger's arrangement of this prelude, an A flat being substituted for the G in the penultimate quaver.

solo; yet no one, I fancy, could play through Busoni's pianoforte arrangement of the Chaconne without being deeply and pleasurably interested in it. If the devil is not to have all the good tunes to himself, the pianist may ask, why should the violinist? And so with many others of Bach's works. By all means let us have them in the original form if possible, but it is surely better to have them in another form than in no form at all. Why should people who do not play the violin be utterly deprived of the fine music of the violin sonatas when they can get at least an echo of it in the pianoforte arrangements of Saint-Saëns, Schumann, and others? Why should not string players who are not organists make the acquaintance of the organ sonatas in the chamber-music arrangement of Todt? The cantatas in particular cry aloud for someone to bring their thousand beauties into the daylight for the benefit of the domestic amateur or the concert-goer. Mr. Bantock has made an admirable arrangement of the movement in 'Wachet auf' in which the chorale is so exquisitely combined with a sort of processional music; he has preserved the scoring of the latter intact, and simply given the chorale to four horns instead of to human tenors. Why should we not have more—many more—things of this kind? I have a suspicion that Bach's attitude towards transcriptions would not be so starchy as that of some of his present-day admirers. I am certain that could he have seen or heard Tausig's arrangement of the D minor toccata and fugue he would have flung back that great head of his and bellowed with delight, and asked, 'Why the Donnerwetter didn't I think of that myself?'—that he would at least have smiled approval upon many another transcription, and that when he did feel bound to shake his head he would at any rate have done so reprovingly rather than angrily.

AN ANALYSIS OF CHORAL TONE.

By J. A. Rodgers.

A close observer listening to the International contests recently held in Paris, could not fail to be struck with the immense variety not only of styles, but of tonal timbres and vocal characteristics revealed by the competing choirs. It was to be expected that there should be essential differences between French and English choirs; that an Italian choir should, in klang of tone and in other respects, differ fundamentally from, say, a Bohemian choir. The language would account for that. But there were what may be termed territorial features in the singing of choirs from any one country, Great Britain in particular, which enabled an experienced ear to locate almost the exact district a choir came from, without reference to the programme.

While the lingual difference marks in obvious fashion the contrasts in the tone-aspects of the choirs of different countries, so variations of dialect and habits of speech help us to recognise the more subtle but none the less unmistakable diversities which distinguish choirs from Scotland, North Lancashire, Wales, Manchester, Sheffield, London, Birmingham, and elsewhere. They bear the impress of local conditions of consonantal colour, syllabic stress, and vowel definition, which locates them as clearly to the trained ear as though they followed the French fashion of bearing aloft a banner—some gorgeous affair of silk and tassels and jingling medals—with the style and place of the choir proudly painted thereon.

But first I will treat of the wider question of national choral traits. In doing so, I may classify Belgian and French choirs together, for though there are many points of divergence in the playing of Belgian and French brass and military bands, their choirs have a large preponderance of features in common Broadly stated, it may be said that while English choirs excel in smoothness and round, full-bodied tone, the French invest their singing with more colour-tints, and extract a keener dictional suggestiveness from the text. Several factors contribute to this result. The English vowels are broader, more direct, than the French, carrying more readily an open-throated tone. Then, again, what Mr. Cecil Forsyth has called the 'drama' of the sentence—the central idea of a group of words or syllables thrown into a high light by outstanding stress—gives the English singers a tonal rallying point, a consensus of sonority which we do not get in the more evenly distributed emphasis of the French language.

The French, on the other hand, exploit to the full their subtle vowel combinations and vanishing suffixes. The nasal terminals, which the English find so difficult to acquire, give a not unpleasing charm, a fresh tint, to their singing, though their use brings about a tendency to close and pinch the tone. These essential differences are very marked in the singing of the English and French children. The cathedral tradition is strong in England. The fluty, hooty, aloof quality, due to the carrying down of the head-voice beyond its natural limit and the use of the vowel 'oo'—which the French detest—is now largely cultivated in British schools. While it serves to produce a sweet and pure tone, the product is almost entirely colourless and inexpressive. The French children, judged by British standards, emit a much inferior tone. It is wiry, reedy, and deficient in volume and carrying power; but it is so illuminated by the point and clarity and the precocious versatility and suggestion of their diction, as to make their singing perhaps not so sensuously grateful to the ear but certainly more interesting to the mind.

A similar conclusion is forced after comparison between the adult choirs. Perhaps the most extraordinary singing at the Paris Festival was that of the Société des Instituteurs-Chanteurs de Prague (male voices) under Professor Spilka. Their singing derived its thrilling vitality mainly from the specialised oral smartness of the singers, which gave every word its acme of meaning, while the vowel positions carried great variety of timbre, indicating a severe and uniform method of training. These elements, plus a fine sense of rhythm, made their singing something of the nature of a revelation. And yet in sheer beauty of tone, as we estimate beauty, they were surpassed by half-a-dozen British choirs. A parallel case was to be found in that of the winning choir in the 'Excellence' division for mixed voices—the A Cappella Gântois. Fiery intensity of tone, declamation which became almost speech, steely sopranos, vibrant, stringy tenors, basses with voices like tubas, and an all-round superb enthusiasm—such were their characteristics. But in chording, in blend, in certainty of intonation, and in absolute 'musical' quality of voice, there was the same deficiency when compared with the best British choirs. If carried further afield, and extended to Austrian and German choirs, the comparison still holds good. The famous Männergesangverein of Vienna, and the Cologne Choir, for example, excel beyond the English in the mechanics of singing, while, allowing for the smaller numbers of our native male choirs, the tone is neither so unified nor so plastic and beautiful in quality. The oral inertia of the average Englishman is doubtless responsible. Until enunciation and pronunciation are methodically studied as being indispensable to the technique of singing, and the subtleties of vowel-shapes are understood and æsthetically applied, the English choirs will remain lacking in one essential department of their equipment.

Before quitting this comparative estimate of British and foreign choirs, there are one or two points of similarity and divergence which may, perhaps, profitably be discussed. The French choral basses differ from those of England, Italy, and Austria in that they seem unduly anxious to demonstrate how big-chested they are, how powerful and imposing are their voices! No doubt there are many glorious bass voices in their choirs. Where in British choirs baritones preponderate, in French the basses are in a large majority. The fact has given rise to a trick of mouthing the tone, which lends a fictitious sense of bigness to the voices. It is done by 'scooping' out the notes and making the mouth cavity as large as possible. The resultant tone is woolly and diffused, ponderous in flexible passages, and lacking the penetrating Open Diapason timbre of the Bohemian and the Yorkshire and Lancashire basses. The tenors of the French choirs are much more brilliant and trumpet-like than the British, who, almost with one consent, adopt the highly-coloured throatiness which seems to be a national musical characteristic. Where the latter surpass is in their constancy to the pitch, however dramatic or emotional the music they are engaged in. The French tenors are content with approximate notes and tonality; in the stress of passion or fervour they get far afield from the key, recovering it in remarkable fashion at a cadence or a sostenuto passage. In both nations the distressing habit of clipping the closing chord of a phrase, particularly if it ends on an explosive consonant, is still indulged in; even the best choirs err in this respect.

Coming from International to inter-county comparisons, similar conclusions on a smaller scale are to be deduced.

The recent foregathering, both at the Midlands Competition Festival at Birmingham and at the International Festival in Paris, of so many British choirs from all parts of the country has served to emphasise numerous interesting features and points of difference in choral tone, due apparently not so much to the influence of training, as rather to inherent vocal habits which seem to be indigenous to certain districts. How is it that the Lancashire mill-girls produce an aggregate tone which so far surpasses in breadth and resonance that heard from a London or Bristol choir; that the basses of Leeds and Sheffield are more sonorous than those of Norwich, Birmingham or Glasgow; that the tenors of Bristol and Birmingham are perhaps the finest in the country, as are the contraltos of Blackpool, Morecambe, and Manchester? I purposely exclude the Three Choirs Festival chorus from this comparative analysis, because its constitution is unique. Salaried lay-clerks, presumably drawn from all districts, form the nucleus of this body; the contralto tone is stiffened by an amalgam of male alto quality, while the soprano part has an admixture of cathedral boy-chorister tone to which it is evident the female voices have, perhaps unconsciously, adapted themselves. The sum total of all these elements is a choral ensemble of smooth beauty, especially luscious in the two upper parts, and carrying an exquisite, pure aloofness in sustained passages, but reaching its limitation in highly-coloured or dramatic music.

Nor is it easy to classify the recently formed Newcastle Festival Choir. Fine body of singers as they are, they have not yet evolved an individuality. The influence of their trainer, Dr. Coward, dominates them; they bear his rather than their own characteristics. Apart from their performances being located in an unsuitable auditorium—a comparatively small variety theatre—they furnished at the Festival an example of choral diction that over-reached itself. The consonantal emphasis was so magnified as frequently to swamp the tone; the technique of the painting obscured the picture. It gave rise to a curious acoustic effect in 'Omar Kháyyam.' The rapid final movement brought forth a fusillade of consonantal explodents which the dry resonance of the theatre intensified into a bewildering crackle never contemplated by the composer.

Various ingenious theories have been put forward to explain the territorial choral characteristics I have previously named. Perhaps the strangest is the thesis that the finest voices are to be found in the coal-producing districts. It would be a happy fancy to imagine the miner singing while at his work in the domain of eternal sunlessness. But it happens that, as a class, miners are unmusical, or, at any rate, unvocal. Brass bands, not choirs, are their hobby. The solution will have to be sought in dialect and habits of speech. The Northern folk broaden and elongate their vowel positions, and it is in the Northern choirs where open-throated sonority transcends all other qualities. Large-scaled open tone is one of the fundamentals of Dr. Coward's training. It explains much of the overwhelming power of his Sheffield choir. He did not invent it. The great choirs of Leeds and Huddersfield used it instinctively before Dr. Coward's day. But he applied it in excelsis to the fine, natural voices of his Sheffield singers, extracting every fraction of possible resonance from the vowel.

When Sir Henry Wood undertook the training of the Sheffield Festival choir of 1911 he modified this broad-vowel system. He insisted on a more closed cavity, greater palatal and nasal resonance, and, especially in the men's voices, a more concentrated, almost glittering, tone. The fruits were heard at the Festival. There was inevitably a loss of actual volume, but the tone was more brilliant, and the vowel range and colouring were widely increased.

The foregoing goes far to explain many of the essential diversities of local tone to which I alluded at the beginning. Lancashire and Yorkshire workers in their speech prolong and widen many of the short vowels. 'Hand' becomes 'hond,' 'mighty' becomes 'moighty'; the final 'diphthongal-vanish' disappears from the long vowel 'ai'—and so on. As we proceed South the speech-tone of educated and vocally-trained people alters. The vowel sounds become more composite; the open positions are narrowed, giving some gain in refinement and euphony, but with a consequent loss of forward resonance. The ladies' voices of London and, say, Birmingham are speaking generally undoubtedly smaller and more silvery than those of similar status north of Derby and Lincoln. The splendid tenors of Birmingham, Bristol, and South Wales are a little difficult to account for unless, as in the case of bass-singing in Yorkshire, tenor-singing in those districts has become a habit and is specially cultivated. The vowel theory can hardly explain so plentiful a supply of good, natural voices.

The subject is a fascinating one, and might with profit be given closer attention by choir-trainers. A survey of the question, based on observations carried on throughout England and in many cities abroad, leads me to the conclusion that British trainers have not yet fully realised the superb potentialities of their language. The tendency is to cultivate the few sonorous, telling, Italianised vowels, and to ignore or modify the several dozens of more or less subtle English vowel-combinations, each of which carries a peculiar colour-tint. With a few notable exceptions, the methods of English trainers is largely to utilise vowels as tone-carriers only, and consonants to make merely clear, and not suggestive, the word-symbols. To secure intensified and varied tonal-colour, power should not so much be the aim as a uniform vowel adjustment which will furnish the tone-palette with all the unequalled resources of the English language.

SYNCOPATION AND EMPHASIS.

By Reginald Gatty.

(Continued from p. 372.)

II.

Before proceeding, it may be well to point out a distinction to be made with regard to the varieties of tempo d'imbroglio, which is dependent on the kind of cross-motive employed. As cross-motives are in their nature sequential, we may have either sequences conterminous with the whole model (in which case the model must be expected to repeat itself), or only conterminous with one or more of its component parts (model-units). They may also extend beyond the limits of the model with varieties that have only a theoretical importance. All the examples given in these articles are cases of sequences conterminous with single model-units, with the following exceptions. In Exs. 25*b*, 37, and 38 the sequences are conterminous with the whole model. Ex. 36 is also an irregular instance of this effect. Exs. 24, 31, and 32*b* furnish instances of sequences conterminous with double model-units, and Ex. 24 is also a case of sequences extending to the length of double models. Ex. 33, according to my interpretation, is not a case of tempo d'imbroglio at all, but on Callcott's assumed analysis is an example of an irregular model and four irregular sequences conterminous with the single, irregular model-units. The foregoing distinction of cross-motives cannot be shown to affect any of the arguments that now follow.

It may also be mentioned in this place that it is of course possible to have the employment of phrasing accents in accordance with the models of tempo d'imbroglio without, however, the sequential feature of cross-motives to give the music the true character of this device. Thus, owing to the variations in the last sequences of each quotation, Exs. 35 and 36 have a leaning in this direction.

To return. What is the mental effect intended by tempo d'imbroglio? Franklin Taylor, in his article, 'Tempo Rubato,' in Grove's 'Dictionary,' says: 'This expression is used in two different senses; first to denote the insertion of a short passage in duple time into a movement the prevailing rhythm of which is triple, or vice versâ, the change being effected without altering the time-signature, by means of false accents or accents falling on other than the ordinary places in the bar.' He then quotes Ex. 25*a*,* and says of it that 'the rhythm . . . is distinctly that of two in a bar, although the whole movement is in $\frac{9}{4}$ time.' Again, in his 'Technique and Expression' (p. 32), he says, speaking of syncopation, 'There are cases in which an alteration of accent is designed to, and does, give the effect of a temporary change of rhythm.' He then once more quotes Ex. 25*a*, saying that here 'the rhythm changes for the time being from triple time to duple, with two beats in a bar.'

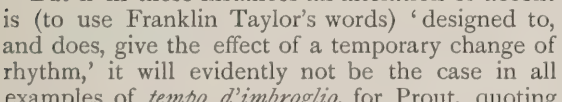
* I.e., he quotes the example cited by me as Ex. 25*a*. This convenient, if ambiguous, method of expression has been freely used in these articles to avoid cumbering the text.

Similarly, Prout (Grove's 'Dictionary,' Art. Accent), terms these effects 'the displacing of the stresses in such a way as to convey to the mind an impression of an alteration of the time,' and, quoting Ex. 27, he calls it 'a remarkable example of extension of rhythm, so that two bars of $\frac{3}{4}$ time are made to sound like one bar of $\frac{3}{2}$.' He then cites as 'instances of this device in the works of later composers,' Exs. 36 and 40.

But if in these instances an alteration of accent is (to use Franklin Taylor's words) 'designed to, and does, give the effect of a temporary change of rhythm,' it will evidently not be the case in all examples of tempo d'imbroglio, for Prout, quoting Exs. 28, 29, and 34, says ('Musical Form,' § 289):

BEETHOVEN. Pianoforte Sonata, Op. 14, No. 2.

Ex. 28. W 2. W 2. S 2.



BEETHOVEN. Violin Sonata, Op. 30, No. 3.

Ex. 29. W. W. W 2. W 2. cres.

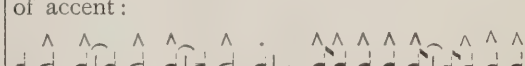
'In all the passages quoted above, the feeling of the triple time is maintained in spite of the cross-accents,' and of Ex. 28 he says further (id. § 287): 'Here the grouping of the notes of the melody suggests $\frac{2}{4}$ time, and a charming effect is produced by the crossing of the bar-accent and the phrasing accent.' Again, citing Ex. 20, he says (id. § 292): 'Here we never altogether lose the feeling of quadruple time, but the figures both of the upper and lower part are decidedly suggestive of $\frac{3}{4}$.' Further, a supplementary commentary of the editor in Prout's article 'Accent' in Grove runs: 'What are called "cross-accents" should properly be explained as cases where the emphasis and the natural accent contradict one another; in all cases of syncopation, such as in the following examples, the natural accent of the bar is felt, and the displaced emphasis gains in effect by the fact that the accent is felt.'

How are these apparently contradictory explanations to be reconciled? What means have we of ascertaining when the composer intends one thing and when the other? Perhaps we shall obtain some enlightenment if we inquire more closely into the nature of syncopation and emphasis.

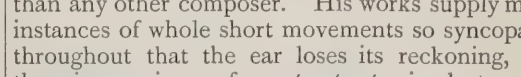
Franklin Taylor says ('Technique and Expression,' p. 32): 'Syncopation, although it displaces the accent, does not disturb the general rhythm, which, unless the syncopation is constant and very prolonged, is always recognisable under the displacement.'

Speaking of 'transposition of the accent,' Pauer says ('Musical Forms,' p. 14): 'But this transition of the accent must not continue too long, for if so the accented arsis would usurp the place of the thesis, and would no longer be intelligible merely as a transposition. For if the following line:

were long continued, our rhythmical instinct would very soon reduce this transposition of the accent to a natural, simple order of accent by receiving the accentuated arsis as the thesis, because the natural and universal always asserts itself over the artificial and the special.' And of syncopation he says: (id. p. 16), 'If a syncopè is to maintain itself for any time as a pure unison, it must be interrupted in bars or in longer intervals by an accented thesis, which always recalls the natural accent to the memory:



'But where the syncopè occurs, as it usually does, in a passage where there are various voices, it can be continued at pleasure without becoming unintelligible, because the other voices always meet it with the counterpoise of the natural order of accent:



Finally, Corder writes of Schumann (Grove, Art. Syncopation): 'Schumann was fonder of syncopation than any other composer. His works supply many instances of whole short movements so syncopated throughout that the ear loses its reckoning, and the impression of contra-tempo is lost: e.g., "Kinderscenen," No. 10; "Faschingsschwank," No. 1; and, most noticeable of all, the opening bar of the "Manfred" overture.'

It will be clear from the foregoing that within a certain limit syncopation and emphasis have the effect of tamperings with the regular progress of the natural accents, and beyond this limit the effect of time-signature change. Where, then, does the limit lie, and will it be the same for all hearers? That a sense of syncopation and tempo d'imbroglio has to be acquired will be obvious to everyone who remembers his own musical development. Playford says ('An Introduction to the Skill of Musick,' 12th edition, 1694, p. 24): 'Notes of Syncopation, or Driving-Notes are, when your Hand or Foot is taken up, or put down, while the Note is sounding, which is very awkward to a Young Practitioner; but when once he can do this well, he may think himself pretty Perfect in keeping Time.'

For Dr. Callcott, apparently, all examples of tempo d'imbroglio produced the effect of a change of time-signature. He says ('Grammar of Music' § 530): 'To the same species of effect which is derived from emphasis, may be referred the tempo d'imbroglio (della confusione) of modern music, in which the music, although written in one kind of measure, is really performed in another.'

As a 'singular' instance of this he quotes Ex. 30 :

Ex. 30.

from the final chorus of the 'Pilgrim,' by Hasse, 'in which,' he says, 'the time, though apparently three crotchets, produces the effect of two crotchets in a measure' (§ 534). He then continues (§ 535): 'In the last movement of Haydn's "Instrumental Passione," Op. 45, generally known by the name of the "Seven last Words," several passages occur, in which, as in the preceding example (i.e., from Hasse), the time changes from three to two crotchets. In the final section, the time changes to four crotchets, &c. As that movement is termed il Terremoto or the Earthquake, this confusion is particularly appropriate.'

The passages referred to are evidently Exs. 31, 32 and 33, which we give from the first violin part of the instrumental version of the work (London, W. Forster. B.M. h3210).

HAYDN. Instrumental version of 'Seven last Words,' last movement.

Ex. 31. bar 23.

Ex. 32.* (a) bar 37.

(b)

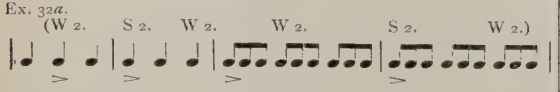
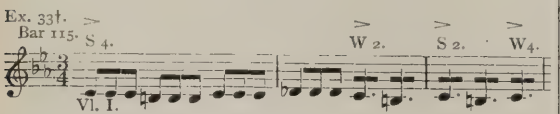
Ex. 32*a*.



Ex. 33†. Bar 115.

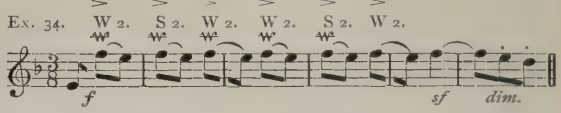


Ex. 33*a*.

Now, if we compare the phrasing-schemes of Ex. 30 and Ex. 32 (a) and (b) with that of Ex. 34, which is one of those passages quoted by Prout (see p. 443) as an instance where 'the feeling of the triple time is maintained, in spite of the cross-accents,' we shall find them to be identical, viz., W 2, S 2, W 2.

BEETHOVEN. Pianoforte Sonata, Op. 31, No. 2.

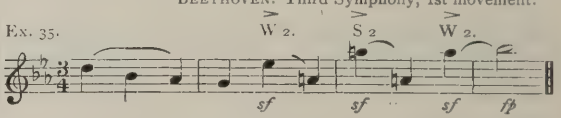
Ex. 34.



Similarly, Stainer and Barrett ('Dictionary,' Art. Accents) quote the following passage (Ex. 35) with the same phrasing-scheme, W 2, S 2, W 2, and observe:—'This intentional upsetting of our accepted notions of the expected position of accent is capable of a most remarkable and powerful effect. Heard by a musician just two centuries ago, its effect would probably not have been so striking, as he would have supposed the writer to have changed from triple to duple time, a constant habit in those days,' obviously implying that no such change is apparent to modern ears.

BEETHOVEN. Third Symphony, 1st movement.

Ex. 35.



That is to say, the same phrasing-scheme, which means a change from triple time to duple in Callcott's estimation, is regarded by Prout and by Stainer and Barrett as a case where the triple time is maintained! A clue to the difficulty will be found, however, when we remember that Callcott could write as follows ('Grammar of Music,' § 516) about quadruple time :

'The Germans, and also the French, consider the measure of four crotchets as a species different, not only from that of three, but even from that of two crotchets ; a distinction which arises from the nature of accent, and which is thought of importance by those authors. It is considered by some of them as a simple measure; but it really seems merely to differ from that of two crotchets, by the omission of the alternate bar.'

If Callcott's rhythmical sense was not sufficiently developed to distinguish between duple and quadruple time, may we not suspect that it was also imperfect with regard to tempo d'imbroglio? and will not this consideration apply to the whole question as to the limit in tempo d'imbroglio effects? May we not suspect that the limit is dependent, not upon some unknown factor, but upon the rhythmical sense of the hearer ; nay, more, that for the fully-trained musician, this supposititious, indefinite limit really has no existence at all?

Will this not explain, too, why Prout (Grove, Art. Accent) should quote Ex. 36 as an instance 'of this device in the works of later composers' (i.e., 'the displacing of the stresses in such a way as to convey to the mind an impression of an alteration of the time')‡ and Exs. 37 and 38 as

* The phrasing-accents are given as Callcott apparently understood them, but the change to triplets in the third bar would seem to point rather to the nuance of 'cross motive-accents,' dealt with on p. 371, and giving the phrasing-scheme :

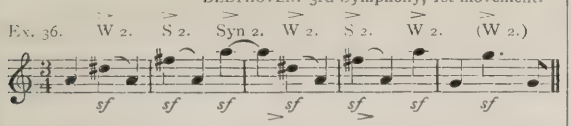
† Here, again, the parallelisms in the melody between bars 1 and 3, 2 and 4, would seem to point to the phrasing-scheme.

‡ In the old edition of 'Grove,' Prout was still more explicit, for he added, in connection with this instance, that 'the accent occurring on every second instead of on every third beat produces in the mind the full effect of common time.'

further instances of 'the modern employment of this artifice':

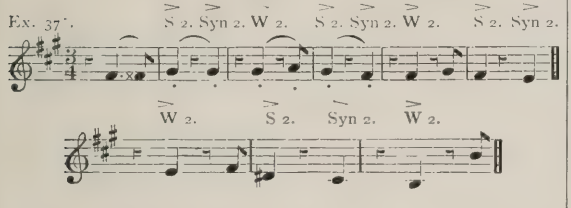
BEETHOVEN. 3rd Symphony, 1st movement.

Ex. 36.



SCHUMANN. Pianoforte Concerto, Op. 54.

Ex. 37*.



BRAHMS. 'Schicksalslied.'†

Ex. 38.

while the following passage (Ex. 39) is quoted in Stainer and Barrett's 'Dictionary' (Art. Accent), along with Ex. 35 (q.v.) as an instance in the opposite sense?

BEETHOVEN. Third Symphony, 1st movement.

Ex. 39. ‡

This will explain, too, why Franklin Taylor should consider Ex. 25a, with the scheme $\overset{>}{\text{Syn}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, as an example of duple time, and Stainer and Barrett, Ex. 25*b*, with the same scheme, as an instance, quoted along with Exs. 35 and 39, on the other side.

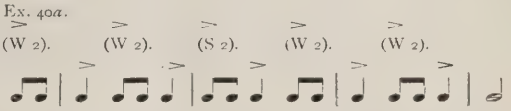
Similarly, although Prout says of Ex. 28 that the feeling of triple time is maintained 'in spite of the cross-accents,' he says immediately afterwards ('Musical Form,' § 289) of Ex. 40: 'Sometimes, however, by means of dynamic indications, the composer intentionally destroys for a while the feeling of the original time. It is impossible to play the following passage as Weber has marked it without losing the feeling of triple time, and substituting that of duple':

WEBER. Sonata in C, Op. 24.

Ex. 40.

Now the cross-motives suggesting the tempo d'imbroglio are in both cases the same, two half-beat notes preceding one whole-beat note; in one case, , in the other , and the only difference between them is that in Ex. 28 the phrasing-accents give us the scheme, $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, while Ex. 40 is another instance of 'cross motive-accents' with the scheme:

Ex. 40*a*.



Prout undoubtedly felt the passage as being in duple time, but who shall say that Weber really so intended it? Can the further subtlety of 'cross motive-accents' really necessarily mean the effect of a change into duple time, or should we not rather assume that the rhythmical sense of a great composer may still outstrip that of the most conscientious theorist?

But, owing possibly to the lack of precise ideas on the subject, obviously conflicting statements are to be found in the same writer, for although Prout in his 'Musical Form' cites Ex. 34, with the phrasing scheme $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, as an instance where the triple time is still felt, in his article on 'Accents' he quotes Ex. 36, with the phrasing-schemes $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{Syn.}}$ 2; $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, as an instance to the other effect.

The tabular surve yon page 446, of the examples quoted with varying interpretations, will serve to show up more clearly the conflict of ideas.

If, however, our conclusions are allowed to stand, a new light will be thrown upon the whole question of syncopation and emphasis, and all these obscurities and contradictions will vanish. The inability of the individual to follow the syncopation or the imbroglio any further will no longer be taken to mean that it does not still exist for a more completely developed rhythmical sense. Indeed, if as Pauer says in the passage already quoted, 'where the syncopè occurs, as it usually does in a passage where there are various voices, it can be continued at pleasure without becoming unintelligible, because the other voices always meet it with the counterpoise of the natural order of accent,' one would assume a priori that the absence of such counterpoise, whether in other voices or the accompaniment, was rather a further rhythmic subtlety of the composer than indolence or carelessness on his part to change the time-signature.

---

* See note to Ex 8 (p. 370).

† Ex. 38. When a musical beginner, I attended rehearsals of this work. I was never able to feel the passage quoted other than as in duple time, with the result that I could never come in correctly on the 'Jahr,'—not even in performance.

‡ Exs. 36 and 39 have the same phrasing scheme $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{Syn.}}$ 2, whereas Exs. 37 and 38 have the phrasing scheme $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{Syn}}$, 2, $\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2. The difference, however, can hardly be considered essential as regards the interpretation of their phrasing effects, and the salient feature of the similar employment of rests seems to make their inclusion along with Ex. 36 especially appropriate. As the first bar in Ex. 37 does not belong to the musical sentence it is not included in the phrasing scheme. Otherwise this would actually be the same as that of Exs. 36 and 39 ($\overset{>}{\text{W}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{S}}$ 2, $\overset{>}{\text{Syn.}}$ 2).

It would seem, then, that to assume such a change in the cases under consideration still needs its justification, and that it would be wiser for us first to try if our own rhythmical sense may not be at fault. It would be strange if it should transpire that, rhythmically, Schumann is not yet understood! But especially as regards tuition, where the rhythmical sense of the pupil is still uncertain, the doctrine of a change of time-signature seems particularly unwise. Let us rather remember that, as Pauer says, syncopation (and, of course, emphasis and tempo d'imbroglio) can be continued indefinitely with the proper counterpoise. In all passages, then, where such a counterpoise is wanting, the proper course for the learner is to supply one for himself, by means of a temporary accompaniment on the pianoforte, until the special effect can be properly realised without such aid.

It may still be asked, however, how it can be psychologically possible for cross-motives and motive-accents suggesting a change of time-signature to be really felt as still in the original time, and here we touch upon the question as to the actual employment of natural accents in execution. It would take us too far to deal exhaustively with the matter now, and it will suffice to state that not only in all cases of tempo d'imbroglio, but apparently in all cases of syncopation and emphasis (i.e., wherever phrasing-accents of any description are employed), the natural accents are not actually expressed in performance, but only subjectively felt; and it is just this collision (or occasional synchronism) of expressed phrasing-accents with silent natural accents which constitutes the whole branch of effects, and makes at times such severe demands on the rhythmical sense of the hearer.

It will now be well to sum up the innovations as to nomenclature, introduced in the foregoing pages.

All accents of emphasis ('rhetorical' or 'oratorical' accents) have been termed phrasing-accents. Sequences of melodic motives that are 'cross' with the natural rhythm of the bars have been styled cross-motives. When these cross-motives have initial phrasing-accents, these accents have been termed motive-accents, and when they have phrasing-accents that are 'cross' with the cross-motives, and so generally synchronous with the natural accents, the term cross motive-accents has been employed.

In conclusion, I have to acknowledge my indebtedness to the valuable collections of examples contained in the writings of Prout, Stainer and Barrett, Franklin Taylor, and Callcott, already mentioned, and largely drawn upon in these articles.

No.	Model.	Example. No.	Nature of Sequence.*	Interpretation of Effect.	Writer.
1.	S 2, W 2, W 2.	31	... ...	Change of Time-signature	Callcott.
2.	W 2, W 2, S 2.	28	Sequence of Model-units	No change of Time-signature	Prout.
		29	,, ,, ,,	,, ,, ,, ...	,,
		40	,, ,, ,,	Change of Time-signature	,,
3.	W 2, S 2, W 2.	30	,, ,, ,,	,, ,, ,,	Callcott.
		32*a*	,, ,, ,,	,, ,, ,,	,,
		32*b*	... ...	,, ,, ,,	,,
		36	... ...	,, ,, ,,	Prout.
		34	Sequence of Model-units	No change of Time-signature	,,
		35	,, ,, ,,	,, ,, ,, ,,	Stainer and Barrett.
23.	Syn. 2, W 2, S 2.	25*a*	... ...	Change of Time-signature	Franklin Taylor.
		25*b*	... ...	No change of Time-signature	Stainer and Barrett.
24.	W 2, S 2, Syn. 2.	36	... ...	Change of Time-signature	Prout.
		39	... ...	No change of Time-signature	Stainer and Barrett.
25.	S 2, Syn. 2, W 2.	27	... ...	Change of Time-signature	Prout.
		37	... ...	,, ,, ,,	,,
		38	... ...	,, ,, ,,	,,

* That this conflict does not depend on the varying nature of the imbroglio-sequences is shown by the fact that Exs 28 29, (no change) and 40 (change) are all composed of model-unit sequences, and so are Exs. 30, 32*a* (change), and 34, 35 (no change).

Occasional Notes.

The report of the fourth Congress of the International Musical Society (which was held with so much success in London from May 29 to June 3, 1911) will be issued during the month by Messrs. Novello & Co. It has been prepared under the very capable editorship of Dr. Charles Maclean, the Honorary Secretary of the Society. It is worthy of note that the publication of this substantial volume of 432 pages is made entirely at the expense of the Congress funds under a Resolution of the Executive Committee, the corporate resources of the Society not being in any degree drawn upon. The volume contains an account of the various proceedings of the Congress, the programmes of all the concerts and other musical performances, an English abstract of all Congress papers, and a very large number of papers practically in full, in the various languages —English, French, German and Italian—in which they were read. Many other particulars regarding the Society are given. We shall have occasion to further notice the volume after it is issued.

JOHN HULLAH.

(June 27, 1812—February 21, 1884.)

The centenary of the birth of John Hullah deserves more than passing mention. At a pregnant period of the educational evolution of this country—the 'forties—he was a potent force in directing the stream of effort musicwards. He was an accomplished musician, and as a composer he even now in some circles survives in his songs, 'The three fishers,' 'The Storm,' and perhaps one or two others. But it was chiefly in regard to the 'fixed do' method of sight-singing which bore his name that he became so widely famous. This method has now almost died out as a means of popular musical instruction. But the fervent spirit of optimism, the belief in the musical capacity of the people that animated and inspired Hullah's life-work, his keen perception of the great social advantages to be derived from the spread of music, his indomitable courage in fighting obstacles, are a heritage we have continued to enjoy to this day. John Hullah had an attractive personality; he was a man of general culture, and he was more or less intimate with most of the men of light and leading of his time. One association is, perhaps, unforgettable—that of Charles Dickens, who wrote the libretto of the operetta, 'The village coquettes,' the music to which was composed by Hullah, and first performed on December 6, 1836.

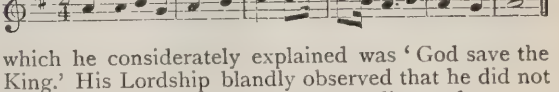
An action for libel brought by Dr. Yorke Trotter against Mr. J. S. Curwen occupied one of the courts in the King's Bench Division on June 19 and 20, and caused mild excitement in some educational circles. In 1909 Dr. Trotter issued a pianoforte method entitled 'Rhythmic Gradus.' This was announced as being the joint work of Dr. Trotter, Miss Margaret Glyn, and Miss Katherine Bird. Long before this Mrs. Curwen had published a method called 'The Child Pianist,' which has had great and deserved vogue. Prior to her association with Dr. Trotter, Miss Bird had for some years been teaching more or less on Mrs. Curwen's methods, and was thus familiar with the exercises and books. When the 'Rhythmic Gradus' was planned she was entrusted with the writing of the elementary sections. After the publication there followed demonstrations of the results attained, and the success achieved was claimed as the fruits of Dr. Trotter's whole method. Whereupon Mr. Curwen wrote letters to various influential persons in which it was stated that Dr. Trotter's method—not merely a portion of it—was 'taken en bloc' from Mrs. Curwen's method, that the 'Gradus' was 'a barefaced and impudent paraphrase' of Mrs. Curwen's plans and books. Hinc illæ lachrymæ.

Mr. Curwen's letters and the justification of the libel brought in evidence at the trial, point to a breach of copyright. Having, then, an ordinary legal remedy for his alleged grievances, it is difficult to understand why he preferred the more dangerous course. This was a weakness in his case. At the trial Dr. Trotter declared that he had no intimate knowledge of Mrs. Curwen's method, that he considered his own work entirely original, and that he was unaware that Miss Bird had reproduced any ideas that were special to Mrs. Curwen. Miss Bird was examined and cross-examined at some length, and while she maintained that she had not deliberately copied Mrs. Curwen's exercises and verbal phraseology, she admitted that she had inadvertently reproduced some from memory. Miss Margaret Glyn was next called, and she was able to plead that her share of the 'Gradus' was entirely uninfluenced by Mrs. Curwen's books.

Dr. McNaught was then called. He stated that after examining all the books concerned, he found that both methods drew largely upon the tonic sol-fa system, a fact that led to a general similarity of appearance; that by some process of unconscious cerebration a portion of Mrs. Curwen's original work had been reproduced; and that, viewed as a whole, Dr. Trotter's method showed considerable originality. Further, Dr. Trotter had exhibited results that he (Dr. McNaught) had never witnessed elsewhere. He thought the strength of Dr. Trotter's case was that it was impossible to suppose that any sensible man would have been a consenting party to the reproduction of Mrs. Curwen's special works.

At this stage Mr. Justice Darling, who heard the case, suggested that counsel on both sides should consider the possibility of an arrangement. After a consultation, Mr. Duke, K.C., who appeared for the plaintiff, stated to the Court that, acting on the advice of his Lordship and in view of the evidence of Dr. McNaught, his client was willing to take the earliest opportunity of meeting Mrs. Curwen's complaint. Mr. Holman Gregory, K.C., counsel for the defendant, then agreed to withdraw the personal aspersions that had been used. The record was then withdrawn.

The inevitable tedium of the trial was relieved by the badinage of Judge and counsel struggling to understand musical ideas and idioms. Unfortunately not much of the repartee that passed will bear printed reproduction, because the circumstances that induced it are necessary for its appreciation. One of the neatest things said was uttered by Mr. Duke in explaining to Mr. Justice Darling the idea of a 'chant.' He said it was 'a musical form that combined as little musical variety as is consistent with an absence of monotony.' It is a pity that Mr. Gregory did not display any hereditary ability in this instance! During a period when matters were moving drearily, his Lordship, who was pensively turning over the pages of one of the tomes before him, observed, with his characteristic twinkle of the eyes, that he had just lighted on the words rallentando and ritard, which he thought accurately described the existing situation. An effort on the part of Dr. McNaught to illustrate the importance of the rhythmic factor in music led him to sing the following melody:



which he considerately explained was 'God save the King.' His Lordship blandly observed that he did not recognise it. After that the Court adjourned.

We are informed that the discovery has been made by Dr. Wolffheim of an old organ-book, written about 1715 by J. Bernhard Bach, containing fifty-two pieces, and among them eleven by Bach, of which three are hitherto unknown! These will at once be published. The Bach-Jahrbuch for 1911, which has only just been published, is of exceptional interest. It contains a full account of the cantata 'Mein Herze schwimmt in Blut,' recently discovered at Copenhagen. It also gives a summary of a memorandum-book that belonged to the sexton of St. Thomas's at Leipsic, supplying interesting information on Bach's Passions and the later performances at Leipsic. While on the subject of Bach we have to mention that the Bach Festival has taken place this year at Breslau, too late for description in this issue, and that the next will take place at Vienna in 1914.

Many a jaded musician will doubtless support our view that no summer holiday can be considered ideal unless it afford a complete escape from 'the jarring concord of sounds.' Yet many there are who seek for a musical holiday. Hitherto they have turned their eyes to Bayreuth or, more lately, Munich; or more modest purses have opened to suggestions of Bournemouth. England now offers two further temptations for the foregathering of music-lovers. Those whom the folk-music of their native land attracts can attend the School of Folk-Song and Dance at Stratford-on-Avon, to be held in connection with the Shakespeare summer celebrations from August 3 to August 31. If they wish to be informed of the lectures on the theory, history, and lore of English song and dance, and of the classes in singing-games, Morris, country-, and sword-dances that have been arranged, they should write to Miss Rainbow, Box Office, Stratford-on-Avon. If they fall to this temptation they will return, judging from the experience of their predecessors of last summer, with new sympathies awakened and many of their muscles developed.

The other temptation is to those who favour æsthetical, critical, and historical discussion, and is offered by the Home Music Study Union. This up-to-date organization, which owes much to the energy of Mr. Percy Scholes, offers a musicians' holiday at Bideford, North Devon, from August 10 to August 24. It has taken complete possession for the fortnight of Edgehill College, 'a fine modern building at a breezy elevation, with lovely grounds, tennis courts, &c.,' and invites musicians to come and stay there for 35*s.* per week. They will have the advantage of congenial company, fine scenery, and the opportunity of hearing lectures on the most widely diverse topics delivered by Mrs. Kennedy Fraser, Mr. G. C. Ashton Jonson, Mr. Albert Visetti, M. M.-D. Calvocoressi (the esteemed contributor to our columns), Mr. Stewart Macpherson, and Mr. Scholes. A point is made of the atmosphere of camaraderie that is aimed at. A similar project has been carried out before with excellent results, and we cordially wish the promoters a still greater success in their present venture. Those who fall to this temptation should write to the General Secretary of the Home Music Study Union, Mr. J. E. Lawrence, 52, Francis Street, Leeds, as soon as possible.

We regret to hear that the season's work of the Brighton Sacred Harmonic Society has resulted in a heavy loss. The cause of the diminished attendances is the rivalry of the Municipal Concerts, which are supported out of the rates and can therefore be given at cheap prices. No blame, however, attaches to the Municipal authorities on account of their zeal on behalf of music.

A sale of valuable musical instruments took place at Puttick & Simpson's on June 14. A Gagliano violoncello went for £360, a 'Strad' violin for £400, and a silver-mounted violoncello bow, by Francois Tourte, for £175. Altogether the bow and twelve stringed instruments were sold for £3,896. Think of the concerts of British music that could be financed by this sum!

In our report last month of the visit of the Leeds Choir to Paris, it should have been stated that the work of preparing the chorus had been carried out by Mr. H. A. Fricker, who also officiated as organist at the performances.

WILLIAM VINCENT WALLACE.

A Centenary Notice.

By W. H. Grattan Flood.

Although the centenary of the birth of William Vincent Wallace has not received due attention, it is appropriate to furnish some new facts concerning the biography of the composer of 'Maritana,' and to arouse fresh interest in the personality of a really remarkable Irish composer.

Most of the memoirs of Wallace give wrong dates for his birth, but while some give June 1, 1814, others give March, 1815, and July 1, 1813. The true date is March 11, 1812, and this is given in the present writer's 'History of Irish Music' (1905). To settle the matter, here is the extract from the Waterford Register:—'William, the son of William and Elizabeth Wallace, was born March 11th, 1812. Registered, March 15th, 1812, by me, Richard J. Hobson, Curate.'

Thus, on March 11, 1812, William Wallace first saw the light in the city of Waterford, in a house at the corner of Lady Lane and Colbeck Street, memorable also as being the self-same house in which Charles Kean, the great actor, had been born a year previously. His father was an Irishman, a native of Ballina, co. Mayo—not a Scotchman, as generally stated—and his mother was a Waterford lady of varied accomplishments. In June of the same year, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace returned to Ballina (where a second son, Wellington, was born), and remained in that village for twelve years. His father, being a good musician, taught the future composer all that he knew of instrumental music. From the Army records I find that Wallace père joined the 29th Regiment in 1822, was promoted sergeant on August 27, 1823, and in 1825 proceeded with it to Waterford, remaining there from October, 1825, to April, 1826, when he purchased his discharge for £20 (April 14, 1826).

Young Wallace found an excellent patron in Sir John Buchan, Colonel of the 29th Regiment, and his clarinet playing was much admired. As the regiment was ordered to the Mauritius, Mrs. Wallace would not consent to go, and hence she provided the purchase-money for the discharge of her husband, who was bandmaster as well as sergeant. While in Waterford Master Wallace received lessons from Otho Hamilton and John Ringwood (organist of the Cathedral), as well as from his father. The Wallace family in the winter of 1826 removed to Dublin, and the father was at once given the post of bassoon-player in the Adelphi Theatre orchestra. Not long afterwards the two sons were engaged at the Theatre Royal: William as second violin and Wellington as second flute, the then conductor being James Barton.

In 1827 Wallace was regarded not only as a skilful performer on the violin and clarinet, but also as a good organist, and he took lessons on the pianoforte from W. S. Conran and Logier, and organ lessons from Haydn Corri, then organist of the pro-Cathedral, Marlborough Street, Dublin, also studying orchestration with Phelps MacDonald.

At Christmas, 1829, the post of organist of Thurles Roman Catholic Cathedral was vacant, and Wallace was asked to make an application for it, doubtless on the recommendation of Haydn Corri. J. W. Glover was about to apply for the position, but learning that Wallace was already in the field he did not care to appear as a rival, as he himself told me in 1877. Consequently in January, 1830, Wallace took up his residence in Thurles, and was also appointed professor of music at the Ursuline Convent of that town, he being then in his eighteenth year.

While in Thurles—from January, 1830 to August, 1831—Wallace was the spoiled child of the community. In particular, the Ursuline Nuns were very kind to him, and by way of return he composed a Mass and some Motets for them. He also composed an 'O Salutaris,' which he subsequently utilised for the melody of 'Hear me, gentle Maritana.' Among the boarders was a charming Dublin girl, Miss Isabella Kelly, of Frascati, Blackrock, and as she was one of his first pupils he fell in love with her. At the time, Miss Kelly's eldest sister was a nun in the same convent, and she exerted her influence to prevent any entanglement, all the more as Wallace was a Protestant. In the autumn of 1830 the young composer became a Catholic, and took the additional name Vincent in compliment to Sister Vincent, the sister of Miss Isabella Kelly, thus assuming the name of William Vincent Wallace, which he ever afterwards bore.

The fame of Paganini, and the furore created by his engagement at the Dublin Musical Festival of 1831, so preyed on the mind of Wallace that he accepted the offer of sub-leader of the Dublin Theatre Royal orchestra, and left Thurles. His marriage with Miss Kelly was duly solemnised, and the young couple settled down at No. 11, South William Street, Dublin.

In September, 1831, the Paganini concerts, and the intercourse with Ries, Sir George Smart, Mori, and others, gave a stimulus to Wallace for further musical study, and he sat up many nights practising the violin and essaying various forms of composition. His violin-playing had already elicited the highest praise from Signor Spagnoletti (in 1829), and he became leader for George Stansbury (conductor of the Theatre Royal orchesta) in November, 1833. One of his first appearances as a serious composer was in May, 1834, when he played a Violin concerto of his own.

Wallace wearied of the Dublin musical life in 1835, and in August of that year, accompanied by his wife and her sister, he set sail for Sydney, New South Wales. It is said that on the long voyage out to Australia he paid more attention to his wife's sister than to his lawful spouse, and on landing at Sydney he parted from his wife, whom he never saw again. He then retired, 'far from the madding crowd,' into the bush, and took to sheep-raising; but in the autumn of 1836, having visited Sydney, he was induced to play the violin at a private house, with the result that Sir John Burke, the Irish Governor of the Colony, prevailed on him to give a public concert. The Governor, to express his appreciation, paid an admission fee of one hundred sheep.

Wallace's adventures from 1836 to 1840 read like romance, and the interested reader will find an account of them in the pages of Berlioz and in Pougin's 'Life' (1866). In the years 1840-41 he was a member of the New York Philharmonic Society, and for the season of 1841-42 he was conductor of the Italian Opera in Mexico, also producing a Grand Mass there.

Returning to London in the spring of the year 1845, he made his début at the Hanover Square Rooms on May 3. Then followed his opera of 'Maritana' at Drury Lane (November 15, 1845), and on February 6, 1846, he had a benefit at Covent Garden—being the fiftieth night of 'Maritana.'

His 'Matilda of Hungary' was given at Drury Lane on February 22, 1847, and he then went to Vienna, where he wrote a Violin concerto, subsequently receiving a diamond ring from the King of Belgium. He returned to London late in January, 1848, and he played at Blewitt's benefit concert on May 19 of that year.

The spirit of adventure again seized on Wallace, and he went to South America in 1849, subsequently going to New York. He gave a successful concert at Newport in July, 1850, and became infatuated with the pianist, Helène Stoepel, whom he married three months later. Returning to London in 1853, he settled down as a fashionable teacher of the pianoforte, for which instrument he composed an enormous quantity of music. In the same year his portrait in water-colour was painted by J. Hanshew, almost full length, seated in a garden-chair, holding a book in his right hand and a pear in his left. This portrait—rather a flamboyant production—was purchased for the National Gallery of Ireland in 1903.

No need to dwell on the successes of his operas of 'Lurline' (February 23, 1860)—the performing rights of which he assigned to Pyne & Harrison for ten shillings!—and his 'Amber Witch' (February 28, 1861). His 'Love's Triumph'—of which the full score in his own autograph is now in the British Museum—was given at Covent Garden on November 3, 1862, but failed for lack of adequate representation. This was followed by 'The Desert Flower,' produced by the Pyne & Harrison Company, on October 12, 1863, but though the music was melodious the opera did not attract public notice.

Early in 1864 Wallace wrote the greater part of an opera entitled 'Estrella,' but towards the end of the year his health broke down, and in the spring of 1865 he set out for Paris, with a view of staying for a time in the Pyrenees. He took a cottage at Passy, in the suburbs of Paris, and enjoyed the company of Rossini almost daily. On the advice of his physician, Dr. Bouillot, he removed to a château in the Département of Hautes-Pyrénées. All his biographers, following the French journals, give the name of the château as 'Château de Bagen,' where, lovingly attended by his wife, he died on October 12, 1865; but my friend, Monsieur Brenet, tells me that there is no such château to be found. 'There is, however,' writes M. Brenet, 'a Château de Haget, in the Commune of Vieuzos, Canton d'Aries, Département of Hautes-Pyrénées,' and probably this is the one in question, 'Bagen' being an error for 'Haget.'

Although Wallace died in France, his remains were brought to England, and he was interred in Kensal Green Cemetery on October 23, 1865. His widow survived till July 25, 1900, and his son Vincent died a poor brother of the Charterhouse, on December 31, 1909.

It is here sufficient to add that Wallace's 'Maritana' and 'Lurline' will live by reason of sheer melody, although Dr. Walker would have us believe that both of these operas 'advance a good many steps on the road to sheer vulgarity, though of a good-natured and unpretending order.' However this may be, 'Maritana' is still a trump card with provincial opera companies, and shows no diminution of popularity after close on seventy years.

ON LISTENING TO MUSIC.

Between the creative musician and that portion of the public on whose appreciation he depends for support there has always been a certain amount of conflict. The composer's point of view is that he can only give out his best work by following the dictates of his own feelings, that of the public that it wants what it likes and is not prepared to pay for anything else. And at present the two are not co-related; for in that the composer's business is simply to compose, whereas the public has a hundred other parts to play besides that of listener to his music, it follows that his musical culture develops at a much greater pace, and music which to him yields its beauty perfectly readily is often unintelligible to his audience.

It would seem that it is impossible entirely to remedy this, but on the other hand the difference might very well be less than it is.

If we admit that the composer is a musical expert, and consequently better able to decide what is desirable in music than the public, and agree once and for all that it is undesirable for him to compose simply to tickle the public palate, then it follows that the only way to better the conditions of music is to better public taste.

Mr. Stewart Macpherson's 'Music and its Appreciation' is an attempt to do this. In a book of some 150 pages he covers a great deal of musical ground, and presents a digest of the elementary work that a musician must know, and which he thinks it essential that an audience should know before it is capable of listening in the best sense of the word.

But I venture to think that in this the writer is mistaken, and for this reason: he is attempting to lead the layman to the gates of music along the same path that the professional must traverse, supplying him with a rough technique only modified so that he may acquire it more easily; whereas I believe that the approach may be made in quite another way by those only concerned in deriving pleasure in musical beauty. The composer is bound to equip himself technically, just as the architect must know his building-construction. But does it help you or me to a greater appreciation of, say, the Parthenon to know that the outermost columns in the front are not vertical but inclined slightly inwards? I do not think so, nor do I think it benefits the 'promenade' enthusiast to be able to chatter glibly about 'second subjects,' 'recapitulations,' 'developments,' 'codas,' and so forth.

The beauty of the Parthenon is there on the face of it, and if the inclination of the columns is necessary, it will have an effect without your knowing of it, and it is more than likely that if you do know of it, you will worry over trying to notice it, instead of receiving the æsthetic impression it produces. So, too, the beauty of a symphony is purely in the sound, and the constructive facts necessary for the composition of beautiful sound go out, or ought to go out, when it is complete, just as the architect's scaffold disappears when his building is done. For what is the point of laying out a symphony on certain lines? Simply to produce a feeling of balance, and it does not say much for this sense in us if we have to have it explained before we can realise it. Most people would agree that the first two movements of the 'Peer Gynt' Suite played by themselves sound incomplete, without knowing that the four together produce a whole very roughly in symphonic form.

Mr. Macpherson maintains that the knowledge of technique brings with it additional pleasures, and while I do not deny this I maintain that those pleasures have nothing to do with music. Scaffolding and derricks may be, and often undoubtedly are, very fine, but they have nothing to do with the beauty of the building.

A friend who is an enthusiast for music, but not a musician, once said that the amateur who thinks he 'knows something about music thinks he knows everything,' and this is very often so. The most bigoted person is the one on the borderland, not a trained musician, and not a listener content to know nothing and hear everything. On the other hand, very illuminating and helpful criticism frequently comes from people who are subject to musical impressions, but quite unable to approach the art from the technical point of view. I heard a lady say once that she often saw cathedrals when she heard Beethoven, that Debussy suggested moonlight and vague shadows, and I say this is better criticism and truer to the intentions of the composer than pointing out that the A♭ Sonata with variations is not a sonata at all, or discoursing on the harmonic licences of the 'Images.'

I would go further and say that it is the only kind of criticism that counts (except, of course, technical analysis addressed to the technician), and that it is by adopting a frankly imaginative attitude that the true beauty of music can be realised, and the reconciliation between composer and audience effected.

Nor do I believe in 'educating' the listener by leading him through the easy to the difficult, but would sooner see him plunged straight away into great musical depths, where the reason must drown and only the fancy float. A painter I know, who has no knowledge of music, is by no means responsive to the simpler kind, but on one occasion was profoundly impressed by Ravel's 'Spanish Rhapsody,' a work of very modern type, and harmonically most perplexing to those who try to 'understand,' which tends to show that the uninitiated are capable of going to the heart of the matter if only they set about it in the right way. In this connection much harm is done by the so-called criticism in the Press. The average critic seems to consider himself a kind of mediator between the composer and his audience. He is there to explain what is not understood, it appears, but he does not realise that the audience cares not two straws for his explanation. Where the critic could be of great service, if he would, is by putting himself wholly on the side of the audience, and giving a purely personal account of his impressions. Once he took this point of view perhaps the public would too, and would play its real and invaluable part as listener.

H. P. S.

LONDON OPERA HOUSE.

By Hermann Klein.

PRODUCTION OF 'THE CHILDREN OF DON.'

A Cymric Music-Drama in Three Acts and a Prologue. By 'T. E. Ellis.' Music by Josef Holbrooke.

Gods.

Nodens	Mr. Enzo Bozano.
Lyd	Mr. Humphrey Bishop.
Don	Miss Gertrude Blomfield.

Mortals.

Math	Mr. Henry Weldon.
Gwydion	Mr. Alan Turner.
Govannion	Mr. Andrew Shanks.
Elan	Madame Augusta Doria.
Dylan	Miss Jacobs.
The Sacrifice	Miss Von Nichols.
Gwion	Mr. Frederick Blamey.
Goewin	Madame Jeanne Jomelli.
Arawn	Mr. Frank Pollock.
1st Priest	Mr. De Moraes.
2nd Priest	Mr. Arthur Philips.
Demon	Mr. Henri Altschuler.

Stage Director, M. Jacques Coini.

Conductor, Herr Arthur Nikisch.

It would have been a joy to welcome as a complete success the ambitious work which saw the light for the first time at the London Opera House on Saturday, June 15. The influence of such a success upon the future of English Opera would have been incalculable; it must have been beneficial in the highest degree. As it is, the question is rather what harm may have been wrought by failure—failure so unqualified that a lukewarm first-night verdict was instantly followed by critical condemnation of the most emphatic kind. A result such as this may have set back the growth of native art in connection with the lyric stage just at its most favourable moment for development; but I fervently hope it has not.

It were vain to dwell upon regrets. But when a salutary lesson can be derived from misfortune, it is worth while to stay and reflect a moment upon causes How often has it happened that an effort lofty in aspiration and ideal, colossal in plan and structure, picturesque in conception and external qualities, has proved, when submitted to the practical test of the opera-house, to be disappointing and futile! 'The Children of Don' appears to be a case in point. Here was a subject of Welsh (that is to say, British, not foreign) origin that could lay claim in some essentials to epic grandeur. The suitability of these ancient Sagas for operatic treatment may be open to doubt; but at least the librettist—whom we all now know to be Lord Howard de Walden—had unearthed an elemental tragedy of the 'Nibelungen' order, the sort of stuff that operatic trilogies are generally supposed to be made of, and handed it to an English musician whom good judges have for some time regarded as the likeliest of our 'coming men' to write a first-class, up-to-date opera. Given the necessary opportunities for completion, for casting, rehearsing, and mounting, for ultimate production under an eminent conductor, what could have been more encouraging, more gratifying? Lord Howard de Walden's wealth secured nearly all these privileges; Mr. Oscar Hammerstein's resources and the available services of Mr. Arthur Nikisch did the rest.

The outcome of this laborious undertaking revealed from first to last a regrettable series of mistakes and miscalculations. The plot of 'The Children of Don,' a brief résumé of which appeared in the Musical Times for May, proved in action to be neither dramatic nor comprehensible. Feeble characterization and faulty construction only intensified the difficulty created by a text which, however sonorous and high-flown its verse, was singularly unfitted for vocal purposes and overburdened with language no less uninspiring to the composer than trying to the singer. Unfortunately, too, these problems of pronunciation were presented to a group of artists who, with two or three exceptions, seemed quite unable to grapple with the enormities of their task. Few of their words travelled across the footlights, and, the auditorium being darkened throughout, the audience found it practically impossible to understand what was being said or to follow what was being done. A finer disregard for one of the most urgent necessities in the crusade on behalf of native opera could hardly have been exemplified. So long as we cannot understand opera sung in English we shall prefer to hear it better interpreted through the medium of a foreign tongue.

Mr. Josef Holbrooke's score is a marvel of ingenuity, a monument of capability and promise. Surely the desert that can provide such oases must one day furnish something entirely beautiful. But first we must get out of the tropical region where Welsh Gods, erring, bloodthirsty mortals and stage wolves become mixed in inextricable confusion. Besides, when he has a fine human story to deal with, this clever composer will be more merciful to ordinary human throats; he will not regard it as his art-mission to fabricate interval after interval that makes neither for good declamation nor significance and beauty of effect. The orchestra may be Mr. Holbrooke's first consideration, the stage may come next, and the singers merely a 'bad third'; but it is not from this order of things that the masterpieces of modern music-drama have been or can be evolved. Even the rare moments in 'The Children of Don' when sheer harmonic beauty and melodic charm show what the composer can do if it please him, tend to disprove such an assumption.

The question of originality, of how much or how little the Wagnerian method has been employed, is in this case of secondary importance. Josef Holbrooke is obviously a consummate master of his craft and has something of his own to say. But if he would write operas that are to live, he must obey certain laws that no man has disobeyed with impunity from the days of Gluck and Mozart down to this present era of Wagner, Strauss, and Debussy. Moreover, he must cultivate the true sense of the theatre, the art of building up a climax and judging the relative values of dynamic nuances (more crescendos, fewer diminuendos), the faculty for imbuing every musical phrase with direct, appropriate meaning,—above all, the courage for eliminating the insignificant, the superfluous, the needlessly ugly and distorted. When he has accomplished this, Mr. Holbrooke will only want a strong libretto to be able to write a great opera. No one who has perceived the real merit in 'The Children of Don' can possibly feel any doubt as to that.

The performance was creditable, and no more. It quite conveyed the idea that a month's rehearsal had been expended upon a work that required three months' rehearsal on top of three months' hard preparatory study. The singers at least knew their music, and struggled through it with a loyalty and devotion beyond praise. But the English diction was neglected, the stage movements and gestures were mostly meaningless, the balance between voices and orchestra was indifferently preserved. The staging of the new opera was on the whole artistic, but the consistent employment of semi-nocturnal scenes and dim, misty atmospheres proved extremely trying.

Church and Organ Music.

THE ORGAN IN ST. MARY REDCLIFFE, BRISTOL.

From an account of the organs in the magnificent church of St. Mary Redcliffe, most ably compiled by Mr. R. T. Morgan, organist of the church, we read that there is little evidence of any organs which were in use there previous to the 18th century. But local tradition has it that the Puritans most zealously carried out the instructions issued in 1644 that among other improvements 'all organs and the frames and cases wherein they stand in all Churches and Chapels aforesaid shall be taken away and utterly defaced, and none other hereafter set up in their places.' In their enthusiasm for sweeping away 'monuments of idolatry and superstition,' the Puritans smashed all the stained-glass windows of the church, and marched through the streets with the organ pipes, the while blowing them, accompanied by others waving flags cut from surplices. We in our more enlightened age can only wish these poor misguided souls could re-visit the scenes of their ephemeral triumph. But before contemplating the latest and most complete protest to their bigotry, it would be interesting to note the gradual progress by which St. Mary Redcliffe has become so famous to lovers of the organ. It seems that after the 'blessed Reformation' St. Mary's possessed no organ until 1726, when the instrument built for the church by John Harris (son of Renatus) and John Byfield, Senr., was finished and opened on St. Thomas's Day, December 21, 1726. This instrument is remarkable as having been the first to possess an octave-coupler. The compass (according to Dr. Hopkins) was in some respects unusually complete, the Great organ descending to CCC. A 'spring of communication' attached to the Great organ brought into action a virtual sub-octave coupler.

The good people of Bristol were very proud of their organ, and seemed peculiarly happy in pointing out its great superiority over the organ then in St. Paul's Cathedral.

We read in a letter by the builders, Harris & Byfield, giving an account of the organ: 'This organ contains 26 stops, and 1,928 valuable speaking pipes, which are considerably more than either the organ in St. Paul's Cathedral or that in St. Martin's Church in London contain'; and 'St. Paul's has (we think) only the two Diapasons and Trumpet, so low as Redclift organ.' Again, 'Besides the C sharp, and D in alt, are not in any of the stops of St. Paul's organ, altho' it cost three times the price of this.'

But though the organs have changed, their builders have not. They are all building the best instruments. At least they say so, and they ought to know! We may say at once that there is no best builder, and that England can boast of several firms whose work is of the highest class.

After the Harris & Byfield organ had for 141 years been standing on the screen at the West end of the church (its wants being administered by several local builders), the instrument was in 1829 restored by John Smith, and opened by Samuel Wesley (born in Bristol in 1766), assisted by his son, Samuel Sebastian Wesley, then in his twentieth year. It was on this occasion that S. S. Wesley produced his variations on 'God save the King,' which he soon afterwards published under the following title: 'God save the King, | with variations | for the | Organ, | Composed and Inscribed | to | Robert Glenn, Esqre. | by Saml. Sebastian Wesley, | as Performed by him at the Church of St. Mary Redcliff, Bristol, and at the | Oratorios, London.'

After other changes in 1840, the organ was in 1866 taken down from its position in the West end, and placed in two sections at the East end of the church. This work was entrusted to Mr W. G. Vowles, and on its completion the organ was opened on July 30, 1867, by Dr. Stainer, then organist of Magdalen College, Oxford. This excellent specimen of Mr. Vowles's work remained until April, 1911, when the important scheme which has been brought to such a successful issue was evolved. It was decided that the organ should be entirely reconstructed, and after much consideration the whole matter was placed in the hands of Messrs. Harrison & Harrison. The church authorities and the builders are to be congratulated upon a splendid achievement. The tone of the organ is most beautiful, and its complex mechanism can only be called marvellous.

In Mr. Morgan's account we read:

The new organ contains four manuals, CC to C, 61 notes, and two and a-half octaves of concave and radiating pedals, CCC to G, 32 notes. There are 64 speaking-stops and 23 couplers, &c., making a total of 87 draw-stops. The best portions of the pipe-work of the old organ, built by Harris & Byfield in 1726, and rebuilt in 1829, and by Vowles, 1867, have been incorporated.

The organ occupies practically the same position on each side of the Chancel as did the old one, but owing to the restricted space accommodation for some portions of it has had to be found elsewhere. A new stone chamber has therefore been built in the angle formed by the walls of the North transept and the North chancel aisle, and in this are placed the whole of the Swell organ and two independent Pedal reed stops on 15-in. wind. This chamber is the generous gift of a constant worshipper in Redcliffe, who desires to remain anonymous. There are openings both South and West which are filled with louvres operated by the usual balanced swell-pedals. The two Pedal reed stops contained in this stone swell-box are of 32-ft. and 16-ft. pitch, and this feature, providing as it does a true and expressive Pedal bass for the Swell within its own box, undoubtedly places the design of the organ ahead of that of any other instrument in the country. The Great and a further portion of the Pedal stand on the North side of the chancel, and the Choir, Echo and Solo Tuba, and remainder of the Pedal (including the unenclosed ophicleide and posaune) on the South side. As the Swell is some distance from the singers in the chancel, it has been necessary to transfer the quieter accompanimental stops of the Swell to the enclosed Solo or Echo department, which stands in the chancel in proximity to the singers, the keen string-toned stops, orchestral reeds, and more powerful flutes usually found on the enclosed Solo being placed on the Swell. This arrangement in no way interferes with the ordinary full swell effect, which is obtained by piston independently of the orchestral work.

The console is detached, and is situated just West of the chancel arch on the North side of the nave. The drawstop jambs are at an angle of 45 degrees to the keyboards. The stop-handles have solid ivory heads, the speaking stops being lettered in black and the couplers, &c. (indicated by italics in the specification) in red. The latter are grouped with the speaking stops of the departments they augment. The combination pistons have solid ivory heads. The mechanism is electro-pneumatic throughout, with the exception of the manual to Pedal couplers, which are mechanical and pull down the keys. There are about twenty-four miles of electric wiring in the organ. All trebles, harmonic, covered, and cone-tuned pipes are of spotted metal. The Great large open diapason is of special organ-metal of great weight and substance. All cylindrical metal pipes are fitted with tin tuning slides. The total weight of the organ is about thirty-five tons. The blowing apparatus is electric, the heavy-pressure wind being generated by a 7-h.p. motor and feeders, and the light-pressure wind by a 4½-h.p. motor and fan. The apparatus is capable of delivering over 3,000 cubic feet of wind per minute at pressures varying from 2¾ inches to 15 inches. There are eleven separate reservoirs in the organ. The electrical engineering work has been carried out by Mr. G. Sanzen Baker, of Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Taken as a whole the organ is one of the largest, and probably the most complete and efficient, of the parish church instruments of this country, and the novel features in its specification render its scheme of singular interest in the history of organ design.

The specification which follows was drawn up by the builders in consultation with Mr. R. T. Morgan, the organist:

			FEET.
	PEDAL ORGAN (14 stops), 4 Couplers.
1.	Double, Open, Wood (open to FFFF; 5 acoustic; 20 from No. 2)	Wood	32
2.	Open Wood	,,	16
3.	Open Diapason	Metal	16
4.	Sub-Bass (from No. 24)	Wood	16
5.	Geigen (from No. 23)	Metal	16
6.	Dulciana (from No. 15)	,,	16
7.	Violone (from No. 38)	,,	16
8.	Octave, Wood (20 from No. 2)	Wood	8
9.	Flute (from No. 24)	,,	8
10.	Double Trombone (20 from No. 11)	Metal	32
11.	Trombone	,,	16
12.	Ophicleide	,,	16
13.	Clarinet (from No. 62)	,,	16
14.	Posaune (20 from No. 12)	,,	8
	(Nos, 7, 10, and 11 are enclosed in the Swell-box, and No. 13 in the Echo-box).
	I. Choir to Pedal. III. Swell to Pedal.
	II. Great to Pedal. IV. Solo to Pedal.
	CHOIR ORGAN (8 stops), 2 Couplers.
15.	Contra Dulciana	Metal	16
16.	Open Diapason	,,	8
17.	Claribel Flute	Wood	8
18.	Viola da Gamba	Metal	8
19.	Dulciana	,,	8
20.	Salicet	,,	4
21.	Flauto Traverso	,,	4
22.	Gemshorn	,,	2
	V. Swell to Choir. VI. Solo to Choir.
	GREAT ORGAN (15 stops), 4 Couplers.
23.	Gross Geigen	Metal	16
24.	Bourdon	Wood and Metal	16
25.	Large Open Diapason	Metal	8
26.	Small Open Diapason	,,	8
27.	Stopped Diapason	Wood	8
28.	Hohl Flöte	,,	8
29.	Geigen	Metal	8
30.	Octave	,,	4
31.	Wald Flöte (triangular)	Wood	4
32.	Octave Quint	Metal	2⅔
33.	Super Octave	,,	2
34.	Harmonics, 17, 19, 21, 22	,,	—
35.	Contra Tromba	,,	16
36.	Tromba (harmonic trebles)	,,	8
37.	Octave Tromba (harmonic trebles)	,,	4
	VII. Reeds on Choir. IX. Swell to Great.
	VIII. Choir to Great. X. Solo to Great.

SWELL ORGAN (17 stops), Tremulant and 4 Couplers.

			FEET.
38.	Contra Viola	Metal	16
39.	Viole d'Orchestre	,,	8
40.	Viole Céleste (to FF)	,,	8
41.	Viole Octaviante	,,	4
42.	Open Diapason	,,	8
43.	Harmonic Flute	,,	8
44.	Principal	,,	4
45.	Concert Flute	,,	4
46.	Fifteenth	,,	2
47.	Mixture, 12, 19, 22, 26, 29	,,	—
48.	Cor Anglais	,,	16
49.	Orchestral Hautboy	,,	8
50.	Vox Humana	,,	8

XI. Tremulant.

51.	Double Trumpet		,,	16
52	Trumpet	(harmonic trebles)	,,	8
53.	Horn	(harmonic)	,,	8
54.	Clarion	(harmonic trebles)	,,	4

XII. Octave.
XIII. Sub-Octave.
XIV. Unison Off.
XV. Solo to Swell.

ECHO AND SOLO ORGAN (10 stops), Tremulant and 3 Couplers.

55.	Lieblich Bourdon	Wood	16
56.	Lieblich Gedeckt	Metal and Wood	8
57.	Salicional	Metal	8
58.	Vox Angelica (tenor C)	,,	8
59.	Lieblich Flöte	,,	4
60.	Flageolet	,,	2
61.	Dulciana Mixture, 15, 19, 22	,,	—
62.	Double clarinet	,,	16
63.	Oboe	,,	8

XVI. Tremulant.

Nos. 55 to 63 in a swell-box.

64.	Tuba	(harmonic)	Metal

XVII. Octave.
XVIII. Sub-Octave.
XIX. Unison Off.

COMBINATION COUPLERS

XX. Pedal to Choir Pistons.
XXI. Great and Pedal Combinations coupled.
XXII. Pedal to Swell Pistons.
XXIII. Pedal and accompaniment to Echo and Solo Pistons.

ACCESSORIES.

Seven combination pedals to the Pedal organ.
One patent adjustable combination pedal to the Pedal organ.
Four combination pistons to the Choir organ.
Six combination pistons to the Great organ.
Seven combination pistons to the Swell organ.
Five combination pistons to the Echo and Solo organ.
Four patent adjustable combination pistons, one to each manual.
Reversible piston to No. 12.
Reversible foot piston to Great to Pedal.
Reversible piston to Great to Pedal.
Reversible piston to Swell to Great.
Reversible piston to Solo to Great.
Reversible foot piston to Swell Tremulant.
Reversible foot piston to Echo Tremulant.
Three balanced crescendo pedals to Swell and Echo organs.

WIND PRESSURES.

Pedal flue-work, 2½ inches to 4½ inches; reeds, 3½ inches and 15 inches.
Choir, 2½ inches.
Great flue-work, 4½ inches; reeds, 12 inches.
Swell flue-work and orchestral reeds, 6 inches; other reeds, 12 inches.
Echo, 3½ inches; Solo tuba, 15 inches.
Action, 12 inches.

SUMMARY: 64 speaking stops, 23 couplers, &c.; pipes—3,765.

LIST OF ORGANISTS.

St. Mary Redcliffe has had remarkably few organists—the present organist is only the seventh to hold the position during the past 185 years.

The roll of organists is as follows:

Nelme Rogers, 1727-72 (resigned June 29, 1772).
John Allen, 1772-1816.
Cornelius Bryan, 1818-40.
Edwin H. Sircom, 1840-55.
William Haydn Flood, 1855-62.

Joseph William Lawson, 1862-1906. Mr. Lawson retired in 1906, and now lives at Clifton. He was a chorister at St. Mary Redcliffe, and was deputy-organist for three and a-half years before he obtained the appointment in 1862. He has a vivid recollection of the old organ in the West gallery; a curious feature of the manuals was that the keys were coloured in a manner different from what is now customary. Those that are now white were black, and vice versâ. The stop handles also drew out in a most irregular manner, some being of quite unusual length.

Ralph Thompson Morgan, 1906.

Mr. Ralph Thompson Morgan is fortunate in holding the important office of organist of the church, and the scope of his work will be enormously widened by the new means at his disposal. The church, too, is fortunate in having secured the services of a man possessing unusual musical gifts and a winning personality, and the authorities may be quite happy in the knowledge that he will use the fine instrument over which he presides with restraint and a due regard for the high purposes to which it has been consecrated.

Following the evening service on Whit-Sunday in Torquay Belgrave Church, Dr. Orlando A. Mansfield, who is leaving Torquay to occupy the Chair of Music in Wilson College, Pa., U.S.A., gave his fortieth and farewell organ recital. The church was filled with a most attentive and appreciative audience, who listened to a programme consisting of Mendelssohn's second, fourth, and first Organ sonatas, a 'Légende Romantique' by Purcell J. Mansfield, of Park Church, Glasgow, and Neustead's 'Chant d'Adieu,' arranged by the recitalist. Prior to the service, Dr. Mansfield was presented by the choir with an engraved travelling clock in leather case. Dr. and Mrs. Mansfield have also been the recipients of other gifts from friends in the congregation, including a purse of sovereigns, a silver inkstand, a silver-mounted baton, and other tokens of esteem.

Fourteen choirs in the Deanery of West Elloe, numbering nearly 300 voices, took part in a Choral Festival at Spalding Parish Church on June 13. Mr. G. H. Gregory (organist and choirmaster of Boston Parish Church) was the organist, and Mr. J. H. Lilley conducted.

Part I. of 'Elijah' was creditably performed by the choir (augmented) of Portsmouth Parish Church on June 2, under the direction of Mr. R. H. Turner, who presided at the organ. The principal soloists were Miss Florence Jenkins, Miss Marjorie Blessley, Miss Lottie Hore, Mr. W. Guard, and Mr. C. Wassell.

The forty-eighth annual church-choir Festival of the Deanery of Deddington was held in the Parish Church of Adderbury on June 11. There were 287 voices, accompanied by organ, pianoforte, and orchestra. Mr. E. Harold Melling conducted, and Mr. W. C. Luttman was the organist.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. W. Schofield, Camphill United Free Church, Glasgow—Toccata and Fugue, Max Reger.
Mr. Hanforth, Sheffield Parish Church—Sonata Fantasie in A flat, Rheinberger.
Mr. Albert Orton, Walton Parish Church, Liverpool—March in E flat, Salome.
Mr. S. W. Swainson, Bilton Parish Church, Harrogate—Sonatina (first movement), Karg-Elert.
Mr. H. L. Pope, Royal Normal College for the Blind, West Norwood—Chaconne and Fugue Trilogy with Choral, Karg-Elert.
Mr. F. A. Keene, St. Margaret's Church, King's Lynn—Sonata in C sharp minor, Basil Harwood.
Mr. Frank H. Mather, St. Peter's Church, Freehold, N.J.—Prelude and Fugue in C major, J. S. Bach.
Mr. W. H. Collins, St. Giles's Church, Shipbourne—Allegro moderato, W. Faulkes.
Mr. Claude A. Forster, St. John's Episcopal Church, Forres—Fantasia in E minor, Merkel.
Mr. Herbert Hodge, St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, E.C.—Trio in D minor, J. S. Bach.
Mr. W. J. Comley, St. Margaret's Church, King's Lynn—Prelude and Fugue in E minor, T. A. Walmisley.
Dr. T. Keighley, Royal Manchester College of Music—Toccata in D minor, Max Reger.
Mr. F. Gostelow, St. Stephen's, Walbrook—'Clair de Lune,' Karg-Elert.

Mr. C. W. Councell, St. Andrew's Church, Lambeth—Marche Triomphale, Lemmens.
Mr. Henry Riding, Chigwell Church—Gothic March, Salome.
Mr. W. A. Roberts, St. Paul's, Prince's Park, Liverpool—Sonata da Camera in D major, A. L. Peace.
Mr. Frederick J. Parsons, Ventnor Parish Church—Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach.
Mr. C. E. Blyton Dobson, Central Mission, Halifax Place, Nottingham—Toccata in F, Widor.
Mr. Allan Brown, Dartford Wesleyan Church—Fantasia in E minor, Silas.
Mr. T. W. North, Park Lane Wesleyan Church, Tipton—Concert-Overture in C major, No. 1, Hollins.
Mr. Kenneth G. Burns, St. Matthias, Richmond Hill—Chant sans paroles, Lemare.

ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Harry T. J. Cyphus, organist and choirmaster, Kirkley Parish Church, South Lowestoft.
Mr. W. J. Lightman, organist of Twickenham Congregational Church.
Mr. F. J. Parsons, organist and choirmaster, Parish Church, Ventnor.
Mr. William H. Stocks, organist and choirmaster of the Clark Memorial Church, Largs, Ayrshire.

Mr. R. R. Morris, bass lay clerk at Magdalen College, Oxford.

MR. FREDERIC AUSTIN ON HUGO WOLF.

A lecture of interesting and authoritative character upon the songs of Hugo Wolf was given by Mr. Frederic Austin before a meeting of the Musical Association, under Dr. Cummings's chairmanship, at Broadwood's Rooms on June 18. Mr. Austin dealt briefly with Wolf's life, and passed on to a general consideration of his work, of which he spoke in the following terms.

In his work, Wolf affords a complete example of Wagner's ideal composer: a composer who should depend in his work, not upon an expansion of collected formulæ of musical expression, but who should begin (as most modern composers do begin) with a definite emotional impulse which in the passion for veracious expression clothes itself in one particular way and no other. One mark of such music is its comparative objectivity; another, its filtration through all styles as they become necessary. I do not mean to imply by this any lack of originality as a qualification, but to point to an originality that is generally less mannered, more widely dispersed, that shows itself mainly in subtle matters of style or quality of treatment, the great end being the entirely faithful expression of the subject, whatever the nature of that may be. Wolf's custom was to immerse himself in the poem he wished to set, to absorb it until its spirit entirely possessed him—then with almost incredible rapidity it would translate itself into music. That composers of songs do of course—the best of them—absorb the poems they set, before adding music to them, goes without saying. But of none is it recorded that the process was so complete as in Wolf's case, and in none is to be so completely traced in the music. His friends, too, have related how keen was his appreciation of poetry from his quite early years, and how vividly and intensely he would recite it, and with what just appreciation of its atmosphere, its rhythmical and accentual values. These characteristics are all to be found in his songs. A natural corollary is the extent to which Wolf depended upon his poets for inspiration. In the joy of the discovery of a poet to whom he was drawn, work poured from his pen, and he lived in a very heaven of rapture. When it became necessary to seek fresh stimulus, no man was ever more wretched in his enforced inactivity, no man so quick to feel that his possibilities had finished, that his gift had come to an end.

It was Eduard Mörike who first loosened the flood-gates of Wolf's inspiration, and Wolf himself tells us, in the most fervent and grateful words, how that Mörike's poems determined for him the particular direction of his work. A touching sign of his feeling in this was the printing of Mörike's portrait as the frontispiece of the complete Mörike songs when they were published, and the opening of the volume with 'The Convalescent's Ode to Hope'—no chance happening, as we know. In these particular poems Wolf found material of a most grateful kind. They are very tangible in essence, succinct, evoking a quite definite atmosphere, picturesque and fantastic, admirably fitted for musical setting, and Wolf was stimulated by them in no uncommon degree. Here we must note how entirely the psychology of Wolf's music changes with his poets. Quite different in character and idiom are his settings of Goethe from those of Mörike. Quite different, again, the songs of the Italienisches Liederbuch, and, again, the Spanish songs of Heyse and Geibel. The hand of Wolf is unmistakable, but the light that shines through him is in each case different. The range of expression that he has at his command is unequalled in the literature of song. Possessing an abnormally keen sense of psychology, he is able to find the fitting phrase, the very type of expression, for the most widely different characters and emotions. To his penetrative insight too, he adds an unusual power of concentrated expression. It is to me the outstanding mark of his style. He practises the most rigid economy, even when his work is on the largest scale. Highly-organized structure, entire relevancy of detail, directness and sanity of expression are the invariable signs by which we may know him.

Compared with his great predecessors, Schubert and Schumann, and his contemporary Brahms, it is these qualities that most distinguish him. Wolf gains of course in being as he was the complete child of his time; and this not only in music, of the fullest modern resources of which he readily availed himself, but in his typically modern brain—keen, educated, searching, and subtle. He has none of the naïve contentment of means, the unquestioning, often uncritical, flow that marks so much of the music of Schubert. His brain probes and tests as Schubert's never did. He differed from both Schumann and Brahms in his lesser reliance on subjective lyricism, in his greater insistence upon psychological verity, never allowing it to become dimmed for an instant by any generalised flow of musical beauty. He differed again from Brahms in particular in the use of freer, more advanced methods, and in the consequent scope of his expression. His music is as sheerly beautiful as music can be when beauty is demanded, but it is always to the entirely truthful expression of his poem that he devotes himself. This singleness of aim—quite instinctive in him, it seems—this passion for intense relevance, results in a directness and graphicness of expression, a clean severity of style, that I do not find in the songs of any other man. Add to these characteristics the glowing but controlled ardour and intensity of his work, and I think we have provided as good a definition as may be of the truly classical in art; and as belonging to the great lineage of classical composers Wolf will, I think, one day be universally acknowledged.

All types of technique were familiar to Wolf, and we find him employing unerringly every device and type of style, from the simple Volkslied to the most elaborate contrapuntal and symphonic structures. But whatever form he used, there was none that he did not enrich or clarify and concentrate, and in the work of no other man in a similar field do we find such varied examples of flawless and beautiful technical handling, so highly wrought that the least stroke more or less matters intensely. The most notable structural feature of his work is that by which he obtained the free progress of the voice, untrammelled, yet forming an inviolable essential, giving coherence to his supporting tissue by means of the development of some melodic leading phrase or rhythmical figure. Bach, Schubert, and Wagner before him had used this method in varying degrees—Bach in contrapuntal figures, Schubert in simple rhythmical patterns, Wagner in concentrated melodic motives. Wolf gathered together the threads of all these possibilities, and evolved from them a technical instrument of the greatest perfection and adaptability, securing by its use a freedom and closeness of expression, along with a beauty and relevance of fabric, that song had never before known.

Mr. Austin then considered in detail some representative songs of Hugo Wolf, which were admirably sung by Miss Lena Maitland or by himself. He emphasized their complete individuality of expression, and drew attention to points of technical interest.

The end of the lecture left all who were present deep in admiration for Mr. Austin's versatility as critic, littérateur, pianist, and vocalist. The songs interpreted were the following :

	Poems by
'Prometheus'	Goethe
'Zum neuen Jahr'	Mörike
'Auf einer Christblume'	Mörike
'Lied vom Winde'	Mörike
'Fühlt meine Seele' ... trans. from	Michael Angelo
'Auf einer Wanderung'	Mörike
'Das verlassene Mägdlein'	Mörike
'Klinge, klinge, mein Pandero'	Heyse
'Kennst du das Land'	Goethe
'Wächterlied auf der Wartburg'	Scheffel

COMMAND PERFORMANCE BY THE BRISTOL ORPHEUS CHOIR.

On May 30 the Bristol Royal Orpheus Glee Society had the distinguished honour of singing by Royal Command before The King and Queen at Buckingham Palace. At the conclusion of the programme Mr. George Riseley, conductor of the Society, and Mr. A. E. Gough, chairman for the year, had the honour of being presented. The programme was as follows :

'Strike the lyre'	T. Cooke
'Stars of the Summer night'	W. A. Cruickshank
'The Phantom Host'	F. Hegar
'Peace'	C. Lee Williams
'A ballad when at sea'	Dr. A. H. Brewer
'The land o' the leal'	Arr. by H. Elliot Button
'The long day closes'	Sir A. S. Sullivan

This was the second time the celebrated choir had been honoured by a Royal command. The Society sang before Queen Victoria at Windsor Castle on December 2, 1895.

Reviews.

O how amiable are Thy dwellings. Anthem. Composed by William Prendergast.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

The important occasion for which this Anthem was composed, viz., the recent visit of their Majesties The King and Queen to Winchester, demands scope and breadth of treatment, and the music contains several points which show Dr. Prendergast's conception of those conditions. The section commencing 'Behold, O God, our Defender' appeals to us as being more logical and clearly defined from a harmonic point of view than much of the rest of the Anthem. Indeed, though we claim to be modern in thought, we feel that simpler harmonic statements would have been preferable to the complex phrases in which the music abounds, and which frequently show restlessness of tonality, and not always faultless writing. We however fully appreciate such a point as that at the phrase 'O Lord, save the King,' where the sudden modulation to A major on the last word should produce a good effect. But the fact of His Majesty having honoured Dr. Prendergast by accepting the dedication of the work disarms our further criticism, and it only remains for us to congratulate the composer upon the distinction so graciously accorded him.

Come away, death. For ladies' voices. By Julius Harrison.
My bonnie lass, she smileth. Sweet day, so cool. For mixed-voices (four-part). By Edward German.
Adieu, sweet Amaryllis. For mixed-voices (four-part). By Charles Macpherson.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

As one would expect of a musician so sensitive to poetic meanings and artistically conscientious, Mr. Julius Harrison has given adequate and refined treatment to Shakespeare's well-known verses 'Come away, death.' His setting, which is for unaccompanied ladies' voices in three parts, is simple in outline but distinctive in idea and meaning. It strikes a plaintive rather than a despondent note. Under the latter influence composers are prone to consider rhythmic interest intrusive. Mr. Harrison has not fallen into that error. His Trio certainly deserves the attention of conductors.

It is no disrespect to Mr. German to say that his inspiration, like that of other prominent composers, is apt to halt ; it is more to the point to add that he seems always to have something particularly good in store. He now gives us a setting of 'My bonnie lass, she smileth' that is one of the most charming light part-songs we have seen for some time. Its melody and daintiness—which are much in the manner of the later English madrigal—are supported by a perfection of detail in all the subordinate matter such as a composer of Mr. German's mature musicianship can alone command. This means no scholasticism, as anyone with a keen eye for consecutive fifths will soon discover. 'Sweet day, so cool' is one of the calm and sweetly-expressive movements characteristic of so much of Mr. German's work. Its effect when performed with an insight into phrasing should win ready acceptance.

In 'Adieu, sweet Amaryllis' Mr. Macpherson cleverly combines the contrapuntal and expressive ideals in a way that emphatically recalls Bach. The writing is smooth and, one might say, sleek in its gentle sorrowing accents. In a long section on the words 'Here is for me no biding' the composer sets up an unmistakably appropriate mood with his continuous, sinuous development and a gradual rise and fall ; he then pays a long-drawn adieu to sweet Amaryllis with a gradual dying away of sound and a hovering between major and minor at the close. The method gives ample scope for his fine musicianship. Expressively it is far more telling than those of square melody or of the momentary emotional portraying that leads so often to a musical patchwork. We look forward to hearing a performance of this part-song. It must be a subtle performance, for the work is far too good to be sung casually.

How shall I sing that Majesty. Sacred song. Words by John Mason. Music by John Pointer.

[G. Schirmer, New York.]

The 'sacred song' no longer stirs the multitude as it used to in England, but doubtless it retains much of its power in America. We would have felt the loss more had its type been more often that of the latest example, which comes from a New York publishing house, though written by an English composer. Mr. Pointer gives good effect to the serious stateliness of melody and rhythm that often passes current in itself for artistic salvation, adding to it the more essential qualities of musicianship and inventiveness. His accentuation is good, his harmonization is well balanced, and his sense of proportion is evident. For these reasons 'How shall I sing that Majesty' is a sacred song hors ligne.

Canzonet in A. For the Organ. By J. Stuart Archer.
Sonata in F minor. For the Organ. By E. H. Thorne.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

Mr. Archer's piece may be described as an example of the lighter form of organ music, in which taking themes and deft workmanship combine to form an agreeable addition to the recitalist's répertoire. The composer shows that it is possible to write in this style without descending to the sentimental character usually associated with it. We recommend the item to all for whom real musicianship has any attraction.

Mr. Thorne's Sonata is distinguished by its strong, manly character, and the result of experience which is evident throughout the work. Effective modulations and commanding points of climax are skilfully employed, while the music is essentially suitable to the organ. We particularly like the slow movement for its graceful theme and musicianly development. The Finale is by no means easy, though the necessary study will be well repaid. The Sonata is a distinctly welcome addition to modern organ music.

Hide not Thou Thy Face. Anthem. Composed by Zingarelli.
I will arise. Anthem. Composed by S. S. Wesley.

[Bosworth & Co.]

These examples have recently been added by Sir Frederick Bridge to the publishers' series of the English Cathedral School, and should find wide acceptance. Such music is doubly welcome in these days of extravagant effort for mere effect, and should encourage the use of unaccompanied singing.

The first year at the Organ. By Percy C. Buck.
[Macmillan & Co., Ltd. ; Stainer & Bell, Ltd.]

This admirable work, though necessarily short, covers much ground, and should prove invaluable to the beginner in laying the foundation of a true organ style. The exercises are most skilfully written, and fulfil their various purposes in the happiest manner, while the advice given from time to time is sound and well expressed. The book will carry the pupil on quite naturally to Dr. Buck's excellent Treatise, already noticed in these columns.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Tannhäuser and the Mastersingers of Nüremburg. Described and interpreted in accordance with Wagner's own writings by Alice Leighton Cleather and Basil Crump. Pp. 161. Price 2*s.* 6*d.* (London: Methuen.)

Royal Performances in London Theatres. Compiled by Richard Northcott. (Deals with the principal command and gala representations at Drury Lane and His Majesty's Theatres, and at Covent Garden since 1736.) With many illustrations. Pp. 38. (London: Percy Lindley.)

Giacomo Puccini e l'opera internazionale. By Fausto Torrefranca. Pp. 136. (Turin: Fratelli Bocca.)

Correspondence.

OPERA IN THE OPEN AIR.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

SIR,—Will you allow me the use of your columns to announce that a holiday meeting of musicians and others especially interested in Opera has been arranged for the month of August, at Hindhead, Surrey?

The following musicians have kindly promised to lecture or assist with the performances: Madame Marie Brema (if in England), Mr. Rutland Boughton, Mr. Reginald Buckley, Mr. Gerald Cumberland, Herr Georg Gräner (musical critic of Die Vossische Zeitung) and Mr. Sydney Grew.

Apart from the general studies and holiday-making, an opera will be put into rehearsal, and performed in the open air at the end of the holiday; and I may mention that the company will have special access to a beautiful private estate of wooded hill-land.

I shall be happy to forward further particulars to musicians and amateurs who care to join us.—Yours faithfully,

M. BÖHE, Hon. Sec.

Tarn Moor, Hindhead,
Haslemere.

Obituary.

We regret to have to record the following deaths:

Mr. C. J. DALE, which occurred on June 16, after a severe operation. He was born at Longton (Staffs) on May 9, 1842. In early age he removed to Denby (Derbyshire), and here his musical proclivities were roused, and he did much to foster musical enthusiasm in the village. At the age of eighteen he came to London, and took up a business career. In the 'seventies he founded and conducted the Finsbury Choral Association, and he remained conductor for twenty years. In 1888 he founded the Metropolitan College of Music at Holloway, London, N., and he was principal of the institution until its incorporation with the London Academy of Music. Failing health led him to cease musical work during recent years. He was entirely a self-taught musician, and was always strictly an amateur. All who were brought into contact with him were impressed with his ingratiating and refined manner, and his clear-headedness. He had a natural pride in the success of his highly-talented son, Mr. Benjamin J. Dale, whose achievements are probably only a foretaste of greater work.

Dr. JOSEPH GORDON SAUNDERS, on June 17, at the age of seventy-five. He took the Oxford Mus. Bac. degree in 1872 and that of Mus. Doc. in 1878. He was educated in music privately. He was professor of harmony and pianoforte at Trinity College of Music, and he was active as an examiner. He composed many pieces in the smaller forms, and wrote the work entitled 'Examples in strict counterpoint' for Novello's 'Primer Series.' He showed high capabilities for all the tasks he undertook.

M. JAN BLOCKX, which occurred recently at Antwerp. He was born on January 25, 1851, and he studied at the Conservatoires of Antwerp, Brussels and Leipsic. He became professor at the Antwerp Conservatoire, and on the death of Peter Benoit was promoted to the post of director of that institution. He wrote a number of vocal and instrumental works, and is chiefly known by his operas 'Herbergprinses,' which is performed frequently on French and German stages, and 'La France de la Mer.'

SIGNOR GIULIO RICORDI, at Milan, aged seventy-one. Since 1888 he had been head of the firm of Ricordi, founded in 1808, and notable as the publishers of many of Verdi's and all Puccini's operas.

We quote the following from The Times:—

'At Deal, on Friday, May 3, aged eighty-one, WILLIAM BALE WOTTON, principal bassoon of the Crystal Palace orchestra, and of all the chief musical events of his time. A unique British artist—expression, tone, execution alike perfect—one whose beautiful playing can never be forgotten by his contempories in art, and by all lovers of classical music of his day. This tribute from a friend and ardent admirer.'

ELGAR'S SYMPHONIES AT BIRMINGHAM.

In connection with recent performances of Sir Edward Elgar's two Symphonies at the Birmingham Promenade Concerts, under the direction of Mr. Landon Ronald, the following remarks from the pen of Mr. Ernest Newman appeared in the Birmingham Daily Post:

'The more one reflects upon these two Symphonies of Elgar the more evident it becomes that they represent an important step in the evolution of the symphonic form. Really, when we think of it, music, as Busoni contends in his suggestive brochure, "Entwurf einer neuen Aesthetik der Tonkunst," for all the wonderful things it has done in the past, is virtually only just beginning to find itself. If it be true of any art that it is the more perfect the more it suggests an improvisation, it is especially true of music. A mental comparison of the architecture of the Brahms Symphony we heard the other evening with that of Elgar's Symphonies will at once show how superior the new works are in point of freedom and naturalness of form and in the unpremeditated, unfettered transitions of their moods. Music is here getting away from the discipline of the drill-sergeant, with his insistence or evolutions according to rule, and acquiring the ease and elasticity of gait of the natural man. Part of the charm of the two new works comes from the fact that their novelty of form is not the result of merely abstract speculation, but the unconscious outcome of a new way of musical thinking. They are full, too, both of beauty and of style. I doubt whether there is so beautiful a slow movement as that of Elgar's first Symphony to be found in the whole range of symphonic literature; while the whole work teems with consummately managed points of style.'

We hear that a volume of 'Reminiscences, impressions and anecdotes' by Mr. Francesco Berger, now in the press, will be issued in September by Messrs. Sampson Low, and that Queen Alexandra has graciously accepted the dedication.

The King and Queen have consented to be present at Queen's Hall on July 23, when the orchestral concert of the Royal College of Music Patron's Fund will be given.

It is proposed to commemorate the life and work of the late Dean of St. Paul's, Dr. Gregory, by the foundation of a scholarship at the Cathedral Choir School to be called 'The Dean Gregory Memorial Scholarship.'

Sing a Song of Praise.

HARVEST ANTHEM.

Ecclesiasticus xxxix. 14, 15 ;
St. John iv. 35 ; Psalm lxv. 12, 13.

Composed by CUTHBERT HARRIS.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.

Allegro con spirito. ♩=116.
f Gt.
cres.
SOPRANO.
f
Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in ALTO.
f
Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord . . in TENOR.
f
Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in BASS.
f
Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord . . in
f

Copyright, 1912, by Novello and Company, Limited.

all . . His works, sing a song of prais', all His works, sing a song of all . . His works, sing a song all His works, sing a song of praise, sing a Gt. mf
Full Sw. open.
Man.
Ped.
sing a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in praise, sing a song, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in
. of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in Full Sw.
Gt.
dim.
all . . His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, ... and all . . His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, and all His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, ... and all . . His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, and f Gt.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

shew forth His praise with the songs of your lips, shew forth His praise with the songs of your lips, and with shew forth His praise with the songs of your lips, shew forth His praise with the songs of your lips, and with and with harps, bless the Lord in all His works, sing a song of harps, ... bless the Lord in all His works, sing a song of and with harps, bless the Lord in all His works, sing a song of harps, ... bless the Lord in all His works, sing a song of f Sw.
Gt.
Ped.
rall.
praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His works.
praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His works.
praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His works.
praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His works.
rall.

Andante con moto.
Soprano Solo.
mf
Lift up your eyes, ... and look on the Andante con moto.
p Sw.
with Oboe.
f ten.
fields; . . . for they are white al-rea-dy to har - - vest.
Ped.
♩=84. con espress.
mf
Thou crown - - est the year with Thy good - - - - ♩=84. p Sw.
Man.
- - ness: and Thy clouds drop fat - - ness, Thy clouds drop
f fat - - ness, Thy clouds . . drop fat - ness, drop fat - - -

p
- ness. Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - -
Solo.
p
Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - ness: Thy Solo.
p
Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - ness: and Thy Solo.
p
Thou crown - est the year with Thy good-ness:
Man.
mf
- ness: Thy clouds drop fat - - - ness. They shall drop up-on the più animato.
mf
clouds drop fat - ness, drop fat - - - ness.
mf
clouds drop fat - ness, drop fat - - - ness.
mf
Thy clouds drop fat - ness, drop fat - - - ness.
add 4 ft.
Ped.
Man.
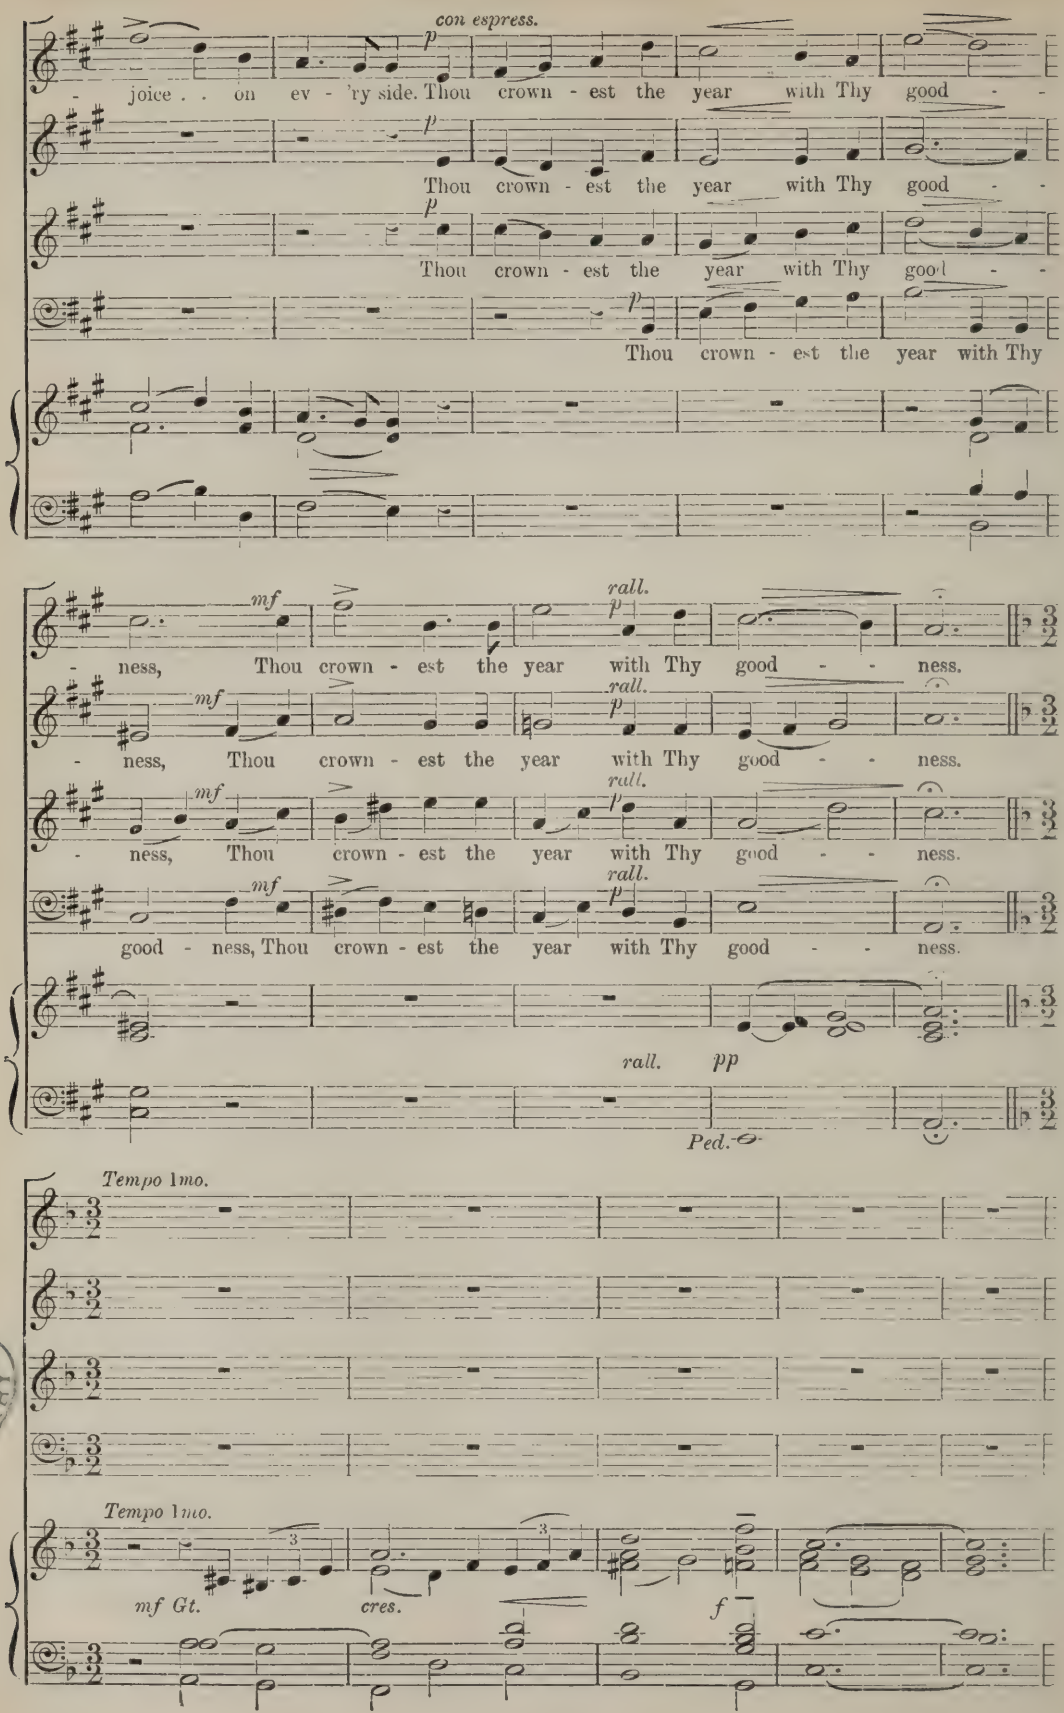
f dwell - ings of the wil - der-ness: and the lit - tle hills shall re - joice, shall re -



con espress.
joice . . on ev - 'ry side. Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - -
Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - -
Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - Thou crown - est the year with Thy
rall.
ness, Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - ness.
ness, Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - ness.
ness, Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - ness.
good - ness, Thou crown - est the year with Thy good - - ness.
rall. pp
Ped.
Tempo 1mo.
Tempo 1mo.
mf Gt.
cres.
f

PUBLIC LIBRARY

FULL.
Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all . . His Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all . . His Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His Sing . . a song of praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all . . His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, ... and shew forth His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, and shew forth His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, ... and shew forth His works. Mag - ni - fy His Name, and shew forth His praise with the songs of your lips. Sing a song of praise with the songs of your lips. Sing a praise with the songs of your lips. Sing a song, praise with the songs of your lips. Sing a mf Gt.

BOS
PUB
LIBR

praise, sing a song of praise, bless the song, a song.. of praise, sing a song ... of sing a song.. of praise, sing a song of song of praise, sing a song ... of Full Sw.
Gt. cres.
f
Lord, bless the Lord . . . . . in all His praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His praise, ... bless the Lord in all His praise, bless the Lord, bless the Lord in all His rall.
ff
works. A - men, A - - - - - - - - men.
molto rall.
ff Tuba.
ff Gt.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 2050, price 1½*d*.

No. 1008. NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS. Price 2d.

Evening and Morning

COMPOSED BY

SIR HERBERT OAKELEY.

388. Grant, we beseech Thee Roberts 3d.
517. Great and marvellous J. F. Bridge 4d.
187. Ditto ... Monk 3d
848. Ditto T. Tomkins 3d.
223. Great is Jehovah (Male) Schubert 4d.
602. Great is our Lord M. B. Foster 4d.
136. Great is the Lord ... ... Hayes 4d.
708. Great is the Lord A. W. Marchant 3d.
237. Great is the Lord ... F. Ouseley 6d.
481. Great is the Lord ... B. Steane 3d.
813. Great is the Lord E. A. Sydenham 3d.
220. Grieve not the Holy Spirit Stainer 3d.
609. Guide me, O Thou H. Blair 3d.
427. Hail! gladdening Light J. T. Field 2d.
545. Hail! gladdening Light Martin 4d.
326. Hail, thou that art ... A. Carnall 4d.
560. Hail to the Christ ... J. Barnby 3d.
945. Hail, true Body ... H. Willan 2d.
499. Hallelujah, Christ is risen Steane 3d.
382. Hallelujah! the Light Oliver King 3d.
173. Happy is the man ... E. Prout 8d.
681. Hark, the glad sound M. B. Foster 3d.
909. Hark, the glad sound A. R. Gaul 3d.
487. Hark, the glad sound E. V. Hall 3d.
345. Hark, the herald angels E. V. Hall 3d.
444. Hark! what news ... Oliver King 3d.
404. Harvest Hymn ... F. Tozer 2d.
820. Haste Thee, O God John Shepherd 3d.
784. Have mercy upon me J. Barnby 2d.
535. Have mercy upon me J. Goss 4d.
377. Have mercy upon me, Kellow J. Pye 3d.
401. Have mercy upon me J. Shaw 3d.
794. He sendeth the springs Wareing 4d.
701. He shall swallow up Greenish 3d.
707. He that dwelleth ... J. Booth 4d.
837. He that shall endure Mendelssohn 2d.
898. He that spared not His Gladstone 3d.
900. He will swallow up death Wesley 1½d.
389. Hear me when I call (Male) Distin 2d.
339. Hear my prayer Mendelssohn 4d.
146. Hear my prayer ... C. Stroud 4d.
442. Hear my words C. H. H. Parry 8d.
310. Hear, O God ... A. Friedländer 6d.
138. Hear, O heavens P. Humphreys 3d.
94. Hear, O Lord ... John Goss 2d.
139. Hear, O Lord ... C. King 2d.
162. Hear, O Lord ... F. Ouseley 4d.
831. Hear, O my people J. Holbrooke 3d.
203. Hear, O Thou Shepherd ... Clarke 4d.
522. Ditto T. A. Walmisley 4d.
776. Hear the voice and prayer Tallis 2d.
773. Hearken unto me ... W. H. Bell 3d
376. Hide not Thy face Kellow J. Pye 2d.
366. Ho! every one J. M. Crament 4d.
246. Ho! every one ... G. C. Martin 4d.
330. Holy Ghost, to earth ... Dvorák 4d.
111. Holy, holy, holy ... ... Crotch 3d.
842. Holy, Lord God T. Bateson 4d.
412. Honour the Lord ... J. Stainer 4d.
129. Hosanna ... ... O. Gibbons 3d.
43. Hosanna ... G. A. Macfarren 3d.
657. Hosanna to the Lord W. Jordan 4d.
646. Hosanna to the Lord Luard-Selby 3d.
260. How beautiful are the feet Handel 3d.
691. How blest are they Tschaïkowsky 4d.
321. How excellent is Thy ... Cowen 6d.
615. How great is the loving West 3d.
373. How long wilt Thou Oliver King 2d.
867. Ditto Jeremiah Clarke 3d.
647. How lovely are ... C. Salaman 3d.
104. Ditto ... ... Spohr 8d.
988. Ditto ... J. Brahms 2d.
766. I am Alpha ... Ch. Gounod 3d.
539. I am Alpha ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
623. I am He that liveth T. Adams 4d.
664. I am the Resurrection ... Croft 3d.
662. I am the Resurrection R. Rogers 4d.
268. I am well pleased J. Rheinberger 3d.
120. I beheld, and lo ... ... Blow 6d.
280. I beheld, and lo ... ... Elvey 6d.
496. I came not to call C. Vincent 3d.
207. I cried unto the Lord ... Heap 4d.
537. I declare to you ... Cruickshank 4d.
168. I desired wisdom ... J. Stainer 6d.
230. I did call upon the Lord Pattison 4d.
515. I do not ask, O Lord ... Roberts 3d.
117. I have set God ... ... Blake 6d.
420. I have set God Hamilton Clarke 4d.
130. I have set God ... J. Goldwin 3d.
122. I have surely built ... ... Boyce 4d.
219. I have surely built T. T. Trimnell 4d.
590. I heard a great voice G. F. Cobb 3d.
396. I heard a voice ... John Goss 2d.
903. I looked, and behold H. Willan 3d.
171. I saw the Lord ... J. Stainer 6d.
114. I was glad ... ... T. Attwood 4d.
32. I was glad ... ... G. Elvey 3d.
79. I was glad ... ... C. E. Horsley 6d.
743. I was glad ... C. H. H. Parry 4d.
379. I was glad ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
119. I was in the spirit ... ... Blow 6d.
205. I will alway give thanks ... Clarke 3d.
874. I will cry unto God ... H. J. King 3d.
73. I will cry unto God ... Steggall 3d.
502. I will extol Thee C. M. Hudson 4d.
29. I will give thanks ... J. Barnby 4d.
156. I will give thanks ... E. J. Hopkins 6d.
568. I will give thanks ... Mozart 2d.
915. I will give unto him ... H. Blair 2d.
674. I will give you rain H. W. Wareing 4d.
225. I will go unto ... Gauntlett 2d.
591. I will go unto the altar C. Harris 3d.
437. I will greatly rejoice Cruickshank 4d.
495. I will lay me down A. C. Edwards 3d.
195. I will lay me down ... H. Gadsby 2d.
209. I will lay me down ... H. Hiles 3d.
739. I will lift up mine eyes D. S. Smith 3d.
958. Ditto J. V. Roberts 3d.
394. I will love Thee ... Kingston 4d.
126. I will love Thee, O Lord J. Clark 4d.
760. I will magnify Thee W. H. Bell 4d.
78. I will magnify Thee J. B. Calkin 4d.
27. I will magnify Thee ... John Goss 3d.
633. I will magnify Thee ... F. Iliffe 4d.
405. I will magnify Thee Oliver King 4d.
780. I will magnify Thee E. M. Lee 3d.
929. Ditto A. W. Marchant 3d.
886. I will magnify Thee Palestrina 3d.
153. I will magnify Thee ... J. Shaw 3d.
154. I will mention ... A. Sullivan 6d.
790. I will not leave you ... W. Byrd 3d.
575. I will not leave you ... B. Steane 2d.
519. I will open rivers E. Pettman 3d.
371. I will set His dominion H. W. Parker 4d.
100. I will sing a new song ... Armes 6d.
608. I will sing of the mercies J. Booth 3d.
134. I will sing of Thy power Greene 4d.
192. I will sing unto the Lord Wareing 3d.
6. I will wash my hands Hopkins 3d.
710. If any man hath not H. W. Davies 4d.
819. If Christ be not raised Macpherson 4d.
979. If the Lord had not E. C. Bairstow 3d.
825. If the Lord Himself ... W. Child 3d.
758. If the Lord Himself Walmisley 6d.
53. If we believe that Jesus died Goss 1½d.
544. If ye love Me ... ... B. Steane 2d.
453. If ye love Me H. W. Wareing 3d.
789. If ye then be risen Ivor Atkins 4d.
469. If ye then be risen (S.A.) M. B. Foster 3d.
58. If ye then be risen ... Naylor 3d.
61. In Christ dwelleth ... John Goss 3d.
913. In divers tongues ... Palestrina 2d.
619. In every place incense John E. West 3d.
655. In heavenly love ... H. Parker 3d.
403. In my Father's house Crament 3d.
777. Ditto H. Elliot Button 3d.
102. In sweet consent ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
278. In that day ... ... G. Elvey 4d.
802. In that day (Christmas) Bridge 3d.
720. In the beginning C. Macpherson 4d.
582. In the beginning ... F. Tozer 4d.
890. In the day shalt H. W. Wareing 3d.
338. In the fear of the Lord J. V. Roberts 3d.
980. In the hour of my ... Davies 4d.
659. In the Lord ... C. Macpherson 4d.
282. In the Lord ... ... R. Stewart 6d.
385. In Thee, O Lord ... S. C. Taylor 3d.
33. In Thee, O Lord ... B. Tours 3d.
148. In Thee, O Lord ... J. Weldon 3d.
467. Is it nothing (S.A.) M. B. Foster 3d.
571. Is it nothing (4 voices) M. B. Foster 3d.
725. Is it not wheat-harvest T. Adams 3d.
91. It came even to pass Ouseley 4d.
180. It is a good thing ... J. Barnby 6d.
231. It is a good thing T. M. Pattison 4d.
215. It shall come to pass ... Garrett 6d.
908. Jesu, Lord of life and glory Elgar 3d.
397. Jesu, lover of my soul (Male) F. Iliffe 2d.
907. Jesu, meek and lowly ... Elgar 3d.
654. Jesu, Thou joy ... E. H. Davies 3d.
844. Jesu, Thou sweetness H. J. King 3d.
904. Jesu, word of God incarnate Elgar 2d.
788. Jesus Christ is risen to-day Gaul 4d.
455. Jesus Christ is risen Oliver King 4d.
971. Jesus lives! no longer now Foster 3d.
618. Jesus of Nazareth ... G. Byrd 4d.
548. Joy in harvest ... ... B. Steane 3d.
7. Judge me, O God ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
677. Just Judge of Heaven ... Garrett 6d.
614. Justorum animæ ... ... Byrd 3d.
179. King all glorious ... J. Barnby 6d.
581. Kings shall be thy G. C. Martin 2d.
894. Kings shall see and arise Bridge 6d.
425. Lead, kindly Light ... R. Dunstan 3d.
528. Lead, kindly Light C. L. Naylor 4d.
589. Lead, kindly Light D. Pughe-Evans 3d.
37. Lead, kindly Light ... J. Stainer 4d.
706. Let all the world ... W. Jordan 4d.
132. Let God arise ... Greene 6d.
375. Let God arise T. T. Trimnell 4d.
857. Let my complaint Arthur Batten 2d.
346. Let my complaint (Male) Thorne 3d.
509. Let not thine hand ... J. Stainer 3d.
807. Let not your heart Eaton Faning 3d.
438. Ditto ... M. B. Foster 3d.
438.* Ditto (8 v.) M. B. Foster 3d.
795. Let the heavens be glad M. Higgs 4d.
226. Let the peace of God J. Stainer 4d.
565. Let the righteous ... R. F. Lloyd 3d.
328. Let the words of my A. D. Culley 3d.
494. Let Thy merciful ears W. B. Bell 2d.
308. Let us now praise (Male) Thorne 3d.
962. Ditto A. J. Silver 3d.
96. Lift up thine eyes .. John Goss 6d.
897. Lift up your heads O. Gibbons 3d.
18. Ditto ... J. L. Hopkins 1½d.
409. Ditto S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
847. Ditto ... William Turner 2d.
343. Lift up your hearts ... J. Barnby 4d.
972. Light in darkness D. C. Jenkins 3d.
595. Light of the world ... E. Elgar 3d.
408. Lighten our darkness G. R. Vicars 2d.
393. Like as the hart Thomas Adams 3d.
799. Ditto H. Clarke 3d
530. Lo, God, our God ... B. Haynes 3d.
335. Lo, summer comes again J. Stainer 6d.
504. Lo! the winter B. Farebrother 3d.
883. Look down, Holy Dove ... Selby 3d.
711. Look on the fields C. Macpherson 3d.
859. Look upon mine adversity ... Blow 2d.
639. Look upon the rainbow T. Adams 3d.
843. Look, ye saints M. B. Foster 3d.
801. Lord God of Abraham A. H. Brewer 2d.
165. Lord, how are they... H. Clarke 6d.
391. Lord, I have loved... ... F. Iliffe 3d.
722. Lord, I have loved G. W. Torrance 3d.
54. Lord, let me know mine end Goss 3d.
351. Lord of all power (Male) J. Barnby 2d.
566. Lord of life ... A. C. Mackenzie 3d.
459. Lord of our life ... J. T. Field 3d.
411. Lord of the Harvest J. Barnby 4d.
404. Lord of the rich and golden F. Tozer 2d.
318. Lord, Thou art God... J. Stainer 8d.
803. Lord, Thou art good H. Coward 3d.
434. Lord, Thou hast ... A. Whiting 3d.
830. Lord, we leave Thy... Brahms 4d.
274. Lord, what love have I ... Steggall 6d.
267. Lord, who shall dwell ... Roberts 4d.
835. Love divine, all love E. V. Hall 3d.
350. Magnify His Name... G. C. Martin 4d.
290. Make a joyful noise A. C. Mackenzie 6d.
108. Make me a clean heart J. Barnby 3d.
431. Ditto A. W. Batson 3d.
899. Make me, O Lord God J. Brahms 3d.
436. Man goeth forth ... A. Carnall 3d.

NOVELLO'S
OCTAVO EDITION OF ANTHEMS

694. Man that is born S. S. Wesley 2d.
222. Me ye have bereaved C. Morales 3d.
527. Mercy and truth are met J. Stainer 3d.
211. Mine eyes look unto Thee H. Baker 3d.
818. Miserere mei, Deus G. Allegri 4d.
500. Ditto J. Barnby 3d.
665. Ditto ... Novello 2d.
811. Ditto G. P. Da Palestrina 4d.
518. Ditto E. Pettman 1½d.
464. Ditto J. Stainer 3d.
765. Morn's roseate hues Chadwick 3d.
726. Most blessed Jesus ... Brewer 3d.
512. My beloved spake ... H. Purcell 6d.
428 My God, I love Thee G. J. Bennett 3d.
617. My God, I thank Thee E. H. Lemare 3d.
288. My God, look upon... J. L. Hopkins 3d.
10. My God, my God ... Mendelssohn 6d.
353. My heart is fixed W. Cruickshank 4d.
564. My heart is inditing M. B. Foster 4d.
460. My heart was glad ... A. Carnall 4d.
199. My hope is in the J. Stainer 6d.
406. My mouth shall speak John E. West 4d.
190. My soul is weary ... Beckwith 4d.
911. My soul, O praise the Lord Bach 3d.
885. My soul truly waiteth Attwood 3d.
586. Ditto ... B. Steane 2d.
295. My soul wait thou still F. J. Read 4d.
960. Nazareth, ...Ch. Gounod 2d.
629. Nearer, my God, to Thee T. Adams 3d.
560. No pomp of earthly ... Barnby 3d.
920. Not unto us, O Lord T. S. Dupuis 3d.
210. Ditto H. Gadsby 6d.
558. Ditto John E. West 4d.
592. Now is Christ risen T. Adams 3d.
612. Now is come salvation C. Harris 3d.
718. Now know I that the M. B. Foster 4d.
695. Now late on the Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
673. Now sinks the sun H. W. Parker 4d.
868. Now when Jesus Joseph Holbrooke 3d.
489. Ditto W. A. C. Cruickshank 3d.
505. O all ye people ... H. Purcell 3d.
833. O all ye that pass by ... Vitoria 3d.
928. O be joyful in God John E. West 3d.
506. O be joyful in the Lord G. Martin 6d.
891. O clap your hands ... O. Gibbons 3d.
133. O clap your hands ... ... Greene 4d.
686. O clap your hands ... L. Hopkins 3d.
82. O clap your hands ... ... Stainer 6d.
80. O clap your hands ...E. H. Thorne 6d.
217. O clap your hands ...T. T. Trimnell 3d.
877. O come, all ye faithful Tredaway 2d.
656. O come and behold Longhurst 4d.
202. O come before ... G. C. Martin 6d.
241. O come hither ... W. Jackson 3d.
875. O come hither and hearken Crotch 3d.
569. O come, let us sing M. B. Foster 3d.
12. O come near to the Cross Gounod 8d.
11. O day of penitence ... Gounod 6d.
730. O death, where is thy A. Hollins 4d.
832. O everlasting light John E. West 3d.
16. O give thanks ... G. Elvey 3d.
42. O give thanks ... John Goss 3d.
599. O give thanks ... E. V. Hall 3d.
596. O give thanks ... H. J. King 3d.
144. O give thanks ... H. Purcell 6d.
17. O give thanks ... William Rea 3d.
520. O give thanks ... B. Steane 3d.
816. O give thanks E. A. Sydenham 3d.
66. O give thanks ... S. S. Wesley 4d.
35. O God, have mercy... J. B. Calkin 4d.
698. O God, my soul ... F. R. Greenish 3d.
775. O God of my righteousness Greene 4d.
106. O God, the King of Glory H. Smart 4d.
141. O God, Thou art my God H. Purcell 3d.
585. Ditto B. Luard-Selby 4d.
679. Ditto F. Tozer 4d.
34. O God, Thou art worthy A. Sullivan 4d.
188. O God, Thou hast ... H. Purcell 4d.
978. O God, wherefore art Thou Blow 3d.
418. O God, Who hast ... A. S. Baker 2d.
30. Ditto A. W. Batson 3d.
507. Ditto J. V. Roberts 2d.
919. O God, Whose nature Dupuis 3d.
880. O heart subdued with J. Brahms 3d.
982. O holy night ... A. Adam 2d.

47. O how amiable ... J. Barnby 3d.
752. O how amiable ... E. Faning 3d.
347. O how amiable ... Oliver King 4d.
963. O how amiable J. H. Maunder 3d.
233. O how amiable T. M. Pattison 3d.
48. O how plentiful T. M. Pattison 3d.
490. O Jerusalem, look about E. Naylor 4d.
301. O Jesu! Victim blest Powell 3d.
536. O joyful Light ... B. Tours 4d.
543. O Lamb of God ... J. Barnby 3d.
870. O Lord, from Whom all ... West 2d.
204. O Lord God ... ... Clarke 3d.
251. O Lord God (Male) Ernest Ford 4d.
926. O Lord, have mercy Pergolesi 3d.
942. O Lord Jesu Christ Wesley 2d.
184. O Lord, look down ... J. Battishill 3d.
702. O Lord, my God ... Nares 3d.
306. O Lord of hosts ... Kate Boundy 3d.
25. O Lord, our Governor H. Gadsby 3d.
727. O Lord, Thou art my God J. Goss 3d.
395. Ditto C. H. Lloyd 6d.
845. Ditto C. Lee Williams 4d.
690. O Lord, Thy Word J. F. Bridge 6d.
726. O love most ... A. H. Brewer 3d.
3. O love the Lord ... A. Sullivan 2d.
588. O lovely peace ... ... Handel 4d.
380. O perfect love ... J. Barnby 3d.
124. O praise God ... ... Clarke 6d.
355. O praise God Theodore Distin 3d.
429. O praise God ... G. C. Martin 2d.
40. O praise God T. T. Trimnell 4d.
479. O praise our God, ye people Boyce 4d.
782. O praise our God, ye people Bühler 3d.
14. O praise the Lord ... J. Barnby 4d.
178. O praise the Lord ... John Goss 6d.
683. O praise the Lord ... ... Handel 3d.
71. O praise the Lord ... Ouseley 3d.
232. O praise the Lord T. M. Pattison 3d.
358. O praise the Lord W. G. Wood 4d.
266. O praise the Lord ... Zingarelli 8d.
824. O pray for the peace W. Child 3d.
166. O pray for the peace E. H. Thorne 4d.
837. O rest in the Lord Mendelssohn 2d.
492. O Saving Victim Cruickshank 3d.
51. Ditto (No. 2) Gounod 4d.
486. Ditto ... Rossini 3d.
970. O Saviour of the ... H. Moore 3d.
508. Ditto (Male) Roberts 2d.
551. O sing unto the Lord Cruickshank 4d.
142. O sing unto the Lord H. Purcell 6d.
8. O taste and see ... John Goss 3d.
263. O taste and see ... A. H. Mann 3d.
87. O that I knew where I Bennett 3d.
772. O that men would J. B. McEwen 3d.
896. Ditto W. Wolstenholme 3d.
806. O Thou the Central Orb Gibbons 3d.
663. O Voice of the Beloved H. J. King 3d.
123. O where shall wisdom ... Boyce 6d.
435. O worship the King... E. V. Hall 4d.
135. O worship the Lord ... ... Hayes 6d.
234. O ye that love the Lord Docker 4d.
158. Ditto G. Elvey 4d.
325. Ditto J. Naylor 3d.
196. Ditto H. W. Wareing 3d.
556. Open to me the gates ... F. Adlam 4d.
668. Our Blest Redeemer E. V. Hall 3d.
863. Our conversation is in Gilbert 2d.
392. Our Father, which art J. Barnby 2d.
976. Ditto (8 voices) C. Lee Williams 3d.
303. Our God is Lord ... E. Mundella 3d.
242. Out of the deep ... J. B. Calkin 3d.
638. Out of the deep H. W. Davies 4d.
240. Out of the deep F. E. Gladstone 3d.
692. Out of the deep ... G. C. Martin 3d.
176. Out of the deep ... Naylor 4d.
81. Plead Thou my cause ... Mozart 6d.
55. Ponder my words ... Henry Gadsby 3d.
300. Ponder my words (Male) Sawyer 2d.
159. Praise God in His holiness B. Tours 3d.
521. Praise, my soul ... E. V. Hall 3d.
641. Praise, O praise our God B. L. Selby 3d.
712. Praise our God ... E. V. Hall 4d.
172. Praise the Lord J. Benedict 8d.
561. Praise the Lord J. M. Crament 4d.
70. Praise the Lord ... G. Elvey 4d.

298. Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem Bliss 3d.
125. Ditto J. Clark 3d.
137. Ditto Hayes 4d.
316. Ditto E. V. Hall 4d.
577. Ditto J. H. Maunder 3d.
510. Ditto Purcell 4d.
964. Ditto W. G. Wood 4d.
381. Praise the Lord, O my soul Elliott 3d.
63. Ditto Garrett 6d.
21. Ditto John Goss 3d.
208. Ditto Mozart 4d.
959. Ditto John Pullein 3d.
513. Ditto H. Purcell 6d.
940. Ditto J. V. Roberts 3d.
439. Ditto T. P. Royle 3d.
986. Ditto John E. West 3d.
59. Ditto S. S. Wesley 6d.
624. Praise the Lord, ye ... B. Steane 3d.
827. Praise to God, immortal ... West 3d.
745. Praised be the Lord C. H. Lloyd 3d.
797. Praised be the Lord C. Steggall 3d.
416. Prepare ye the way J. M. Crament 4d.
45. Prepare ye the way ... Garrett 3d.
151. Prepare ye the way ... M. Wise 3d.
846. Put me not to rebuke W. Croft 4d.
60. Rejoice greatly Henry Gadsby 3d.
984. Rejoice greatly C. H. Lloyd 3d.
317. Rejoice in the Lord Philip Armes 6d.
992. Rejoice in the Lord J. F. Bridge 4d.
721. Rejoice in the Lord ... A. Hollins 3d.
200. Rejoice in the Lord G. C. Martin 6d.
145. Rejoice in the Lord ... H. Purcell 3d.
258. Rejoice in the Lord J. Redford 3d.
164. Rejoice in the Lord F. R. Statham 4d.
272. Rejoice, O ye righteous Rheinberger 3d.
38. Remember now ... Steggall 4d.
523. Remember, O Lord Walmisley 4d.
336. Rend your heart J. Clippingdale 3d.
626. Rend your heart A. E. Godfrey 3d.
753. Rest, weary Earth A. M. Goodhart 3d.
879. Righteous art Thou John E. West 3d.
860. Save, Lord, and hear us John Blow 2d.
170. Save, Lord, and hear us ... Hayes 6d.
822. Save me, O God ... John Blow 3d.
858. Save me, O God William Boyce 2d.
287. Save me, O God ...J. L. Hopkins 2d.
740. Save us, O Lord E. C. Bairstow 3d.
451. Saviour, abide with us T. Hanforth 3d.
800. Saviour, again to Thy Chadwick 3d.
340. Saviour, Thy children Sullivan 3d.
85. Say where is He born Mendelssohn 6d.
319. Seek ye the Lord Hague Kinsey 3d.
189. Seek ye the Lord J. V. Roberts 3d.
973. Send out Thy light Ch. Gounod 2d.
250. Sing aloud with gladness S. Wesley 6d.
630. Sing a song of praise O. King 3d.
185. Sing a song of praise J. Stainer 3d.
716. Sing and rejoice ... B. Harwood 4d.
238. Sing joyfully unto God W. Byrd 4d.
365. Sing, O daughter of Zion ... Rea 4d.
936. Ditto ... H. W. Wareing 3d.
985. Ditto ... W. G. Alcock 3d.
291. Sing, O heavens A. C. Mackenzie 6d.
781. Sing, O heavens Bruce Steane 3d.
369. Sing, O heavens T. T. Trimnell 4d.
562. Sing, O heavens H. D. Wetton 4d.
169. Sing praises to the Lord ... Croft 4d.
36. Sing praises unto the Lord Gounod 6d.
99. Sing to the Lord ... Mendelssohn 8d.
167. Sing to the Lord ...Henry Smart 1s.
542. Sing to the Lord with J. Barnby 4d.
525. Sing unto God (Chos. only) Purcell 2d.
580. Sing unto the Lord J. F. Bridge 6d.
603. Sing unto the Lord C. Harris 3d.
812. Sing unto the Lord Sydenham 3d
856 Sing we merrily Adrian Batten 2d.
944. Sing we merrily ... ... J. Blow 3d.
532. Sing we merrily F. A. W. Docker 4d.
410. Sing we merrily ... E. V. Hall 4d.
932. Sing we merrily ... O. King 3d.
761. Sing ye to the Lord C. H. Lloyd 3d.
991. Ditto E. C. Bairstow 3d.
68. Stand up and bless the Lord Goss 4d.
697. Suffer the little ... B. Harwood 3d.
792. Sun of my soul G. W. Chadwick 2d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

EVENING AND MORNING

Heaviness may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the Morning.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY THE REV. I. GREGORY SMITH, LL.D.

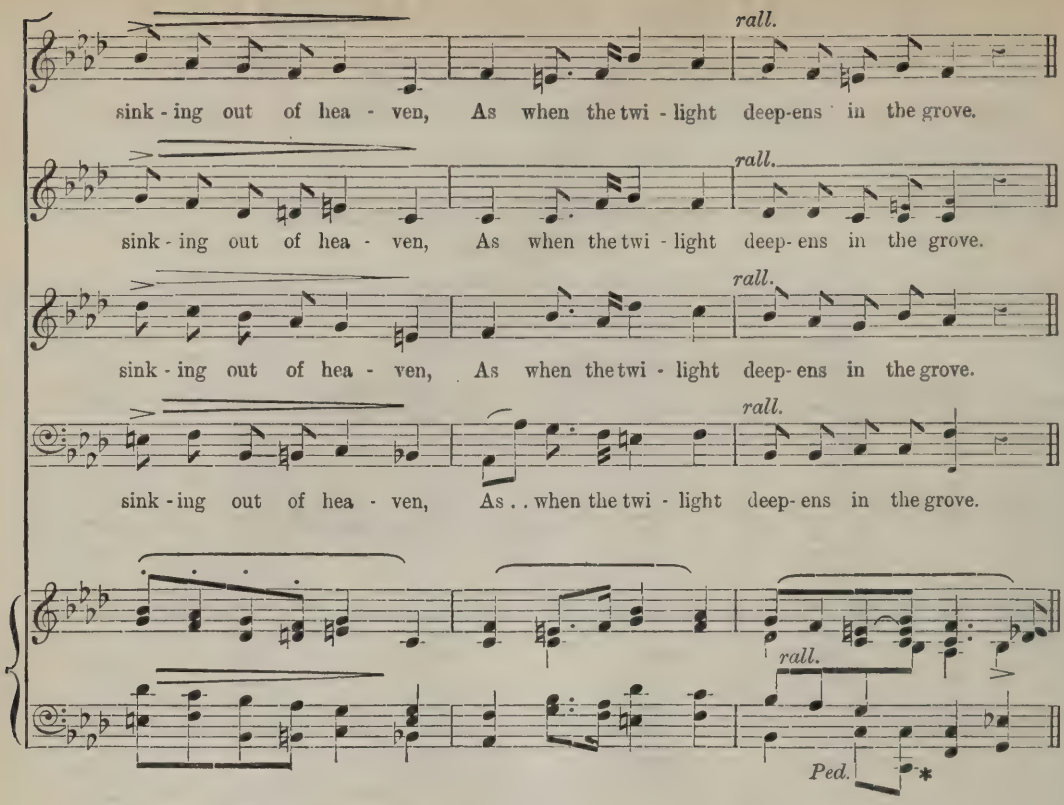
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

SIR HERBERT OAKELEY,

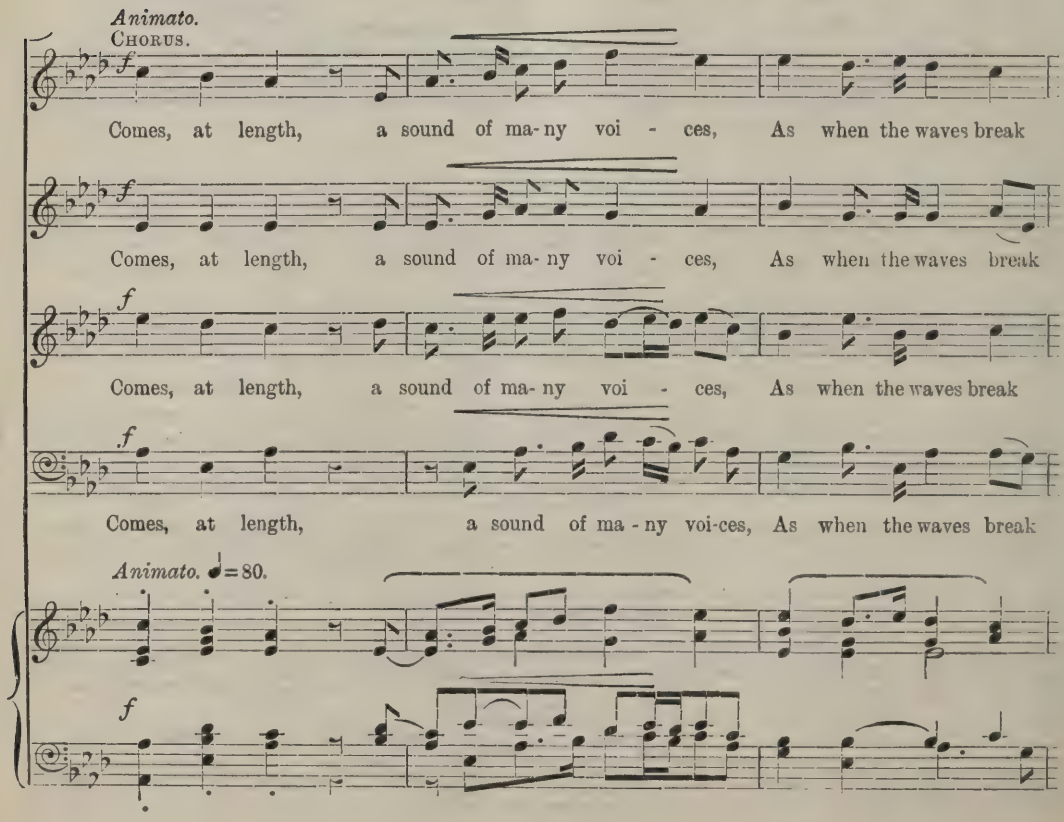
LL.D., Mus. Doc.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.

Lento.
Double Quartet or Semi-Chorus.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
pp
Comes, at times, a still - ness as of e - ven,
Lento. ♩=60.
Steep - ing the soul in mem - o - ries of love,
As when the glow is
Steep - ing the soul in mem - o - ries of love,
As when the glow is
Steep - ing the soul in mem - o - ries of love, of love,
As when the glow is
Steep - ing the soul in mem - o - ries of love,
As when the glow is



rall.
sink - ing out of hea - ven, As when the twi - light deep-ens in the grove.
rall.
sink - ing out of hea - ven, As when the twi - light deep- ens in the grove.
rall.
sink - ing out of hea - ven, As when the twi - light deep- ens in the grove.
rall.
sink - ing out of hea - ven, As . . when the twi - light deep- ens in the grove.
rall.
Ped.
*



Animato.
Chorus.
f
Comes, at length, a sound of ma- ny voi - ces, As when the waves break
f
Comes, at length, a sound of ma- ny voi - ces, As when the waves break
f
Comes, at length, a sound of ma- ny voi - ces, As when the waves break
f
Comes, at length, a sound of ma - ny voi-ces, As when the waves break
Animato. ♩=80.
f ff poco rall. p light - ly on the shore, As when at dawn the feather'd choir re- joic - es, light - ly on the shore, As when at dawn the feather'd choir re-joic - es, light - ly on the shore, break lightly, As when at dawn the feather'd choir re-joic- es, Sing-ing, light - ly on the shore, As when at dawn the feather'd choir re- joic - es, poco rall.

ff pp
Ped. *
Lento.
Double Quartet or Semi-Chorus.
f ff pp rall.
Sing - ing a- loud, be - cause the night is o'er. Comes, at times, a Sing - ing a- loud, be - cause the night is o'er. Comes, at times, a sing - ing a - loud, be - cause the night is o'er. Comes, at times, a Sing - ing a - loud, be - cause the night is o'er. Comes, at times, a Lento. ♩=60.
voice of days de- part - ed, On the dy - ing breath of eve- ning borne,
voice of days de- part - ed, On the dy - ing breath of eve- ning borne, voice of days de- part - ed, On the dy ing, dy - ing breath of eve- ning borne,
voice of days de- part - ed, On the dy - ing breath of eve- ning borne,

Sinks then the trav - 'ller, faint and wea - ry - heart - ed, "Long is the way," it
Sinks then the trav - 'ller, faint and wea - ry - heart - ed, "Long is the way," it
Sinks then the trav - 'ller, faint and wea - ry - heart - ed, "Long is the way," it
Sinks then the trav - 'ller, faint and wea - ry - heart - ed, "Long is the way," it rall.

Animato.
Chorus.
f whispers, "and for - lorn." Comes, at last, a voice of thrilling glad - ness, rall.
f whispers, "and for - lorn." Comes, at last, a voice of thrilling glad - ness, rall.
f whispers, "and for - lorn." Comes, at last, a voice of thrilling glad - ness, rall.
f whispers, "and for - lorn." Comes, at last, a voice of thrill-ing gladness, Animato. ♩ = 80.
rall.
f
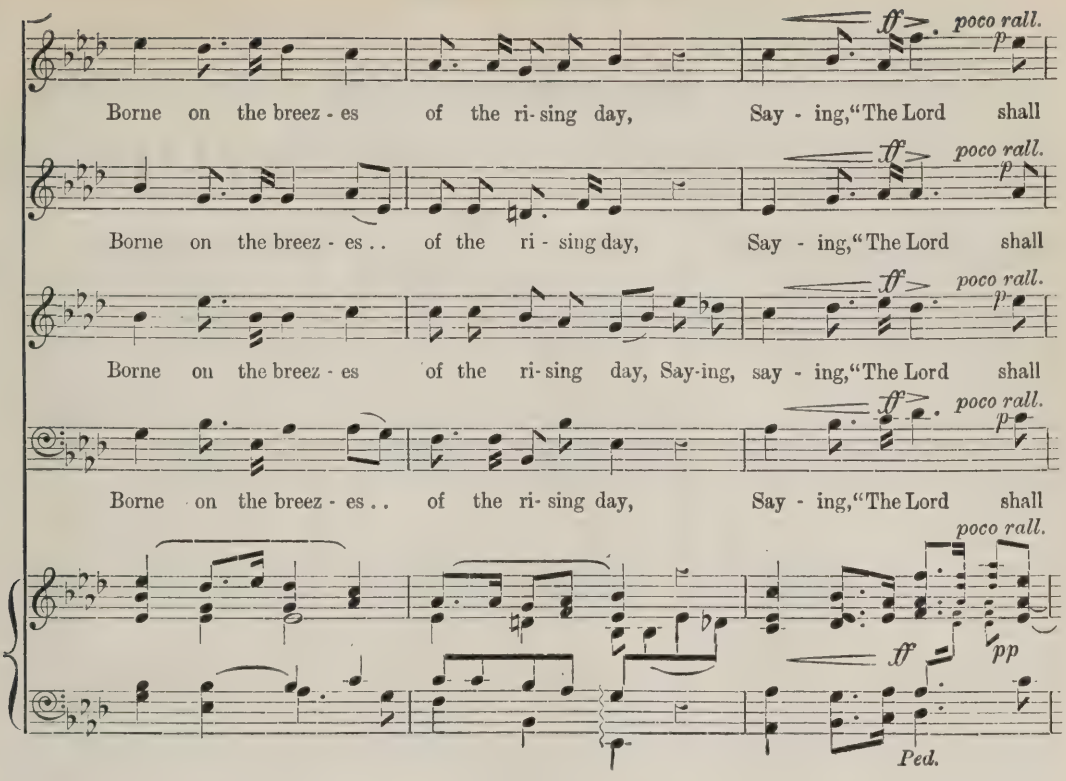
Ped. *



Borne on the breez - es of the ri - sing day, Say - ing, "The Lord shall Borne on the breez - es .. of the ri - sing day, Say - ing, "The Lord shall Borne on the breez - es of the ri - sing day, Say-ing, say - ing, "The Lord shall Borne on the breez - es .. of the ri - sing day, Say - ing, "The Lord shall poco rall.
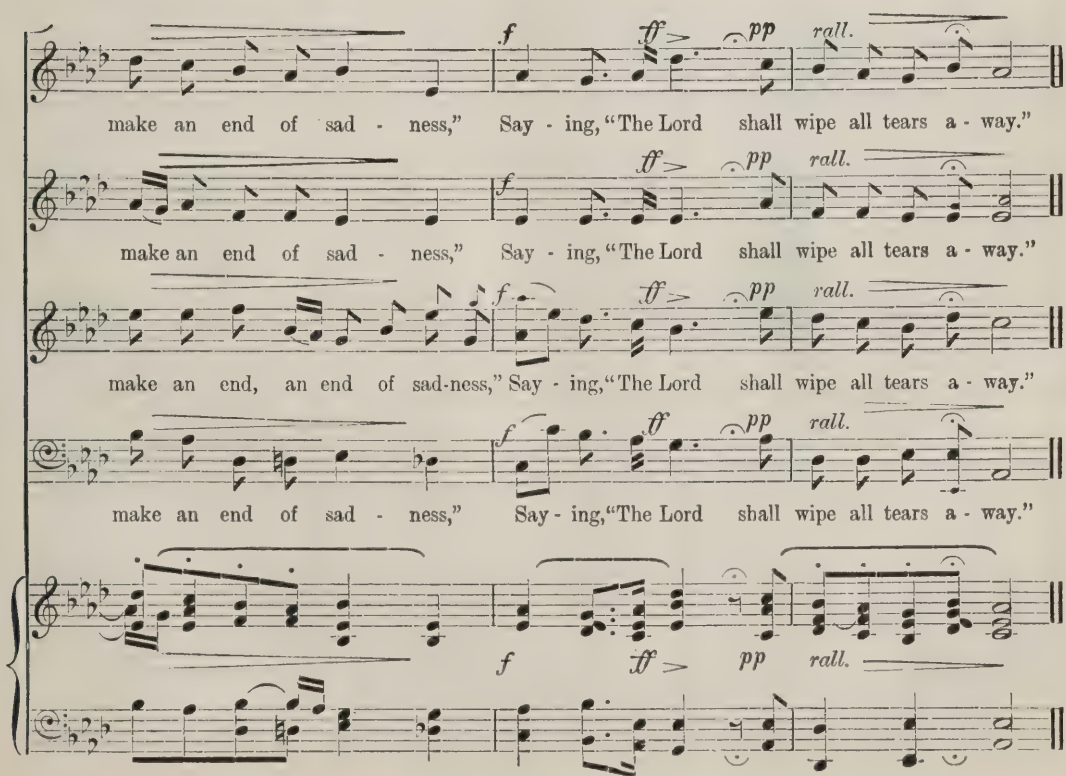
Ped.



make an end of sad - ness," Say - ing, "The Lord shall wipe all tears a - way."
make an end of sad - ness," Say - ing, "The Lord shall wipe all tears a - way."
make an end, an end of sad-ness," Say - ing, "The Lord shall wipe all tears a - way."
make an end of sad - ness," Say - ing, "The Lord shall wipe all tears a - way."
rall.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF ANTHEMS.

426. Sun of my soul ... R. Dunstan 3d.
905. Take My yoke upon you T. Adams 2d.
540. Teach me, O Lord G. J. Elvey 3d.
297. Teach me, O Lord J. W. Gritton 3d.
850. Teach me Thy way William Fox 2d.
852. Teach me Thy way E. Hooper 2d.
669. Teach me Thy way ... Spohr 1½d.
808. Ten thousand times E. V. Hall 3d.
620. Ditto ... F. Tozer 4d.
458. Thanks be to God ...J. W. Gritton 3d.
627. Thanks be to God ... Oliver King 3d.
684. The Angel said (S. & B.) A. H. Brown 2d.
723. The arm of the Lord ... Haydn 4d.
472. The blessing of the Lord J. F. Bridge 2d.
194. Ditto A. C. Mackenzie 3d.
421. The day is past ... J. C. Marks 3d.
461. The Day of Resurrection E. V. Hall 3d.
552. The day Thou gavest Woodward 3d.
239. The earth is the Lord's Trimnell 4d.
687. Ditto J. Hopkins 4d.
482. The eyes of all ... ... T. Adams 3d.
547. The eyes of all ... ... G. J. Elvey 3d.
573. The eyes of all ... M. B. Foster 3d.
289. The eyes of all ...Orlando Gibbons 4d.
878. The eyes of the Lord are West 2d.
689. The face of death ... W. Parratt 2d.
448. The First Christmas J. Barnby 3d.
534. The first day of the week B. Steane 3d.
214. The fool hath said W. Bennett 4d.
271. The fool within his Rheinberger 3d.
413. The fost'ring earth J. L. Hopkins 3d.
746. The glory of Lebanon ...Wareing 3d.
593. The glory of the God T. Adams 3d.
177. The glory of the Lord... J. Goss 6d.
245. The God of Jeshurun ... J. Goss 6d.
754. The hallowed day B. Luard-Selby 3d.
804. The Heavens declare Macpherson 4d.
299. The hills stand about G. Gardner 4d.
755. The hymn of the angels J. E. West 4d.
733. The King shall rejoice E. V. Hall 4d.
734. Ditto C. Harris 4d.
313. Ditto Stewart 6d.
981. Ditto C. Lee Williams 2d.
906. The Lord came from Sinai West 3d.
193. The Lord gave A. C. Mackenzie 2d.
270. The Lord give ear J. Rheinberger 3d.
526. The Lord hath (Male) Mendelssohn 4d.
312. The Lord hath been E. T. Chipp 3d.
477. The Lord hath been S. S. Wesley 3d.
263. The Lord hath done ... H. Smart 4d.
839. The Lord hath done John E. West 4d.
224. The Lord hear thee J. Barkworth 2d.
823. The Lord hear thee John Blow 2d.
893. The Lord is full of F. E. Gladstone 3d.
44. The Lord is great ... W. T. Best 3d.
248. The Lord is in ... G. Saunders 4d.
704. The Lord is in His holy Stainer 4d.
85. The Lord is King Henry Gadsby 6d.
367. The Lord is King ... H. J. King 4d.
869. The Lord is King ... W. King 2d.
41. The Lord is King T. T. Trimnell 4d.
483. The Lord is loving...A. W. Batson 3d.
39. The Lord is loving... Garrett 3d.
50. The Lord is my light H. Hiles 3d.
407. The Lord is my light W. Jordan 3d.
815. The Lord is my light Sydenham 3d.
613. The Lord is my Shepherd Higgs 4d.
67. Ditto (S.S.A.A.) Schubert 4d.
594. Ditto (S.A.T.B.) Schubert 4d.
152. Ditto ... J. Shaw 3d.
793. Ditto (S.A.T.B.) H. Smart 3d.
738. Ditto D. S. Smith 3d.
305. Ditto C. V. Stanford 6d.
862. The Lord is my strength Booth 3d.
398. Ditto S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
243. Ditto J. Goss 6d.
947. Ditto Bruce Steane 3d.
422. The Lord is risen G. M. Garrett 4d.
696. The Lord liveth A. W. Marchant 3d.
731. The Lord Omnipotent T. Adams 3d.
873. The Lord our Righteousness Blair 3d.
304. The Lord preserveth ... Armes 6d.
474. The Lord shall be J. V. Roberts 4d.
84. The Lord that made J. Turle 2d.
112. The Lord will comfort Hiles 6d.

86. The morning stars ... J. Stainer 6d.
767. Ditto G. A. A. West 4d.
749. The New-born King P. E. Fletcher 3d.
465. The night is far spent (S.A.) Foster 3d.
607. The night is far spent (S.A.T.B) Foster 3d.
640. The Parable of the F. J. Sawyer 4d.
676. The people that ... C. F. Bowes 4d.
762. The promise which was Bairstow 4d.
941. The radiant morn B. Steane 3d.
736. The reproaches ... J. B. Dykes 3d.
174. The righteous live ... J. Stainer 4d.
255. The righteous living Mendelssohn 3d.
155. The righteous shall flourish Calkin 4d.
977. The secret of the Lord ... West 3d.
614. The souls of the righteous... Byrd 3d.
559. Ditto ... Elvey 2d.
249. Ditto Myles B. Foster 3d.
140. Ditto ... Nares 3d.
294. Ditto Wm. Rea 6d.
285. Ditto H. H. Woodward 3d.
755. The stars in their silent ... West 4d.
457. The Story of the Cross M. B. Foster 3d.
557. Ditto J. V. Roberts 3d.
531. Ditto A. Somervell 3d.
452. Ditto J. Stainer 3d.
360. The strong foundations F. Brandeis 2d.
834. The surrender of the Cornelius 4d.
925 The Vineyard of the Lord Wareing 3d.
493 The whole earth J. V. Roberts. 4d.
31. The wilderness ... John Goss 6d.
110. The wilderness ... S. S. Wesley 6d.
649. The Word is made... T. Adams 2d.
576. There is a green hill Gounod 4d.
302. There is no condemnation Irons 3d.
882. There is no sorrow A. E. Godfrey 3d.
245. There is none like unto ... Goss 6d.
809. There is none that can ... Atkins 4d.
85. There shall a Star ... Mendelssohn 6d.
600. There shall be an heap F. Tozer 3d.
670. Ditto Cuthbert Harris 3d.
685. There shall come a star C. Harris 3d.
574. There shall come forth Mansfield 3d.
750. There shall come forth F. Tozer 3d.
253. There was a marriage J. Stainer 3d.
414. There was war in ... Cruickshank 3d.
466. There were shepherds (S.A.) Foster 3d.
516. Ditto E. Pettman 3d.
817. Ditto E. A. Sydenham 3d.
324. Ditto C. Vincent 4d.
447. Ditto H. W. Wareing 3d.
871. Ditto Healey Willan 3d.
19. Therefore with angels V. Novello 2d.
93. These are they which came Dykes 6d.
966. They are at rest ... E. Elgar 3d.
157. They that go down T. Attwood 4d.
709. Ditto H. Clarke 4d.
546. Ditto G. Elvey 6d.
432. They that sow A. W. Batson 3d.
705. They were lovely ... Stainer 4d.
221. Think, good Jesu ... Mozart 6d.
359. Think not that they F. Brandeis 2d.
161. This is the day ... S. C. Cooke 3d.
422. This is the day G. M. Garrett 4d.
327. This is the day ... E. V. Hall 4d.
949. This is the day B. Harwood 3d.
621. This is the day E. H. Lemare 4d.
462. This is the day A. W. Marchant 3d.
13. This is the day ... John Sewell 2d.
735. This is the day ... B. Steane 4d.
4. This is the day ... J. Turle 3d.
851. This is the record of John Gibbons 3d.
828. Thou art a Priest for S. Wesley 3d.
678. Thou art gone to the Williams 2d.
934. Thou art My Son ... T. Adams 3d.
265. Thou Judge of quick & dead Wesley 3d.
259. Thou, Lord, art merciful Mozart 6d.
653. Thou, Lord, in the... J. Stainer 4d.
354. Thou, O God, art praised E. V. Hall 3d.
930. Ditto J. W. Elliott 2d.
579. Ditto B. Luard-Selby 3d.
281. Ditto R. Stewart 4d.
62. Ditto S. Wesley 3d.
747. Ditto W. Wolstenholme 4d.
826. Thou shalt keep the feast Cowen 4d.
476. Thou shalt shew me C. Bowdler 3d.

634. Thou that sittest between F. Illife 3d.
480. Thou visitest the earth J. Barnby 4d.
244. Thou visitest the earth J. B. Calkin 4d.
191. Thou visitest the earth Callcott 2d.
549. Thou visitest the earth ... Elliott 3d.
866. Thou who art for ever A. Dvorák 3d.
484. Thou wilt keep him P. Armes 4d.
714. Thou wilt keep him J. B. Calkin 2d.
72. Thou wilt keep him Gauntlett 3d.
107. Thou wilt keep him... S. S. Wesley 3d.
276. Thou wilt keep him C. L. Williams 2d.
515. Through peace ... J. H. Roberts 3d.
902. Through the day ... Luard-Selby 2d.
216. Thus saith the Lord Garrett 6d.
622. Ditto P. J. Fry 3d.
441. Thy mercy, O Lord Garrett 6d.
320. Thy mercy, O Lord E. J. Hopkins 6d.
514. Thy word is a lantern H. Purcell 4d.
363. To bless Thy chosen F. Brandeis 2d.
980. To the Holy Spirit H. W. Davies 4d.
322. To Thee, O Lord C. L. Williams 3d.
443. Try me, O God (Male) A. D. Culley 2d.
618. Turba rum voces ... G. Byrd 4d.
275. Turn Thy face ... Steggall 4d.
626. Turn ye (Rend your) Godfrey 3d.
160. Unto Thee have I cried G. Elvey 3d.
601. Unto Thee, O God, do we B. Steane 3d.
555. Unto us a Child is born F. Adlam 4d.
186. Wash me throughly S. S. Wesley 3d.
757. Weary of earth ... E. V. Hall 3d.
610. Weary pilgrims ... F. Leoni 3d.
386. We bese ech Thee John E. West 2d.
76. We give Thee thanks ... Macfarren 3d.
74. We have heard ... A. Sullivan 6d.
888. We sent unto thee ... A. Hollins 3d.
387. We shall not hunger A. Mackenzie 3d.
127. We will rejoice ... Croft 4d.
57. What are these ... J. Stainer 3d.
965. What sweeter music H. W. Davies 6d.
974. Whate'er the blossom'd Haydn 3d.
235. Whatsoever is born of God Oakeley 3d.
606. When Christ was born Davies 4d.
538. When Christ, Who J. V. Roberts 2d.
337. When God of old ... E. V. Hall 3d.
786. When Israel came out of Wesley 4d.
489. When Jesus was born Cruickshank 3d.
791. When the Lord turned E. Faning 4d.
372. When the Lord turned E. Prout 6d.
563. Where Thou reignest Schubert 3d.
69. Wherewithal shall ... G. Elvey 6d.
26. Ditto ... ...H. Hiles 3d.
650. While all things ... H. J. King 3d.
889. While all things Healey Willan 3d.
529. While shepherds watched Barnby 4d.
541. Ditto Elvey 3d.
910. Ditto E. V. Hall 3d.
637. While the earth remaineth Gaul 4d.
175. Ditto Heap 4d.
640. Ditto Sawyer 4d.
578. Ditto Bruce Steane 3d.
954. Ditto H. W. Wareing 3d.
463. Ditto C. L. Williams 3d.
361. While with ceaseless F. Brandeis 2d.
787. Who can comprehend Thee Mozart 3d.
264. Who is like unto Thee A. Sullivan 6d.
836. Who is this? H. Elliot Button 3d.
417. Ditto Fred. Rayner 2d.
115. Who is this that cometh Arnold 4d.
181. Whoso dwelleth ... G. C. Martin 4d.
269. Why assemble the ... Rheinberger 3d.
299. Why do the heathen Gardner 4d.
23. Why rage fiercely ... Mendelssohn 6d.
218. Why seek ye the living Alexander 3d.
468. Ditto (S.A.) M. B. Foster 3d
918. Ditto A. Hollins 3d
423. Ditto F. Peel 4d.
645. Why standest Thou M. B. Foster 3d.
661. Wisdom shall praise herself West 3d.
20. With angels... ... J. L. Hopkins 3d.
821. Withdraw not Thou Thy Attwood 4d.
22. Word of God incarnate ...Gounod 3d.
785. Worthy is the Lamb E. H. Thorne 3d.
572. Ye holy Angels bright Richards 3d.
352. Ye shall go out with joy J. Barnby 4d.

(To be continued.)

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS' ANNUAL DINNER.

This event was held at the Café Monico on June 6. Dr. C. Harford Lloyd, M.A., the President of the College, was in the chair. The guests and members present included the Rev. and Hon. E. Lyttelton (Headmaster of Eton College), Sir Hubert Parry, Bart., Sir William Bigge, Sir Frederick Bridge, C.V.O., Sir George Martin, M.V.O., Sir Walter Parratt, M.V.O., Dr. Alcock, M.V.O., Dr. H. P. Allen, Dr. Maclean, Dr. Cummings, Dr. McNaught, Rev. H. Cart de Lafontaine, Dr. Southgate, Professor Buck, Dr. Huntley, Dr. F. G. Shinn, Dr. Sweeting, Dr. H. Davan Wetton, Dr. Alan Gray, Dr. Borland, Dr. Harding (Hon. Sec.), Dr. R. R. Terry, Dr. Merrill, Dr. R. C. Hazlehurst, Mr. Charles Macpherson, Mr. J. Percy Baker, and many ladies.

After Dr. Lloyd had proposed the customary loyal toasts, Sir Hubert Parry proposed the toast of the Royal College of Organists. He first alluded to a very popular composer, who thirty years ago used to describe organists as 'pedal-kickers.' No doubt this musician was thinking of the condition of things fifty years ago—a sad period to look back to, when organists kicked more wrong pedals than they did now. In those times they were little gods, with no one to keep them up to the mark, and they were not concerned to expand their minds. But when the Royal College of Organists began to exercise its beneficial influence the turn of the tide came. That was part of the general renaissance of music, and organists had now to compete with orchestral and other forms of music. The result was that they were tempted to turn the organ into an orchestral instrument, and to perform all sorts of antics on it for which it was not really adapted. He was not however alarmed at this unrest in music, for it meant, as it did elsewhere, a new life. No doubt with desire to progress there was the possibility of going wrong. But he would rather a man wrote all sorts of abominations than that he should be a hopelessly conventional person. The Royal College of Organists should be the maintainer of tradition, but not of convention, which was quite another thing. Tradition was the conservation of the great things the best minds had found out for us. There were many things in our Church music that were not as they should be. We had dreadful, lollypop hymn-tunes without a trace of nobility, or power to raise the finest sentiments in human nature. Church music should be above all things noble, refined, and dignified. One must, he admitted, shrug one's shoulders, and to some extent make concessions to the weak and unintelligent, but these must not have it all their own way. That was where the Royal College of Organists came in. They knew from the splendid competitive Festivals that when opportunity of becoming acquainted with the best music was afforded, the people were ready to appreciate.

Sir Hubert commented with some severity on the speed with which hymn-tunes were sometimes sung. He remembered the extreme solemnity and slow pace with which S. S. Wesley played his tune 'Aurelia.' Contrast the rapid, flippant style of its performance nowadays. He had a tremendous appreciation for the Royal College of Organists. There were now a glorious number of gifted organists in the world, and he ventured to say that organ-music was rising to a standard which it had never before attained since the days of John Sebastian Bach. Karg-Elert and others were writing wonderful organ-music.

Sir Walter Parratt then said that he was in cordial agreement with Sir Hubert Parry. With regard to unrest, he agreed that 'rest' meant 'rust.' When all the froth of much of what was going on in the present day had gone, very much that was good would remain. After congratulating the College upon its President (Dr. Harford Lloyd), he went on to say that the College had sustained a great loss in the death of Dr. Peace. He felt it personally, because Dr. Peace and he had been boys together, and used to blow for one another. Regarding orchestral effects on the organ, he believed he was responsible for the introduction of arrangements in the College list of organ tests, and he did not regret that in the least. A great number of organists dwelt in places where there was no orchestral music at all; but in London and other large cities where so much orchestral music could be heard, attempts of organists to play this sort of music could not be said to be necessary.

Professor Buck proposed the toast of the Visitors, coupling with it the name of the Rev. and Hon. E. Lyttelton, Headmaster of Eton. He thought that all present would agree that the social status of the musical profession was not altogether what they would have liked it to be, and he looked to public-school boys to help to amend this. That sort of boy would raise the profession, and the headmaster of Eton was one who could help this to come to pass. He thought they were particularly fortunate in the men who were Heads of the Public Schools. The Headmaster of Harrow was very keen on music; the Head of Rugby was an extremely able musician; the Head of Winchester was also very fond of music. At Harrow it had just been settled that at the next examination for entrance scholarships, which hitherto had been awarded for history and classics, one would be given for music.

In responding, the Rev. and Hon. E. Lyttelton said that he was an ignoramus among experts, and he felt the same kind of halting fear as when he spoke with his chauffeur, who always turned the conversation on to the interior of the motor. He wished that the talents of a great man—Mr. Gladstone—had descended upon some of the younger generation. On one occasion the Vicar of Tewkesbury was showing Mr. Gladstone over the Abbey, and the organist came down and joined in the conversation. He and Mr. Gladstone talked eagerly for ten minutes, and when afterwards the Vicar asked the organist whether he knew with whom he had been conversing, the organist replied, 'I have not the least idea, except that he was an organist.' He (Mr. Lyttelton) thought an organist differed from most human beings in that if he did fairly well he could not escape making people who listened to him better than they were before. Since the days when the songs of England were destroyed by the Duke of Somerset, organists were the only people who had kept up the traditions of music. Speaking on behalf of himself and other visitors, he could not help being reminded of a quotation from one of Disraeli's novels, aptly expressing his emotions, which he hoped they would believe were sincere. In the course of a dialogue, a speaker who had been well treated by one of the others said, 'I have a feeling at my heart; it may be indigestion, but I think it is gratitude.' He asked them to believe the first part of the sentence was hypothetical, and the second part fact.

Sir Frederick Bridge, in proposing the toast of 'The Musical Institutions,' said that the College of Organists could rejoice in the friendly attitude observed towards it by all other musical institutions. He much appreciated the great friendliness shown by the College to his proposition to establish a fund for the relief of organists and their children. In the first two years they had received £167 in donations and £628 from organ recitals. Extraordinary musical progress had been made since the early days when he gave organ recitals at Windsor. Sir Hubert Parry was a boy at Eton then. There was only the Royal Academy; no Royal College and no College of Organists. He had spent thirty-seven years now at the dear old Abbey. He was the oldest inhabitant; he did not think there was even a pigeon left that was there when first he came. He coupled with the toast the name of Dr. H. P. Allen.

Dr. Allen, in responding, said there were two kinds of musical institutions, the real ones and the bogus ones. He desired also to include choral Societies in that category. They were doing work now that a few years ago would have been considered impossible. Bach was now generally considered to be a proper field for musical endeavour. During the last ten years he had noted the improvement that had taken place in the ability of boys coming from the public schools to the University. That reflected great credit on the music-masters of those schools. Then there was an organization which was very young and strong, and was doing almost the greatest work of all the institutions. He meant the Competitive Festival movement. When carefully guided, this movement became a powerful stimulus for the spread of the study of good music.

Sir George Martin proposed the toast of 'The President.' He had tramped over the Highlands with him shooting grouse, he had fought him 'tooth and nail' on the golf links, and more than that, he had sat with him in solemn conclave for hundreds of hours editing a Psalter. He (Dr. Lloyd) occupied one of the foremost positions open to a musician (the music-mastership of Eton College), and had filled the position with great credit and distinction. They all wished him long life, happiness, success, and everything that was good for him.

Dr. Harford Lloyd said it gave him much pleasure to have his health proposed by one of the youngest doctors in his University. [An allusion to the recent conferring of an honorary degree upon Sir George by Oxford University, an event fully recorded in our June issue.] He (Dr. Lloyd) had had honour thrust on him more than once in his life. Twenty years ago he went from Oxford to a neighbouring village to give an organ recital. The visit prompted an effusion which began thus:

'Two score days of Lent were passed,
Easter Monday dawned at last;
When in mingled snow and rain,
Down to Oxford steamed the train,
From the which there straight alighted,
One whom all our hearts delighted!'

He would not read it all, but the third stanza began thus:

'He was Dr. Harford Lloyd,
Scarce a seat in church was void!'

And so on. His bosom swelled with increasing pride until he reached the Coda; and the Coda ran thus:

'A.B. . . . C., Agent for X.Y.Z.'s cure for Deafness!'

He turned over the leaflet, and on the other side the poet proceeded to sing the praises of a certain cure for corns!

Other honours he greatly valued were the dedication to him of Dr. Basil Harwood's Organ sonata and Sir Hubert Parry's Preludes on hymn-tunes. Dr. Lloyd went on to speak highly of the musical work now being accomplished in public schools, but deplored the neglect of sight-singing in the preparatory schools. They wanted every single boy who went to a school of that type to spend, say, ten minutes a day in learning to read music at sight. After reading letters of regret received from many distinguished musicians who were unable to attend the banquet, Dr. Lloyd again thanked the company for the cordial way in which they had received the toast.

Dr. Shinn then proposed the health of the hon. secretary (Dr. Harding) and the hon. treasurer (Dr. Pearce), whose work he praised very highly. Both these officers responded to the toast in felicitous terms, and after Dr. Alcock had happily proposed the health of the ladies present, and Mr. Charles Macpherson had responded on their behalf, the proceedings terminated.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Formal Opening.

Although the splendid new building of the Royal Academy of Music has been occupied during the whole of this year, it was not until June 22 that it was formally and ceremoniously opened. The President of the Academy, His Royal Highness The Duke of Connaught, being in Canada, it was a happy arrangement that the task should be undertaken by his son, His Royal Highness Prince Arthur of Connaught, K.G., G.C.V.O.

A large company, including many well-known musicians, assembled in the afternoon, when the ceremony of declaring the building open took place. The master-key was presented to His Royal Highness by Mr. Alderman Cooper, chairman of the committee of management. A short concert in the handsome and commodious concert hall was given by the students. The programme included Beethoven's Overture, Op. 122, 'The Inauguration of the House,' the 'Tone-poem for orchestra,' written by Sir Alexander Mackenzie for the centenary of the Philharmonic Society, and a 'Fifty-part motet for female voices, organ, harps, trumpets and drums,' composed by Mr. Frederick Corder, to words taken from the Psalms, 'Sing unto God our strength; make a joyful noise to the God of Jacob,' &c. We hope to find some opportunity of saying more than we can just now regarding this extraordinary composition. For the present, we must be content to say that it is a very striking work, and a remarkable example of the composer's skill. The climax near the end is gorgeous. Whether the use of fifty-parts is an advantage over a fifth of that number is a matter for discussion.

The declaration of the opening of the building was then made by His Royal Highness, and a vote of thanks to him was moved by the Right Hon. Lord Alverstone (Lord Chief Justice of England), and supported by Mr. Alderman Cooper and Sir George Donaldson. Attention was drawn to the fine new organ in the hall, the gift of Mrs. Threlfall in memory of her late husband, who was chairman of the committee of management.

At an evening concert and reception there was again a distinguished company present. After an organ-recital by Dr. H. W. Richards, at which he performed the first movement of Elgar's Sonata in G, Op. 28, and Stanford's Fantasia and Toccata in D minor, Op. 57, a concert was given, the programme of which included Sullivan's Overture 'Di Ballo,' two songs by Montague Phillips, charmingly sung by Miss Clara Butterworth, a remarkably fine performance by Miss Irene Scharrer of Mackenzie's 'Scottish' Pianoforte concerto (surely one of the most beautiful works by any British composer), some songs by Mr. McEwen, sung with great effect by Miss Caroline Hatchard, a flute solo by Nellie Fulcher, played by Miss Penville, and two violoncello solos, composed and played by Miss May Mukle. Mr. Arthur Alexander accompanied. The fifty-part motet was repeated with even greater effect than in the afternoon. Mr. Corder on each occasion conducted his own work, and the remainder of the programmes was conducted by Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the Principal.

Among the visitors in addition to those named were the Right Hon. Lord Strathcona, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Sir Hubert Parry, Sir George Martin, Dr. W. H. Cummings, Sir William E. Bigge, Sir George Alexander, Mr. Edward German, Madame Albani, Mr. Charles Rube, Mr. Alfred Littleton, Mr. A. F. Hill (Master of the Musicians' Company), Madame Tetrazzini, Mr. Josef Holbrooke, Mr. Clifford B. Edgar, &c.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

'The Jewels of the Madonna.'

The operatic outlook is not any the brighter for 'The Jewels of the Madonna,' which came into view on May 31. The composer, Signor Wolf-Ferrari, has already made himself known to the patrons of the Royal Opera by his delightful 'Interlude' styled 'The secret of Susanna,' produced last year. His labours on a bigger canvas are less effective. The librettists, Signori C. Zangarini and E. Golisciani, following the example of Gustave Charpentier, have contrived a story of to-day with the Neapolitan Camorrists and various every-day people as the chief characters. Some sort of novelty is therefore imparted to the setting, since we see people in straw hats and flannel suits dancing to the strains of a piano-organ and throwing paper streamers. Yet the underlying theme is the old story of woman's desire to be pleased and of man's utter self-destruction to please her. In this case it is nothing less than the jewels ornamenting the figure of the Madonna that will satisfy the lady in question. She is the adopted daughter of the mother of a youthful blacksmith. The chief of the Camorrists (Signor Sammarco) makes her acquaintance through the painful but characteristic process of a stab with a hair-pin; and friendly relations having been thus established, announces that his regard for her is sufficient to induce him to steal the jewels from the Madonna which at that moment is being carried through the streets. The blacksmith (Signor Martinelli) learns of this gallant attention, and in order to prove himself as good a blackguard as the Camorrist applies his 'special knowledge' and secures the jewels. The lady is delighted. Adorned with the stolen jewels she gives herself to him in one of the most questionable scenes that has ever been performed on the operatic stage. But the sacrilege is too much for the tender consciences of the Camorrists. They will have nothing to do with her or with her lover; and a double suicide settles the matter.

The music is a curious mixture of styles. There are ingenuity and melodic attraction in the portions of the score that accompany the street scenes. On the emotional side it is rather crude. In point of expression the composer has not got very much further than Mascagni. He is at his best in a pretty Serenade and in a dance (to a piano-organ) by the Camorrists. In the remainder there is much strenuousness, much emphasis and no real feeling. Madame Edvina showed a decided expansion of power as vocalist and actress as the Girl, Signor Martinelli sang with fine abandon as the Lover, and Signor Sammarco astonished his admirers by the success with which he assumed the character of the hooligan Camorrist. Mounting and stage business were of the usual perfection of the Royal Opera. Signor Campanini conducted admirably and showed evident appreciation of the work—a curious error of judgment on his part.

For the remainder, the list of operas has been familiar. M. Paul Franz, the fine French tenor, has returned and has realised all prophecies concerning his greatness. The outstanding features have been the 'star' performance of 'Gli Ugonotti,' with Mesdames Tetrazzini, Destinn, Donalda, MM. Franz, Sammarco, Marcoux and Arimondi. Such an interpretation of the great duet as was given by Madame Destinn and M. Franz has not been heard for years. There have been some experimental casts for the familiar operas, and Madame Tetrazzini has maintained her supremacy in a round of well-known characters. The new-comers have included Madame Agostinelli, who appeared in Puccini's 'Manon Lescaut' and revealed great charm if no power. And the Russian Ballet has once more swept the board. Its latest effort, 'L'Oiseau de Feu,' by Stravinsky, represents the Richard Strauss methods applied to the ballet—and with extraordinary success.

SHAKESPEARE CONCERTS AT EARL'S COURT.

The interesting experiment of giving concerts of music connected with Shakespearean plays every Saturday afternoon at the Empress Hall in the Earl's Court Exhibition has not been notably successful with the public, but it has provided the musician opportunities to hear many good works that would otherwise have remained in obscurity. From so large a list as the complete programmes would make we select the following for special mention:

May 18—
Concert Overture, 'Romeo and Juliet' Henry Hugo Pierson
Fantaisie, 'Romeo and Juliet' ... ... Svendsen
May 25—
Tone-poem, 'Macbeth' ... ... Strauss
Overtures to 'Macbeth,' by Walter Handel Thorley, H. H. Pierson, Spohr, and Sullivan.
June 1—
Symphonic-poems, 'Hamlet' and 'Ophelia' MacDowell
'The interment of Ophelia'... Bourgault-Ducoudray
Suite, 'Hamlet' ... ... Georg Henschel
June 8—
Overture and incidental music, 'King Lear,' Norman O'Neill
Overture, 'King Lear' ... ... Litolff
June 15—
Fantaisie, 'The Tempest' ... ... Tchaikovsky
'The Tempest' Suite ... ... Corder
Scherzo fantastique, 'Caliban' ... W. H. Reed

The programmes contained many of the well-known works whose names will occur to everybody, and a number of songs with able vocalists as their exponents. The orchestra was that of the Queen's Hall, which Sir Henry Wood and various composers conducted.

THE LONDON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

This remarkable organization has been very active since its return from America. The regular season of concerts was resumed on May 20, when Herr Nikisch conducted. Tchaikovsky's 'Symphonie Pathétique'—which was the chief battlehorse of both conductor and Orchestra during the tour—was given a memorable performance, which restored colour to a work that is getting faded. Schumann's Pianoforte concerto was played with refined skill by Mlle. Paula Hegner, who increased thereby the notability she had gained as accompanist to Miss Gerhardt. The remainder of the programme consisted of the 'Egmont' and 'Euryanthe' Overtures.

M. Paderewski's 'Polish' Symphony, a work of high endeavour and musicianship, individual beauty, and seventy minutes' duration, was performed on June 3 under the direction of Herr Nikisch, who did not avail himself of the composer's permission to make 'cuts.' Songs by Hugo Wolf were sung by Miss Elena Gerhardt with orchestral accompaniment, and the programme included Strauss's 'Don Juan.'

The concert given on June 10 was perhaps the most remarkable of the series. It is difficult to conceive of new light being legitimately thrown on Beethoven's fifth and seventh Symphonies at this stage, but the feat was achieved by Herr Nikisch. He threw much of his Hungarian temperament into the readings, without distorting the music, and revealed new point in much of the scoring. The superb playing of the Orchestra made good the new meanings discovered by the conductor, who made it seem that Beethoven contributed more than is realised to the foundations of modern orchestration. The programme included the 'Leonora' No. 2 Overture, which was as distinctively played as the Symphonies.

The final concert of the series took place on June 17, when M. Gustave Doret, a young French conductor, showed respectable powers in Saint-Saëns's third Symphony and the accompaniment to Chopin's F minor Pianoforte concerto, as played with much beauty of tone and feeling by M. Paderewski. Wagner's 'Meistersinger' Overture, the Ballet-music from Gluck's 'Orpheus,' and Elgar's 'Cockaigne' Overture were the remainder of a well-varied and not too serious programme.

On May 22, the Orchestra played at a concert given by M. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. A reading of Brahms's first Symphony, containing much that was both new and interesting, established the conductor's abilities. He supplied reliable accompaniment to Herr Zimbalist in Glazounow's A major Violin concerto. He also directed the 'Meistersinger' Overture and, with less success, Debussy's 'L'Après-midi d'un Faune.'

A further concert was given on June 15, when Mr. Ernest Schelling was pianist and Herr Mengelberg conductor. The chief object of the concert was to enable the latter to repeat his unique interpretation of Strauss's 'Ein Heldenleben.' The work has never seemed so reasonable as under his direction. The energy he gives to the heroic music and that of the battle is terrific, but the bare epithet of 'noisy' was made to seem a distinctly unjust description of the latter. The work has undeniable beauties which grow on one, and the growth is much accelerated by such performances as those of Mengelberg and the London Symphony Orchestra. The violin solo-music was ably played by Mr. W. H. Reed. Mr. Schelling played Beethoven's 'Emperor' Concerto excellently, and the scheme included Cherubini's 'Anacreon' Overture and vocal contributions of Miss D. Daker-Fletcher.

MR. PERCY GRAINGER'S CONCERT.

The concert of works by Mr. Percy Aldridge Grainger, the well-known pianist, given at Æolian Hall on May 21, was one of the most interesting events of the season, and Mr. Grainger is so individual and downright in all that he does that it could hardly fail to please the public. The programme included folk-song settings for string 'foursomes' or four single mixed voices, or various odd and oddly-described combinations; 'room-music tit-bits'; 'songs for voice,' and so on. The best works were those in which real or imitative 'folk-music tune-stuffs' were instrumentally developed and subjected to strong rhythmic treatment, with little or no harmonic interest or change of key. Mr. Grainger knows how to elaborate a long crescendo followed, if he chooses, by a long diminuendo. Contrapuntal and rhythmic devices follow in quick succession as he goes through the tune over and over again. The result is exhilarating, and stimulates the muscles of those who listen as well as of those who play. But with full acknowledgment of Mr. Grainger's ingenuity, it may be doubted whether he takes us, musically, any 'forrader.' The fact that no other composers do what he does may mean only that they do not think it worth while. Certainly no other composer thinks it worth while to describe violas and 'cellos as middle-fiddles and bass-fiddles. The absolutely original and serious works in the programme were distinctly less inspiring than the rest. Mr. Grainger was assisted by an array of artists. The title-description of the most elaborate work will indicate the diversity of their occupations: 'Scotch Strathspey and Reel, inlaid with several Irish and Scotch tunes, and a Sea-chanty' for four men's voices, flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, baritone English concertina, hammer-wood (xylophone), two guitars, and eight strings. Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. Frederic Austin, and the Langley-Mukle Quartet may be mentioned for the prominence of their share. Mr. Grainger conducted, and played accompaniments.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The season came to end appropriately with a Beethoven concert on May 23, when the programme included two works that have long been particularly associated with the Philharmonic Society's work—the Violin concerto and the Choral Symphony. M. Zimbalist, the violin soloist, upheld the dignity of the occasion with a broadly-expressive performance that was also pure in technique. The interpretation of the instrumental movements of the Symphony, under the guidance of Herr Nikisch, was of notable eloquence; and that of the choral portion, with the London Choral Society assisting, was remarkable for its efficiency and its meaning. The vocal soloists were Madame Gleeson-White, Madame Ada Crossley, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Herbert Brown. The concert opened with Elgar's Dirge for strings, and the programme included the 'Leonora' Overture, No. 3.

London Concerts.

SIGNOR BUSONI'S CONCERT.

Signor Busoni was much in the limelight at Queen's Hall on June 5, when he came forward as pianist, composer, and conductor. Accompanied by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, under the direction of Sir Henry Wood, he gave a magnificent interpretation of Beethoven's 'Emperor' Concerto and a brilliantly-vigorous performance of Liszt's 'Todtentanz.' The peculiar individuality of Signor Busoni's playing, and the technique which enables him to achieve effects beyond the range of other pianists, are well known. His tendencies as a composer are known to be advanced, but the actual material of his music is not familiar to our ears, and it was interesting to examine it in the form of a 'Berceuse élégiaque' and the 'Turandot' incidental music. The programme also included Mozart's 'Il Seraglio' Overture, with a concert-ending by Signor Busoni. The 'Berceuse' was an emotional tone-picture of considerable force, derived from a mysterious mood and still more mysterious harmonies. The 'Turandot' music was more direct in method, but retained all the composer's originality. His mastery of the orchestra was conspicuous. Signor Busoni is certainly a musician of whom we see too little as a pianist and much too little as a composer.

Mr. D. F. Tovey brought his series of 'Chelsea' Concerts to an end at Æolian Hall on May 22, when Señor Casals, with Mr. Tovey as accompanist, gave unsurpassable performances of four Violoncello sonatas by Beethoven.

A satisfying performance of Brahms's Double Concerto for violin, violoncello and orchestra occurs but rarely, as the soloists, however clever they may be, seldom play as with one mind. That given by the Misses May and Beatrice Harrison at Queen's Hall on May 30 was more than satisfying. It could hardly have been bettered in its purity of execution and expressiveness, or in its unanimity. The orchestra was that of the Queen's Hall, conducted by Sir Henry Wood.

Some interest has been added to the daily round of recitals recently by the visit to this country of Mlle. Marie Olénine d'Alheim, who thus extended the Continental reputation she has made as an enthusiast on behalf of Russian vocal music. She gave four recitals at Bechstein Hall on May 31, June 4, 10 and 12, at which she was heard in a wide general repertory and no fewer than forty songs by Russian composers, among whom Moussorgsky received chief attention. There was also a group of ten Russian popular songs. Mlle. d'Alheim is a singer of temperament and intellectual power. We hope to return to a consideration of her programme.

The rapidly progressing St. Margaret's Musical Society gave a highly agreeable concert at the Horticultural Hall on June 6, when Barnett's 'The Ancient Mariner' and Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night' were performed in praiseworthy fashion under the direction of the Rev. Jocelyn Perkins. The solo singers were Miss Margaret Layton, Miss Dorothy Trollope, Mr. Frederick Norcup, and Mr. Montague Borwell.

The appearance on the London concert platform of two prominent Jewish cantors—the Rev. Dr. Bernard Steinberg, of New York (at Queen's Hall on June 6), and the Rev. Cantor Gerschon Sirota, of Warsaw (at the Albert Hall on June 10), deserves mention.

Mr. Wilhelm Ganz, the proud possessor of a sixty-four years' record of musical activity, gave a concert at the Empress Rooms, Kensington, on June 6, with the assistance of well-known artists.

Two Students' Concerts were given during the month at Queen's Hall by the Royal Academy of Music. On June 10, chamber music was presented. An Andante and Scherzo for pianoforte quartet placed Miss Adela Hamaton at the head of the student-composers of the occasion, the others being Miss Helen Bidder with an Allegro for the pianoforte, and Mr. Greville Cooke with a Violoncello sonata. At the orchestral concert on June 18, Miss Ethel Bilsland, whose clever Adagio and Scherzo for pianoforte and orchestra were played, was the only student-composer represented. Sir Alexander Mackenzie conducted the orchestra. At both concerts many capable vocalists and instrumentalists were heard.

The South Hampstead Orchestra, conducted by Mrs. Julian Marshall, is anything but behindhand in the modern ambitions and progress of amateur orchestras. On June 13, at Queen's Hall, this body gave an admirable performance of Brahms's first Symphony, and notably efficient support to Señor Casals in D'Albert's Violoncello concerto, Op. 20.

The capabilities of the pianola in the hands of a highly-skilled manipulator were shown at Queen's Hall on June 14, when it played Grieg's Pianoforte concerto under Mr. Easthope Martin's guidance, accompanied by the London Symphony Orchestra and Herr Nikisch, and provided accompaniment to Miss Gerhardt's singing. The occasion was interesting, but scarcely epoch making.

Madame Tetrazzini appeared on the London concert platform for the first time on June 16, when she took part in the Albert Hall Sunday Concert. Needless to say there was great enthusiasm.

The concert of the Oriana Madrigal Society given at Westminster Cathedral Hall on June 18, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kennedy Scott, was as usual a delightful event. Three madrigals were sung—Bateson's 'Sister, awake,' Wilbye's 'When Cloris heard,' and Hilton's 'Fair Oriana.' There were also Ayres and Rounds and other old choral works, and a large section of the programme was modern. The choral singing advanced the already high standard of the Society. Variety was imparted by the delicately-played pianoforte solos of Mrs. Norman O'Neill.

A small ladies' choir formed in connection with the Catholic Women's League and conducted by Miss Annie Ryan, was heard in the course of a long and miscellaneous concert at Westminster Cathedral Hall on June 18. The quality of voice was excellent, and capacity was shown for accurate intonation and firm execution.

CHAMBER CONCERTS.

Chamber-music organizations do not, it appears, give concerts in London during the high season, probably because they know how poorly it pays. There have, however, been some opportunities afforded of hearing chamber works. On May 30, when Miss Lily West gave a concert at Bechstein Hall, the Grimson Quartet were heard, with Miss Elsie Cook, in Pianoforte quintets of Dvorák and Schumann. The chief interest in Mr. Jan Mulder's concert at Queen's Hall on June 1, was the performance by Mr. Waldo Warner and Mr. Percy Such of a Sonatensatz by Beethoven (discovered by Dr. Stein in a sketch-book), for viola and violoncello 'with obbligato for two eyeglasses.' There was also a Trio for two violins and violoncello by Mozart that was said to be new to London. The London Trio gave their last concert on June 11, when the programme included Rubinstein's Trio in B flat and Brahms's Violoncello sonata in F; the vocalist of the occasion was Miss Lysette Mostyn. The Langley-Mukle Quartet took part in a concert given by Madame Deszö-Nemès at Steinway Hall on June 11, and played Quartets by Purcell, Hugo Wolf, and Debussy. The season of open concerts of the Strings Club came to an end at Maddox Street Galleries on June 17, when Schumann's Pianoforte quintet was creditably performed. An interesting invitation concert was given at Messrs. Novello's music-room on June 5 by Miss Ethel Attwood (pianist), Mr. Tom Fussell (violinist), and Mr. Bernard Beilby (violoncellist). The programme included Mr. Norman O'Neill's well-written Pianoforte trio in one movement and Lekeu's Violin sonata in G. Miss Elaine Birch, who contributed much to the success of the concert, sang three songs by Rachmaninoff, and five of Beethoven's Scotch songs with violin and violoncello obbligato.

VOCAL RECITALS.

Mr. Gregory Hast (farewell recital), Queen's Hall, May 20—'The self-banished,' Blow.

Miss Maggie Teyte, Æolian Hall, May 20, June 14—'De Grève,' Debussy; 'Ecstasy,' Rummell.

Miss Xenia Beaver, Æolian Hall, May 20—'Prière pour qu'un enfant ne meure pas,' Henri Février.

Mr. Alan MacWhirter, Steinway Hall, May 20—Somerset Folk-songs, arr. Cecil Sharp.

Miss Fanny Copeland, Bechstein Hall, May 20—Indian songs collected by Lady Wilson.

Mlle. Sonia Darbell, Æolian Hall, May 22—'Les violons dans le soir,' Saint-Saëns.

Miss Doris Woodall, Bechstein Hall, May 22—'Der Leiermann,' Schubert.

Mr. Thornley Gibson, Bechstein Hall, May 22—'Mystical songs,' Vaughan Williams.

The Folk-Song Quartet, Æolian Hall, May 23—'Liebeslieder Wältzer,' Brahms.

Mr. William Pitt Chatham, Æolian Hall, May 23—'An dem schlummernden Strom,' Tchaikovsky.

Madame Nathalie Aktzery, Æolian Hall, May 29—Russian songs of the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries.

Mr. Vernon d'Arnalle, Æolian Hall, May 29—Old folk-songs of Lower Brittany.

Mr. Harry Alexander, Æolian Hall, May 30—'Lugete, O Veneres,' C. H. Lloyd.

Miss Greta Williams, Bechstein Hall, June 3—'Old-world refrain,' R. Clarke.

Miss Edith Kirkwood, Little Theatre, June 4—Songs by Walter Morse Rummel.

Miss Lula Mysz-Gmeiner, Bechstein Hall, June 6—'Lied vom Winde,' Wolf.

Miss Jean Waterston, Æolian Hall, June 7—'Für funfzehn Pfennige,' Strauss.

Miss Kathleen Howard, Æolian Hall, June 7—'L'esclave,' Lalo.

Mr. Hirwen Jones, Steinway Hall, June 7—'Hob y deri dando,' Welsh melody.

Dr. Theo. Lierhammer, Æolian Hall, June 10—'Auf dem grünen Balcon,' Wolf.

Miss Irene St. Clair, Æolian Hall, June 10—Songs by Augusta Holmés.

Miss Elena Gerhardt, Queen's Hall, June 11—'Fäden,' Erich Wolff.

Miss Christine d'Almayne, Æolian Hall, June 12—'Einen Sommer Lang,' Schütt.

Miss Eva Katharina Lissmann, Bechstein Hall, June 12—'Das Lied im Grünen,' Schubert.

Miss Dykes Spicer, Æolian Hall, June 12—Songs by A. von Fielitz.

Miss Mary Jocelyn and Mr. Frank Gleeson, Bechstein Hall, June 13—'Der Fischerknabe,' Liszt.

Mr. Gervase Elwes and Mr. Campbell McInnes, Æolian Hall, June 14—Cantata, 'Ich lasse dich nicht,' Bach (with Misses Bower and Trollope).

Madame Nordica, Queen's Hall, June 14 (with the New Symphony Orchestra under M. Stokowski)—Closing scene from 'Götterdämmerung,' Wagner.

Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford, Albert Hall, June 15—'Women of Inver,' Raymond Loughborough; 'The roadside fire,' Vaughan Williams.

Miss Jane Gair, Bechstein Hall, June 15—'Life's lights and shadows,' Zacharewitsch.

Miss Florence Shee, Steinway Hall, June 17—'Time's garden,' Goring Thomas.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

Mr. James Friskin, Steinway Hall, May 20—'Goldberg' Aria and Thirty Variations, Bach.

Mr. Percival Garratt, Bechstein Hall, May 20—Cradle song, Garratt.

Miss Guiomar Novaes (age 16), Æolian Hall, May 21—Sonata, Op. 31, No. 2, Beethoven.

M. Robert Lortat, Bechstein Hall, May 21 and 30, June 7, 13 and 18—all the works of Chopin.

Herr Ernst von Lengyel, Bechstein Hall, May 23—Study in C major, Rubinstein.

Mr. Arthur Rubinstein, Bechstein Hall, May 24 and June 4—Sonata in B minor, Chopin; Sonata, Op. 53, Scriabine.

Mr. Marcian Thalberg, Æolian Hall, May 30—Sonata in F sharp minor, Schumann.

Miss Christine Passmore, Queen's Small Hall, May 30—Prelude in B major and 'Elfentanz,' Passmore.

Mlle. Emilienne Bompard, Steinway Hall, May 31—Variations on a Bach theme, Liszt.

Miss Hilda Saxe, Æolian Hall, May 31—Il Penseroso, Liszt.

Mr. Fritz Scavenius, Æolian Hall, June 3—Sonata in E minor, Grieg.

Miss Gertrude Peppercorn, Æolian Hall, June 4—Variations on a theme by Paganini, Brahms.

Herr Backhaus, Queen's Hall, June 8—Five preludes, Rachmaninoff.

Mr. Frederick Morley, Bechstein Hall, June 11—Variations and Fugue on a theme by Handel, Brahms.

Mr. Charles Anthony, Æolian Hall, June 11—Etudes Symphoniques, Schumann.

Mr. Alexander Raab, Queen's Hall, June 12—Sonata in B flat minor, Chopin.

Miss Irene Böhrer, Steinway Hall, June 12—Sonata, Op. 110, Beethoven.

M. Wladimir Cernikoff, Æolian Hall, June 13—Sonata Tragica, MacDowell.

Miss Tina Lerner, Æolian Hall, June 14—Sonata in F sharp minor, Schumann.

Signor Nino Rossi, Bechstein Hall. June 17—'Pastoral' Sonata, Beethoven.

Miss Emma Barnett, Æolian Hall, June 18—Romance, Sibelius.

Miss Marjorie Wigley, Æolian Hall, June 18—Etudes Symphoniques, Schumann.

Master Maurice Reeve (age 14), Bechstein Hall, June 19—'Waldstein' Sonata, Beethoven.

VIOLIN RECITALS.

Mr. Louis Persinger, Bechstein Hall, May 20 and 31—Sonata in E major, Handel.

M. Jacques Thibaud, Bechstein Hall, May 23 and 29, June 5—Chaconne, Bach; Poème, Chausson; Sonata, César Franck.

Herr Bronislaw Hubermann, Queen's Hall, May 31, June 12—Sonata in A, Op. 100, Brahms; Rondo in B minor, Op. 70, Schubert.

M. Mischa Elman, Queen's Hall, June 1—Sonata in A minor, Beethoven.

Miss Leila Doubleday, Æolian Hall, June 1—Sonata in A, César Franck.

Miss Rhoda Simpson, Steinway Hall, June 4—Suite in A minor, Sinding.
Miss Margery Bentwich, Bechstein Hall, June 5—Concerto in A minor, Glazounow.
Miss Winifred Smith, Steinway Hall, June 7—Sonata, César Franck.
Mr. E. Laparra (with Mr. R. Laparra, pianist), Steinway Hall, June 12—Sonata in A minor, R. Laparra.
Mr. Paul Kochanski, Queen's Hall, June 13 (with the London Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Joseph Stransky) —Concerto, Brahms.
Miss Helen Sealy, Æolian Hall, June 13—'Devil's Trill' Sonata, Tartini.
Senor Joan Manèn, Bechstein Hall, June 17—'Devil's Trill' Sonata, Tartini.
Miss Beatriz Leech, Bechstein Hall, June 19—Concerto, Mendelssohn.

OTHER RECITALS AND CONCERTS.

Mr. Norman Wilks (pianist) and Miss Mary Law (violinist), Bechstein Hall, May 18—Sonata in A minor (Op. 105), Schumann.
Miss Janet Wheeler (pianist) and Mr. Rubio (violoncellist), Steinway Hall, May 22—C major, Op. 102, and 'Waldstein' Sonatas, Beethoven.
Miss Bessie Griffiths (vocalist and violoncellist), Steinway Hall, May 22—Songs with violoncello obbligato.
Herr Paul Grummer (violoncellist), Bechstein Hall, June 3—Sonata in E minor, Brahms.
Dr. G. Henschel (vocalist) and Mr. F. S. Kelly (pianist), Æolian Hall, June 3—'Die Löwenbraut,' Schumann; 'Waltz-Pageant,' Kelly.
Miss Florence Greenwood (pianist) and Miss Hayward-Webb (vocalist), Æolian Hall, June 5—English Suite No. 2, Bach; 'Stürmische Morgen,' Schubert.
Mr. Joseph Malkin, Bechstein Hall, June 10—Variations on a Rococo Theme, Tchaikovsky.
Miss Christian Keay (vocalist) and Miss Betty Goodden (pianist), Steinway Hall, June 10—'Mother's song,' Shapiro; Prelude and Fugue in A minor, Bach.
Mr. Paulo Gruppe (violoncellist), Bechstein Hall, June 11—Suite in C, Bach.
Mr. Luigi Magistretti (harpist), Steinway Hall, June 13—Chaconne, Bach-Busoni.
Mr. Mario Lorenzi (harpist), Broadwood's, June 13—'Moonlight' Sonata, Beethoven.
Mr. Frederick Stock (violinist) and Mr. Victor A. Watson (double-bass), Steinway Hall, June 14—Double-bass Concerto in A minor, Handel.
Herr Heinrich Fiedler (violinist) and Mlle. Rodolfa Lhombino (vocalist), Bechstein Hall, June 14—Chaconne, Vitali; 'Leise, leise,' Weber.
Miss Fanny Davies (pianist) and Señor Casals (violoncellist), Æolian Hall, June 15—Sonata in E minor, Brahms.
Mr. Arnold Trowell, Bechstein Hall, June 18—Concerto, Jules de Schwert.

A concert of the compositions of Mr. Herbert Goldstein, given at Steinway Hall on June 3, revealed a decided faculty for unaffected and expressive lyrical writing.

The Shapiro Orchestra, a newly-formed body of string players under the direction of Mr. George H. Shapiro, gave a concert at Bechstein Hall on June 7, and showed excellent intentions.

The Festivals of the London Sunday School Choir, the Church Sunday Schools, the National Union of School Orchestras, and the Festival of Empire Girls' Choir, all of which took place recently at the Crystal Palace, are described in the School Music Review for July.

The Louisa Hopkins Prize (pianoforte) at the Royal Academy of Music has been awarded to Miss Frances Klein, the Charles Mortimer Prize (composition) to Mr. Horace G. Perry, the Thalberg Scholarship (pianoforte) to Mr. Henry Penn, the Parepa-Rosa Scholarship (singing) to Miss Lizzie Evelyn Osborne, the Sterndale Bennett Scholarship (any branch of music) to Mr. Frank Egerton Vaughan Tidmarsh. Miss Dora Matthay (Mrs. John Kennedy) and Mr. Herbert Fryer, both former students at the Academy, have recently joined the professorial staff in the pianoforte department.

Suburban Concerts.

The string orchestra of Croydon Conservatoire of Music gave a concert at the Public Hall on June 7. Under the direction of Mr. William H. Reed, excellent performances were given of Bach's Concerto in E, with Miss Nora Wheeler as soloist, the first movement of Beethoven's C minor Pianoforte concerto, with Miss Margaret Baines as soloist, and a suite for orchestra by Arnold Krug entitled 'Liebesnovelle.' Others taking part were Miss Violet Miller (vocalist), and Misses E. Castle-Smith and Hilda Down (violinists).

The West Kensington Choral Society gave an excellent performance of 'The Creation' on May 21 at the Parish Hall, Hammersmith, under the direction of Mr. Alfred C. Toone. The solo music was sung by Miss Sybil Hall, Mr. J. W. Cogswell, and Mr. W. S. Wadie, and a well-balanced orchestra was led by Mr. G. W. Buckley.

A very successful concert was given by the pupils of Miss Leila Petherick at the Havelock Hall, Croydon, on June 5. Among the junior pupils who took part, Miss Winifred Minnett and Master Cyril Dalmuire, and among the seniors Miss Grace Hammond and Miss Constance Hughes Hughes, are worthy of special mention.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

SIEGFRIED WAGNER'S 'BANADIETRICH.'

The first performance of Siegfried Wagner's new opera, 'Banadietrich,' was given recently with Herr Schalk as conductor, and a second performance took place under the composer's direction. The subject of the opera is taken from old German legends of the period of Theodoric and Attila. It is difficult to understand without a knowledge of all the old Sagas. Siegfried Wagner possesses this knowledge, and has fused several of the stories with a result that is apt to be bewildering. The music, in its simpler and gayer moments, is excellent, as for instance in the second Act, where a long and beautiful hymn to Love and the Sun is sung by the tenor (in this case an admirable artist, Herr Miller). In the remainder the influence of Richard Wagner's work is palpable. I must say that Siegfried Wagner is the best imitator of his father's music that we have had. However, he is a man of great gifts, and I am sure that when he finds a simple and agreeable subject he will give us good and original music.

EISNER-EISENHOF.

Music in the Provinces.

(BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

BIRMINGHAM.

The eighth annual series of the Theatre Royal Promenade Concerts, which opened on June 3 and concluded on June 22, was the only notable feature connected with local musical matters in the month of June. These delightful concerts are now well established, and are again conducted by Mr. Landon Ronald, as hitherto, Mr. Max Mossel retaining his original post as musical director. The orchestra of seventy performers is the best yet heard since the foundation of the Promenades, including, in addition to local instrumentalists, a number of excellent principals in the various orchestral departments, culled from the orchestras of Amsterdam and The Hague. The leader is this season Mr. T. H. Smith, a well-known local violinist, and the accompanist Mr. G. H. Manton. Many new works were successfully introduced, and the solo instrumentalists and vocalists were of more than ordinary excellence. Sir Edward Elgar was represented by his two Symphonies and the wonderful Violin concerto, the latter played by Miss May Harrison, who achieved an enormous success. Her sister, Miss Beatrice Harrison, the clever violoncellist, Miss Irene Scharrer, Signor Antonio de Grassi, Mr. Egon Petri, Mr. Marmaduke Barton, Mr. Arthur Newstead, Mr. Percy Grainger, Miss Dora Gibson, Miss Leonora Sparkes, and others were among the principal artists who appeared.

The summer season at the Egbaston Botanical Gardens was inaugurated on June 1 by an excellent harp concert, arranged by Mr. Charles Collier, under the direction of Mr. Oscar Pollack, who has also made arrangements for a series of four weekly concerts to be given in the beautiful Floral Hall of these Gardens during August.

BOURNEMOUTH.

Last of the long line of our native musicians to appear as composer-conductor during what is called the winter season (now drawn to its close) was Dr. Charles Maclean. Rarely does a year pass without a visit from this energetic musician and littérateur, and Bournemouth has more than once been the locale of a first performance of the compositions that emanate from his busy pen. This year's visit was answerable for two works—a tone-poem entitled 'Songs of Selma,' which was played at a Symphony Concert, and a composition described by the composer as a 'Character piece,' with the title, 'Die Wunderbare Reise mit einer Königstochter'; the latter, which is a sequel to an earlier work by Dr. Maclean, was performed at a Classical Concert, and it being the less important of the two, we refrain from commenting upon it in detail. The 'Songs of Selma' is, like most of the composer's output, unique; in conception, in workmanship, and in its melodic attributes it is equally unconventional and individual, and owes no allegiance to any distinctive school of musical thought. Dr. Maclean seems to be a law unto himself, thus limiting the field of critical discussion in no small degree. Of his serious attitude towards his art, however, there can be no question. Meanwhile, the 'Songs of Selma' is undoubtedly one of his best works, more particularly because the melodic material is more expressive and less transitory. The composer conducted with much enthusiasm and expertness, a capital performance resulting.

With the advent of the summer season the only orchestral concerts of moment, up to the present, have been the Symphony Concerts on Thursday afternoons, whereat examples of the better-known works of the great composers form the staple fare. The soloists at these concerts are taken from out the orchestral ranks, and it is with pleasure that one can record the general excellence of the solo performances during the last few weeks. Favourite symphonies have been forthcoming in the shape of Schumann's 'Rhenish' and Goetz's solitary example in that form, and the younger generation has been represented by the Symphony No. 1, by Dr. H. Holloway, the active chorus-master of the Municipal Choir. Mr. Dan Godfrey and his instrumentalists deserve high commendation for their many first-rate performances, and from these we must single out that of the charming Goetz Symphony, in which the playing was equal to anything yet heard in this town.

There is only one recital to record. This was the appearance on May 25 of Signor Tamini and Mr. Paul Kochanski.

DEVON AND CORNWALL.

THE THREE TOWNS.

With the exception of band performances in the public parks and of special music for Whitsuntide and other Festivals in the churches, there has been no musical event to chronicle in the Three Towns during the past month. The Three Towns Deanery Choral Union has been engaged in combined choir rehearsals for Festival services arranged to take place in the last week of June and in the following week, under Mr. Manley Martin; the number of choirs affiliated is larger than it has been for several years.

OTHER DEVONSHIRE TOWNS.

At Clovelly, on May 10, a well-trained choir, largely composed of school children, with help in the principal parts, sang 'Agatha' with much success, directed by Miss Hazard, and between the two scenes Morris dances were performed. The Misses Cruse and Pengelly were the accompanists.

Nearly a thousand singers took part in the Cathedral Festival of the Exeter Diocesan Choral Union on June 13. The several archdeaconries of the diocese are invited on a three years' rota. The Archdeaconry of Exeter was this year called upon, and in response sent thirty-eight parochial choirs from the seven deaneries. The diocesan conductor, Mr. T. Roylands Smith, directed the singing, with Messrs. J. A. Bellamy (Sidmouth), R. Bareham (Tiverton), J. W. Burt (Exeter), and W. C. Walton (Beer) as conductors. Dr. D. J. Wood was at the organ. The canticles (for evensong) were sung to Smart in G, with the Te Deum (Garrett in D) as a climax. At the close of the service Croft's anthem, 'God is gone up with a merry noise,' gave the singers a fine ideal of church music. Special mention must be made of the impressive and dignified effect of the processional tune to which Dr. Walford Davies had set the stately hymn 'God enthroned in awful night.' Dr. H. J. Edwards provided another fine tune for the recessional hymn, 'King of kings eternal.' The choirs sang well, though in pointing, enunciation, and unanimity the singing of the Psalms was not all that could be desired. Dr. Orlando A. Mansfield gave a farewell organ recital in Belgrave Congregational Church, Torquay, on May 26, on the eve of his departure for America.

Bideford Orchestral Society contributed to a concert in aid of a local charity on May 8, Mr. E. J. Labbett conducting. On May 4 the operetta, 'The birthday party,' was sung by a choir (trained by Mr. W. R. Wedlake), at Kingswear, supported by a band. At Paignton, on May 8, Mr. H. G. Piggott gave an interesting lecture on music in the 16th century, and the Choral Society illustrated his remarks by singing madrigals, &c.

EDINBURGH.

Under the auspices of the Concert School Committee, the last of the present season's series of concerts for young people of school age was given in the Queen's Hall on June 7, before a crowded audience. The programme comprised songs by Schubert, Arne, and Purcell; violoncello solos by Marcello and Popper; and pianoforte duets by Weber, Schumann, Brahms, Moszkowski, and others. The performers were Miss Chrissie MacDiarmid (vocalist), Miss Ruth Waddel (violoncellist), and Messrs. A. W. Dace and Francis Gibson (pianists). Professor Niecks presided, and prefaced each number with explanatory remarks which added greatly to the educative value of the concert.

LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

The appointment of City Organist, to which a salary of £400 is attached, will be filled in accordance with the recommendations of the professional advisers to be engaged by the Finance Committee, a course which was authorised at the June meeting of the City Council. This method was adopted fifteen years ago, when Dr. Peace was chosen. On that occasion seven competitors were heard on the Royal Albert Hall organ by the adjudicators, Sir Frederick Bridge, and Sir Walter Parratt.

In aid of the testimonial which is now being raised in Liverpool by the friends of Mr. W. H. Jude, formerly well known in this city as an organist and later as an evangelist, an organ recital will be given by Mr. E. H. Lemare, in St. George's Hall, on the evening of July 4.

At the annual general meeting of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, the printed balance-sheet submitted showed that the receipts for boxes, stalls, and gallery seats during the past season of twelve concerts amounted to £5,334, which, with books of words sold (£156), made a total of £5,490. The expenditure included £3,047 for band and conductors, and £1,031 for principal artists, which, with various smaller items, brought up the total expenditure to £4,612. For hire of hall £1,425 was received. Altogether the net surplus on the season's working was nearly £400. The choral works outlined for performance next season by the Philharmonic Society include Sir Edward Elgar's new Birmingham Festival work, 'We are the music-makers' (alto solo, Miss Muriel Foster), 'Romeo and Juliet' (Berlioz), Sanctus No. 2, in D (Bach), 'Rhapsody for alto solo and chorus' (Brahms), 'Lay of the bell' (Max Bruch), 'Requiem' (Mozart), and 'Elijah' (which will be conducted by Mr. Harry Evans).

At the annual meeting of the Liverpool Welsh Choral Union it was announced that on each of the four concerts a profit had been made, resulting in a credit balance on the season of £104. Towards this the 'King Olaf' performance had contributed £27; 'The Messiah,' £140; the Clara Butt Concert, £56; and Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion, £22. The Committee tendered to Mr. Harry Evans the Society's thanks, also to Madame Maggie Evans (chorus accompanist) and Mr. W. H. Parry (deputy conductor). In speaking of the programme for next season, Mr. Harry Evans said that the principal feature would be the production in Liverpool of Mr. Granville Bantock's new work 'Atalanta,' which was supposed to be the last word in choral music, and as it was felt that no one Society could do it justice, the Committee had invited the co-operation of two outside choirs—the Manchester Orpheus Male-Voice Choir (90 voices) and the Gitana Ladies' Choir, Birkenhead. They would thus be able to put a choir on the platform such as they had never done before in the Philharmonic Hall. The performance was fixed for November 16. The Society had also resolved upon the experiment of giving two performances of the 'Messiah' on the same day at the Christmas concert in order to meet the wishes of visitors from the country who could not attend in the evening. The other outlined choral works would include Dr. Vaughan Thomas's 'The Bard' and Elgar's 'The Apostles.'

MANCHESTER AND DISTRICT.

The Hallé Concert Society's annual meeting unfortunately revealed a loss on the year's working in Manchester of £97 11*s.* 8*d.* This amount was considerably increased by losses on concerts given by the Society outside Manchester. As the call of £7 per head made on the guarantors twelve months ago yielded £1,302, there is still a surplus in hand, though the working loss is shown as above. It appears that Balling's appointment was actually made on January 28 last, and already the executive possess tolerably full sketch-programmes for the whole series of twenty-one concerts of season 1912-13—quite a novel experience! The most gratifying feature is that there is to be no repetition of last year's idea of concerts without orchestra, although those were financially profitable.

Balling's rough draft scheme embraces much new music (also old) never heard here before, such as Walter Braunfels's 'Serenade,' Wilhelm Berger's 'Variations and Fugue,' Bruckner's No. 8 Symphony, Raff's 'Im Walde,' Strauss's 'Macbeth,' Boecklinn's 'Fantasien,' either No. 4 or No. 6 of Mahler's Symphonies, and his 'Kindertodtenlieder,' Humperdinck's 'Spielmann's Lust und Leid,' Bach's 'O Ewigkeit du Donnerwort,' Beethoven's 'Kaiser Josef II.' Cantata, Reger's 'Lustspiel' Overture and 100th Psalm, William Wallace's 'Villon,' Liszt's 'Heldenklage,' Hamilton Harty's Cardiff overture, 'With the wild geese,' and Berlioz's 'Requiem' (on which Balling will give a preliminary lecture). Delius's 'Appalachia,' which we owed last season to Bantock's advocacy, is to be repeated. Acts 2 and 3 of 'Parsifal' are to be done without cuts. It would appear that on the whole Balling has struck a fair balance, which should satisfy the claims both of the advanced wing of music-lovers here and the more conservative element. As time goes on, possibly more attention will be given to English composers, the scheme so far as outlined only recognising the claims of six or seven native writers.

The Harrison series will bring Madame Aino Ackté to Manchester at the end of November. Pity 'tis that we cannot hear her in a selection from Strauss's 'Salome,' as well as our Liverpool friends.

The Bowdon Chamber Concerts bid fair to become our most important series of concerts in this branch of musical art—less severe, possibly, in their strict adherence to pure classics, they introduce greater variety. The scheme for next winter will bring Miss Muriel Foster, Miss Lena Kontorovitch, Messrs. Frederick Dawson, Theodore Byard, R. J. Forbes, and the Brussels String Quartet.

Consideration of two student concerts that have taken place must be deferred to next month.

OXFORD.

On May 21 a concert was given at the Town Hall by Miss Gwynne Kimpton, who employed an orchestra consisting of string-players formerly of the Royal Academy of Music and Royal College of Music, and wind-players from the Queen's Hall Orchestra. The principal works in the programme were Mendelssohn's 'Italian' Symphony, Wagner's 'Siegfried Idyll,' and Schumann's 'Introduction and Allegro appassionata' for Pianoforte (Op. 92), with Miss Beatrice Fowler as an able soloist.

The first Eights Week concert took place on May 23, at the Town Hall, under the auspices of the Musical Club. An orchestra, consisting of Dr. Allen's string-players and London wind-players, gave enjoyable performances of Smetana's Overture to 'Die verkaufte Braut,' Mendelssohn's 'Midsummer Night's Dream' Overture, and Sir Charles Stanford's delightful Symphony No. 7, in D minor, which was conducted by the composer. The remainder of the programme was carried out with admirable effect under the inspiring direction of Dr. Allen, and the occasion was one to remember.

At an excellent concert given by Balliol on May 25, Mr. Gervase Elwes gave attractive interpretations of a number of songs, accompanied by Dr. Walker. The programme of the concert given by Exeter on May 28 included Coleridge-Taylor's 'The death of Minnehaha,' Schubert's ballet-music to 'Rosamunde,' and a well-selected group of part-songs, which were agreeably performed by the College choir under the able direction of the organ scholar, Mr. H. S. Price. On the following day Keble gave a concert. Although there was much to praise in the choice of the programme, it was somewhat overweighted on the orchestral side by four important overtures and a Bach suite. Mr. Clive Carey interpreted two groups of songs, and some part-songs were also included.

The concert given on May 31 by Queen's was highly enjoyable, though less ambitious than usual. The chief work was Mendelssohn's 'To the sons of art.' A number of part-songs, which included Parry's 'Since thou, O fondest and truest' and 'If I had but two little wings,' were charmingly sung with the help of the College choristers. Mr. Campbell McInnes contributed quite a number of songs in musicianly style, while the vocal element was most happily relieved by a quintet of wind from the London Symphony Orchestra. Dr. Dodds conducted throughout with great care and ability.

On June 13, Sir Walter Parratt, the Professor of Music, gave his usual terminal lecture in the Sheldonian Theatre before a large and appreciative audience. The subject was 'The Wood-wind of the Orchestra.' The lecture was illustrated by performances on the flute, oboe, clarinet, and bassoon by students of the Royal College of Music. Dr. Allen accompanied on the pianoforte. The lecturer, after describing in detail the special characteristics of the above instruments, said it was a great pity that the beauties of the 'wood-wind' were submerged—if he might be allowed the expression—between the strings and brass, and that it was only now and then that a composer brought them out into broad daylight, and gave them an opportunity of being heard and appreciated.

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either prepared from local newspapers or furnished by correspondents.

Correspondents are particularly requested to enclose a programme when forwarding reports of concerts.

Eastbourne.—The Eastbourne Choral and Eastbourne Orchestral Societies, whose patron is His Grace the Duke of Devonshire, gave a most impressive performance of Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' in the Town Hall on June 5, with a band and choir of one hundred and fifty. The enthusiasm of the audience, which packed the large concert-room, showed how deep an impression the magnificent interpretation of the work had made. The soloists were Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, Mr. Alfred Heather, and Mr. Thorpe Bates. Mr. Rowsby Woof led the orchestra, and Mr. Francis J. Foote conducted with his customary skill and power.

Hobart (Tasmania). — The Orpheus Club gave its second Subscription Concert of the season at the Town Hall on April 15, under the able conductorship of Mr. P. Planche-Plummer, before a crowded audience. The choir sang nine numbers, several of which were encored. The artists assisting were Miss Eva Creese (violin), Miss Josie Miles (vocalist), Miss Essie Meyers (reciter), and Mr. Percy Henry efficiently accompanied. The Club has greatly increased in numbers recently, and is very enthusiastically supported by the public.

JOHANNESBURG.—A varied and interesting programme was selected for the Festival concert given on May 15, which resulted in the collection of £400 for the benefit of the Transvaal Masonic Benevolent Fund. The Amateur Orchestral Society played the 'Tannhäuser' March, the 'Freischütz' and 'Le roi d'Yvetot' Overtures, and accompanied the Male-Voice Choir in choruses. The solo artistes were Miss Elsa Partiss, Miss Kate Opperman, Mr. Denbigh Edwards and Mr. Alfred Bertwhistle (vocalists), Master Eddie Goldstein (violinist), and Miss Dorothy Neill (reciter). Mr. F W. Peters conducted, and is much to be congratulated on the success of the event.

TREDEGAR.—The annual concerts of the Tredegar Male-Voice Choir and Choral Society took place under the direction of Mr. W. J. R. Davis on June 5 and 6, when artistic performances were given of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-feast' and miscellaneous numbers. The soloists were Madame Sobrino and Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. Ben George led the orchestra.

SALMON ARM (BRITISH COLUMBIA).—Musical enthusiasm runs sufficiently high in this town of 500 inhabitants to support a Philharmonic Society with a choir of forty voices, for whose training and conducting Mr. J. E. Lacey is responsible. On May 8, the Society gave a concert at which Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm, Cooke's 'Strike the lyre,' Macfarren's 'You stole my love' and the male-voice part-songs, 'The comrades' song of hope' by A. Adam, and 'A Franklyn's Dogge' by Mackenzie, were performed in the most creditable manner. The soloists of the occasion were Mrs. A. J. Marlow and Mrs. W. Ashton (vocalists), and Miss B. A. Stead (violinist). Accompaniments were played by Mr. J. D. Macey.

Foreign Notes.

AIX-LA-CHAPELLE.

The eighty-eighth Lower Rhine Musical Festival took place during the last days of May. Three concerts were given. At the first of these, Bach's Mass in B minor was performed under the direction of Professor Schwickerath. Bruckner's eighth Symphony and works of Brahms, including the 'Fest und Gedenksprüche' for eight-part chorus, formed the programme of the second concert, which was conducted by Dr. Karl Muck. At the third concert, a miscellaneous programme was given.

BAYREUTH.

The Wagner Festival performances will commence on July 22. The scheme this year comprises 'Parsifal,' 'Die Meistersinger,' and 'Der Ring des Nibelungen.' The conductors will be Dr. Carl Muck, Dr. Hans Richter, Messrs. Balling and Siegfried Wagner. The singers will, as usual, include some of the best-known German operatic artists. Twenty performances are planned.

BERLIN.

At the Circus Schumann two special performances of Mahler's eighth Symphony have been given under the direction of Herr Willem Mengelberg and Dr. Georg Göhler. According to the majority of the critics the artistic message of the work is not proportionate to its gigantic dimensions.——Under the direction of Professor Siegfried Ochs, the Philharmonic Chorus gave a beautiful performance of four Church cantatas by Bach, viz., 'O Ewigkeit du Donnerwort,' 'Sehet wir gehen hinauf gen Jerusalem,' 'Mein liebster Jesus ist verloren,' and 'Jesu der du meine Seele.'

BRUNSWICK.

On May 16, a comic opera, 'Eulenspiegel,' by Hugo Rüter, was produced at the Court Theatre.

BRUSSELS.

Under the direction of M. Albert Zimmer, a Bach-Beethoven Festival took place recently. The performance of Bach's Mass in B minor and Beethoven's Mass in D gave an interesting opportunity for more immediate comparison than is usual. The choral parts were excellently sung by the Société J. S. Bach.

CARLSRUHE.

Méhul's opera 'Joseph in Aegypten' has been successfully revived at the Court Theatre. The work had not been given for many years. At the same theatre Hermann von Waltershausen's opera 'Oberst Chabert' was performed for the first time.

CHICAGO (U.S.A.).

Liszt's 'Dante' Symphony, Richard Strauss's 'Ein Heldenleben,' Busoni's 'Berceuse Elégiaque,' and the Suite, Op. 9, by Georges Enesco, have figured in the last programmes of the Thomas Orchestra (conductor, Mr. Friedrich Stock).——A visit by the London Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Professor Arthur Nikisch, proved the sensation of the season.

CINCINNATI (U.S.A.).

The twentieth musical Festival commenced on May 7 with a performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah.' César Franck's 'The Beatitudes' was given at the second concert. The programme also contained Berlioz's 'Requiem,' Liszt's 'Dante' Symphony, the overture, 'Die Frühlingszeit der Liebe,' by Georg Schumann, and Frank van der Stucken's Symphonic Prologue 'Pax triumphans.' A special feature of the Festival was the excellent singing of a choir of 800 children who took part in the performance of Wolf-Ferrari's Cantata, 'La Vita nuova,' and the children's cantata, 'Hinaus in die Welt,' by Peter Bénoit. The conductors of the Festival were Messrs. Frank van der Stucken and Friedrich Stock, and among the vocalists were Mesdames Gadski, Schumann-Heink, and Messrs. Alessandro Bonci, Whitehill and Ricardo Martin.

DANZIG.

The 47th Tonkünstler Versammelung of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musikverein took place here from May 28 to 31. In connection therewith two orchestral concerts and two concerts devoted to chamber-music and vocal works were given. Among the orchestral works performed were Ernst Boehe's 'Tragic' Overture, a new Violin concerto by H. G. Noren (soloist, Herr Alexander Petschnikoff), a Symphonic Prologue, 'Und Pippa tanzt,' by Richard Mors, a Symphony in D major by Erwin Lendvai, the tone-poems 'Haschisch,' by Adolph P. Boehm and 'Nach Sonnenuntergang an der See,' by Otto Lies. Some short choral works, including 'Der Pilger,' by Fräulein Gisella Selden, and 'Sturmesmythe,' by Carl H. David, and a fragment from a comic opera, 'Des Teufels Pergament,' by Alfred Schattmann, were also heard. In the chamber-music concerts a new Pianoforte quartet, Op. 50, by Paul Juon, proved very interesting, and had great success. Other works performed included a Septet for strings, pianoforte and harp, by Rudi Stephan, a Sonata for violin and pianoforte, by Willy Renner, a movement from Paul Scheinpflug's String quartet, a Quartet by Jan Ingenhoven, Variations on an old Ave Maria by Weismann, and Josef Haas's Divertimento for String quartet. Of the newly-presented Lieder, those of Josef Marx proved most interesting.

DETMOLD.

The first 'Lippische' musical Festival took place on May 31—June 2. Four concerts of Haydn's music were given. The programmes included some of the less familiar Symphonies, the recently recovered Violin concerto in C major (soloist, Professor Henri Marteau), and a beautiful 'Symphonia Concertante' for violin, violoncello, oboe, bassoon and orchestra, hitherto unpublished.

DRESDEN.

The Kittelscher Chor recently performed Felix Draeseke's Oratorio-Trilogy 'Christus' in its entirety for the first time. The work made a distinct impression, and the venerable composer was much honoured.——The Royal Opera has been closed for extensive alterations. The performances will be resumed on September 22.

EVANSTON, ILLINOIS.
(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

The fourth annual series of concerts of the North Shore Festival Association at Evanston, under the direction of Dean Peter Christian Lutkin, Northwestern University, took place on May 29, 30, and June 1. The first programme, in which Madame Alma Gluck, Madame Rose Lutiger-Gannon, Messrs. Ricardo Martin and Henri Scott took part consisted of concert-arrangements of Gluck's 'Orpheus' and Gounod's 'Faust.' The singing of the choir in 'Orpheus' was exceedingly effective, careful attention being given to the dramatic qualities, and in the singing of Gounod's music there was a spontaneity which only comes with good preparation and enjoyment of the music. The second concert was an 'Artists' night,' at which Madame Schumann-Heink was the principal attraction. The Thomas Orchestra, under Mr. Frederick Stock, played amongst other selections Strauss's 'Don Juan' and the 'Tannhäuser' and 'Lohengrin' Overtures, with perfect precision and accuracy. On the afternoon of Saturday, June 1, a choir of 1,500 school children occupied the stage. Madame Gluck was the soloist, and captivated the children with her singing. At the final concert, on Saturday evening, Bantock's 'Omar Khàyyam' was given by the choir of 650 voices, with full orchestral accompaniment, the solos being sung by Madame Christine Miller, Mr. Reed Miller, and Mr. Charles W. Clark. This was magnificently done. The performance added to the laurels of the Festival Chorus, and testified to the ability and painstaking care of the moving spirit of the Festival, conductor Peter Christian Lutkin. Previous to the Saturday evening concert, as a mark of respect to the memory of Daniel H. Burnham—one of Chicago's leading citizens and trustee of the Thomas Orchestra—the Orchestra played the Funeral March from 'Götterdämmerung,' and the A Cappella Choir of Northwestern University sang a 'Choral blessing.' It is conceded that this Festival, in the general excellence of everything pertaining to it—soloists, choir, and orchestra—has reached high-water mark, and compares favourably with organizations of much greater age.

HALLE.

Richard Strauss's 'Elektra' has been given for the first time at the Municipal Theatre by the ensemble of the Dessau Court Opera. The recent revival of 'Salome' proved a great success.

LEIPSIC.

At the Neues Theater, Ludwig Thuille's opera, 'Lobetanz'—of which a notable feature is the literary excellence of Otto Julius Bierbaum's libretto—has been given for the first time with considerable success.

MANNHEIM.

Alexander Zemlinsky's fairy-tale opera, 'Es war einmal,' was recently performed at the Court Theatre for the first time in Germany, and was well received. At the same institution Mozart's 'The marriage of Figaro,' in the version of Gustav Mahler, won immense popularity.

STUTTGART.

Under the direction of Dr. Max Schillings and Dr. Philipp Wolfrum, a Bach Festival has taken place here with good results. The programmes included the B minor Mass and five Church Cantatas—'Trauerode' (No. 198), the Cantata No. 60, the 'Begräbniskantate,' the 'Pfingstkantate,' and the 'Leipziger Rathswahlkantate.'——Richard Strauss's new opera, 'Ariadne auf Naxos,' will be produced at the Court Theatre under the composer's direction on October 25.

WIESBADEN.

Under the auspices of the German Brahms Society the second Brahms Festival took place with great success on June 2—5. The four Symphonies, the 'Song of Destiny,' the German Requiem, the 'Fest und Gedenksprüche,' and the 'Nänie' were performed; Herr Arthur Schnabel played the Pianoforte concerto in D minor; and Herr Fritz Kreisler and Hugo Becker joined in a memorable performance of the Double concerto.

Saturday, July 20, has been fixed for the twenty-fourth annual Festival of the Nonconformist Choir Union. Choral and solo-singing competitions will take place as usual, the adjudicators being Dr. Henry Coward and Mr. Dan Price. Dr. Frank Abernethy will give a recital on the great organ, and Mr. Frank Idle will conduct the Festival concert at four o'clock. 4,000 singers are expected to take part, assisted by the full orchestra of the Union, and the services of Miss Mabel Manson have have been secured as vocalist. Mr. J. A. Meale, of Hull, will preside at the organ. Tickets may be obtained from any choir members, or from Mr. W. E. Bryant, 21, Campdale Road, Tufnell Park, N.

A very entertaining performance of 'The Mountebanks,' written by Gilbert and Cellier, was given at King's Hall Theatre, on June 15, by students of Trinity College of Music. Mr. Cairns James, who was responsible for the stage direction, and Mr. Frank W. Greenfield, who took charge of the music, were happy in the ability that was at their disposal, and they put it to the best purposes. The singing was on a high level, and the natural talent for comedy displayed by the principal actors was conspicuous. The principal artists were Misses Grace Ensworth, Edith Davies, Dorothy Sinfield, and Ruth Brandon, and Messrs. Herbert Whitmee, Herbert Turquand, John Priestley, and Leslie Riley. The vocal ability shown by Miss Davies, and the versatility of Miss Ensworth as a comédienne, were among the best features of the performance. The work of the choir contributed to the amusement. A small orchestra, assisted by Miss Maud Agnes Winter as pianist, did justice to Cellier's agreeably-written score.

In our June number we omitted to notice the important service which took place on Sunday afternoon, April 28, in connection with the Aberdeen Musical Festival. A large number of church choirs took part. An impressive orchestral performance of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C sharp minor was a feature; but the most notable musical item was the anthem for double choir, 'I saw the Lord,' by Stainer. The accompaniments to this fine work were effectively arranged for orchestra for this occasion by Mr. John E. West. Many conductors will be glad to avail themselves of this arrangement.

Answers to Correspondents.

A correspondent whose nom-de-plume we cannot decipher, asks us to suggest a scheme whereby the slackness and falling-off of pupils in the summer months can be prevented. The case is hard, but it is universal, and we know of no remedy.

WILD ROSE.—The subscription to the International Musical Society (which held the Congress) is one guinea. Members of the Musical Association are admitted for ten shillings.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Willem Mengelberg (with Portrait). By A. Kalisch	433
A Note on Bach Transcriptions. By Ernest Newman	435
An Analysis of Choral Tone. By J. A. Rodgers ...	440
Syncopation and Emphasis.—II. By Reginald Gatty	442
Occasional Notes	446
William Vincent Wallace: a Centenary Notice. By W. H. Grattan Flood	448
On Listening to Music. By H. P. S.	449
London Opera House. By Hermann Klein	450
Church and Organ Music	451
The Organ in St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol	451
Mr. Frederic Austin on Hugo Wolf	454
Reviews	455
Correspondence	456
Obituary	456
Elgar's Symphonies at Birmingham	456
Royal College of Organists' Annual Dinner	465
Royal Academy of Music	466
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	466
Shakespeare Concerts at Earl's Court	467
The London Symphony Orchestra	467
Mr. Percy Grainger's Concert	467
London Concerts	468
Suburban Concerts	470
Music in the Provinces	470
Country and Colonial News	472
Foreign Notes	473
Answers to Correspondents	474
MUSIC:
'Sing a Song of Praise.' Harvest Anthem. By CUTHBERT HARRIS	457

THREE Extra Supplements are given with this number:

1. Portrait of Willem Mengelberg.
2. Evening and Morning. Anthem. By Sir Herbert Oakeley.
3. Competition Festival Record.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

AKMAL, R. Z.—"The Trance Waltz." Pianoforte Solo. 2s.

BACH, J. S.—"My heart, ever faithful." Transposed Edition, in D. (No. 43, Novello's Chorister Series of Church Music.) 2d.

BARNBY, J.—"O Strength and Stay." Evening Anthem. (No. 1009, Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

BLAIR, HUGH.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. (No. 870, Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

BONAVIA-HUNT, NOEL.—"By the Waters of Babylon." (A special Chant Setting), and a Selection of Chants for Special Psalms. On Card. 2d.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—"The Months." Twelve Sketches for the Pianoforte. In Four Books. 2s. each.

DOWER, FRANCES.—"Night." (Serenade.) Four-part Song. 3d.

DYKES, J. B.—The Office for the Burial of the Dead. Cloth. 1s.

ELGAR, EDWARD.—"Great is the Lord." (Psalm xlviii.) (Op. 67.) Anthem for the Foundation or Commemoration of a Church, or for General Use. 8d.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—Thirty Hymn Tunes. Cloth. 1s. 6d.

FLETCHER, PERCY E.—"The Sailor's Return." Part-Song for T.T.B.B. (No. 535, The Orpheus.) 4d.

—— "Dream, Baby, Dream." Trio for S.S.A. (No. 435, Novello's Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "Oh, the Merry May." Trio for S.S.A. (No. 436, Novello's Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

GARDINER, H. BALFOUR.—"News from Whydah." 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello, 6d.; Basso, 6d.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Coronation March and Hymn. Arranged for Military Band by DAN GODFREY. 7s. 6d.

GIBBONS, HARRY.—The Office of the Holy Communion. Short Setting, in F. 1s.

GREY, C. J.—Original Compositions for the Organ:—

No. 15.	Offertoire, in D minor	1s.
,, 16.	Andante, in E flat	1s.
,, 17.	Pastorale, in F	1s.
,, 18.	Marche Orientale	1s.

HANDEL, G. F.—"Dance of Sailors." From "Rodrigo." Orchestrated by FREDERIC H. COWEN. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Basso, 6d.; Wind Parts, 3s. 9d.

HARRIS, CUTHBERT.—"Sing a Song of Praise." Harvest Anthem. (No. 833, The Musical Times.) 1½d.

HARRY, ARNOLD.—"In the Lord's Atoning Grief." Hymn and Tune. On Card. 1d.

HATTON, J. L.—"He that hath a pleasant face." Four-part Song. Arranged for Men's Voices by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 533, The Orpheus.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

HAWLEY, STANLEY.—"Dance Sketch," No. 1. Pianoforte Solo. 2s.

—— Two Songs. 1. "Friend of my Infinite Dreams." 2. "My True Love." 2s.

HILL, LADY ARTHUR.—"I want to be a Soldier." Song. In E flat, and F. For Low or Medium Voice. 1s. 6d. each.

—— "Mother's Song." Song, in E flat. For Low Voice. 1s. 6d.

HOLBROOKE, J.—"The Children of Don." (Op. 56.) A Drama in Three Acts, and a Prologue. The Poem by T. E. ELLIS. Vocal Score. £1 1s.

KETTLEWELL, W. R. W.—A Country Play in Two Scenes, introducing Folk-Songs and Dances. Words only. 6d.

LEMON, LAURA G.—"My Lady Daffodil." Song for Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

MACPHERSON, CHARLES.—"Duncan Gray." Arranged for S.A.T.B. (No. 1250, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

—— "The Lord looked down from Heaven." Anthem for S.S.A. (No. 39, Novello's Chorister Series of Church Music.) 3d.

NOVELLO'S Hymns and Tunes for Sunday School Anniversaries. Three Sets (in both Notations). 4d. each net. Words only, 5s. per 100.

PARRY, C. H. H.—Seven Chorale Preludes. (No. 1, Original Compositions for the Organ (New Series). 3s. 6d.

PHILLIPS, MONTAGUE F.—"Evensong." Part-Song for S.A.T.B.B. (No. 1241, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

PINSUTI, C.—A Spring Song. Arranged for S.S.C. by JOHN E. WEST. (No. 432, Novello's Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

PRENDERGAST, W.—"O how amiable are Thy dwellings." Anthem. 6d.

RIDEOUT, PERCY.—Gavottina. Pianoforte Solo. 2s.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW.—No. 241, contains: "Trip away." By C. E. HORN. Arranged for Solo and Chorus (S.S.C.) by RALPH DUNSTAN. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment (8vo). B. Voice Parts only, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

		A.	B.
No. 871.	"Play up, School!" Unison Song. H. L. BALFOUR	3d.	--

SHARP, CECIL J.—The Sword Dances of Northern England. Part II. 2s. 6d.; Cloth, gilt, 3s. 6d.

—— The Sword Dances of Northern England. Songs and Dance Airs. Book 2. 2s.

SMITH, H. ARNOLD.—"Here a pretty baby lies." Madrigal. Arranged for S.S.A. (No. 426, Novello's Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 1½d.

STOREY, W. J. P.—Vesper Hymn ("Lord, keep us safe") and Four Chants for the Benedictus. Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa. On Card. 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

TONIC SOL-FA PUBLICATIONS:

MAUNDER, J. H.—Border Ballad for S.A.T.B. 2d.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.—Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT:

No. 2034. "Stars of the Summer night." Two-part Chorus for Ladies' Voices. (Op. 23) ... EDWARD ELGAR 3d.

,, 2039. "The Lee Shore." Four-part Song. S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR 1½d.

,, 2040. "Song of Proserpine." Four-part Song. S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR 1d.

,, 2041. "The dear little Shamrock." Part-song for T.T.B.B. Arranged by H. ELLIOT BUTTON 1½d.

,, 2043. "Love is a sickness full of woes." Madrigalian Part-Song for S.S.A.T.B.B. (Op. 6, No. 4). PERCY PITT 2d.

,, 2044. "I will sing of Thy power, O God." Anthem. OLIVER KING 1½d.

,, 2045. "Wind of the Waters." Four-part Song. R. SCHUMANN 1½d.

,, 2046. "The little Sandman." Part-Song for S.A.T.B. Arranged by JOHN E. WEST 1½d.

TURNER, H. S.—Scherzo, in F minor. (No. 45, The Recital Series of Original Compositions for the Organ. Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE.) 2s.

VIADANA, L.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, No. 3. Set to Gregorian Tones with Faux-Bourdons. Edited by FRANCIS BURGESS. 2d.

WACHTMEISTER, A. R.—Three Songs. 1. "Consolation." 2. "Titania." 3. "Winter Night." 2s. 6d.

WILLIAMS, R. VAUGHAN.—"The Winter is Gone." English Folk-Song. Arranged for T.T.B.B. (No. 536, The Orpheus.) 2d.

WILLIAMS, W. H.—Allegretto, in A. (No. 432, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

PUBLISHED FOR

THE H. W. GRAY CO., NEW YORK.

HORROBIN, G.—"Thus saith the Lord." Anthem. 8 cents (3d.).

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 160, Wardour Street, London, W., not later than TUESDAY, JULY 23.

(FIRST POST.)

I SAW THE LORD

ANTHEM

BY

J. STAINER.

Price Sixpence.

Accompaniment arranged for Orchestra by

JOHN E. WEST.

PARTS MAY BE HAD ON HIRE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MISSA EUGE BONE

AD SEX VOCES INEQUALES.

AUCTORE

CHRISTOFERO TYE.

EDITIT

RICARDUS R. TERRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MISSA REGIA

ASCRIBED TO

HENRI DUMONT (1610-1684).

Adapted from the Version in the Solesmes Gradual,

WITH AN ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE ORGAN

BY

FRANCIS BURGESS.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST can DEPUTISE during Aug., Sept. and Oct. Town or Country. Apply, P.M., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

WANTED, CANTATA SET TO MUSIC FOR PRODUCTION. Sir Henry Irving pronounced it "high-class literature." Princess, Holmlea, Burnham Road, St. Albans.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
One inch (displayed)	0	10	0
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with every Advertisement.

This Supplement is part also of the July issue of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, and can be obtained with the REVIEW, price 1½*d.*

The Competition Festival Record

No. 48.

THE PARIS INTERNATIONAL MUSICAL TOURNAMENT.

WHITSUNTIDE, MAY 26, 27, 28, 1912.

The International Musical Tournament organized by the Paris Municipality was by far the greatest event of its kind that has ever been held in the world. In its main outlines the scheme was finely and generously conceived, and owing to the amicable relations existing between Great Britain and France, the Tournament made a special appeal to our race. It was a challenge to a people who, musically, are before all things choralists, and the gage was accepted eagerly by choral Societies in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. The edifice of goodwill was gracefully completed by the brilliant idea of inviting 500 children from London to be the guests of the Paris Council. This compliment touched the emotions of both nations as nothing else did, and happily it has left no regrets.

Great schemes call for brainy organization, for which amiability and good intentions are scarcely acceptable substitutes. The Paris Tournament suffered from its amazing success in attracting visitors from all parts of the world. The executive staff were dazed, and they failed to see the forest because of the trees. There was a plentiful lack of foresight and imagination displayed almost throughout the carrying out of the scheme. The executive was woefully understaffed, and the burden fell on a few—who were overwhelmed. Yet when all is said the retrospect is pleasant for most of those concerned. The event was full of incident and interest. There was a muddle, but it was a glorious one. The transport service was on the whole very satisfactory, but the hotel accommodation broke down badly.

It is difficult to fix the blame in the right quarter. On behalf of the Council it may be said that they never undertook to find accommodation for competitors. But did they not place the matter in the hands of agents who callously arranged for hapless visitors to be boarded in unspeakably bad lodgings? It is enough to say that many ladies and some of the gentlemen preferred the street to the abominations offered them. Who ought to be hanged for this outrage? Not M. Bonnaire, the London Agent. He was in a tight corner, and we have good reason for stating that if it had not been for his herculean exertions an even worse catastrophe would have happened.

We find it difficult to understand why the whole business was not handed over to Messrs. Cook, a firm which British people can thoroughly trust. We cannot probe the matter further, but we desire to express our deep regret that so many of our choirs suffered this distressing inconvenience and disappointment.

It is gratifying that notwithstanding troubles our choirs upheld the choral reputation of this country. They won first places and other distinctions in almost every class in which they entered. Nearly forty British choirs appeared, and they won prizes to the amount of about £2,000. (It may be necessary to add here that the total cost to these same choirs was about £8,000.)

One of the brightest memories of the Tournament was the reception of the English children. Everything connected with the arrangements for the L.C.C. 500 was admirably planned and generously carried out. We refer in detail elsewhere* to this section of the event. It is impossible to give anything like a full account of the proceedings of the whole Tournament. Nearly 25,000 competitors took part. On Whit-Monday twenty-two different sections were competing simultaneously. We must therefore be content to epitomise the results and to give detailed accounts of the classes we were able to attend. The judging appeared loose to those of us accustomed to the full and fair methods adopted by British judges. There was a too evident desire to appear amiable rather than to estimate justly and to appraise ability. Generally there were at least three, and sometimes seven, Judges to each section. The only English members of the Jury were Dr. McNaught, Dr. Coward, Mr. Arthur Fagge, and Mr. Hermann Klein.

*In THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW edition.

THE CHIEF EVENTS.

Saturday, May 25.—Festival opened with a military torchlight procession.

Sunday, May 26.—Competitions for brass bands, military bands, orchestras, &c.——Open air evening concert in the Place de l'Hôtel de Ville by the Yorkshire choir.

Monday, May 27 (Whit-Monday).—Choral Competitions.——'Réunion' of all competing bodies before the President in the Jardin des Tuileries and procession to the Place de la Bastille.

Tuesday, May 28.—Children's competitions at the Théâtre du Châtelet and the Théâtre Sarah-Bernhardt.——Evening concert at the Trocadéro, by the Yorkshire choir.

THE COMPETITIONS.

It should be noted that generally where more than seven choirs entered for any one class, they were divided into two or more groups, each with a separate and equal award. In the case of the chief Male-Voice Choir class (Division d'Excellence) there were two groups, and the winners had to compete again for a special prize of 10,000 francs offered by the President of the Republic.

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

DIVISION D'EXCELLENCE.

The following notes are by Dr. McNaught, who was asked to judge Group A, Men's-Voice, Division d'Excellence. There were seven other Judges, all Frenchmen. Dr. McNaught did not attempt to influence the decision. He marked on the 100 maximum scheme. The prescribed test was 'Aux aviateurs,' by M. Saint-Säens.

No. 1. AVENIR NARBONNAIS.

Marks 86 and 63 = 149.

(a) 'Aux aviateurs.' Sang from memory. A round tone. Rather dark in quality. Robust tenor. A little rough as blend. Attack rather fine; had such grip and certainty. Admirably in tune. Knew the music thoroughly. No striking delicacy. Could wonderfully veil tone for expression. Vehement, too much so, in places.

(b) Own-choice piece, 'Le Sommeil de la Gaulé.' Humming with rather a highly-veiled nasal tone. Very French, melodramatic piece! Ben marcato style. Occasional confusion, and some tired tone and ragged attack. Intonation very unsatisfactory in places. An indefinite tonal attack. Very uninteresting piece—long, vague, uninspired. Some local colour in it. The execution became worse and worse. A climax had a good effect, but it was obvious that the choir either did not know the piece or were not able to sing it. They displayed a banner to which many medals were attached.

No. 2. UNION CHORALE. Marks 67 and 57=124.

(a) Some bad intonation from the tenors. Rough tone. Allegretto section excellent as unity. Delicate rhythm occasionally. Some very unblendful tone in the forte. Well devised as colour. Tenors very poor. It was not that pitch was lost, but so much was not in tune. Climax p. 10 good. Audience broke too soon into applause. Went wrong on p. 13: very harsh here.

(b) Own-choice, 'Le Festin.' Again an idea of high colour, but feverish sometimes. Tone very poor, snatches of delicacy. Tenors almost strangled themselves in fortes. Chording rarely good. Sometimes horribly bad. Details casual. Constant looseness of attack. Ragged ends. The copies too much in use. Apparently some tragic incident in the piece. Some glorious passages. Strong accent a feature. The conductor did not use a baton. Both hands vigorously and expressively employed. Not one chord in ten in tune. This choir finished at 9.50. Then for a time nothing happened until 10.15. Three of the Judges had disappeared. Hurried in after the third choir had begun.

No. 3. SAINT-CÉCILE. Marks 80 and 63=143.

(a) 'Aux aviateurs.' Clear, firm start. Bad tenor tone. A well-trained choir. Very vague, laborious bits sometimes. (All singing from copies.) Moving round the notes, like rehearsing. Bursts of respectable singing, both of the strenuous kind and as to pp. Then whole periods of violent, unmusical strenuousness. Here and there excellent as rhythm. p. 14, vitality a strong point, here vehement and expressive; but tone never good. The feature was the rhythmic vim.

(b) 'Les voix de la Nature.' Again at once picturesque, and therefore interesting. Some very loose initial attack, both tonal and rhythmic. Details casual. Occasional good chording. The pp was excellent. Some 'oo' business, of the ad captandum variety. Occasional delicate touches. Then some bad groping. Tenor tone never attractive. Seemed strained—tight—pinched—nasal. Used books all through. Laboured execution again and again. A second-rate performance.

No. 4. LONDON WELSH. Marks 97 and 94 = 191.

(a) 'Aux aviateurs.' At once a new world of tone. Beautiful blend, conspicuous unity. Bass a deep diapason. The middle section quite splendid as tone and treatment. Perfect chording. The pace was sometimes terrific, but the effects came off. A performance that electrified the Judges and all others who heard it. Finely controlled.

(b) 'The Phantom Host' (Hegar). A mysterious, ominous opening. The technique splendid. 'Curdled blood to stone,' a real shudder. Vivid and thrilling. Upsetting in the intensity of its expression. The 'grip' section was a very exciting bit. Tenor tone fell off after this intensity. The well-known passage with the repeated diminished fifths was truly sung (often it turns into a perfect fifth). The Largamente was grand, but the end was not the best part of the interpretation.

No. 5. STOURBRIDGE. Marks 95 and 93=188.

(a) 'Aux Aviateurs.' A lovely, rich tone. Blend very sweet. Plastic to every demand. Ringing resonance of the ff a feature. Cultivated style. All so highly finished. Page 6 very beautiful as rhythm. Tenor particularly good. ff (p. 7) not overdone. Real music. 'Très modéré' (p. 8), slow at first (about M. 66), then faster, but the movement did not glow enough; p. 10 was also kept back. Little to criticise.

(b) 'The Reveille' (Elgar). pp too soon! Difficult to follow important opening bass figure. Later the expression was intense, and made one hold breath. Some details over-subdued. Nobilmente not big and sostenuto enough. Perhaps choir too small? Should be rather broader, and more impressively solemn. Tone always fine. Restrained deliberately, perhaps for artistic reasons. Great finish, but the full message of the piece not delivered.

No. 6. SWANSEA. Marks 93 and 96=189.

(a) 'Aux Aviateurs.' A singularly well-unified tone. Peculiar timbre, but very rich. Allegretto (p. 3) fast. Bad tenor (p. 4, 3rd score). Basses magnificent. Tenor not so good. A little strangled. The nine-eight Andante rather over-accented. Rather thin accent. (Saint-Saëns leaned back in his chair, and smilingly listened with closed eyes.) A splendid climax. Great expansion of tone. Some shaky chords (p. 13). Reserved themselves for the end. which was volcanic in its forcefulness. (Saint-Saëns was obviously mightily pleased.)

(b) 'The Reveille' (Elgar). I do not think I have ever before heard such a thrilling performance of this piece. The moods seemed so right and the technique so perfect. The insistence of the drum-call was so finely brought out. 'You must do the sum' was terribly significant. 'My chosen people' was grand in the extreme. Allargando finely pulled out. That terrible wail near the end was piercing in its intensity. The Jury were greatly impressed.

FINAL COMPETITION FOR THE Fr. 10,000 PRIZE.

(The three selected choirs sang 'Aux aviateurs' only.)

Choral Nadaud (230 voices).—Marks 93.

Began admirably, and at the first Allegretto sang with much rhythmic charm. So suave and with absolute unity. Able to colour tone to fit moods. The Andantino (nine-eight time) was sleek and very delicate. The 'très modéré' movement was fierce in places, but very dramatic. The choir excels in tender coaxing singing. The 'Gloire,' sung with a slight portamento, was almost tearful in its emotional expression. The Presto section had magnificent vim. But the end page ff was almost a shout, or a scream. Fervent, but not music!

Institut Chant de Prague.—Marks 90.

Small choir—fifty voices. Sang in German or Bohemian. Not a particularly good tone, but there were grip and mastery in the execution. Harsh and over-vibrant in ff. Delightfully delicate piano and such rare unity and plasticity. Rhythm quite fascinating. The quasi-fugal movement exemplified their sensitiveness to rhythm. The phrasing was so clear. Sometimes the tone was coarse and over-urged. At the climaxes the attack was splendid. The expansion of tone from a choir of fifty was marvellous. The Presto section displayed tremendous vitality and a perfect unity; but the tone was still poor.

London Welsh.—Marks 81.

Tone sounded small when one recollected the torrent of sound from the large Belgian choir. Men looked tired and out of sorts. But the tone had a musical ring that promised well. Then it became apparent that the colours were pale, and that the execution was laboured. Some vivid patches. Began to lose pitch. On page 13 of the French copy the basses got clean out of the key at the Ritenuto. A great recovery was made, but the error was very serious. The whole performance did not reach the standard attained in the morning.

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS.

Division d'Excellence.

[The following notes are by Mr. W. McNaught.]

Test-piece: 'Les deux Ménétriers' (Chapuis).

This piece tells a gruesome story in semi-humorous musical terms that are doubtless meant to be grim and sardonic, but tend to be flippant. It aims throughout at 'effects,' with sudden dynamic contrasts, dramatic choral recitative, la-ing, and humming or oo-ing. Much of it is cleverly done, but musically it is not on a high grade. There is practically no sostenuto, and no continuity of musical development. One of the English conductors said afterwards that preparing it was like flogging a dead horse. The competition took place in the Salle Wagram—apparently a ball-room—capacious and high-roofed. The judges were MM. Chapuis, Gresse, De Constant, and Torchet. Dr. Coward, who was in the list, did not officiate.

Manchester Vocal Society (60 voices).
Conducted by Mr. Herbert Whittaker.

The test-piece was sung with dramatic expression that appealed strongly at the time, although it was surpassed by later performances. The vocal tone had the Northern mellowness and purity, and fell gratefully on the ear. The unity of the singing was incomplete here and there in the middles and ends of phrases—very little, but just enough to make one wish for a more practised discipline. In Bantock's 'On Himalay' the choir was more in its element, and the exquisitely-pure mezza-voce singing, perfect intonation, gentle, continuous rhythm and the mood of reverie, made a practically ideal performance. Debussy's 'Cold winter' was sung with some effusiveness, which slightly loosened the technical grip.

Halifax Glee and Madrigal Society (90 voices).
Conducted by Mr. H. Shepley.

The highly-organized training of this choir told at every point. The dramatic meaning with which the test-piece was performed was heightened by the fact that it never interfered with the musical beauty of the singing. The technique was perfect. Wherever the opportunity occurred a point of interpretation was worked up consistently, and some balance and continuity arrived at. The piece was made to hang together to some extent—a difficult task. The six-eight fugal passage on the significant words, 'La, la, la,' &c., was sung so delicately and clearly that one might have been listening to the finest string quartet. The male-voice 'oo-ing' passage was thrilling in itself as an example of beauty of tone. Thus even the subordinate episodes of the piece helped to build up a telling interpretation, which was a far higher achievement than any of the more declamatory performances that were given. The choir then turned its attention to Morley's madrigal, 'Hard by a crystal fountain,' and Bruch's 'Morning song of praise,' in which the same ability and resources of beauty were lavished upon far more responsive and worthy material. The singing of these two works was the richest treat of the competition, and as both the music and its performance were of a kind with which we are happily familiar at our own competitions, they need not be further described. Bantock's delightfully delicate and next-to-impossible part-song, 'The leprehaun,' was then sung in striking fashion. Its most difficult passage did not quite 'come off'; but probably it never will.

La Lyre, Douai (200 voices).
Conducted by M. P. Allouchery.

The singing of this choir in the test-piece had a kind of bustling brilliance; there was life-or-death earnestness in its pianos as well as its fortes, and its crescendos were tremendous. It reminded one of orchestral-playing with much 'tremolando' in the strings, copiously underlined by the brass and well-punctuated by drums and cymbals. The carrying-power and number of the voices, the 'mouthing of the words and declamatory distinctness of the articulation, the attack and good discipline of the singing, all heightened the dramatic effects, and added to the dramatic point of the performance. Where the music did not lend itself readily to emphasis, the choir was less happy. For instance, the aforementioned fugal passage was confused for lack of control. The chosen work was a 'Symphonie religieuse,' by Bourgault-Ducoudray, a pious piece of music in symphonic movements, straightforward, and presenting no difficulty of execution or field for interpretation. This choir, at least, showed no capacity to make it interesting.

Melton Mowbray Choral Society (45 voices).
Conducted by Mr. W. Warner.

This choir, after its fiery predecessor, sang the test-piece at a disadvantage. A choir has its own particular field in which it is best able to shine, and that of the Melton Mowbray is not melodrama. Their voices had a soft quality of beauty that was not capable of high vitality and sonority, and their instincts were for refinement. The choice of Elgar's 'My love dwelt in a northern land' and 'Take heed, ye shepherd swains' as their other pieces put them on a better footing. The former was sung with gentle, attractive, emotional feeling, and the latter with true madrigalian phrasing; the nature of the rhythm in both was realised.

Glasgow Choral Union (191 voices).
Conducted by Mr. H. Verbrugghen.

At twelve o'clock it was announced that the competition would be continued at two; at two it was postponed till three; at three this choir had finished the test-piece, and was occupied with Cornelius's 'The surrender of the soul to everlasting Love.' Their conception of it was dignified and not overflowing with expression, and it was not only in the difficult harmonies that their intonation lost accuracy. The voices made a sonorous body of tone which was well unified in quality and movement. Morley's 'Fire, fire, my heart,' was efficient and without exaggeration. On the whole the singing was respectable without being highly inspiring, and it had moments of excellence.

A Cappella Gantois (35 voices).
Conducted by M. E. Hullebrœck.

Here exceedingly brilliant and often penetrating tone made up for lack of numbers. The members of the choir seemed to be so many soloists who were not backward in expressing themselves, so that the more obvious 'points' in the test-piece were well brought off. In vividness the reading was on a level with that of 'La Lyre,' and it was no less to English ears wanting in choral technique. Some chords were undefined, and phrases were apt to straggle for lack of unity. Dramatic intensity and vitality in the tone were the most obvious qualities, and they overshadowed everything else. Their second piece was the Credo from Palestrina's 'Missa Papae Marcelli,' which they sang with much emphasis, dramatic attack, and bold phrasing. Considering that there is hardly any music in existence more suggestive of repose and reverence, the interpretation was at least individual.

The result was as follows:

1st. A Cappella Gantois.
2nd. Glasgow Choral Union.
3rd. Manchester Vocal Society.
Halifax Glee and Madrigal Society.

As the choral competitions were held simultaneously at widely-scattered points, we are unable to give further descriptions. We append the results in the remaining 'Excellence' competitions, and all the information we possess as to the 'Superior' and 'First Division' competitions. Unfortunately our sources of information have conveyed, in general, only the successes of British choirs, and repeated application for full results has failed to elicit a reply. We are therefore unable to state who were the first-prize winners in many classes.

DIVISION D'EXCELLENCE.

Mixed-Voice Choirs (accompanied).

1st. Edward Mason Choir (100 voices).
Union Chorale, Gosselles (108 voices, Mr. F. Laurent).

These choirs also tied in the sight-reading test.

Female-Voice Choirs.

Irish Ladies' Choir (30 voices, Madame Cosslett-Heller).
2nd. Farmer Road School, Leyton (50 voices, Miss Margaret Nicholls).
Blackpool Orpheus (40 voices, Mr. Clifford Higgin).
Manchester Vocal Society (40 voices, Mr. Herbert Whittaker).
1st. Mrs. Layton's Choir, London (40 voices).
Padiham (40 voices, Mr. E. Hitchon).
Gitana, Birkenhead (60 voices, Mr. Albert Jones).

In the sight-reading test Mrs. Layton's Choir was first, Manchester second, Blackpool third.

DIVISION SUPERIEURE.

Female-Voice Choirs.

1st. Miss F. Etlinger's Choir (16 voices).
Triphena, Penrith (30 voices, Miss Thompson).
2nd. Liverpool Village Choir (50 voices, Mr. R. T. Edwards).

Sight-reading:

1st. Triphena.
2nd. Liverpool Village Choir.
3rd. Birmingham Ladies' Choir.

Male-Voice Choirs.

Group A.

2nd. Morley Vocal Union (50 voices, Mr. Sam Smith).

Group B.

1st. Orphéon des Mines de Dourges (96 voices, M. F. Morel).
2nd. York Male Choir (40 voices, Mr. H. S. Wilkinson).

Group C.

1st. Habergham Glee Union (50 voices, Mr. E. Hitchon).
Chorale Vincenzo Bellini, Ferrara (50 voices, M. Gino).

Group C (Sight-reading).

3rd. Habergham.

Mixed-Voice Choirs (unaccompanied).

1st. Barnoldswick (68 voices, Mr. F. Lord).
Birmingham Madrigal (36 voices, Mr. Cuthbert Stanley).
Chesterfield District Musical Union (99 voices, Mr. J. F. Staton).
Bradford Old Choral (80 voices, Mr. E. Pickles).

Second prize divided between Ealing Philharmonic (Mr. Victor Williams), Glasgow Orpheus (Mr. H. S. Roberton), and London Scottish (Mr. J. B. Shaw).

Sight-reading:

1st. Chesterfield.
Bradford Old Choral.
2nd. Birmingham Madrigal.

Mixed-Voice Choirs (accompanied).

1st. Newport United (120 voices, Mr. J. Stephens).
2nd. St. James's Glee Party (30 voices, Mr. J. S. Marshall).

A similar result in the sight-reading test.

'FIRST' DIVISION.

Female-Voice.

2nd. Cecilia Female-Voice Choir (50 voices, Mr. Harvey Grace).

This choir was also second in sight-reading.

Male-Voice.

2nd. Barclay's Bank, London (45 voices, Mr. J. W. Lewis).
Les amis réunis, St. Quentin, Alsace (65 voices, M. Amandie).

REMARKS BY CONDUCTORS AND SECRETARIES.

We have received numerous letters describing the experiences of choirs. Of these we print the following selection.

THE SWANSEA AND DISTRICT MALE CHOIR.

Conductor, Mr. Ll. R. Bowen.

Mr. Arthur M. James, the treasurer, writes:

We competed in the 'Division d'Excellence'—Male Choral Section: Group 'A.'

The bed accommodation was unsatisfactory so far as half the choir was concerned. The 'hotels' could not be accepted, and although paid for in advance, half the choir had to look out for other accommodation and pay for it, thus paying twice over. It was a great struggle, without the aid of the guide which the organizing committee had agreed to supply for the use of every foreign choir (Article 18 of conditions). This omission is somewhat inexplicable. The choir would themselves have engaged a guide if they had known one would not be forthcoming.

The meals arranged for the choir at Restaurant E. Chartier, Rue de Rivoli, were in every possible way excellent, and the choir were one and all delighted both with the food and the attendance. This part of the arrangements, by M. Bonnaire, deserves very special praise.

This choir, and, it is believed, all British Choirs, would have liked a detailed adjudication, as is the custom in England and Wales. Adjudication by ballot was also looked forward to as an interesting innovation, but the arrangements furnished no opportunity of judging the merits of this or its practical value. If the judging was carried out in this manner, it would be of interest to have the opinion of each adjudicator.

The enterprise of the Paris Council in establishing this immense Tournament is greatly to be admired. It is believed that no other Council in the world would have undertaken the task. If the Paris authorities had had the practical assistance of, say, the general secretaries of the Blackpool Festival, or the Welsh National Eisteddfod in carrying out the detailed work in connection with the Tournament, we believe the arrangements would have been more smoothly completed and managed.

So far as this choir is concerned their experience in the procession alone, on Monday, was well worth the trip across to Paris. The reception the choir received along the route was princely, and will live for ever in the minds of the participants. Words cannot adequately describe the scene. The continual cries of 'Vive l'Angleterre,' 'Vive l'Entente Cordiale,' &c., are still ringing in our ears. The choir hardly knew how to respond to this enthusiasm, but, as is natural to Welshmen, singing seemed to be the instinctive reply. The 'Marseillaise,' 'God save the King,' 'God bless the Prince of Wales,' and 'Hen Wlad fy Nhadau,' were alternatively taken up and sung with gusto and warmth, and to the evident and great delight of the huge crowd lining the route. It was 8.30 or more when the procession came to an end, and in spite of the fact that the members had had nothing to eat since 11.30 that morning, not a single one would have missed the procession—so much did they enjoy it and appreciate the truly magnificent reception they had received. At dinner the same evening, at M. Chartier's restaurant, renderings of the Welsh and English National Anthems were given at the special request of the diners. We all repeat 'Vive l'Entente Cordiale.'

SOUTHPORT VOCAL UNION.

Mr. J. C. Clarke, the conductor, writes:

We competed in the 'Division d'Excellence' for Male Choirs. The arrangements were made through Messrs. Cook & Son, and, generally speaking, were very satisfactory. I consider better results would have been achieved had there been only one set of Judges for each division: as it was, in our division for instance, there were two groups and two sets of adjudicators. I must mention that we were delighted with the magnificent reception we received after the singing of the test-piece, which I consider was finely interpreted by the choir.

STOURBRIDGE INSTITUTE MALE-VOICE CHOIR.

Mr. G. H. Woodall, the conductor, writes:

We entered in the 'Division d'Excellence' for Male-Voice Choirs. After definitely deciding to compete, we immediately made arrangements with a local tourist agency for accommodation in Paris, and we were perfectly comfortable. The fact of no marks being awarded made the judging somewhat unconvincing to us, and the great number of 'ties' only added to this. Personally I think our system of judging is better in every way. One could not help thinking the arrangements generally were not good. Times were badly kept, and confusion was rife. Still, since our return we have all given our verdict on this wonderful competition, and the procession in particular—Glorious!

LONDON WELSH MALE CHOIR.

Mr. Luther Evans, Secretary of the London Welsh Male Choir, says:

We competed in the 'Division d'Excellence' and Male-Voice choirs. The choir numbered 110, and was placed in eight hotels scattered all over Paris. It took me three hours in a taxi' to hunt up the members and give the orders regarding rehearsals, &c. The whole of the eight hotels were fairly comfortable. The Jury made no remarks as to the good or bad points of any choir, therefore there was very little to learn. Our expenses were £230, and our prize was £200.

The arrangements to reach the Gymnase Voltaire, Rue Japy, to sing for the final were anything but perfect. It took our choir, after travelling on the Métropolitan for thirty minutes, forty-five minutes to walk in the broiling hot sun to reach the venue, and then enter a place at about 110 degrees and sing almost at once. We were tired and parched; the voices were not so brilliant as in the morning, yet we cheered the winners to the echo!

MORLEY VOCAL UNION.

Mr. A. A. Foster, the Secretary, writes:

We competed in the 'Division Supérieure,' Group 1. Five hotels were good and one unsatisfactory. The judging was satisfactory, except that we expected to have at least one English adjudicator along with the French adjudicators, as printed on the programme; this was not the case in our class. We think it impossible to have a fair test in any competition where forty-five voices have to compete with 175 voices, as was the case in our class; hence it is desirable to have a maximum and minimum.

Having taken part in most of the musical competitions in Yorkshire and Lancashire during the past sixteen years, in alto-lead classes, we have some idea of what a few of the best adjudicators have taught our choir in competition work. We listened to the singing of some of the foreign choirs, and were surprised at the liberty they took with the test-piece. For instance, tempo marked 120 they sang 70, also tempo marked 150 they sang 200, therefore expression and tempo were reversed in many instances. In our experience we have always found it advisable not to sing too mechanically, but at the same time to understand that the metronome marks are approximate; in Paris this was absolutely ignored. We attended the Paris Festival not for the sake of trying to win a money-prize, but to endeavour to encourage the art we love and pay some noble tribute to the town in which we live.

MELTON MOWBRAY CHORAL SOCIETY.

Mr. J. W. Warner, the conductor, writes:

We competed in the 'Division d'Excellence,' Mixed Voices (unaccompanied).

The arrangements on the whole were satisfactory, but there was a lack of system and too much was left to chance.

The absence of English adjudicators proved a serious handicap for British choirs. The adjudications, though possibly quite fair, appear to have been made from a Continental point of view. The absence of any analysis or characterization of the singing of the various choirs robbed the competition of much of its educative value.

Our party were comfortably and safely housed, and fairly well fed. They all enjoyed the visit to Paris very much.

The correspondent of an English musical publication says of us that we were 'the only choir that he found happy and contented with their lot,' mischievously adding: 'before the awards were made.' It is to be hoped we were not perceptibly less so afterwards. Small room is there for wonder that a choir entirely composed of amateurs should have to give place to one largely if not entirely made up of professionals. The volume of tone produced by the thirty-five members of the A Cappella Gantois choir was absolutely marvellous, and adequately illustrated what is possible in the way of voice-development. The Glasgow choir had the advantage of singing under a conductor having the Continental temperament—a Belgian, it is said.

With such choirs as Manchester and Halifax dividing the third prize it was not surprising that Melton should be amongst the 'also ran,' especially as our 'own-choice' pieces were of so light and delicate a character. To have no instrument to give the chord was rather a surprising experience, but happily it caused no catastrophe.

GLASGOW CHORAL UNION.

Conductor, Mr. H. Verbrugghen.

The President, Mr. Donaldson, writes:

We entered for the 'Division d'Excellence,' Mixed Voices (unaccompanied). From the first we thought the project too huge, and made all our own arrangements as to travelling and hotel accommodation. We left Glasgow on Friday, May 24, at 8.50 p.m. by special train, and reached Paris on Saturday about 7 p.m. All our members were thoroughly well pleased with both travelling and hotel arrangements. As to judging, we have no fault to find other than that we thought it unfair that a professional choir of thirty-five voices should compete with large amateur choirs. The professional choir won first-prize.

There seemed to be no one at the head of affairs and the result was chaos. If there had been even one man of sound organizing ability, I think the tale to-day would have been very different.

We were fortunate however in having a delegate appointed to look after our interests, who did everything possible to help us and to whom our best thanks are due.

THE MANCHESTER VOCAL SOCIETY.

Conductor, Mr. Herbert Whittaker, of Blackpool.

The Secretary, Mr. Charles W. Sadler, says:

We competed in the 'Division d'Excellence,' Mixed Voice, and the Female-Voice 'Excellence,' both unaccompanied, and in the Sight-test Sections.

We arrived in Paris, Saturday midnight, found chaos at Gare du Nord. The arrangements for our accommodation in Paris were mixed. We were divided into four sections in various parts of the City. Only about ten of our number were able to take part in the procession. The judging was quite satisfactory, but the general arrangements left much to be desired.

THE HALIFAX MADRIGAL SOCIETY.

Conductor, Mr. H. Shepley.

The President, Mr. T. W. Benson, writes:

We competed in the 'Excellence Class' for Mixed-Voices (unaccompanied) and in the Sight-test competition. Our choir and friends, 125 in all, were allotted to eleven hotels; eight were good and three were bad. On the whole our choir did fairly well, and we are not desirous of complaining too much. Our Society has passed a Resolution of thanks to M. Bonnaire, in appreciation of all he did for us. Our guide was satisfactory, and did his best.

We were asked to sing before the President of the French Republic in the Jardin des Tuileries on the Monday afternoon, and the arrangements for this were very much muddled, yet in spite of this mismanagement we enjoyed the honour and appreciated it. We complain very strongly indeed that there was no English judge in our competition. Dr. Coward was appointed to act, but declined because of his connection with the Glasgow Choral Union. No other English judge was appointed. But apart from this, we were dissatisfied with the result, and think we should have received higher award if we had sung before an English judge.

THE EDWARD MASON CHOIR.

Mrs. Mason writes:

We competed in the 'Division d'Excellence,' Mixed Voices (with accompaniment), and in Sight-reading.

As to accommodation, it could have been better had steps been taken early enough to secure more suitable quarters.

Considering the great number of English competitors, it would have been helpful if the 'instructions' had been printed in English as well as French. Possibly much confusion would thereby have been avoided. In spite of the very natural disappointments arising, our members accepted the inevitably inadequate accommodation, and went in for getting all the enjoyment possible from the short visit.

NEWPORT (MON.) UNITED CHOIR.

Mr. Tom Stephens, conductor, writes:

We competed in the Mixed Choir Competition (accompanied), 'Division Supérieure.'

My singers, numbering about ninety, were divided into eight parties. Seven of these parties were provided with very comfortable accommodation, but one party was not so fortunate. The judging arrangements were carried out admirably.

We won first prize (£100), with felicitations of the Jury, and were placed in the 'Division d'Excellence.' We also won first prize (£25) in the sight-singing competition, again with felicitations of the Jury, and were pressed to take part the same evening in the 'Division d'Excellence' Concert held at the Salle des Horticulteurs, where our choir received a great ovation and a double encore. Miss Maud Stephens [12½ years of age, daughter of the conductor], who won the soprano solo prize among adults at the South and West London Festival last March, also sang the solo 'Villanelle' in French. The cosmopolitan audience were by this solo roused to the highest pitch of enthusiasm.

CHESTERFIELD AND DISTRICT MUSICAL UNION.

Conductor, Mr. J. Frederic Staton.

The Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. George Ed. Short, writes:

We competed in 'Division Superiéure,' Mixed-Voices (unaccompanied), and in the Sight-test. Arrangements for hotel accommodation excellent. The division of members into sections of from eight to twenty-five suited our party admirably, and the hon. secretary received numerous compliments on the excellence of the arrangements and comfort of the various hotels, not one person out of the 133 being anything but fully satisfied.

There was extraordinary difficulty in obtaining tickets or information concerning performances by the competitors. Hundreds of pounds might have been made by the authorities had tickets in advance been available. Lack of persons in authority at the various halls, particularly at the Théâtre Châtelet, where no one could be found to give any instructions whatever as to our performance on the Tuesday afternoon. No accommodation or dressing-rooms available for the choirs; no order of programme. Reporters advised for 3 p.m.; choir instructed to be there at 2.30 p.m. Consequently in report of the concert which our choir opened, our contribution to the programme was not mentioned.

THE GLASGOW ORPHEUS CHOIR.

Mr. Hugh S. Roberton, the conductor, says:

We competed in the 'Division Supérieure,' Mixed Voices (unaccompanied). We made our own hotel and other arrangements at the last moment, upon discovery that the accommodation provided was hopeless.

Not a single member of our Jury understood a word of the English language, yet eight British choirs sang before them pieces in which, to appraise properly, the textual factor had to be taken into account. That factor was, as a matter of necessity, discounted. The Jury, on their own confession, had never heard such choral singing. Not knowing the pros and cons. of modern choralism, they were unable to come to a definite finding. As a result, and after a weary day in which the recollection of early performances must have almost vanished four choirs, including two tip-top ones and one at least of very ordinary calibre, were bracketed first, and three choirs bracketed second. Amongst the prize-winners was one choir which had not even learned the notes of, and therefore could not sing, the test-piece!

[Many other letters are held over.]

THE YORKSHIRE CHOIR.

Conducted by Dr. Coward.

The enterprise of the Sheffield and Leeds choralists in uniting to form a representative Yorkshire choir to sing at Paris simply for honour and not for competition deserves the highest praise. It resulted in one of the most brilliant achievements of the whole Festival. Sometimes they sang in the open air under considerable disadvantage, but here as elsewhere they displayed a virtuosity that gained the sympathetic attention and warm applause of the tens of thousands of Parisians who strained their ears to hear them. On the Sunday evening they performed on a platform raised in the centre of the great plateau in front of the Hôtel de Ville. The audience was enormous—estimates vary from fifty to one hundred thousand. Of course, the choir could not be heard well by all this immense concourse, but the attention and applause given amply repaid the Yorkshire singers for their trouble. They sang 'Messiah' choruses to the accompaniment of a weak orchestra, and the programme included 'O gladsome Light,' which next day a Parisian newspaper described as 'O gladstone light.'

On the Monday afternoon they gave a concert in the hall at the Jardin d'Aclimatation, Bois de Boulogne, where they were accompanied by an orchestra from Amiens. From here they proceeded to the Tuileries Gardens, where they were to sing before the President. Not having been told at which gate to enter they chose the wrong one, and found themselves amongst the fenced-off and much crowded public. After much strenuous wandering they called a halt in a space kindly kept open for them by the gendarmerie, and set forth—but not the two hundred—to enter at the right gate. They sang 'The bells of St. Michael's Tower' before the President, and took their places in the grand procession.

On another occasion the choir sang before the President at the Hôtel de Ville. He warmly felicitated Dr. Coward upon the performance, and afterwards sent a valuable Sèvres vase to him as a souvenir. The visit of the choir to Paris culminated in a set concert given at the Trocadéro, a magnificent structure almost rivalling the Royal Albert Hall in its size. Here there was deplorable failure in the arrangements. Notice had not been given by the Paris Council to the Trocadéro authorities, and all arrangements had to be made at the last moment. There was practically no advertisement of the event, and although the material for printing the programme, including translations of the English words, had been furnished weeks before, no programmes were printed! Yet an audience of two or three thousand persons attended. The choir sang splendidly. Their most artistic effort was the performance of Bach's great motet, 'Sing ye to the Lord.' But the most popular items were their remarkable performance of 'You stole my love' (Macfarren) and 'The bells of St. Michael's tower.' The bell effects in the latter piece were greatly enjoyed. Altogether the concert, which was exclusively choral, was a worthy exhibition of English choral powers.

On June 8, at the invitation of the Duchess of Norfolk, a large and influential gathering assembled in the Great Hall of Arundel Castle to hear an address by Dr. W. G. McNaught on the Competitive Musical Festival movement. The meeting was designed to promote the establishment of a centre in this section of Sussex. Sir Hubert Parry and the Rev. (late Archdeacon) Sinclair, who recently retired from St. Paul's Cathedral and now resides in this district, spoke warmly on the value of the movement. The Duchess of Norfolk presided, and announced that a Festival will be held next spring (probably on April 4 and 5) at either Horsham or Chichester. The schedule will be issued in September, and entries will have to be sent in by January 1, 1913. Amongst those present were the Countess of March, Mrs. Maxwell-Stuart, Lady Gifford, the Hon. Lady Cunliffe, Lady Maud Parry, and Lady Johnston.

THE ASSOCIATION OF MUSICAL COMPETITION FESTIVALS.

President, Her Grace the Duchess of Norfolk ; Committee, Lady Mary Trefusis (Chairman), Lady Winefride Elwes (Hon. Treasurer), Miss Edith Barran, Mr. J. A. Fuller-Maitland, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Miss Stella Hamilton, Mrs. Argles, Mrs. Commeline, Mr. H. Plunket Greene, Mrs. Herbert Peake, and Miss Mary Egerton and Dr. W. G. McNaught (Hon. Secs.).

The annual Council Meeting and Conference will be held at Norfolk House, St. James's Square, London, W. (by kind permission of Her Grace The Duchess of Norfolk), on Tuesday, July 16, 1912.

10.30 a.m., Council Meeting (open only to delegates of affiliated Festivals).—Lady Mary Trefusis in the chair. The suggestions from members of Council should be brought forward by the members proposing them (see 'Rules' relating to Council and Conference).

11.45 a.m., Conference (open free to all members of the Association, and to non-members on payment of one shilling).—Subject for discussion, 'Musical Phrasing in its Relation to Words in Choral and Solo Performance.' To be introduced by Mr. Harry Evans and Mr. H. Plunket Greene.

2.45 p.m., Business Meeting.—Reading of Minutes ; Reports of Secretary and Treasurer ; Election of Officers ; Report of Hon. Sec. of Certificate Sub-Committee ; Resolutions of Council sent to Conference ; other business.

3 p.m.—(1.) Paper on 'The Training of School Choirs.' By Miss Margaret Nicholls, of the Farmer Road, Leyton (London, E.), School (winners of the Blackpool (1910), and Birmingham (1912) Challenge Shields, and of Prizes at Paris, &c.). The School Choir will sing some of the test-pieces used as tests at these Competitions.

(2.) (about 3.45 p.m.) 'Some Notes on the Paris International Competition.' By Dr. W. G. McNaught.

(3.) (about 4.15 p.m.) Performance by Mrs. Mary Layton's Ladies' Choir (winners of two first-prizes at Paris).

The proceedings will close about 5 p.m.

Address of Acting Secretary, Miss E. Maddock, 22, Addison Court Gardens, London, W. Annual subscription (2s. 6d.) should be sent to the above. Any person interested in the movement may join.

HASTINGS.—May 20 to 22.

Abundant success attended the Festival held this year at Hastings. The comprehensive invitations of the syllabus received ready response, and there was much in the work of the competitors that was interesting and encouraging. We regret that we have no more space than is sufficient to record the chief choral results. In the Juvenile Section, prizes were won by Silverhill Presbyterian, St. Paul's, St. Mary's Lodge, and Wellington College. Silverhill Presbyterian Choir were the best of five choirs from places of worship. In the Male-Voice Section, Ore and District (Mr. Fred Shoesmith) beat Bexhill (Dr. Herman Brearley) by a small margin. Three Mixed-Voice Choirs sang Faning's 'Moonlight' and Elgar's 'O happy eyes,' and were placed in the following order : 1st, Hastings Madrigal Society (Dr. Herman Brearley) ; 2nd, West Hill (Miss Alphea Parry) ; 3rd, Old Town Choral Society (Mr. F. Shoesmith). Mr. John Lockey, the hon. secretary, is to be congratulated on the excellent outcome of his organizing efforts. The judges in the musical sections were Dr. McNaught and Mr. Dan Price.

LEAMINGTON.—May 30, June 1.

The second Leamington Festival has further justified and encouraged the promoters of this event, and it is clear that it can become of great influence in moulding the musical taste of the neighbourhood. The outstanding feature on this occasion was the magnificent service rendered by Mr. Plunket Greene as adjudicator of the solo classes. Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor also endeared himself as chief co-adjudicator, and valuable assistance was given by Mr. Basil Johnson.

In the Junior and Senior Choral Classes, the tests, entries, and results were as follows:

SCHOOL CHOIRS (A).

Tests: 'Riding to fairyland' (Bantock).
'The Posy' (E. M. Boyce).

Four entries.

1st. Portland Street Wesleyan.
2nd. Allesley School, Coventry.

SCHOOL CHOIRS (B).

Tests: 'New-Year's song' (G. Richmond).
'Weep you no more, sad fountains' (Madeley Richardson).

Six entries.

1st. Murray School, Rugby.
*2nd. Rugby Road Mixed.
*2nd. Elborrow Boys', Rugby.

Seven parties entered for Action-songs, the prizes being taken by Shrubland Street Girls, Bath Place National School, and Sir T. White's Orphanage, Coventry.

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: 'The beleaguered' (Sullivan).
'The banners wave' (Kücken).

Seven entries.

1st. Coventry Musical Club (Mr. Chapman).
2nd. Leamington.
3rd. West Bromwich.

CHORAL SOCIETIES (A).

Tests: 'Lullaby of life' (Leslie).
'When winds breathe soft' (Webbe).

1st. Coventry Co-operative.
2nd. Manfield Northampton.
Rugby Co-operative.

CHORAL SOCIETIES (B).

Tests: 'Moonlight' (Faning).
'You stole my love' (Macfarren).

1st. Primrose Hill Congregational.
2nd. Manfield, Northampton.
Earl's Barton Baptist.

BERKS, BUCKS, AND OXON.—June 7 to 11.

For the tenth Festival it was the turn of Berkshire to provide accommodation, and Newbury was the town selected. The syllabus was again complicated, and with much subdivision, regulated by the number of inhabitants in the places represented, it contained forty-seven classes, of which twenty were choral. In two divisions no competitors entered. The eighteen winners of first-prizes were the following:

Kendrick Girls' School; Theale School; Aston Clinton Boys' School; Coleshill School; Langley Central School; Cowley, St. John's Girls' School, Oxford; Beaconsfield G.F.S. Class; Langley Central School, Teachers; Saunderton Choral Society; Newbury Ladies' Choir; Newbury Male-Voice Choir; All Saints' Church, Coleshill; Broad Street, Reading, Congregational Church Choir; Beaconsfield Church Choir; St. Giles's, Reading; Brightwell Musical Society; Goring and Streatley Choral Society; Newbury Madrigal Society.

The second annual Musical Competition Festival of the Free Church Musicians' Union will be held during November. The organizing secretary is Mr. William C. Webb, 10, Nightingale Road, Clapton, N.E.

LYTHAM—June 12—15.

It is always a pleasure to attend the Lytham Festival on account of its amenities of situation, the pleasant spirit that inspires the proceedings, and the excellence of the musical results. This year's Festival was no exception, and it beat all its records in the number of competing choirs. When the new hall is ready and this expanding support is adequately housed, the Lytham Festival may be expected to rank with the most important events of the kind. The adjudicators were Dr. McNaught, Mr. Harry Evans, and Mr. C. H. Fogg. We append a list of the chief choral tests, entries, and results, Those in the children's section will be given in THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for August.

FEMALE-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: 'A June rose bloomed' (Coleridge-Taylor).
'A love song' (Brahms).

Five entries.

2nd. Blackpool Glee and Madrigal (Mr. H. Whittaker).
1st. Barrow St. James' (Mrs. Bourne).
3rd. Blackpool Orpheus (Mr. Clifford Higgin).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (under 25 voices).

Tests: 'Softly fall the shades of evening' (Hatton).
'The keys of Heaven' (arr. Button).

Fifteen entries.

1st. C.W.S., Manchester (Mr. Lewis Evans).
2nd. O.M., St. Helens, (Dr. S. B. Siddall).
3rd. Denton (Mr. James Hardy).

MALE-VOICE CHOIRS (under 36 voices).

Tests: 'Media Vita' (Bruch).
'The little sandman' (arr. West).
'Marching' (Brahms).

1st. Habergham Glee Union (Mr. E. Hitchon).
2nd. Todmorden (Mr. Lawson Berry).
3rd. Southport Vocal Union (Mr. J. C. Clarke).

In a class for local church choirs of men and boys, Lytham Parish Church (Mr. S. H. Broughton) was the only entry. Four choirs entered for the open class for small church and chapel choirs; the winners were Adelaide Street United Methodist, Blackpool (Mr. J. S. Warburton).

MIXED-VOICE CHOIRS.

Tests: 'Dead in the Sierras' (Coleridge-Taylor).
'Vineta' (Brahms).
'Lullaby, my sweet little baby' (Byrd).
'Come, pretty wag' (Parry).

Haverigg Madrigal Society (Mr. H. G. Cooke).
1st. Blackpool Glee and Madrigal Society (Mr. H. Whittaker).
2nd. Barrow Madrigal Society (Mrs. Bourne).
South Shore Vocal Union (Mr. J. T. Schofield).
Stretford Glee and Madrigal Society (Mr. Thomas Corlett).
Blackpool Orpheus Glee Society (Mr. Clifford Higgin).

The much lamented death of the late Chairman of the Executive, Mr. T. B. Crook, was referred to during the Festival by the new Chairman, Mr. C. F. Critchley, and by Dr. McNaught. It was gratifying to find that the sad event had not injured the Festival, for as a matter of fact the entries constituted a record. No doubt many former competitors rallied to the support of the Festival as a tribute to the memory of Mr. Crook. Mr. Critchley showed himself to be a man of great driving force.

The greatest need at Lytham as a community is the provision of a commodious hall not only for the musical Festival, but for many social, recreative and local purposes. The hall on the pier in which perforce the Festival is held, is quite inadequate for the purpose.

The Grand Chair Eisteddfod organized by the Welsh C. M. Church, Falmouth Road, S.E., will take place at Queen's Hall on November 20.

We regret that we have no space in our present issne to report the following competitions: Cornwall County, Secondary Schools Division, Truro, May 30; Prestatyn Eisteddfod, Whit-Monday; Rhymney Eisteddfod, Whit-Tuesday, and the important one held at Ayr.

ANTHEMS
FOR TRINITYTIDE.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Almighty and everlasting God	Gibbons	1½d.
Angel spirits ever blessed (Hymn to the Trinity, No. 3)	P. Tchaikovsky	2d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	4d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Be ye all of one mind	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed angel spirits (Hymn to the Trinity)	P. Tchaikovsky	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	Boyce	1½d.
*Blessing, glory	Bach	6d.
Come, ye children	Josiah Booth	3d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	J. T. Field	2d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	G. C. Martin	4d.
He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.), in Key of A	F. Hiller	1½d.
*He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.), in Key of A flat	F. Hiller	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
Holy, Lord God Almighty	Thomas Bateson	4d.
*How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity (Blessed angel spirits)	P. Tchaikovsky	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity, No. 3 (Angel spirits, ever blessed)	P. Tchaikovsky	2d.
I am Alpha and Omega	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.
*Light of the world	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might	William Mason	1½d.
Lord of all power and might (Men's Voices)	J. Barnby	2d.
Lord, we pray Thee	H. A. Chambers	1½d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. Varley Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
O joyful Light	B. Tours	4d.
*O Lord, my trust	King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see	John Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Sing to the Lord	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	John Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
*We give Thee thanks	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
We have heard with our ears	H. Aldrich	1s.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	Mozart	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES

124a	Almighty God, Who hast promised	H. Elliot Button	1d.
124b	Grant to us, Lord	H. Elliot Button	1d.
*7b	Let Thy merciful ears	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
22	O God, Who hast prepared	A. R. Gaul	2d.
69	Teach me Thy way	Frank L. Moir	3d.
124c	We humbly beseech Thee	H. Elliot Button	1d.

* Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

D

NEW
HARVEST ANTHEMS

JUST PUBLISHED.

SING A SONG OF PRAISE

COMPOSED BY

CUTHBERT HARRIS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O BE JOYFUL IN THE LORD

(From the 100th Psalm).

COMPOSED BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

WHATE'ER THE BLOSSOMED SPRING

RECITATIVE, TERZETTA, AND CHORUS

From "AUTUMN"

COMPOSED BY

J. HAYDN.

The Words adapted for use as a Harvest Anthem.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

IT IS A GOOD THING TO GIVE THANKS

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU, O GOD, ART PRAISED IN SION

COMPOSED BY

CUTHBERT HARRIS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

GIVE EAR, O YE HEAVENS

COMPOSED BY

W. G. ALCOCK.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH

COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS (Complete List).

*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	1½d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Barnby and J. Kent, each	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee	George H. Ely	4d.
*And the Lord said	T. W. Stephenson	3d.
*Angel voices, ever singing	E. V. Hall	3d.
As the earth bringeth forth her bud	A. Herbert Brewer	4d.
*Be glad and rejoice	Myles B. Foster and Bruce Steane, each	3d.
*Behold, I have given you every herb	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Bless the Lord thy God	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Bless thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.
Blessed be the Name of God (Two-part)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Blessed be Thou, Lord God	J. Kent	4d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
*Come, ye thankful people, come	Bruce Steane	3d.
Eternal source of every joy	F. Brandeis	2d.
*Father of mercies, God of love	John E. West	3d.
*Father of mercies, God of love	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	3d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
Fear not, O land	Warwick Jordan	3d.
*Give ear, O ye heavens	W. G. Alcock	3d.
*God be merciful unto us	John E. West	1½d.
*God said, Behold, I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	4d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works	J. F. Bridge	4d.
*Great is our Lord	Myles B. Foster	4d.
*Great is the Lord	Bruce Steane and E. A. Sydenham, each	3d.
*Great is the Lord	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.
Hearken unto Me, ye holy children	W. H. Bell	3d.
*Hearken unto this	H. Elliot Button	1½d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
*He sendeth the springs into the valleys	Herbert W. Wareing	4d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance	J. Stainer	4d.
*How excellent is Thy loving-kindness	F. H. Cowen	6d.
*I looked, and behold a white cloud	Healey Willan	3d.
*I will alway give thanks	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
*I will extol Thee	C. M. Hudson	4d.
*I will feed my flock	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
*I will give you rain in due season	H. W. Wareing	4d.
I will greatly rejoice in the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
I will magnify Thee	*J. B. Calkin and Oliver King, each	4d.
I will magnify Thee	*J. Goss and J. Shaw, each	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.
*I will open rivers in high places	Edgar Pettman	3d.
I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.
*In the day shalt thou make	Herbert W. Wareing	3d.
*Is it not wheat harvest to-day?	Thomas Adams	3d.
*It is a good thing to give thanks	Thomas Adams	1½d.
*Joy in harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Let the people praise Thee, O God	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	1½d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.
*Look on the fields	Charles Macpherson	3d.
*Look upon the rainbow	Thomas Adams	3d.
*Lord of the harvest	J. Barnby	4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.
Man goeth forth	Arthur Carnall	3d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise	John E. West	4d.
My soul, O praise the Lord Thy God	J. S. Bach	3d.
*O be joyful in God	John E. West	3d.
*O be joyful in the Lord	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
*O be joyful in the Lord	E. Prout	3d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*O give thanks	E. V. Hall and Bruce Steane, each	3d.
O give thanks	W. Tucker	1½d.
*O give thanks	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
*O God, my soul thirsteth	F. R. Greenish	3d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
*O how great is Thy goodness	Thomas Adams	1½d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
O lovely peace	G. F. Handel	4d.
*O praise God in His holiness	Hugh Blair and J. Weldon, ea.	1½d.
*O praise God in His holiness	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
O praise ye the Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.
O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	B. Rogers	1½d.
O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. S. Sullivan	1½d.
*O that men would praise the Lord	Hugh Blair	3d.
*O that men would praise the Lord	John B. McEwen	3d.
*O that men would praise the Lord	W. Wolstenholme	3d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
*O worship the King	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Praise, my soul, the King of heaven	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	1½d.
Praise, O praise our God and King	B. Luard-Selby	3d.
*Praise our God, ye people	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Praise the Lord	George J. Elvey	4d.
Praise the Lord	Julius Benedict	8d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. H. Bliss	3d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	*E. V. Hall and W. Hayes, ea.	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. H. Maunder	3d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. Scott	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	1½d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Praise to God, immortal praise	John E. West	3d.
*Praise waiteth for Thee, O God	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	1½d.
*Praised be the Lord	C. Steggall	3d.
Praised be the Lord daily	T. Ebdon	1½d.
*Praised be the Lord daily	C. Harford Lloyd	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye righteous	J. Rheinberger	3d.
*Sing a song of praise	Cuthbert Harris	1½d.
*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing to the Lord with thanksgiving	J. Barnby	4d.
*Sing unto the Lord	E. A. Sydenham and C. Harris, each	3d.
*Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker and E. V. Hall, each	4d.
*The earth is the Lord's	Alfred Hollins	1½d.
The earth is the Lord's	J. Hopkins and T. T. Trimnell, each	4d.
*The eyes of all wait on Thee	George J. Elvey	3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Myles B. Foster	3d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Thomas Adams	3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*The glory of Lebanon	Herbert H. Wareing	3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100)	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The joy of the Lord is your strength	Hugh Blair	1½d.
The Lord hath been mindful of us	E. T. Chipp	3d.
*The Lord hath been mindful of us	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
The Lord is loving unto every man	A. W. Batson	3d.
*The Lord is my strength and my shield	Josiah Booth	3d.
The Parable of the Harvest	Frank J. Sawyer	4d.
*The vineyard of the Lord	Herbert W. Wareing	3d.
*The woods and every sweet-smelling tree	John E. West	1½d.
*There shall be an heap of corn	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*There shall be an heap of corn	Ferris Tozer	3d.
Thou art worthy, O Lord	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness	Josiah Booth	1½d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Sion	Cuthbert Harris	1½d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	B. Luard-Selby	4d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	W. Wolstenholme	4d.
Thou shalt keep the feast of harvest	F. H. Cowen	4d.
Thou visitest the earth	*J. Barnby and J. Baptiste Calkin, ea.	4d.
*Thou visitest the earth	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	1½d.
*Thrust in thy sickle and reap	Thomas Adams	1½d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. Lee Williams	3d.
*Unto Thee, O God	W. Wolstenholme	1½d.
*Unto Thee, O God, do we give thanks	John E. West	1½d.
*Unto Thee, O Lord, do we give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Whate'er the blossomed Spring	Haydn	3d.
*While the earth remaineth	Alfred R. Gaul	4d.
While the earth remaineth	F. J. Sawyer and C. S. Heap, ea.	4d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Steane and H. W. Wareing, ea.	3d.
While the earth remaineth	T. W. Stephenson & C. L. Williams, ea.	3d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, S.S.A.)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land (S.A.T.B.)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.
Your thankful songs upraise (Jubilee Cantata)	C. M. von Weber	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES OF HARVEST ANTHEMS.

139	Behold, I have given you	H. Elliot Button	3d.
128	Be joyful in God	J. C. Bridge	3d.
176	Be strong, all ye people	A. W. Ketèlbey	3d.
201	Bring unto the Lord	Ferris Tozer	3d.
163	Every good gift	A. W. Ketèlbey	3d.
*80	Faithful is our God	John Francis Barnett	3d.
116	Fear not, O land	F. C. Maker	3d.
205	Great is our Lord	Arthur Page	3d.
68	Great is the Lord	F. N. Löhr	3d.
115	Harvest Hymn	Turle Lee	3d.
*187	If ye walk in My statutes	F. R. Rickman	3d.
140	One soweth, another reapeth	F. C. Maker	3d.
199	O praise God	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
164	O praise the Lord	Alfred Redhead	3d.
153	O sing unto God	Arthur Page	3d.
152	O sing unto the Lord	Ferris Tozer	3d.
104	O sing unto the Lord	Turle Lee	3d.
223	O sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving	F. R. Rickman	3d.
*44	O worship the Lord	Michael Watson	3d.
*90	Praise the Lord	F. C. Maker	3d.
127	Praise the Lord	Wm. Smallwood	3d.
*20	Praise the Lord, O my soul	Michael Watson	3d.
103	Praise the Lord, O my soul	Wm. Smallwood	3d.
*141	Sing, O ye Heav'ns	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
*78	Sing unto the Lord of Harvest	J. Barnby	3d.
*107	Sing unto God	F. Bevan	3d.
174	Sing we merrily unto God	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
162	Sing ye to the Lord	Arthur W. Marchant	3d.
151	The earth is full of the goodness	F. C. Maker	3d.
56	Thou crownest the year	F. C. Maker	3d.
32	Unto Thee, O God	Michael Watson	3d.
212	While the earth remaineth	F. N. Baxter	3d.

* Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.

HARVEST FESTIVAL MUSIC.

CANTATAS.

SONG OF THANKSGIVING
FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS (OR CONTRALTO) SOLI AND CHORUS
WITH HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED BY
SHAPCOTT WENSLEY
THE MUSIC BY
J. H. MAUNDER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Paper boards, Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.; Words only, 10s. per 100; String Parts, price 9s.; Wind Parts, 14s. 6d.

A GOLDEN HARVEST
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI AND CHORUS
WITH HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION
THE WORDS AND HYMNS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY HENRY KNIGHT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS,
Organist and Director of the Music at St. Alban's, Holborn.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE RAINBOW OF PEACE
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN
BY
THOMAS ADAMS.

Price One Shilling.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

HARVEST-TIDE
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN OR SMALL ORCHESTRA
BY
HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling.
Words only, 5s. per 100. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA
FOR CHORUS, SEMI-CHORUS, AND ORGAN
BY GEORGE GARRETT.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 5s. per 100; or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA
FOR SOPRANO (OR TENOR) AND CONTRALTO (OR BARITONE) SOLI AND CHORUS
THE WORDS BY
ROSE DAFFORNE BETJEMANN
THE MUSIC BY
JULIUS HARRISON.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
FOR SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS
BY
JOHN E. WEST.

Price Two Shillings.
Words only, 5s. per 100; or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

A SONG OF THANKSGIVING
FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
BY
FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE GLEANER'S HARVEST
FOR FEMALE VOICES
BY
C. H. LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA
FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY
C. M. VON WEBER.

Price One Shilling.
Full Score, 21s.; String Parts, 8s.; Wind Parts, 7s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST SONG
FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS
BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Words only, 5s. per 100.
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

HYMNS, ETC.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST
Selected from THE HYMNARY.
Price One Penny.

LET ALL OUR BRETHREN JOIN IN ONE
HARVEST HYMN BY J. BARNBY.
Price One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

SOWING AND REAPING
HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT.
Price Three-Halfpence. Words only, 1s. per 100.

THE JOY OF HARVEST
HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST HYMN OF PRAISE
BY J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING
HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. BARNBY.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS
HARVEST CAROL BY F. A. J. HERVEY.
Price Three-Halfpence.

O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, AND SEA
By J. BARNBY.
On Card, Price One Penny.

COME, YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME
BY WALTER B. GILBERT.
Price One Penny.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D. CANTAB.

ORGAN.

Two Organ Sketches	2s. od. net.
Two Short Pieces—
Larghetto in F	2s. od. ,,
Pastorale in A
Andantino in G flat	1s. 6d. ,,
Second Set of Six Original Pieces—
No. 7. Prelude in A	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 8. Andante in F
,, 9. Adagio in D flat	1s. od. ,,
,, 10. Andante Pastorale in G	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 11. Minuet and Trio
,, 12. Toccata in A major	1s. 6d. ,,

PIANOFORTE.

Capriccio in E major	2s. od. net.
Three Musical Sketches—
Entitled: Summer, Autumn, and Winter	2s. od. ,,
Gavotte in D	2s. od. ,,
Romance and Mazurka	2s. od. ,,

ANTHEMS.

Blessed be Thou (Harvest)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
O clap your hands (Harvest)	4d.
Thine, O Lord. Short Harvest Anthem	2d.
I was glad (Festival)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
Sing to the Lord. Harvest Hymn	1d.

Communion Services in E major. Four Voices	9d.
Do. in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.

"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa
HARVEST ANTHEMS.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord	3d.	2d.
SERVICES.
SERVICE IN G	1/6	1s.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum	3d.	2d.
Benedicite, omnia Opera	2d.	2d.
Benedictus	2d.	2d.
Jubilate	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	8d.	6d.
Pater Noster from the above	2d.	2d.
Amen ditto	1d.	1d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
SERVICE IN CHANT FORM (No. 1)	1s.	8d.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum, &c., with Kyrie	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	6d.	4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
ORGAN.
Voix Séraphique (for Recitals)	2/-
CHURCH CANTATA.
Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General use)	1/6	1s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Composer will be pleased to forward to the Colonies or any foreign country the Orchestral Parts (on loan) of any of his works.

Gillott Road, Edgbaston.

VOCAL SCORE. STAFF NOTATION. 65TH THOUSAND.

REVISED EDITION, including an INTERMEZZO or SLOW DANCE to follow the Wedding Chorus.

(Performed in the Town Hall, Birmingham, on twenty occasions.)

RUTH

A HARVEST PASTORAL

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

SUITABLE FOR

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

"The Biblical story of which Ruth is the central figure lends itself with remarkable suitability to an illustration of a harvest celebration. The country landscape, the ripened corn, the sturdy reapers, the standing sheaves, the active gleaners, and the busy farmer all combine to fill the mind's eye with a pleasant scene of excitement. Set to music by a competent composer such as Mr. A. R. Gaul, the narrative of Ruth's eventful episode lends itself to a pathetic, picturesque, and pleasant performance. The bereaved and sorrowful trio of women on whom the calamity of poverty and famine has fallen, as if to give intensity to their greater grief, and the unexpected and happy influence of patriarchal benevolence displayed by the mighty Boaz, who so quickly transforms sorrow into joy, are all introduced and aptly take their allotted place in the melodious music of Gaul's interpretation of the tale."—Gloucester Citizen.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s. Words, 5s. per 100.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d.

The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to THE COMPOSER, Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CALEB SIMPER'S
NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS.

Caleb Simper's Famous Anthems and Services, &c., are favourites in all English-speaking countries. Nearly Five and a-Half Million Copies have been sold.

Just published, "O GIVE THANKS," 4d.; Sol-fa, 2d.

A most inspiring Anthem, with Soprano (or Tenor) and Bass Solos. The Choruses are vigorous and powerful.

GREAT IS THE LORD	9th 1000 3d.
THE LORD OUR GOD HATH BLESSED US	14th 1000 4d.

Contains a rolling Bass Solo and interesting Choruses.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST	13th 1000 3d.
THOU VISITEST THE EARTH	13th 1000 4d.
THOU PROVIDEST FOR THE EARTH	24th Edition 4d.
FOOD AND GLADNESS	15th 1000 3d.
WHEN THOU HAST GATHERED IN THY CORN	15th 1000 4d.
BLESS THE LORD	17th 1000 3d.
MAKE HIS PRAISE GLORIOUS (New.)	8th 1000 4d.

FAVOURITE HARVEST CANTATA,

A JOYFUL THANKSGIVING 9th 1000, 1s. 6d.
Sol-fa, 1s. For Church use. Occupies about 45 minutes.
Can be rendered with Organ accompaniment only, or with Orchestra. Band parts are printed. "An excellent work." "My choir is delighted." "Cantata was very successful," &c.

HOLY EUCHARIST. An easy and devotional Service (including Benedictus and Agnus Dei) in A flat 8th Edition 4d.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, No. 5. A grand and popular Service Setting 11th Edition 4d.

VOLUNTARIES. Books 6, 7, and 8, 1s. 6d. each, recently published. Each book contains Marches, Offertories, Postludes, Communion, Loud and Soft Voluntaries, &c.; all written on Two Staves, with ped. indicated. Caleb Simper's Voluntaries are exceptionally popular. Over 150 Editions already issued.

All the above Anthems can be also had in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES & Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY Co., 62-66, E. Van Buren St.
Canada: ANGLO-CANADIAN M.P.A., Ltd., 80, Yonge Street, Toronto.

SUITABLE FOR HARVEST.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D.
By ALFRED J. DYE. London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

A

HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES, THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER,
SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER,
AND OTHERS,

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER,
AND
JOHN E. WEST.

DEMY 8VO, PRICE SIXPENCE. TONIC SOL-FA, PRICE SIXPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORGAN MUSIC

FOR

HARVEST FESTIVALS

BOOK 43.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

EDITED BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

No.
1. Pastorale in F .. .. Alfred Hollins.
2. "O lovely peace," from "Judas Maccabæus" .. .. Handel.
3. "Come, ye thankful people, come." Variations on Elvey's tune "St. George" .. .. F. Cunningham Woods.
4. Improvisation on Schulz's Hymn-tune, "We plough the fields" .. .. John E. West.
5. Thanksgiving at Harvest-time, from "Ruth" .. F. H. Cowen.
6. Fantasia on Barnby's Anthem "O Lord, how manifold" John E. West.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S Very Popular Harvest Anthems.

Four of the following Anthems just reprinted again.

*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR	14th 1000	3d.
*SING UNTO GOD WITH THANKSGIVING	22nd 1000	4d.
*HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS..	21st 1000	3d.
*THE FRUIT OF THY WORKS	12th 1000	4d.
*HE GIVES US FRUITFUL SEASONS	10th 1000	4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE	56th 1000	3d.

Sung at a Festival by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

FEAR NOT, O LAND	8th 1000	3d.
*SING PRAISES TO HIS NAME	9th 1000	3d.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS ..	8th 1000	4d.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM	40th 1000	3d.

Sung at Choral Festivals, Wem and Downpatrick Cathedral.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 23rd 1000 4d.
Full of flowing melody and effect. Sung at a Choir Festival.
Those marked * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.
New York: THE H. W. GRAY CO., Agents for U.S.A.

TE DEUM AND JUBILATE

IN F.

MUSIC BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S HYMNS AND TUNES

FOR

Sunday School Anniversary Services.

SET I.

No.
1.	Come, children, on and forward	GEORGE C. MARTIN
2.	For the freshness of the morning	Lady EUAN-SMITH
3.	I love to hear the story	FREDERIC CLAY
4.	Come, O come! in pious lays	J. STAINER
5.	Thine for ever! God of Love	W. C. HARVEY
6.	Jesu, Whom Thy children love	H. ELLIOT BUTTON
7.	Sweetly o'er the meadows fair	F. A. CHALLINOR
8.	Would you gain the best in life	C. J. MAY
9.	On our way rejoicing	WALTER B. GILBERT
10.	Now the daylight goes away	J. ADCOCK

SET II.

1.	Again the morn of gladness	J. STAINER
2.	The Angels' Song	ALBERTO RANDEGGER
3.	Forward, Christian children	ALFRED MOFFAT
4.	The Golden Shore	J. STAINER
5.	Saviour, blessèd Saviour	JOHN E. WEST
6.	Enter with thanksgiving	F. H. COWEN
7.	Man shall not live by bread alone ..	J. VARLEY ROBERTS
8.	Stars, that on your wondrous way ..	J. STAINER
9.	The day is past and over	JOSEPH BARNBY
10.	God will take care of you	FRANCES R. HAVERGAL

SET III.

1.	We march, we march, to victory	JOSEPH BARNBY
2.	Hark! hark! the organ loudly peals ..	GEORGE J. BENNETT
3.	O what can little hands do?	H. ELLIOT BUTTON
4.	While the sun is shining	T. ADAMS
5.	I love to hear the story	H. J. GAUNTLETT
6.	The roseate hues of early dawn	A. SULLIVAN
7.	Lord, Thy children guide and keep ..	A. S. COOPER
8.	In our work and in our play	F. WESTLAKE
9.	The Beautiful Land	J. STAINER
10.	Gentle Jesus, meek and mild	J. STAINER

Both Notations, price Fourpence per Set.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TEN HYMNS (SET I.)

WITH TUNES

FOR USE IN SCHOOLS AND FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS

(Suitable also for Flower Services or Sunday School Festivals).

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN, JOHN STAINER, GEORGE ELVEY,
A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100.

TEN HYMNS (SET II.)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, F. H. COWEN, J. LANGRAN, S. SMITH, A. SULLIVAN, J. STAINER, AND OTHERS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100.

TEN HYMNS (SET III.)

NATIONAL HYMNS AND TUNES FOR CHILDREN'S USE.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. C. MARTIN, H. WALFORD DAVIES, J. H. MAUNDER, J. BARNBY, FREDERICK CLAY, C. HARFORD LLOYD, JOHN E. WEST,
H. DAVAN WETTON, B. TOURS.

EDITED BY W. L. R. McCLUER (Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury).

Staff Notation, price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.
Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

ADDITIONAL HYMNS
WITH TUNES
FOR USE WITH
HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN
OR ANY OTHER CHURCH HYMNAL.

272 pages, Imperial 16mo. Cloth Boards, price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Hymns only, Imperial 32mo, Cloth Boards, One Shilling.

Hymns only, medium 32mo, diamond type, cloth, 4d.; paper, 3d.

Complete edition, bound with HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN (Quarto), 6s. 6d. net.

As its name implies, this book is designed for use with, and not in place of, other Church Hymnals.

For this reason the Hymns are numbered from 801, so that the numbers may not interfere with the use of any other hymn book, no other Church hymn book having as many as even seven hundred hymns. Each hymn has its own distinctive tune, and no hymn or tune in this work is found in Hymns Ancient and Modern (Old Edition), so that with the two books no duplication occurs.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

SHORT PRELUDES
FOR THE
ORGAN

These Short Preludes are intended for use chiefly as Introductory Voluntaries to Divine Service, more especially in those churches where the time allowed for such is, of necessity, somewhat limited. They occupy in performance from about one to two minutes.

NO.
	BOOK I.
1.	Andante Grazioso	Thomas Adams
2.	Andante	W. G. Alcock
3.	Largamente	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante Religioso	Myles B. Foster
5.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
6.	Adagio Cantabile	Alfred Hollins
7.	Larghetto	Charles J. May
8.	Andante con Moto	John E. West
9.	Andantino quasi Allegretto	John E. West
10.	Andante	W. Wolstenholme
	BOOK II.
1.	Andante con Moto	Thomas Adams
2.	Con Moto	W. G. Alcock
3.	Moderato	H. A. Chambers
4.	Marziale, poco Lento	Myles B. Foster
5.	Moderato	Alfred Hollins
6.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
7.	Adagio	Charles J. May
8.	"Hymnus"—Andante e Sostenuto	John E. West
9.	Andante Serioso	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme
	BOOK III.
1.	Moderato e Legato	Thomas Adams
2.	Moderato	W. G. Alcock
3.	Andante con Moto	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante	H. A. Chambers
5.	Grazioso molto Espressivo	Myles B. Foster
6.	"Song without Words"—Con Moto	Alfred Hollins
7.	Andante	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andante Dolente	John E. West
9.	Andante Pastorale	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S
CLASSICAL SONGS
VOL. III.

CONTENTS.

Art thou troubled (Dove sei)	Handel.
But the Lord is mindful of His own	Mendelssohn.
Butterfly, The	Cornelius.
Courage	Schubert.
Dawn, gentle flower	W. Sterndale Bennett.
Erlaf-lake	Schubert.
Fishermaiden, The	Schubert.
Full-orbed Moon, The	Schubert.
Good-night, my dearest child	Brahms.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel.
I will sing of Thy great mercies	Mendelssohn.
In May	Schumann.
Joy of Spring, The (Frühlingslied)	Mendelssohn.
Know'st thou the land?	Schubert.
Lay of the imprisoned huntsman	Schubert.
Let the bright Seraphim	Handel.
Little Sandman, The	Brahms.
Lord of our being (Sorge nel petto)	Handel.
Memory, A	Brahms.
Morning Song	Mendelssohn.
Nazareth	Gounod.
Nymphs and Shepherds	Purcell.
O, my love 's like the red, red rose	Schumann.
O rest in the Lord	Mendelssohn.
O think of me	Cornelius.
Ode to Joy	Schubert.
Oft in my dreams	Cornelius.
Oh! had I Jubal's lyre	Handel.
Out over the Forth	Schumann.
Peace	Schubert.
Sandman, The	Schumann.
Sing, Maiden, sing	W. Sterndale Bennett.
Smiling dawn of happy days	Handel.
Spring advancing (Frühlingsglaube)	Mendelssohn.
Swallow 's flying west, The	Brahms.
Trout, The	Schubert.
Violets	Cornelius.
Wanderer's Night-Song	Schubert.

Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE CHANT COMMUNION SERVICE

WITH SUITABLE HYMNS.

ARRANGED BY

THE REV. C. W. A. BROOKE, M.A.

The Creed and Gloria in Excelsis have been arranged in verses and pointed both for Anglican and Gregorian chanting, and set to appropriate chants.

Suitable for village or small choirs, and mission services, or for congregations without the aid of a choir.

LIST OF HYMNS AND TUNES.

First Line.	Author.	Tune.	Composer
Accept our alms	Anon.	Cherry Hinton	G. B. Lissant.
According to Thy gracious Word	J. Montgomery ...	St. John's, Westminster ...	J. Turle.
Bread of the world, in mercy broken ...	Bishop Heber	Eucharist	J. E. West.
		Troyte's Chant, No. 1
		Jam lucis
Faith of our fathers! living still	F. W. Faber	Holy Faith	G. C. Martin.
		Faith	A Swiss Air.
Father, see Thy children bending at Thy throne	W. B. Trevelyan ...	Forward	Dean Alford.
Lord, knowing Thy love and Thy parting command	W. Wade	The Good Shepherd	J. Barnby.
O God of Mercy, God of Might	J. Keble	Refreshment	G. M. Garrett.
Remember Me; show forth My death ...	S. J. Stone	Gadsden	F. B. Townend.
See, Father, Thy beloved Son	W. H. H. Jervois ...	Henman	W. Henman.
When children saw Thee coming, Lord ...	R. F. Smith	Burrator	C. W. A. Brooke.

PRICE FOURPENCE.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

THE NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER

CONTAINING

THE PSALMS OF DAVID

TOGETHER WITH THE CANTICLES AND PROPER PSALMS.

EDITED AND POINTED FOR CHANTING BY

COSMO GORDON LANG, D.D.
(ARCHBISHOP OF YORK).

HENRY SCOTT HOLLAND, D.Litt.
(Canon and Precentor of St. Paul's).

CHARLES H. LLOYD, M.A., Mus.D.
(Precentor of Eton).

GEORGE C. MARTIN, Mus.D.
(Organist of St. Paul's).

WORDS ONLY.

		Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 51.	With Superimposed notes. Demy 8vo	2 6	4 6
No. 61.	With Prosody signs. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 62.	With Prosody signs. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6
No. 71.	With Varied type. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 72.	With Varied type. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6

NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS.

			Paper. s. d.	Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 81.	For Cathedral use, "The St. Paul's Cathedral Chant Book," Revised Edition.	F'cap 4to ..	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 81A.	Ditto ditto	Post 4to ..	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 82.	For Parish Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than D.	F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 82A.	Ditto ditto	Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 83.	For Village Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than C.	F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 83A.	Ditto ditto	Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6

PSALTER AND CHANTS COMBINED.

No. 53.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 54.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 55.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 63.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 64.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 65.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 73.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 74.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 75.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6

The "New Cathedral Psalter," though founded on the old Cathedral Psalter, is a distinct book, and the two books cannot be used together. The old Cathedral Psalter is still in circulation in all its editions, with the exception of No. 1, formerly published at 9d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S

NEW SONGS

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH NET.

SONG OF THE PILGRIMS.
By EMMELINE BROOK.
Suitable for All Voices.

LOVE IN THE MEADOWS.
By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos or Contraltos.

GALLOPING DICK. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

THE SONGSTERS' AWAKENING (Vocal Waltz). By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos.

SOME PERFECT ROSE. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for All Voices.

TO ALTHEA. By C. HARFORD LLOYD.
Suitable for Baritones.

ON A SUMMER'S DAY.
By CECIL ENGELHARDT.
Suitable for All Voices.

THE CAMEL'S HUMP. By EDWARD GERMAN.
Suitable for All Voices.

SONS OF THE SEA. By COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

COME, DREAMLESS REST. By NOEL JOHNSON.
Suitable for All Voices.

WITH ALL MY HEART.
By WALTER EARNSHAWE.
Suitable for All Voices.

HELIODORE. By BOTHWELL THOMSON.
Suitable for Tenors or Baritones.

LOVE IS FOR EVER. By ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for All Voices.

ZUMMERZETZHIRE (Old Song).
Arranged by ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

WHERE THE CHILDREN SLEEP.
By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Contraltos or Baritones.

A SOUL. By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Tenors.

SWEET NIGHT. By ERNEST AUSTIN.
Suitable for Mezzo-Sopranos or Contraltos.

HOMEWARD. By HAMILTON HARTY.
Suitable for Baritones.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

Just Published.

THE WANDERING JEW.

A CANTATA
FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.
THE ENGLISH WORDS BY PAUL ENGLAND.
THE MUSIC BY FRIEDRICH HEGAR
(Op. 34).

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC
TO
A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

SELECTED AND ARRANGED FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES
BY
R. DUNSTAN.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE SWORD DANCES
OF NORTHERN ENGLAND
SONGS AND DANCE AIRS

COLLECTED AND ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE BY
CECIL J. SHARP.

BOOK I.
1. KIRBY MALZEARD SWORD DANCE.
2. GRENOSIDE SWORD DANCE. PART I.
   DITTO PART II.
3. EARSDON SWORD DANCE:
   THE CAPTAIN'S SONG (OLD VERSION).
   DITTO (MODERN VERSION).

BOOK II.
1. THE ABBOTS BROMLEY HORN DANCE.
2. THE SLEIGHTS SWORD DANCE.
3. THE FLAMBOROUGH SWORD DANCE.
4. THE SWALWELL, EARSDON, AND BEADNELL SWORD DANCES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH BOOK.

THE SWORD DANCES
OF NORTHERN ENGLAND

COLLECTED AND DESCRIBED BY
CECIL J. SHARP.
IN TWO PARTS.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH PART.
CLOTH, THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH PART.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF PART-SONGS.

SELECTED LISTS OF RECENTLY PUBLISHED PART-SONGS.

MIXED VOICES (S.A.T.B., Unaccompanied or Accompaniment ad lib. where not otherwise indicated).

Angelus	E. Elgar	4d.
Autumn Song, An	B Luard-Selby	1½d.
Beside the river (Op. 28, No. 3)	A. Jensen	2d.
Black Monk, The (arr. by Rutland Boughton)	Welsh Folk-song	3d.
Bring me a golden pen	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Call of the breeze, The	J. Cliffe Forrester	1½d.
Cheshire Cheese, The (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
Chloe, that dear bewitching prude	Healey Willan	2d.
Come away, death (arr. by G. Shaw)	Arne	2d.
Come out across the heather (Op. 28, No. 2)	A. Jensen	3d.
Come, lasses and lads (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
§Comrades' song of hope (arr. by Percy E. Fletcher)	A. Adam	2d.
Crossing the bar	C. Lee Williams	2d.
Cruiskeen Lawn, The (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	3d.
David of the White Rock (arr. by H. Evans)	Welsh Air	2d.
Day Dreams	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
Death, the reaper (Op. 75, No. 6)	Schumann	1½d.
Emer's lament for Cuchulain (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	3d.
Evening brings us home	F. H. Cowen	1½d.
Evening Star, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
Fairy Spring	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
§Fly, singing bird	E. Elgar	6d.
§For Empire and for King	Percy E. Fletcher	6d.
Gallant Swabian Captain, A	F. Hegar	3d.
Gay Madcap (Op. 67, No. 2)	Schumann	3d.
Go, song of mine (6 parts)	E. Elgar	6d.
God sends the night	R. Somerville	1½d.
Had I a cave	Healey Willan	2d.
Heart of the night, The (Accompanied)	Hubert Bath	3d.
In praise of Neptune	E. German	3d.
In pride of May	John E. West	1½d.
In the silent West (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	4d.
Joan to the Maypole (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
June	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Kindred hearts	C. Lee Williams	2d.
King of Thule, The (Op. 67, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
Kitty of Coleraine (arr. by C. H. Lloyd)	Irish Air	2d.
Lee Shore, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	2d.
Leprehaun, The	Granville Bantock	4d.
Links o' Love, The	J. B. McEwen	1½d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No. 4) (arr. by John E. West)	Brahms	1½d.
§March triumphal thunders, The ("Caractacus")	E. Elgar	6d.
Men of Harlech (arr. by Rutland Boughton)	Welsh Folk-song	3d.
Merry time of Maying, The (arr. by Brahms)	German Folk-song	3d.
Midnight by the sea	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Morning Song (arr. by Brahms)	German Folk-song	3d.
My love and I (Op. 28, No. 5)	A. Jensen	2d.
My soul would drink those echoes (8 parts)	A. C. Mackenzie	4d.
§News from Whydah	H. Balfour Gardiner	2d.
Night softly falling	G. Lewin	3d.
Nocturne, A	F. H. Cowen	3d.
North or South (Op. 59, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
O tender sleep	M. F. Phillips	1½d.
One with eyes the fairest	Granville Bantock	1½d.
§Our Island Home	Eaton Faning	3d.
Out of the darkness (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Out of the silence (8 parts)	G. Rathbone	6d.
Out upon it	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Phillida flouts me	C. Lee Williams	3d.
Pride of youth, The	John E. West	3d.
Prithee, why?	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Qui Vive!	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Rest comes at eve (Op. 28, No 6)	A. Jensen	1½d.
Sleeping	E. German	3d.
§Snow, The	E. Elgar	6d.
Song of Fionnuala, The (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	1½d.
Song of love's coming, A	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Song of Proserpine	S. Coleridge-Taylor	2d.
§Soul of the world ("St Cecilia's Day")	Purcell	2d.
Spirit of night (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Spring-enchantment (5 parts)	Granville Bantock	3d.
Stage Coach, The	H. Balfour Gardiner	3d.
Storm, The (Op. 67, No. 4)	Schumann	2d.
Sweet day, so cool	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Three Knights, The	E. German	3d.
§Three ships, The	Colin Taylor	3d.
Throstle sings, The	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
Thuringian Volkslied	Abt	1½d.
To a bee	T. W. Stephenson	3d.
Twilight (8 parts)	C. Lee Williams	3d.
When lilies are blowing (Op. 28, No. 7)	A. Jensen	3d.
When Sunday's bells did chime	Hans Sitt	2d.
When the tendrils deck the vine (Op. 28, No. 4)	A. Jensen	2d.
When you sing	Hubert Bath	1½d.
Where the bee sucks (arr. by G. Shaw)	Arne	1½d.
Whispers of Summer	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
Who rides for the King	R. Somerville	3d.
Winter is past, The (arr. by E. L. Bainton)	Scotch Folk-song	2d.
Wrong not, sweet Empress	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Young May Moon, The (arr. by C. H. Lloyd)	Irish Air	2d.

MALE VOICES (T.T.B.B., Unaccompanied or Accompaniment ad lib. where not otherwise indicated).

Alexander (Humorous) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	2d.
§Bacchanalian Chorus	J. W. Elliott	4d.
Battle Song	Laurent de Rillé	3d.
Boy, The (Humorous) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Duncan Gray (T.T.B.)	A. M. Richardson	3d.
Early one morning (arr. by T. F. Dunhill) (A.T.B.B.)	Folk-song	2d.
Evening Song	Laurent de Rillé	3d.
Festival Song	Granville Bantock	4d.
Glories of our blood and state, The	Granville Bantock	3d.
Hymn to Harmony	Laurent de Rillé	4d.
Laird o' Cockpen	Granville Bantock	4d.
Lament, A (arr. by H. Elliot Button)	German Folk-song	2d.
Land of the leal, The (arr. by H. Elliot Button)	Scotch Air	2d.
Lass of Richmond Hill, The (A. (or T.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Let the hills resound (arranged)	Brinley Richards	4d.
Little Sandman, The (arr. by John E. West) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	German Folk-song	3d.
Lotus flower, The (Op. 33, No. 3)	Schumann	2d.
Lucifer in starlight (6 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No. 4) (arr. by John E. West)	Brahms	1½d.
Lullaby, A (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	C. Lee Williams	2d.
Mad Dog, The. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	4d.
Marching (Op. 41, No. 4) (Humorous)	Brahms	2d.
Night March, The (Op. 62, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
Orpheus. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	3d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	Granville Bantock	4d.
Piper o' Dundee	Granville Bantock	4d.
Softly fall the shades of evening (arranged)	Hatton	3d.
Soldier, rest	A. Somervell	3d.
Song of Freedom (Op. 62, No. 2)	Schumann	3d.
Song of the Quarrymen (T. solo)	Laurent de Rillé	4d.
That very wise man. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	3d.
There was an old man. Humorous (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
United are we (Op. 41, No. 2)	Brahms	2d.
§Viking Song	Julius Harrison	4d.
Walpurga (Op. 30)	F. Hegar	6d.
Ware, Wire!	C. Lee Williams	3d.

FEMALE VOICES (THREE-PART (S.S.A.) and with Accompaniment where not otherwise indicated).

Annie Laurie (arr. by C. Macpherson)	Scotch Air	3d.
Ballad of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, The	W. Wolstenholme	6d.
Beauteous morn	E. German	3d.
Blow, ye gentle breezes (4 parts unaccomp.)	J. C. Marks	3d.
Earth and Man, The	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Encinctured with a twine of leaves	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Evening Song (2 parts)	J. Ireland	3d.
Fall of the leaf, The (Op. 43, No. 2) (2 parts)	Schumann	2d.
Flaming Sun is dying, The	F. Hiller	1½d.
Forest Fay, The (Op. 69, No. 2) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	1½d.
Full fathom five (2 parts)	J. Ireland	1½d.
Golden slumbers (2 parts)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Good-night	M. F. Phillips	3d.
Good-night, beloved (arranged, unaccomp.)	Pinsuti	1½d.
In midst of ocean (Op. 91, No. 6) (6 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	3d.
In the warm blue weather (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
It is not always May	Pinsuti	2d.
June roses (Op. 29, No. 2)	Schumann	1½d.
Love-song, A. Accompaniment for Harp (or Pianoforte), Violin and Violoncello	Granville Bantock	4d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No 4) (arranged)	Brahms	1½d.
Ditto (2 parts)	Brahms	1½d.
Maiden of the "Fleur de Lys" (arranged, unaccomp.)	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
Mermaid, The (Op. 69, No. 5) (5 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	3d.
Pixies, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Rest thee on this mossy pillow	H. Smart	1½d.
Rhyme of the four birds, The	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
River King, The (Op. 91, No. 3) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	1½d.
See, see what a wonderful smile (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
Shed no tear (4 parts unaccomp.)	E. Austin	2d.
Sleep, little baby (s. solo) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
Softly fall the shades of evening (arranged, unaccomp.)	Hatton	3d.
Song of morning, A	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Song of the Ermine	César Franck	3d.
Stars of the Summer night (2 parts)	E. Elgar	6d.
There is a garden in her face (2 parts)	J. Ireland	1½d.
Three Fishers, The (4 parts unaccomp.)	W. Wolstenholme	3d.
To Blossoms	P. Bowie	3d.
What can lambkins do?	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Who shall be fairest?	T. S. Holland	3d.
Ye banks and braes (2 parts)	A. M. Richardson	3d.
You spotted snakes	J. D. Davis	3d.
Young love	Granville Bantock	2d.

§ Orchestral Accompaniment.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

RECITAL

SERIES OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No.		s.	d.
41.	Rêve d'Amour .. .. Felix Corbett	2	0
42.	Morceau de Concert (En Forme de Valse) .. Alfred Hollins	2	0
43.	Pavane in A .. .. Bernard Johnson	1	6
44.	Finale Jubilante (Just Published) .. .. John E. West	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Newly added Numbers.		s.	d.
The Quest	(No. 31. Original Compositions)	1	6
Rustic Scene	(No. 32. ,, ,,)	2	0
Carillon	(No. 33. ,, ,,)	1	6
Chant Séraphique	(No. 34. ,, ,,)	1	6
Communion ("Peace") ..	(No. 35. ,, ,,)	1	6
Summer Sketches (Dawn; The Bee; Cuckoo; Twilight; Evening.)	(No. 40. Recital Series)	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SHORT POSTLUDES

FOR THE

ORGAN.

1.	GRAND CHŒUR	Thomas Adams
2.	ALLA MARCIA	W. G. Alcock
3.	SIEGESLIED	Hugh Blair
4.	POSTLUDE	William Faulkes
5.	CONCLUDING VOLUNTARY ..	Myles B. Foster
6.	POSTLUDE	John E. West

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORGAN TRANSCRIPTIONS

BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

		s.	d.
1.	PRELUDE AND ANGEL'S FAREWELL ("GERONTIUS") EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
2.	FUNERAL MARCH (from the Music to "GRANIA AND DIARMID") .. .. EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
3.	CHANSON DE NUIT .. .. EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
4.	CHANSON DE MATIN .. .. EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
5.	PASSACAGLIA (from "A SONG OF JUDGMENT") C. H. LLOYD	2	0
6.	CANTO POPOLARE (from "IN THE SOUTH") EDWARD ELGAR	2	0
7.	CANTIQUE D'AMOUR .. .. THEO. WENDT	1	6
8.	AVE MARIA / IL LAMENTO .. .. .. ADOLPH HENSELT	2	0
9.	PROCESSION TO THE MINSTER ("LOHENGRIN") WAGNER	1	0
10.	IN TE DOMINE SPERAVI J. W. G. HATHAWAY	2	0
11.	SOUVENIR DE PRINTEMPS JOSEPH HOLBROOKE	1	6
12.	TANNHÄUSER'S PILGRIMAGE (Introduction to Act III.) .. .. WAGNER	1	6
13.	AUF WIEDERSEHEN .. .. .. A. H. BREWER	1	6
14.	WALTHER'S PREISLIED (DIE MEISTERSINGER) WAGNER	1	0
15.	AN ETON MEMORIAL MARCH C. H. LLOYD	2	0

(To be continued.)

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S

ALBUMS FOR THE ORGAN.

No. 1.

No.	TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.
1.	Interlude	Th. Dubois
2.	Chanson de Matin	Edward Elgar
3.	Fantasia on the old melody "Urbs Beata" ..	W. Faulkes
4.	There is a green hill far away	Ch. Gounod
5.	Marche Triomphale	Alexandre Guilmant
6.	Ave Maria	A. Henselt
7.	Grand Chœur No. 2	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andantino in D flat	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Chanson Triste	P. Tschaïkowsky
10.	Prelude to "Lohengrin," Act I.	R. Wagner
11.	Romanza	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Allegretto in E flat	W. Wolstenholme

No. 2.

No.	TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.
1.	Chanson de Nuit	Edward Elgar
2.	Alla Marcia	Myles B. Foster
3.	Minuetto	Alexandre Guilmant
4.	Lied	H. Hofmann
5.	Barcarolle	H. Hofmann
6.	Spring Song	Alfred Hollins
7.	The Curfew	Edward J. Horsman
8.	Pastorale in E	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Ave Maria d'Arcadelt	Franz Liszt
10.	Cantique d'Amour	Theo. Wendt
11.	The Seraph's Strain	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Le Carillon	W. Wolstenholme

No. 3.

Just Published.

No.	TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.
1.	Scherzo in A flat	Edward C. Bairstow
2.	Melody	S. Coleridge-Taylor
3.	Serenade	H. Hofmann
4.	Bridal March	Alfred Hollins
5.	Berceuse	Edwin H. Lemare
6.	Melodie in E	S. Rachmaninoff
7.	Aubade	A. Strelezki
8.	Nocturne in C sharp minor	P. Tschaïkowsky
9.	Procession to the Minster ("Lohengrin") ..	R. Wagner
10.	Passacaglia	John E. West
11.	Fantasia upon the Plain-song Melody "Ad cœnam Agni"	Healey Willan
12.	Allegretto in A flat	W. Wolstenholme

"Novello's Organ Album No. 3 is remarkaby good value. For the modest sum of three and sixpence, you get twelve pieces of varying excellence. As a rule, such albums are a kind of musical dust-heap, in which the purchaser delves (not too successfully) for his moneysworth. You need have no anxiety in this case."—Musical Opinion, June, 1912.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence each;
Cloth, 5s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SIX SHORT PIECES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

1. Allegro pomposo.
2. Easter Morn. A Meditation.
3. Prelude on Dykes's Tune "Requiescat.
4. Harvest Song.
5. Impromptu.
6. Passacaglia.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TE DEUM in F. Price 3d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 3d. By A. TOASE.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS
FOR THE
ORGAN
COMPOSED BY ALFRED HOLLINS.

No.	No.
1. Allegretto grazioso.	7. Concert Rondo.
2. Andante in D.	8. Grand Chœur, No. 1.
3. Benediction Nuptiale.	9. Grand Chœur, No. 2.
4. Bridal March.	10. Intermezzo in D flat.
5. Communion.	11. Spring Song.
6. Concert Overture in C minor.	12. Triumphal March.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Cloth, 10s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS
FOR THE
ORGAN
COMPOSED BY
W. WOLSTENHOLME.

No.	No.
1. Allegretto in E flat.	7. Finale in B flat.
2. Allegretto in A flat.	8. Le Carillon.
3. Andantino.	9. Meditation.
4. Canzona.	10. Minuet and Trio.
5. Caprice.	11. Romanza.
6. Fantasia in E.	12. The Seraph's Strain.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Cloth, 10s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES
FOR THE ORGAN
COMPOSED BY THEODORE DUBOIS.

CONTENTS:

1. PRELUDE	4. INTERLUDE
2. CANTILENE RELIGIEUSE	5. PRIÈRE
3. MARCIETTA	6. POSTLUDE CANTIQUE

7. MARCHE-SORTIE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES
FOR THE ORGAN
COMPOSED BY
ALEXANDRE GUILMANT.

CONTENTS:

1. OFFERTOIRE	4. MINUETTO
2. WEDDING MARCH	5. MARCHE TRIOMPHALE
3. BERCEUSE	6. POSTLUDE

7. FANTAISIE SUR DEUX MÉLODIES ANGLAISES.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR CHARACTERISTIC PIECES
1. In Modo d'una Sonata.
2. Cavatina.
3. Mazurka.
4. Moto Perpetuo.

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.
COMPOSED BY
C. H. LLOYD.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHANSON DE MAI
AND CHANSON D'OCTOBRE
FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.
COMPOSED BY ALFRED PRATT.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LA SAVANNAH
AIR DE BALLET
FOR ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 72.)

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts, &c.	7	0
Full Score	6	0
Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

Arrangement for Military Band (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN
BY SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

	s.	d.
TROIS IMPRESSIONS. Op. 72:—
1. Harmonies du Soir	1	0
2. Clair de Lune	1	0
3. La Nuit	1	0
CHACONNE AND FUGUE TRILOGY, WITH CHORAL (2 Trumpets, 2 Trombones, 2 Tubas, Timpani, Tam-tam, and Piatti ad lib.). Op. 73:—
Organ Score	4	6
Wind Parts, &c.	2	0
FIRST SONATINA in A minor. Op. 74	3	6

"Must be classed as one of the finest works in modern organ literature. The first movement is practically in usual Sonata form. The development section is particularly brilliant, and the quiet cadence leading into the recapitulation is of arresting beauty."

"The slow movement, in the nature of a chaconne, is beautiful and restful. A brilliant cadenza leads to an exciting introduction to a most interesting triple fugue (confined to manuals). Afterwards the composer works backwards through the sections preceding the fugue, unwinding himself, as it were, before starting on a magnificent Coda befitting a magnificent work."—Daily Mail.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A Modern School for the Violin

BY

AUGUST WILHELMJ AND JAMES BROWN.

THE purpose of this Work is to provide, in one systematic and comprehensive scheme, all that is necessary for the acquirement of the Art of Modern Violin Playing.

"A Modern School for the Violin" consists of Six Books devoted to Daily Technical Practice, Six Books of Studies for Violin alone, and a number of Pieces with Pianoforte Accompaniment, the Violin parts being specially edited for the purposes of teaching.

SECTION A.—TECHNICAL PRACTICE. IN SIX BOOKS.

The foundation of "A Modern School for the Violin" is laid by means of a series of Six Books dealing exclusively with the important subject of DAILY TECHNICAL PRACTICE. The First Book of Technical Practice (Book 1A) is limited to the 1st Position; the Second Book (2A) to the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the Third Book (3A) to the first five Positions; and so on. Bowings and other technical devices are introduced in a similarly progressive manner throughout. Each Book of Technical Practice is divided into "Lessons" (or Chapters), and each Lesson contains a number of short repeating Exercises on some definite point of Violin Technique—as Fingering, Bowing, &c., with the needful explanations. Included in each Book will be found a complete set of Scales and Arpeggi, arranged according to the particular stage of advancement reached.

Taken as a whole, this section is intended to facilitate, and to insist on, a thorough, steady, and continuous progress in the mastery of the Instrument, this being the only possible means of preparing the groundwork for artistic achievement with all its lasting delights.

SECTION B.—STUDIES. IN SIX BOOKS.

Section B is formed of a series of original and selected Studies, in Six Books. Each Book of Studies (Section B) is carefully co-ordinated, in respect of difficulty and range of subject, with the correspondingly numbered Book of Technical Practice (Section A). Thus the First Book of Studies (1B) is written in the 1st Position; the Second Book (2B) in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions; the 3rd Book (3B) in all Positions up to and including the 5th; and so on. It should further be explained that the two Sections are designed to complement one another, and that the "School" must be practised, not in single Books of Technical Practice and Studies alternately, but in pairs. Thus, Books 1A and 1B are to be taken concurrently, then Books 2A and 2B, 3A and 3B, and so on, and the appropriate pairs are now issued bound together in cloth (see Cloth Bindings below).

1A.	TECHNICAL PRACTICE	(1st Position)	2s. od.		1B.	STUDIES	... ...	(1st Position)	2s. od.
2A.	DITTO	(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.		2B.	DITTO		(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. 6d.
3A.	DITTO	... (1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.		3B.	DITTO	... ...	(1st to 5th Position)	3s. od.
4A.	DITTO	... ... (all Positions)	2s. 6d.		4B.	DITTO	... ...	... (all Positions)	3s. od.
5A.	DITTO	... ... Do.	2s. 6d.		5B.	DITTO	... ...	... Do.	3s. od.
6A.	DITTO	... ... Do.	3s. od.		6B.	DITTO	... ...	... Do.	3s. od.

CLOTH BINDINGS.

Book 1.	(1A and 1B, bound together)	in Cloth	5s. od.
,, 2.	(2A and 2B, bound together)	Do.	5s. 6d.
,, 3.	(3A and 3B, bound together)	Do.	7s. od.
,, 4.	(4A and 4B, bound together)	Do.	6s. 6d.
,, 5.	(5A and 5B, bound together)	Do.	6s. 6d.
,, 6.	(6A and 6B, bound together)	Do.	7s. od.

PIECES.

In completion of the scheme of "A Modern School" a number of Pieces are published, in a form designed to fulfil the requirements of Violin Teachers and Students. In each number the Violin part is furnished with complete Fingerings and Bowings, besides remarks as to the methods of rendering, &c.

No. 13.	TWELVE FOLK DANCES FROM DENMARK	(1st Position)	2s. od.	No. 21.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. J. S. BACH	(1st to 6th Position)	2s. od.
No. 14.	SONATA IN G MINOR. G. TARTINI	(All Positions)	2s. od.	No. 22.	CONCERTO IN A MINOR. PIERRE RODE (Op. 9).	(All Positions)	2s. 6d.
No. 15.	OVERTURE TO SAMSON. G. F. HANDEL	(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.	No. 23.	TWELVE CAROLS	(1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 16.	SONATINA IN D. FRANZ SCHUBERT	(1st, 2nd, and 3rd Positions)	2s. od.	No. 24.	SONATA IN A. W. A. MOZART	(1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 17.	EIGHT HYMN TUNES. VARIOUS COMPOSERS	(1st Position)	1s. 6d.	No. 25.	RÊVERIE. HENRI VIEUXTEMPS (Op. 22, No. 3).	(Advanced)	2s. od.
No. 18.	STYRIAN DANCES (LANDLER) (Op. 165). JOSEF LANNER	(1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.	No. 26.	FOUR LITTLE PIECES. (From Op. 8) IGNAZ PLEYEL	(1st Position)	2s. od.
No. 19.	PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR. J. S. BACH (Advanced)		2s. od.	No. 27.	SARABANDE AND TAMBOURIN. JEAN-MARIE LECLAIR	(1st to 5th Position)	2s. od.
No. 20.	SONATA IN G (No. 8). JOSEPH HAYDN	(1st to 6th Position)	2s. od.	No. 28.	BOURRÉE AND GIGUE. J. S. BACH	(1st and 3rd Positions)	1s. 6d.
				No. 29.	BALLADE AND POLONAISE. HENRI VIEUXTEMPS (Op. 38)	(Advanced)	2s. od.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SYMPHONY No. 2
IN E FLAT
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR
(Op. 63)
ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO
BY
SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

ROMANCE
FOR
BASSOON AND ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR
(Op. 60).
FULL SCORE.
Price Five Shillings.

	s.	d.
Arrangement for Bassoon and Pianoforte	2	6
Arrangement for Violoncello and Pianoforte	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TWO BAGATELLES
I. VALSETTE.
II. PIZZICATO.
FOR STRING ORCHESTRA.
COMPOSED BY
PERCY E. FLETCHER.

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NORWEGIAN MELODIES
ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE
BY
A. VON AHN CARSE.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE VICAR OF BRAY
VARIATIONS
FOR STRING ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY ERNEST AUSTIN.
(Op. 35.)

	s.	d.
SCORE	6	0
STRING PARTS	6	0
PIANOFORTE SOLO	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

No. 83, NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

THE MILITARY BAND
BY GEORGE MILLER,
M.V.O., Mus. Bac. Cantab., &c.

Price Two Shillings.

In Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

It is a valuable sketch of a highly specialised subject, and none the less practical because seasoned with humour. The various instruments and their idiosyncrasies are tersely described, and their collective use is admirably illustrated.—Yorkshire Post.

No one is more worthy to speak on such a subject than Lieut. George Miller, and the book is one of great value.—Cheltenham Looker-On.

From this book it is possible to learn the compass and capabilities of each instrument. The explanations are admirably lucid and suggestive; and the final chapters, showing how a work composed originally for the concert-orchestra—Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony—can effectively be arranged for the military band, teaches more than all the text-books. We heartily commend this most excellent book.—Saturday Review.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

No. 8, NOVELLO'S ELEMENTARY MUSIC MANUALS.

HINTS
ON THE
ELEMENTARY TEACHING
OF THE PIANOFORTE
CHIEFLY TO BOYS.
BY
EDWARD D. RENDALL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

20,000
WEBSTER'S CHILD'S PRIMER
OF THE
THEORY OF MUSIC.
NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and all Music Sellers.

No. 84. NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS AND EDUCATIONAL SERIES.

EQUAL TEMPERAMENT
IN THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Some remarks as to the Production of Musical Sounds, and the Method by which the Scale forming the basis of Modern Music is built up.

BY HENRY SPAIN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE ORGAN WORKS
OF
JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

BOOKS 1—12, EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, MUS. DOC. OXON., AND JAMES HIGGS, MUS. BAC. OXON.

BOOK I.—Price 2s. 6d.

EIGHT SHORT PRELUDES AND FUGUES.

No. 1. in C major.
,, 2. in D minor.
,, 3. in E minor.
,, 4. in F major.
,, 5. in G major.
,, 6. in G minor.
,, 7. in A minor.
,, 8. in B flat major.

BOOK II.—Price 3s.

Allabreve in D major.
Prelude in G major.
Canzona in D minor.
*Fugue in D minor ("The Giant").
Fugue in G minor.
*Prelude and Fugue in E minor
(The well-known "Short" E minor, a great favourite of Mendelssohn's).
Prelude and Fugue in C minor.
Trio in D minor.

BOOK III.—Price 3s.

Fantasia in C minor (five parts).
Fugue in B minor
(On a subject by Corelli).
Prelude and Fugue in A major.
*Prelude and Fugue in C major.
Fantasia and Fugue in C minor.
*Fugue in G minor
(The well-known "Short" G minor)

BOOK IV.—Price 3s.

SONATAS OR TRIOS FOR TWO MANUALS AND PEDALS
(Nos. I. to III.).

Sonata I. in E flat.
*Sonata II. in C minor.
Sonata III. in D minor.

BOOK V.—Price 3s.

SONATAS OR TRIOS FOR TWO MANUALS AND PEDALS
(Nos. IV. to VI.).

*Sonata IV. in E minor.
Sonata V. in C major.
Sonata VI. in G major.

BOOK VI.—Price 3s.

*Toccata in D minor.
*Prelude and Fugue in D major.
Prelude and Fugue in F minor.
Prelude and Fugue in E flat major
(The Fugue known as "St. Ann's").

BOOK VII.—Price 3s.

*Prelude and Fugue in A minor
(The "Great" A minor).
*Prelude and Fugue in B minor
(The "Great" B minor).
Prelude and Fugue in C minor
(The "Great" C minor).
Prelude and Fugue in C major.
Prelude and Fugue in G major.

BOOK VIII.—Price 3s.

Prelude and Fugue in C major
(Printed under the title of "Toccata," in the key of E, in the Bach Society's Edition).
*Prelude and Fugue in E minor
(The "Great" E minor, the Fugue known as "The Wedge").
*Prelude and Fugue in G major
(The "Great" G major).
Prelude and Fugue in G minor.
*Fantasia and Fugue in G minor
(The "Great" G minor).

BOOK IX.—Price 3s.

*The "Great" Toccata and Fugue in C major.
Prelude and Fugue in D minor
(The Fugue arranged from Violin Sonata in G minor).
Prelude and Fugue in C major.
Fantasia in G major.
The "Great" Toccata and Fugue in F major.

BOOK X.—Price 3s.

Toccata and Fugue in D minor (in the Dorian Mode).
Prelude and Fugue in A minor (the "Short" A minor).
Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor.
Fugue in C minor (on a subject by LEGRENZI).
Prelude in A minor.

BOOK XI.—Price 3s.

FOUR CONCERTOS (Arrangements of Works originally written as Violin Concertos, by ANTONIO VIVALDI):—

Concerto No. I. in G major.
Concerto ,, II. in A minor.
Concerto ,, III. in C major.
Concerto ,, IV. in C major.

BOOK XII.—Price 3s.

Fugue in G major.
Fantasia and Fugue in A minor.
Fantasia, with Imitation, in B minor.
Fantasia in G major.
Fugue in D major.
Fugue in G major.
Prelude in C major.
Fantasia in C major.
Prelude in C major.
Fugue in C minor.
Fugue in C major.
Pastorale.
Trio in C minor.
Aria in F.

BOOKS 13 AND 14, EDITED BY

JOHN POINTER AND JOHN E. WEST.

BOOK XIII.—Price 3s.

CHORAL PRELUDES.

Ein' feste Burg ist unser Gott.
Vater unser im Himmelreich.
Fugue on the Choral "Durch Adams Fall ist ganz verderbt."
Wer nur den lieben Gott lässt walten.
In dulci jubilo.
O Mensch, bewein' dein' Sünde gross.
Fugue on the Choral "Allein Gott in der Höh' sei Ehr."
Fantasia on "Komm, heiliger Geist, Herre Gott."
O Lamm Gottes, unschuldig.

BOOK XIV.—Price 3s.

CHORAL PRELUDES AND VARIATIONS.

Gott der Vater wohn' uns bei.
Nun danket alle Gott.
Fugue on the Choral "Vom Himmel hoch da komm' ich her"
Fugue on the Choral "Aus tiefer Noth schrei' ich zu dir."
Fantasia on "Valet will ich dir geben."
Gelobet seist du, Jesu Christ.
Wo soll ich fliehen hin, or Auf meinen lieben Gott.
Nun komm' der Heiden Heiland.
Variations on the Choral "Sei gegrüsset, Jesu gütig."

* These pieces are published separately, price 1s. or 1s. 6d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE CHILDREN OF DON

A DRAMA

IN THREE ACTS AND A PROLOGUE

BY

T. E. ELLIS.

MUSIC BY

JOSEF HOLBROOKE

(Op. 56).

VOCAL SCORE,

PRICE TWENTY-ONE SHILLINGS NET.

DYLAN (DRAMA No. 2).

VOCAL SCORE .. .. £1 1s. net.

FULL SCORE .. .. £5 5s. ,,

PIERROT AND PIERRETTE

(LYRICAL DRAMA).

VOCAL SCORE, EIGHT SHILLINGS NET.

For other Works, see separate list.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

The SOCIETY of BRITISH COMPOSERS. Music Published in the Avison Edition.

VOCAL.	Net s. d.
BATH, HUBERT—Love's Fulfilment. Song	2 0
BAX, ARNOLD — Fatherland. For Tenor Solo, Chorus and Orchestra	1 0
Celtic Song-Cycle (Separately, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 5, 1s. each; No. 4, 1s. 6d.)	3 6
Golden Gwendolen. The Fairies .. .. each	2 0
Magnificat. The Song in the Twilight. Song .. each	1 6
BELL, W. H.—Music for the St. Albans Pageant. For Soli, Chorus and Orchestra (or pianoforte)	2 6
BOOTH, VICTOR.—Serenade. Song, in F and D .. .. each	2 0
CORDER, FREDERICK—Invocation. Madrigal for female voices ..	0 3
Springtime. Waltz-song for female voices	0 6
EGGAR, K. E.—Wolfram's Dirge. Song	2 0
FARJEON, HARRY—Vagrant Songs	2 6
FORRESTER, J. CLIFFE—Three Songs: The Cowslip's golden bell; When sleeps the woodland rose; I'd sail away to yonder skies .. .. each	2 0
Two Part-Songs—With a wand'ring to and fro	0 4
With a down-ding-dong	0 3
GARDINER, H. BALFOUR—Winter	2 0
GATTY, NICHOLAS—Duke or Devil. A Farcical Opera	4 0
Touch not the nettle. Song	1 0
A Lowland Song; Sae early .. .. each	1 0
HAWLEY, STANLEY. Two Songs	2 0
HURLSTONE, W. Y.—The Blind Boy; Forbear to braid .. each	1 0
JONES, ARNOLD F. Six Short Songs	2 6
LOMAX, E. L.—Prince in disguise. Musical Recitation	3 6
MCEWEN, J. B.—Three Songs	2 0
Brevity; Love 's but a dance. Two Songs .. .. each	1 0
NUNN, E. CUTHBERT—Four Songs	2 0
O'NEILL, NORMAN—Five Rondels, 2s. 6d.; Two French Songs ..	1 6
ROBERTS, OSBORNE—The Rose; Wind of the West. Two Songs, ea.	2 0
ROOTHAM, CYRIL B.—The Ballad of Kingslea Mere. Song ..	1 0
SPEAIGHT, JOSEPH—Two Songs	1 0
Lubin is away; Sister, awake .. .. each	1 6
National Nursery Rhymes; I love thee .. .. .. each	1 6
STEPHENSON, MORTON—Six Fairy Songs for Children	2 6
SWINSTEAD, FELIX—Sing-song Cycle	2 0
Four Old English Songs	2 6
WIGHT, A. N.—The Minstrel's Curse. Ballad for Bass Solo, Chorus and Orchestra	1 6
WILLIAMS, R. VAUGHAN.—On Wenlock Edge. Cycle of Six Songs. For Tenor and Pianoforte (and ad lib. String Quartet Accompaniment), Score only, 5s.; Strings separately, 6s.; Complete	8 0
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—Six English Songs	2 6
Four Little Songs	2 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

	NET. s. d.
ALETTER, W.—Schwedisches Wiegenlied. Pianoforte Solo ..	1 6
ASHTON, A.—Op. 144. Toccata brillante. 2 Pianos, 4 Hands	3 0
BACH.—Etudes en octaves. Edition instructive, par J. Philipp	3 0
BEETHOVEN.—Sonata pathétique. Op. 13. (Edition rythmée, par Mathis Lussy)	6 0
BORTKIEWICZ, S.—Op. 14. "From my Childhood." Pianoforte Solos; 1. What the Nurse sang; 2. The Dark Room; 3. The Dancing Lesson; 4. First love; 5. First sorrow; 6. When I am a man .. .. each	1 0
CATOIRE, G.—Op. 21. Concerto in A flat. 2 Pianos, 4 Hands	6 0
FAURÉ, G.—Après un rêve. Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo ..	2 0
FRANCK, C.—Larghetto from String Quartet. For Pianoforte Solo, 2s. 6d. net; Pianforte Duet	2 6
KÜCHLER, F.—Daily Studies for the Left Hand	2 6
NAPOLEAS, A.—Op. 56. Pele-mele. Suite of Pieces. Pianoforte Solo. Complete, 4s. 6d. net; 1. Bagatelle, 1s. net; 2. Sur le Tage, 2s. net; 3. Marche de Noces, 1s. 6d. net; 4. Enfant dô! 1s. 6d. net; 5. Valse caprice	2 6
SCHMITT, FLORENT.—Op. 42. Pièces romantiques. Pianoforte Solo. Complete, 6s. net. Singly:—1. Lied tendre; 2, Barcarolle; 3. Valse nostalgique; 4. Improvisation; 5. Nocturne; 6. Souvenir .. .. each	2 0
—— Op. 43. Humoresques. Pianoforte Duet. Complete, 8s. net. Singly:—1. Marche Militaire; 2. Rondeau; 3. Bucolique; 4. Scherzetto; 5. Valse sentimentale; 6. Danse grotesque; each	2 6
SCHUBERT, FR.—L'Abeille. Transcribed for Pianoforte Solo	1 6
WEINER, L.—Op. 7. Präludium, Nocturne, Scherzo. Pianoforte Solo	2 6

CHAMBER MUSIC.

AGOSTINI, M.—Op. 17. Trio in F. Pianoforte, Violin, and 'Cello	7 6
BAEKER, E.—Op. 30. Six Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte. In Two Books .. .. each	1 6
BENDL, K.—Op. 50. Cavatine for Violin and Pianoforte ..	2 0
CHEVALLIER, H.—Op. 54. Schüler-Concert. Violin and Pianoforte	2 0
DE SAINT-QUENTIN, G.—Idylle. Violin and Pianoforte ..	2 0
DUPONT, G.—Poème for Pianoforte and String Quartet ..	10 0
EBERHARDT, G.—Op. 25. Genrebilder. Violin and Pianoforte. Two Books .. .. each	2 0
EHRENBERG, C.—Op. 15. Two Pieces for Strings. 1. Repos; 2. Scherzo. Score, each 2s. 6d. net; Parts .. .. each	1 0
—— Repos. Adagio for Violin or 'Cello, with Pianoforte or Harmonium	1 6
FUCHS, R.—Op. 92. Walzer for Violin and Pianoforte	4 0
HEBERLEIN, H.—Op. 8. Concertstück. 'Cello and Pianoforte	4 6
HENNEBAINS, A.—Revérie-caprice. Flute and Pianoforte	2 0
LEBELL, L.—Op. 13. Twenty Elementary Studies for 'Cello	2 6
NOLCK, A.—Op. 11. Two Andantes. 'Cello and Pianoforte each	2 0
PERINELLO, C.—Quintet in B minor. For Pianoforte, two Violins, Viola and 'Cello	14 0
POPPER, D.—Transcriptions for 'Cello and Pianoforte. Bach. Air from Suite in D, 1s. 6d. net. Schumann, Schlummerlied, Op. 124, 1s. 6d. net. Giordani, Caro mio ben	1 6
RABE, FR.—Two Menuets for Violin, Viola, and Pianoforte or Harmonium	3 0
THOMÉ, F.—Andante Religioso. For Violin and Harp ..	2 0
WHELPLEY, A. V.—Der See. Irischer Bardengesang for Violin ('Cello or Viola ad lib.) and Pianoforte (or Harp) ..	1 6
—— Die Faunen. Violin, 'Cello and Pianoforte	3 0
WILSON, M.—Op. 5. From my youth. Miniatures for Violin, 'Cello and Pianoforte Trio. Books 1 and 2 .. .. each	2 0

ORGAN AND HARMONIUM.

DUBOIS, TH.—Transcriptions for Pianoforte, Violin and Harmonium. 1. Beethoven, Adagio from Septet, 3s. 6d. net; 2. Mendelssohn, Adagio from Symphony in A minor	3 6
FRANCK, C.—Prélude-Marche from Prélude, Aria et Finale. Arranged for Organ	2 0
LEUPOLD, A. W.—Op. 11. Légende, in E minor. Violin and Organ	2 0
ORE, A.—Op. 15. Andante Cantabile. Revised by Karg-Elert	1 0
QUEF, CH.—Twelve pieces for Organ. Complete	8 0

VOCAL MUSIC.

MOUSSORGSKY, M.—Le Mariage. Comédie Musicale. French and Russian Words. Vocal Score	15 0

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES
FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	Part 1
2.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
3.	SCALES	Part 1
4.	,, ...	,, 2
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	Part 1
6.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
7.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
8.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
9.	,, ,, ...	,, 5
10.	LEFT HAND	Part 1
11.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
12.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
13.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
14.*	ARPEGGIO	Part 1
15.	,, ...	,, 2
16.	,, ...	,, 3
17.	VELOCITY	Part 1
18.	,, ...	,, 2
19.	,, ...	,, 3
20.	,, ...	,, 4
21.	,, ...	,, 5
22.	,, ...	,, 6
23.	,, ...	,, 7
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	Part 1
25.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 1
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	,, 2
28.	SHAKES	Part 1
29.	,, ...	,, 2
30.	,, ...	,, 3
31.	DOUBLE NOTES	Part 1
32.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
33.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
34.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
35.	OCTAVES	Part 1
36.*	,, ...	,, 2
37.	CHORDS	Part 1
38.	,, ...	,, 2
39.*	STACCATO
40.	REPETITION	Part 1
41.*	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	,, 2
42.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
43.*	PART-PLAYING	Part 1
44.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
45.*	ORNAMENTS	Part 1
46.	,, ...	,, 2
47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	Part 1
48.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	Part 1
50.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
51.	RHYTHM	Part 1
52.*	,, ...	,, 2
53.	EXERCISES FOR THE WEAKER FINGERS. By J. A. O'NEILL.
54.	WRIST STUDIES (Handgelenksübungen). By ARNOLD KRUG.
55.	EXERCISES FOR FACILITATING INDEPENDENCE OF THE FINGERS (Übungen für die Selbständigkeit der Finger). By ARNOLD KRUG.
56.	PRELIMINARY STUDIES IN PLAYING POLYPHONIC MUSIC (Vorübungen für das polyphone Spiel). By ARNOLD KRUG.

* These Books contain Studies composed by Mr. Franklin Taylor specially for this Series.

FIFTY-SIX BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

FROM THE ABOVE:

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS), PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

London:—Printed by NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, at Novello Works, Soho, and published at 160, Wardour Street, Soho, W.
Sold also by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, HAMILTON, KENT AND CO., Ltd., Paternoster Row, E.C.—Monday, July 1, 1912.

No. 834

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Price 3d.

FOUNDED 1844

AUGUST 1, 1912.

Rec'd
B. P. L.

CHAPPELL PIANOS.

THE ARTIST'S CHOICE.

THE CHAPPELL-AUTOTONE. Containing the "Melodist."

THE CHAPPELL-CECILIAN. Containing the "Selectodist."

CHAPPELL'S

PIANO AND PLAYER-PIANO GALLERIES,

50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

SOLE AGENTS:—Liverpool: Rushworth & Dreaper, Ltd.; Manchester: Albert Wagstaff; Birmingham: Henry Riley; Bath & Bristol: Duck, Son, & Pinker, Ltd.

"THE HOPKINSON-ELECTRELLE"

DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHER PLAYERS,
BUT TAKES ANY STANDARD MUSIC-ROLL.

Finest Musical Expression! No Pedalling!!

Goes into ordinary-sized Piano!!!

CALL AND INSPECT BEFORE BUYING ANY OTHER, OR WRITE FOR BOOKLET:

J. & J. HOPKINSON, Ltd., 52, Wigmore St., London, W.

KEMMLER PIANOS

THE KEMMLER BABY GRAND, ONLY 5 FEET LONG.

The Kemmler Small Upright Piano, specially designed for Students' use. Overstrung scale, full compass, under-damper action. 32 guineas.

PIANOS FOR HIRE FROM 12/6 PER MONTH.

Special terms to Students and the Profession.

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE:—

KEMMLER, BÉNARD & Co., 26, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

CRAMER PIANOS

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS

RECOMMENDED BY

Percy Grainger, Leonard Borwick, Pietro Mascagni, Sir Frederick Bridge, Coleridge-Taylor, York Bowen, Dr. Cummings, Tito Mattei, Emil Bach, Alexandra Canovas, Henry Farmer, Carrie Tubb, Gounod, Benedict, Emil Pauer, Edward Batiste, Joachim, Nilsson, Nikisch, Marie Roze, Scharwenka, Strauss, Thomas, Liszt, Stainer, Guilmant, Saint-Saëns, Carl Rosa, Ketterer, Arditi.

J. B. CRAMER & Co., Ltd., ESTD. 1824.

139, NEW BOND ST., 46, MOORGATE ST., E.C., KENSINGTON HIGH ST.

PURE TONE. PERFECT TOUCH.

THOROUGH CONSTRUCTION.

SPENCER PIANOS

Moderate Prices.
DISCOUNT to PROFESSION.
CATALOGUES FREE.

SPENCER PLAYER PIANOS FROM 85 GUINEAS.

Wholesale & Export:
J. SPENCER & CO., REGENT'S PARK, N.W.

Large Variety on Show at

MURDOCH'S MUSIC STORES,

463, OXFORD STREET, W., AND BRANCHES.

From a photograph specially taken for The Musical Times by Russell & Sons, Baker Street, W.

H. Balfour Gardiner

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

FOUNDED IN 1844.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 834.—Vol. 53. Registered at the General Post Office for Canadian Postage.

AUGUST 1, 1912.

Price 3*d.*; Postage 1½*d.* Annual Subscription, Post-free, 4*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

Conductor: SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O.

(Season 1912—1913.)

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES. Applicants should have STRONG VOICES OF GOOD QUALITY, and should be prepared to pass an examination in SIGHT-READING. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

YORK GATE, MARYLEBONE ROAD, N.W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

Michaelmas Term begins Monday, September 23. Entrance Examination Thursday, September 19, at 9.30. Campbell Clarke Scholarship for Female Vocalists. Baume (Manx) Scholarship for any branch of Music, and Scholarships for Singing (any Male Voice), Pianoforte, Viola or Violoncello, and Organ. Last day for entry, September 2.

The Next Session of the Training Course for Teachers (three terms) will commence September 23. Only those who have attended the whole session will be eligible for examination.

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Telegrams—"Initiative, London." Telephone—"1160, Western."

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE CHRISTIAN, K.G.

Director:
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

The NEXT TERM will commence on Thursday, September 26. ENTRANCE EXAMINATION, September 23.

Syllabus and official Entry Form may be obtained from

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

JOHN CARPENTER ST., VICTORIA EMBANKMENT, E.C.

Established and Managed by the Corporation of London.

Principal: LANDON RONALD.

NEW TERM begins September 16.

Individual Tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. 110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Stage Dancing, Fencing, and Opera. Examinations open to general public. Prospectus, Examinations Syllabus, and form of entry, free of Secretary, H. SAXE WYNDHAM, Victoria Embankment. Telephone: 1943 Holborn.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Visitor .. .. Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M., Mus. Doc., LL.D.
Principal .. .. GRANVILLE BANTOCK, M.A.
Visiting Examiner H. WALFORD DAVIES, Mus. Doc.

SESSION 1911-1912.

The Session consists of AUTUMN TERM (September 18 to December 16); WINTER TERM (January 15 to March 30); and SUMMER TERM (April 15 to June 22).

Instruction in all branches of Music; Students' Choir and Orchestra; Chamber Music; Students' Rehearsals and Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from

ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SEPTEMBER 8, 10, 11, 12, AND 13, 1912.

Conductor—DR. G. R. SINCLAIR.

PRINCIPALS.

SOPRANOS: Miss Edith Evans, Miss Ada Forrest, Miss Marie Houghton, Miss Ruth Vincent. CONTRALTOS: Madame Ada Crossley, Miss Muriel Foster, Miss Phyllis Lett, Miss Sara Silvers. TENORS: Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. William Green, Mr. Roland Jackson. BASSES: Mr. Thorpe Bates, Mr. Campbell McInnes, Mr. Robert Radford. Solo Violin, Miss Evangeline Anthony. Solo Pianoforte, Mr. Leonard Borwick. The Grimson String Quartet.

"Elijah" (Mendelssohn); Alto Rhapsodie (Brahms); Symphony No. 5 (Beethoven); Solo Cantata, "O amantissime sponse Jesu" (Christian Ritter); German Requiem (Brahms); "The Passion" (St. Matthew) (Bach): "The Dream of Gerontius" (Elgar); "Ode on the Nativity" (New Work) (C. Hubert H. Parry); "Parsifal" (Good Friday and Grail Music) (Wagner); Choral Fantasia on Christmas Carols (New Work) (Vaughan Williams); Motet (8 parts, unaccompanied), "Surge Illuminare" (Palestrina); Song of Offering (New Work) (Walford Davies); "Stabat Mater" (Dvorák); "The Messiah" (Handel). New Orchestral Suites by Elgar and Bantock.

Programmes, Tickets, and Books of Words may be had, and places secured, on application to Messrs. Jakeman & Carver, High Town, Hereford.

Hon Secs., { REV. PREB. M. HOPTON, Holmer Hall, Hereford.
COLONEL M. J. G. SCOBIE, C.B.

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

OCTOBER, 1, 2, 3, AND 4, 1912.

CONDUCTOR: SIR HENRY J. WOOD.

PRINCIPAL VOCALISTS:

MESDAMES ACKTE, DONALDA, ADA FORREST, CARRIE TUBB, CLARA BUTT, MURIEL FOSTER, DORIS WOODALL.

MESSIEURS GWYNNE DAVIES, GERVASE ELWES, JOHN McCORMACK (by kind permission of Royal Opera), THORPE BATES, WILFRID DOUTHITT, HERBERT HEYNER, CLARENCE WHITEHILL.

PIANOFORTE: HERR MORITZ ROSENTHAL.

VIOLONCELLO: SEÑOR PABLO CASALS.

THE PROGRAMME WILL INCLUDE:—

"ELIJAH" (Mendelssohn), "MESSIAH" (Handel), "THE APOSTLES" (Elgar), "THE PASSION ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW" (Bach), MANZONI REQUIEM (Verdi), GERMAN REQUIEM (Brahms), SEA DRIFT (Delius), Motet "BE NOT AFRAID" (Bach), SYMPHONY (Beethoven), "DON QUIXOTE" (Richard Strauss), PIANO CONCERTO No. 1, IN E FLAT (Liszt), 'CELLO CONCERTO IN D (Haydn), Closing Scene "SALOME" (Richard Strauss), PROMETHEUS (Scriabine) (First Performance in England), SYMPHONY No. 4, IN A (Sibelius) (First Performance), MR. GRANVILLE BANTOCK'S NEW ORCHESTRAL WORK (First Performance), and

NEW WORKS EXPRESSLY COMPOSED FOR THIS FESTIVAL:—

SIR EDWARD ELGAR'S "WE ARE THE MUSIC MAKERS.' DR. WALFORD DAVIES' "THE SONG OF ST. FRANCIS."

With other Orchestral Works and Vocal Solos.

BAND AND CHORUS OF 450 PERFORMERS.

CHORUS MASTER: MR. R. H. WILSON.

Detailed Programmes, containing directions as to applying for tickets, will be ready on August 1, 1912. All information can be obtained on application to

J. ERNEST PRITCHARD, Secretary.

King's Court, 115, Colmore Row, Birmingham.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD
OF THE R.A.M. AND R.C.M.
FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS A).

Examinations in Theory held in March and November at all Centres. In Practical Subjects in March-April at all Centres, and in the London district and certain Provincial Centres in November-December also. Entries for the November-December Examinations close Wednesday, October 16, 1912.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS (SYLLABUS B).

Held throughout the British Isles three times a year, viz., October-November, March-April, and June-July. Entries for the October-November Examinations close Wednesday, October 9, 1912.

Theory papers set in Examinations of past years (Local Centre or School) can be obtained on application. Price 3d. per set, per year, post-free.

The Board offers annually SIX EXHIBITIONS tenable at the R.A.M. or R.C.M., for Two or Three Years.

Syllabuses A and B, for 1912 or for 1913, Entry Forms, and any further information, may be obtained post-free from—

Telegrams: "Associa, London."

JAMES MUIR, Secretary,
15, Bedford Square, London, W.C.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., LL.D.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The NEW COLLEGE YEAR begins Tuesday, October 1, 1912.
NEW TERM began Tuesday, April 23.
Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.
Students are required to enter upon a complete course of Musical instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.
Fee for the year, £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term. Special Fee for Wind Instrument Course, £15.
Systematic Course for the Training of Teachers included in the curriculum.
The Prospectus, with Scholarship information, Diploma Regulations, and Entry Forms, on application.
New Professor of Singing—Miss Marie Brema.

STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

MANCHESTER SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Patron: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart.
Principal: ALBERT J. CROSS (of the Royal Academy, London, and the Leipsic Conservatorium). Sixty Professors.
All Branches of Music taught. Private or Class Tuition.
Full and String Orchestras, Operas, Lectures, Recitals, Chamber and Orchestral Concerts. Prospectus from the SECRETARY, Albert Square.

UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER.

FACULTY OF MUSIC.

The Prospectus, containing full information as to the Courses of Study for the Mus. B. and Mus. D. Degrees will be forwarded on application to the Registrar. A "Hargreaves" Exhibition to the value of Thirty Pounds per annum is awarded on the results of the first Mus. B. Examination. Under the new regulations, graduates of other approved Universities, who fulfil the requirements of the syllabus, may qualify for the Degree of Mus. D.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for degrees in Music are held as follows:—Matriculation, April and October; First Mus. B., March and September; Final Mus. B., and Mus. D., September only.
For particulars, apply Secretary of Examinations, University Office, Durham. Copies of former Examination Papers, 1s. per set.

VIGGO KIHL
(SOLO PIANIST).
Albert Hall, Crystal Palace, &c.
Concerts and At Homes.

The Times says: "His interpretations, while they remain entirely natural and straightforward, have a charm and individuality of their own."

A few VACANCIES for PUPILS.
For terms and vacant dates, apply,
VIGGO KIHL, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd.,
160, Wardour Street, W.

BLACKPOOL MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

OCTOBER 8, 9, 10, 11, AND 12.
ENTRIES CLOSE, SEPTEMBER 2.
Syllabus, post-free, Fourpence Stamps.
Hon. Secretary, Festival Office, 33, Burley Street, Blackpool.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
LONDON.

(Under the direction of the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)
INCORPORATED 1891.
42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.
President: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.
Principal: J. H. LEWIS, D.C.L., F.E.I.S., Mus. Doc.
Chairman: J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc. Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus. Doc., F.I.G.C.M.
Hon. Sec.: GEO. A. STANTON, A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., F.I.G.C.M.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, July, and December.
Local Theoretical Examinations, July, and December.
Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for Competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Secretary, Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

INCORPORATED GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

Founded 1888.
Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament XXX. and XXXI. Victoria, Cap. cxxxi., § 23.

President: THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF BRISTOL, D.D.

ASSOCIATE (A.I.G.C.M.), LICENTIATE (L.I.G.C.M.), FELLOWSHIP (F.I.G.C.M.) EXAMINATIONS in London and at approved Provincial Centres in July, and December.

COMPETITIONS FOR 1912.
A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Anthem.
A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Organ Piece.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Kyrie.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Hymn Tune.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Quadruple Chant.

GUILD GAZETTE (QUARTERLY) - - TWOPENCE.

REGISTER OF ORGAN VACANCIES.
Organists (Members) have the FREE use of the Register of Vacant Appointments.
Calendar (gratis) and further information of Dr. LEWIS, Warden, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. W. H. BREARE
VOCAL ADVISER AND TEACHER OF SINGING
TO STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.
Author of "Vocalism," "Elocution: Its First Principles," "Vocal Faults and their Remedies."

"The most complete guide to singing in English."—"Lancelot," of the Referee.
"One of the sanest of sane expositions."—Musical Courier, N.Y.
"One step nearer to the ideal."—Referee ("Lancelot").
"Is a reliable expert in all branches."—Gentlewoman.
"A magnificent guide to both teachers and students."—Eastern Morning News.
"Do not hesitate to commend."—Glasgow Herald.
"Well up and enthusiastic in his subject, which he handles in a masterly manner. His technical knowledge is minute, wide, and accurate: what he has to say is well worthy of consideration by public singers and music teachers."—Aberdeen Free Press.
"Has had exceptional opportunities of studying his subject. . . . Common-sense in all he utters."—Leeds Mercury.
"Is an acknowledged authority. . . ."—Western Morning News.
"I have not the slightest fear of contradiction when I say that no one knows more about the voice and vocal production than Mr. W. H. Breare."—"Counterpoint," in the Newcastle Journal.

Further Press Opinions on application.

Address: "HERALD" BUILDINGS, HARROGATE,
or 139, NEW BOND STREET, W.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

BRISTOL

THIRTEENTH MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

OCTOBER 23, 24, 25, AND 26, 1912.

WEDNESDAY ..	Morning	"Elijah."
	Evening	"Das Rheingold."
THURSDAY ..	Morning	"Die Walküre."
	Evening	M. Paderewski. "Caractacus."
FRIDAY	Morning	"Siegfried."
	Evening	Herr Kreisler. "Samson and Delilah."
SATURDAY ..	Morning	"Gotterdämmerung."
	Evening	Grand Miscellaneous.

Preliminary Programme, now ready.

Apply Secretary, 4, Colston Street, Bristol.

SPECIAL HOLIDAY TEACHING.

MR. W. H. GRIFFITHS

Has arranged to take a limited number of Singers, Teachers, and Choirmasters through a Special Course of Lessons during August and September, in London.

SUBJECTS :—

THE MIXED VOICE. THE TRAINING OF CHOIR-BOYS.
DEFECTS IN VOICE AND SPEECH.

Address :—

76, LORD STREET, LIVERPOOL; and 46, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

A FINE MODERN VIOLIN.

MADE ENTIRELY BY W. E. HILL AND SONS.

OUR Instruments have for long been recognised as among the finest examples of modern work, and we are now producing at a moderate price an excellent Violin, constructed upon models founded on the most perfect types of the great schools.

These Violins are made throughout in our workshops. None but carefully-selected and seasoned material, and highly skilled workmanship, are employed in their construction; and particular attention is given to the accurate fitting and regulation of each instrument.

PRICE £12 10S.

SOLD BY W. E. HILL & SONS,

Sole Violin and Bow Makers to H.M. THE KING,

AT THEIR PLACE OF BUSINESS,

140, NEW BOND STREET,

LONDON, W.

NO PIANIST

can afford nowadays to be without the help of the well-known MACDONALD SMITH System of Piano-Playing.

You have heard of the wonderful results his pupils obtain, but have you tried the Course of Postal Lessons?

The System cannot be explained in an advertisement, but ullest particulars are given in the Illustrated Book "Light on Pianoforte Playing," sent free by post.

COMPLETE COURSE OF LESSONS BY CORRESPONDENCE,

THREE GUINEAS (by instalments if desired).

Course "B" for Beginners, Course "C" for Players.

"PIANOFORTE PLAYING," and other Articles

by MACDONALD SMITH, 33 pp., post-free, 7d.

Terms and Conditions for Personal Lessons (to Concert Players only), on application.

M. MACDONALD SMITH, 19, BLOOMSBURY SQUARE, LONDON, W.C.

EVERY MUSICIAN KNOWS that there should be no more necessity to read each note separately than to spell out each letter of a word; but that is undoubtedly the process adopted by the majority of pianoforte students. Hence the poor progress made in Sight-playing by nearly every student, and the inability by those who can play quite difficult music after practice to play much simpler music at first sight. To become a good Sight-player

SPECIAL AID IS NECESSARY.

That aid is provided by the

EHREMAYER SYSTEM OF PIANOFORTE SIGHT-PLAYING

—the first and only system which teaches Sight-playing by a direct method, and which enables any pianist to play at sight all his new music after three months' tuition, entailing about 15 minutes' daily practising.

The Fee for the complete Course of Correspondence Lessons is £3 3s. 0d.

Every Pianist and Student should write for the Booklet describing the methods adopted, sent post-free on application to

L. M. EHREMAYER,

27, CHANCERY LANE, W.C.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MR. MAURICE JEFFES (BARITONE).
Oratorio. Lieder. Ballads.

Speciality, French Songs.

47, York Mansions, Battersea Park.

MISS ALICE HARE
(SOPRANO).
44, Ladbroke Grove, W. 'Phone 5195 Western.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR).
"The splendid reputation enjoyed by Mr. Samuel Masters, the well-known tenor, throughout the British Isles is the legitimate result of a remarkably fine voice of great range and almost phenomenal power and his artistic singing."—Kingston Musical Courier.

Telephone: 613 P.O. Kingston.
Address—8A, Station Buildings, Surbiton.

MR. JOS. REED
(TENOR).
59, Biddulph Mansions, Maida Vale, W.
Telephone: P.O. Hampstead 6778.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).
MISS
WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. MONTAGUE BORWELL) (SOPRANO).

124, WALM LANE, CRICKLEWOOD, N.W.

Telephone: 415 Willesden. Telegrams: "Soloist, London."

MR. HERBERT PARKER
(BARITONE).
Leeds Musical Festival, Queen's Hall, and Principal Provincial Concerts.
Address: Rosslyn, Lichfield.

HERBERT WEATHERLY
(CONCERT ORGANIST).
Canadian and American Press-notices and particulars.
Apply, Rudolph Bennett, 3, Kelfield Gardens, London, W., England.

DR. A. EAGLEFIELD HULL

MUS. DOC. OXON., F.R.C.O.

Address:
MELBOURNE HOUSE, HUDDERSFIELD.

THE LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS.

DIRECTOR: MR. JAMES BATES.

SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Concerts; also LEADING BOYS for Church Choirs can be supplied for occasional or permanent engagements. Address, E. B. Golding, Secretary, 6, Blomfield Crescent, Hyde Park, W.
Telegrams: "Musicomane, London." Telephone: 490 Mayfair.

MUSICAL REVISER TO MESSRS. NOVELLO FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS.

COMPOSERS' MSS.

REVISED and PREPARED FOR PRINTING; ADVICE GIVEN as to most suitable publishers for various styles of composition.
H. ELLIOT BUTTON, "Harewood," Ardwick Road, Hampstead, N.W.

Reference to the following composers kindly permitted:—
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bt., C.V.O., Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M.,
Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., Dr. WALFORD DAVIES.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. and MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of F.L.C.M., L.Mus.L.C.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., and L.R.A.M. Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Scholarships, Prizes, "Honours," and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of eight hundred and sixty. Dr. Allison is quite willing to teach those who neither require nor desire to pass examinations. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Analysis of Composition by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson St., Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

SHORT FREE COURSE OF POSTAL HARMONY LESSONS GIVEN to a limited number of applicants by University Graduate in Music. Eglinton, 50, Windermere Road, Muswell Hill, London.

L.R.A.M. (PAPER WORK).

MR. E. H. BIBBY (Mus.Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.) has SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE COURSE for the "Form and Teaching" and "Rudiments and Harmony" papers set at the L.R.A.M. Exams.
LATEST SUCCESSES:—
L.R.A.M. EXAMS., 1910-11.—Seventeen Correspondence Pupils successful. Address, c/o Forsyth Bros., Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. BIBBY has also carefully graduated Correspondence Course for the A.R.C.M. (Paper Work Sections). Address as above.

MR. GEORGE R. CEILEY, L.R.A.M., gives LESSONS in the traditional School of SINGING as taught by CHAS. LUNN and Signor CATTANEO.
The late Chas. Lunn wrote: "I take a special interest in Mr. George R. Ceiley owing to his clear perception, high musical knowledge and the skill in which he applies what I have taught him"; and the late Dr. Turpin wrote: "In that delicate and difficult department of Voice Production, Mr. Ceiley is indeed one of our chief authorities."
Change of address: "Highcroft," Muswell Hill Road, N.

MR. CLIFTON COOKE (25 years' experience MANUEL GARCIA method) will TRAIN and introduce a GOOD VOICE on exceptional terms. 80 per cent. of his pupils in the profession in Oratorio, Grand Opera, Musical Comedy and Concerts. VOICE TRIAL on written application.
Studio, 20 Bloomsbury Street, New Oxford Street, London, W.C.

DR. WILLIAM A. HALL, Mus.D. Oxon. (1909), F.R.C.O., specialises in the PREPARATION for UNIVERSITY DEGREES and the RECOGNISED DIPLOMAS, personally or by correspondence. Also personal lessons in Pianoforte, Singing, Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., at 7, Lansdowne Road, Tottenham, N.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc. Dunelm., F.R.C.O., Author of "Examination Questions and How to Work them" (Novello's Primers, No. 70), COACHES for all Musical Exams., personally and by correspondence.
292 SUCCESSES, including:—
A.R.C.O. Paper Work .. 50; Organ Work .. .. 33.
F.R.C.O. " " .. 51; " " .. .. 35.
(F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize twice, and "F. J. Sawyer" Prize.)
FIRST MUS. BAC., Oxford, Durham, and Dublin .. 41.
FINAL MUS. BAC., Oxford and Durham .. .. 22.
MUS. DOC. Oxford, Durham, Dublin, and Montreal .. 4.
MUS. BAC. and MUS. DOC. EXERCISES .. .. 27.
Special sets of papers in Composition, fully covering "Exercise" Work.
Also many successes in A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., L.Mus. and A.Mus., &c., &c.
SUCCESSES IN 1911 include:—
MUS. DOC. EXERCISES, 2. FINAL MUS. DOC. EXAM., 2.
MUS. BAC. EXERCISES, 5. FINAL MUS. BAC. EXAM., 4.
FIRST EXAM. FOR MUS. BAC., 2.
OXFORD EXAMS. May, 1912, one in "First" and one in "Final."
MSS. arranged and revised.
48, Braxted Park, Streatham, S.W. Telephone: 487 Streatham.

MISS H. HEALE COACHES for all EXAMINATIONS in MUSIC (at private residence or at West-End studio), in Pianoforte, Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue, Form, Orchestration, "Teaching," Modulation, Transposition, &c. For terms, &c., apply Dunraven House, 41, Albert Bridge Road, S.W.

THEO. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac. Oxon., F.R.C.O., an experienced and successful COACH to all Music Examinations. Oxford, Durham, and Dublin Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O., with Précis and Hints on Essay, L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M., practical and paper work (Piano and Singing). Jan., 1908, Pupil won F.R.C.O. "Cart" Prize. Shepherd Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus. D. Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac. Cantab.; Mus. Doc. Toronto; gives LESSONS by post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM, ACOUSTICS, ORCHESTRATION, &c.
Candidates prepared by Dr. Karn have obtained the degrees of MUS. BAC. or MUS. DOC. at DURHAM, OXFORD, DUBLIN, CAMBRIDGE, and LONDON Universities; also F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M. (Composition, Pianoforte, Organ, Bandmastership, and Conducting), A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, and Pianoforte Teaching), L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M. and T.C.L., ASSOCIATED BOARD, &c. Dr. Karn continues to Coach for all Musical Examinations. Special Preparation in Rudiments, Form, and Teaching for L.R.A.M.
Also PERSONAL Lessons; MSS. revised for publication. Classical Works analysed for Examinations. Terms moderate and inclusive.
106, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W. Telephone, 524 P.O. Hampstead.

DR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus. D. (Dubl.), F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING FOR DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1911, ONE HUNDRED AND TEN SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1911, TWO HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations.
Address, Thornleigh, 6, Elm Park Road, Finchley, N.

DR. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., F.E.I.S., Warden, Incorporated Guild of Church Musicians, gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. 42, Berners St., Oxford St., W.

DR. LEWIS' TEXT-BOOKS:

"Harmony." (2 vols.) 5s. each, net.
"Counterpoint." 5s. net.
"Double Counterpoint and Canon." 5s. net.
"Fugue." 1s. 6d. net.
"Elements of Music." 2s. 6d. net.
"Development of Anglican Church Music." 2s. net.
"Pronouncing Vocabulary of Musical Terms." 6d. net.
"Dictionary of Musical Terms." 6d. net.
"Material of Melody." 3d. net.
The above, complete, will be forwarded (carriage paid) for 15s.

MR. DAVID MACKENZIE, L.R.A.M.—Lessons in Singing. Vocal Coach. Arthur Thompson, Esq., F.R.A.M. (Professor and Examiner, Royal Academy of Music), writes: "An admirable Teacher, well and variously equipped to impart instruction in a very difficult art." For appointments, &c., write, Breitkopf Studios, 54, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MISS F. HELENA MARKS PREPARES for L.R.A.M. and other Examinations. Pianoforte, Harmony, "Form and Teaching," &c. Lessons (oral or by correspondence). Pupils received and visited for the Pianoforte. Many recent successes, L.R.A.M., &c. Pianoforte Classes, 10, Matheson Rd., West Kensington.

MR. A. E. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., COACHES (post) for all Musical Examinations. Pupils have passed the A.T.C.L., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.O., and complete MUS. BAC. Course. Pupil was awarded Stillie bursary (Glasgow, 1906). Compositions Revised. Portland House, Lancaster.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., Specialist in Correspondence Tuition for F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O.
RECENT SUCCESSES: 125 Correspondence Pupils have passed F.R.C.O. or A.R.C.O. RECENTLY as follows:
88 A.R.C.O. (Paper Work). 37 F.R.C.O. (Paper Work).
Many Pupils passed A.R.C.O. and F.R.C.O. in January, 1912.
F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize, January, 1912.
Many successes in January, 1911, 1910, and 1909.
15 A.R.C.O., July, 1911. 10 F.R.C.O., July, 1911.
22 A.R.C.O., July, 1910. 11 F.R.C.O., July, 1910.
12 A.R.C.O., July, 1909. 5 F.R.C.O., July, 1909.
12 A.R.C.O., Jan., 1910. 3 F.R.C.O., Jan., 1910.
Address, 8, Harley Road, Harlesden, London, N.W.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 37, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.
GRADUATED POSTAL LESSONS IN HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, THEORY OF MUSIC, FORM AND ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, Etc.
Pupils prepared for Mus. Doc., Mus. Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., and other examinations by experienced University Graduates in Music.
Personal lessons for L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., &c.
Terms very moderate; from One to Three Guineas per quarter. Prospectus post-free from the Secretary. Telephone: 7729 City.

GOOD LEADING BOY WANTED for Immanuel Church, Streatham Common, S.W. Write to Andrew Freeman, Mus. B., 57, Buckleigh Road, Streatham, S.W.

HOLY TRINITY, STROUD GREEN, N.—ALTO WANTED. Good Reader. State salary required. Address, H. J. Timothy, 134, Ferme Park Road, Crouch End, N.

ELY CATHEDRAL.—TENOR LAY CLERK WANTED. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent to The Precentor, on a form to be obtained from him, on or before Sept. 14.

SOPRANO, A.L.C.M., SEEKS APPOINTMENT as TEACHER of SINGING, and VOCALIST.
9, Carlton Road, Manor Park, Essex.

DR. THOS. HUTCHINSON, Organist and Choirmaster of Darlington Parish Church, REQUIRES an ARTICLED PUPIL in September. Excellent opportunity for Student preparing for Musical Degree; also for experience in Organ-playing, Choir-training, &c.

THE
BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40, WIGMORE STREET, W., are specially constructed with every convenience and facility that science and money can suggest, providing a magnificent Entrance Hall, Electric Lift, Telephones, separate Lavatories for Ladies and Gentlemen on every floor, also comfortable Lounges for waiting. The Studios are appropriately furnished, lighted by electricity, one or more Horizontal Grands in every Studio, &c., &c.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are in the centre of London's musical life, known by everybody, and already used by over a hundred of the most eminent London and Provincial Professors of Music.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are let by the year for exclusive use, or by single days, the charges being very reasonable and inclusive. Applications should be addressed to:—
The Manager, 40 Wigmore Street, London W.

TENOR WANTED for Church 12 miles out. Light duties. £15. Apply, C. J. Hooker, "Leyswood," W. Ewell.

BASS-BARITONE.—Good Soloist DESIRES POSITION in Roman Catholic Choir. S. E., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

ASSISTANT-ORGANIST.—POSITION DESIRED by a Musical Student, in return for small salary and use of Organ for Practice, in or near London. Churchman and Communicant. Reference permitted to Mr. F. G. M. Ogbourne, Musical Director, St. Andrew's, Holborn. Apply, C. H. B. Jaques, 9, Mornington Crescent, Regent's Park, N.W.

STUDENT-TEACHER.—Vocalist (Bass preferred) with knowledge of Pianoforte and Organ WANTED by PROFESSIONAL GENTLEMAN. Services in lieu of premium. Splendid opportunity to study Teaching, with a view to qualifying for Canadian Organist appointment. Apply, stating qualifications fully, Cyril J. L. Rickwood, Pembroke, Ontario, Canada.

STUDENT-TEACHER.—VIOLINIST with knowledge of piano WANTED in School of Music near London. Good opportunity for young gentleman to study and learn teaching business with view to permanency. Small premium, salary to commence. State qualifications, age, &c., to M. A., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, London, W.

FOR THOSE ENTERING THE MUSICAL PROFESSION.—A Bachelor of Music, M.A., and F.R.C.O. (married), has room in his home on South Coast for resident pupil. Organ, Piano, Singing, Harmony, Counterpoint, &c. Good organ in house. Fine climate. Apply, C. E. de M. Leathes, 3, Goda Road, Littlehampton.

MR. ARTHUR COWEN (Organist and Choirmaster, St. John's, Isleworth; Conductor, Philharmonic and Operatic Societies), requires an ARTICLED PUPIL in September. Organ, Pianoforte, Violin, Coaching, Oratorio, &c. Exceptional opportunity for studying Voice-Training and Conducting. Apply, 1, Harvard Road, Spring Grove, Isleworth. London Studio: Messrs. Cramer, 139, New Bond Street, W.

THE ORGANIST OF MALVERN PRIORY CHURCH will have a VACANCY in September for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Four-manual organ; Cathedral services. Address: Dr. Hamard, The Dingle, Malvern.

POSITIONS SECURED for ORGANISTS in Churches in the United States. Write for Terms: INTERNATIONAL CHOIR EXCHANGE, 116, Newark Avenue, Jersey City, N.J. (late of 136, Fifth Avenue, New York). VACANCIES ALWAYS.

ORGANIST of Church in London (City) is free to DEPUTISE during AUGUST. London or country. Address, Organist, 265, Strand, W.C.

TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, by Bevington, FOR SALE.—Built 1906, cost £180. Price £90. Apply to the Organist, St. Mark's, Purley.

ORGANS—IMMEDIATE SALE.—Several from 5 to 41 Stops, in thorough order. Good tone and power. Low prices for cash, or deferred payments. Apply, Henry Speechly & Sons, Organ Works, Saint Marks Road, Dalston, N.E.

PIPE ORGANS FOR SALE.—Two-Manual and One-Manual. New and Second-hand. Suitable for Church or Chamber. Inspection invited. Bate, Organ Builders, 9, Burdett Road, Bow, E.

TWO ORGANS, Two Manuals, with Pedals. Superior construction. Suitable for small Churches, &c. Specifications and estimates for Organs on application.—W. E. Richardson & Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell & Sons, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

CHURCH ORGANS, built partly with sound, second-hand materials. Inclusive prices, including carriage and erection (if desired), from £200. For particulars, &c., address, Norman & Beard, Ltd., 61, Berners Street, London, W. (Organ Builders to H.M. The King).

WANTED, THREE-MANUAL CHAMBER ORGAN (Second-hand). 18-Manual, 2 Pedal Stops, and Couplers. Must be good and a bargain. Meacher, Marlee, Blairgowrie.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at Bargain Prices. A 190-guinea Bell, two-manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £180 Karn, two-manuals and pedals, 24 stops, 13 sets; a 60-guinea two-manual Boosey "Evans' Patent" Harmonium, 18 guineas; Karn two-manual and Pedal, stops through, concave radiating pedals, bargain. Several Organs and Harmoniums by Alexandre, Trayser, Debain, &c.; one-third usual price. All guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg & Sons 56, Red Lion Street Holborn.

THE POSITIVE ORGAN.—A real PIPE ORGAN, giving the effects of two manuals and pedals on its single keyboard. Prices from £70. Over 750 supplied. Estimates given for Repairs, Rebuilds, Two- and Three-Manual Organs, &c.

POSITIVE ORGAN Co., Ltd., 44, Mornington Crescent (opposite Tube Station), London, N.W.

FOR SALE.—POSITIVE ORGAN, now in Primrose Hill Church, Northampton. For further particulars, apply, Facer, 11, Balmoral Road, Northampton.

O.P.C. ORGAN PEDALS for Pianos. We are makers to Organ Builders and Profession, by whom our goods are pronounced "the only perfect," and we are thrice granted H.M.R.I., for real merit. Write, O.P.C. Works, Brinscall, Chorley.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three-manual Pipe Organ for Practice—good condition; complete set of Couplers; blown by hydraulic engine. 1s. per hour. Hamilton Evans & Co., 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E. (1 minute from Station). Telephone: 693 Sydenham.

ORGAN PEDALS, R.C.O., FOR SALE.—Nearly new. Bargain. Radiating and Concave. Piano attachment. Complete with seat. RELIANCE WORKS, Organ Pedal Co., Union Road, Clapham, S.W.

EVERY COMPOSER should send for DINHAM, BLYTH & CO.'S Specimens and Price Lists (free) for Lithographing Anthems, Songs, &c. 50 Copies of Hymn-Tune, Kyrie, &c., 3s. 6d.: 100, 4s. 6d. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

NATAL.—REQUIRED, MUSIC MISTRESS, for Singing, Solo and Class, and Piano, L.R.A.M. or A.R.C.M. or equivalent. Salary £100, resident. Passage paid; three years' agreement. Apply, by letter, Education Secretary, 23, Army and Navy Mansions, Victoria Street, S.W.

TO ORGANISTS.—Large quantity of Bound Organ Music for Sale, through death. (All the great Masters.) Also Musical Times, Unbound, 15 years. Clark, St. Winnifrith's Cottage, Crediton, Devon.

Eighth Thousand.

"WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH." Anthem for Harvest, by W. H. Holloway, L. Mus. T.C.L. Quartet and Chorus. Price 3*d*.

"A pleasing and tuneful composition."—Manchester Courier.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NORMAN & BEARD, LTD.

PNEUMATIC PEDAL ATTACHMENT FOR THE PIANO.

Write for Price List to 61, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

EXAMINATION QUESTIONS AND HOW TO WORK THEM BY CUTHBERT HARRIS,

Mus. Doc. Dunelm., F.R.C.O.

PREFACE.

This Primer is intended more especially for those who purpose presenting themselves for examination in the theory of music. While the subjects dealt with may be found in all examination schemes for musical degrees and diplomas, it is hoped that the following chapters may prove useful more especially to candidates for the diplomas of the Royal College of Organists.

The object of this book is to stimulate and cultivate method in answering examination questions. Considerable experience as an examination "coach" has proved the success of the method, herein followed, of dissecting the questions, and—by dividing the points for consideration under several heads—thus directing the student's attention to one point at a time.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.
In Paper Boards, 2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ESTABLISHED 1839.

THE Age, Standing and Progress of LIVERPOOL'S CATHEDRAL ORGAN WORKS

THOUGH AGE of itself is no evidence of special ability, matured Experience and old-established repute rightly carry great weight with Organists and others concerned with the Building of an Organ. . .

In the case of Liverpool's CATHEDRAL ORGAN WORKS, modern methods and efficiency are associated with an honourable reputation dating back to 1839. Since that year, in which the first notable Rushworth Organ was completed, the RUSHWORTH family have been responsible for the Building, Re-building and Maintenance of the Organs in nearly all Liverpool's important Churches and Chapels. . . . . .

With the splendidly-equipped new Cathedral Organ Works fully organized, this old-established house is now in a position to undertake Contracts of any magnitude in any part of the World, and respectfully invite inquiries. Arrangements for the trial and inspection of representative RUSHWORTH Organs will be gladly made.

Rushworth Organs have recently been completed in the following Churches outside of Liverpool:—

ALL SAINTS' PARISH CHURCH . . . MAIDSTONE
BROMBOROUGH PARISH CHURCH . . . CHESHIRE
ST. MARY'S PARISH CHURCH . . . BIRKENHEAD
NEWGATE ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH . . . CHESTER
ENGEDI CALVINISTIC METHODIST . NORTH WALES
ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH . . . . . SOUTHPORT
HOLY TRINITY CHURCH . . . . RUNCORN
WEST VALE BAPTIST CHURCH . . . HALIFAX
CHRIST CHURCH . . . . HARLESDEN, LONDON
CILCAIN PARISH CHURCH . . . . WALES

References, Testimonials, Specifications, and Estimates on Request.

RUSHWORTH & DREAPER, Ltd.,
113-115 Great George Street,
LIVERPOOL.

Telephone: 1012 ROYAL. Telegrams: "APOLLO, Liverpool."

ESTABLISHED 1750.

Telephone: 1788 P.O. Hampstead. Telegrams: "Cantabile, London."

GRAY & DAVISON,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PRATT STREET, N.W.

48, SOUTHFIELD ROAD, OXFORD.
272, UPPER PARLIAMENT STREET, LIVERPOOL.
Specifications, Estimates, and Designs free of charge.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

PIANO PEDALS.

THE CATHEDRAL, MANCHESTER,
DEAR MR. MALKIN, Nov. 8th, 1910.
I think your Patent Pedal Attachment, which you have fitted to my Steinway, is simply splendid. I find the action absolutely silent and its touch beautiful.—Yours truly,
R. H. P. COLEMAN, F.R.C.O., Sub-Organist.

Terms:—Cash, or instalments of 8s. per month.

Write for Lists, Prices, and Clients' Opinions, and references, to—
THE MALKIN PATENT PEDAL CO., LTD.,
Works—Hanley, Staffs. NEWCASTLE-UNDER-LYME.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

TECHNIQUE
AND EXPRESSION
IN PIANOFORTE PLAYING
BY
FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

In the course of my experience as a teacher of the pianoforte, an experience extending over many years, certain ideas have from time to time suggested themselves to me which have proved useful—to myself, as enabling me to express more clearly that which I desired my pupils to understand, and to my pupils, as tending to facilitate their comprehension of the various difficulties they have had to encounter, at the same time leading them to perceive the most practical means of overcoming them, and thus accelerating their general rate of progress.

These suggestions relate to both the mechanical and intellectual sides of the study of pianoforte-playing, or briefly, to Technique and Expression, the chief matters implied by the first of these terms being the production of various qualities of tone, the choice of suitable fingering, and the best methods of attacking certain difficulties; while the second, which may perhaps be more aptly designated the means of expression, includes rhythm, phrasing, variety, and gradation of tone, the use of the pedals, et cætera.

WITH NUMEROUS MUSICAL EXAMPLES FROM THE WORKS OF THE GREAT MASTERS.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, FIVE SHILLINGS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COUNTRY DANCE TUNES

COLLECTED AND ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE BY
CECIL J. SHARP.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence each Set.

SET I.

Brighton Camp.
Galopede.
Ribbon Dance.
The Butterfly.
We won't go home till morning.
Speed the Plough.
Pop goes the Weasel.
The Flowers of Edinburgh.

SET II.

Nancy's Fancy.
Bonnets so Blue.
The Triumph.
Step and fetch her (or Follow your Lovers).
Haste to the Wedding.
Hunt the Squirrel.
Tink-a-Tink.
Three meet (or Pleasures of the Town).

SET III.

Jenny Pluck Pears.
Putney Ferry.
Mage on a Cree.
The Fine Companion.
Newcastle.
Gathering Peascods.
Oranges and Lemons.
Dull Sir John.
Rufty Tufty.
Parson's Farewell.
The Glory of the West.
Saint Martin's.
Hey, boys, up go we.
Grimstock.
The Beggar Boy.

SET IV.

Chestnut, or Dove's Figary.
The Black Nag.
Cheerily and Merrily.
Ten Pound Lass.
Nonesuch, or A la Mode de France.
Dargason, or Sedany.
Goddesses.
New Bo-Peep, or Pickadilla.
Staines Morris.
Amarillis.
Black Jack.
Jamaica.
My Lady Cullen.
London is a fine Town (or Watton Town's end).
The Twenty-Ninth of May.

THE COUNTRY DANCE BOOK
EDITED BY
CECIL J. SHARP.

PART I. Containing a description, &c., of the Dances in Sets I. and II.
PART II. Containing a description, &c., of the Dances in Sets III. and IV.
Price, Paper Covers, Two Shillings and Sixpence each Part.
Cloth, Three Shillings and Sixpence each Part.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE SWORD DANCES
OF NORTHERN ENGLAND
SONGS AND DANCE AIRS
COLLECTED AND ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE BY
CECIL J. SHARP.

BOOK I.

1. KIRBY MALZEARD SWORD DANCE.
2. GRENOSIDE SWORD DANCE. PART I.
   DITTO PART II.
3. EARSDON SWORD DANCE:
   THE CAPTAIN'S SONG (OLD VERSION).
   DITTO (MODERN VERSION).

BOOK II.

1. THE ABBOTS BROMLEY HORN DANCE.
2. THE SLEIGHTS SWORD DANCE.
3. THE FLAMBOROUGH SWORD DANCE.
4. THE SWALWELL, EARSDON, AND BEADNELL SWORD DANCES.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH BOOK.

THE SWORD DANCES
OF NORTHERN ENGLAND
COLLECTED AND DESCRIBED BY
CECIL J. SHARP.
IN TWO PARTS.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH PART.
CLOTH, THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH PART.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(INSTITUTED 1872.)

Chairman of Board:

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., M.A., MUS.D.

Director of Studies: G. E. BAMBRIDGE, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M.

Director of Examinations: C. W. PEARCE, MUS.D.

MICHAELMAS TERM begins SEPTEMBER 25.

The College provides Instruction and Training in all Musical Subjects.

Both Amateur and Professional Students are received for the Course or for Single Subjects. The lessons can be arranged for day or evening times.

Approved Complete Courses for the University of London Degrees in Music under recognised Teachers of the University. Also preparation for the degrees of other Universities, the Royal College of Organists' examinations, &c.

Students of the College are entitled to attend the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes without additional fee.

Special Subjects: Pianoforte Technique, Elocution, and the Art of Teaching Music; also Lectures on Musical History, &c.

The Operatic Class is open to outside as well as College students. There is also a Class for Training Boys for Cathedral Choirs.

Tuition in the Rudiments of the Theory of Music, Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Instrumentation, Composition, and the Art of Teaching is also given by Correspondence.

Students are admitted to the Junior School up to 16 years of age.

Thirty Open Scholarships are annually awarded, and in addition there are eighteen Scholarships open to Matriculated students of the University of London only, which provide complete instruction in preparation for the degree of Bachelor of Music of that University.

Particulars of the Teaching Department, with list of Professors, Fees, &c., of Scholarships, and the Syllabuses of the Higher and Local Examinations, on application to the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, London, W.

Just Published.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

THE ORGAN

BY

JOHN STAINER.

EDITED BY JOHN E. WEST.

An important feature of the present Edition of this invaluable and popular Organ Primer is the adoption of the now universally ecognized system of fingering—1.2.3.4.5., which is here substituted for the older system—×.1.2.3.4.—in all cases where fingering is marked.

In the explanatory portion of the book, opportunity has been taken of briefly mentioning one or two of the principal additions and improvements to the instrument which have been made nce the book was first issued.

Bearing in mind that the Author's aim was to assist, in as concise a manner as possible, the early steps of an organ student, he Editor has refrained from adding any further exercises or pieces to those which were already given. But the addition of a ew extra fingering and phrasing marks seemed necessary here and there, and, in the five concluding pieces, the laying-out of one or two of the manual passages has been rendered clearer to he player's eye by means of a slight re-staving.

The admirable explanations and diagrams of the Tubular-Pneumatic and Electric actions have been supplied by Mr. L. Simon, of Messrs. Norman & Beard, Ltd.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BROADWOOD PLAYER-PIANOS

GRANDS AND UPRIGHTS.

THE MOST SENSITIVE PLAYERS ON THE MARKET.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

JOHN BROADWOOD & SONS, LTD.,
CONDUIT STREET, LONDON, W.

BOSWORTH EDITION.

Important New Publications for Vocalists.

BY

DR. A. W. MARCHANT.

TWENTY-FIVE

Studies in Vocalisation

(FROM OLD ITALIAN COMPOSERS—Ricci, Vaccaj, Guynemer, Blangini, Mercadante, Maroni, Bellini, Donizetti, &c.)

Carefully graded as to difficulty, with marks of expression and phrasing.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

The above Studies are intended to follow the well-known

CONCONE'S FIFTY SINGING LESSONS

FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE

New Edition, carefully revised by Dr. MARCHANT.

Arranged for the development of ALL the Vowel Sounds.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

BOSWORTH & CO.,

17, HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON, W.

And at Leipzig, Vienna, Paris, Zürich and New York.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Performed at Westminster Abbey on July 16, at the special service for the 250th Anniversary of the Royal Society.

GREAT IS THE LORD

(PSALM XLVIII.)

ANTHEM

For the Foundation or Commemoration of a Church, or for General Use.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 67).

Price Eightpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

Examination Regulations, List of College Publications, Lectures, &c. may be had on application.

H. A. HARDING, Hon. Sec.

Kensington Gore, S.W.

The Musical Times
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
AUGUST 1, 1912.

H. BALFOUR GARDINER.

We often hear nowadays of the existence and doings of what is called the Young British School of composers. Whether the description 'young' applies to the school or only to the individuals comprised in it, is uncertain, but we imagine we are justified in including in the category all British musicians under forty years of age. Therefore, the subject of the present sketch may safely be given a niche in this Parthenon. But what the school represents, and what community of ideas influences its disciples, we are unable to say. We prefer to regard it as a loose classification of totally different methods and idioms that are simply the self-expression of a number of composers who happen to live in the same country, but who have little or nothing else in common. Amongst those who are working out their own musical salvation according to their own inward impulses, we must include Mr. Gardiner, the composer whose brave support of British art was a feature of the 1912 London musical season.

Mr. H. Balfour Gardiner was born in London on November 7, 1877. Direct heredity had little influence on his musical faculty, for neither of his parents was distinctively musical. His mother died during his infancy. His father played the violoncello, and any early inclinations young Gardiner had towards music were fostered by the occasional musical gatherings that took place at his father's residence. Listening to Corelli's Trios when he was but four years of age instilled in him a desire to learn to play the pianoforte, which he was allowed to begin to do on his fifth birthday as a special treat. This was his only form of musical practice until he was about nine years old, when he began to compose little pieces for the violin and pianoforte. A few years later he began to learn to play the organ under Mr. T. S. Guyer (now organist at Bexhill-on-Sea). It was this 'musician of pure and refined taste' (to quote Mr. Gardiner's grateful testimony) 'who developed my feeling for tone-colour.' In these safe hands he remained for several years; meantime he went to school at Margate, next to Folkestone, and later to Temple Grove at East Sheen, where he won an entrance scholarship to Charterhouse, which famous school he joined when he was about thirteen years of age. At Charterhouse he was taught the pianoforte by Mr. Becker, through whom Gardiner became acquainted with some of the classics of pianoforte literature. Whilst in this school he won a senior scholarship.

When he was seventeen years of age, and before he proceeded to the University, he spent about a year studying music at Dr. Hoch's well-known Conservatorium at Frankfurt. There he studied composition under Professor Iwan Knorr. Amongst his fellow-students were Cyril Scott, Norman O'Neill, Percy Grainger, and Roger Quilter, all of whom have achieved distinction. He studied the pianoforte under Professor Uzielli, an Italian pupil of Madame Schumann. His first experience of modern music was gained at Frankfurt. On the night of his arrival in the city he heard 'Die Walküre' performed. He recalls that at that time the music made no appeal to him—it seemed absolutely incoherent and contained no melody or attraction of harmony. He ascribes his then absolute unreceptivity to the fact that his previous training had been exclusively on classical lines. Later he heard the 'Tristan' Vorspiel six times before he could make anything of it. Not everyone to-day who listens to modern music is so frank and sincere in recording impressions! It was at Frankfurt that Gardiner heard with intense interest Tchaikovsky's sixth Symphony for the first time. He also heard nearly all Wagner's operas, and others of the French, German, and Italian schools. It was a great and pregnant period in the young musician's life. As to composition his work was mostly of the academic and conventional kind. He was then, as it may be said he is now, fond of experimenting with chords he could not find elsewhere. Form was also studied, but it was at this time a strange experience. He now began to perceive that he thought, in turn, in two different harmonic systems—one, in which he was free to exercise his imagination and individuality, and one in which he worked mechanically to fit the accepted musical forms.

He says: 'One phase of my early attempts at composition consisted almost entirely of experiments in harmony, though at that time I was acquainted with nothing more modern than Schumann, excepting the "Tannhäuser" Overture and the Horn trio of Brahms. During my school-days at Charterhouse these experiments were continued with increasingly strange results, to the neglect of other elements of music; and thus I entered the Conservatorium at Frankfurt with an exuberant harmonic imagination, but with very little resource in other respects. I soon found that a harmonic scheme in which tonic and dominant had no place was of small use in solving the simple formal problems that were put before me; and I was compelled accordingly to descend to a lower and, indeed, to a primitive plane of musical thought in order to cope with them. Thus I acquired a second style—formal, practical, and less imaginative—which co-existed along with my more intense, natural, and original efforts; and it is on the basis of this second style that my musical development proceeded. Looking back on those bygone years, I cannot but feel that I paid a heavy price for the normal equipment of a composer in the loss of originality it entailed. Like all other students who undergo a conventional musical training instead of developing their style at every point on their own lines, I had to take the bad with the good; to learn to solve problems that would never have arisen if I had gone my own way; to utter things and acquire methods of utterance that were essentially alien to me: and I was thus left, as all apt students invariably are left, with a limited imagination, and burdened with a number of habits that had to be unlearned, and will still have to be unlearned till I come to my own again. While saying this, I wish to acknowledge to the full the efficient handling and sympathetic insight of my master, Professor Iwan Knorr, than whose teaching, on its own lines, I can conceive none better.

'Those who defend the musical institutions that bring composition "within reach of all" may say that I was losing myself in my own particular cul-de-sac, and might never have become a composer at all. Be it so. Let the strong overcome the difficulties they make for themselves: let the weaklings go to the wall. As things now are, all the weaklings are helped to compose: and compose they do, with lamentable results. I would have more danger, and no helping hand outstretched; and the man with the courage, skill, and endurance to face the danger and overcome it will produce finer and truer music than the man who is shown the broad and easy path that leads but to conventionality.'

In 1895 he went to New College, Oxford, but during the vacations he continued to study at Frankfurt. Whilst still at Frankfurt, over-practice at the pianoforte led to a partial paralysis of his hand-muscles, and he had to relinquish any idea that he harboured of becoming a solo-pianist, and he decided to devote his whole musical mind to composition. At Oxford he secured a second in Mods, but in Greats he only 'satisfied the examiners,' and he has never ceased to wonder at their equanimity and what it was that gave them this satisfaction.

Asked whether the University environment had any formative influence in his musical development, he says:

'As to the influence of Oxford on the musician, I should say that in my experience it was not stimulating. For it is the business of the artist as of the philosopher, to use his creative and selective faculties in defining his attitude towards his environment; and his character becomes firmer and fuller, and his expression of that character more complete, in proportion to the constancy and intensity with which he uses those faculties. His growth must be directed by impulse from within, not by imposition from without; and the imposition from without in the case of an Oxford education is such as to leave him lumbered with a mass of undigested and unassimilable facts on the one hand, and stunted on the other by lack of nourishment that is congenial to him.'

This is a strong method of describing his experience of the almost insuperable difficulties in the way of a University like Oxford providing for a young student of modern music. The study of the art is an incidental one in the general curricula of the University, and unlike many other subjects, it must be specialised in early youth.

After leaving Oxford he went again to Frankfurt, and thence to the Sondershausen Conservatorium, where he was taught conducting and had the valued opportunity of hearing some of his own extended orchestral compositions for the first time. He next returned to England, and resided in London and the country for a few years. The only professional work he has undertaken was at Winchester College, where for a term he was junior music-master. He now spends most of his time at his cottage in Berkshire.

Conversing over a wider field of musical topics, Mr. Gardiner remarks apropos the difficulties of the young English school, that the craze of concert-givers for novelties is a bar to progress. The desire to announce that something is to be 'given for the first time' prevents many good works from being heard again.

As mentioned above, Mr. Gardiner's concerts, of which there were four, were a feature of the Spring season of this year. It was not only that the programmes were almost exclusively made up from the compositions of British musicians, but that by a sure instinct the particular works chosen were undoubtedly interesting to the audiences. Enthusiasm was quite common. The following composers, besides the generous giver of the concerts, were represented:—Frederic Austin, Arnold Bax, W. H. Bell, Frederick Delius, Sir Edward Elgar, Percy Grainger, Hamilton Harty, Gustav von Holst, Norman O'Neill, Cyril Scott, Sir Charles Stanford, R. Vaughan Williams, and six old English madrigal composers. Mr. Gardiner says:

'We have in this country to-day a number of composers whose claim to be heard rests on the originality of their utterance and their quite remarkable freedom from foreign influences. Unfortunately, in spite of the goodwill of our most prominent conductors, opportunities for hearing these works are few; and my concerts were designed with a view to partially remedying this defect. They will be continued, I hope, as long as the need for them exists; but nobody would be more pleased than myself to see the need disappear, by the immediate and frequent performance of each good work as it is produced.'

COMPOSITIONS.

For Orchestra.

Suite in A major.
English Dance.
Overture to a Comedy. (Novello.)
Symphony in D major.
Shepherd Fennel's Dance. (Hawkes.)
Fantasy.
Humoresque for small orchestra.

Chamber Music.

String Quartet in B flat. One movement. (Novello: Avison Edition.)
String Quintet in C minor.

Vocal, with Orchestra.

Two Love-songs, from 'The Song of Solomon.'
'When the lad for longing sighs.'
'The Recruit.' (Goodwin & Tabb.)
'Dream-tryst,' for baritone.
'A Corymbus for Autumn,' for soprano, chorus, and orchestra.
'News from Whydah,' for choir and orchestra. (Novello.)
'April,' for chorus and orchestra.

Songs.

'The Golden Vanity.' (Goodwin & Tabb.)
Two Lyrics. (Goodwin & Tabb):
1. 'Music, when soft voices die.'
2. 'When I was one-and-twenty.'
'The Stranger's Song.' (Boosey.)
'Roadways.' (Forsyth.)
'Winter.' (Novello: Avison Edition.)

Pianoforte.

Prelude, Humoresque, Mere. (Forsyth.)
'Noël.' Five pieces. (Forsyth.)

Choral.

Evening Hymn, for mixed choir and organ. (Novello.)
'Evenen' in the village,' part-song for S.A.T.B. (Novello.)
'The Stage-coach,' part-song for S.A.T.B. (Novello.)
'Cargoes,' part-song for S.A.T.B. (Novello.)

MOUSSORGSKY.

One of the few memorable events of the past concert season was the introduction which Madame Olénine D'Alheim effected between the London musical public and Moussorgsky, the great Russian song-writer. Most of us had had a bowing acquaintance with him before. Mrs. Newmarch has translated several of his songs into English, and Sir Henry Wood has made two or three of them immensely popular in orchestral versions given at the Promenade Concerts. Other singers have occasionally drawn upon him for their recital programmes, and at least one of the set of 'Seven children's songs,' the delicate little 'Evening prayer,' is fairly well known. But these things merely touch the fringe of Moussorgsky's work, for neither the 'Song of the Flea' (from Goethe's 'Faust') nor the brilliant satire known as 'The Musician's Peep-show' represent his musical convictions at all clearly. By giving all three of the cycles, the 'Four Songs and Dances of Death,' the 'No Sunlight,' the 'Children's Songs,' with a number of the detached songs and, what was perhaps still more important, by placing them beside folk-songs and songs by other Russian composers, Madame D'Alheim gave us the opportunity of realising what was Moussorgsky's aim, what his achievement, and in what he was distinguished from his countrymen.

Some critics have expressed the opinion that he is now merely receiving the posthumous honour which comes sooner or later to every eccentric who is ill-treated during his life; that these songs consist of a quantity of loose and unmelodic declamation supported by haphazard and generally ugly harmonies; and that now, since he no longer represents modern experiment and composers can do all that he tried to do and do it better, we need not bother very much about him. As to this there are two things to be said. In the first place, even granting that there is truth in this kind of criticism, Moussorgsky becomes an intensely interesting historical figure when we consider that he formulated principles of song as the musical expression of poetry which were akin to, if not identical with, those on which Wolf and Debussy founded the modern German and French schools, and that his work was done while those composers were still children. But that in itself would not make us want to listen to him for long, and we must deny the accusation or at least find that it leaves other great qualities unaccounted for, in order to justify the fascination which Moussorgsky's songs can exercise when one becomes familiar with their external features.

The fact is that Moussorgsky, unlike Rimsky-Korsakov, who has since edited most of his work, had much of the amateur's impatience of technique. Like the primitive Russian who records his impressions in snatches of melody with little care for their rhythmic or melodic balance, Moussorgsky seems to have taken such musical ideas as the rhythm, accent, and feeling of the verse suggested, and their beauty and artistic success depends primarily upon their truthfulness of expression, though, as we shall see, he could use artistic devices as means to gain that expression. The music is so closely bound up with the words that translations, however skilful, are necessarily unsatisfactory. The translations into French which Madame D'Alheim used are tolerably close, so are those of M. Calvocoressi published in the edition of Messrs. Bessel & Co., but it is impossible always to avoid the unnecessary word brought in to fill the musical phrase, whereas one of the chief beauties of the original is the avoidance of any note not essential to the poetic phrase. Those of us who do not know the Russian language have to gain our acquaintance with Moussorgsky by difficult and indirect means, and we owe him an additional degree of receptive and sympathetic attention in consequence. There is always the possibility that what seems loose and unmelodic declamation of even a good translation may represent the most natural contour of the phrase in the original language, and gain a new kind of musical beauty from its linguistic faithfulness.

This is very evident in the 'No Sunlight' cycle (poems by Count Koutouzov), which we will discuss for purposes of illustration. The first poem, called 'Within four walls,' is unusually concentrated by the absence of any word which would not contribute to the impression. The following is a rough English version, which aims merely at a literal reproduction of the sense of the Russian:

The little room is cramped, quiet, sweet;
An impenetrable shadow, a shadow that gives no answer;
A deep thought, a sad song;
In the beating heart a cherished hope.

The moments pass quickly, one after another.
A fixed look at distant happiness;
Many doubts, much patience.
There is my night, my lonely night!*

The absence of all articles, definite and indefinite, gives the Russian language a natural terseness of expression comparable to Latin. Here its effect is heightened by the suppression of the verbs in the first stanza of the song, an effect which M. Calvocoressi was unable to reproduce in his French translation to fit the music. One has only to hear the original poem read intelligently by a native of Russia to appreciate the fact that Moussorgsky has simply put down notes according to the accentuation of the verse, and as it were crystallised the intonation of the speaking voice in musical notation.

* I have to thank Mrs. F. J. Matheson for this translation, as well as for other literal transcripts of the words of Moussorgsky's songs.—H. C. C.

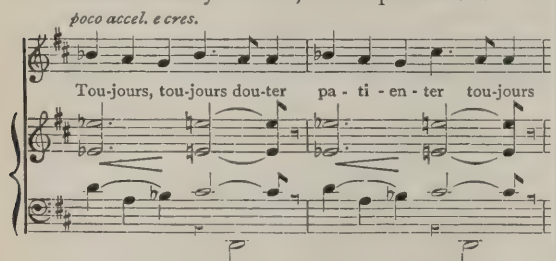
There are, of course, two ways in which that may be done—the intellectual way, advocated by some modern French composers who teach that the voice-part should first be written entirely on this principle and that harmonic justification and amplification should be added afterwards; and the artistic way, in which vocal line and instrumental harmony are inseparable, and spring into being in the composer's thought at the same time, both alike being generated by the poem.

It is always perilous work trying to come by an artist's method from the evidence of the finished product, but this song appears to be a clear instance of the second and spontaneous method of creation. The harmonies are either those which most obviously belong to the vocal line of melody, as in the first phrase:

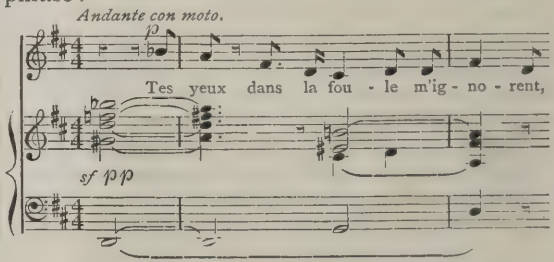
or merely add a touch of heightened emotion to the climax—'Many doubts, much patience':



[The French of M. Calvocoressi is quoted with the music for the convenience of the reader.]

The pianoforte part admits of no separate process of thought, and when one listens to it in conjunction with the vocal part it is certainly not haphazard. One may not be able to claim that the song has great and original musical beauty: it is too featureless, perhaps. But yet it creates a perfectly true impression, one in which the suggestion of the physical conditions, the cramped, quiet room in shadow, comes through sympathy with the spiritual conditions.

Moussorgsky's choice of sad subjects is here and elsewhere the outcome of his own temperament intensified by the circumstances of his life, which were always depressing, often cruel, and under which he finally broke down. There is no affectation in his choice or in his musical execution of his songs. He has been accused of despising technical accomplishment, and we have suggested that he showed an amateurish impatience—one might almost say petulance—with regard to it. And yet he sometimes surprises one by a skilful moulding of his material almost at the same moment when he has irritated one by his carelessness about technical finish. The second song of this series gives the two characteristics side by side. Its poem is more passionate than the first one. The lover unrecognised catches a glimpse of his beloved's face in a crowd, and in that moment lives through 'all the joy of past love, all the bitterness of forgetfulness and tears.' The method of expression is the same as in 'Within four walls,' but the sprawling positions of the chords, in which the effects of pianoforte tone seem to have been neglected and its limited power of sustaining sounds forgotten, are symptoms of Moussorgsky's carelessness. Here is the first phrase:



At the same time the artist's innate sense of form appears in the exquisite way in which the song is rounded off with reference to its first phrase, and that without any break in the outburst of emotion or the smallest hint of formalism:

Imagine this carefully scored for strings and the song is perfect, whether one looks at it from the point of view of spontaneity of expression or as a piece of artistic design. Moussorgsky would probably have resented the latter point of view being applied to any of his work, but one has a right to admire the balance as it serves to complete the idea.

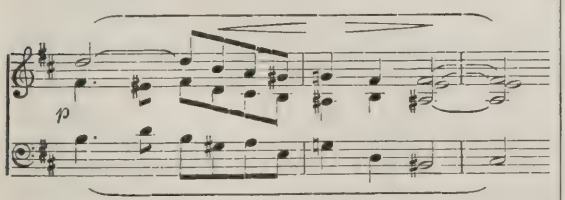
These two songs give us the essential characteristics of Moussorgsky's art while they employ the simplest means of expression—a voice occupied in musical declamation of a poem and supported merely by instrumental harmonies without the aid of any kind of rhythmic figure. Three out of the four later songs of the same cycle call for bigger means of expression, and Moussorgsky's readiness to use any appropriate means is exemplified in them. This resourcefulness makes his art peculiarly free from mannerisms of any kind. It distinguishes it from much of the modern French song-writing, and links it in feeling to the folk-songs of his own country. If one reads through a collection of Russian folk-song such as the interesting set of one hundred edited by Rimsky-Korsakov, one is struck by the difficulty of placing a finger upon this or that feature and saying 'this is distinctively Russian.' Melodic mode and rhythmic structure seem capable of infinite variety according to the mood of the poem to which the tune belongs. It is equally so not only with Moussorgsky's vocal melodies but with his instrumental parts.

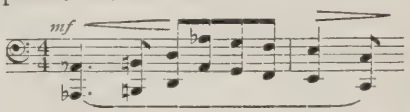
Three of the remaining poems are, like the first one which has been described in detail, expressions of some deep and stirring impulse of the soul thrown into relief against a background of physical circumstance. No. 3, 'The idle, noisy day is done,' describes the vision of 'passionate spring dreams' and the 'shade of youth' coming to a sleepless man in the still night. No. 5 is an elegy for dead ideals recalled to memory by the beauty of a night scene; No. 6, 'On the river,' tells of the call of an unknown voice through the murmur of the lapping water. All are different poetic settings of the same idea.

Only No. 4, 'Ennui,' stands apart from the rest. It expresses no conflict between the ideal and the actual; it accepts fate grudgingly, it confesses failure in the words 'drop by drop you will spend your force, then you will die, and Heaven help you!' There is little to be said of this song musically, beyond the fact that its music is strikingly true to the crushing pessimism of the words. The small chromaticism contained in the opening phrase for the pianoforte is characteristic of the whole song:

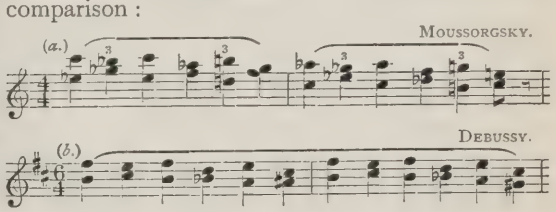


its very intervals show the bent back and lowered head, the attitude of the man who has given up fighting.

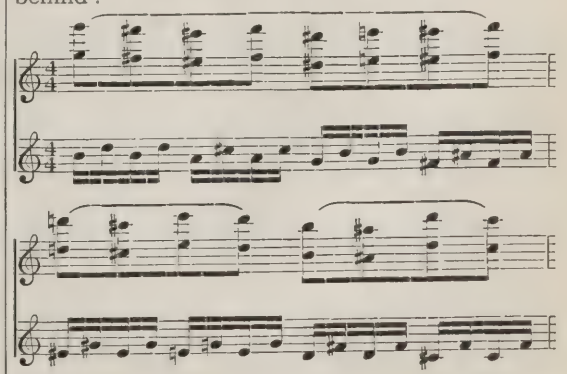
'Ennui' is the only one of the six which deserves to be called morbid. The others, no matter how much we may rebel against their introspective attitude, have too much vital force to be described so. In them the musician is occupied not only with the psychological problems but with the beauty of the night scenes which form the background to the poet's thought, and even the details of description. Sometimes an eloquent phrase makes a single appearance, to emphasise a change of idea—as in No. 3, where, after the subdued opening, telling of the stillness of the night, the words 'but sleep flies from my eyes' are accompanied with:



or some telling figure of accompaniment is maintained and developed through a whole period against the free declamation of the voice. Such an one occurs in this song, where the phantoms of past hopes fill the imagination, and curiously enough Moussorgsky has lit upon a form to express the phantoms which, save for a difference of accent, is practically identical with the theme of Debussy's 'clouds' in the second of the 'Three Nocturnes for orchestra.' The two are worth comparison:



The most highly developed in this respect is the 'Elegy,' at the beginning of which Moussorgsky again takes one by surprise with a page of such delicately-coloured pianoforte-writing as might have come from the pen of any of the great German song-writers. It is a beautiful nocturne in water-colour, and moreover he follows it with a piece of music developed on broad, almost symphonic, lines—a big theme which has musical purpose of its own, and which through the greater part of the song makes even the vocal declamation a thing of secondary importance. It is the only instance where the musician leaves the poet behind:



The last song, 'On the River,' is equally definite in its musical interest, yet the music again becomes wholly tributary to the poem. From first to last an unbroken figure of triplet quavers is maintained in the bass, moving about a continuous 'tonic pedal,' and over this there is a pure and strong melody shared between the voice and the upper instrumental parts. The music taken by itself is a tone-poem upon the words, for out of many strands of melody one phrase emerges into prominence and fixes itself in the memory—'The waters rise and break, tender, caressing; their murmur is full of enchanting force. Boundless thoughts and passions are heard, and an unknown voice stirs my soul; it caresses, it frightens, it fills me with doubts.' The voice is unmistakable in the music:

It gradually takes possession, silencing all other voices, and is repeated lingeringly at the end, leaving off as it were with a question on the unresolved 'tonic seventh.'

The diversity of means used in this series of songs would merit the term 'haphazard' if it could not be shown that they are called into play in obedience to a consistent principle. Moussorgsky seems to have been actuated by two principles—one acknowledged, the other intuitive. The acknowledged one is literary, devotion to the content of the poem which he set; and this was more or less unconsciously controlled by a feeling for musical form which helped to mould the song most conspicuously in the second, the fifth, and the sixth of the series. As to the actual worth of the musical ideas, it may be admitted that they vary, but some have been pointed out as being of great beauty, taken in connection with the poetic context, while those of the last two songs are beautiful, both as a commentary on the poems and in their own right as pure music. This cycle represents one aspect of Moussorgsky's art, and there are others which illustrate the same principles under different forms. The 'Seven children's songs' (in which both words and music are his own) are among the most fascinating; but though they show different sides of his nature, its tenderness and whimsical sad humour, they are not more intimate than the 'No Sunlight' songs. In the latter he set words which were the outcome of another brain, but those words happened to be the expression of his own heart.

H. C. Colles.

[Modest Petrowitsch Moussorgsky (or Mussorgski) was born at Toropez on March 16-28, 1835, and he died at St. Petersburg on March 16-28, 1881. His opera, 'Boris Godounow,' was produced at the Imperial Russian Opera in 1874. He also composed two other operas, 'The Fair at Sorochinsk' and 'The Chovanski.']

HUGO WOLF AS MUSICAL CRITIC.

By Ernest Newman.

Readers of the life of Hugo Wolf will remember that in his youth he acted for a time as musical critic of the Vienna Salonblatt. Dr. Decsey gave a selection from these criticisms in his biography of the composer; and now the Vienna Wagner-Verein has issued the whole of the articles in book-form, under the editorship of Richard Batka and Heinrich Werner.* Youthful as Wolf was when he did this work, his editors rightly point out that the articles are expressive also of his maturer thinking, for Wolf 'found himself' very early both as critic and as composer. The articles, it may be added, run from January 20, 1884, to April 17, 1887, and are here reprinted in their entirety, with the exception of one or two passages of a highly personal character that Wolf flung out in the heat of his conflict with his enemies of the day.

Like all reprinted musical criticism, these articles have become a little old-fashioned in so far as they deal with names, such as those of singers and performers, that count for little or nothing in the musical life of a later time. It says much for the vitality of Wolf's ideas, however, that even his criticisms of performances at the Vienna Opera or in the Vienna concert-rooms are still to be read with interest and instruction, for he had the genuine critic's gift of seeing general problems in the smallest particular events,—the gift of looking at everything sub specie æternitatis. His sharp pen, too, makes everything live that it describes, even though we have no further knowledge of the men or the things he is dealing with. The writing is always fresh, and often witty. This is how he disposes, for example, of a quintet by Prince Heinrich XXIV. of Reuss: 'The Prince no doubt intended to write a good quintet; if he has not succeeded, it is because he is the opposite of Mephistopheles, "der stets das Böse will, und doch das Gute schafft" [who always wills evil and achieves good].'

A certain Donna Anna in 'Don Giovanni,' he says, 'was a reflection on the good taste of the Don.' He wrote about everybody and everything, but especially the singers, with perfect frankness, so that needless to say he made enemies everywhere. He seems to have realised this, and at the end of his first season makes a sort of apology to the reader who may have been offended at his occasional vehemence, pointing out that there is a certain natural heat generated by everyone who is fighting for what he takes to be the truth, and against what he takes to be falsehood. 'In these cases one does not choose one's words carefully. Truth is not the language of compliment; that is the speech of diplomats.'

On the whole he is so evidently right wherever we can check him that there is every presumption of his having been right in cases where we cannot. If he condemns a singer or a player it is in terms of some general philosophy of the subject,—say the meaning of a Wagnerian character, or the historical place of an instrumental work in the evolution of a form or of an ideal,—that lets us see at once that his objections were not the expression of mere caprice. And so these 370 pages contain the best collection of musical criticisms ever put together by a great composer. They surpass those of Schumann, for example, both in range and variety of topic and in concision and appositeness of thought. The rich musical life of Vienna gave him a good many texts upon which to preach in the course of his three years' work; and every subject, whether agreeable to him or not, was one to be taken seriously, with a view to getting to the secret either of its vitality or of its worthlessness. Never does he think or write perfunctorily. He had, no doubt, his prejudices, but not more of them than the average man has, and much less of them than the average musician has. On at least ninety-five per cent. of the topics he discussed time has shown him to have been right; and as for the other five per cent., all we have to do to rectify his vision is to take a little of the rose-pink off some of his judgments and a little of the drab off certain others. He seems at first sight to have under-estimated Dvorák, until we remember that in the early 'eighties the essential Dvorák could hardly have been known by anyone. He is a trifle too severe on Brahms, but much that he urged against him is perfectly true. On the other hand he ranks Liszt a trifle too high, but was undoubtedly right in urging the claim of Liszt to be taken seriously as a composer. In both these cases opposition probably made him overstate his real opinions. The official Brahmsians in Vienna no doubt did as much as their brethren in England to make Brahms a nuisance to plain people by their super-solemn way of talking about him. Like Wagner, he suffered less from the attacks of his enemies than from the support of certain of his friends. Hanslick, for instance, never did half so much to set sensible people against Wagner as Mr. Houston Stewart Chamberlain and a few other German and English thurifers have done. Wolf lived in a town that reeked with unintelligent and exaggerated adulation of Brahms. If somebody persists in shouting at us day after day that when Jones puts two and two together the result is five, he will certainly drive a number of people to say, in pure exasperation, that the true result of Jones's little sum is only three. That is very much what happened in Vienna in the 'eighties; the Brahmsians shouted 'five' and Wolf yelled back 'three.' And naturally, when they pointed the finger of scorn at Liszt and said 'two-and-a-half,' Wolf flung back his hair and screamed 'five-and-three-quarters.' When the Brahmsians gravely invited mankind to ponder upon the world-shaking fact that Brahms's fourth Symphony was in the key of E minor,—a key in which neither Mozart, nor Beethoven, nor Schubert, nor Mendelssohn, nor Schumann had ever written a symphony,—we can understand Wolf, in his rage against such fatuity, striking out at Brahms instead of at the solemn noodles who were making him ridiculous. 'What a colossal discovery! What an original and profound artist is Herr Brahms, who can not only write in C, D, or F, like Beethoven, but also in E minor, which no one has hitherto been able to do! Heavens! I am beginning to be scared at the awful genius of Herr Brahms.'

*'Hugo Wolfs Musikalische Kritiken: im Auftrage des Wiener Akademischen Wagner-Vereins; herausgegeben von Richard Batka und Heinrich Werner.' Breitkopf & Härtel, Leipsic. M. 7.50.

Leaving Liszt and Brahms on one side for the moment, Wolf's judgments as a whole have stood the test of time very well. He drew a sharp line of distinction · and an accurate one —between the first-rate and the second-rate men, and he lectured the Viennese public for its occasional preference of the latter. He disparaged the second- and third-rate Italian opera composers—Boïto, Ponchielli, and the rest of them—as every sensible musician does now. He put people like Goldmark and Volkmann in their proper places. He laughed at the 'nationalist' cranks in Germany and in Russia, and told them that what they had to do was not to write good German music or good Russian music, but simply good music, —the greater including the lesser. He put his finger upon the root of the weakness of this 'nationalist' craze in Russia,—that it mainly appealed only to the second-rate minds. When all is said and done, he asked,—and we are asking it again to-day,—who are the Cuis and the Balakirevs and the Liadows and the Rimsky-Korsakovs and the rest of them? The only man of genius among them is Tchaikovsky, who, says Wolf, 'is bent on writing not Russian national music, but just music.' It was probably this antipathy to any man who bore his nationality too plainly stamped upon his art that made him insensitive to Grieg's Pianoforte concerto—one of his few errors of judgment.

It must have taken uncommon courage for a young man to be anti-Brahmsian in the Vienna of those days, and to sound the slogan for Berlioz, Liszt and Bruckner. Wolf's whole attitude towards music may be deduced from his writings upon these four. Dr. Decsey surmises that Wolf's dislike for the grey and frosty element in Brahms came from the instinctive repugnance of his warm southern nature for the chillier north. The editors of the present volume find the explanation rather in Wolf's adoration of Wagner, and his fury at Brahms being thrust into the front of the fighting line by those who had opposed Wagner so stupidly and so meanly. Mr. Fuller Maitland, in his recent book on Brahms, calls Wolf's criticisms 'diatribes,' and puts them down to his being 'hard up and disappointed.' That seems to me the weakest theory of the lot, for it appears to postulate some logical connection between the accuracy of a man's musical judgment and the state of his banking account. I should say it would be quite possible to have a very decent balance at Coutts's, and yet utter a number of musical judgments,—about 'Tod und Verklärung' or 'Don Quixote,' for instance,—that were anything but reasonable. The two other theories are no doubt both right in their way. I would suggest another. Wolf was a typical modern in his desire for a new freedom of form in music; and what he often saw in Brahms was a timid clinging to old formulas at the cost of a certain sacrifice of strength and elasticity of imagination. With all our admiration for Brahms can we say that Wolf was wrong? Does not the future of music lie along these freer paths? Wolf was not unconscious of some of the defects of Bruckner's symphonies,—particularly the occasional lack of a great controlling purpose in them. But he liked them because of the freedom of wing that the composer gives to his fantasy. An article of Wolf's (January 10, 1886) on Bruckner's Quintet is very instructive in this regard. He praises it for the spontaneity of its invention, its absence of stereotyped formality, its attempt to let the music follow the natural ebb and flow of emotion in the soul. He happily compares Bruckner's epigrammatic style to that of Victor Hugo; and, though he does not regard it as the highest form of art, he sees that it has at least as much value as the more ponderous and self-conciously formal styles. In Brahms he saw the epigone, walking circumspectly in the giants' footsteps instead of making a path of his own for himself. He was not at all blindly prejudiced against Brahms. He greatly liked the G major Sextet, the F major Quintet, the Alto Rhapsody, and the song, 'Von ewiger Liebe,'—anything, indeed, in which he could be conscious of natural warmth and an abandonment of the 'classical toga' pose of the symphonies. Whatever the state of Wolf's pocket may have been, this is all rationally thought out and rationally expressed. The liberation and expansion of the symphonic form that he pleaded for are what we all desire to-day. On the other hand, we have only to discount slightly his enthusiasm for Liszt to see that here again his æsthetics were on the side of progress. Not that he was unaware of many failings in both Liszt and Berlioz. Neither of them seemed to him a purely musical nature; but he had the wit to perceive the stimuli that modern music owes to them, and to know that it is mainly along the lines of the poetic imagination that music will have to seek the increasing freedom of form and of impulse that she desires. The history of music since Wagner's death proves this conclusively. And therefore, in spite of sheer absurdities like the remark that 'there is more soul and sensibility in a single cymbal-clash in a Liszt work than in the whole three Brahms Symphonies and the Serenades into the bargain,'—the kind of exaggeration into which a journalist is sometimes betrayed, but which he would be willing to expunge next day if he could—in spite of one or two things of this sort, Wolf's estimate of the two great æsthetic forces that were warring in Germany at that time is mainly correct. He may now and then have seen the men at a wrong angle, but that was simply because he looked beyond them to the principles they represented. Brahms was a greater composer than Liszt; but nothing significant has come out of the school of Brahms, while nine-tenths of the life of modern music is derived from the school of Liszt and Wagner.

A GREAT CARILLONNEUR: JOSEF DENYN.

At any time Mechlin is an interesting place, but on Monday, July 1, it was particularly so. The city was bedecked with flags; the great bells were ringing; the Carillon was played by the finest players of Belgium and Holland, and for lovers of bell-music there was a veritable feast. All this in celebration of the completion of twenty-five years' service of the renowned Josef Denyn as City Carillonneur. There was an atmosphere of gaiety and delight about everything and everybody. This is indeed as it should be, for Josef Denyn is undoubtedly the greatest living exponent of his instrument, and is justly esteemed no less for his personal qualifications than for his great abilities.

The festivities were of a national character, in which people of every rank—from the King and Queen to the humblest citizen—took part. During the day many and costly were the gifts showered upon the illustrious carillonneur by his admirers and friends, but none was more appreciated or more touching than the simple bouquet of flowers presented by a blind woman on behalf of the colony of lace-workers, who wished to show their appreciation of his playing which for so many years had been such solace and joy to them during their hours of labour.

JOSEF DENYN.

(From a photograph by P. Koekkoek, Mechlin.)

The first item in the day's proceedings was the arrival of the new bell from the foundry of Van Aerschodt. This was placed on a timber frame in the Grand Place and exhibited to the public throughout the day. It has been subscribed for by the public and presented to M. Denyn to be placed in the famous carillon. It will replace a defective bell in the upper part of the instrument. The casting is a good piece of work with a well-finished exterior. On it is a medallion portrait of Josef Denyn with this dedication in Flemish: 'To the great Carillonneur Jef Denyn by an admiring public.' In the afternoon at 4.30 a carillon recital was given in honour of the occasion by the best representative players of Belgium and Holland —Messrs. Redouté (Mons), Igodt (Ypres), Steenackers (Borgerhout), Van Beers (Schaerbeek), Rolliers (Saint Nicholas), Van Zuylen (Gouda), and Nauwelaerts (Lierre). This was of the greatest interest, as it exemplified the different methods of playing. The ancient (one blow of the clapper to each note) is generally practised by the Dutch carillonneurs; the modern method (with its rapid tremolando effects for notes and chords) being almost universally adopted by the Belgian players. It is undoubtedly in the latter style that Denyn is pre-eminent. He has completely revolutionised the ancient method and greatly raised its artistic value. The older method is most successfully employed in music of a contrapuntal type, while the modern is best suited to the production of harmonic effects, crescendo and diminuendo—both in single notes and in chords—and has a much greater range of expression which the former is quite incapable of. The performance of the recitalists also testified to the very great advance made in the playing during the past ten years, and there is no doubt whatever that at the present time it is of greater artistic excellence than ever before —principally due to the playing and teaching of Josef Denyn.

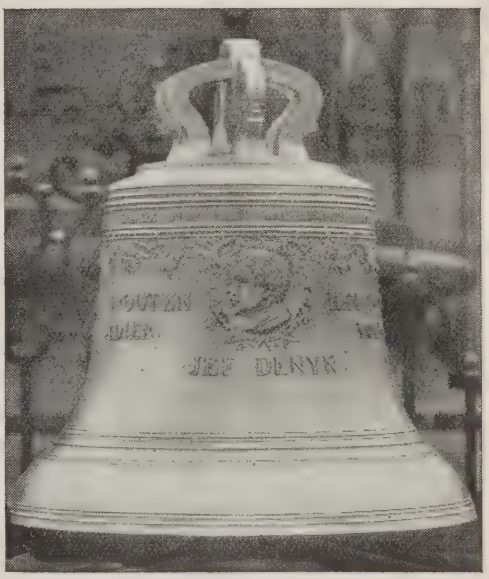
The items of the recital which deserve special mention are: 'Klein Moederken,' expressively played by F. Redouté; 'Invocation' (Mailly), by Rolliers, and Andante Cantabile (Jef Denyn), brilliantly played by Nauwelaerts. The latter is a young player of much promise. He possesses excellent technique and strong rhythmic feeling—indispensable requirements of good carillon-playing. In the evening, just before eight o'clock, as Jef Denyn approached the tower door of St. Rombaud, he must have been thrilled and inspired by the immense audience, numbering anything from 20,000 to 40,000 people, assembled to do him honour, to testify their goodwill towards him, and to show their appreciation of his genius. Punctually at eight o'clock, and immediately after the chimes had finished playing, he held his immense audience spellbound with a splendid performance of Van den Gheyn's difficult third Prelude. All through the recital he played with great expression and with reinforced power. As one would expect, the occasion seemed to inspire him to even greater things, and nothing more beautiful could be imagined than the exquisite treatment of the 18th-century melody, 'Je n'irai plus au bois,' or the real life imparted to the 16th-century dance, 'La Romanesca.' The concluding item of the programme was a Prelude composed by the recitalist, in which technique and expression of the highest order were amply displayed.

Immediately after this a procession was formed in which all the Societies of the city were represented. They marched, to the accompaniment of the ringing of the great bell and the playing of national melodies on the carillon, to the Concert Hall in Rue Mérode. This large room was soon filled to its utmost capacity.

The chair was taken by the Burgomaster, M. Dessain, who was supported by many officials, provincial and municipal. The chairman, in opening the proceedings with a few well-chosen remarks, announced amidst tumultuous applause that the King had conferred upon M. Denyn 'La Croix de Chevalier de l'Ordre de Léopold,' and then read a telegram of congratulation from the King and Queen. He pinned on M. Denyn the medal of the First Class for twenty-five years of distinguished service to his country, and presented him with another medal from the city of Mechlin



NEW BELL AT MECHLIN.
(From a photograph by De Tonghe, Mechlin.)

in commemoration of the occasion. This was followed by a vigorous and stirring speech by M. de Keyser, who made the presentation of the bell in eloquent terms. M. Peters, on behalf of the Malines-Attractions, presented the bas-relief (a striking likeness of M. Denyn) in marble, beautifully executed by the well-known sculptor Baldwin Tuerlinckx. M. Michot presented the bound 'Album d'Art,' containing many autographs, MS. writings, colour-sketches, &c., of over a hundred well-known musicians, poets, artists, composers, &c. At the conclusion of the presentations Mr. W. W. Starmer, the well-known English authority on bells and a familiar figure to Mechliners, spoke on behalf of the admirers of bell-music in foreign lands, and said:

> In the name of your many friends in other countries, and particularly England, I offer you the heartiest congratulations on this most memorable occasion. The great Handel is credited with the statement that the bell is the English national instrument, and centuries ago England was called 'the ringing isle.' We love the music of bells, but our 'change-ringing'—clever as it is—possesses none of the artistic merits of carillon-playing, of which you are a consummate master. You know to the greatest nicety the capabilities of your instrument; your artistic perception unfailingly directs you as to the best music for it; your executive skill, in which you have no equal, and other qualifications give you the highest position as an artist. Long may you live to maintain and excel in the best traditions of your art.

This speech was received with great enthusiasm. M. Denyn briefly replied in very suitable terms, and thus ended a day which will ever be memorable in the history of carillon-playing.

THE BELL-TOWER AT LOUGHBOROUGH.

On Monday, July 22, M. Denyn paid a special visit to Loughborough in order to give a recital on the new carillon recently completed by Messrs. Taylor, the well-known bell-founders. The bells (numbering 40) are placed in a tower specially erected for the purpose on their own premises. The compass of the instrument is three-and-a-half octaves (three octaves chromatic). It is the first carillon with clavier ever made by an English founder, and is probably the most accurately tuned set of bells in existence. It is the only carillon in the world tuned to equal temperament, and the very accurate tuning of the small bells is a veritable triumph over the difficulties which have been experienced by every bell-founder up to the present time.

The following programme was played to a large audience:

1 Praeludium.
2 Rondo ... ... Pleyel
3 Old Flemish Songs (16th century):
  (a) 'Merck toch hoe sterck' (historic song)
  (b) 'Ghequetst Ben ic van binnen' (love song)
  (c) ''t Halsken' (hunting song).
4 Praeludium.
5 3rd Sonata ... ...Nicolai
6 St. Romboutoklokken ... ... Alph. Rolliers
7 Old French Songs:
  (a) 'Que ne suis-je la fougère' ... Pergolesi
  (b) 'O ma tendre Musette' ... Mousigny
  (c) 'Non, je n'irai plus au bois' (18th century).
8 'Ave Maria' ... ... Schubert
9 'Het lied der vlamingen' ... ... Benoit
'God save The King.'

Occasional Notes.

The Musical League and the Incorporated Society of Musicians are co-operating to give a series of concerts at Birmingham during the annual conference of the latter body, which is to take place in that city from December 30, 1912, to January 4, 1913. It is intended to give three concerts, one of orchestral works, one of choral works, and one of chamber music, and in the choice of works preference will be given to those of British composers which have not hitherto been performed. A joint-committee, formed of members of both Societies, has been formed for the purpose of selecting the music to be performed. As to this vital part of the scheme, further particulars can be obtained on application to the Secretary of the Joint-Committee, care of the I.S.M., 19, Berners Street, London, W.

The Musical League was founded in 1908, and its announced objects are to foster the cause of music in England, and to promote the development of musical life and culture throughout the country by holding Festivals of two or three days' duration, at which the works performed shall consist partly of new compositions, both English and foreign, partly of older works of musical interest which, under present conditions, cannot be heard so frequently as their merits entitle them to be, and by making use at the Festivals of the existing musical organizations of each district and of the services of local musicians.

A very successful Festival was held at Liverpool in the autumn of 1909, but since that time circumstances have hindered the carrying out of other schemes that had almost reached fruition. The arrangements for a Festival at Hanley were almost completed, but they had to be cancelled, owing mainly to the death of a local conductor, the late Mr. Whewall. Other centres were sounded, but in each case there was some difficulty of date or the convenience of local resources. Then came the great scheme of the International Musical Congress (held in London in May last year), which absorbed the energies of the active members of the League, and which in a great measure temporarily carried out the objects of the League by giving concerts the programmes of which were formed chiefly from the works of British composers.

The intention of the I.S.M. to hold its annual New Year's Conference at Birmingham and to give a series of concerts, seemed to afford an opportunity for the League once again to launch out under favourable auspices, and under the conditions it has all along imposed upon itself of allying its operations with local resources. In the present instance the League takes no pecuniary risk beyond placing its existing funds at the disposal of the joint committee. The dates chosen are admittedly not the most suitable for ordinary concert-giving. But the disadvantages thus incurred are greatly mitigated by the fact that the members of the I.S.M. and of the League will form a considerable and appreciative audience. It may be added that no proposition to amalgamate the two Societies has been suggested, or is likely to be brought forward. It is simply that in the present situation it suits the purpose of both bodies temporarily to unite resources. The future of the League may soon have to be discussed seriously. The secretary is Mr. Norman O'Neill, 4, Pembroke Villas, Kensington, London, W.

The eighteenth annual series of Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts, given by the Queen's Hall Orchestra under Sir Henry Wood, will open on August 17, and continue every evening (except Sundays) until October 26. As usual, Mondays and Fridays will be Wagner and Beethoven nights respectively. The Symphonies of Beethoven will be played in order, the choral portion of the 'Ninth' being omitted, and on the tenth Friday the fifth Symphony will be repeated. Symphonies by Tchaikovsky, Brahms, Mozart, and others will be heard on Wednesdays. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays will be 'popular' nights in the modern Promenade sense of the term—that is, the programmes will consist of high-class and not-too-serious works. Every evening two, three, or more soloists—the great majority of them British—will appear. From October 1 to 4, when Sir Henry Wood's duties call him to the Birmingham Festival, Dr. George Henschel will be the conductor.

The list of novelties is the most interesting and important that the Promenades have given us for some years. The new British works in the list are the following :

Musical Pictures, Group III.	J. H. Foulds
Elegy for organ, strings, and drums	A. M. Hale
Concert-piece for organ and orchestra	B. J. Dale
Suite, 'The Sea'	Frank Bridge
Suite from the Fairy-play 'Where the rainbow ends'	Roger Quilter
Violin concerto	S. Coleridge-Taylor
'Celtic Sketches'	E. L. Bainton
Variations on 'Down among the dead men'	Julius Harrison
Three English Dances	Algernon Ashton

An arrangement by Mr. Norman O'Neill of three 18th-century dances by Fiocco will also be performed for the first time. The following works by foreign composers will be introduced to England :

Piedmontese Suite	Sinigaglia
Concerto for pianoforte, violin, violoncello, and orchestra	Paul Juon
Roumanian Rhapsody No. 2, in D	Enesco
Vorspiel and Serenade	Korngold
Five orchestral pieces	Schönberg
Hungarian Overture	Korbay
Intermezzi Goldiani, for strings	Enrico Bossi
Eight German dances	Mozart-Steinbach
Nocturne for orchestra	Poldowski
Symphony No. 3, in E major, for orchestra and organ	Weingartner
Entr'acte from 'Der Schneemann'	Korngold

We look forward to hearing the works of Korngold with great interest, and those of Schönberg with some trepidation. We had hoped to become acquainted with some music by the sensationally-discovered Parisian composer Fanelli, but doubtless Sir Henry has good reason for passing him over.

Besides the actual novelties, there are many works in the list that are neither new nor familiar, and well deserve a hearing. Such are Hamilton Harty's 'Comedy Overture,' Ravel's 'Mother Goose' Suite, Mackenzie's 'Scottish' Pianoforte concerto and 'Twelfth Night' Overture, Strauss's 'Macbeth,' the Prelude to Act III. of 'Parsifal,' Bantock's 'Sappho' Prelude, the love-scene from Strauss's 'Feuersnot.' The most notable omissions from the list are Tchaikovsky's fourth Symphony and B flat minor Pianoforte concerto, Max Bruch's G minor Violin concerto, Schumann's Pianoforte concerto in A minor, the Symphonies and Violin concerto of Elgar, Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony, Beethoven's fourth Pianoforte concerto, Brahms's Violin concerto and first and fourth Symphonies.

The statistical analysis of the programmes that we gave last year was extensively quoted, and we feel that the world expects us to repeat the process. The items already chosen number 648. The name of Wagner appears 109 times ; Beethoven, thirty-nine ; Mozart, twenty-eight ; Tchaikovsky, twenty-six ; Saint-Saëns, eighteen ; Bach, sixteen ; Brahms and Liszt, fourteen ; Weber, thirteen ; Elgar, Mendelssohn, Berlioz, and Dvorák, twelve ; Handel, ten. These fourteen composers contribute over half the music in the programmes. British music supplies eighty items, or 12.34 per cent. Last year the percentage was 12.4.

The alleged failure of this year's concert-season in London has been the subject of doleful and pessimistic articles in the Metropolitan Press. We are disposed to deny that the case is nearly so bad as it is represented to be by weary critics, and we trust our country cousins will not assume that music in London is going to the dogs. What are the data upon which the lugubrious opinions expressed are founded? Apparently an impression derived from the bitter complaints of performers and an observation that audiences at numerous concerts have been small. But is this a fair generalisation? The question is really a statistical one, and in order to arrive at a rational conclusion we need to know how many concerts have been given and the total number of the audiences during the recent season, along with the same particulars regarding former seasons. To tot-up the number of perfectly futile recitals given at numerous small concert halls, and the audiences that are persuaded to attend, and to leave out of the calculation, say, the Royal Albert Hall and the Handel Festival, is to mislead. We are glad to hear on unimpeachable authority that the season of the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society has been financially one of the best ever experienced. And what happens at that enormous auditorium when Tetrazzini or Clara Butt performs ! The audiences then, as at the Handel Festival, have to be counted imperially by thousands. We admit the failure of many concerts, but this arises from the fact that there never has and never will be enough of the musical public to go round, when the supply is so much in excess of the natural and, on the whole, fairly satisfactory demand.

A daily contemporary recently published some statistics of concert-giving in Berlin. It appears that 1,214 concerts took place during the season 1911-12. With thankfulness we admit that London cannot vie with such a record, but its score is by no means meagre. Our own columns have put on record nearly 750 concerts that have taken place in central London since August, 1911, nearly all at the Albert, Queen's, Bechstein, Æolian, or Steinway Halls. The list is not exhaustive, as many concerts of a kind that seems to be included in the Berlin list (such as organ recitals and small choral concerts) do not come under our notice. In one particular we can boast that we leave Berlin well in the rear, for we have had far more than twelve violoncello recitals! Vienna, with only 431 concerts to its credit, is a poor third (failing Parisian statistics) to Berlin and London.

The Athenæum says: 'In the new "Bach-Jahrbuch," published by Dr. Werner Wolffheim of Berlin, interesting details are given of an unpublished Bach cantata, "Mein Herze schwimmt in Blut," for soprano solo, oboe, two violins, viola, and continuo. Reference was made to it in the year 1790 in the "Verzeichnis" of the library of Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach, and even earlier in Bernhard Christoph Breitkopf & Söhne's catalogue of musical works issued in 1770. The cantata, written in 1714, will shortly be published. Hitherto only three Bach cantatas for solo soprano have been known.'

It is often our grateful task to record the performance at some Continental centre of an important work by a British composer. We are now glad to state that the management of the Berlin Opera have decided to produce 'King Harlequin,' an opera by Mr. G. H. Clutsam, on September 7. Unless it falls considerably short of the standard of Mr. Clutsam's 'A summer night,' which Mr. Beecham produced at His Majesty's Theatre, the new opera should achieve a decided success. We look forward to hearing it in London before long.

An inquiry to which we give willing assistance is being made as to the whereabouts of the score of the late Mr. Learmonth Drysdale's comic-opera 'The Oracle.' If the score were found, there is reason to believe that the opera, of which only portions are now available, would be produced shortly. It is requested that papers in South Africa should make it known that the score is urgently needed, as it is considered possible that Mr. Drysdale took his manuscript to that country on his recent visit. Any information discovered should be communicated to Miss J. C. Drysdale, Braid Crescent, Edinburgh.

A wide circle of friends will join in congratulating Mr. Cecil Sharp on his being granted a Civil List pension of £100 per annum, in recognition of his laborious services in collecting folk-songs and other folk music.

HANDEL IN ENGLAND AND ABROAD.

By H. Davey.

In the 'seventies public attention was occupied by the angry Wagnerian controversy, and in another direction by the introduction of Bach's choral works, and it seemed that Handel was losing his supremacy in England.

It may be argued that the change was only on the surface, that the great public was just as devoted as ever to the old favourite; but among those who direct public opinion and are its recognised utterances the change was undeniable and extreme. The cry about Handel's plagiarisms, of his unblushing robberies from Erba's Magnificat and Urio's Te Deum and other works, has been by no means without influence on the popularity of Handel. Here, however, comes in Mr. P. Robinson's plea that 'Erba' and 'Urio' are the names of villages on Lake Como, where Handel was staying when he composed the works which have passed for compositions of men named Erba and Urio.

Hitherto it had been commonly supposed in this country that Handel was a peculiarly English composer whom no other nation appreciated. Here are some words of the unreasoning Handel-worshipper Rockstro, discussing Handel's mature style, as first shown in the Utrecht Te Deum and Jubilate:—'Except in England, this new Style has nowhere been thoroughly appreciated. In France and Italy it is, and always has been, utterly unknown. To the great mass of the German people it has absolutely nothing to say. Where sympathy with the genius of Bach has produced its richest fruit, reverence for that of Handel has invariably failed to take firm root. . . . Handel is ours; and we alone know how to value him.'

This was written a generation back; but it was greatly exaggerated even then. If written now, it would be laughably inaccurate. Still, most English musicians would have imagined, and would still imagine, the facts were correctly stated: that Handel's music is peculiarly English, unknown or despised elsewhere. Mr. H. H. Statham went further still; he actually signed his name to an article in the Nineteenth Century for June, 1900, which contained the amazing passage:—'In Germany Handel is an almost unknown quantity. . . . The Germans it is true care as little nowadays for Bach as for Handel, regarding both alike as rococo.'

Now in that same year (1900) there were German performances, in Chrysander's versions alone, of 'Messiah' (10), 'Israel' (2), 'Judas' (7), 'Deborah' and 'Saul' (3), and 'Acis' (2). And these were only those in the Chrysander arrangements,* and are very far from a complete list. Handel performances are continual in Germany; and he is more thoroughly known there than among ourselves. The least-known of his oratorios, 'Joseph,' was given to commemorate his birthday at his native town a year or two back; it has since been given repeatedly elsewhere. 'Susanna,' another of his neglected masterpieces, has also been lately given in Germany. Nearly every other oratorio, from 'Esther' to 'Jephtha,' is performed there, besides the Odes and other secular works; while the Concerti Grossi are regular features of the orchestral repertory, and especially at Leipsic, where Handel is enthusiastically cultivated. At a recent performance of two 'Concerti Grossi' in the great Alberthalle there, three harpsichords were used with the orchestra; the effect is said to have been splendid.

Except in regard to Paris, I know but little concerning French doings; and it is not easy to get full particulars, even of Paris. But the Société G. F. Haendel is working well. Last year it gave 'Saul' and 'Alexander's Feast,' and in April and May 1910, a whole series of 'Messiah' performances on a large scale. O thou Londoner, concert-goer, Handel-lover, when didst thou last hear 'Saul'?

The same Society announced 'Judas Maccabæus' in May last. 'Messiah' is given every Christmas at the Church of the Sorbonne. At a Conservatoire concert in April, the programme consisted of one of Handel's Organ concertos, a Bach Violin concerto, and new native works; such a programme would hardly be relished at the Philharmonic Concerts in London, I fancy. For the very day after that concert, in the same hall, Lilli Lehmann announced a recital with airs from Handel's 'Radamisto,' 'Partenope,' 'Semele' and 'Joshua.' Thus, though Handel's music is less popular in France than Bach's, it is far from unknown there. And there have been grand performances of both Bach and Handel in Italy.

* There are at least four other German performing-versions of 'Messiah.'

Contrast these facts with Mr. Surette's assertion that Handel sounds 'daily more thin and archaic'; or with Dr. Walker's 'the old idol, hurled down somewhat indignantly from the impossible position that he formerly occupied, is in some danger of being relegated to the rubbish-heap.' Some little truth there is in Dr. Walker's exaggerations, but as regards England only. Elsewhere Handel is, if not increasing in public estimation, continually becoming more widely disseminated. The restriction of our own repertory to a few of Handel's works regularly repeated, caused satiety. 'Such musical circles as artistically count for anything,' to use a phrase of Dr. Walker's—we know what he means—were content to let what little they knew of Handel stand for the whole, and have not cared even to look at the rest—at the matchless Chandos Anthems, for instance; the divinely-beautiful airs in 'Susanna'; the massive choruses in 'Athalia' and 'Belshazzar'; the orchestral experiments in 'Alexander Balus'; the picturesque contrasts in 'L'Allegro' and the two Odes; least of all at the long series of operas and chamber cantatas, with their dozens, dozens, dozens of the most perfect songs ever composed. It has been thought by 'such musical circles as artistically count for anything' quite necessary to study Bach's Church cantatas, but a waste of time to read a Chandos Anthem. Probably the setting of 'Vouchsafe, O Lord' in Handel's short Te Deum in A, a piece which Rockstro truly calls 'of almost unexampled beauty,' would not be recognised if performed without the composer's name at any English concert; the setting in the Dettingen Te Deum has been repeatedly announced in London with Latin words, probably on the authority of a German edition! Since the popularization of 'Ombra mai fu' as Handel's 'Largo,' more attention has been drawn to the opera airs; but even now a very few are generally known. How many English musicians have ever heard the two airs Handel thought his best, 'Cara sposa' in 'Rinaldo,' and 'Ombra cara' in 'Radamisto'?

Possibly if our public realises that Handel is not an exclusively English possession, that he is estimated more highly abroad than here, there will be a return towards 'the faith of our fathers.'

The belief of many in the 'circles which artistically count for anything' is that everything musical among ourselves is bad. They should hear an average operatic performance in Germany or Italy! As regards oratorios, they may be recommended to read the address given recently at Berlin by Dr. Schering (see the Zeitschrift of the I.M.G. for March, p. 213). The learned authority discussed Oratorio, pointing out that all æsthetics of oratorio must be founded upon Handel. The conclusion of the report is worth translating:

'Finally, the oratorio of the 19th century was briefly surveyed, which is full of stilistic restlessness; and besides F. Schneider, C. Loewe, and B. Klein [? Spohr], specially Mendelssohn was recognised, whose enormous influence was founded not only upon his musical gifts, but also still more in his instinct for oratorio reminding of Handel; the survey closed with a glance at the productions of Liszt and the doings of other countries, especially of the English masters, Mackenzie, Parry, Stanford [? Elgar]. Recent German oratorio lacks living force, because the inner sympathy with the species is gone, and we no longer feel "oratorically." Here the poet will be the path-finder, and perhaps England will bring forth the oratorio of the future; from historical investigation, Schering is convinced that the vitality of oratorio production is by no means exhausted.'

This is highly important; above all, the suggestion that the poet must lead the way. So it was when Pope wrote for Handel the text-book of the first concert-oratorio; and so it was when the poetasters of Hamburg wrote rhyming passages for interspersion in the liturgical recitation of the Passion, and even complete poems without Biblical text, which soon led up to the Passion-oratorios of Bach.

THE BEST MEANS OF TRAINING THE TENOR VOICE.

By E. Davidson Palmer.

What are the best means to be employed in the training and development of the tenor voice? This is a question which perplexes the minds not only of many students of singing, but also of many earnest and conscientious teachers of the art. For it has of late years become somewhat widely recognised that modern methods of training, which are commonly supposed to be scientifically unimpeachable, and which seem to be fairly successful with voices in general, or, at any rate, with women's and boys' voices, are by no means safe guides where the tenor voice is concerned. Instances in which their employment, even by skilful teachers, has been attended with injurious, and even disastrous consequences to voices of this class, are so frequently to be met with that, however attractive and plausible they may appear theoretically from the physiological standpoint, their practical inapplicability in this particular direction may be regarded as sufficiently demonstrated.

The tenor voice is usually found on examination to be divided more or less distinctly into two portions or registers, as they are technically termed. According to the orthodox teachings of the day these two registers exist in every case, though they are not always discoverable, and the point at which the 'break' or change of production should be made is said to be fixed by nature, not only for the tenor but for all voices alike, between  and These notes, of course, represent the actual pitch, and in music written for tenors in the treble clef would appear an octave higher.

The ordinary practice, in accordance with this theory, is to begin the training with the lower or chest register, which, as comprising the greater part of the compass, is regarded as the more important. When it is thought that sufficient time has been given to the exercise of this register alone, attention is directed to the upper register, which is also exercised independently for a time, within the limits assigned to it. Afterwards the pupil is taught to practise exercising the voice backwards and forwards across the 'break,' the object being to lessen the prominence of this 'break,' and to equalise and unite the registers, an object which, it may be added, is by these means never attained. If the upper register was thin and weak originally, as it often is, it remains thin and weak still. If at the commencement of training the 'break' is prominent and troublesome, it is found to be no less so at the close.

This being so, it is perhaps not much to be wondered at that some teachers refuse to believe this upper register to be of any practical value to the tenor. When it is found clearly distinguishable from the lower register they look upon it as something unnatural. Otherwise they regard it as non-existent. Hence they train only the chest-voice, which they teach the pupil to carry upwards as far as it will go. In some cases it is quite possible, though not at all probable, that this method may prove successful, namely, in those already alluded to in which no change of production is discernible throughout the whole compass of the voice. But in the vast majority it must always be productive of serious injury, while in those cases where the two registers are at all clearly defined it is, if vigorously carried out for any considerable length of time, absolutely destructive of all ease of production and all beauty of tone.

Here and there teachers are to be found who, in training the tenor voice, adopt a method which, though not without inconsistencies and drawbacks, has certainly a good deal to recommend it. In those voices in which the upper register is found to be in fairly good condition and not too markedly different in quality from the lower, they regard this register for training purposes as the more important of the two, and, under the name of head-voice, make a much freer use of it than modern theory affirms to be either permissible or practicable, taking it down as far as or But it is only when this register is in good condition that they treat it in this way. When it is weak and thin they mistake its true character, call it falsetto, regard it as something unnatural, and forbid its use entirely. Another kind of voice is then made to take its place. This is sometimes called mixed-voice, as it seems to possess something of the qualities both of the lower and of the upper registers ; but by the teachers I am referring to it is termed head-voice, since they assume it to be, for the voices in which they employ it, the genuine and legitimate upper register. In reality it is nothing more or less than an extension in a modified form of the lower or chest register, the change of quality being brought about by a sudden and extreme elevation of the soft palate, which subdues and sweetens the tone, while at the same time it considerably relieves the strain which always attends the production of this register at a high pitch.

In spite of its inconsistencies the method of training just described may sometimes prove, as indeed it certainly has proved, successful in a marked degree ; but the voices likely to reap much benefit from it are only those which are in really good condition to begin with. Its success with such voices is due simply to the great use which is made of the upper or head register. If the same use were made of this register in every case, no matter what its condition might be, the success of the method would be much more frequent. As it is, the instances in which it is completely successful are somewhat rare, while its failures are necessarily numerous.

The true principle, however, is here plainly discernible, though only partially and imperfectly carried out. That principle lies in the recognition of the supreme importance, for training purposes, of the upper or head register, which term must be understood to mean that kind of voice into which the chest register breaks when forced upwards to its extreme limit. This register must on no account be regarded as of merely equal value with, much less as subordinate to, the chest register, but must always be treated as the one essential factor in the development and perfecting of the voice. It should be carried downwards, not to any definitely fixed point, but as far as it will go. With the exception of a few of the highest notes, which are better omitted, it should be exercised vigorously and persistently throughout its whole extent, the chest register being either rested entirely while the development process is going on, or at most employed only for a few notes in the lower part of its compass. The result of this treatment, if persevered with for a reasonable length of time, and provided the voice subjected to it be at the outset in moderately good condition, is that the break gradually disappears, and the voice acquires throughout its whole compass all that robustness of tone associated with the term 'chest-voice,' while the more or less painful effort which commonly characterises the production of the upper notes of that voice is altogether absent.

This then is the way in which the tenor voice ought to be trained. Not only is it the best but it is the only safe way. By these means, and by no other, is it possible to guard against the injury to which the tenor voice is peculiarly liable, and to ensure that perfect ease of production which, along with the purity and beauty of tone which are its natural concomitant, gives the voice its true musical value, and should ever be the primary object of its training.

THE BACH FESTIVAL AT BRESLAU.

The sixth of the movable Festivals held by the Neue Bachgesellschaft took place at Breslau on June 15-17. The Silesian capital possesses a very fine concert-hall, where three concerts were given ; a Festival service and a sacred concert were also given in the spacious Lutherkirche, where, as in all new German churches, attention has been specially paid to the accommodation for musical performances. The first programme began with the cantata 'Ein' feste Burg' (A Stronghold Sure), No. 80 of the Complete Edition, and included also Cantatas No. 176, 'Es ist ein trotzig,' and No. 19, 'Es erhub sich ein Streit,' the 'Brandenburg' concerto with solo violin and flutes, and the D minor Pianoforte concerto. The sacred concert opened with the Organ prelude and fugue in F minor ; followed by Cantatas No. 103, 'Ihr werdet weinen und heulen'; No. 56, 'Ich will den Kreutzstab gerne tragen' (bass solo) ; and No. 161, 'Komm du süsse Todesstunde.' A most impressive Motet, 'Unser Leben ist ein Schatten,' which has been published as a composition of J. Michael Bach's, but is more probably by Johann Bach, of Erfurt, was sung unaccompanied ; and two choruses by Heinrich Schutz, 'Woman, why weepest thou?' and 'Saul, why persecutest thou Me?' proved most interesting. Sir Hubert Parry has discussed them in the 'Oxford History of Music.' The miscellaneous concerts were specially enjoyable. The enforced absence of the gambist caused the omission of some early French solos ; a Suite by Rameau for harpsichord, flute, and gamba was given with the help of the violoncello, which does not exactly reproduce the effect. The tuneful duet from the cantata 'Jesu der du meine Seele,' and the bass solo in 'Liebster Gott, wann werd ich sterben' (When will God recall my spirit) were sung with the original accompaniment for basso continuo. Three Preludes and Fugues from the 'Forty-eight' and the Concerto in C major for two harpsichords showed the powers of the older instrument, while the modern pianoforte was used for the Sonata in A with violin. At the last concert the programme was entirely secular, except for the Kyrie from the 'Short Mass' in G major—a singular choice. An orchestral Suite in D major, probably new to all listeners, proved quite as tuneful and as popular as the well-known Suite in the same key which contains the 'Air.' The audience was put into the best humour ; and the greatest enthusiasm of the Festival was aroused by the next number, the F minor Concerto for harpsichord ; after several recalls Madame Landowska added the first Prelude of the 'Forty-eight.' Then came a glorious conclusion to the Festival—the cantata, 'Æolus appeased.' The poor libretto of this cantata was written by Picander, and describes the Winds destroying everything at the command of Æolus, who delights in the ruin and refuses all entreaties for mercy till he is told the day is the birthday of Professor August Müller! At the mention of this revered name Æolus relents, commands the Winds back to their caves, and everybody joins in a glorification of the Professor.

The Church service is always a very special feature of these Festivals; in many ways it was the most important function, as care was taken to reproduce the service of Bach's own day. A Toccata and Motet by Pachelbel began. All the portions in liturgical plain-chant were taken from the Leipsic setting of Vopelius (1683). The 'Kyrie eleison' was from Hasler's Mass, 'Quem in cælo.' The Cantata was Bach's 'Give to the hungry man' (No. 39). Besides the usual 'Allein Gott in der Höh sei Ehr' (sung after the celebrant has intoned the 'Gloria in excelsis'), the congregation sang 'Nun preiset alle Gottes Barmherzigkeit,' the metrical creed 'Wir glauben all,' 'Nun danket alle Gott' (with brass instruments), and 'Gott sei uns gnädig' from Schein's Cantional. The sermon, suitable to the occasion, recalled the memory of Mosevius, music-director at Breslau, and a distinguished pioneer in the cult of Bach's music. It was followed by a setting by Bach of 'Herr Gott, dich loben wir.' Two bars were sung by the choir with a quartet of brass, then two bars by the congregation with the organ; this alternation was repeated four times till the whole force joined in 'Heilig ist unser Gott, der Herre Zebaoth! Amen.' The effect was most imposing. This service, as published in the Programmbuch of the Festival, should be studied by lovers of Bach; English critics, even those best qualified to judge Bach's concert-music, have too often shown themselves ignorant of the Lutheran liturgy and hymns, and of the particular Leipsic Uses.

The attendances were always immense, even standing-room being difficult to obtain. But there was not the enthusiasm—Weihe best describes it—which reigned during the preceding Festival at Duisburg, a smaller town which wished to make its musical reputation.

The Breslau audiences were generally quite stolid; Professor Schumann in the Pianoforte concerto, and Madame Landowska at the harpsichord, alone seemed able to rouse them to enthusiasm. The choir and orchestra were almost always deserving of every praise. Among the soloists Herr Meschaert (bass) was the most successful, the others having been heard to greater advantage elsewhere. When it is remembered that some of the choruses were among the most difficult of all, the highest credit must be accorded to the conductor, Professor Dohrn; the runs in 'Es erhub sich' and the chromatic intervals in 'Ihr werdet weinen' are trying tasks for any choir. Sometimes, however, the voices overpowered the orchestra, notably in the concluding chorale of Cantata No. 161, where the counterpoint for flutes was inaudible.

The banquet was presided over by Prince Friedrich Wilhelm (a cousin of the Kaiser), the 'Protector' of the Neue Bachgesellschaft. Among those present were the Rev. Mr. Hoskyns (Sunderland) and Mr. J. Michael Diack (conductor of the Glasgow Bach Choir). Several cities had sent invitations for the next Festival, in 1914; Vienna was chosen.

H. Davey.

Dr. Vaughan Williams has completed the Phantasy for two violins, two violas, and violoncello, commissioned by the Musicians' Company ('Cobbett' Series, No. 11).

LONDON OPERA HOUSE.

By Hermann Klein.

Wanted—a policy! Looking back at what Mr. Hammerstein has done, and guessing at what he still threatens to do, the main impression one receives is that he has no definite, workable plan of campaign. His intentions are excellent, as all are agreed, but he does not know his own mind. His fighting instincts are so strong that he cannot refrain from challenging Covent Garden on its own ground. With or without the right artists, with or without the right répertoire, he persists in putting forward 'grand opera' in Italian or French at high prices, only to discover in his second season, as he did in his first, that the public will have none of it. That may be policy of a kind; but it is not sound business policy, especially when the impresario has to confess himself beaten and again to fall back, at cheap prices, upon operas and singers and methods that have found no place in his original design. He may scoff at the indifference and dulness of London opera-goers, but he must at least admit that, with all his experience and acumen, he has failed to discover exactly what they want or to offer them something worth having that they cannot obtain elsewhere.

He is possibly on the verge of making the discovery. Mr. Hammerstein is going to attempt a third season in November. In June he did not know this; for he then informed the writer that he had had enough of London and intended returning to New York for good as soon as he could get away. He subsequently changed his mind, just in time, apparently, to inform the audience on the last night of the season (July 13) that he was going to try again here next winter. That altered determination bespoke, in Mr. Hammerstein's case, an underlying cause—promise of better support, an improved outlook from some view-point or other. The question that really interests, however, is whether this third effort involves or contains a more settled policy. Does it imply that Mr. Hammerstein has at last bowed to the inevitable and come to the conclusion that his only chance of genuine and lasting success in the British metropolis is to give opera in the language and consequently in the manner 'understanded of the people'?

Seriously, I consider opera in English not merely his best, but his only, chance. The solitary experiment of the 'Children of Don' was of course not a true criterion of success, either for Mr. Josef Holbrooke's work—i.e., the peculiar trend of his operatic genius—or the taste of a still uneducated public in this particular direction. The cause is not to be won by a hurried production of exotic compositions, interpreted without the smallest sense of ensemble by artists unknown to each other, trained by foreigners unacquainted with the laws of English diction, and uttering a text that could not be comprehended even if it could be heard. If opera in English is to have a fair trial, it must be under conditions that are fair in every sense. The works, whether old or new, must be such as the public can listen to with pleasure. The same may be said of the singers' voices and of the lines they are called upon to deliver either vocally or in spoken dialogue. The bad old translations must go by the board and the new ones must be first-rate. The enunciation of every word must be clear, refined, accurate, and free from dialect or provincialism. In sum, the English must be as good as is the French at the Opéra-Comique or the German at the Hofoper. With all this there must be conducting and artistic direction in complete sympathy with English-speaking artists and the English language. A representative répertoire and adequate time for stage and scenic rehearsals will do the rest.

But since the above lines were written Mr. Hammerstein has once more changed his mind. He said in an interview on July 22: 'Although the prospects are brilliant, I cannot say I will go on. . . . If I were in a better financial position I would certainly go on unaided, but candidly I see no hope of being able to carry on this scheme of opera for London without the co-operation of others.' Such is the situation for the moment. In a couple of months' time we shall know more.

Church and Organ Music.

THE NEW ORGAN AT THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The new organ in the Concert Hall, the specification of which was prepared by Dr. H. W. Richards in conjunction with Messrs. Norman & Beard, Limited, is the gift of Mrs. Thomas Threlfall, whose husband was for many years Chairman of the Committee of Management. The formal opening of the Hall, which took place on June 22, was described in our last issue. The front is shown in the picture of the interior of the Concert Hall, given on page 531. The specification of the instrument is as follows:

GREAT ORGAN. CC to C (61 notes).

	Feet		Feet
1. Double diapason, wood-metal	16	5. Corno flute, metal	8
2. Open diapason, metal	8	6. Principal, metal	4
3. Open diapason, metal	8	7. Harmonic flute, metal	4
4. Claribel flute, wood	8	8. Fifteenth, metal	2
		9. Tromba, metal	8

SWELL ORGAN. CC to C (61 notes).

10. Lieblich bourdon, wood	16	16. Dulciana mixture, metal, three ranks.
11. Open diapason, wood-metal	8	17. Contra fagotto, metal	16
12. Rohr flöte, wood-metal	8	18. Cornopean, metal	8
13. Salicional, metal	8	19. Hautboy, metal	8
14. Vox angelica, metal	8	20. Tremulant.
15. Gemshorn, metal	4

CHOIR ORGAN. CC to C (61 notes).

Enclosed in Separate Swell-Box.

21. Gamba, metal	8	24. Flauto Traverso, metal	4
22. Hohl Flöte, wood	8	25. Harmonic Piccolo, metal	2
23. Dulciana, metal	8	26. Corno di Bassetto, metal	8

PEDAL ORGAN. CCC to G (32 notes).

27. Open Diapason, wood	16	30. Octave, wood	8
28. Violone, metal	16	31. Bass Flute, wood	8
29. Bourdon, wood	16	32. Ophicleide, metal	16

COUPLERS.

33. Swell Octave (pneumatic)	37. Swell to Pedal (mechanical)
34. Swell Sub-Octave (pneumatic)	38. Great to Pedal (mechanical)
35. Swell to Great (pneumatic)	39. Choir to Pedal (mechanical)
36. Swell to Choir (pneumatic)

ACCESSORIES.

4 pistons to Great Organ.
4 pistons to Swell Organ.
4 pistons to Choir Organ.
1 reversible pedal for Great to Pedal Coupler.
1 reversible piston for Great to Pedal Coupler.
4 composition pedals to Pedal Organ.
4 composition pedals to Swell Organ.
1 stop to connect Pedal Compositions and Great Pistons.
Balanced Swell Pedals.

In addition to the above, Messrs. Norman & Beard, Limited, have built two new practice organs, the console arrangements of which are identical with those of the Concert Hall organ. The wind supply for the three instruments is supplied from one source, consisting of two 'Discus' blowers, which are actuated by a 6-b.h.p. motor.

THE WINCHESTER CELEBRATIONS.

The Thanksgiving services held at Winchester on July 13 to 21, to celebrate the successful completion of the work of restoring the yielding foundations of the Cathedral—an event that is likely in itself to become historical—had features of historical interest, especially to the musician. As far as was possible the music was chosen from the works of composers who had at some time been connected with the Cathedral. Psalms and Anthems by Gibbons, Wesley, Gladstone, Garrett, and Arnold were sung, and the compositions of Dr. W. Prendergast, who now so ably fulfils the duties of organist, were a prominent feature. On Monday, July 15, when their Majesties The King and Queen attended the service, his new anthem, 'O how amiable are Thy dwellings,' specially written for the occasion, was performed. The musical administration of the services was throughout on the high level associated with the Cathedral and worthy of an event of national importance.

On July 11, at Lambeth Palace, his Grace The Archbishop of Canterbury conferred the degree of Doctor of Music, Honoris Causa, on Mr. Percival Illsley, Mus. B., of Montreal, Canada. Mr. Illsley has been organist and choirmaster of St. George's Church, Montreal, for upwards of a quarter of a century, and has done excellent service in the cause of music generally in Canada. The petitioners were the Archbishop of Ottawa; the Bishops of Montreal, Ontario, Toronto, Huron, Algoma, and Fredericton; and Dr. Albert Ham, F.R.C.O., organist and choirmaster of St. James's Cathedral, Toronto, and President of the Canadian Guild of Organists, who presented Mr. Illsley for the degree.

The new organ in the Convocation Hall, Toronto University, was formally opened on June 6 with a recital by Mr. F. A. Mouré. His programme included the Sonata in B flat (Op. 46) of Aloys Claussman, and Bach's Prelude and Fugue in C major. The organ, which was built by Messrs. Casavant Frères, St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, has four manuals, seventy-six speaking stops, thirty-two couplers, and twenty pistons.

The twenty-second Triennial Choral Festival of the Lichfield Diocesan Choral Association, which was founded in 1856, and was the first organization of the kind, took place on June 20. The Cathedral organist, Mr. J. B. Lott, conducted the combined choir of 800, drawn from the choir of the Cathedral and over twenty churches in the Diocese. As usual, two services were held.

On the same day, the Triennial Diocesan Festival was held at Norwich, under the direction of Dr. Bates. Over thirty churches contributed to a choir of 1,000 voices. The musical works in the service included Wesley's 'God and Father,' and Schubert's 'Song of Miriam.'

In connection with the patronal Festival held at Brighton Parish Church on June 23-30, a Service of Praise was held on June 27, when Mendelssohn's 'As the hart pants' and Mozart's 'O God, when Thou appearest' were performed under Mr. Chastey Hector, organist and choirmaster of the church. Orchestral numbers were given by the Brighton Municipal Orchestra under the direction of Mr. A. Lyell-Tayler.

The annual Diocesan Choral Festival was held in St. Iberius' Church, Wexford, on June 29. The massed choirs, from all parts of the diocese of Ferns, consisted of 250 voices, and were under the direction of Mr. Edward Challans, organist and choirmaster of St. Mary's Church, Enniscorthy. Mr. Clough, organist of Wexford Church, presided at the organ. The anthems sung included Woodward's 'The sun shall be no more thy light by day,' and Kent's 'Thine, O Lord, is the greatness.'

In a few months Mr. W. W. Starmer, the well-known campanologist, will have completed the twenty-fifth year of his choirmastership of St. Mark's Church, Broadwater Down, Tunbridge Wells. The completion of this period of service was marked by a novel outing of the choir and Mr. Starmer during July. They all went to Lucerne for eight days. On previous occasions they have visited Paris, Brussels, and Edinburgh.

ORGAN RECITALS.

While the post of City Organist at Liverpool remains vacant particulars interest attaches to the recitals given at St. George's Hall from time to time. On July 10, Miss Lilian Frost, the only lady who has played on this organ, gave a recital with Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E minor in the programme. Mr. Edwin H. Lemare paid a visit on July 4, and played, among other works, Mendelssohn's first Sonata. Recitals have also been given on the organ by Mr. W. A. Roberts, who played Dr. Basil Harwood's 'Dithyramb'; Mr. I. H. Stammers (John Stanley's Organ concerto in D minor), and Mr. Westlake Morgan (Homer N. Bartlett's Suite for the organ).

Mr. Paul Rochard, St. John's Church, Leicester—Sonata in D minor, No. 1, Guilmant.

Mr. A. H. Edwards, St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich—Prelude and Fugue in C minor, Bach.

Mr. George Tootell, St. James's Church, Whitehaven—Prelude and Fugue in D major, Bach.

Mr. T. W. Hanforth, Heath Parish Church (dedication of the new organ)—Toccata and Fugue in C major, Bach.

Mr. Chastey Hector, Parish Church, Brighton—Organ concerto No. 2, in B flat, Handel.

Mr. F. A. Keene, Church of St. Mary, Sandringham—Sonata No. 1, in F minor, Mendelssohn.

Mr. F. Walton, Church of St. John the Baptist, Kidmore End, Oxford—Grand Chœur in A, Salomé.

Mr. Herbert Hodge, St. Nicholas Cole Abbey—Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach.

Mr. Frank H. Mather, Grace Church, Rutherford, New Jersey—Prelude and Fugue in C major, Bach.

Mr. W. Ellis, Parish Church, Richmond, Yorks—Sonata in A minor, Borowski.

Mr. Albert Orton, Walton Parish Church, Liverpool—Fantasia and Fugue in A minor, Merkel.

Mr. Fred Gostelow, East Hyde Church—Scherzo Symphonique, Guilmant.

Mr. Percy E. Medley, Commemoration Church, Grahamstown, South Africa—Funeral March and Hymn of Seraphs, Guilmant.

Mr. R. Hetherington, Union Church, Valparaiso—Funeral March and Hymn of Seraphs, Guilmant.

Mr. Wilfred Arlom, Town Hall, Adelaide, Australia—Toccata in D minor, Bach.

Dr. Arthur Pollitt, St. Mary's Church, Hardman Street, Liverpool—Fantasy, Harvey Grace.

Mr. C. H. Moody, Ely Cathedral—Præambulum Festivum, Karg-Elert.

Mr. John Pullein, All Saints' Church, Pickhill—Two choral preludes, Karg-Elert.

Mr. C. E. Blyton Dobson, Central Mission, Nottingham—Fugue in G minor, Bach.

Dr. A. W. Pollitt, St. Mary-the-Virgin—Sonata in C minor, Pollitt.

Dr. G. H. Smith, Sculcoates Parish Church, Hull—Adagio in E, Merkel.

Mr. W. Wilson Foster, St. Nicholas, Whitehaven—Concert fantasia on 'Hanover,' Lemare.

Mr. John E. West, on the private organ of F. S. Wykes, Esq., The Mount, Limpsfield, Surrey—Adagio and Finale, Sonata in F sharp, Rheinberger.

Mr. Edward Challans, St. Mary's Church, Enniscorthy—Fantasia in D minor, Starmer.

APPOINTMENT.

Mr. A. W. Fletcher, organist and choirmaster, Belgrave Church, Torquay (in succession to Dr. Orlando Mansfield). Mr. Fletcher, the father of the well-known composer, Mr. Percy E. Fletcher, has been for eight years organist of the Bagshot Church, Adelaide, Australia.

The Barclay's Bank Musical Society (male voices) dined at the Royal Adelaide Gallery (Gatti's), on July 9, to celebrate their winning of a prize at the recent Paris competition, and to make a presentation, consisting of a substantial cheque, to their very able conductor, Mr. J. W. Lewis. Mr. Cosmo Bevan, one of the directors of the Bank, took the chair, and there was a large company. During the evening the choir sang Elgar's 'Five Songs from the Greek Anthology,' and the competition test-piece, 'The two messages,' by Henri Maréchal.

Reviews.

A NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC HYMN-BOOK.

The Westminster Hymnal. The only collection authorized by the hierarchy of England and Wales. The music edited by Richard R. Terry, Mus. Doc. (Dunelm.), F.R.C.O.

[London: R. & T. Washbourne, Ltd.]

In a commendably brief Preface, the Bishop of Newport (Right Rev. Dr. Hedley, O.S.B.) explains that the new 'Westminster Hymnal' has been issued with the sanction of the Archbishops and Bishops of the Provinces of Westminster, Birmingham, and Liverpool. The approved Book of Hymns (words only) has been a few years in existence, but the musical edition contains seven additional hymns, bringing up the number to 250, along with 13 Latin hymns. 'The tunes have been in part selected and in part composed by Mr. R. R. Terry, Mus. Doc., Organist and Choirmaster of Westminster Cathedral, who has also written and edited the harmonies. This eminent musician has here presented the public with a work of great originality and distinction, for which he is entitled to the thanks of the Catholic Church in English-speaking countries. . . . . The hymns are arranged and numbered in the order prescribed by the Bishops' Committee.'

Dr. Terry, in his 'Musical Editor's Preface,' explains the raison d'être of this new Hymnal. He includes many of the older tunes, 'some of which are good, some are indifferent, and some bad'; he apologises for the last-named on the score that they have been 'bound up with the pious association of so many holy lives'—yet alternative tunes are provided for most of this class.

As to the 'popular' tunes, no doubt many are included, but there are some notable omissions. Why, for instance, have not 'Lead, kindly Light,' 'Immaculate,' 'The angel lights of Christmas morn,' 'I was wandering and weary' (composed by Newman to Faber's words), 'By the first bright Easter day,' 'O come to the merciful Saviour,' and others been included? But probably it is a case of de gustibus non disputandum. Dr. Terry prints what he calls the 'authentic version' of these old tunes, and he gives a few examples of variant renderings of some of the most popular. Strangely enough, his editing of 'Hail, Queen of Heaven' (No. 101) destroys the metre of Dr. Lingard's beautiful hymn, giving a strong accent to the word 'of,' and I fear that most choirs will stick to the current version in preference to the one here printed. The tune is a traditional folk-melody (to a variant of which Sir Walter Scott adapted his 'Bonnie Dundee' in 1828) which was first printed in 'Sacred Melodies' in 1843, and was subsequently used by Hemy in his 'Easy Hymn Tunes' in 1851.

Dr. Terry tells us that 'the variations of the old tunes have been reduced to uniformity by giving the tune as the composer originally wrote it, or when this was not ascertainable, by reverting to the earliest form of the melody.' Unfortunately, in not a few cases the original forms of the tune are unsingable by the average congregation, owing to the high pitch. It is all very well to say that some of these tunes, taking the congregation to F sharp (fifth line of the treble stave), are invariably sung 'with lusty vigour,' and that they have been pitched in a key 'which secured the requisite brightness,' but an experience of over thirty years in training congregational choirs has convinced the present writer that it is unwise to have the melody go higher than E flat, fourth space of the treble clef.

In regard to the 'sources of the melodies,' Dr. Terry says that the tunes—like the hymns—were as far as possible taken from 'Catholic sources, or by Catholic composers.' A glance at the Index will show that the rule has been fairly well observed, though it would be hard to classify Barthélémon, Crüger, Isaak, Bach, Hintze, Damon, and some others as 'Catholic.'

Before leaving the subject of 'old' or 'popular' tunes, included in the present work on sentimental grounds, surely it is not a 'counsel of perfection' to print adaptations such as an Irish dance-tune, a Spanish air, an English melody from the 'Beggar's Opera,' an Irish love-song, an adaptation from Haydn, and the 'Old Hundredth.' In the Index, the tune of 'I come to Thee once more, my God,' is ascribed to

Dr. Arne, whereas it was well-known long before the birth of that distinguished English composer. Again, the tune of the 'Old Hundredth' is given as 'attributed to Goudimel,' but it was originally adapted to a secular air by Bourgeois, and was merely harmonized by Goudimel. 'I love those precious Christmas words' is of Unitarian origin, and is generally associated with 'It came upon the midnight clear.' The tune of 'Kind angel guardian' is adapted from Beethoven. 'All in a stable cold and bare' is stated in the Index to be 'an old English carol,' but the melody was really composed by Gottfried Wilhelm Fink, a German, in 1842. Space alone precludes the pointing out of other incorrect ascriptions, both as regards authors and composers.

As to the new tunes, Dr. Terry has contributed forty-eight, and let it be said at once these are dignified, melodious settings. It remains to be seen how many of them will live, but in many cases they will serve as admirable alternative tunes. Laurence Ampleforth is responsible for twenty-one tunes, but it will not be rash to say that their future is insecure, as the majority lack those qualities that congregational tunes should possess. No need to praise the tunes by that excellent English composer, R. L. de Pearsall, nor those by W. Sewell. Praise must be accorded to Miss A. D. Scott 'for generously undertaking tunes to difficult metres, for which there was great difficulty in securing composers'; yet, though it may seem unchivalrous, it would have been wiser to let those 'difficult metres' severely alone. In the case of 'Blest is the Faith' (No. 137), an alternating 4-2 and 3-1 rhythm would defy the best efforts of any average congregation. It is a pleasure to find one tune from the pen of Sir Edward Elgar. His setting of Rev. F. Stanfield's 'Hear thy children, gentlest Mother,' is a veritable inspiration, though the tune had previously been wedded to 'Word of God' in 1897. Equally pleasurable is it to find old favourite tunes by Vincent Novello, Samuel Webbe, George Herbert, Henry F. Hemy, Monsignor Crookall, J. Richardson, Rev. W. Maher, S.J., Rev. C. Raymond Barker, S.J., Rev. F. Stanfield, J. F. Barnett, Canon Connolly, and others. Of greater importance is the restoration of 16th-century tunes by Catholic composers to their rightful place in a Catholic hymnal; and thus we are rejoiced at the inclusion of glorious melodies by Tallis, Tye, and others, as well as a dozen Latin hymns to ancient Plainsong melodies, taken from the Vatican Graduale and the Solesmes Antiphoner. Dr. Terry is certainly to be congratulated on the excellent modal accompaniment he has furnished for the Plainsong melodies. No doubt, by a slip, the popular Christmas hymn, 'Adeste, Fideles,' is wrongly included among the Plainsong melodies, and the source is given as 'first mentioned in a Stonyhurst MS., 1751.' It may be well to point out that the oldest known copy of the words and music is in a Clongowes-Wood (Ireland) MS. of 1746; but the tune is an English air which was first published in 1744 as 'Air Anglois' ('Musical Antiquary,' April, 1910).

In conclusion, we heartily echo the words of the venerable Bishop of Newport as to the debt of gratitude to which Dr. Terry is entitled for all the pains he has bestowed in editing the 'Westminster Hymnal,' the general use of which by English Catholics will conduce, in the words of Bishop Hedley, 'to the devotion and decorum of extra-liturgical worship and popular services.' It is only fair to Dr. Terry to add that the inclusion of so many new tunes was mainly due to the refusal of two proprietors of large collections of tunes to allow the use of their copyrights. It will be an agreeable surprise to many to find Dr. Terry appearing as a hymn-writer, for it is to be presumed that the initials 'R. R. T.' appended to the words of the Easter Hymn 'With one accord now let us sing' (No. 244) are those of the gifted organist and choirmaster of Westminster Cathedral.

Any notice of this important musical work would be incomplete without referring to its beautiful get-up. The type and music-printing (bearing the imprint of Wm. Clowes & Sons, Ltd.) are in the very highest style. Special praise is due to Mr. Frederick Andrew Keene, Mus. B., F.R.C.O., who undertook the task of proof-reading, and I only noticed one typographical error, in the 5th bar of hymn No. 190. The publishers, Messrs. Washbourne, Ltd., have indeed done their part in irreproachable fashion.

The Aristoxenian Theory of Rhythm. By C. F. Abdy Williams.

[Cambridge University Press.]

Mr. Abdy Williams has done the ordinary musician with no knowledge of Greek a real service by his exposition of the Aristoxenian theory of rhythm, and his account of the discussions and applications of that theory by Westphal and others. The basic elements of rhythmical theory are quite simple in themselves, for they are concerned with nothing more complicated than a few divisions and combinations of time. Such obscurity as there is in it has mostly come from its necessarily very technical nomenclature. It is a bit of a shock to the plain man to be told that the opening theme of Chopin's Waltz in A flat (Op. 42) is a combination of spondees, molossi and ionici; but two minutes' explanation will suffice to make the matter clear to him, and to give him the key to similar analyses of the rhythms of other works. Mr. Abdy Williams's book is as good a guide as he could wish to the technical and analytical portions of the subject. He expounds the theories of Aristoxenus, Aristides Quintilianus and others in full, adds to them whatever of importance has been contributed by the German writers of the 19th century, sets forth the rhythmic schemes of a good deal of Greek poetry, and illustrates all his points by references to and quotations from modern European music.

One could wish, however, that Mr. Williams had made a bolder attempt of his own to work out a convincing system of musical rhythm. There are two crucial points in the theory as we have it from the joint hands of the Greek poets and theorists, the medieval grammarians, and the modern metrists. The first is as to the degree to which we can or ought to transfer purely poetic systems of quantities and colotomies to music, and vice versâ. It has led, and still leads, to a good deal of confusion. In the present volume, for example, Mr. Abdy Williams submits a number of schemes of musical scansion from which other musicians would dissent most vigorously.

Nor is any useful purpose served by foisting upon modern musical rhythms all the minute subdivisions of nomenclature that rejoiced the heart of the Greek theorist. There may be some point in distinguishing between the several orders of glyconics in Greek poetry. But there is no point whatever in describing the opening phrase of Elgar's String Serenade as in first glyconic rhythm and the first subject of Grieg's Violin Sonata in F as in the second glyconic. A system of categorisation that may have had some validity in connection with the rigid quantities of words has little applicability to so fluid a rhythmic medium as music, where the time-durations of the components of the bar may be varied to almost any extent so long as the equidistance of pulses is maintained. The cyclical dactyl that occurs in the quotation Mr. Abdy Williams gives from Gluck's 'Alceste,'—and which, according to him, makes the rhythm a second glyconic,—could easily be inserted anywhere or everywhere else in the melody. Moreover, there is nothing at all glyconic in the verbal rhythm at this point. Gluck only gets his cyclical dactyl by phrasing the second syllable of 'amants' to two notes instead of one.

The second point is with regard to the so-called 'irrationality' of quantity in certain Greek feet, the question of equidistance or variable distance of accent and time in certain bar-measures, and indeed the whole problem of the epitritic, dochmiac, and logaœdic rhythms, of the cyclical dactyl, and of interpolated rests or interludes. After writing his own book Mr. Williams seems to have made the acquaintance of M. Louis Laloy's brilliant and finely-reasoned 'Aristoxène de Tarente et la musique de l'antiquité,' where quite another theory than that of Mr. Williams as to the dactylo-epitritic and other irregular rhythms is put forward. He is struck by the force of M. Laloy's views, which, he says, 'are novel, and so highly suggestive that one cannot but think that he has discovered the key to the mystery.' M. Laloy's views are hardly novel in themselves, for he does but pin his faith to the virtual fixity of Aristoxenus' remark as to the long being equal to two shorts. What M. Laloy has done is, by a tour de force of analogical reasoning, to make it seem a little more probable than formerly that the Greeks listened to the dactylo-epitritic, logaœdic and dochmiac rhythms with a sense of rhythmical modulation as much beyond ours in subtlety as our sense of harmonic modulation is beyond theirs. But he cannot yet be said to have quite made out his case, suggestive as his presentation of it is. What is now desirable is that someone equally at home in poetic and in musical rhythm should survey the whole field afresh and try to decide which of the two modern views carries the greater weight of evidence. Mr. Williams has unfortunately not set himself to do this; but he has produced a book that should be stimulating and useful even to those who cannot always see eye to eye with him in his scansions. E. N.

The Oxford Book of German Verse, from the 12th to the 20th century. Edited by H. G. Fiedler, with a preface by Gerhart Hauptmann.

[Clarendon Press.]

Professor Fiedler's collection is of interest not only to the student of German poetry pure and simple,—who is here given the best and most comprehensive anthology of the kind that has yet appeared in England—but also to the musician, who will find in the volume some scores of poems that the great German composers have made familiar to him. Prof. Fiedler has had the happy idea of appending to such of the poems as have been set to music the name of the composer and the Opus number of the setting. The information thus given is very full and accurate; one misses only a few of the more out-of-the-way settings, such as the beautiful 'Die stille Stadt' of Fritz Koegel (words by Richard Dehmel), and Theodor Streicher's setting of Heine's 'Ein Fichtenbaum steht einsam.' The collection ranges from Volkslieder of the 12th to the 16th century, through Luther and Sachs and the 17th-century poets to Gellert, Klopstock, Lessing, Goethe, Schiller and others, to Heine and the great chorus of modern lyrists. Eduard Mörike, so beloved of Hugo Wolf, is represented by no fewer than twenty-eight poems,—a striking testimony to the merit of the poet whom Wolf did so much to make popular. The fineness of Wolf's instinct is incidentally shown by the fact that most of the poems here chosen for their purely poetic value are among those selected by him for music. One is struck, in glancing through the volume, at not only the great body of this German poetry but the extraordinary continuity of its spirit; both the expressive 'Elegie' of Walther von der Vogelweide and the 12th-century folk-songs strike, in their several ways, notes that have been incessantly sounded in the German lyric ever since. To the reader already familiar with classical German poetry, but not so well-read in the modern, Prof. Fiedler's liberal drafts upon living or recently dead poets—such as Theodor Storm, Klaus Groth ('O wüsst' ich doch den Weg zurück,' &c.), Keller, Theodor Fontane, Hermann Lingg ('Immer leiser wird mein Schlummer,' &c.), Hermann Allmers ('Feldeinsamkeit'), Conrad Ferdinand Meyer (twenty-two poems), Paul Heyse, Martin Greif, Detlev von Liliencron, Gerhart Hauptmann, Richard Dehmel, Otto Julius Bierbaum, Hugo von Hofmannsthal, &c.—will be especially welcome. One effect of the volume is to show the simplicity of the rhythms upon which so much of the finest German poetry has been based. After so many poems built on simple successions of twos or threes or fours, it is refreshing to come upon the big orchestral sweep of such a rhythm as that of Gerhart Hauptmann's 'Die Tauben':

> 'O ihr weissen, maurischen Städte! Ihr südlichen Hänge!
> Schwarze Cypressen und goldene Kuppeln im Gartengedränge!' &c.

with its rich and musical flow of spondees and dactyls.

Prof. Fiedler's notes rightly occupy the minimum of space, but afford the reader a good deal of help on questions historical, literary, musical, and philological. E. N.

Musikalische Formenlehre. By Hugo Leichtentritt.

[Breitkopf & Härtel.]

Herr Leichtentritt has crowded an amazing quantity of information into the two hundred and thirty pages of his book on musical form. It is probably at once the most comprehensive and most succinct of works of this kind. The author is not only a sound theorist, but has a far profounder knowledge of musical history than, for instance, the average English writer upon this subject. Not the least valuable feature of his book is the copious references it gives to all the works in which the historical development of any given form can best be studied. He is abreast of all modern developments also, and does not commit the vulgar error—so regrettable, for example, in a work like the new Grove's Dictionary—of supposing that the story of interesting and logical form terminates with the old-style symphony. We could wish, though, that Herr Leichtentritt had given more space to the modern poetic forms of musical structure. While sympathetic to them, and lucid in such exposition of them as he has given, he curtails his analysis at this point on the plea that there is here no question of a definitely fixed form. 'Die Formenlehre hat mit dieser sogenannten "symphonischen Dichtung" wenig zu tun, eben weil es sich hier nicht um Herausarbeiten einer bestimmten Form handelt. Damit ist nicht gesagt, dass eine symphonische Dichtung formlos sein muss; sie schafft sich ihre Form jedesmal neu, je nach der Aufgabe, die sie sich stellt.' All the more reason, surely, to point out to the student the main lines of design, at once musical and poetical, upon which this kind of work has run. We may ask, indeed, whether the time has not gone by for writing about the structure of music purely from the external standpoint. In the finest music, both old and new, external form is hardly separable from the much subtler and more intensive quality of style. It is style, far more than form, that makes the C minor Symphony a better work than, say, Stanford's 'Irish' Symphony, or Wolf's 'Denk' es, o Seele' a finer song than Tosti's 'Good-bye.' Musical structure is still too often discussed from the mechanical standpoint of the builder rather than the emotional standpoint of the artist. E. N.

The Rise and Development of Opera. By Joseph Goddard.

[William Reeves.]

Mr. Goddard writes awkwardly and sometimes far from lucidly. His sketches of the development of opera in Italy, France and Germany run on the ordinary text-book and dictionary lines. The bypaths of the subject,—which are of course essential to the complete understanding of the main paths—are left unexplored, and the lack of original research is made up for by quotations from writers like Lavoix and Rockstro. Mr. Goddard's theories as to the failure of English opera can hardly be said to have been proved. All theses as to an imaginary 'English spirit,' and the supposed affinity between the English nature and 'ideal drama' (i.e., oratorio), are the merest beating of the air. The main fact in connection with the sterility of English opera is that there is practically nowhere in England where an Englishman's opera can be certain of being produced. Mr. Goddard, though he admires Wagner, sees no future for opera along Wagnerian lines. In this, as in his general remarks upon the older 'melodic' style of opera and the modern continuous and illustrative styles, he is voicing a personal prepossession rather than stating a reasoned case. The volume contains a number of illustrations, most of them superfluous, some of them irrelevant, and one or two of them inexplicable. There is a photograph of a bust that is alleged to represent Elgar. It would be interesting to know how many of the composer's friends would recognise him in it. E. N.

Sonatinas on National Airs, Nos. 7, 8 and 9. For Pianoforte. By Ernest Austin.

[J. H. Larway.]

The debated question whether it is æsthetically right to use national tunes as thematic material for the construction of serious works has been evaded here by Mr. Austin, as his Sonatinas cannot be regarded as serious music. Their title implies some leaning towards formal design and consistency; but although they have form they are anything but formal, and their development is sometimes curiously inconsequent. The sections of the seventh Sonatina that are based upon 'Oh dear, what can the matter be' are the most acceptable in the above groups. It is difficult to work up enthusiasm for Sonatinas 7 and 8, in spite of much that is ingenious; their fancifulness often seems to lack musical reason. Some of the earlier Sonatinas were distinctly superior. But good or bad, these works have the merit of being out of the ordinary, and their light-hearted spirit is very welcome.

Georges Bizet et son Œuvre. By Charles Pigot.
[Ch. Delagrave, Paris.]

M. Charles Pigot's book on Bizet was first published some twenty-five years ago. The present reprint contains some new matter, but everything is in the same adoring vein as of old. The biography has little or no claim to be considered critical; but it tells the story of Bizet's life in full and gives copious analyses of all his works, and for these purposes it may be found useful as a work of reference. The recently published study of Bizet by M. Henri Gauthier-Villars—reviewed in these columns by M. Calvocoressi in February last—inevitably gives an air of intellectual simplicity to M. Pigot's dithyrambs.

The Office of the Holy Communion. Set to music in the key of F. Composed by Walter L. Twinning.
[Stainer & Bell, Ltd.]

If not very original in material and treatment, this setting may be cordially recommended on account of its straightforward character, while it is well written, with due regard to the capabilities of ordinary Church choirs. The Agnus Dei should prove very effective. The general 'atmosphere' should ensure for the setting due recognition.

Introduction à la Vie Musicale. By P. Lacome.
[Ch. Delagrave, Paris.]

M. Lacome's little book belongs to a class of which we have several excellent examples in England and America. It is designed to make the history, the substance, and the organization of music clear to the plain man who loves the art but has not been able to give much attention to the technical side of it. M. Lacome performs his task with the greatest lucidity.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Catalogue of printed music now in the British Museum published between 1487 and 1800. By W. Barclay Squire. Two volumes. Pp. 1549. (Printed by order of the Trustees.)

Perse Playbooks. No. 1. Dramatic Work by boys of the Perse School, Cambridge. Pp. 37. Price 1s. (Cambridge: W. Heffer & Sons.)

Correspondence.

CHAUVINISM AND BRITISH MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—In the number of the Edinburgh Review just issued, Mrs. Henry Newmarch has an ably written article on 'Chauvinism in Music.' Its main purport is to decry injudicious and clumsy patriotism in respect to claims made for our English native-made music. An advocate on the other side might perhaps show that much of what is here called English Chauvinism is the Chauvinism of human nature, and is not confined to this country. However, I will merely ask permission myself to reply in your columns as regards a particular institution whose proceedings you were good enough to report very fully last year, and which it is my official duty to defend.

A certain booklet, honoured by a seven-page notice in the Edinburgh Review, has the following remark: 'Every lover of English opera should therefore fix firmly in his mind the hope that the pernicious cult of the foreigner, which makes London the (very profitable) laughing-stock of Europe, should be ended.' On this sentence the article-writer comments as follows: 'What might indeed make London the laughing-stock of the Continent would be—were they read abroad—the utterance of such crudely hostile sentiments; or, still worse, the strange retaliatory policy of the British branch of the International Musical Society, who during the Festival week held in London last season saw fit to produce nothing but the music of our own countrymen; a proceeding so at variance with English traditions of courteous hospitality that it can only be compared to asking guests to dinner, setting before them nothing but local dishes, and boring them with an endless conversation about the merits of our own cooks. It it not by such methods that we shall help to establish, or preserve, in our midst a school of national music; for, to be worthy of the name, such a school must reflect all our noblest and sincerest qualities rather than our pettiest and most insular defects.' The institution thus haled in to be bracketed with a not over-wise booklet was represented on the occasion in question by a committee of thirty persons, who comprised some of the best business-heads in London musical life, and who met almost weekly for deliberation. I hasten however to say that the charge here laid, if it lies anywhere at all, lies against the whole Society, and not against the British Section thereof; as the following facts will show.

The International Musical Society (Internationale Musikgesellschaft) was founded in 1899 in Berlin. It 'is a federation of musicians and musical connoisseurs of all countries, maintained for the purpose of holding mutual intercourse regarding the more serious aspects of the art.' Its current life consists in holding meetings for reading papers, performing seldom-heard music, &c., at twenty-two centres in different parts of the world, and in publishing a Monthly Journal and a Quarterly Magazine. The publications are polyglot, in the sense that the literary products of the different countries lie side by side therein, each in its original language. The internationalism consists in this juxtaposition; there being little or no attempt at co-ordinative survey other than that each country is encouraged to treat of its own affairs from its own point of view. This is material for my purpose. Every two or three years the Society, with the object of bringing its members together, holds a Congress at some capital town, whereat many papers are read and where musical and social entertainment is provided. The Directory of the Society controls affairs under the former head a good deal, and under the latter head very little. Congresses are paid for by local funds raised in the country of Congress. This also is material for my purpose. The Society has held four Congresses. The first Congress was at Leipsic, in 1904; the musical entertainment there was confined to the music of the Leipsic Cantor, J. S. Bach. The second Congress was at Basle, in 1906; with the exception of one short piece by Purcell, which was inserted at the last moment by special request from this country, the music there was all Continental music of a particular type. The third Congress was at Vienna, in 1909; although an effort was made towards having one concert with an international programme, the local committee did not see their way to it, and all the music given was Austrian music—and this, be it observed, while the local committee had a very free hand owing to a £4,000 Government grant. The fourth Congress was at London, in 1911, when the necessary special funds were raised exclusively by private subscription. The London Congress Committee, in deciding what musical entertainment should be given, considered first the fact that the patriotic motive was the only one likely to take money out of private pockets, and secondly the three precedents just mentioned. As a result, the music offered to the visitors was the music of the country in which the Congress took place.

There is a very great deal to be said for the policy of each country exhibiting on these occasions in the way of musical entertainment the best that it can itself do; not as a boast, but as a duty. There is nothing 'retaliatory' in that; one might as well call it retaliation when each of the pilgrims from the Tabard Inn took his turn and capped his neighbour's tale. Nor can I see any petty or insular defect in adopting an almost unique opportunity for showing to foreign visitors (in four performances out of eight) the music which was undoubtedly in its European relations the Golden Age of English music, and which they might otherwise pass a lifetime without hearing. Every first-class miscellaneous concert is really international; the opportunities for performances specialised to a particular country, come only at rare intervals. Whatever the arguments, pro and con., the policy here in question has been that practically arrived at, not by the British Section, but by the Society at large during its thirteen-year history.—Yours obediently,

Charles Maclean,
General Secretary, Internationale Musikgesellschaft.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—May I, a subscriber to the Musical Times for upwards of fifteen years, draw attention to the fact that the strong points contained both in Dr. Froggatt's and Lieutenant-Colonel Dixon's contentions respecting the Pedal organ are embodied in a syncretism evolved by myself in 1910 for the reconstruction of the organ in the church of St. Matthias, Richmond Hill. The results were made known to the public ear—the final arbiter—in November of last year.

That which is natural ascends. The ear instinctively reckons upwards and demands a prominent foundation. If a bass temporarily rises above an inner part and does not stand out prominently, the ear is disappointed. The fact that the inner part does not descend below the double bass does little to lessen this disappointing effect. A certain proportion of independent basses of good scale are, then, essential, and further a Pedal organ which lacks the 'point-giving' 8-feet wood open ('octave')—whether such be independent or a self-contained extension of an independent 16-feet wood open, does not matter—always 'just misses it.'

For the benefit of those of your readers who are interested, I append a list of the drawknobs of this particular Pedal organ and a few notes showing how each is derived. Any device which tends to reduce the number of comparatively idle pipes in organs without lessening efficiency is obviously worth full consideration :

PEDAL ORGAN.

1. Open, metal	16	12 pipes	continuation of small open 8-ft.
2. Open, metal	16	32 ,,	independent (CCC, $11\frac{3}{4}$-in. diameter).
3. Open, wood	16	32 ,,	independent.
4. Stopped, wood	16	12 ,,	continuation of manual bourdon, 8-ft.
5. Stopped, wood	16	0 ,,	duplicate of double in Swell-box 4.
6. Stopped quint	10	$10\frac{2}{3}$,,	from No. 4.
7. Octave, wood	8	12 ,,	Extension of No. 3.
8. Stopped, wood	8	0 ,,	From No. 5.
9. Reed	16	0 ,,	duplicate of reed in Swell-box 4.
10. Reed (imitat.)	16	0 ,,	,, ,, ,, 2.
11. Reed (imitat.)	16	12 ,,	continuation of reed in ,, 1.
12. Reed, wood (heavy wind)	16	12 ,,	continuation of manual reed, 8-ft.
13. Reed, wood	8	0 ,,	from No. 12.

Space did not permit continuing any of the enclosed flue-work into the 16-feet octave.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

K. G. Burns.

Obituary.

We regret to have to record the following deaths :

Mr. James Hamilton Clarke, on July 9, at Banstead. He was born at Birmingham on January 25, 1840. He did not adopt the musical profession until he was of age. In 1866 he was appointed organist at Queen's College, Oxford, and in 1867 took the Mus. Bac. degree. He then became organist of Kensington Parish Church, and in 1872 he succeeded Sullivan at St. Peter's, South Kensington. After that he became closely associated with music for the Theatre. In Lyceum productions, during Irving's early days he composed incidental music to many plays. In 1889 he visited Australia, and in 1893 he was conductor to the Carl Rosa Opera Company. Later he suffered various vicissitudes which greatly impaired his health and unfortunately affected his mind, and he was compelled to retire from public life. The deceased was a man of varied talents. He had exceptional facility in composition, and his music had a flow of pleasant naturalness. His experiences in a theatre orchestra—that excellent school for a musician who wants to learn how to make the most of limited resources—brought out his exceptional talent in scoring. His manuscript was a model of beautiful penmanship, and his scoring sounded as clear as it looked. Some of his organ-pieces and his music for the Church had—and no doubt will still have—considerable vogue.

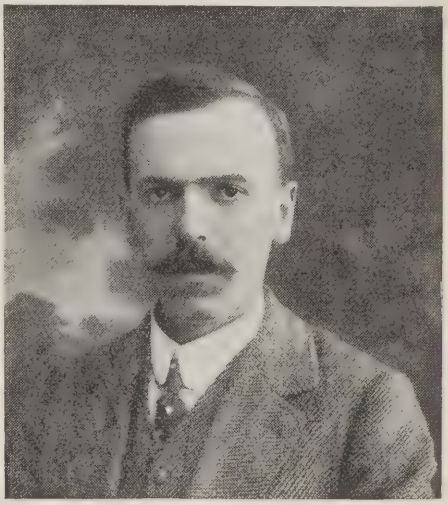
Mr. William James Barton, a noted pianist and teacher of the pianoforte. He was the first to pass the Associateship examination at the Guildhall School of Music, where he was a professor at the time of his death. For some years he was on the pianoforte-teaching staff of the Royal College of Music.

THE BELFAST PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

APPOINTMENT OF MR. GODFREY BROWN AS CONDUCTOR.

This excellent Society, the most important of its kind in Ireland, lately suffered loss in the retirement of Dr. Koeller, who had very ably filled the office of conductor for twenty-five years. The record of the Society is an honourable one. In the programme-book of the concert given on March 22, when the first Act of 'Parsifal' was performed, we observe an imposing list of the works given by the Society since 1874. Nearly every composer of extended choral works is represented. In passing, we mention the pleasure deferred that is awaiting the choralists and the audience in the works of Bach. Such a powerful missionary Society will no doubt soon tackle the B minor Mass and the 'St. Matthew' Passion music. The Society consists of 350 men and an orchestra of sixty players ; it therefore has ample resources.

After investigating the claims of about eighty applicants for the vacant conductorship, the committee recently decided to elect Mr. Godfrey Brown, of Penrith. He is a son of



MR. GODFREY BROWN.

(Photo. by Fearnsides, Penrith.)

Dr. Brown, of Barrow-in-Furness, a highly-esteemed professor of music in that town. Mr. Godfrey Brown, after receiving his early training from his father, studied violin, pianoforte, organ-playing, &c., for four years at the Royal College of Music, where he gained much experience of orchestral matters. When he left college he became organist of the parish church, Grange-over-Sands, and in 1906 he was appointed choirmaster and organist in the parish church at Penrith. In this small town he revived the old musical Society and transformed it into an important musical institution. So much progress was made under his competent care that a year or two ago it was found possible to venture upon a two days' Festival, and now an even greater scheme is projected for November 20 and 21 of this year, when Sir Henry Wood and his Orchestra are to appear. We trust and believe that in his new sphere Mr. Brown will be equally successful. There is no doubt that the Belfast committee have made a wise choice.

The annual Festival of the Tonic Sol-fa Association was held at the Crystal Palace on June 6. A juvenile choir of 5,000, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Sears, and an adult choir of 2,000, under Dr. J. E. Borland, gave concerts. Mr. Rutland Boughton's choral ballad, 'A song of liberty,' was given its first performance by the latter. The results of the choral competition are given in the School Music Review for August.

THE HANDEL FESTIVAL, CRYSTAL PALACE.

June 22, 25, 27, 29.

The great triennial Handel Festival, held as stated above, once again proved that the immortal composer still maintains his extraordinary hold on the British public. Perhaps it would be safe to assert that he is still the most popular composer in the world. If he is not, who is? We need not recapitulate the history of the Festival; it is practically common knowledge. The series of which the present Festival forms a part was begun in 1857, when the choir consisted of about 2,000 voices and its band of 396 performers. This year's resources consisted of 2,700 Londoners and a much-valued contingent of specially-selected choristers from Yorkshire centres trained by Dr. Coward. The band was composed of five hundred players, the nucleus or solo band being the full London Symphony Orchestra. The vocal soloists were Madame Donalda, Miss Esta D'Argo, Miss Perceval Allen, Madame Clara Butt, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Charles Saunders, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, Mr. Herbert Brown, Mr. Robert Radford. Mr. W. H. Reed was the principal violinist. Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock was the Festival organist, but besides he was a skilful musical director who did much behind the scenes to make the event successful. The solo trumpeter was Mr. John Solomon. Sir Frederic Cowen conducted.

We can do little more than record the fact that the Festival took place, and that artistically and financially it was a highly satisfactory success. The public rehearsal that was held on June 22, at once proved that the choir was splendidly equipped and that Sir Frederic Cowen was a masterful conductor. The music performed during the four days of the Festival was 'Israel in Egypt' (which was preceded by the overture 'Giustino,') 'The Messiah,' a selection from 'Samson' (Nos. 1, 3, 13, 14, 16, 20, 21, 31, 35, 57, 67, 78, 79, 87, 88, 95, 96, of Novello's copy, edited by Prout) and the following miscellaneous selection:

Miscellaneous Selection.

Orchestra ..	Concerto Grosso for Strings (No. 1.)
Chorus	'Wretched lovers' ..	('Acis and Galatea').
Recitative and Air	'Rasserena, O Madre,' 'Rendi 'l sereno al ciglio'	('Sosarme').
Air	'Lusinghe più care'	('Alessandro').
Recitative and Air	'Lo, here my love,' 'Love in her eyes'	('Acis and Galatea').
Chorus	'Ye tutelar gods'	('Belshazzar').
Air	'Vinto è l' amor'	('Ottone').
Orchestra	'Dance of Sailors'	('Rodrigo').
Recitative and Air	'Tyrannic love,' 'Ye verdant hills'	('Susanna').
Solo and Chorus ..	'As from the power'	('St. Cecilia's Day').

Performed at the General Rehearsal, June 22.

Recitative and Air ..	'O worse than death,' 'Angels, ever bright and fair'	('Theodora').
Recitative and Air ..	'Deeper and deeper still,' 'Waft her, Angels'	('Jephtha').
Recitative and Air	'Frondi Tenere,' 'Ombra mai fù' ..	('Serse').
Air	'Del Minacciar del vento'	('Ottone').
Orchestra	'Overture'	('Giustino').
Air	'Si tra i ceppi'	('Berenice').
Air	'O had I Jubal's lyre'	('Joshua').
Air	'Where'er you walk'	('Semele').
Recitative and Air ..	'I feel the Deity within,' 'Arm, arm, ye brave'	('Judas').

The oratorio 'Israel in Egypt,' which was performed on June 25, was attended by an audience of about 10,000 persons. No one present is likely to forget the thrilling dynamic and rhythmic effects of the great double choruses, more especially the Hailstone Chorus, and the penetrating and awe-inspiring expression of the Plague Choruses. The certainty and resiliency of the execution of the enormous choir was a striking tribute to the great advance in technique made during recent years by the amateur choralist.

On June 27 'Samson' excerpts and the miscellaneous selection described above were given. Some of the 'Samson' choruses did not seem important enough for the resources, but the choruses 'Then round about the starry throne' (encored) and 'Fixed in His everlasting seat' made their customary effect. In the second part the performance of 'Wretched lovers' was extraordinarily fine, and to our mind one of the most memorable achievements of the whole Festival. The clarity of the themes and the expansion of the climaxes were wonderful.

Madame Clara Butt sang the airs from 'Sosarme' (which one would be inclined to say that Handel had cribbed from Mozart, were it not that chronological facts are inconvenient for this theory) and 'Alessandro' as well as we have ever heard this artist sing. Her voice, of course, is the ideal one for the great arena of the Crystal Palace. Madame Donalda sang 'Vinto e l'Amor' and the solo in the 'St. Cecilia's Day' item with much acceptability; and Mr. Ben Davies 'brought down the house' very figuratively speaking with his solos. But no singer surpassed Mr. Robert Radford. The splendid sonority of his voice and purity of his vocalisation in 'Honour and arms' and 'Ye verdant hills' told throughout the vast auditorium. All his numerous admirers, who have deeply sympathised with him in his recent illness, will now hope that he is permanently restored to health.

The Concerto for strings and the lively 'Sailors' dance' were agreeable instrumental items. Altogether, it may be said that this miscellaneous selection exhibited the marvellous versatility of the composer.

On the 'Messiah' day (June 29) practically every seat was sold, the audience numbering nearly 19,000. It would seem, therefore, that the glory of this immortal work is still undimmed by time.

The performance all round was an impressive one. The soloists were Miss Perceval Allen, Madame Clara Butt, Mr. Ben Davies and Mr. Robert Radford. 'For unto us a Child is born' was sensationally performed. Whether the reading adopted—the pp beginning—was intended by Handel is doubtful. But in any case it is not an innovation as was stated in one or two newspaper quarters. We recall the attack on Costa, made by Victor Schoelcher in his 'Life' of Handel, in the course of which he says: 'For some time past the orchestral conductors have manifested a great passion for contrasts between pianissimo and fortissimo. That in "Unto us a Child is born" (which is attributed to Mr. Costa) doubtless arises from that deviation from good taste. . . .'

The general manager, Mr. G. O. Starr, and the officials under him, were all that could be desired, and they greatly ministered to the comfort and convenience of the public and the Press.

SOCIETY OF WOMEN MUSICIANS.

One of the most important, as well as one of the most successful, functions of this Society's first year was the Composers' Conference held on July 5 and 6 at the Society's headquarters, 92, Victoria Street, S.W. The primary object of the founders of the Society being the encouragement of serious composition among women, the enthusiasm shown over this Conference was exceedingly gratifying. A large audience of members, associates, and guests assembled for each paper, and contributed to the animated discussions which followed. The chair was taken by a member of the Council, Miss Grinly, Mus. Doc.

At the first meeting, on Friday evening, July 5, three papers by members of the Society were read. The first was entitled 'The pianoforte as Friend or Foe in composition,' by the hon. secretary, Miss Katharine Eggar, who said that, roughly speaking, the pianoforte was the composer's friend when it enabled him to grasp things outside its own scope, and his foe when it limited him to its own peculiarities. She then proceeded to trace the various ways in which the pianoforte's friendliness is shown, e.g., in enabling the composer to understand what other composers have written, to test his own writing, to experiment with chord combinations, and so on. Pointing out the danger which lurked in the very comprehensiveness of the pianoforte, she went on to suggest how it might prove positively inimical to the development of the composer on account of, first, its tempered scale; secondly, its limited tone-quality; thirdly, its technical resources; fourthly, its over-use as a prop tending to atrophy the inward hearing; and fifthly, habitual study of four-part harmony at the keyboard resulting in a kind of musical paralysis. With regard to writing for the instrument itself, Miss Eggar said it was supremely important to treat the pianoforte as a friend and to study its special characteristics, in order to make the most of them, and not to regard it as a foe when it showed up one's own mistakes of treatment.

Miss Mabel Saumarez Smith next addressed the audience on the subject of 'Part-writing for Women's Voices,' and drew attention to the very common error of keeping the alto part too low in the endeavour to get effects which could properly only be obtained by a mixed choir. She made a special plea for intelligent and elocutionary setting of words, and for ease in the allotment of vowel sounds, giving interesting examples from her own experience. She also urged composers to write contrapuntally.

The third paper was a valuable contribution towards solving 'The problem of combining violin and pianoforte,' by the vice-president, Miss Marion Scott. The problem, she said, was dual: on the one side difficulties arose from the fact that the combination of these two instruments had a merciless clarity of tone which showed up any defect in inspiration; on the other hand, difficulties were brought about by the innate difference in character between the instruments. After briefly sketching the development of both violin and pianoforte, Miss Scott said that if we considered the fundamental elements of music—melody, harmony, and rhythm—we found that in melody the violin was easily first, in harmony the pianoforte was pre-eminent, in rhythm both instruments met on equal terms. It was helpful to remember this, especially in sonata writing, where it was well to have at least one subject which could be used equally freely by violin or pianoforte. She emphasised the fact that while the violin played in the pure scale, the pianoforte was tuned in the tempered scale, and therefore the pianoforte should never play the same successive notes in unison with the violin. After speaking of the ways in which the violin could be treated as a solo instrument, she proceeded to give some hints as to its treatment when used to accompany the pianoforte. In contrapuntal writing, she said that quick movements were more effective than slow ones, because the points of imitation were more readily recognised when they flashed out in rapid repartee: also in quick passages, particularly in staccato ones, the violin resigned some of its characteristic sustaining power. Miss Scott then dealt with such special effects as double-stopping and pizzicato, pointing out that while octaves on the pianoforte were delightful—the only intervals which were really in tune—on the violin octaves were very hard to get in perfect tune, and they did not in the least correspond with pianoforte octaves. Pizzicato was mainly an effect for the string quartet or orchestra, though it could produce beautiful results in violin and pianoforte compositions when its peculiar conditions were realised and turned to advantage, as in Schumann's Sonata in D minor. In conclusion Miss Scott touched briefly upon future possibilities. A number of illustrations were given during the course of the lecture, taken from the works of J. S. Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Schumann, and Brahms. They were played by the lecturer, very kindly assisted by Madame Lily Henkel.

Among those who took part in the discussions were Dr. Thomas Dunhill, Miss Kathleen Bruckshaw, Miss Katherine Everett, and Mrs. G. L. Voynich.

On Saturday afternoon, July 6, the chair was taken by the president, Madame Liza Lehmann, and the first address was by Dr. R. Vaughan Williams, whose subject was 'What should be the aims of our Younger Composers?' Having started by saying that all that was really possible or profitable to say about music was summed up in Turner's rejoinder to a two hours' discourse from Ruskin upon Art—'Yes—painting's a rum go, isn't it?'—Dr. Vaughan Williams proceeded to give his hearers an interesting discourse on the past, present, and particularly the future of English music.

After an adjournment for tea, the audience assembled once more to hear Dr. R. R. Terry, of Westminster Cathedral, who spoke on 'The Modes and Gregorian Rhythm.' He begged his hearers not to be dismayed at the 'hopeless mystery' of what was really quite simple—and proceeded to give a detailed and illuminating explanation of the preliminary intricacies of terms, notation, and so forth. He then illustrated the various points at the pianoforte, the audience following with music-books. The latter part of the lecture dealt with the correct accompaniment of Plainchant, which Dr. Terry illustrated with examples both of what to do and what to avoid.

MR. J. ALAN TAFFS.

The New Mendelssohn Scholar.

The most valuable musical award offered in the United Kingdom is the Mendelssohn scholarship, which has just been won by Mr. J. Alan Taffs, a student at the Royal College of Music. The scholarship, which was inaugurated in 1856 in memory of Mendelssohn, has been held by the following musicians: Arthur Sullivan (1856); C. Swinnerton Heap (1865); William Shakespeare (1871); Frederick Corder (1875); Maude Valerie White (1879); Eugen d'Albert (1881); Marie Wurm (1884); S. P. Waddington (1889); Christopher Wilson (1895); Percy H. Miles (1899); George Dyson (1904); Eric W. Gritton.

(From a photograph by the Grafton Studios, Cheapside.)

Mr. J. Alan Taffs was born in London in 1892, and was educated at the Stationers' Company's School, where he gained the 'Thomas Brown' scholarship of £80 in 1906. His first lessons in music were given him at a very early age by his father. In due course he was entered as a student at the Royal College of Music, where he gained many distinctions. He won an open scholarship for pianoforte in 1909, and has been awarded the 'Dannreuther Memorial' prize for concerto playing and the 'Arthur Sullivan' prize for composition; he also won the 'Challen' gold and the 'Hopkinson' silver medals, and the pianoforte offered by Messrs. Brinsmead & Sons. Also, outside the College, he secured one of the Obermeier pianofortes in the open competitions instituted some time back by that firm. His pianoforte and violin Sonata was performed last year at one of the College concerts. He is at present studying composition under Sir Charles Stanford, and pianoforte under Mr. Franklin Taylor. His course in working out the scholarship has not yet been settled.

On July 16 a special service was held in Westminster Abbey as part of the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the Royal Society. A feature of the musical portion of the service was the production of Sir Edward Elgar's new anthem, 'Great is the Lord' (Psalm xlviii.), written for chorus, bass solo, and organ. This is a work of considerable importance, written in the composer's broadest style. For the present we simply record the performance on this occasion, and we propose to review the work fully in our next issue. The service was under the direction of Sir Frederick Bridge, and Mr. E. S. Roper accompanied on the organ. Mr. Bertram Mills sang the bass solo.

MUSIC FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON.

At least three north-country holiday resorts make very ample provision during August and September for music-loving visitors—Blackpool, Llandudno, and Harrogate.

At Blackpool, Mr. Simon Speelman conducts the series of North Pier concerts for the thirtieth season. The instrumental soloists include Miss Lena Kontorovich, Miss Jessie Morris, and numerous members of his very efficient orchestra (mostly Hallé members); very often the conductor plays viola solos with orchestral accompaniment. The vocalists engaged are Miss Doris Carter, Miss Lucy Nuttall, Miss Caroline Hatchard, Miss Phyllis Lett, Miss Ruby Helder, Madame Conly, Madame Laura Evans-Williams, Miss Effie Thomas, Mr. Hamilton Harris, Mr. Robert Radford, Mr. Joseph Cheetham, Mr. Charles Tree, and Mr. Maurice D'Oisly. Mr. Landon Ronald conducts eight symphony concerts on Sunday evenings in the Winter Gardens Pavilion. Here come Miss Stella Carol, Miss Marie Hall, Miss Alice Verlet, Madame Donalda, Miss Leonora Sparkes, Miss Irene Scharrer, Mr. Fraser Gange, Mr. Morgan Kingston, M. Szigeti; and, for the week beginning September 16, Madame Pavlova and her troupe of Russian dancers. In the Tower Pavilion similar lavish provision is also made, Mr. J. W. Gaggs being the conductor.

Mr. Arthur Payne, at Llandudno, often constructs his programmes in accordance with the requests of his visitors. Thursday is 'classical' night, Saturday brings special soloists; many of the soloists enumerated above sing also at Llandudno, and to these may be added Miss Evangeline Florence, Miss Alice Wilna, and Mr. Frank Mullings.

At the Harrogate Kursaal, where Mr. Julian Clifford is conductor, the band is augmented once a week to forty-five players for the 'symphony' concerts on Wednesday afternoons, which run from Easter to the end of September. During August, special visits will be paid by Mr. Arthur Hervey, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, and Sir Edward Elgar, each conducting one or more of his own compositions. The ordinary Kursaal concerts would attain greater distinction if the management could see its way to eliminate from the programmes the items contributed by very renowned pierrot troupes or variety-theatre artists. Orchestral music alone is surely quite capable of entertaining Harrogate's visitors.

NEXT SEASON AT THE SCALA, MILAN.

The Scala, Milan, opens its doors, contrary to its custom, exactly two months earlier than usual, so instead of the season being inaugurated on December 26, the same date in October will see the beginning of the campaign in Italy's leading opera house. Information as to its plans may be interesting to some readers. As in most cases of the kind there has been much talk as to operas to be given and singers to be heard, in both cases without the faintest chance of either being brought forward. Of some absolute facts I am however in a position to give definite particulars. The opera decided on for the opening of the season is Verdi's 'Don Carlos,' followed by 'l'Habanera,' by Raoul Laparra, 'Lohengrin' (not heard at the Scala since 1900), 'Salome' (Strauss), 'La Fanciulla del West' (for the first time here), 'L' Amore dei tre re' (a new work by a new composer, Montemezzi), 'Carmen,' 'Le Donne Curiosi,' by Wolff-Ferrari, and probably Weber's 'Oberon.' So far these are the works that, unless some unforeseen circumstance occurs, will be presented during the season, which will continue till April 20. 'Don Carlos,' not heard at the Scala since 1897, will have for principal interpreters Mesdames Russ and Maglino, Messrs. de Muro, Galeffi, and de Angelis. For 'l'Habanera' the Belgian baritone, M. Bourbon, has been expressly engaged. In 'Lohengrin' the soprano, Signorina Villani, will sing Elsa; a young tenor, Signor Ettore Cesa Bianchi, will appear as the Knight of the Holy Grail; and the baritone, M. Bourbon, and the bass, M. de Angelis, will likewise figure in the cast. Signorina Maria Labia will be the Salome in Strauss's opera. She, though Italian, has followed her career in Germany, never, I have been told, having sung in her native land. Special interest will attach to a new Carmen in the person of a Peruvian singer, Mlle. Margherita Dalvarez, who has studied in Brussels, in which Capital she held the post of Court singer. Singing also in New York, and other parts of America, she appeared more recently at the Royal Opera House, Vienna. Those who will be associated with her in Bizet's masterpiece are Signorina Villani (Micaela), Messrs. de Muro (José), and Montesanto (Escamillo). Villani, de Muro, and de Angelis will create the parts in 'L' Amore dei tre re,' while Madame Poli-Randaccio, who recently sang the same part in Paris, will be the Minnie in 'La Fanciulla del West,' and Signor Martinelli, who has been so brilliant a success at Covent Garden, will be the Johnson, Signor Galeffi sustaining the baritone part. The above is all that is definitely known so far of the season's plans, to which may be added a ballet by the Hungarian composer, Ivan Hüvos, entitled 'Tiama.'

Claude Trevor.

SCHOOL OF FOLK-SONG AND DANCE, STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

In our last issue we referred to the Summer School of Folk-song and Dance to be held from August 3 to 31 at Stratford-on-Avon, in connection with the Shakespeare Summer Season. Mr. Cecil Sharp is again the director We quote the following from the syllabus:

'The purpose of this School is to give to teachers and students a knowledge of, and insight into the character of, English folk-dancing and singing, that will enable them to introduce these subjects into their schools on sound artistic and educational lines. With this end in view, the teaching is entrusted to those only who have been specially trained in the art of class-teaching, and possess a thorough and intimate knowledge of the way in which folk-songs and dances are performed by the best traditional exponents.

'The course includes lectures upon folk-lore, theory, and history of English folk-song and dance and its educational significance, while classes are held every day at which folk-songs, children's singing-games, Morris, country- and sword-dances will be taught, and the students invited to enter into an informal discussion upon any points of difficulty upon which they may desire help or enlightenment.

'In this way it is hoped that the School will stand for something more then a mere series of technical lessons; so that the students, after a week's course, may return to their homes not only with some practical knowledge of the subjects studied, but with a full realisation and appreciation of the meaning and purpose of including those subjects in the school curriculum.'

Information as to fees and boarding arrangements is obtainable from Miss Rainbow, Box Office, Stratford-on-Avon.

ROYAL MILITARY SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

At an invitation concert given by the Kneller Hall students on July 11, to meet the Master and Court of the Musicians' Company, the following programme was performed by the band of upwards of 150 players:

Programme.

Quick March .. .. 'Kenilworth' Student W. Gumbley.
Overture .. .. .. 'The Naiads' .. Sterndale Bennett.
Three Bavarian dances .. .. Elgar.
(1) Allegretto giocoso. (2) Moderato. (3) Allegro vivace.
Two songs .. (a) 'The first spring day' (b) 'Lift my spirit up to Thee' Mackenzie.
March .. .. 'Spirit of pageantry' .. Fletcher.
Selection (No. 2) from the works of Brahms.
Overture .. .. 'The sapphire necklace' .. Sullivan.
Gipsy suite .. .. Edward German.
(a) Valse mélancolique. (b) Allegro di Bravura.
(c) Menuetto. (d) Tarantella.
(a) Flower dance from 'Colomba' (b) Courante from 'Ravenswood' .. .. Mackenzie.
Excerpts from 'Der Rosenkavalier' .. .. .. Strauss.
Valse gracieuse .. .. German.
God save the King.

The skill and remarkable precision of the playing called forth many tributes of admiration from the audience. Sir Alexander Mackenzie and Mr. Edward German addressed some words of thanks and encouragement to the students.

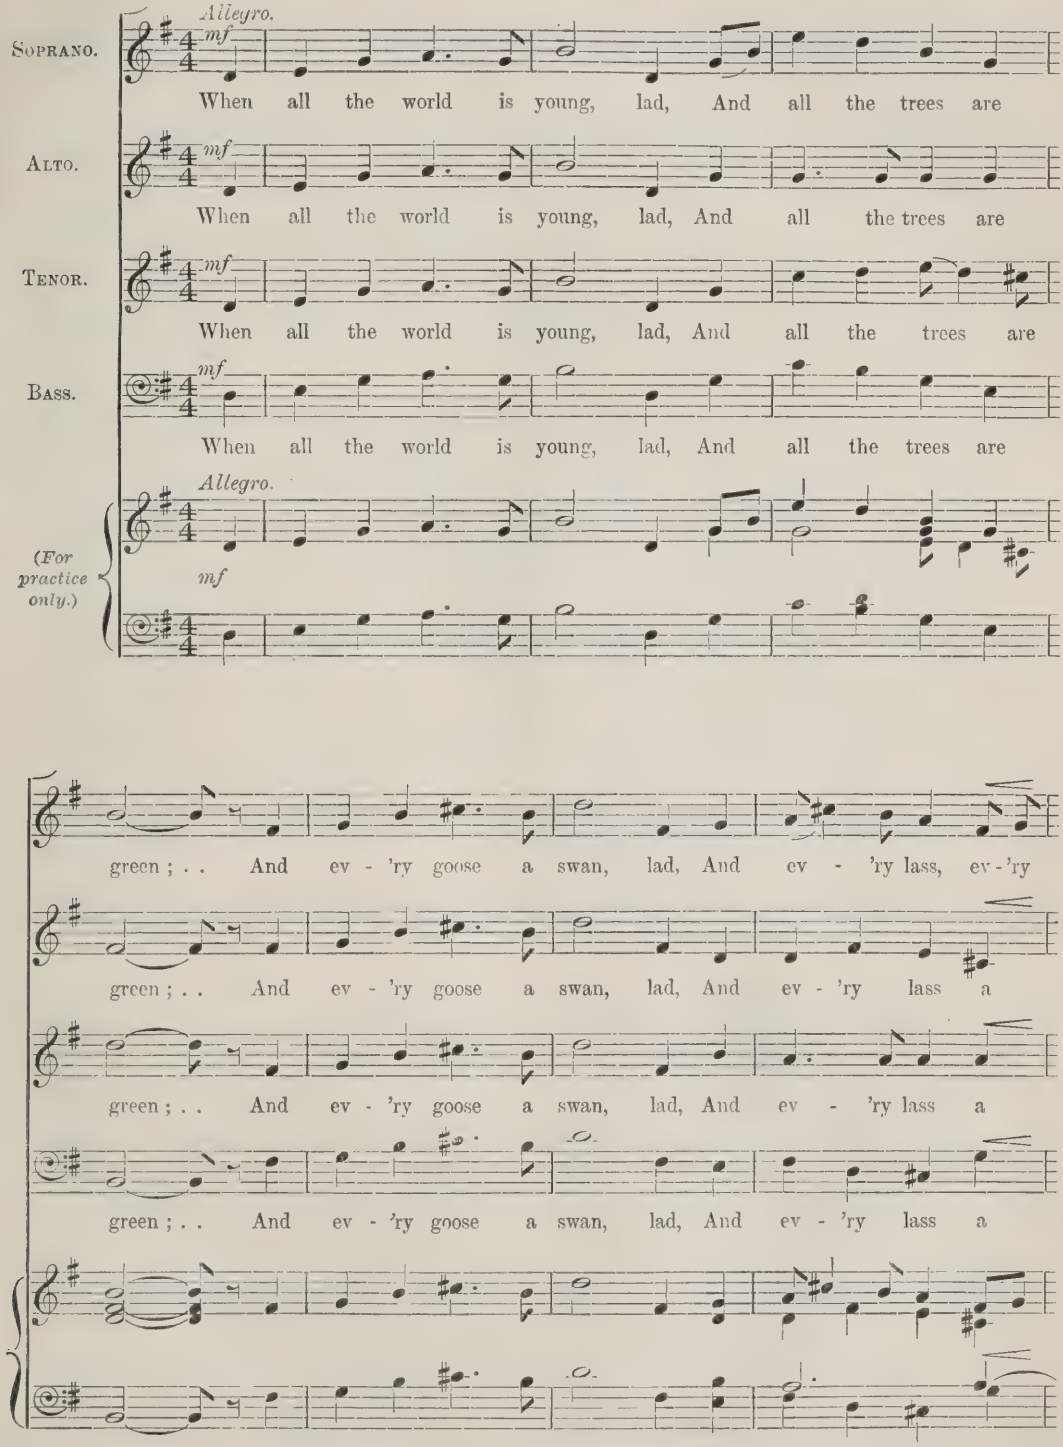
On the occasion of Chigwell School speech-day an excellent concert was given under the direction of Mr. Henry Riding, the music-master. Part-songs by Sullivan, John E. West, Maunder, G. M. Palmer, and others were sung.

When all the world is young.

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Words by CHARLES KINGSLEY. Composed by JOHN POINTER, Op. 9, No. 2.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.



Allegro.
mf
SOPRANO.
When all the world is young, lad, And all the trees are
ALTO.
When all the world is young, lad, And all the trees are
TENOR.
When all the world is young, lad, And all the trees are
BASS.
When all the world is young, lad, And all the trees are Allegro.
mf
(For practice only.)
green ; . . And ev - 'ry goose a swan, lad, And ev - 'ry lass, ev - 'ry green ; . . And ev - 'ry goose a swan, lad, And ev - 'ry lass a green ; . . And ev - 'ry goose a swan, lad, And ev - 'ry lass a green ; . . And ev - 'ry goose a swan, lad, And ev - 'ry lass a

Copyright, 1912, by Novello and Company, Limited.

cres.
f lass . . a queen, and ev - 'ry . . lass . . a queen ; . . Then queen, . . . and ev - 'ry . . lass a queen ; . . Then queen, . . . and ev - 'ry . . lass a queen ; . . Then queen, . . . and ev - 'ry . . lass a queen ; . . Then hey for boot and horse, lad, And round the world a - hey for boot and horse, . . for boot and horse, And round the world a - - hey, . . . then hey for boot and horse, And round . . . the hey for boot and horse, . . lad, And round the world . .
mf cres.
- way ; Young blood must have its . . course, lad, And
- way ; . . Young blood must have . . . its course, . . And world a - way ; Young blood . . . must have . . its course, . . And ev - -
. . . a - way ; Young blood must have its course, lad, And ev - 'ry sf

f
rit.
ev - 'ry dog his day, and ev - 'ry dog his day. . .
ev - - 'ry dog his day, . . and . . ev - 'ry dog his day. . .
- - 'ry dog his day, . . . and ev - 'ry dog his day. . .
dog, . . ev - 'ry dog his day, and ev - 'ry dog his day. . .
a tempo. sotto voce.
p
When all the world is old, lad, And all the trees are p a tempo.
brown; . . And all the sport is stale, lad, And all the wheels run brown; . . And all the sport is stale, lad, And all the wheels run brown; . . And all the sport is stale, lad, And all the wheels run brown; . . And all the sport is stale, lad, And all the wheels, the sempre p

down, and all the wheels run down; . . . Creep sempre p
down, . . and all . . the wheels run down; . . . Creep sempre p
down, . and all the wheels run down; . . . Creep sempre p wheels run down, and all the wheels run down; Creep home, creep sempre p
home, and take your place there, The spent and maimed a - home, creep home, and take . . . your place there, The spent and maimed a - home, . . . creep home, and take your place, The spent . . . . . .
home, and take your place . . . there, The spent and maimed a - mp cres. f dim. p

- mong: God grant you find one face there, You
mp cres. f dim. p
- mong: God grant you.. find one face . . there, You
mp cres. f dim. p
. . . a - mong: God grant you find.. one face, one
mp cres. f dim. p
- mong: God grant you find one.. face, . . one
rall.
loved when all.. was young, you loved when all was young. . .
rall.
loved when all . . . . . was young, you loved when all was young. . .
rall.
face You loved when all was young, when all . . . . was young. . .
rall.
face You loved when all was young, when all . . . . was young. . .
rall.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

'CONCHITA.'

There is a good deal that is suggestive of the coster wooing in the 'plot' of the latest new opera produced by the Royal Opera Syndicate at Covent Garden. It is styled 'Conchita,' but in spite of its Spanish colouring the theme is identical in spirit with that of the wooers of the lower classes in England, who regard violence as a proof of affection. This makes the second 'new' opera that has as its basis some theme dealing with the lowest phase of humanity. What must in politeness be termed the leading 'idea' of 'Conchita' has been taken from the novel 'La Femme et le Pantin,' by Pierre Louÿs, whose story, however, is a very different thing from the highly-imaginative plot evolved by the Italian librettists, MM. Vaucaire and Zangarini. They in their unwisdom present a psychological problem to be solved on the stage. They show Conchita, a cigar-maker, wooed by Mateo, who seems to be a prosperous individual. The conventionalities are observed. Conchita introduces her lover to her mother. The lover gives the mother some money; the daughter finds it out, and will have nothing to do with her too kindly lover. She goes off, and, like the child who threatened to go out and catch the measles to spite his parents, earns her living by dancing in a café. Advance report said this dance was something very wonderful. It is not. However, Mateo finds her at the café, and induces her to go away and take up her abode in one of his residences. But when he gets there he finds the door barred against him, and Conchita all smiles for somebody else. In time she makes her way to her kind but broken-hearted lover, who receives her in the way she possibly expected all along, and knocks her about to an extent that would have resulted in a heavy police-court fine in England. Conchita is satisfied, and the curtain falls upon billing and cooing.

The composer has set himself a hard task to illustrate such a psychological situation. He has done it well in a way, for his score is one of the most thoughtful and original that has come from Italy. The design is that of Charpentier, and is seen in the representation of things invisible, mysterious voices of the night, and sights and sounds that are in the air. The execution is in the free-speaking style of Richard Strauss. The whole is welded together with skill, not to say genius, all the more remarkable since the composer has not yet reached his third decade. But, like Debussy, he has forgotten that the interest in opera must be on the stage and not in the orchestra. Great as that is, especially in the symphonic interludes, it cannot sustain interest without there is action on the stage. Failing that, the thing becomes an illustrated symphonic-poem. This, clever and wonderful though it be, is not opera. Signor Zandonai must try again, and develop the sense of the theatre which he, as an Italian, ought to possess. Moreover, he must write more gratefully for the voices. These were used as orchestral instruments, and in the case of the tenor, Signor Schiavazzi, who took the part of the lover, it was a remarkably disagreeable instrument. Signorina Tarquini had more pleasant quality and acted well. The mounting was magnificent. It is to be hoped that the Syndicate received their reward for their unusual enterprise in producing a work in London within a year of its initial hearing on the Continent; but the only question that remains is whether it was worth while.

For the rest of the season, which closed at the end of July, there have been repetitions and extracts from the répertoire. It is only necessary to record the revival of Puccini's 'Girl of the Golden West,' which has very soon found its level; the farewell of Madame Tetrazzini a fortnight before the end of the season; and the success of M. Paul Franz and Signor Cellini and of Madame Donalda—the last two appearing in 'I Pagliacci' with good results. In the same opera M. Seveilhac sang. He was known to Covent Garden for many years as a baritone, but has added a top story to his voice, which enables him to assume tenor parts. The Russian Ballet—a certain draw at all times—has added 'Narcisse,' with music by M. Tcherepnine, a very charming and artistic illustration of the legend.

Dr. Thomas Keighley has been appointed conductor of the Stockport Vocal Union.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The twenty-ninth annual general meeting of the Corporation was held on July 9. In the absence of the President, H.R.H. Prince Christian, the chair was taken by the Earl of Plymouth.

The report of the Council, which was read by Mr. Charles Morley, the hon. secretary, stated that the number of pupils at the beginning of the College year, May, 1911, was 401. At the close of the year the total was 425, while the number of pupils whose names were on the register in the course of the year was 521. Fifteen free open scholarships became available for distribution in March last, and preliminary examinations were held at sixty centres throughout the United Kingdom. The total number of candidates was 430, of whom 139 attended the final competition at the College.

The following awards were presented by the chairman: The Challen Gold Medal for pianoforte-playing, Douglas G. A. Fox; the John Hopkinson medals for pianoforte-playing, gold Miss Jennie Wilson, silver Miss Bertha Nottingham. The gold medal given by Rajah Sir Surendro Mohun Tagore, in commemoration of the marriage of The King and Queen, for the most generally deserving pupil of the year, was won by Miss Emmie Gregory.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The annual prize-giving took place at Queen's Hall on July 19, when Mrs. Threlfall distributed the awards. The Principal, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, delivered an address, in which he described the foregoing academic year as probably the most important and certainly the most strenuous and busy in the history of the Academy. After referring to the recent opening ceremony of the new building, and to the loss the Academy had sustained by the death of Mr. Alberto Randegger and Mr. Henry Rose, Sir Alexander pointed out that a special course for teachers, with an elaborately-devised series of lecture-lessons given by eminent experts, had been initiated and was then in full operation. It could not be said, he continued, that at the present moment the education of children was being neglected. The elaborate plans now laid in many places to perfect the system of their training sometimes filled him with apprehension, not so much for the children as for the teachers of the future, who would seem to be expected to develop into something little short of a separate species of supermen and superwomen. So much was being done for the young that the greatly augmented demands made upon the teacher, and what ought to be an equivalent remuneration, were being lost to view. Sir Alexander then referred to the prosperity of the Academy. He mentioned the new prize of ten guineas presented by Mr. Edward T. Nicholls for lady pianists, to be competed for at the next annual examination, and the similar sum for violoncellists presented by Mrs. Huth.

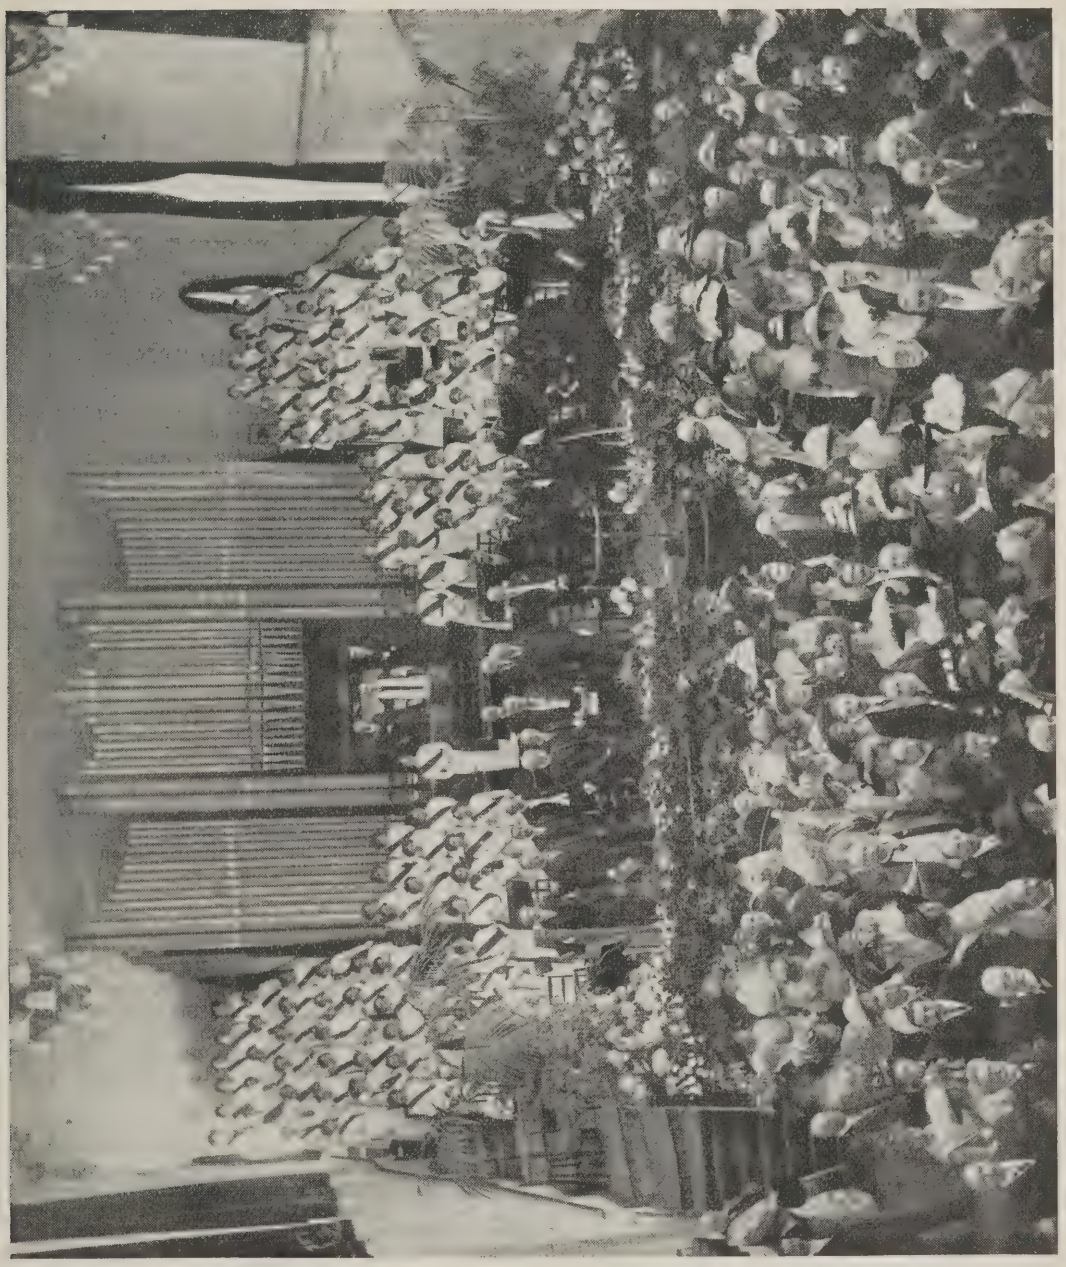
The proceedings were opened with a short chamber concert given by students.

The prizes were distributed as follows: The Charles Rube prize (ensemble playing) to Edgar Hawke, Frank Howard, Willie Davies, and Ambrose Gauntlett; the Julia Leney prize (harp) to Hilda S. Colton; the Parepa-Rosa prize (sopranos) to Phœbe Cooke; the Mario prize (baritones) to Albert Brown; the Westlake Memorial prize (pianoforte) to Adela Hamaton, Francis Klein being highly commended.

The following scholarships and exhibitions will be open for competition about the middle of September: The Campbell Clarke Scholarship for a lady vocalist; the Stainer Exhibition of £20 for organ-playing, open to students entering the Academy; four Ada Lewis Scholarships for singing, pianoforte, organ, viola, and violoncello, not open to students of the Royal Academy of Music or the Royal College of Music; the Baume (Manx) Scholarship, for promise in any branch of music, open to candidates of Manx ancestry or residence. Particulars may be obtained from the Secretary, Royal Academy of Music, Marylebone Road.

The annual dinner of the Royal Academy of Music Club took place at the Criterion Restaurant on July 20, when Dr. W. H. Cummings proposed the toast of the 'Royal Academy of Music and its Principal.'

We give a photograph of the recent opening ceremony on the opposite page.



THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC CONCERT HALL. OFFICIAL OPENING, JUNE 22, 1912.

THE PATRON'S FUND CONCERT.

The Patron's Fund orchestral concert given by the Royal College of Music at Queen's Hall on July 23 was elevated into an event of special importance by the presence of their Majesties The King and Queen, who were accompanied by Princess Mary. A large audience attended, and the following programme was received with spontaneous enthusiasm:

Comedy Overture .. .. H. Balfour Gardiner.
Song, 'The last invocation' .. .. Harper Seed.
Mr. Hardy Williamson.
Concerto for violin (two movements), in B minor Saint-Saëns.
Mr. Albert Sammons.
Suite in F major, 'Phantastes' .. .. .. G. von Holst.
Concerto No. 2, for pianoforte and orchestra, in D minor and major .. .. York Bowen.
Mr. York Bowen.
Air, 'Inflammatus' ('Stabat Mater') .. .. .. Dvořák.
Miss Ella Caspers.
Suite for orchestra, 'The wasps' (Aristophanes) R. Vaughan Williams.

The 'Phantastes' of Mr. von Holst well repaid the performing. Of late he has shown a distinct leaning towards characteristic atmosphere in his orchestral compositions, and he has shown an exceptional individuality in the achievement of it. This Suite is a strong case in point. Each number works out, in a manner that is at once interesting, entertaining and musically attractive, a 'programme' the illustration of which is not a task to be entered upon lightly. We have no space to mention more than one—a March labelled with two quotations:

> 'The Jabberwock with eyes of flame
> Came whiffling through the tulgey wood,
> And burbled as he came';

and, 'We strongly advise the student to use only natural horns.' The 'Lewis-Carrolism' of the poem could be recognised in the music, and a good-humoured jibe at the professorial dictum was made by giving prominence to a theme of open notes on the horn that would not fit the tonality of the rest. Dr. Vaughan Williams's Suite suffered from its position at the end of a long programme and from its own length, as well as from its transplantation from the theatre to the concert-hall, but succeeded in making a definite impression in its favour. Some of its musical characterization is cunningly devised, and interesting points of design and thematic invention were continuous. Mr. Balfour Gardiner's Overture made an excellent beginning. The soloists and their music all received, and thoroughly deserved, a good reception. At the end of Mr. Sammons's technically brilliant performance of M. Saint-Saëns's music the composer, who was seated in the circle, was called upon to acknowledge a warm greeting from the audience.

NONCONFORMIST CHOIR UNION.

The twenty-fourth annual Festival Concert of this highly competent body of singers was held at the Crystal Palace on July 20. A choir of over 4,000 voices, assisted by the large full orchestra of the Union, performed the following programme:

Hymn .. .. 'The Lord will come' .. .. ..
Motet .. .. .. 'Gallia' .. .. .. Gounod.
Solo—Miss Mabel Manson.
Tone-poem .. .. 'Finlandia' .. .. Sibelius.
Anthem .. .. .. 'A Song of Joy' .. John E. West.
Sacred Part-song .. 'The Haven .. .. Barnby.
Solo and Chorus 'Hear ye, Israel'; 'Be not afraid' Mendelssohn.
Miss Mabel Manson and Choir.
Organ solo Variations on 'The Vicar of Bray' J. A. Meale.
Part-song .. 'Speak to me with thine eyes' J. W. Elliott.
Selection .. Three Dances ('Nell Gwyn') E. German.
Folk-songs 'In silent night'; 'Love, fare thee well' J. Brahms.
Song .. .. 'You, just you' .. J. Thomson.
Miss Mabel Manson.
Part-song .. 'As torrents in Summer' .. Elgar.
Chorus .. .. 'The heavens are telling' .. Haydn.

We think we are safe in saying that apart from the Handel Festival Choir, which is exceptionally recruited, no better large choir than that of the Nonconformist Choir Union has ever appeared on the Crystal Palace orchestra. The execution of every one of the choral numbers was clear and finished, and there was often—as in the Elliott part-song and the charming folk-song 'In silent night,' as arranged by Brahms—a wonderful delicacy of expression. The anthem, 'A song of joy,' was effective because of its breadth and quietly vocal character. The composer, Mr. John E. West, had a great reception when he came forward to receive acknowledgments from choir and audience. Miss Manson, the soprano soloist, has just the sort of voice and style for the huge auditorium, and she was a popular success. The credit for the general excellence of the choral and orchestral performance is due to Mr. Frank Idle, who conducted with commendable decision, and showed that he had contrived to gain complete control of the army of executants he had to face. The organist was Mr. J. A. Meale. He played his solo brilliantly and earned an insistent encore.

We suggest that various incidents and delays were allowed unduly to lengthen the proceedings. The last few pieces would have been even more enjoyable than they were if the audience had not been somewhat fatigued.

LONDON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

The dates and conductors of the twelve Monday evening concerts to be given during the 1912-1913 season by this Orchestra are as follows: October 28 and November 11, Herr Fritz Steinbach; November 25 and December 9, Sir Edward Elgar; January 27, Herr Steinbach; February 10, Mr. Hamilton Harty; March 10, M. Wassili Safonoff; May 26 and June 2, Herr Mengelberg; June 9, 16, and 23, Herr Nikisch. The concerts commence at 8 p.m.

London Concerts.

A Students' Orchestral Concert of the Royal College of Music took place under Sir C. Stanford's direction on June 20, and was as usual a surprising exhibition of technical ability and resourcefulness. The inclusion and performance of Dukas's 'L'Apprenti sorcier' showed how far ambitions and attainments have been extended in recent years. The chief work played was a new set of 'Variations on a Chinese melody,' by Mr. E. Goossens (exhibitioner), who conducted it. The orchestration was the best among its many good features. Mr. Antonio Piedra played Lalo's 'Symphonie Espagnole,' Miss Rosalie Stokes played 'Liszt's 'Hungarian Fantasia,' and Miss Mary Congreve Pridgeon sang.—A further orchestral concert was given on June 19, when Mr. J. Alan Taffs, the new Mendelssohn scholar, played the solo part of Dr. A. Somervell's Symphonic Variations for pianoforte and orchestra, 'Normandy,' with great fluency and expressiveness.

A further 'Hamlet' concert was given at Earl's Court on June 22, when Symphonic-poems by Tchaikovsky and Edward German, an Overture by Joachim, and an Overture, Dirge, and Danish dance by Mr. Norman O'Neill were given under Sir Henry Wood's direction.

Madame Mysz-Gmeiner and Mr. Huberman, both artists with a command of style, gave a concert at Queen's Hall on June 28. The interest of the occasion was heightened by the performance of three Bach Arias with violin obbligato. These were 'Erbarme dich,' from the 'St. Matthew' Passion, 'Mein Jesus macht mich geistlich reich,' and 'Mein gläubiches Herz.' Madame Mysz-Gmeiner also sang Brahms's 'Zigeunerlieder,' and Mr. Huberman played Brahms's Sonata in D minor.

Mr. Frank Lambert was assisted by well-known artists in giving a concert of his songs at Steinway Hall on July 1. The programme included many old favourites of the ballad-loving public. Signorina Calosso also brought forward a number of her compositions at Æolian Hall on July 3.

Many new songs by Madame Poldowski (Lady Dean Paul) were heard in the course of her concert at Æolian Hall on July 4. She is one of the most imaginative and delicately fanciful of our lady composers, and her settings of Verlaine's poems were in many cases perfect reproductions of their sentiments in music. In spirit and style Madame Poldowski's music belongs to the modern French school. The programme included a Violin sonata, played by Mr. Tivadar Nachez. The vocalists were Miss Maggie Teyte and Mr. Gervase Elwes.

No. 1018. NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS. Price 3d.

Be joyful in the Lord

COMPOSED BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

388. Grant, we beseech Thee Roberts 3d.
517. Great and marvellous J. F. Bridge 4d.
187. Ditto ... Monk 3d
848. Ditto T. Tomkins 3d.
223. Great is Jehovah (Male) Schubert 4d.
602. Great is our Lord M. B. Foster 4d.
136. Great is the Lord ... ... Hayes 4d.
708. Great is the Lord A. W. Marchant 3d.
237. Great is the Lord ... F. Ouseley 6d.
481. Great is the Lord ... B. Steane 3d.
813. Great is the Lord E. A. Sydenham 3d.
220. Grieve not the Holy Spirit Stainer 3d.
609. Guide me, O Thou H. Blair 3d.
427. Hail! gladdening Light J. T. Field 2d.
545. Hail! gladdening Light Martin 4d.
326. Hail, thou that art... A. Carnall 4d.
560. Hail to the Christ ... J. Barnby 3d.
945. Hail, true Body ... H. Willan 2d.
499. Hallelujah, Christ is risen Steane 3d.
382. Hallelujah! the Light Oliver King 3d.
173. Happy is the man ... E. Prout 8d.
681. Hark, the glad sound M. B. Foster 3d.
909. Hark, the glad sound A. R. Gaul 3d.
487. Hark, the glad sound E. V. Hall 3d.
345. Hark, the herald angels E. V. Hall 3d.
444. Hark! what news... Oliver King 3d.
404. Harvest Hymn ... F. Tozer 2d.
820. Haste Thee, O God John Shepherd 3d.
784. Have mercy upon me J. Barnby 2d.
535. Have mercy upon me J. Goss 4d.
377. Have mercy upon me, Kellow J. Pye 3d.
401. Have mercy upon me J. Shaw 3d.
794. He sendeth the springs Wareing 4d.
701. He shall swallow up Greenish 3d.
707. He that dwelleth ... J. Booth 4d.
837. He that shall endure Mendelssohn 2d.
898. He that spared not His Gladstone 3d.
900. He will swallow up death Wesley 1½d.
389. Hear me when I call (Male) Distin 2d.
339. Hear my prayer Mendelssohn 4d.
146. Hear my prayer ... C. Stroud 4d.
442. Hear my words C. H. H. Parry 8d.
310. Hear, O God ... A. Friedländer 6d.
138. Hear, O heavens P. Humphreys 3d.
94. Hear, O Lord ... John Goss 2d.
139. Hear, O Lord ... C. King 2d.
162. Hear, O Lord ... F. Ouseley 4d.
831. Hear ,O my people J. Holbrooke 3d.
203. Hear, O Thou Shepherd ... Clarke 4d.
522. Ditto T. A. Walmisley 4d.
776. Hear the voice and prayer Tallis 2d.
773. Hearken unto me W. H. Bell 3d
376. Hide not Thy face Kellow J. Pye 2d.
366. Ho! every one J. M. Crament 4d.
246. Ho! every one ... G. C. Martin 4d.
330. Holy Ghost, to earth ... Dvorák 4d.
111. Holy, holy, holy ... ... Crotch 3d.
842. Holy, Lord God T. Bateson 4d.
412. Honour the Lord ... J. Stainer 4d.
129. Hosanna ... ... O. Gibbons 3d.
43. Hosanna ... G. A. Macfarren 3d.
657. Hosanna to the Lord W. Jordan 4d.
646. Hosanna to the Lord Luard-Selby 3d.
260. How beautiful are the feet Handel 3d.
691. How blest are they Tschaïkowsky 4d.
321. How excellent is Thy ... Cowen 6d.
615. How great is the loving West 3d.
373. How long wilt Thou Oliver King 2d.
867. Ditto Jeremiah Clarke 3d.
647. How lovely are ... C. Salaman 3d.
104. Ditto ... ... Spohr 8d.
988. Ditto ... J. Brahms 2d.
766. I am Alpha ... Ch. Gounod 3d.
539. I am Alpha ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
623. I am He that liveth T. Adams 4d.
664. I am the Resurrection ... Croft 3d.
662. I am the Resurrection R. Rogers 4d.
268. I am well pleased J. Rheinberger 3d.
120. I beheld, and lo ... ... Blow 6d.
280. I beheld, and lo ... ... Elvey 6d.
496. I came not to call C. Vincent 3d.
207. I cried unto the Lord ... Heap 4d.
537. I declare to you ... Cruickshank 4d.
168. I desired wisdom ... J. Stainer 6d.
230. I did call upon the Lord Pattison 4d.
515. I do not ask, O Lord ... Roberts 3d.
117. I have set God ... ... Blake 6d.
420. I have set God Hamilton Clarke 4d.
130. I have set God ... J. Goldwin 3d.
122. I have surely built ... ... Boyce 4d.
219. I have surely built T. T. Trimnell 4d.
590. I heard a great voice G. F. Cobb 3d.
396. I heard a voice ... John Goss 2d.
903. I looked, and behold H. Willan 3d.
171. I saw the Lord ... J. Stainer 6d.
114. I was glad ... ... T. Attwood 4d.
32. I was glad ... ... G. Elvey 3d.
79. I was glad ... ...C. E. Horsley 6d.
743. I was glad ... C. H. H. Parry 4d.
379. I was glad ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
119. I was in the spirit ... ... Blow 6d.
205. I will alway give thanks ... Clarke 3d.
874. I will cry unto God ... H. J. King 3d.
73. I will cry unto God ... Steggall 3d.
502. I will extol Thee C. M. Hudson 4d.
29. I will give thanks ... J. Barnby 4d.
156. I will give thanks ...E. J. Hopkins 6d.
568. I will give thanks ... Mozart 2d.
915. I will give unto him ... H. Blair 2d.
674. I will give you rain H. W. Wareing 4d.
225. I will go unto ... Gauntlett 2d.
591. I will go unto the altar C. Harris 3d.
437. I will greatly rejoice Cruickshank 4d.
495. I will lay me down A. C. Edwards 3d.
195. I will lay me down ... H. Gadsby 2d.
209. I will lay me down ... H. Hiles 3d.
739. I will lift up mine eyes D. S. Smith 3d.
958. Ditto J. V. Roberts 3d.
394. I will love Thee ... Kingston 4d.
126. I will love Thee, O Lord J. Clark 4d.
760. I will magnify Thee W. H. Bell 4d.
78. I will magnify Thee J. B. Calkin 4d.
27. I will magnify Thee ... John Goss 3d.
633. I will magnify Thee ... F. Iliffe 4d.
405. I will magnify Thee Oliver King 4d.
780. I will magnify Thee E. M. Lee 3d.
929. Ditto A. W. Marchant 3d.
886. I will magnify Thee Palestrina 3d.
153. I will magnify Thee ... J. Shaw 3d.
154. I will mention ... A. Sullivan 6d.
790. I will not leave you ... W. Byrd 3d.
575. I will not leave you ... B. Steane 2d.
519. I will open rivers E. Pettman 3d.
371. I will set His dominion H. W. Parker 4d.
100. I will sing a new song ... Armes 6d.
608. I will sing of the mercies J. Booth 3d.
134. I will sing of Thy power Greene 4d.
192. I will sing unto the Lord Wareing 3d.
6. I will wash my hands Hopkins 3d.
710. If any man hath not H. W. Davies 4d.
819. If Christ be not raised Macpherson 4d.
979. If the Lord had not E. C. Bairstow 3d.
825. If the Lord Himself ... W. Child 3d.
758. If the Lord Himself Walmisley 6d.
53. If we believe that Jesus died Goss 1½d.
544. If ye love Me ... ... B. Steane 2d.
453. If ye love Me H. W. Wareing 3d.
789. If ye then be risen Ivor Atkins 4d.
469. If ye then be risen (S.A.) M. B. Foster 3d.
58. If ye then be risen ... Naylor 3d.
61. In Christ dwelleth ... John Goss 3d.
913. In divers tongues ... Palestrina 2d.
619. In every place incense John E. West 3d.
655. In heavenly love ... H. Parker 3d.
403. In my Father's house Crament 3d.
777. Ditto H. Elliot Button 3d.
102. In sweet consent ... E. H. Thorne 3d.
278. In that day ... ... G. Elvey 4d.
802. In that day (Christmas) Bridge 3d.
720. In the beginning C. Macpherson 4d.
582. In the beginning ... F. Tozer 4d.
890. In the day shalt H. W. Wareing 3d.
338. In the fear of the Lord J. V. Roberts 3d.
980. In the hour of my ... Davies 4d.
659. In the Lord ... C. Macpherson 4d.
282. In the Lord ... ... R. Stewart 6d.
385. In Thee, O Lord ... S. C. Taylor 3d.
33. In Thee, O Lord ... B. Tours 3d.
148. In Thee, O Lord ... J. Weldon 3d.
467. Is it nothing (S.A.) M. B. Foster 3d.
571. Is it nothing (4 voices) M. B. Foster 3d.
725. Is it not wheat-harvest T. Adams 3d.
91. It came even to pass Ouseley 4d.
180. It is a good thing ... J. Barnby 6d.
231. It is a good thing T. M. Pattison 4d.
215. It shall come to pass ... Garrett 6d.
908. Jesu, Lord of life and glory Elgar 3d.
397. Jesu, lover of my soul (Male) F. Iliffe 2d.
907. Jesu, meek and lowly... Elgar 3d.
654. Jesu, Thou joy ... E. H. Davies 3d.
844. Jesu, Thou sweetness H. J. King 3d.
904. Jesu, word of God incarnate Elgar 2d.
788. Jesus Christ is risen to-day Gaul 4d.
455. Jesus Christ is risen Oliver King 4d.
971. Jesus lives! no longer now Foster 3d.
618. Jesus of Nazareth ... G. Byrd 4d.
548. Joy in harvest ... ... B. Steane 3d.
7. Judge me, O God ... Mendelssohn 1½d.
677. Just Judge of Heaven ... Garrett 6d.
614. Justorum animæ ... ... Byrd 3d.
179. King all glorious ... J. Barnby 6d.
581. Kings shall be thy G. C. Martin 2d.
894. Kings shall see and arise Bridge 6d.
425. Lead, kindly Light... R. Dunstan 3d.
528. Lead, kindly Light C. L. Naylor 4d.
589. Lead, kindly Light D. Pughe-Evans 3d.
37. Lead, kindly Light... J. Stainer 4d.
706. Let all the world ... W. Jordan 4d.
132. Let God arise ... Greene 6d.
375. Let God arise T. T. Trimnell 4d.
857. Let my complaint Arthur Batten 2d.
346. Let my complaint (Male) Thorne 3d.
509. Let not thine hand... J. Stainer 3d.
807. Let not your heart Eaton Faning 3d.
438. Ditto ... M. B. Foster 3d.
438.* Ditto (8 v.) M. B. Foster 3d.
795. Let the heavens be glad M. Higgs 4d.
226. Let the peace of God J. Stainer 4d.
565. Let the righteous ... R. F. Lloyd 3d.
328. Let the words of my A. D. Culley 3d.
494. Let Thy merciful ears W. B. Bell 2d.
308. Let us now praise (Male) Thorne 3d.
962. Ditto A. J. Silver 3d.
96. Lift up thine eyes ... John Goss 6d.
897. Lift up your heads O. Gibbons 3d.
18. Ditto ...J. L. Hopkins 1½d.
409. Ditto S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
847. Ditto ... William Turner 2d.
343. Lift up your hearts... J. Barnby 4d.
972. Light in darkness D. C. Jenkins 3d.
595. Light of the world ... E. Elgar 3d.
408. Lighten our darkness G. R. Vicars 2d.
393. Like as the hart Thomas Adams 3d.
799. Ditto H. Clarke 3d
530. Lo, God, our God ... B. Haynes 3d.
335. Lo, summer comes again J. Stainer 6d.
504. Lo! the winter B. Farebrother 3d.
883. Look down, Holy Dove ... Selby 3d.
711. Look on the fields C. Macpherson 3d.
859. Look upon mine adversity ... Blow 2d.
639. Look upon the rainbow T. Adams 3d.
843. Look, ye saints M. B. Foster 3d.
801. Lord God of Abraham A. H. Brewer 2d.
165. Lord, how are they... H. Clarke 6d.
391. Lord, I have loved... ...F. Iliffe 3d.
722. Lord, I have loved G. W. Torrance 3d.
54. Lord, let me know mine end Goss 3d.
351. Lord of all power (Male) J. Barnby 2d.
566. Lord of life ... A. C. Mackenzie 3d.
459. Lord of our life ... J. T. Field 3d.
411. Lord of the Harvest J. Barnby 4d.
404. Lord of the rich and golden F. Tozer 2d.
318. Lord, Thou art God... J. Stainer 8d.
803. Lord, Thou art good H. Coward 3d.
434. Lord, Thou hast ... A. Whiting 3d.
830. Lord, we leave Thy... Brahms 4d.
274. Lord, what love have I ... Steggall 6d.
267. Lord, who shall dwell ... Roberts 4d
835. Love divine, all love E. V. Hall 3d.
350. Magnify His Name... G. C. Martin 4d.
290. Make a joyful noise A. C. Mackenzie 6d.
108. Make me a clean heart J. Barnby 3d.
431. Ditto A. W. Batson 3d.
899. Make me, O Lord God J. Brahms 3d.
436. Man goeth forth ... A. Carnall 3d.

NOVELLO'S
OCTAVO EDITION OF ANTHEMS.

694. Man that is born ... S. S. Wesley 2d.
222. Me ye have bereaved ... C. Morales 3d.
527. Mercy and truth are met ... J. Stainer 3d.
211. Mine eyes look unto Thee ... H. Baker 3d.
818. Miserere mei, Deus ... G. Allegri 4d.
500. Ditto ... J. Barnby 3d.
665. Ditto ... Novello 2d.
811. Ditto ... G. P. Da Palestrina 4d.
518. Ditto ... E. Pettman 1½d.
464. Ditto ... J. Stainer 3d.
765. Morn's roseate hues ... Chadwick 3d.
726. Most blessed Jesus ... Brewer 3d.
512. My beloved spake ... H. Purcell 6d.
428 My God, I love Thee ... G. J. Bennett 3d.
617. My God, I thank Thee ... E. H. Lemare 3d.
288. My God, look upon ... J. L. Hopkins 3d.
10. My God, my God ... Mendelssohn 6d.
353. My heart is fixed ... W. Cruickshank 4d.
564. My heart is inditing ... M. B. Foster 4d.
460. My heart was glad ... A. Carnall 4d.
199. My hope is in the ... J. Stainer 6d.
406. My mouth shall speak ... John E. West 4d.
190. My soul is weary ... Beckwith 4d
911. My soul, O praise the Lord ... Bach 3d.
885. My soul truly waiteth ... Attwood 3d.
586. Ditto ... B. Steane 2d.
295. My soul wait thou still ... F. J. Read 4d.
960. Nazareth, ... Ch. Gounod 2d.
629. Nearer, my God, to Thee ... T. Adams 3d.
560. No pomp of earthly ... Barnby 3d.
920. Not unto us, O Lord ... T. S. Dupuis 3d.
210. Ditto ... H. Gadsby 6d.
558. Ditto ... John E. West 4d.
592. Now is Christ risen ... T. Adams 3d.
612. Now is come salvation ... C. Harris 3d.
718. Now know I that the ... M. B. Foster 4d.
695. Now late on the ... Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
673. Now sinks the sun ... H. W. Parker 4d.
868. Now when Jesus ... Joseph Holbrooke 3d.
489. Ditto ... W. A. C. Cruickshank 3d.
505. O all ye people ... H. Purcell 3d.
833. O all ye that pass by ... Vitoria 3d.
928. O be joyful in God ... John E. West 3d.
506. O be joyful in the Lord ... G. Martin 6d.
891. O clap your hands ... O. Gibbons 3d.
133. O clap your hands ... ... Greene 4d.
686. O clap your hands ... J. L. Hopkins 3d.
82. O clap your hands ... J. Stainer 6d.
80. O clap your hands ... E. H. Thorne 6d.
217. O clap your hands ... T. T. Trimnell 3d.
877. O come, all ye faithful ... Tredaway 2d.
656. O come and behold ... Longhurst 4d.
202. O come before ... G. C. Martin 6d.
241. O come hither ... W. Jackson 3d.
875. O come hither and hearken ... Crotch 3d.
569. O come, let us sing ... M. B. Foster 3d.
12. O come near to the Cross ... Gounod 8d.
11. O day of penitence ... Gounod 6d.
730. O death, where is thy ... A. Hollins 4d.
832. O everlasting light ... John E. West 3d.
16. O give thanks ... G. Elvey 3d.
42. O give thanks ... John Goss 3d.
599. O give thanks ... E. V. Hall 3d.
596. O give thanks ... H. J. King 3d.
144. O give thanks ... H. Purcell 6d.
17. O give thanks ... William Rea 3d.
520. O give thanks ... B. Steane 3d.
816. O give thanks ... E. A. Sydenham 3d.
66. O give thanks ... S. S. Wesley 4d.
35. O God, have mercy ... J. B. Calkin 4d.
698. O God, my soul ... F. R. Greenish 3d.
775. O God of my righteousness ... Greene 4d.
106. O God, the King of Glory ... H. Smart 4d.
141. O God, Thou art my God ... H. Purcell 3d.
585. Ditto ... B. Luard-Selby 4d.
679. Ditto ... F. Tozer 4d.
34. O God, Thou art worthy ... A. Sullivan 4d.
188. O God, Thou hast ... H. Purcell 4d.
978. O God, wherefore art Thou ... Blow 3d.
418. O God, Who hast ... A. S. Baker 2d.
30. Ditto ... A. W. Batson 3d.
507. Ditto ... J. V. Roberts 2d.
919. O God, Whose nature ... Dupuis 3d.
880. O heart subdued with ... J. Brahms 3d.
982. O holy night ... A. Adam 2d.

47. O how amiable ... J. Barnby 3d.
752. O how amiable ... E. Faning 3d.
347. O how amiable ... Oliver King 4d.
963. O how amiable ... J. H. Maunder 3d.
233. O how amiable ... T. M. Pattison 3d.
48. O how plentiful ... T. M. Pattison 3d.
490. O Jerusalem, look about ... E. Naylor 4d.
301. O Jesu! Victim blest ... Powell 3d.
536. O joyful Light ... B. Tours 4d.
543. O Lamb of God ... J. Barnby 3d.
870. O Lord, from Whom all ... West 2d.
204. O Lord God ... ... Clarke 3d.
251. O Lord God (Male) ... Ernest Ford 4d.
926. O Lord, have mercy ... Pergolesi 3d.
942. O Lord Jesu Christ ... Wesley 2d.
184. O Lord, look down ... J. Battishill 3d.
702. O Lord, my God ... Nares 3d.
306. O Lord of hosts ... Kate Boundy 3d.
25. O Lord, our Governor ... H. Gadsby 3d.
727. O Lord, Thou art my God ... J. Goss 3d.
395. Ditto ... C. H. Lloyd 6d.
845. Ditto ... C. Lee Williams 4d.
690. O Lord, Thy Word ... J. F. Bridge 6d.
726. O love most ... ... A. H. Brewer 3d.
3. O love the Lord ... A. Sullivan 2d.
588. O lovely peace ... ... Handel 4d.
380. O perfect love ... J. Barnby 3d.
124. O praise God ... ... Clarke 6d.
355. O praise God ... Theodore Distin 3d.
429. O praise God ... G. C. Martin 2d.
40. O praise God ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
479. O praise our God, ye people ... Boyce 4d.
782. O praise our God, ye people ... Bühler 3d.
14. O praise the Lord ... J. Barnby 4d.
178. O praise the Lord ... John Goss 6d.
683. O praise the Lord ... ... Handel 3d.
71. O praise the Lord ... Ouseley 3d.
232. O praise the Lord ... T. M. Pattison 3d.
358. O praise the Lord ... W. G. Wood 4d.
266. O praise the Lord ... Zingarelli 8d.
824. O pray for the peace ... W. Child 3d.
166. O pray for the peace ... E. H. Thorne 4d.
837. O rest in the Lord ... Mendelssohn 2d.
492. O Saving Victim ... Cruickshank 3d.
51. Ditto (No. 2) ... Gounod 4d.
486. Ditto ... Rossini 3d.
970. O Saviour of the ... H. Moore 3d.
508. Ditto (Male) ... Roberts 2d.
551. O sing unto the Lord ... Cruickshank 4d.
142. O sing unto the Lord ... H. Purcell 6d.
8. O taste and see ... John Goss 3d.
263. O taste and see ... A. H. Mann 3d.
87. O that I knew where I ... Bennett 3d.
772. O that men would ... J. B. McEwen 3d.
896. Ditto ... W. Wolstenholme 3d.
806. O Thou the Central Orb ... Gibbons 3d.
663. O Voice of the Beloved ... H. J. King 3d.
123. O where shall wisdom ... Boyce 6d.
435. O worship the King ... E. V. Hall 4d.
135. O worship the Lord ... ... Hayes 6d.
234. O ye that love the Lord ... Docker 4d.
158. Ditto ... G. Elvey 4d.
325. Ditto ... J. Naylor 3d.
196. Ditto ... H. W. Wareing 3d.
556. Open to me the gates ... F. Adlam 4d.
668. Our Blest Redeemer ... E. V. Hall 3d.
863. Our conversation is in ... Gilbert 2d.
392. Our Father, which art ... J. Barnby 2d.
976. Ditto (8 voices) ... C. Lee Williams 3d.
303. Our God is Lord ... E. Mundella 3d.
242. Out of the deep ... J. B. Calkin 3d.
638. Out of the deep ... H. W. Davies 4d.
240. Out of the deep ... F. E. Gladstone 3d.
692. Out of the deep ... G. C. Martin 3d.
176. Out of the deep ... Naylor 4d.
81. Plead Thou my cause ... Mozart 6d.
55. Ponder my words ... Henry Gadsby 3d.
300. Ponder my words (Male) ... Sawyer 2d.
159. Praise God in His holiness ... B. Tours 3d.
521. Praise, my soul ... E. V. Hall 3d.
641. Praise, O praise our God ... B. L. Selby 6d.
712. Praise our God ... E. V. Hall 4d.
172. Praise the Lord ... J. Benedict 8d.
561. Praise the Lord ... J. M. Crament 4d.
70. Praise the Lord ... G. Elvey 4d.

298. Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem ... Bliss 3d.
125. Ditto ... J. Clark 3d.
137. Ditto ... Hayes 4d.
316. Ditto ... E. V. Hall 4d.
577. Ditto ... J. H. Maunder 3d.
510. Ditto ... Purcell 4d.
964. Ditto ... W. G. Wood 4d.
381. Praise the Lord, O my soul ... Elliott 3d.
63. Ditto ... Garrett 6d.
21. Ditto ... John Goss 3d.
208. Ditto ... Mozart 4d.
959. Ditto ... John Pullein 3d.
513. Ditto ... H. Purcell 6d.
940. Ditto ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
439. Ditto ... T. P. Royle 3d.
986. Ditto ... John E. West 3d.
59. Ditto ... S. S. Wesley 6d.
624. Praise the Lord, ye ... B. Steane 3d.
827. Praise to God, immortal ... West 3d.
745. Praised be the Lord ... C. H. Lloyd 3d.
797. Praised be the Lord ... C. Steggall 3d.
416. Prepare ye the way ... J. M. Crament 4d.
45. Prepare ye the way ... Garrett 3d.
151. Prepare ye the way ... M. Wise 3d.
846. Put me not to rebuke ... W. Croft 4d.
60. Rejoice greatly ... Henry Gadsby 3d.
984. Rejoice greatly ... C. H. Lloyd 3d.
317. Rejoice in the Lord ... Philip Armes 6d.
992. Rejoice in the Lord ... J. F. Bridge 4d.
721. Rejoice in the Lord ... A. Hollins 3d.
200. Rejoice in the Lord ... G. C. Martin 6d.
145. Rejoice in the Lord ... H. Purcell 3d.
258. Rejoice in the Lord ... J. Redford 3d.
164. Rejoice in the Lord ... F. R. Statham 4d.
272. Rejoice, O ye righteous ... Rheinberger 3d.
38. Remember now ... Steggall 4d.
523. Remember, O Lord ... Walmisley 4d.
336. Rend your heart ... J. Clippingdale 3d.
626. Rend your heart ... A. E. Godfrey 3d.
753. Rest, weary Earth ... A. M. Goodhart 3d.
879. Righteous art Thou ... John E. West 3d.
860. Save, Lord, and hear us ... John Blow 2d.
170. Save, Lord, and hear us ... Hayes 6d.
822. Save me, O God ... John Blow 3d.
858. Save me, O God ... William Boyce 2d.
287. Save me, O God ... J. L. Hopkins 2d.
740. Save us, O Lord ... E. C. Bairstow 3d.
451. Saviour, abide with us ... T. Hanforth 3d.
800. Saviour, again to Thy ... Chadwick 3d.
840. Saviour, Thy children ... Sullivan 3d.
85. Say where is He born ... Mendelssohn 6d.
319. Seek ye the Lord ... Hague Kinsey 3d.
189. Seek ye the Lord ... J. V. Roberts 3d.
973. Send out Thy light ... Ch. Gounod 2d.
250. Sing aloud with gladness ... S. Wesley 6d.
630. Sing a song of praise ... O. King 3d.
185. Sing a song of praise ... J. Stainer 3d.
716. Sing and rejoice ... B. Harwood 4d.
238. Sing joyfully unto God ... W. Byrd 4d.
365. Sing, O daughter of Zion ... Rea 4d.
936. Ditto ... H. W. Wareing 3d.
985. Ditto ... W. G. Alcock 3d.
291. Sing, O heavens ... A. C. Mackenzie 6d.
781. Sing, O heavens ... Bruce Steane 3d.
369. Sing, O heavens ... T. T. Trimnell 4d.
562. Sing, O heavens ... H. D. Wetton 4d.
169. Sing praises to the Lord ... Croft 4d.
36. Sing praises unto the Lord ... Gounod 6d.
99. Sing to the Lord ... Mendelssohn 8d.
167. Sing to the Lord ... Henry Smart 1s.
542. Sing to the Lord with ... J. Barnby 4d.
525. Sing unto God (Chos. only) ... Purcell 2d.
580. Sing unto the Lord ... J. F. Bridge 6d.
603. Sing unto the Lord ... C. Harris 3d.
812. Sing unto the Lord ... Sydenham 3d.
856 Sing we merrily ... Adrian Batten 2d.
944. Sing we merrily ... ... J. Blow 3d.
532. Sing we merrily ... F. A. W. Docker 4d.
410. Sing we merrily ... E. V. Hall 4d.
932. Sing we merrily ... O. King 3d.
761. Sing ye to the Lord ... C. H. Lloyd 3d.
991. Ditto ... E. C. Bairstow 3d.
68. Stand up and bless the Lord ... Goss 4d.
697. Suffer the little ... B. Harwood 3d.
792. Sun of my soul ... G. W. Chadwick 2d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

O BE JOYFUL IN THE LORD

FESTIVAL OR THANKSGIVING ANTHEM FROM "THE HUNDREDTH PSALM"

COMPOSED BY
EBENEZER PROUT.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.

be joy - - - ful, be joy - ful
be joy - - - ful, be joy - ful
be joy - - - ful, be joy - ful
be joy - - - ful, be joy - ful
Wood.
Str.
tr
Brass.
Tutti.
in the Lord, all ye lands, be joy - ful,
in the Lord, all ye lands, be joy - ful,
in the Lord, all ye lands, be joy - ful,
in the Lord, all ye lands, be joy - ful,
Brass.
Tutti.
be joy - ful, be joy - ful in the Lord,
be joy - ful, be joy - ful in the Lord,
be joy - ful, be joy - ful in the Lord,
be joy - ful, be joy - ful in the Lord,
Brass.

B
all ye lands!
all ye lands!
all ye lands!
all ye lands!
f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and
B Tutti.
Brass.
f
Bassi.
f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His come be - fore His pres-ence with a song, be - fore His pres- ence with a song, and . .
Viola.
f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre-sence with a pre-sence with a song, be - fore His pre-sence with a song, serve . . the . . . come . . be - fore His pre - sence with a Viol 2.

C
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence with a song, song, be - fore His presence with a song, and . . come . . be - Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence with . .
song.
Serve the Lord with
Viol. 1.
C Bassi, Fag.
Serve the Lord, and . . come . . be - fore His pre -
- fore His pre - sence with a song, and come, and
. . . a . . song be - fore His pre - sence with a glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre-sence with a song, and come . . . be - (Wind added.)
- - sence, be - fore His pre - - sence, and come be - fore His pre - sence with a come, and come be - fore His pre-sence with a song, song,
Serve the Lord with
- fore His pre - - sence, His pre-sence with . . . a song, song, and come be - fore His pre - sence, . . and come be - fore His and come be - fore . . His pre-sence with a song, glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre-sence with a song, come be - fore His pre-sence

f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His
D
pre-sence with a song,
f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre-sence with a with a song,
f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and pre - sence with a song, serve the Lord with glad - ness, Serve . . the D
f
Serve . . the Lord, song, and come, and come be - fore His pre-sence with a come be - fore His pre-sence with a song, be - fore His pre - sence with a Lord,
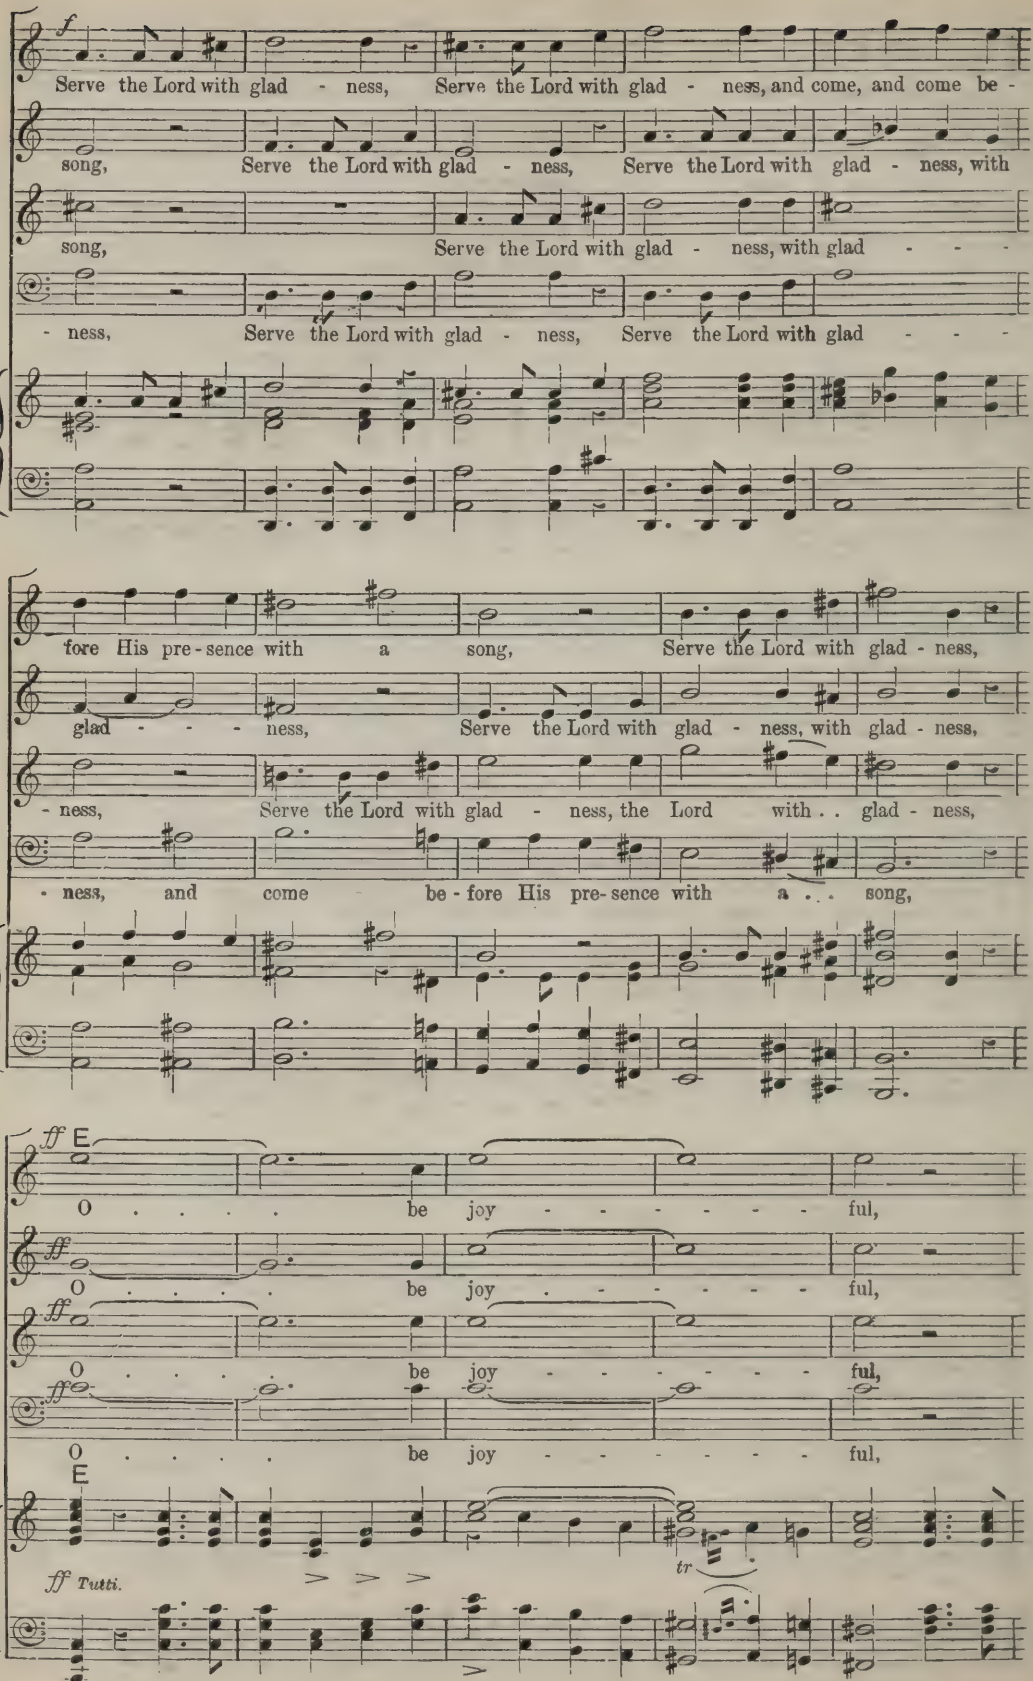
f
Serve the Lord with glad -



f
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come, and come be - song, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, with song, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, with glad - - -
- ness, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, Serve the Lord with glad - - - fore His pre - sence with a song, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, glad - - - ness, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, with glad - ness,
- ness, Serve the Lord with glad - ness, the Lord with . . glad - ness,
- ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence with a . . song,
ff E
O . . . . be joy - - - - - - ful,
ff
O . . . . be joy - - - - - - ful,
ff
O . . . . be joy - - - - - - ful,
ff
O . . . . be joy - - - - - - ful,
E ff Tutti.
tr

be joy - - - - - ful, be joy - ful
be joy - - - - - ful, be joy - ful
be joy - - - - - ful, be joy - ful
be joy - - - - - ful, be joy - ful ff
tr
in the Lord, all ye lands, all ye lands, be in the Lord, all ye lands, all ye lands, be in the Lord, all ye lands, all ye lands, be in the Lord, all ye lands, all ye lands, be joy - ful in the Lord, all ye lands,
joy - ful in the Lord, all ye lands,
joy - ful in the Lord, all ye lands,
joy - ful in the Lord, all ye lands,
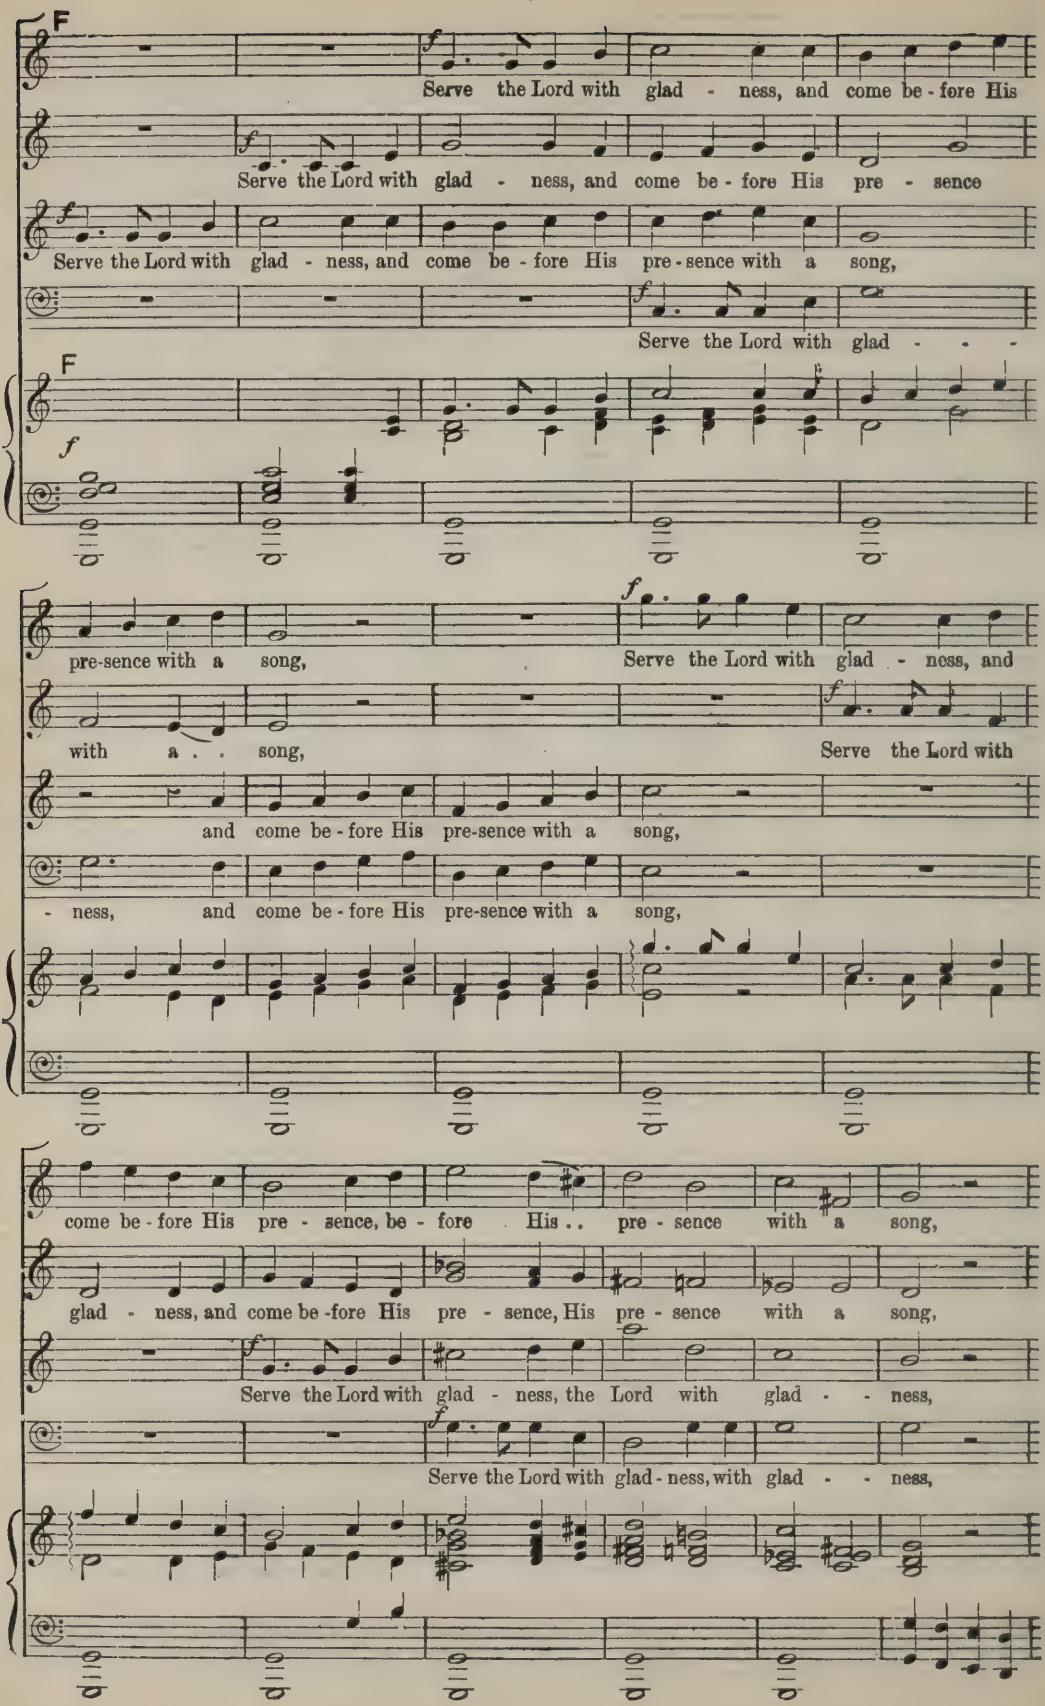
Tpt.



F
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence with a song,
Serve the Lord with glad - - -
F
pre - sence with a song,
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, and
with a . . song,
Serve the Lord with
and come be - fore His pre - sence with a song,
- ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence with a song, come be - fore His pre - sence, be - fore His . . pre - sence with a song, glad - ness, and come be - fore His pre - sence, His pre - sence with a song,
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, the Lord with glad - - ness,
Serve the Lord with glad - ness, with glad - - ness,

G
ff
and come be - fore His pre - sence with a song, and come be - fore . . .
and come be - fore His pre - - - sence and come be - fore His . . pre-sence with a
Serve the Lord with glad - - ness, and come be -
G
Vl. Oboes.
Bassi. Tromb.
. . His pre - sence, come . . . . be - fore His pre - sence with a . . song, with . . a song, and come be - fore His pre - sence with a song, song, and come be - - fore His pre - sence with a song,
- fore His pre - sence with a song, . . with a song,
and come be - fore His pre - - sence with . . a song.
and come be - fore His pre - - sence with . . a song.
and come be - fore His pre - - sence with . . a song.
and come be - fore His pre - - sence with a song.
Tutti.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 2051, price 1½*d*.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF ANTHEMS.

426. Sun of my soul ... R. Dunstan 3d.
905. Take My yoke upon you T. Adams 2d.
540. Teach me, O Lord G. J. Elvey 3d.
297. Teach me, O Lord J. W. Gritton 3d.
850. Teach me Thy way William Fox 2d.
852. Teach me Thy way E. Hooper 2d.
669. Teach me Thy way ... Spohr 1½d.
808. Ten thousand times E. V. Hall 3d.
620. Ditto ... F. Tozer 4d.
458. Thanks be to God ...J. W. Gritton 3d.
627. Thanks be to God ... Oliver King 3d.
684. The Angel said (S. & B.) A. H. Brown 2d.
723. The arm of the Lord ... Haydn 4d.
472. The blessing of the Lord J. F. Bridge 2d.
194. Ditto A. C. Mackenzie 3d.
421. The day is past ... J. C. Marks 3d.
461. The Day of Resurrection E. V. Hall 3d.
552. The day Thou gavest Woodward 3d.
239. The earth is the Lord's Trimnell 4d.
687. Ditto J. Hopkins 4d.
482. The eyes of all ... ... T. Adams 3d.
547. The eyes of all ... ... G. J. Elvey 3d.
573. The eyes of all ... M. B. Foster 3d.
289. The eyes of all ...Orlando Gibbons 4d.
878. The eyes of the Lord are West 2d.
689. The face of death ... W. Parratt 2d.
448. The First Christmas J. Barnby 3d.
534. The first day of the week B. Steane 3d.
214. The fool hath said W. Bennett 4d.
271. The fool within his Rheinberger 3d.
413. The fost'ring earth J. L. Hopkins 3d.
746. The glory of Lebanon ...Wareing 3d.
593. The glory of the God T. Adams 3d.
177. The glory of the Lord... J. Goss 6d.
245. The God of Jeshurun ... J. Goss 6d.
754. The hallowed day B. Luard-Selby 3d.
804. The Heavens declare Macpherson 4d.
299. The hills stand about G. Gardner 4d.
755. The hymn of the angels J. E. West 4d.
733. The King shall rejoice E. V. Hall 4d.
734. Ditto C. Harris 4d.
313. Ditto Stewart 6d.
981. Ditto C. Lee Williams 2d.
906. The Lord came from Sinai West 3d.
193. The Lord gave A. C. Mackenzie 2d.
170. The Lord give ear J. Rheinberger 3d.
526. The Lord hath (Male) Mendelssohn 4d.
312. The Lord hath been E. T. Chipp 3d.
477. The Lord hath been S. S. Wesley 3d.
163. The Lord hath done ... H. Smart 4d.
839. The Lord hath done John E. West 4d.
224. The Lord hear thee J. Barkworth 2d.
823. The Lord hear thee John Blow 2d.
893. The Lord is full of F. E. Gladstone 3d.
44. The Lord is great ... W. T. Best 3d.
248. The Lord is in ... G. Saunders 4d.
704. The Lord is in His holy Stainer 4d.
83. The Lord is King Henry Gadsby 6d.
367. The Lord is King ... H. J. King 4d.
869. The Lord is King ... W. King 2d.
41. The Lord is King T. T. Trimnell 4d.
483. The Lord is loving...A. W. Batson 3d.
39. The Lord is loving... Garrett 3d.
50. The Lord is my light H. Hiles 3d.
407. The Lord is my light W. Jordan 3d.
815. The Lord is my light Sydenham 3d.
613. The Lord is my Shepherd Higgs 4d.
67. Ditto (S.S.A.A.) Schubert 4d.
594. Ditto (S.A.T.B.) Schubert 4d.
152. Ditto ... J. Shaw 3d.
793. Ditto (S.A.T.B.) H. Smart 3d.
738. Ditto D. S. Smith 3d.
305. Ditto C. V. Stanford 6d.
862. The Lord is my strength Booth 3d.
398. Ditto S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
243. Ditto J. Goss 6d.
947. Ditto Bruce Steane 3d.
422. The Lord is risen G. M. Garrett 4d.
696. The Lord liveth A. W. Marchant 3d.
731. The Lord Omnipotent T. Adams 3d.
873. The Lord our Righteousness Blair 3d.
304. The Lord preserveth ... Armes 6d.
474. The Lord shall be J. V. Roberts 4d.
84. The Lord that made J. Turle 2d.
112. The Lord will comfort Hiles 6d.
86. The morning stars ... J. Stainer 6d.
767. Ditto G. A. A. West 4d.
749. The New-born King P. E. Fletcher 3d.
465. The night is far spent (S.A.) Foster 3d.
607. The night is far spent (S.A.T.B) Foster 3d.
640. The Parable of the F. J. Sawyer 4d.
676. The people that ... C. F. Bowes 4d.
762. The promise which was Bairstow 4d.
941. The radiant morn B. Steane 3d.
736. The reproaches ... J. B. Dykes 3d.
174. The righteous live ... J. Stainer 4d.
255. The righteous living Mendelssohn 3d.
155. The righteous shall flourish Calkin 4d.
977. The secret of the Lord ... West 3d.
614. The souls of the righteous... Byrd 3d.
559. Ditto ... Elvey 2d.
249. Ditto Myles B. Foster 3d.
140. Ditto ... Nares 3d.
294. Ditto Wm. Rea 6d.
285. Ditto H. H. Woodward 3d.
755. The stars in their silent ... West 4d.
457. The Story of the Cross M. B. Foster 3d.
557. Ditto J. V. Roberts 3d.
531. Ditto A. Somervell 3d.
452. Ditto J. Stainer 3d.
360. The strong foundations F. Brandeis 2d.
834. The surrender of the Cornelius 4d.
925 The Vineyard of the Lord Wareing 3d.
493 The whole earth J. V. Roberts. 4d.
31. The wilderness ... John Goss 6d.
110. The wilderness ... S. S. Wesley 6d.
649. The Word is made... T. Adams 2d.
576. There is a green hill Gounod 4d.
302. There is no condemnation Irons 3d.
882. There is no sorrow A. E. Godfrey 3d.
215. There is none like unto ... Goss 6d.
809. There is none that can ... Atkins 4d.
85. There shall a Star ... Mendelssohn 6d.
600. There shall be an heap F. Tozer 3d.
670. Ditto Cuthbert Harris 3d.
685. There shall come a star C. Harris 3d.
574. There shall come forth Mansfield 3d.
750. There shall come forth F. Tozer 3d.
253. There was a marriage J. Stainer 3d.
414. There was war in ... Cruickshank 3d.
466. There were shepherds (S.A.) Foster 3d.
516. Ditto E. Pettman 3d.
817. Ditto E. A. Sydenham 3d.
324. Ditto C. Vincent 4d.
447. Ditto H. W. Wareing 3d.
871. Ditto Healey Willan 3d.
19. Therefore with angels V. Novello 2d.
93. These are they which came Dykes 6d.
966. They are at rest ... E. Elgar 3d.
157. They that go down T. Attwood 4d.
709. Ditto H. Clarke 4d.
546. Ditto G. Elvey 6d.
432. They that sow A. W. Batson 3d.
705. They were lovely ... Stainer 4d.
221. Think, good Jesu ... Mozart 6d.
359. Think not that they F. Brandeis 2d.
161. This is the day ... S. C. Cooke 3d.
422. This is the day G. M. Garrett 4d.
327. This is the day ... E. V. Hall 4d.
949. This is the day B. Harwood 3d.
621. This is the day E. H. Lemare 4d.
462. This is the day A. W. Marchant 3d.
13. This is the day ... John Sewell 2d.
735. This is the day ... B. Steane 4d.
4. This is the day ... J. Turle 3d.
851. This is the record of John Gibbons 3d.
828. Thou art a Priest for S. Wesley 3d.
678. Thou art gone to the Williams 2d.
934. Thou art My Son ... T. Adams 3d.
265. Thou Judge of quick & dead Wesley 3d.
259. Thou, Lord, art merciful Mozart 6d.
653. Thou, Lord, in the... J. Stainer 4d.
354. Thou, O God, art praised E. V. Hall 3d.
930. Ditto J. W. Elliott 2d.
579. Ditto B. Luard-Selby 3d.
281. Ditto R. Stewart 4d.
62. Ditto S. Wesley 3d.
747. Ditto W. Wolstenholme 4d.
826. Thou shalt keep the feast Cowen 4d.
476. Thou shalt shew me C. Bowdler 3d.
634. Thou that sittest between F. Illife 3d.
480. Thou visitest the earth J. Barnby 4d.
244. Thou visitest the earth J. B. Calkin 4d.
191. Thou visitest the earth Callcott 2d.
549. Thou visitest the earth ... Elliott 3d.
866. Thou who art for ever A. Dvorák 3d.
484. Thou wilt keep him P. Armes 4d.
714. Thou wilt keep him J. B. Calkin 2d.
72. Thou wilt keep him Gauntlett 3d.
107. Thou wilt keep him... S. S. Wesley 3d.
276. Thou wilt keep him C. L. Williams 2d.
515. Through peace ... J. H. Roberts 3d.
902. Through the day ... Luard-Selby 2d.
216. Thus saith the Lord Garrett 6d.
622. Ditto P. J. Fry 3d.
441. Thy mercy, O Lord Garrett 6d.
320. Thy mercy, O Lord E. J. Hopkins 6d.
514. Thy word is a lantern H. Purcell 4d.
363. To bless Thy chosen F. Brandeis 2d.
980. To the Holy Spirit H. W. Davies 4d.
322. To Thee, O Lord C. L. Williams 3d.
443. Try me, O God (Male) A. D. Culley 2d.
618. Turbarum voces ... G. Byrd 4d.
275. Turn Thy face ... Steggall 4d.
626. Turn ye (Rend your) Godfrey 3d.
160. Unto Thee have I cried G. Elvey 3d.
601. Unto Thee, O God, do we B. Steane 3d.
555. Unto us a Child is born F. Adlam 4d.
186. Wash me throughly S. S. Wesley 3d.
757. Weary of earth ... E. V. Hall 3d.
610. Weary pilgrims ... F. Leoni 3d.
386. We beseech Thee John E. West 2d.
76. We give Thee thanks ... Macfarren 3d.
74. We have heard ... A. Sullivan 6d.
888. We sent unto thee ... A. Hollins 3d.
387. We shall not hunger A. Mackenzie 3d.
127. We will rejoice ... Croft 4d.
57. What are these ... J. Stainer 3d.
965. What sweeter music H. W. Davies 6d.
974. What'er the blossom'd Haydn 3d.
235. Whatsoever is born of God Oakeley 3d.
606. When Christ was born Davies 4d.
538. When Christ, Who J. V. Roberts 2d.
337. When God of old ... E. V. Hall 3d.
786. When Israel came out of Wesley 4d.
489. When Jesus was born Cruickshank 3d.
791. When the Lord turned E. Faning 4d.
372. When the Lord turned E. Prout 6d.
563. Where Thou reignest Schubert 3d.
69. Wherewithal shall ... G. Elvey 6d.
26. Ditto ... ...H. Hiles 3d.
650. While all things ... H. J. King 3d.
889. While all things Healey Willan 3d.
529. While shepherds watched Barnby 4d.
541. Ditto Elvey 3d.
910. Ditto E. V. Hall 3d.
637. While the earth remaineth Gaul 4d.
175. Ditto Heap 4d.
640. Ditto Sawyer 4d.
578. Ditto Bruce Steane 3d.
954. Ditto H. W. Wareing 3d.
463. Ditto C. L. Williams 3d.
361. While with ceaseless F. Brandeis 2d.
787. Who can comprehend Thee Mozart 3d.
264. Who is like unto Thee A. Sullivan 6d.
836. Who is this? H. Elliot Button 3d.
417. Ditto Fred. Rayner 2d.
115. Who is this that cometh Arnold 4d.
181. Whoso dwelleth ... G. C. Martin 4d.
269. Why assemble the ... Rheinberger 3d.
299. Why do the heathen Gardner 4d.
23. Why rage fiercely ... Mendelssohn 6d.
218. Why seek ye the living Alexander 3d.
468. Ditto (S.A.) M. B. Foster 3d.
918. Ditto A. Hollins 3d.
423. Ditto F. Peel 4d.
645. Why standest Thou M. B. Foster 3d.
661. Wisdom shall praise herself West 3d.
20. With angels... ... J. L. Hopkins 3d.
821. Withdraw not Thou Thy Attwood 4d.
22. Word of God incarnate ...Gounod 3d.
785. Worthy is the Lamb E. H. Thorne 3d.
572. Ye holy Angels bright Richards 3d.
352. Ye shall go out with joy J. Barnby 4d

(To be continued.)

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

The orchestral concert given by Trinity College of Music at Queen's Hall on July 11 was a further example of the proficient work of the College. Mr. Wilhelm Sachse conducted performances of Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony and movements from Concertos, in which Mr. Patrick Thayer (pianist), Miss Aileen Butler (violinist), and Mr. Giovanni Barbirolli (violoncellist) were the soloists. Miss Clarice Mills, Miss Edith Hillard, and Miss Alice Booth were the singers.

The Guildhall School of Music gave its orchestral concert at Queen's Hall on July 12, and further evidence of the success that is attending Mr. Ronald's efforts was given. The 'Jena' Symphony was the chief orchestral work in the programme, and a mixed-voice choir took part in an excellent performance of Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' under the composer's direction.

VOCAL RECITALS.

At her second recital, which took place at Æolian Hall on the afternoon of June 20, Miss Elizabeth Munthe-Kaas sang a number of songs by Scandinavian composers. Both voice and style were admirably adapted to the music. The list included works by Mr. Johan Backer-Lunde. In the evening Mr. Robert Chignell's conscientious singing was heard with pleasure. He introduced some attractive songs by Mr. Julius Harrison, by himself, and by Mr. Rudolf Zwintscher. On June 21, at Bechstein Hall, Signor Luigi Parisotti showed the vocal powers that give authority to his writing on vocal matters; Signorina Silvia Parisotti also took part as a singer. Ability above the average was shown by Madame Ilma Loyd, an Australian soprano new to London, at Steinway Hall on June 27; M. José Moraes, of the London Opera House, assisted. Miss Louise Dale's pure soprano voice and refined expression were put to good use at Bechstein Hall on June 26. She had distinguished assistance from other artists, vocal and instrumental. A recital was given by Miss Lillian Macdonald at Bechstein Hall on June 27.

Miss Eileen Nicolls sang with pure tone and natural expression at Æolian Hall on June 28. A recital of some interest was given at Æolian Hall, on July 2, by Mr. Eric Oulton (tenor) and Mr. J. Emerson (baritone), both of whom showed good capacity. The earnest young bass-singer, Herr Rudolph von Warlich, gave a lieder-singing recital at Bechstein Hall on July 3. Mr. Gwynne Davies, assisted by the Queen's Hall Orchestra under Sir Henry Wood, chose a highly-varied and ambitious programme for his recital at Bechstein Hall on July 4, and made good use of his fine voice and wide expressive powers.

The great success of Madame Nordica's first recital on June 14 was equalled by that of the second, which took place on July 5 at Queen's Hall. On this occasion there was no orchestra, and Mr. Romayne Simmons supplied pianoforte accompaniment. A highly-varied programme included a setting of Tennyson's 'At the gate' by Madame Nordica herself.

Signorina Attilia Janni, an Italian soprano, made her first appearance in England at Bechstein Hall on July 5, and showed a wide range of style.

The operatic baritone, Signor Armando Lecomte, was heard to advantage in excerpts from 'I Pagliacci' and 'Andrea Chenier' at Æolian Hall on June 10. He also sang operatic duets with Mlle. Jomelli.

Mr. Philippe Coudert, who made his first appearance at Steinway Hall on July 11, has a light baritone voice of good quality and sings expressively.

Two of the most successful events of the season were the Sunday afternoon appearances of Madame Tetrazzini at the Albert Hall, of which the second took place on June 30.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

Twelve 'Etudes' of Chopin were played with some brilliance by Mr. Frederick Morley in the course of a recital at Bechstein Hall on June 20. Master Solomon greatly charmed his audience at Queen's Hall on June 24, when he had all the glory of orchestral accompaniment under Sir Henry Wood, and was presented with a watch and a tricycle. Mr. Josef Lhévinne played the three best-known Concertos of Liszt, Beethoven, and Tchaikovsky at Queen's Hall on June 25, assisted by the London Symphony Orchestra under M. Safonoff; his style was both large and brilliant. Duets for two pianofortes were played by Misses Una and Irene Truman at Steinway Hall on June 25, and Miss Violet Runciman (vocalist) assisted. Mr. Reginald d'Arcy, an Australian pianist, made his first appearance in London at Steinway Hall on June 27.

Mr. Max Darewski, who gave a recital at Bechstein Hall on June 28, is evidently emerging safely from the prodigy period and developing into an artist.

Mr. Robert Lortat gave the fifth of his Chopin recitals at Bechstein Hall on June 29, and performed all the Preludes. His playing appeals chiefly by its vigour and technical excellence.

Mr. Edward Goll, once noted for the vigour of his pianoforte-playing, chose a refined and delicate method for his recital at Bechstein Hall on July 4, when he played a Haydn Sonata and other light works with almost exemplary finish.

There was much to admire in the playing of Mr. Charles Anthony at Æolian Hall on July 5, and in that of Miss Katherine Ruth Heyman at Æolian Hall on July 10.

An event probably without precedent—a pianoforte recital by an Indian lady—took place at Queen's Small Hall on July 12, when Madame Kherla Kinuk made it clear that she is a musician and executant of considerable ability. The proceeds of the recital were placed in the fund to enable Madame Kinuk to continue her studies.

VIOLIN RECITALS.

Violin recitals were given at Æolian Hall on June 21 by Mr. Robert Pollack, who introduced a 'Rhapsodie' by Emmanuel Moor, and Miss Margaret Holloway. At Bechstein Hall Signorina Crespi played Violin concertos with freedom and ability. Mr. Richard Epstein (pianist) and Mr. Aldo Antonietti (violinist) were heard together in Sonatas by Mozart (in E flat), Brahms (in A), and in Goldmark's Suite in E (Op. 11).

Señor Joan Manén, who yields to no other violinist in purity of tone and utterance, gave a second recital at Bechstein Hall on June 24.

Miss Leila Doubleday, whose accuracy of intonation is unique for so young a player, gave a further recital at Bechstein Hall on June 25. Her interpretations of Sonatas by Brahms and Grieg were more expressive than any of her playing that we had heard before.

Miss Isoline Harvey gave some clever violin-playing at Bechstein Hall on June 28. Miss Oswyn Jones and Mr. Stuart Edwards sang songs that included three of Miss Harvey's.

Further recitals were given at Æolian Hall on July 11 and 18 by Mr. Robert Pollack, his accompanists being M. Louis Aubert and Mr. Julius Harrison. He is a violinist whom one would willingly hear more often. On the last occasion he had 'Solomon' as a colleague.

OTHER RECITALS AND CONCERTS.

On June 25, Madame Hugo and Mr. Robert Maitland sang in admirable fashion at 13, Lansdowne Road (the residence of Mrs. Edmund Davis). Miss Myra Hess and Mr. Richard Epstein (pianists) contributed to an excellent programme.

Miss Jessie Gardner, Mr. Godfrey Gardner (pianist), Mr. Albert Garcia, Miss Elisabeth d'Esmond (vocalists), Mr. Rowsby Woof (violinist), and Mr. E. Whitehouse (violoncellist) took part in an interesting concert of chamber music given at Queen's Small Hall on June 26.

One of the pleasantest experiences of the season has been the appreciation of Mr. Arnold Trowell's violoncello-playing. He adds to the list of successful musicians from the Colonies a name to be reckoned with. His second recital took place at Bechstein Hall on June 26, when he played Bach's unaccompanied Suite in C admirably.

At a concert given by Mr. Huberman at Queen's Hall on July 4, Madame Maria Talesi, who comes from America, made her first appearance in London, and displayed a voice of considerable beauty and an experienced style.

Mr. Nino Rossi (pianist), Mr. Augusto Gabrini (violinist), and Mr. Vernon d'Arnalle (vocalist) all contributed to the success of a concert given at Broadwood Rooms on July 8.

Mlles. Marianne, Clara, and Emmy Eissler gave an interesting concert of violin, harp, and pianoforte music at Leighton House on July 9.

Pupils' concerts too numerous to mention in detail have taken place in London during July.

The recent Festival of the Tonic Sol-fa Association at the Crystal Palace is noticed in the School Music Review for August.

Music in the Provinces.

(BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

BOURNEMOUTH.

Musical doings during the past month have been restricted to the weekly Symphony Concerts on Thursday afternoons, a curtailment of events that is justified by the usual inactivity of the town in the early part of the summer. The material at the few concerts that have taken place has been unpretentious, but at the same time thoroughly enjoyable. As a matter of course Mr. Dan Godfrey is expected to adapt his programmes to his audiences, and at this season of the year the latter are supposedly less critical and less appreciative of anything in the shape of novelties than are our winter visitors. This of course is a hypothetical view, and one not easy to decide, but Mr. Godfrey has always shown such admirable foresight in anticipating the wishes of his patrons that we may accept this inference as correct. Meanwhile, it is a matter of no great complexity to arrange a programme which, without being ambitious in scope, is calculated to arouse one's interest; and there our musical director has not failed us. Symphonies such as the fourth and eighth of Beethoven, Schumann's in C, and the No. 5 of Tchaikovsky are works of a fine calibre, and a programme is the richer by the inclusion of any one of them. Music of a very distinctive quality, too, is to be found within the covers of Ethel Smyth's 'Wreckers' Overture, the Ballet-music from 'Orféo' (Gluck-Mottl), C. V. Stanford's 'Irish' Rhapsody, Tchaikovsky's 'Romeo and Juliet' Overture, and the 'Magic Flute' Overture of Mozart. Then, too, all these compositions, because of the universality of their appeal, require very careful handling if they are not to suffer from comparisons that are odious; but there was little to cavil at in the interpretations, and the majority of the performances were of much merit. The soloists have been selected from among the members of the orchestra, and one is pleased at being able to speak in terms of high commendation regarding their efforts. Mr. Montague Birch, the Winter Gardens' accompanist and a second violin in the orchestral ranks, may be complimented on his neat and expressive playing in Mendelssohn's G minor Pianoforte concerto; Mr. F. King-Hall, the leader, made the most of the Fantasia Appassionata for violin and orchestra by Vieuxtemps; Mr. Mauritz Speelman achieved a pronounced success in Rögister's Fantasia for viola and orchestra; and Mr. S. Coelho satisfactorily accounted for Goltermann's Violoncello concerto in A minor. In the absence of Mr. Godfrey on a well-earned holiday, the concert on July 4 was under the direction of Mr. King-Hall.

DEVON AND CORNWALL.

THE THREE TOWNS.

The two Festival services which were held by the Three Towns Deanery Choral Union, respectively in Stoke Church on July 2, and in St. Andrews' Church, Plymouth, on July 16, marked such definite and advanced progress in every respect from the standard of former years, as to cause deep rejoicing to those who have the interest of church music at heart. The Union has of late years had a very chequered history, involving numerous and constant change of officials, and three years ago, just before the election of the present hon. conductor, it looked as if the organization was about to decease. But the appointment of Mr. Manley Martin as conductor was felt to be pregnant with hope of better things and more steady work, and the hope has been amply fulfilled. Each year members and interest have increased, and the standard of performance has by dint of persevering, hard work been gradually raised. The 'book' was as usual drawn up for Evensong, the canticles being sung to Huntley in E flat, the service being supplemented by Te Deum from the same setting. Fourteen choirs affiliated, producing a total of 540 singers. The anthem was Martin's 'Whoso dwelleth,' of which the choirs, after an impressive prelude (expository and imaginative) played by Mr. H. Moreton, organist of St. Andrew's Church, gave a beautiful performance instinct with religious feeling. The choirs may be recommended to aim at a much more subdued monotoning of the liturgy, and especially of the Confession, for the purpose of greater devotional expression. Mr. F. W. Harris, organist of Stoke Church, officiated at the organ at the first service.

DEVONSHIRE.

Woodleigh Deanery branch of the Exeter Diocesan Choral Association was represented by seven choirs at the Festival at Stokenham on June 26, the total number of singers being 160. The organist, Mr. J. Rhymes, was supported by a small orchestra, and the diocesan 'book' was used. The finest point of the service was the singing of the anthem, 'God is gone up with a merry noise' (Croft), in which the verse was sung by the Kingsbridge Choir. The jubilee of the North Devon Choral Union was celebrated in enthusiastic fashion by a festive service in the beautiful Parish Church at Barnstaple, when twenty-three choirs were represented by 500 voices, and Mr. T. Roylands-Smith conducted and Dr. H. J. Edwards played the organ with musicianly skill, especially in the accompaniments. A spell of awe was spread over the proceedings by the facts that the vicar, the Rev. R. Turner, who was to have preached, had died suddenly a few days before, and the Rev. Preb. Pigot, who had been largely responsible for the formation of the Union fifty years before, had been taken to burial on the preceding day. The excellence of the singing, and especially of the somewhat difficult Te Deum (Garrett in D), gave evidence of the good influence exercised by the Union on church music in the district. Moreton and Totnes Deaneries Choral Union, also in affiliation with the diocesan association, met at Newton Abbot on July 4, nine choirs producing a total of 225 choristers. Mr. M. Bown was at the organ, and Mr. W. J. Bown conducted. Mr. T. Roylands-Smith, diocesan choirmaster, conducted the eight choirs from the Plympton deanery, who met with a total of 216 singers at the strikingly beautiful and cathedral-like church of Ugborough, one of the quaintest and most old-fashioned of Devonshire villages. The organ, an antiquated instrument of one manual, and by no means adequate to the dignity of the church, was made the most of by Mr. A. J. Elliott, and the singers, who came from small country parishes, sang remarkably well.

Exeter Amateur Operatic Society (Mr. Allan Allen, conductor) have reported a profit of £116 from the performances of 'Haddon Hall' last January. Of this sum, £110 has been voted to county and local charities (making a total of £710 thus distributed by the Society during the last six years) and £6 to the reserve fund. It has been resolved to produce 'Utopia Limited' next year. Mention must be made of the representation of an 'Old English Revel' at Nymet St. George, North Devon, on July 16. The play is founded on the legend of 'St. George and the Dragon,' and the music consists of folk-songs (accompanied by fiddles), with Morris dances by the children. Mr. Herbert Kingdon was master of the ceremonies, with the Rev. A. E. Buchanan as stage-manager. Mr. Stanley Chipperfield lectured on Domenico Scarlatti, at Honiton, on July 17, with Mr. Lionel Birch as vocalist.

CORNWALL.

Under the presidency of Mr. A. K. Barnett, an operatic and dramatic Society has been formed at Penzance, with Mr. A. C. Dolben as hon. secretary.

The cantata, 'David the shepherd boy,' was sung on June 27 in Torpoint Wesleyan Church, with orchestral support. Mr. H. E. Eustace conducted a performance of 'Mary of Bethany' at Tywardreath on July 16. Several female choirs amalgamated at Camborne on July 17, in a concert of glees and choruses, in aid of Redruth Miners' Hospital. The Rev. J. H. Duerdon, Mr. F. E. Luke, and Bandmaster Uren conducted, and the choirs were from Basset Road, Roskear, Camborne Ladies' Choir, Mrs. Bennett's Factory Girls' Choir, and Camborne Orpheus Glee Union.

EDINBURGH.

Under the direction of Mr. J. A. Moonie, the annual choral recital by the students of the Provincial Training College was given in the M'Ewan Hall on June 25. The works performed comprised MacCunn's 'Bonny Kilmeny,' a selection from Gounod's 'Faust,' a 'Coronach' by Granville Bantock, and a 'Choral March' by Rutland Boughton. Despite the fact that the personnel of the Association necessarily changes considerably each season, the singing of the choir reached a high standard of excellence, and reflected much credit on the conductor. The soloists were Miss Alice M. Cleugh, Miss Louise Johnston, and Miss Janet Drummond, Messrs. W. H. Oldham, James H. Carson, T. H. Clow, and Hamish Emslie. Miss M. Chrystal contributed a number of violin solos which were much enjoyed. A small orchestra led by Mr. Henry Dambmann, Mr. T. H. Collinson at the organ, and Mr. Martin Hobkirk and Mr. W. B. Moonie at the two pianofortes, provided the accompaniments.

MANCHESTER AND DISTRICT.

Under the presidency of Dr. Carroll, Dean of the Faculty of Music in Manchester University, a number of headmistresses of secondary schools met recently and decided to hold a 'Music Festival for Girls' Secondary Schools, Manchester and District,' on competitive lines. The scope of the work will cover part-singing and unison singing, ear-training, sight-reading, and school orchestral playing.

Our musicians, both performers and audiences, are now scattered, the moors, seaside, and inland spas claiming them for a brief season—and the only music in this city during the past month has been provided at the Cathedral, and our two Colleges, where the annual examinations have been held. The meeting of the Manchester Diocesan Church Music Society, in the last week of June (too late for comment in our July issue), brought together a body of singers capable of a volume of tone commensurate with the noble proportions of the Cathedral. Dr. Nicholson conducted Hopkins's service in F, a chorus from Elgar's 'Light of the world,' Mendelssohn's 'Judge me, O God,' and Sir Hubert Parry's 'Hear my words, ye people.' Before the service, the Cathedral sub-organist, Mr. R. H. Coleman (recently appointed to Blackburn Parish Church), gave a brief recital.

At Mr. Albert Cross's School of Music the end of Summer term brought an orchestral concert in the new Houldsworth Hall, in which the programme showed more enterprise than discretion; the works played for the first time here were too numerous to admit of adequate rehearsal and performance. The 'Jena' Symphony of Beethoven was much more within the grasp of the players.

The work at the Royal Manchester College of Music was passed in review at a series of three examination concerts, in the first week of July, one of which was fittingly confined to the work of the younger students. Of the maturer students the past year has brought into especial prominence the work of Messrs. Alwyne Browne (pianoforte), Naum Blinder (violin), and John Wills (pianoforte). Mr. Browne also had performed three songs of his own composition, and Mr. F. A. Tyrer played his own Pianoforte 'Variations on an original theme.' Miss Marie Brema enters upon her duties here next October; Miss Hilda de Angelis has also been appointed a teacher of singing. Next year being the twenty-first year since the foundation of this College, the authorities are to give some half-dozen concerts in adjacent Lancashire centres, a very good way of bringing the work of the institution more prominently before the public.

It is gratifying to find the Hallé Orchestra Pension Fund thrives apace; seven members are now in receipt of £21 each per annum. The total sum in hand at the close of last season was £8,522.

The Manchester Nonconformist Choir Festival, held at the White City on July 6, does not appear to be gripping the constituency to which its appeal is primarily made. Possibly, in view of the numerous Festivals in Lancashire, there is not now the same necessity for a purely Nonconformist Festival.

Stockport, the great hatting centre a few miles away from Manchester, amongst other things boasts the largest Sunday School in the country, and on July 7 held, for the twenty-seventh year in succession, an open-air Musical Festival in the Vernon Park. Thousands of folk flocked in to hear the six hundred-strong choir conducted by an ex-Mayor, Mr. Henry Bell, the leader of the orchestra being the present Mayor, Alderman A. Briggs. Massive Handelian and Mendelssohn choruses were used, interspersed with hymns, in which the huge crowd joined heartily.

Our Manchester Orpheus Choir has gained much renown in the last two years, but probably its conductor is more proud of the invitation to take his choir to London on November 11, to sing the Brahms 'Alt-Rhapsodie,' under Fritz Steinbach, at a London Symphony Orchestra Concert, than of the many honours which have been showered upon him recently.

NEWCASTLE AND DISTRICT.

In spite of the heavy financial loss of last season, the Philharmonic Orchestra intend to present a splendid programme in the coming season. At the four concerts announced, the following Symphonies will be played: Mozart's in E flat, Beethoven's fifth, Dvorák's 'New World,' and Franck's in D minor. The talented conductor, Mr. E. L. Bainton, will be the soloist in the Grieg Pianoforte concerto, and the fine playing of the principal first violin, Mr. A. Wall, will be heard in the Beethoven Concerto. Young England will be represented by Holbrooke's 'Three blind mice' variations, Grainger's 'Mock Morris,' Gardiner's 'Shepherd Fennel's Dance,' Anderton's 'Spring Idyll,' and Harty's 'Comedy overture.' Other names on the list are Wagner, Borodine, Smetana, Moussorgsky, Sibelius, Debussy, and Glazounow. If some of the programmes of the Harmonic Society have been severe, this will not be the case at their first concert next season, when two of the breeziest works our young men have written will be performed. Hubert Bath's 'Wedding of Shon Maclean' and Gardiner's 'News from Whydah' will make the evening a merry one, and the balance will be kept by a concert-performance of our modern opera 'Elijah' in March. The Armstrong College Choral Society will give Part 3 of Schumann's 'Faust,' Stanford's 'Phaudrig Crohoore,' and a group of Northumbrian folk-songs.

The Choral Societies existing at Tynemouth and Whitley Bay have agreed to amalgamate under the conductor of the latter, and hope to muster some 250 members. The first concert will consist of Von Holst's 'Hymns from the Rig Veda,' Elgar's 'Black Knight,' and Mendelssohn's 'Midsummer Night's Dream' music.

Country and Colonial News.

BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED.

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this summary, as the notices are either prepared from local newspapers or furnished by correspondents.

Correspondents are particularly requested to enclose a programme when forwarding reports of concerts.

Auckland (N.Z.).—A notable event in recent musical doings in this city was the performance of Sullivan's 'The Golden Legend' by the Auckland Choral Society, of which we have received a 'souvenir programme.' The conductor was Dr. W. E. Thomas, and the soloists Miss Rosina Buckmann, Madame Doria Hunt, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. Charles Larsen.

Cranleigh School (Surrey).—On Thursday, July 11, the annual summer concert took place, the chief item on the programme being Parry's 'Pied Piper of Hamelin,' which was excellently performed by the School choir of about fifty voices. The tenor and bass solos were taken by Rev. R. H. C. Mertens and Mr. H. D. Wells respectively. The programme also included Mendelssohn's 'Fingal's Cave' Overture and Tchaikovsky's 'Casse Noisette' Suite, and a song, 'Our Lady of the Snows' (Walford Davies), sung by Mr. Wells. A large band, containing principals from London orchestras, ably led by Mr. W. A. Boxall, provided accompaniment. Mr. C. H. Vince was at the pianoforte, and Mr. R. Harris was the conductor.

Invercargill (N.Z.)—The Musical Union brought a successful season to a close on May 10, with a concert that was distinguished by an excellent selection of orchestral works. These included Mendelssohn's 'Ruy Blas' Overture and numbers from Cowen's 'Language of flowers' Suite. The solo vocalists were Mrs. H. R. Hogg and Mr. George Black, and the conductor was Mr. Charles Gray. A proposal is on foot to resuscitate the choir that was once attached to the Musical Union.

Johannesburg.—The 119th and tenth anniversary meeting of the Amateur Male-Voice Choir and Orchestral Society took place with great success on June 12. The South African anthem, the Storm chorus from David's 'The desert,' and the Huntsmen's chorus from Weber's 'Der Freischütz,' were the contributions of the choir, and the orchestra was heard separately in Offenbach's well-known Barcarolle and Sibelius's 'Finlandia.' Mr. F. W. Peters conducted, and the soloists were Miss Blodwen Hopkins and Mr. Robert Kopsky.

Oundle School.—The summer concert was given in the Great Hall of the School on June 28. The programme included Schubert's 'Rosamunde' Ballet-music No. 2; a selection from Sullivan's 'The Gondoliers'; Wagner's March and Chorus from 'Tannhäuser'; Weber's Gipsy chorus from 'Preciosa'; Sullivan's 'O gladsome Light'; pianoforte solos by Coleridge-Taylor and Moszkowski; violin solos and two movements from Popper's Suite (Op. 16) for two violoncellos, and treble unison French and English songs. The choir and orchestra, conducted by Mr. C. M. Spurling, numbered 140.

Toowoomba.—A triumph has been achieved by the Toowoomba Philharmonic Society, who, by winning Paling Challenge Cup at the Easter Eisteddfodau of 1908, 1911, 1912, now retain it permanently. The souvenir programme of a miscellaneous concert given on May 7 sets forth the competition successes since the Society's inception in 1903. In the period it has gained no fewer than thirty first-prizes, under the conductorship of Mr. Stanley Hobson. At the concert mentioned, the choir sang Handel's 'O Father, whose Almighty power,' McLean's 'The skylark' (ladies' voices), MacEwen's 'Let me the canakin clink,' Rutland Boughton's 'The Black Monk,' Elgar's 'Weary wind of the West,' and Mendelssohn's 'Rise up! Arise.' The orchestra played the Allegro Vivace from Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony, and solo items were contributed by Miss Mabel Walton, Miss Amy Cooke, and Mr. G. H. Sims, all of whom are members of the choir.

Foreign Notes.

ANTWERP.

A concert devoted to compositions by Jan Blockx was organized by the Conservatoire in memory of its late director, and took place on July 1 in the Salle de l'Harmonie. The programme included the 'Rubens' Overture, the 'Triptyque symphonique,' the little cantata 'De Klokke Roeland,' and 'Op den Stroom' for solo voices, double chorus, and orchestra. The well-known Wagnerian tenor, M. Ernst van Dyck, is said to be among the candidates for the vacant post of Director of the Conservatoire.

BADEN-BADEN.

A Mozart-Schubert Festival has taken place recently with great success. Five concerts were given, two of orchestral, two of chamber music, and one a recital of Schubert's songs by Madame Julia Culp. Mozart was represented by the overture to 'The magic-flute,' the 'Jupiter' Symphony, the Pianoforte concerto in A major (soloist, Herr Egon Petri), the A major Violin concerto, played by Professor Karl Klingler, the G minor String quintet, and other chamber works. Fine performances were given of Schubert's Symphonies in C major and B minor (the 'Unfinished'), the String quartet in A minor, and the C major String quintet. The conductors were Herr Ernst von Schuch, from Dresden, and Herr Paul Hein. The Klingler Quartet took part in the chamber music.

BERLIN.

On June 12, Dr. Karl Muck made his last appearance as conductor at the Royal Opera, when he directed a fine performance of Wagner's 'Tristan und Isolde.' He received a great ovation. It is significant that the possibility of retaining his services has been discussed in the Prussian Parliament. Dr. Muck is again going to Boston as conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.——At the Theatre of the Königliche Hochschule für Musik, Domenico Cimarosa's once-famous comic-opera 'Die heimliche Ehe' ('Il matrimonio segreto') was recently revived with great success under the direction of Herr Richard Falk.——The season at the Royal Opera concluded with a performance of Massenet's 'Manon.' A new eleven-year old violin prodigy, Jascha Heifetz, a pupil of Professor Leopold Auer, made a sensational first appearance.

BUDA-PEST.

The nineteenth Landessängerfest took place towards the end of June, and exhibited the enthusiasm and high ability of the competing choirs. The programmes consisted throughout of native compositions with Hungarian texts.

CASSEL.

Among the novelties performed at the Symphony Concerts of the Hofkapelle have been Heinrich Zöllner's Symphony in F major, Elgar's 'Variations,' and Felix Woyrsch's three 'Böcklinphantasien.'——At the Opera the tenor, Herr Richter (a son of Dr. Hans Richter), has appeared three times with success.

COLOGNE.

Under the auspices of the Festspielverein the annual operatic Festival performances have taken place in the Neues Opernhaus. Mozart's 'The marriage of Figaro' was excellently given under the direction of Herr Fritz Steinbach. Wagner's 'Der Ring des Nibelungen,' with new mise en scène, was another feature of the proceedings, which terminated with 'Die Meistersinger,' under the direction of Herr Leo Blech. Among the artists appearing were Mesdames Edyth Walker, Frieda Hempel, Otilie Metzger, Lola Artot de Padilla, and Messrs. Jörn, Knote, and Reiss.

DESSAU.

Some interesting works, including Scriabine's second Symphony, Erwin Lendvai's Scherzo for large orchestra, and Mahler's sixth Symphony, have been heard at the last Symphony Concerts conducted by Herr Mikorey.

DORTMUND.

A Festival devoted to Swedish music took place in June. It was inaugurated with a performance of Wilhelm Stenhammar's opera, 'Gildet paa Solhaug' (the libretto is an adaptation of Ibsen's drama). The same composer's String quartet in A minor and his second Pianoforte concerto (excellently played by himself) were also heard. The programmes further included Berwald's 'Symphonie Singulière,' the overture to 'Antonius and Cleopatra,' and a String quartet by Ludwig Norman, Södermann's 'Wallfahrt nach Kevelaer' and 'Tannhäuser-Ballade,' and the symphonic-poems 'Die Toteninsel,' by Andreas Hallén, and 'Schären-Sage,' by Hugo Alfvén. A Ballad for male choir and orchestra, 'Der junge Herr Sture,' and a Symphony by the latter composer were among the most interesting features of the Festival. Professor Marteau had a great success with Tor Aulin's Violin concerto in C minor. Among the chamber-music works heard, the interesting Violin sonatas by Peterson-Berger and Emil Sjögren deserve special mention.

The excellent baritone, Herr John Forsell, sang national songs by Lindblad. The famous choir of students from the University of Upsala had come specially for the Festival. Herr Georg Hüttner was conductor-in-chief.

DRESDEN.

The first annual demonstration of Jaques-Dalcroze's system of rhythmic gymnastics took place on June 28 to 30 at the new training-school situated in the Garden City, Hellerau, near Dresden.——Two concerts devoted to Russian sacred and secular choral music were given by the Archangelskij choir at the Royal Opera House and proved highly interesting.

HALLE.

Some interesting choral works have been heard during the latter part of the season. Under the direction of Herr W. Wurfschmidt the Hallesche Singakademie gave a creditable performance of Lizst's oratorio 'Christus.'——The Robert Franz-Singakademie gave a concert performance of Peter Cornelius's delightful comic-opera 'Der Barbier von Bagdad,' and at another concert Schumann's 'Requiem für Mignon' and his setting of Hebbel's 'Nachtlied' and Brahms's 'Gesang der Parzen' and 'Ave Maria' for female chorus, all novelties in this town, were heard with great interest.

LEMBERG.

Moussorgsky's 'Boris Godounoff' and Massenet's 'Thaïs' have been given for the first time at the Opera.——Among the novelties performed at the concerts of the Musikverein (conductor, M. Soltys) have been Wallek-Wallewski's symphonic-poem 'Zygmunt August i Barbara,' Cowen's orchestral Fantasy 'Life and Love,' a Violin concerto by M. Karlowicz, E. Morawsky's 'Don Kiszot' and Pianoforte concerto, and the choral work 'Die Nonnen' by Max Reger.

OSTEND.

At the well-known orchestral concerts conducted by M. Leon Rinskopf, an interesting symphonic-poem, 'Cyrano de Bergerac,' by Robert Herberigs, and the Swedish Rhapsody, 'Midsommervaka,' by Hugo Alfvèn, have been given for the first time. The Misses May and Beatrice Harrison have appeared twice with great success.

PARIS.

M. Louis Ganne's three-act operetta, 'Les Saltimbanques,' has been successfully revived at the Apollo Theatre.——A four-act opera, 'Madame Pierre,' composed by M. Edmond Malherbe to the libretto of MM. Henri Cain and J. Marx, was produced on June 5 at the Alhambra (Théâtre du Château d'Eau). A week later, viz., June 13, the same composer produced a one-act comic-opera, 'Cléanthis,' and on the same evening another opera, 'L'Emeute.' Both libretti were written by M. Georges Spitzmüller.——At the Châtelet Theatre the Russian Ballet interpreted Debussy's tone-poem, 'L'après-midi d'un Faune' (the Faun being impersonated by M. Nijinsky). On the same occasion a new ballet, 'Daphnis et Chloe,' with music by Maurice Ravel, was produced and aroused considerable interest.——At the Grand Opéra special performances of Wagner's 'Tristan und Isolde' and 'Der Ring des Nibelungen' have taken place under the direction of MM. Otto Lohse and Weingartner. At the same institution the ensemble of the Monte Carlo opera, reinforced by Signori Titta Ruffo, Chaliapine, and Caruso, have given a series of performances of Italian opera, the scheme including Rossini's 'Il Barbiere di Siviglia,' Verdi's 'Rigoletto,' 'Mefistofele,' by Boito, and Puccini's 'La Fanciulla del West' (performed for the first time in Paris). M. Emile Verhaeren's tragedy, 'Hélène de Sparte,' with most interesting incidental music by Déodat de Séverac, has been produced at the Châtelet Theatre.——To celebrate the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Jean Jaques Rousseau, his little opera, 'Le Devin du village,' has been revived at the Opéra-Comique.——At the Odéon Theatre M. Brieux's drama 'La Foi' has been performed, with incidental music by Dr. Saint-Saëns (who himself conducted).

PRAGUE.

The annual operatic Festival has taken place at the Deutsche Landestheater. The scheme comprised six operas, viz., Wolff-Ferrari's 'Der Schmuck der Madonna' (which was given for the first time), Wagner's 'Meistersinger,' Meyerbeer's 'Afrikanerin,' and Verdi's 'Ernani,' 'Maskenball,' and 'Rigoletto.'

ST. PETERSBURG.

Three interesting orchestral concerts have been given under the auspices of the publishing house of Belaieff. At the first of these Glazounoff's new Pianoforte concerto was produced. The programme also contained his 'Orientalischer Tanz' and 'Festzug' on a Finnish theme, A. Winkler's Orchestral Variations, and Borodine's posthumous third Symphony (finished by Glazounoff). Liapounoff's new Pianoforte concerto, and a gorgeously scored symphonic-poem, 'Die Sirenen,' by R. Glière, were produced at the second concert. Other works heard at these interesting concerts were a Symphony by Malischewsky and Wyschnogradsky's overture to 'Marit.'

STUTTGART.

Richard Strauss's opera 'Feuersnot' has been given with great success for the first time at the Royal Opera. The composer, who conducted, received a great ovation.

VIENNA.

During the latter part of June the eagerly anticipated musical Festival took place with great success, both artistically and materially. The Festival was inaugurated with two performances at the Imperial Opera, when Mozart's 'Marriage of Figaro,' in Mahler's edition, under the direction of Herr Bruno Walter, and Smetana's beautiful opera, 'Dalibor' (conducted by Herr Schalk), were given. The scheme further included five orchestral and choral concerts. At the first of these, which was devoted to Austrian Church music, Schubert's Mass in E flat was beautifully performed under Herr Schalk's conductorship. Professor Nikisch conducted the second concert, the programme of which contained Beethoven's third 'Leonore' Overture, the fourth Symphony by Brahms, and Bruckner's ninth. At the third concert Mahler's posthumous ninth Symphony was produced under the baton of Herr Bruno Walter. This work, which is in sharp contrast to the stupendous eighth Symphony, is a purely instrumental composition of extended dimensions. In spite of many interesting details, it did not attain the expected success. With the exception of Dvorák's symphonic-poem 'Heldenlied,' the proceedings of the fourth concert were devoted to choral music, including settings of folk-songs from all parts of the Austrian Empire, and such works as Schubert's male chorus, 'Das Dörfchen,' Bruckner's 'Abendzauber,' and Hugo Wolf's 'Elfenlied.' The climax of the Festival was the fifth concert, when memorable performances were given of Gluck's overture to 'Iphigenia in Aulis,' Mozart's Symphony in D (without the Menuet), and Beethoven's ninth Symphony, under the direction of Herr von Weingartner. At the Chapel of the Hofburg a performance of Liszt's Hungarian Coronation Mass was given, and at the Cobenz Castle examples of Johann Strauss and Lanner's dance-music were played in the open air. A special excursion on the Danube (of course with music on board) terminated the Festival.

WEIMAR.

The last concert of the Kofkapelle (conductor, Herr Peter Raabe) was devoted to compositions by Liszt. Besides the symphonic-poems, 'Was man auf dem Berge hört,' 'Mazeppa,' and 'Hunnenschlacht,' two unpublished works, viz., 'Les morts,' an 'oration' for male choir and orchestra (inspired by the death of the composer's son, Daniel) and a cantata, 'Hungaria,' for solo voices, choir, and orchestra, were produced.

Miscellaneous.

In commenting on the Trotter v. Curwen case in our July issue (p. 447), we quoted from the printed statement of claim the allegation that the letter complained of had been addressed to 'various influential persons.' It was however denied in the defence that the letter referred to was sent to anyone else than Miss Temple Frere, who, it should be mentioned, is not connected with the Miss Frere a member of the L.C.C.

A Society under the title of 'The Association for the Promotion of English Singing' has been formed in London, with the object of bringing teachers of singing and all who are directly interested in it into closer relation. Among the original members of the Association are some of the best-known English singers and singing-masters, as well as those who can speak with authority on matters connected with the voice and its education. They are all English, and are concerned with the problem of establishing a standard of purity of speech in singing. Among the founders of the Association and those who have expressed their intention of joining are: Mr. John Acton, Dr. W. A. Aiken, Mr. H. Beauchamp, Dr. J. E. Borland, Mr. Davis Brooks, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. Walter Ford, Mr. H. Plunket Greene, Professor W. H. Hadow, Mr. Gregory Hast, Mr. T. J. Hoare, Mr. Edward Iles, Professor Arthur Keith, Mr. J. Campbell MacInnes, Mr. Frederick Keel, Mr. Robert Maitland, Professor F. W. Mott, Mr. W. Shakespeare, Dr. A. Somervell, Mr. J. E. Talbot, Mr. Herbert Thorndike, and Mr. S. P. Waddington.

On June 25, the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Music was conferred upon Sir Walter Parratt by Durham University. Dr. W. H. Hadow, the Principal, in presenting Sir Walter Parratt, said that his career had throughout been one of the highest distinction—indeed, he was already one of those heroes around whom there had gathered something of the halo of mythology, but whether or not it was correct that he could play simultaneously two fugues of Bach and three games of chess blindfold, or whether that was only the natural exaggeration which might well be expected from enthusiastic pupils, it was certainly true that he was the finest organist of our time, that he stood first in the ranks of teachers of his instrument, and that he had won the unfailing respect and warm affection of all.

Mr. Howard Hadley has left England for Australia in order to examine for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music. He expects to return to England at the end of December.

The pupils of Miss Ada Petherick (pianoforte) and Miss Dora Petherick (violoncello) gave a successful recita at Addiscombe Hall, Croydon, on July 12.

A large number of people will be interested and pleased to hear that Lady Henry Wood gave birth to a daughter on July 24. Our best congratulations and good wishes to the trio.

Answers to Correspondents.

W. E. D. D.—(1) Naturally your inability to read music at sight interferes considerably with your chance of admittance to these Choral Societies. (2) Mr. Ernest Newman's 'Study of Wagner' would repay your attention. (3) As far as we know it is mere rumour that 'Parsifal' will be performed at Covent Garden next year as part of a Wagner centenary celebration.

TENOR.—(1) There is an article in this issue which throws some light upon your difficulty. (2) As regards choice of songs, do not despise those of Handel. They are often hugely effective, and at the lowest possible estimate they are splendid vocal exercises. Add Brahms to your repertory.

G. F. B.—(1) Sir Hubert Parry's 'Summary of musical history,' Novello's Primers, No. 42. (2) Palestrina was born about 1528.

E. L.—Mendelssohn's 'Reformation' Symphony was written in connection with the tercentenary Festival of the Augsburg Protestant Confession, 1830.

B. B., LEEDS.—Of the two positions, choose that in which you would get the better musical experience.

H. M.—We cannot presume to decide between the merits of two such admirable institutions.

ENQUIRER.—Ernst von Dohnànyi was born at Pressburg, Hungary, on July 27, 1877.

CONTENTS.

	Page
H. Balfour Gardiner (with special Portrait)	501
Moussorgsky. By H. C. Colles	503
Hugo Wolf as Musical Critic. By Ernest Newman ...	506
A Great Carillonneur: Josef Denyn. (Illustrated) ...	508
Occasional Notes	510
Handel in England and Abroad. By H. Davey ...	512
The Best Means of Training the Tenor Voice. By E. Davidson Palmer	513
The Bach Festival at Breslau. By H. Davey ...	514
London Opera House. By Hermann Klein	515
Church and Organ Music	516
Reviews	517
Correspondence	520
Obituary	521
The Belfast Philharmonic Society (with Portrait) ...	521
Handel Festival, Crystal Palace	522
Society of Women Musicians	522
Mr. J. Alan Taffs	523
Music for the Holiday Season	524
Next Season at the Scala, Milan. By Claude Trevor	524
School of Folk-Song and Dance, Stratford-on-Avon	524
Royal Military School of Music	524
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	530
Royal College of Music	530
Royal Academy of Music	530
The London Symphony Orchestra	532
The Patron's Fund Concert	532
Nonconformist Choir Union	532
London Concerts	532
Music in the Provinces	534
Country and Colonial News	535
Foreign Notes	536
Miscellaneous	537
Answers to Correspondents	538

MUSIC:

'When all the World is Young.' Part-Song for S.A.T.B. By JOHN POINTER 525

THREE Extra Supplements are given with this number:

1. Portrait of Mr. H. Balfour Gardiner.
2. O be joyful in the Lord. Festival or Thanksgiving Anthem. By Ebenezer Prout.
3. Competition Festival Record.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in their proper positions, Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office, 160, Wardour Street, London, W., not later than FRIDAY, AUGUST 23.

(FIRST POST.)

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., Limited.

BOOTH, JOSIAH.—Andante religioso and Song of Thanksgiving. (No. 431, Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

BRADLEY, C. L.—"Now the labourer's task is o'er." Hymn tune. On Card. 1d.

BRAHMS, J.—Rhapsody for Contralto Solo, Chorus (T.T.B.B.), and Orchestra (Op. 53). English and German words. The English Version by W. G. Rothery. 1s.

BREWER, A. H.—"The Big Review." Song. In C and D. For Bass or Baritone. 2s. each.

BRIERLEY, W. B.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C. 4d.

BUNNETT, E.—Introduction, Air with Variations, and Finale Fugato. For Organ. 2s.

BUTTON, H. S.—The Lord's Prayer. In E flat. 1½d.

DAVIES, H. WALFORD.—Solemn Melody. Arranged for Violoncello and Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD.—"Stars of the Summer Night" (Spanish Serenade) (Op. 23). Two-part Chorus. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.

HARTY, HAMILTON.—"With the wild geese." Poem for Orchestra. Full score, 15s.

HARWOOD, B.—Nine-fold Kyrie and Amen after the Prayer of Consecration. For use with the Communion Service. In A flat (Op. 6). 3d.

—— Sonata No. 2, in F sharp minor. (Op. 26). (No. 12, Original Compositions for the Organ, by Basil Harwood.) 3s.

HEWLETT, H. W.—"Jappy Chappy." A Children's Musical Play in One Act. The libretto by E. L. Shute. 3s. 6d.

HYDE, W. C.—Five-fold Amen. On Card. 1d.

JAMOUNEAU, A. J.—"O strength and stay." Anthem for Evensong. 3d.

LINTON, A. H.—"A red, red rose." Two-part Song for Female or Boys' Voices. 2d.

LLOYD, C. H.—Six Easy Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte. 3s. For Contents, see page 551.

MACPHERSON, C.—Benedictus in E, for A.T.B. (No. 96, Novello's Services, Anthems, &c., for Men's Voices.) 4d.

MERBECKE, JOHN.—The Office for the Holy Communion. Edited, with accompaniment for Organ, by G. C. Martin. (No. 855, Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

MINSHALL, E.—"Have mercy upon me." Anthem for Lenten or General use. (No. 1013, Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

NUNN, E. CUTHBERT.—A short setting of the Office for the Holy Communion. In E flat. 8d.

PALESTRINA.—"Surge illuminare." Motet for Double Chorus (unaccompanied). Edited by G. R. Sinclair. 1s.

POINTER, JOHN.—"When all the world is young." Four-part Song. (No. 834, The Musical Times.) 1½d.

PROUT, E.—"O be joyful in the Lord." Festival or Thanksgiving Anthem. From "The Hundredth Psalm." (No. 1018, Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

REAY, S.—"The Dawn of Day." Part-Song. Arranged for S.S.C. (No. 441, Novello's Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

ROBSON, R. WALKER.—"To music, to becalm his fever." Part-song for S.A.T.B. 4d.

SAMPSON, G.—The Queensland School Song-Book. A course of instruction and exercises for use in schools, with additional exercises by W. G. McNaught. Pupils' Edition. Parts I. and II. 8d. each.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW.—No. 242 contains the following music in both notations: "A little Child's Prayer." Junior Unison Song. By Lady Arthur Hill. "Gipsying." Junior Unison Song. By Lady Arthur Hill. 1½d.

SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment (8vo). B. Voice Parts only, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

		A.	B.
No. 1119.	"The Blossom," "Infant Joy." Unison Songs. (Op. 34*a*.) Rutland Boughton	1½d.	—
,, 1120.	"Spring." Unison Song. (Op. 34*a*.) Rutland Boughton	1½d.	—
,, 1121.	"The little boy lost," "The little boy found." Unison Songs. (Op. 34*a*.) Rutland Boughton	1½d.	—
,, 1122.	"The Lamb." Unison Song. (Op. 34*a*.) Richard Boughton	1½d.	—
,, 1123.	"Lullaby" (Wiegenlied). Arranged for two voices by John E. West. (Op. 49, No. 4.) J. Brahms	1½d.	1d.

SHARP, CECIL J., & H. C. MACILWAINE.—Morris Dance Tunes. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo. Sets I. and II. (New Edition). 2s. each.

SPURLING, C. M.—Six short easy pieces for Pianoforte (Op. 9). 2s. For Contents, see page 551.

TONIC SOL-FA SERIES.—Edited by W. G. McNaught:

No. 2047.	"News from Whydah." Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra. H. Balfour Gardiner	3d.
,, 2048.	"The Beleaguered." Four-part Song. Arranged for S.A.T.B. by Harold Brooke. Arthur S. Sullivan	1½d.
,, 2049.	"My soul would drink those echoes." Eight-part Song. (Op. 71, No. 1) A. C. Mackenzie	2d.
,, 2050.	"Sing a Song of Praise." Harvest Anthem. Cuthbert Harris	1½d.
,, 2051.	"O be joyful in the Lord." Festival or Thanksgiving Anthem. E. Prout	1½d.
,, 2056.	"Fair Daffodils." Trio for Female Voices. A. H. Behrend	1½d.

WAGNER, R.—"O Star of Eve" and "Elizabeth's Prayer" (Tannhäuser). Arranged for Organ by John E. West. (No. 44, Organ Arrangements. Edited by John E. West.) 1s.

—— Prelude to Act III. (Die Meistersinger.) (No. 16, Organ Transcriptions, by A. Herbert Brewer.) 1s.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—(continued).

WARBURTON, A. R.—"O God, the Protector." Five-part Unaccompanied Anthem. 4d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"May-Bells." Trio for S.S.C. (No. 438, Novello's Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE.—Trios for Male Voices (T.T.B.) 1. "Three Jovial Welshmen"; 2. "The Carrion Crow"; 3. "The Drummer Boy"; 4. "The Old Woman and the Pedlar." 3d.

REDUCED PRICE.

MACFARREN, G. A.—"Sigh no more, Ladies." Four-part Song. (No. 124, Novello's Part-Song Book.) 1½d.

PUBLISHED FOR

THE H. W. GRAY CO., NEW YORK.

LAMBORD, B.—"Suffer little children." Anthem. 12 cents (4d.).

LEARNED, C.—Communion Service in A flat. 25 cents (1s.).

MATTHEWS, J. S.—Twelve New Double Chants. 10 cents (3d.).

NOBLE, R. H.—Communion Service in C. 50 cents. (2s.)

PASCAL, JULIAN.—Nocturne. Pianoforte Solo. 60 cents. (2s. 6d.)

SANDERS, H.—"How do Thy mercies close me round." Anthem.

WAEDENSCHWILER, D.—Japanese Lullaby. Song.

VOLUNTARIES

ARRANGED FOR

THE HARMONIUM

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

IN SIX BOOKS

(Each containing Sixty Pieces).

Price One Shilling each.

Or

In Two Volumes, Cloth, Four Shillings each.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
One inch (displayed)	0	10	0
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with every Advertisement.

SHORT PRELUDES

FOR THE

ORGAN

These Short Preludes are intended for use chiefly as Introductory Voluntaries to Divine Service, more especially in those churches where the time allowed for such is, of necessity, somewhat limited. They occupy in performance from about one to two minutes.

No.
	Book I.
1.	Andante Grazioso	Thomas Adams
2.	Andante	W. G. Alcock
3.	Largamente	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante Religioso	Myles B. Foster
5.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
6.	Adagio Cantabile	Alfred Hollins
7.	Larghetto	Charles J. May
8.	Andante con Moto	John E. West
9.	Andantino quasi Allegretto	John E. West
10.	Andante	W. Wolstenholme
	Book II.
1.	Andante con Moto	Thomas Adams
2.	Con Moto	W. G. Alcock
3.	Moderato	H. A. Chambers
4.	Marziale, poco Lento	Myles B. Foster
5.	Moderato	Alfred Hollins
6.	Andantino	Alfred Hollins
7.	Adagio	Charles J. May
8.	"Hymnus"—Andante e Sostenuto	John E. West
9.	Andante Serioso	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme
	Book III.
1.	Moderato e Legato	Thomas Adams
2.	Moderato	W. G. Alcock
3.	Andante con Moto	George J. Bennett
4.	Andante	H. A. Chambers
5.	Grazioso molto Espressivo	Myles B. Foster
6.	"Song without Words"—Con Moto	Alfred Hollins
7.	Andante	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andante Dolente	John E. West
9.	Andante Pastorale	John E. West
10.	Adagio	W. Wolstenholme

Price One Shilling each Book.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

ROMANCE

FOR

BASSOON AND ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 60).

FULL SCORE.

Price Five Shillings.

	s.	d.
Arrangement for Bassoon and Pianoforte	2	0
Arrangement for Violoncello and Pianoforte	2	6

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

WANTED, ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER, for St. James' United Free Church, Paisley. Three-Manual Organ, by Willis, London. Application, with testimonials, to be lodged not later than August 19 with Thomas Russell, Kilkerran, Greenock Road, Paisley.

UPRIGHT PIANOS WANTED, Second-hand, by Ronisch, Lipp, and Erard. Must be modern, and in very good condition. Also, small Steinway Grand. Send numbers, with prices, to W. Saville & Co., Bruce Grove, Tottenham.

MUSIC STUDIO, 223, Oxford Street, W (Opposite Peter Robinson's).—Furnished; light; 10*d.* an hour 1*s.* after 7. W. Dodshon.

ANTHEMS
FOR TRINITYTIDE.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Almighty and everlasting God	Gibbons	1½d.
Angel spirits ever blessed (Hymn to the Trinity, No. 3)	P. Tchaikovsky	2d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	4d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
*Be ye all of one mind	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed angel spirits (Hymn to the Trinity)	P. Tchaikovsky	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	Boyce	1½d.
*Blessing, glory	Bach	6d.
Come, ye children	Josiah Booth	3d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	J. T. Field	2d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	G. C. Martin	4d.
He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.), in Key of A	F. Hiller	1½d.
*He in tears that soweth (S.S.A.), in Key of A flat	F. Hiller	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
Holy, Lord God Almighty	Thomas Bateson	4d.
*How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity (Blessed angel spirits)	P. Tchaikovsky	1½d.
*Hymn to the Trinity, No. 3 (Angel spirits, ever blessed)	P. Tchaikovsky	2d.
I am Alpha and Omega	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.
*Light of the world	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might	William Mason	1½d.
Lord of all power and might (Men's Voices)	J. Barnby	2d.
Lord, we pray Thee	H. A. Chambers	1½d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. Varley Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
O joyful Light	B. Tours	4d.
*O Lord, my trust	King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see	John Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Sing to the Lord	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	John Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
*We give Thee thanks	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
We have heard with our ears	H. Aldrich	1s.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	Mozart	3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES

124a	Almighty God, Who hast promised	H. Elliot Button	1d.
124b	Grant to us, Lord	H. Elliot Button	1d.
*7b	Let Thy merciful ears	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
22	O God, Who hast prepared	A. R. Gaul	2d.
69	Teach me Thy way	Frank L. Moir	3d.
124c	We humbly beseech Thee	H. Elliot Button	1d.

* Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

D

NEW
HARVEST ANTHEMS

JUST PUBLISHED.

SING A SONG OF PRAISE

COMPOSED BY

CUTHBERT HARRIS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE ETERNAL GOD

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Threepence.

O BE JOYFUL IN THE LORD

(From the 100th Psalm).

COMPOSED BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

WHATE'ER THE BLOSSOMED SPRING

RECITATIVE, TERZETTA, AND CHORUS

From "AUTUMN"

COMPOSED BY

J. HAYDN.

The Words adapted for use as a Harvest Anthem.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

IT IS A GOOD THING TO GIVE THANKS

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

GIVE EAR, O YE HEAVENS

COMPOSED BY

W. G. ALCOCK.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH

COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS (Complete List).

*Achieved is the glorious work .. .. Haydn 1½d.
All Thy works praise Thee .. J. Barnby and J. Kent, each 4d.
All Thy works praise Thee .. .. .. E. H. Thorne 3d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee .. .. George H. Ely 4d.
*And the Lord said .. .. T. W. Stephenson 3d.
*Angel voices, ever singing .. .. .. E. V. Hall 3d.
As the earth bringeth forth her bud .. ..A. Herbert Brewer 4d.
*Be glad and rejoice Myles B. Foster and Bruce Steane, each 3d.
*Behold, I have given you every herb .. .. Cuthbert Harris 3d.
*Bless the Lord thy God .. .. J. Varley Roberts 3d.
Bless thou the Lord .. .. Oliver King 3d.
Blessed be the Name of God (Two-part) .. G. A. Macfarren 3d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord .. .. .. H. Gadsby 1½d.
*Blessed be Thou, Lord God .. .. J. Kent 4d.
*Break forth into joy .. .. Oliver King 1½d.
*Come, ye thankful people, come .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
Eternal source of every joy .. .. .. F. Brandeis 2d.
*Father of mercies, God of love .. .. .. John E. West 3d.
*Father of mercies, God of love .. .. E. V. Hall 3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice.. .. .. J. Goss 3d.
*Fear not, O land .. .. C. H. Lloyd 1½d.
Fear not, O land .. .. Warwick Jordan 3d.
*Give ear, O ye heavens .. .. W. G. Alcock 3d.
*God be merciful unto us .. .. John E. West 1½d.
*God said, Behold, I have given you every herb G. A. Macfarren 4d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works .. .. J. F. Bridge 4d.
*Great is our Lord .. .. Myles B. Foster 4d.
*Great is the Lord .. Bruce Steane and E. A. Sydenham, each 3d.
*Great is the Lord .. .. Arthur W. Marchant 3d.
Hearken unto Me, ye holy children .. .. .. W. H. Bell 3d.
*Hearken unto this .. .. H. Elliot Button 1½d.
He in tears that soweth .. .. F. Hiller 1½d.
*He sendeth the springs into the valleys Herbert W. Wareing 4d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance .. .. .. J. Stainer 4d.
*How excellent is Thy loving-kindness .. .. F. H. Cowen 6d.
*I looked, and behold a white cloud .. .. Healey Willan 3d.
*I will alway give thanks.. .. .. J. Baptiste Calkin 1½d.
*I will extol Thee .. .. C. M. Hudson 4d.
*I will feed my flock .. .. J. F. Bridge 1½d.
I will give thanks unto Thee .. .. .. E. J. Hopkins 6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
*I will give you rain in due season .. .. H. W. Wareing 4d.
I will greatly rejoice in the Lord .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.
I will magnify Thee .. *J. B. Calkin and Oliver King, each 4d.
I will magnify Thee .. .. *J. Goss and J. Shaw, each 3d.
*I will magnify Thee .. .. .. Arthur W. Marchant 3d.
*I will open rivers in high places .. .. Edgar Pettman 3d.
I will sing a new song .. .. P. Armes 8d.
*In the day shalt thou make .. .. Herbert W. Wareing 3d.
*Is it not wheat harvest to-day?.. .. .. Thomas Adams 3d.
*It is a good thing to give thanks .. .. Thomas Adams 1½d.
*Joy in harvest .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
*Let the people praise Thee, O God .. .. .. A. R. Gaul 1½d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God .. .. John E. West 1½d.
*Lo! summer comes again .. .. J. Stainer 6d.
*Look on the fields.. .. .. .. Charles Macpherson 3d.
*Look upon the rainbow .. .. Thomas Adams 3d.
*Lord of the harvest .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn) F. Tozer 2d.
Man goeth forth .. .. Arthur Carnall 3d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise .. .. John E. West 4d.
My soul, O praise the Lord Thy God.. .. .. J. S. Bach 3d.
*O be joyful in God .. .. John E. West 3d.
*O be joyful in the Lord .. .. A. R. Gaul 1½d.
*O be joyful in the Lord .. .. E. Prout 3d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord .. .. .. B. Tours 1½d.
*O give thanks .. .. E. V. Hall and Bruce Steane, each 3d.
O give thanks .. .. W. Tucker 1½d.
*O give thanks .. .. E. A. Sydenham 3d.
*O God, my soul thirsteth .. .. .. F. R. Greenish 3d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee .. .. .. Myles B. Foster 1½d.
*O how great is Thy goodness .. .. .. Thomas Adams 1½d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness .. .. T. M. Pattison 3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works .. .. J. Barnby 1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works .. G. A. Macfarren 1½d.
O lovely peace .. .. G. F. Handel 4d.
*O praise God in His holiness .. Hugh Blair and J. Weldon, ea. 1½d.
*O praise God in His holiness .. .. .. T. T. Trimnell 4d.
O praise ye the Lord .. .. Mozart 1½d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven .. .. J. Goss 6d.
O pray for the peace of Jerusalem .. .. .. B. Rogers 1½d.
O sing unto the Lord .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.
*O taste and see .. .. J. Goss 3d.
*O taste and see .. .. A. S. Sullivan 1½d.
*O that men would praise the Lord .. .. Hugh Blair 3d.
*O that men would praise the Lord .. .. John B. McEwen 3d.
*O that men would praise the Lord .. .. W. Wolstenholme 3d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest .. .. Emma Mundella 3d.
*O worship the King .. .. E. V. Hall 4d.
*Praise, my soul, the King of heaven .. .. E. V. Hall 3d.
*Praise, O praise our God and King .. .. E. V. Hall 1½d.
Praise, O praise our God and King .. .. B. Luard-Selby 3d.
*Praise our God, ye people .. .. .. E. V. Hall 4d.
*Praise the Lord .. .. George J. Elvey 4d.
Praise the Lord .. .. Julius Benedict 8d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem .. .. .. W. H. Bliss 3d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem .. *E. V. Hall and W. Hayes, ea. 4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem .. .. .. J. H. Maunder 3d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem .. .. .. J. Scott 1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul .. .. .. H. Lahee 1½d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul .. .. .. J. W. Elliott 3d.
*Praise to God, immortal praise .. .. John E. West 3d.
*Praise waiteth for Thee, O God .. .. Myles B. Foster 1½d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness .. .. G. Garrett 1½d.
*Praised be the Lord .. .. C. Steggall 3d.
Praised be the Lord daily .. .. .. T. Ebdon 1½d.
*Praised be the Lord daily .. .. .. C. Harford Lloyd 3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord .. .. B. Tours 1½d.
Rejoice, O ye righteous .. .. J. Rheinberger 3d.
*Sing a song of praise .. .. Cuthbert Harris 1½d.
*Sing praises to God .. .. H. W. Wareing 1½d.
*Sing to the Lord with thanksgiving .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
*Sing unto the Lord .. E. A. Sydenham and C. Harris, each 3d.
*Sing we merrily .. F. A. W. Docker and E. V. Hall, each 4d.
*The earth is the Lord's .. .. Alfred Hollins 1½d.
The earth is the Lord's .. J. Hopkins and T. T. Trimnell, each 4d.
The Eternal God .. .. John E. West 3d.
*The eyes of all wait on Thee .. .. .. George J. Elvey 3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee Thos. Adams & M. B. Foster ea. 3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee .. .. A. R. Gaul 1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee .. .. O. Gibbons 4d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers .. J. L. Hopkins 3d.
*The glory of Lebanon .. .. .. Herbert H. Wareing 3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100) J. Barnby 1½d.
*The joy of the Lord is your strength .. .. Hugh Blair 1½d.
The Lord hath been mindful of us .. .. E. T. Chipp 3d.
The Lord hath been mindful of us .. .. S. S. Wesley 3d.
*The Lord hath done great things .. .. H. Smart 4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man .. .. G. Garrett 3d.
The Lord is loving unto every man .. .. A. W. Batson 3d.
*The Lord is my strength and my shield .. Josiah Booth 3d.
The Parable of the Harvest .. .. .. Frank J. Sawyer 4d.
*The vineyard of the Lord .. .. Herbert W. Wareing 3d.
*The woods and every sweet-smelling tree .. John E. West 1½d.
*There shall be an heap of corn .. .. .. Cuthbert Harris 3d.
*There shall be an heap of corn .. .. .. Ferris Tozer 3d.
Thou art worthy, O Lord .. .. .. F. E. Gladstone 3d.
*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness.. Josiah Booth 1½d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Sion .. .. Cuthbert Harris 1½d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion .. .. E. V. Hall 3d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion .. .. B. Luard-Selby 4d.
*Thou, O God, art praised in Zion .. .. W. Wolstenholme 4d.
Thou shalt keep the feast of harvest .. .. F. H. Cowen 4d.
Thou visitest the earth ..*J. Barnby and J. Baptiste Calkin, ea. 4d.
*Thou visitest the earth .. .. W. H. Callcott 2d.
*Thou visitest the earth .. .. J. W. Elliott 3d.
*Thou visitest the earth .. .. M. Greene 1½d.
*Thrust in thy sickle and reap .. .. Thomas Adams 1½d.
To Thee, O Lord .. .. C. Lee Williams 3d.
*Unto Thee, O God .. .. W. Wolstenholme 1½d.
*Unto Thee, O God, do we give thanks .. John E. West 1½d.
*Unto Thee, O Lord, do we give thanks .. Bruce Steane 3d.
*Whate'er the blossomed Spring .. .. .. Haydn 3d.
*While the earth remaineth .. .. .. Alfred R. Gaul 4d.
While the earth remaineth F. J. Sawyer and C. S. Heap, ea. 4d.
*While the earth remaineth .. .. .. B. Tours 1½d.
*While the earth remaineth B. Steane and H. W. Wareing, ea. 3d.
While the earth remaineth T. W. Stephenson & C. L. Williams, ea. 3d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, S.S.A.) .. J. Stainer 1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land (S.A.T.B.) .. .. J. Stainer 1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy .. .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
Your thankful songs upraise (Jubilee Cantata) C. M. von Weber 3d.

THE "LUTE" SERIES OF HARVEST ANTHEMS.

139 Behold, I have given you.. .. .. H. Elliot Button 3d.
128 Be joyful in God .. .. J. C. Bridge 3d.
176 Be strong, all ye people .. .. .. A. W. Ketèlbey 3d.
201 Bring unto the Lord .. .. Ferris Tozer 3d.
163 Every good gift .. .. A. W. Ketèlbey 3d.
*80 Faithful is our God .. .. John Francis Barnett 3d.
116 Fear not, O land .. .. F. C. Maker 3d.
205 Great is our Lord .. .. Arthur Page 3d.
68 Great is the Lord .. .. F. N. Löhr 3d.
115 Harvest Hymn .. .. Turle Lee 3d.
*187 If ye walk in My statutes.. .. .. F. R. Rickman 3d.
140 One soweth, another reapeth .. .. F. C. Maker 3d.
199 O praise God .. .. Cuthbert Harris 3d.
164 O praise the Lord .. .. Alfred Redhead 3d.
153 O sing unto God .. .. Arthur Page 3d.
152 O sing unto the Lord .. .. .. Ferris Tozer 3d.
104 O sing unto the Lord .. .. .. Turle Lee 3d.
223 O sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving F. R. Rickman 3d.
*44 O worship the Lord .. .. .. Michael Watson 3d.
*90 Praise the Lord .. .. F. C. Maker 3d.
127 Praise the Lord .. .. Wm. Smallwood 3d.
*20 Praise the Lord, O my soul .. .. Michael Watson 3d.
103 Praise the Lord, O my soul .. .. Wm. Smallwood 3d.
*141 Sing, O ye Heav'ns .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 3d.
*78 Sing unto the Lord of Harvest .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
*107 Sing unto God .. .. F. Bevan 3d.
174 Sing we merrily unto God .. .. Cuthbert Harris 3d.
162 Sing ye to the Lord .. .. Arthur W. Marchant 3d.
151 The earth is full of the goodness .. F. C. Maker 3d.
56 Thou crownest the year .. .. .. F. C. Maker 3d.
32 Unto Thee, O God .. .. .. Michael Watson 3d.
212 While the earth remaineth .. .. F. N. Baxter 3d.

 Also published in Tonic Sol-fa 1d. to 4d. each.*

HARVEST FESTIVAL MUSIC.

CANTATAS.

SONG OF THANKSGIVING
OR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS (OR CONTRALTO) SOLI AND CHORUS
WITH HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION
THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED BY
SHAPCOTT WENSLEY
THE MUSIC BY
J. H. MAUNDER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Paper boards, Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.; Words only, 10s. per 100; String Parts, price 9s.; Wind Parts, 14s. 6d.

A GOLDEN HARVEST
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI AND CHORUS
WITH HYMNS TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION
THE WORDS AND HYMNS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY HENRY KNIGHT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
THOMAS ADAMS,
Organist and Director of the Music at St. Alban's, Holborn.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE RAINBOW OF PEACE
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN
BY
THOMAS ADAMS.

Price One Shilling.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

HARVEST-TIDE
OR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN OR SMALL ORCHESTRA
BY
HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling.
Words only, 5s. per 100. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA
FOR CHORUS, SEMI-CHORUS, AND ORGAN
BY GEORGE GARRETT.

Price One Shilling.
Ton c Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 5s. per 100; or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

HARVEST CANTATA
FOR SOPRANO (OR TENOR) AND CONTRALTO (OR BARITONE) SOLI AND CHORUS
THE WORDS BY
ROSE DAFFORNE BETJEMANN
THE MUSIC BY
JULIUS HARRISON.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
FOR SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS
BY
JOHN E. WEST.

Price Two Shillings.
Words only, 5s. per 100; or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Orchestral Parts can be hired.

A SONG OF THANKSGIVING
FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
BY
FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE GLEANER'S HARVEST
FOR FEMALE VOICES
BY
C. H. LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA
FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY
C. M. VON WEBER.

Price One Shilling.
Full Score, 21s.; String Parts, 8s.; Wind Parts, 7s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST SONG
FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS
BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Words only, 5s. per 100.
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

HYMNS, ETC.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST
Selected from THE HYMNARY.
Price One Penny.

LET ALL OUR BRETHREN JOIN IN ONE
HARVEST HYMN BY J. BARNBY.
Price One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

SOWING AND REAPING
HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT.
Price Three-Halfpence. Words only, 1s. per 100.

THE JOY OF HARVEST
HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

A HARVEST HYMN OF PRAISE
By J. H. MAUNDER.
Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING
HYMN FOR HARVEST BY J. BARNBY.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS
HARVEST CAROL BY F. A. J. HERVEY.
Price Three-Halfpence.

O LORD OF HEAVEN, AND EARTH, AND SEA
By J. BARNBY.
On Card, Price One Penny.

COME, YE THANKFUL PEOPLE, COME
By WALTER B. GILBERT AND J. BARNBY.
Price One Penny each.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

A

HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES, THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER,
SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER,

AND OTHERS,

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER,

AND

JOHN E. WEST.

DEMY 8VO, PRICE SIXPENCE. TONIC SOL-FA, PRICE SIXPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORGAN MUSIC

FOR

HARVEST FESTIVALS

BOOK 43.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST

EDITED BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

No.
1. Pastorale in F .. .. Alfred Hollins.
2. "O lovely peace," from "Judas Maccabæus" .. .. Handel.
3. "Come, ye thankful people, come." Variations on Elvey's tune "St. George" .. .. F. Cunningham Woods.
4. Improvisation on Schulz's Hymn-tune, "We plough the fields" .. .. John E. West.
5. Thanksgiving at Harvest-time, from "Ruth" .. F. H. Cowen.
6. Fantasia on Barnby's Anthem "O Lord, how manifold" John E. West.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S Very Popular Harvest Anthems.

Four of the following Anthems just reprinted again.

*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR	14th 1000	3d.
*SING UNTO GOD WITH THANKSGIVING	22nd 1000	4d.
*HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS..	21st 1000	3d.
*THE FRUIT OF THY WORKS	12th 1000	4d.
*HE GIVES US FRUITFUL SEASONS	10th 1000	4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE	56th 1000	3d.

Sung at a Festival by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

FEAR NOT, O LAND	8th 1000	3d.
*SING PRAISES TO HIS NAME	9th 1000	3d.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS ..	8th 1000	4d.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM	40th 1000	3d.

Sung at Choral Festivals, Wem and Downpatrick Cathedral.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 23rd 1000 4d.
Full of flowing melody and effect. Sung at a Choir Festival.
Those marked * are also issued in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.
New York: THE H. W. GRAY CO., Sole Agents for U.S.A.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THIRTY HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

Cloth, Gilt, One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CALEB SIMPER'S NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS,

ETC.

Caleb Simper's Famous Anthems and Services, &c., are favourites in all English-speaking countries. Five and a-Half Million Copies have been sold.

O GIVE THANKS. Just published.. .. .. 4d.
A most inspiring Anthem, with Soprano (or Tenor) and Bass Solos. The Choruses are vigorous and powerful.

GREAT IS THE LORD	10th 1000	3d.
THOU SHALT KEEP THE FEAST OF HARVEST ..	23rd 1000	4d.
BLESS THE LORD, O MY SOUL	17th 1000	3d.
THOU PROVIDEST FOR THE EARTH	24th Edition	4d.
THE LORD OUR GOD HATH BLESSED US	15th 1000	4d.
SEED-TIME AND HARVEST	12th 1000	3d.
WHEN THOU HAST GATHERED THY CORN	15th 1000	4d.
FOOD AND GLADNESS	16th 1000	3d.
BLESSED SHALL BE THY BASKET AND STORE ..	12th 1000	4d.
ENTER INTO HIS GATES WITH THANKSGIVING ..	11th 1000	3d.
I WILL SING UNTO THE LORD	13th 1000	4d.
THOU VISITEST THE EARTH	14th 1000	4d.
A JOYFUL THANKSGIVING	10th 1000,	1s. 6d.

This favourite Harvest Cantata can be rendered with Organ accompaniment only. Orchestral parts are printed for use when a Band is available.

The following are Festival Anthems of Praise:—

MAKE HIS PRAISE GLORIOUS (New)	10th 1000	4d.

Very popular. Published this year.

SHOUT FOR JOY	17th 1000	4d.
BLESSED BE MY ROCK	18th 1000	4d.

Both sung at Choir Festivals by 300 Voices.

THE LORD LOVETH THE GATES OF ZION	9th 1000	4d.
PRAISE HIS HOLY NAME	14th Edition	3d.
FIVE HARVEST CAROLS. Complete		2d.

Order these as No. 9, Clovelly Series.

POPULAR CHURCH SERVICES.

TE DEUM, No. 5. A grand Service Setting ..	12th Edition	4d.
TE DEUM, in C. An easy Service Setting	9th 1000	3d.
FESTIVAL CHANT TE DEUM, No. 8	8th 1000	2d.
HOLY EUCHARIST, in A flat	8th Edition	4d.

Complete with Benedictus and Agnus Dei.

FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS, No. 9	17th Edn.	4d.
CHANT MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS, No. 10	Very effective	4d.
CANTATE AND DEUS, in F	7th 1000	4d.

VOLUNTARIES. Books 6, 7, and 8 recently published. Each book contains Marches, Offertories, Postludes, Pastorales, Communion, Loud and Soft, &c., with Pedal part indicated. Price 1s. 6d. each Book. All written on Two Staves.

All the above Anthems can also be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES & Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY Co., 62-66, E. Van Buren St.
Canada: ANGLO-CANADIAN M.P.A., Ltd., 80, Yonge Street, Toronto.

Just Published.

MISSA REGIA

ASCRIBED TO

HENRI DUMONT (1610-1684).

Adapted from the Version in the Solesmes Gradual,

WITH AN ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE ORGAN

BY

FRANCIS BURGESS.

Price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

MISSA EUGE BONE

AD SEX VOCES INEQUALES.

AUCTORE

CHRISTOFERO TYE.

EDIDIT

RICARDUS R. TERRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D. CANTAB.

ORGAN.

Two Organ Sketches	2s. od. net.
Two Short Pieces—
Larghetto in F	2s. od. ,,
Pastorale in A
Andantino in G flat	1s. 6d. ,,
Second Set of Six Original Pieces—
No. 7. Prelude in A	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 8. Andante in F
,, 9. Adagio in D flat	1s. od. ,,
,, 10. Andante Pastorale in G	1s. 6d. ,,
,, 11. Minuet and Trio
,, 12. Toccata in A major	1s. 6d. ,,

PIANOFORTE.

Capriccio in E major	2s. od. net.
Three Musical Sketches—
Entitled: Summer, Autumn, and Winter	2s. od. ,,
Gavotte in D	2s. od. ,,
Romance and Mazurka	2s. od. ,,

ANTHEMS.

Blessed be Thou (Harvest)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
O clap your hands (Harvest)	4d.
Thine, O Lord. Short Harvest Anthem	2d.
I was glad (Festival)	3d.
Do. (Do.) Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
Sing to the Lord. Harvest Hymn	1d.

Communion Services in E major. Four Voices	9d.
Do. in G. For Men's Voices only	9d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"Such settings as these cannot do otherwise than tend to popularise the Church Service."—Musical Standard, June 6, 1891.

"Good, effective, easy, and dignified."—Musical Times, April 1, 1891.

"Admirably adapted to meet the requirements of the majority of choirs and congregations." "Deserve extensive recognition and use."—Musical News, September 4 and 25, 1891.

Also recommended by the Guardian, Church Times, &c., &c.

POPULAR CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
HARVEST ANTHEMS.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord	3d.	2d.
SERVICES.
SERVICE IN G	1/6	1s.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum	3d.	2d.
Benedicite, omnia Opera	2d.	2d.
Benedictus	2d.	2d.
Jubilate	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	8d.	6d.
Pater Noster from the above	2d.	2d.
Amen ditto	1d.	1d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
SERVICE IN CHANT FORM (No. 1)	1s.	8d.
Or, separately:—
Te Deum, &c., with Kyrie	3d.	2d.
Office for the Holy Communion	6d.	4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
ORGAN.
Voix Séraphique (for Recitals)	2/-
CHURCH CANTATA.
Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for General use)	1/6	1s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S HYMNS AND TUNES

FOR

Sunday School Anniversary Services.

SET I.

No.
1.	Come, children, on and forward	GEORGE C. MARTIN
2.	For the freshness of the morning	Lady EUAN-SMITH
3.	I love to hear the story	FREDERIC CLAY
4.	Come, O come! in pious lays	J. STAINER
5.	Thine for ever! God of Love	W. C. HARVEY
6.	Jesu, Whom Thy children love	H. ELLIOT BUTTON
7.	Sweetly o'er the meadows fair	F. A. CHALLINOR
8.	Would you gain the best in life	C. J. MAY
9.	On our way rejoicing	WALTER B. GILBERT
10.	Now the daylight goes away	J. ADCOCK

SET II.

1.	Again the morn of gladness	J. STAINER
2.	The Angels' Song	ALBERTO RANDEGGER
3.	Forward, Christian children	ALFRED MOFFAT
4.	The Golden Shore	J. STAINER
5.	Saviour, blessèd Saviour	JOHN E. WEST
6.	Enter with thanksgiving	F. H. COWEN
7.	Man shall not live by bread alone	J. VARLEY ROBERTS
8.	Stars, that on your wondrous way	J. STAINER
9.	The day is past and over	JOSEPH BARNBY
10.	God will take care of you	FRANCES R. HAVERGAL

SET III.

1.	We march, we march, to victory	JOSEPH BARNBY
2.	Hark! hark! the organ loudly peals	GEORGE J. BENNETT
3.	O what can little hands do?	H. ELLIOT BUTTON
4.	While the sun is shining	T. ADAMS
5.	I love to hear the story	H. J. GAUNTLETT
6.	The roseate hues of early dawn	A. SULLIVAN
7.	Lord, Thy children guide and keep	A. S. COOPER
8.	In our work and in our play	F. WESTLAKE
9.	The Beautiful Land	J. STAINER
10.	Gentle Jesus, meek and mild	J. STAINER

Both Notations, price Fourpence per Set.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Composer will be pleased to forward to the Colonies or any foreign country the Orchestral Parts (on loan) of any of his works.

Gillott Road, Edgbaston.

VOCAL SCORE. STAFF NOTATION. 65TH THOUSAND.
REVISED EDITION, including an INTERMEZZO or SLOW DANCE to follow the Wedding Chorus.

(Performed in the Town Hall, Birmingham, on twenty occasions.

RUTH

A HARVEST PASTORAL

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

SUITABLE FOR

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

"The Biblical story of which Ruth is the central figure lends itself with remarkable suitability to an illustration of a harvest celebration. The country landscape, the ripened corn, the sturdy reapers, the standing sheaves, the active gleaners, and the busy farmer all combine to fill the mind's eye with a pleasant scene of excitement. Set to music by a competent composer such as Mr. A. R. Gaul, the narrative of Ruth's eventful episode lends itself to a pathetic, picturesque, and pleasant performance. The bereaved and sorrowful trio of women on whom the calamity of poverty and famine has fallen, as if to give intensity to their greater grief, and the unexpected and happy influence of patriarchal benevolence displayed by the mighty Boaz, who so quickly transforms sorrow into joy, are all introduced and aptly take their allotted place in the melodious music of Gaul's interpretation of the tale."—Gloucester Citizen.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s. Words, 5s. per 100.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to THE COMPOSER, Gillott Lodge, Edgbaston.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

ADDITIONAL HYMNS
WITH TUNES
FOR USE WITH
HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN
OR ANY OTHER CHURCH HYMNAL.

272 pages, Imperial 16mo. Cloth Boards, price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Hymns only, Imperial 32mo, Cloth Boards, One Shilling.
Hymns only, medium 32mo, diamond type, cloth, 4d.; paper, 3d.

Complete edition, bound with HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN (Quarto), 6s. 6d. net.

As its name implies, this book is designed for use with, and not in place of, other Church Hymnals.

For this reason the Hymns are numbered from 801, so that the numbers may not interfere with the use of any other hymn book, no other Church hymn book having as many as even seven hundred hymns. Each hymn has its own distinctive tune, and no hymn or tune in this work is found in Hymns Ancient and Modern (Old Edition), so that with the two books no duplication occurs.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.

THE NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER
CONTAINING
THE PSALMS OF DAVID
TOGETHER WITH THE CANTICLES AND PROPER PSALMS.
EDITED AND POINTED FOR CHANTING BY

COSMO GORDON LANG, D.D.
(ARCHBISHOP OF YORK).

HENRY SCOTT HOLLAND, D.Litt.
(Canon and Precentor of St. Paul's).

CHARLES H. LLOYD, M.A., Mus.D.
(Precentor of Eton).

GEORGE C. MARTIN, Mus.D.
(Organist of St. Paul's).

WORDS ONLY.

		Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 51.	With Superimposed notes. Demy 8vo	2 6	4 6
No. 61.	With Prosody signs. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 62.	With Prosody signs. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4
No. 71.	With Varied type. Imperial 32mo	1 0	2 0
No. 72.	With Varied type. Demy 8vo (large type)	2 6	4 6

NEW CATHEDRAL PSALTER CHANTS.

			Paper. s. d.	Cloth. s. d.	Red Basil. s. d.
No. 81.	For Cathedral use, "The St. Paul's Cathedral Chant Book,"	Revised Edition. F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 81A.	Ditto	ditto Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 82.	For Parish Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than D.	F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 82A.	Ditto	ditto Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6
No. 83.	For Village Church use, no Treble recitation note higher than C.	F'cap 4to	1 6	2 0	3 0
No. 83A.	Ditto	ditto Post 4to	2 6	3 0	4 6

PSALTER AND CHANTS COMBINED.

No. 53.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 54.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 55.	With Superimposed notes and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 63.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 64.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 65.	With Prosody signs and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 73.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 81. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 74.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 82. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6
No. 75.	With Varied type and CHANT BOOK No. 83. Demy 8vo	3 6	5 6

The "New Cathedral Psalter," though founded on the old Cathedral Psalter, is a distinct book, and the two books cannot be used together. The old Cathedral Psalter is still in circulation in all its editions, with the exception of No. 1, formerly published at 9d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CRYSTAL PALACE
TRIENNIAL HANDEL FESTIVAL
1912.

SPECIAL OFFER TO CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHOIRS.
A limited number of copies will be sold in quantities at specially reduced terms.

THE SELECTION

PERFORMED ON

THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1912,

TOGETHER WITH AN APPENDIX CONSISTING OF SOLOS PERFORMED AT THE GENERAL REHEARSAL, SATURDAY, JUNE 22, 1912.

PART I.

A SELECTION FROM "SAMSON."

Overture.
Chorus	.. ..	Awake the trumpet's lofty sound.
Recitative	.. ..	Matchless in might.
Air	.. ..	Total eclipse.
Chorus	.. ..	O first created beam.
Recitative	.. ..	The good we wish for.
Air	.. ..	Thy glorious deeds.
Chorus	.. ..	Then round about the starry throne.
Air	.. ..	Return, O God of hosts.
Air	.. ..	Honour and arms.
Chorus	.. ..	Fixed in His everlasting seat.
Air	.. ..	Great Dagon has subdued our foe.
Chorus	.. ..	Great Dagon has subdued our foe.
Air	.. ..	Ye sons of Israel.
Chorus	.. ..	Weep, Israel.
Air	.. ..	Let the bright Seraphim.
Chorus	.. ..	Let their celestial concerts.

PART II.

MISCELLANEOUS SELECTION.

Orchestra	.. ..	Concerto Grosso for Strings (No. 1).
Chorus	.. .. Wretched lovers	Acis and Galatea.
Recitative and Air	Rasserena, O Madre / Rendi 'l sereno al ciglio ..	Sosarme.
Air	.. .. .. Lusinghe più care	Alessandro.
Recitative and Air	Lo, here my love / Love in her eyes	Acis and Galatea.
Chorus	.. .. Ye tutelar gods	Belshazzar.
Air	.. .. .. Vinto è l' amor	Ottone.
Orchestra	.. .. Dance of Sailors	Rodrigo.
Recitative and Air	Tyrannic love / Ye verdant hills	Susanna.
Solo and Chorus	.. As from the power	St. Cecilia's Day.

APPENDIX.

(Performed at the General Rehearsal, June 22.)

Recitative and Air	O worse than death / Angels, ever bright and fair	Theodora.
Recitative and Air	Deeper and deeper still / Waft her, Angels ..	Jephtha.
Recitative and Air	Frondi Tenere / Ombra mai fù	Serse.
Air	.. .. .. Del Minacciar del vento ..	Ottone.
Orchestra	.. .. Overture	Giustino.
Air	.. .. .. Si tra i ceppi	Berenice.
Air	.. .. .. O had I Jubal's lyre ..	Joshua.
Air	.. .. .. Where'er you walk	Semele.
Recitative and Air	I feel the Deity within / Arm, arm, ye brave ..	Judas.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC
TO
A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

SELECTED AND ARRANGED FOR THE USE OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES
BY
R. DUNSTAN.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

RHAPSODY

FOR
CONTRALTO SOLO, CHORUS (T.T.B.B.), AND ORCHESTRA.
The German Words from "Harzreise in Winter," by GOETHE.
The English Version by
W. G. ROTHERY.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY JOHANNES BRAHMS
(Op. 53).

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE WANDERING JEW.

A CANTATA
FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.
THE ENGLISH WORDS BY PAUL ENGLAND.
THE MUSIC BY FRIEDRICH HEGAR
(Op. 34).

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

JAPPY CHAPPY

A CHILDREN'S MUSICAL PLAY
IN ONE ACT.
BY E. L. SHUTE.
WITH MUSIC BY
H. W. HEWLETT.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.
Words only, price Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

FOUR TRIOS FOR MALE VOICES

(T.T.B.).

1. THREE JOVIAL WELSHMEN.
2. THE CARRION CROW (Old melody).
3. THE DRUMMER BOY.
4. THE OLD WOMAN AND PEDLAR (Old melody).

COMPOSED AND HARMONIZED
BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Threepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. By ALFRED J. DYE. London: Novello & Co., Ltd.

TE DEUM in F. Price 3d. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 3d. By A. TOASE. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

"NOW THANK WE ALL OUR GOD." Dr. Hutchinson's Harvest Anthem. Price Threepence. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO EDITION OF PART-SONGS.

SELECTED LISTS OF RECENTLY PUBLISHED PART-SONGS.

MIXED VOICES (S.A.T.B., Unaccompanied or Accompaniment ad lib. where not otherwise indicated).

Angelus	E. Elgar	4d.
Autumn Song, An	B Luard-Selby	1½d.
Beside the river (Op. 28, No. 3)	A. Jensen	2d.
Black Monk, The (arr. by Rutland Boughton)	Welsh Folk-song	3d.
Bring me a golden pen	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Call of the breeze, The	J. Cliffe Forrester	1½d.
Cheshire Cheese, The (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
Chloe, that dear bewitching prude	Healey Willan	2d.
Come away, death (arr. by G. Shaw)	Arne	2d.
Come out across the heather (Op. 28, No. 2)	A. Jensen	3d.
Come, lasses and lads (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
§Comrades' song of hope (arr. by Percy E. Fletcher)	A. Adam	2d.
Crossing the bar	C. Lee Williams	2d.
Cruiskeen Lawn, The (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	3d.
David of the White Rock (arr. by H. Evans)	Welsh Air	2d.
Day Dreams	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
Death, the reaper (Op. 75, No. 6)	Schumann	1½d.
Emer's lament for Cuchulain (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	3d.
Evening brings us home	F. H. Cowen	1½d.
Evening Star, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
Fairy Spring	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
§Fly, singing bird	E. Elgar	6d.
§For Empire and for King	Percy E. Fletcher	6d.
Gallant Swabian Captain, A	F. Hegar	3d.
Gay Madcap (Op. 67, No. 2)	Schumann	3d.
Go, song of mine (6 parts)	E. Elgar	6d.
God sends the night	R. Somerville	1½d.
Had I a cave	Healey Willan	2d.
Heart of the night, The (Accompanied)	Hubert Bath	3d.
In praise of Neptune	E. German	3d.
In pride of May	John E. West	1½d.
In the silent West (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	4d.
Joan to the Maypole (arr. by J. C. Bridge)	Folk-song	3d.
June	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Kindred hearts	C. Lee Williams	2d.
King of Thule, The (Op. 67, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
Kitty of Coleraine (arr. by C. H. Lloyd)	Irish Air	2d.
Lee Shore, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	2d.
Leprehaun, The	Granville Bantock	4d.
Links o' Love, The	J. B. McEwen	1½d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No. 4) (arr. by John E. West)	Brahms	1½d.
§March triumphal thunders, The ("Caractacus")	E. Elgar	6d.
Men of Harlech (arr. by Rutland Boughton)	Welsh Folk-song	3d.
Merry time of Maying, The (arr. by Brahms)	German Folk-song	3d.
Midnight by the sea	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Morning Song (arr. by Brahms)	German Folk-song	3d.
My love and I (Op. 28, No. 5)	A. Jensen	2d.
My soul would drink those echoes (8 parts)	A. C. Mackenzie	4d.
§News from Whydah	H. Balfour Gardiner	8d.
Night softly falling	G. Lewin	3d.
Nocturne, A	F. H. Cowen	3d.
North or South (Op. 59, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
O tender sleep	M. F. Phillips	1½d.
One with eyes the fairest	Granville Bantock	1½d.
§Our Island Home	Eaton Faning	3d.
Out of the darkness (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Out of the silence (8 parts)	G. Rathbone	6d.
Out upon it	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Phillida flouts me	C. Lee Williams	3d.
Pride of youth, The	John E. West	3d.
Prithee, why?	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Qui Vive!	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Rest comes at eve (Op. 28, No 6)	A. Jensen	1½d.
Sleeping	E. German	3d.
§Snow, The	E. Elgar	6d.
Song of Fionnuala, The (arr. by Granville Bantock)	Irish Air	1½d.
Song of love's coming, A	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Song of Proserpine	S. Coleridge-Taylor	2d.
§Soul of the world ("St. Cecilia's Day")	Purcell	2d.
Spirit of night (8 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Spring-enchantment (5 parts)	Granville Bantock	3d.
Stage Coach, The	H. Balfour Gardiner	3d.
Storm, The (Op. 67, No. 4)	Schumann	2d.
Sweet day, so cool	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Three Knights, The	E. German	3d.
§Three ships, The	Colin Taylor	3d.
Throstle sings, The	M. Meyer-Olbersleben	2d.
Thuringian Volkslied	Abt	1½d.
To a bee	T. W. Stephenson	3d.
Twilight (8 parts)	C. Lee Williams	3d.
When lilies are blowing (Op. 28, No. 7)	A. Jensen	3d.
When Sunday's bells did chime	Hans Sitt	2d.
When the tendrils deck the vine (Op. 28, No. 4)	A. Jensen	2d.
When you sing	Hubert Bath	1½d.
Where the bee sucks (arr. by G. Shaw)	Arne	1½d.
Whispers of Summer	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1½d.
Who rides for the King	R. Somerville	3d.
Winter is past, The (arr. by E. L. Bainton)	Scotch Folk-song	2d.
Wrong not, sweet Empress	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
Young May Moon, The (arr. by C. H. Lloyd)	Irish Air	2d.

MALE VOICES (T.T.B.B., Unaccompanied or Accompaniment ad lib. where not otherwise indicated).

Alexander (Humorous) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	2d.
§Bacchanalian Chorus	J. W. Elliott	4d.
Battle Song	Laurent de Rillé	3d.
Boy, The (Humorous) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Duncan Gray (T.T.B.)	A. M. Richardson	3d.
Early one morning (arr. by T. F. Dunhill) (A.T.B.B.)	Folk-song	2d.
Evening Song	Laurent de Rillé	3d.
Festival Song	Granville Bantock	4d.
Glories of our blood and state, The	Granville Bantock	3d.
Hymn to Harmony	Laurent de Rillé	4d.
Laird o' Cockpen	Granville Bantock	4d.
Lament, A (arr. by H. Elliot Button)	German Folk-song	2d.
Land of the leal, The (arr. by H. Elliot Button)	Scotch Air	2d.
Lass of Richmond Hill, The (A. (or T.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Let the hills resound (arranged)	Brinley Richards	4d.
Little Sandman, The (arr. by John E. West) (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	German Folk-song	3d.
Lotus flower, The (Op. 33, No. 3)	Schumann	2d.
Lucifer in starlight (6 parts)	Granville Bantock	6d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No. 4) (arr. by John E. West)	Brahms	1½d.
Lullaby, A (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	C. Lee Williams	2d.
Mad Dog, The. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	4d.
Marching (Op. 41, No. 4) (Humorous)	Brahms	2d.
Night March, The (Op. 62, No. 1)	Schumann	3d.
Orpheus. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	3d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	Granville Bantock	4d.
Piper o' Dundee	Granville Bantock	4d.
Softly fall the shades of evening (arranged)	Hatton	3d.
Soldier, rest	A. Somervell	3d.
Song of Freedom (Op. 62, No. 2)	Schumann	3d.
Song of the Quarrymen (T. solo)	Laurent de Rillé	4d.
That very wise man. Humorous (A.T.B.B.)	C. H. H. Parry	3d.
There was an old man. Humorous (T. (or A.) T.B.B.)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
United are we (Op. 41, No. 2)	Brahms	2d.
§Viking Song	Julius Harrison	4d.
Walpurga (Op. 30)	F. Hegar	6d.
Ware, Wire!	C. Lee Williams	3d.

FEMALE VOICES (THREE-PART (S.S.A.) and with Accompaniment where not otherwise indicated).

Annie Laurie (arr. by C. Macpherson)	Scotch Air	3d.
Ballad of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, The	W. Wolstenholme	6d.
Beauteous morn	E. German	3d.
Blow, ye gentle breezes (4 parts unaccomp.)	J. C. Marks	3d.
Earth and Man, The	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Encinctured with a twine of leaves	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Evening Song (2 parts)	J. Ireland	3d.
Fall of the leaf, The (Op. 43, No. 2) (2 parts)	Schumann	2d.
Flaming Sun is dying, The	F. Hiller	1½d.
Forest Fay, The (Op. 69, No. 2) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	1½d.
Full fathom five (2 parts)	J. Ireland	1½d.
Golden slumbers (2 parts)	A. H. Brewer	3d.
Good-night	M. F. Phillips	3d.
Good-night, beloved (arranged, unaccomp.)	Pinsuti	1½d.
In midst of ocean (Op. 91, No. 6) (6 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	3d.
In the warm blue weather (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
It is not always May	Pinsuti	2d.
June roses (Op. 29, No. 2)	Schumann	1½d.
Love-song, A. Accompaniment for Harp (or Pianoforte), Violin and Violoncello	Granville Bantock	4d.
Lullaby (Op. 49, No 4) (arranged)	Brahms	1½d.
Ditto (2 parts)	Brahms	1½d.
Maiden of the "Fleur de Lys" (arranged, unaccomp.)	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
Mermaid, The (Op. 69, No. 5) (5 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	3d.
Pixies, The	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Rest thee on this mossy pillow	H. Smart	1½d.
Rhyme of the four birds, The	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
River King, The (Op. 91, No. 3) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Schumann	1½d.
See, see what a wonderful smile (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
Shed no tear (4 parts unaccomp.)	E. Austin	2d.
Sleep, little baby (S. solo) (4 parts unaccomp.)	Colin Taylor	3d.
Softly fall the shades of evening (arranged, unaccomp.)	Hatton	3d.
Song of morning, A	A. C. Mackenzie	3d.
Song of the Ermine	César Franck	3d.
Stars of the Summer night (2 parts)	E. Elgar	6d.
There is a garden in her face (2 parts)	J. Ireland	1½d.
Three Fishers, The (4 parts unaccomp.)	W. Wolstenholme	3d.
To Blossoms	P. Bowie	3d.
What can lambkins do?	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Who shall be fairest?	T. S. Holland	3d.
Ye banks and braes (2 parts)	A. M. Richardson	3d.
You spotted snakes	J. D. Davis	3d.
Young love	Granville Bantock	2d.

§ Orchestral Accompaniment.

NOVELLO'S

NEW SONGS

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH NET.

THE BIG REVIEW. By A. HERBERT BREWER.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.
(With Chorus ad lib.)

SONG OF THE PILGRIMS.
By EMMELINE BROOK.
Suitable for All Voices.

LOVE IN THE MEADOWS.
By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos or Contraltos.

GALLOPING DICK. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

THE SONGSTERS' AWAKENING (Vocal Waltz). By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for Sopranos.

SOME PERFECT ROSE. By PERCY E. FLETCHER.
Suitable for All Voices.

TO ALTHEA. By C. HARFORD LLOYD.
Suitable for Baritones.

ON A SUMMER'S DAY.
By CECIL ENGELHARDT.
Suitable for All Voices.

THE CAMEL'S HUMP. By EDWARD GERMAN.
Suitable for All Voices.

SONS OF THE SEA. By COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

COME, DREAMLESS REST. By NOEL JOHNSON.
Suitable for All Voices.

WITH ALL MY HEART.
By WALTER EARNSHAWE.
Suitable for All Voices.

HELIODORE. By BOTHWELL THOMSON.
Suitable for Tenors or Baritones.

LOVE IS FOR EVER. By ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for All Voices.

ZUMMERZETZHIRE (Old Song).
Arranged by ERNEST NEWTON.
Suitable for Baritones or Basses.

WHERE THE CHILDREN SLEEP.
By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Contraltos or Baritones.

A SOUL. By A. KINGSTON STEWART.
Suitable for Tenors.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S

CLASSICAL SONGS

VOL. III.

CONTENTS.

Art thou troubled (Dove sei)	Handel.
But the Lord is mindful of His own	Mendelssohn.
Butterfly, The	Cornelius.
Courage	Schubert.
Dawn, gentle flower	W. Sterndale Bennett.
Erlaf-lake	Schubert.
Fishermaiden, The	Schubert.
Full-orbed Moon, The	Schubert.
Good-night, my dearest child	Brahms.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel.
I will sing of Thy great mercies	Mendelssohn.
In May	Schumann.
Joy of Spring, The (Frühlingslied)	Mendelssohn.
Know'st thou the land?	Schubert.
Lay of the imprisoned huntsman	Schubert.
Let the bright Seraphim	Handel.
Little Sandman, The	Brahms.
Lord of our being (Sorge nel petto)	Handel.
Memory, A	Brahms.
Morning Song	Mendelssohn.
Nazareth	Gounod.
Nymphs and Shepherds	Purcell.
O, my love 's like the red, red rose	Schumann.
O rest in the Lord	Mendelssohn.
O think of me	Cornelius.
Ode to Joy	Schubert.
Oft in my dreams	Cornelius.
Oh! had I Jubal's lyre	Handel.
Out over the Forth	Schumann.
Peace	Schubert.
Sandman, The	Schumann.
Sing, Maiden, sing	W. Sterndale Bennett.
Smiling dawn of happy days	Handel.
Spring advancing (Frühlingsglaube)	Mendelssohn.
Swallow 's flying west, The	Brahms.
Trout, The	Schubert.
Violets	Cornelius.
Wanderer's Night-Song	Schubert.

Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW SACRED SONG.

LAID ON THINE ALTAR

BY

WALTER BROOKS. (OP. 73.)

Published by S. T. COOKE, Brereton Works, Rugeley, Staffs.

Price Two Shillings Net.

"A beautiful melody, set to words instinct with genuine pathos and deep religious fervour."

20,000

WEBSTER'S CHILD'S PRIMER

OF THE

THEORY OF MUSIC.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and all Music Sellers.

FOUR

SHAKESPERIAN PART-SONGS

For S.A.T.B. (unaccompanied).

COMPOSED BY

LIZA LEHMANN.

1. I KNOW A BANK.
2. WHEN ICICLES HANG BY THE WALL.
3. TELL ME, WHERE IS FANCY BRED?
4. UNDER THE GREENWOOD TREE.

Price Ninepence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS
FOR THE
ORGAN
COMPOSED BY ALFRED HOLLINS.

No.		No.
1.	Allegretto grazioso.	7.	Concert Rondo.
2.	Andante in D.	8.	Grand Chœur, No. 1.
3.	Benediction Nuptiale.	9.	Grand Chœur, No. 2.
4.	Bridal March.	10.	Intermezzo in D flat.
5.	Communion.	11.	Spring Song.
6.	Concert Overture in C minor.	12.	Triumphal March.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Cloth, 10s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS
FOR THE
ORGAN
COMPOSED BY
W. WOLSTENHOLME.

No.		No.
1.	Allegretto in E flat.	7.	Finale in B flat.
2.	Allegretto in A flat.	8.	Le Carillon.
3.	Andantino.	9.	Meditation.
4.	Canzona.	10.	Minuet and Trio.
5.	Caprice.	11.	Romanza.
6.	Fantasia in E.	12.	The Seraph's Strain.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Cloth, 10s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES
FOR THE ORGAN
COMPOSED BY THEODORE DUBOIS.

CONTENTS:

1.	PRELUDE	4.	INTERLUDE
2.	CANTILENE RELIGIEUSE	5.	PRIÈRE
3.	MARCIETTA	6.	POSTLUDE CANTIQUE

7. MARCHE-SORTIE.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SEVEN PIECES
FOR THE ORGAN
COMPOSED BY
ALEXANDRE GUILMANT.

CONTENTS:

1	OFFERTOIRE	4.	MINUETTO
2.	WEDDING MARCH	5.	MARCHE TRIOMPHALE
3.	BERCEUSE	6.	POSTLUDE

7. FANTAISIE SUR DEUX MÉLODIES ANGLAISES.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S
ALBUMS FOR THE ORGAN.

No. 1.

No.	TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.
1.	Interlude	Th. Dubois
2.	Chanson de Matin	Edward Elgar
3.	Fantasia on the old melody "Urbs Beata"	W. Faulkes
4.	There is a green hill far away	Ch. Gounod
5.	Marche Triomphale	Alexandre Guilmant
6.	Ave Maria	A. Henselt
7.	Grand Chœur No. 2	Alfred Hollins
8.	Andantino in D flat	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Chanson Triste	P. Tschaïkowsky
10.	Prelude to "Lohengrin," Act I.	R. Wagner
11.	Romanza	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Allegretto in E flat	W. Wolstenholme

No. 2.

No.	TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.
1.	Chanson de Nuit	Edward Elgar
2.	Alla Marcia	Myles B. Foster
3.	Minuetto	Alexandre Guilmant
4.	Lied	H. Hofmann
5.	Barcarolle	H. Hofmann
6.	Spring Song	Alfred Hollins
7.	The Curfew	Edward J. Horsman
8.	Pastorale in E	Edwin H. Lemare
9.	Ave Maria d'Arcadelt	Franz Liszt
10.	Cantique d'Amour	Theo. Wendt
11.	The Seraph's Strain	W. Wolstenholme
12.	Le Carillon	W. Wolstenholme

No. 3.
Just Published.

No.	TWELVE SELECTED PIECES.
1.	Scherzo in A flat	Edward C. Bairstow
2.	Melody	S. Coleridge-Taylor
3.	Serenade	H. Hofmann
4.	Bridal March	Alfred Hollins
5.	Berceuse	Edwin H. Lemare
6.	Melodie in E	S. Rachmaninoff
7.	Aubade	A. Strelezki
8.	Nocturne in C sharp minor	P. Tschaïkowsky
9.	Procession to the Minster ("Lohengrin")	R. Wagner
10.	Passacaglia	John E. West
11.	Fantasia upon the Plain-song Melody "Ad cœnam Agni"	Healey Willan
12.	Allegretto in A flat	W. Wolstenholme

"Novello's Organ Album No. 3 is remarkably good value. For the modest sum of three and sixpence, you get twelve pieces of varying excellence. As a rule, such albums are a kind of musical dust-heap, in which the purchaser delves (not too successfully) for his moneysworth. You need have no anxiety in this case."—Musical Opinion, June, 1912.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence each;
Cloth, 5s. each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SHORT POSTLUDES
FOR THE
ORGAN.

1.	GRAND CHŒUR	Thomas Adams
2.	ALLA MARCIA	W. G. Alcock
3.	SIEGESLIED	Hugh Blair
4.	POSTLUDE	William Faulkes
5.	CONCLUDING VOLUNTARY	Myles B. Foster
6.	POSTLUDE	John E. West

Price Two Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN
(NEW SERIES).

No. 1.

SEVEN CHORALE PRELUDES

BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

CONTENTS:

1. Chorale Prelude on "Dundee."
2. Chorale Prelude on "Rockingham."
3. Chorale Prelude on S. S. Wesley's "Hampton."
4. Chorale Prelude on The "Old 104th."
5. Chorale Prelude on "Melcombe."
6. Chorale Prelude on "Christe Redemptor omnium."
7. Chorale Prelude on "St. Ann's."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

RECITAL

SERIES OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE ORGAN

EDITED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

No.		s.	d.
41.	Rêve d'Amour .. .. Felix Corbett	2	0
42.	Morceau de Concert (En Forme de Valse) .. Alfred Hollins	2	0
43.	Pavane in A .. .. Bernard Johnson	1	6
44.	Finale Jubilante .. .. John E. West	2	0
45.	Scherzo in F minor .. .. .. H. Sandiford Turner	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Newly added Numbers.		s.	d.
The Quest	(No. 31. Original Compositions)	1	6
Rustic Scene	(No. 32. ,, ,,)	2	0
Carillon	(No. 33. ,, ,,)	1	6
Chant Séraphique	(No. 34. ,, ,,)	1	6
Communion ("Peace") ..	(No. 35. ,, ,,)	1	6
Summer Sketches (Dawn; The Bee; Cuckoo; Twilight; Evening.)	(No. 40. Recital Series)	2	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SIX SHORT EASY PIECES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

COMPOSED BY

CLEMENT M. SPURLING.

(Op. 9.)

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS:

No.		No.
1.	Humoresque.	4.	Barcarolle.
2.	Spring Song.	5.	Waltz.
3.	Once upon a time.	6.	The End.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SIX EASY PIECES

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

BY

C. H. LLOYD.

Price Three Shillings.

CONTENTS:

No.		No.
1.	Bridal March.	4.	Minuet and Trio.
2.	Lullaby.	5.	Melody.
3.	Lament.	6.	Valse.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

FOUR CHARACTERISTIC PIECES

1. In Modo d'una Sonata.
2. Cavatina.
3. Mazurka.
4. Moto Perpetuo.

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

COMPOSED BY

C. H. LLOYD.

Price Three Shillings.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

JUST PUBLISHED.

LA SAVANNAH

AIR DE BALLET

FOR ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 72.)

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Wind Parts, &c.	7	0
Full Score	6	0
Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0
Arrangement for Military Band (In the Press).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

	s.	d.
TROIS IMPRESSIONS. Op. 72:—
1. Harmonies du Soir	1	0
2. Clair de Lune	1	0
3. La Nuit	1	0
CHACONNE AND FUGUE TRILOGY, WITH CHORAL (2 Trumpets, 2 Trombones, 2 Tubas, Timpani, Tam-tam, and Piatti ad lib.). Op. 73:—
Organ Score	4	6
Wind Parts, &c.	2	0
FIRST SONATINA in A minor. Op. 74	3	6

"Must be classed as one of the finest works in modern organ literature. The first movement is practically in usual Sonata form. The development section is particularly brilliant, and the quiet cadence leading into the recapitulation is of arresting beauty."

"The slow movement, in the nature of a chaconne, is beautiful and restful. A brilliant cadenza leads to an exciting introduction to a most interesting triple fugue (confined to manuals). Afterwards the composer works backwards through the sections preceding the fugue, unwinding himself, as it were, before starting on a magnificent Coda befitting a magnificent work."—Daily Mail.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

WITH THE WILD GEESE

POEM

FOR ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HAMILTON HARTY.

FULL SCORE.
Price Fifteen Shillings.
String Parts, 7s. (In the Press); Wind Parts (on hire).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

SYMPHONY No. 2

IN E FLAT

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 63)

ARRANGEMENT FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO

BY

SIGFRID KARG-ELERT.

Price Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Duet (In the Press).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

No. 84. Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.

EQUAL TEMPERAMENT

IN THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Some remarks as to the Production of Musical Sounds, and the Method by which the Scale forming the basis of Modern Music is built up.

BY

HENRY SPAIN.

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NOW ISSUED AS A NET BOOK.
Reduced Price, Seven Shillings and Sixpence net.

A TREATISE

ON

MODERN INSTRUMENTATION

AND

ORCHESTRATION,

To which is appended

THE CHEF D'ORCHESTRE

BY

HECTOR BERLIOZ.

Translated by Mary Cowden Clarke.

New Edition, Revised and Edited by Joseph Bennett.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TO ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.

NEW

Compositions for Grand Orchestra

SHEPHERD FENNEL'S DANCE

By H. BALFOUR GARDINER.

Score, Five Shillings.

Orchestral Parts, 7s. 6d. Extra Parts, each, 8d.

LIFE MOODS

By ARTHUR HERVEY.

Score, Seven Shillings and Sixpence.

Orchestral Parts, 12s. Extra Parts, 1s. 6d. Pianoforte Transcription, 3s

THE BAMBOULA

By S. COLERIDGE TAYLOR.

Score, Five Shillings.

Orchestral Parts, 7s. 6d. Extra Parts, each, 8d.

Programme Notes, Press Opinions, and further particulars may be obtained from—

HAWKES & SON, Denman Street, Piccadilly Circus, London, W.

Just Published.

No. 8, NOVELLO'S ELEMENTARY MUSIC MANUALS.

HINTS

ON THE

ELEMENTARY TEACHING

OF THE

PIANOFORTE

CHIEFLY TO BOYS.

BY

EDWARD D. RENDALL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

No. 83, NOVELLO'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

THE MILITARY BAND

BY

GEORGE MILLER,

M.V.O., Mus. Bac. Cantab., &c.

Price Two Shillings.

In Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

It is a valuable sketch of a highly specialised subject, and none the less practical because seasoned with humour. The various instruments and their idiosyncrasies are tersely described, and their collective use is admirably illustrated.—Yorkshire Post.

No one is more worthy to speak on such a subject than Lieut. George Miller, and the book is one of great value.—Cheltenham Looker-On.

From this book it is possible to learn the compass and capabilities of each instrument. The explanations are admirably lucid and suggestive; and the final chapters, showing how a work composed originally for the concert-orchestra—Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony—can effectively be arranged for the military band, teaches more than all the text-books. We heartily commend this most excellent book.—Saturday Review.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

MESSRS. NOVELLO & Co., LTD., beg to announce that they have acquired the copyright of the following

COMPOSITIONS BY

SIR EDWARD ELGAR.

VIRELAI

Violin and Pianoforte .. .. .. 2s. od.
Pianoforte Solo .. .. 2s. od.

PASTOURELLE

Violin and Pianoforte .. .. .. 2s. od.
Pianoforte Solo .. .. 2s. od.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

TWO BAGATELLES

I. VALSETTE.
II. PIZZICATO.

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA.

COMPOSED BY

PERCY E. FLETCHER.

	s.	d.
String Parts	2	6
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The SOCIETY of BRITISH COMPOSERS. Music Published in the AVISON EDITION.

INSTRUMENTAL.

	Net s.	d.
BAX, ARNOLD—Trio. Pianoforte, Violin, and Viola	6	6
BEETHOVEN.—Cavatina. For Violin and Organ. (Extra Violin Parts, 6d. each)	2	0
BELL, W. H.—Arabesque. Violin and Pianoforte	1	6
Arcadian Suite. Full Score	15	0
CORDER, F.—Elegy for Orchestra. Full Score	2	6
CORDER, PAUL—"Dross." Music-Drama without words.. ..	3	6
DIXON, H. C.—Andante Religioso for Violoncello and Pianoforte	1	6
GARDINER, H. BALFOUR—Quartet in one movement for Strings. Score .. .. net 2 0 | Parts	3	0
HARTLEY, LLOYD—Two Pieces. Violin and Pianoforte	3	0
HURLSTONE, W. Y.—Variations for Orchestra. Full Score ..	10	0
Trio. Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello	7	6
JERVIS-READ, H. V.—Phantasy Trio in B minor. Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello	5	0
MCEWEN, J. B.—"Grey Galloway." Border Ballad for Orchestra. Full Score	10	6
MACKENZIE, A. C.—Suite. Violin and Orchestra (or Pianoforte) Full Score 20s. | Piano Score net 5s. | Separately, each	2	0
MATTHAY, TOBIAS—Quartet in one movement	5	0
SPEAIGHT, JOSEPH—Spanish Love Song. Violin and Pianoforte	1	6
Spinnerlied; Evensong. Violoncello and Pianoforte .. each	1	6
WESSELY, HANS—Kreutzer Studies, with accompaniment for Second Violin. Two Books .. .. each	2	6

PIANOFORTE.

AUSTIN, ERNEST—Poem for Pianoforte	2	6
BOWEN, E. YORK—Miniature Suite	3	0
Separately: Humoresque, 1s.; Nocturne, 1s.; Scherzo ..	1	6
First Ballade; Polonaise .. .. each	2	6
CORDER, PAUL—Nine Preludes, 4s. 6d. .. Separately, each	1	0
COX, G. H.—Song of Spring	2	0
DALE, B. J.—Sonata	5	0
EGGAR, K. E.—Sketches: The Old Castle; The Wishing Well, ea.	1	6
FORRESTER, CLIFFE—Summer's Call; The Exile .. .. each	2	0
Variations on an Original Air	2	0
GARRATT, PERCIVAL—Scherzo-Toccata	2	6
GATTY, NICHOLAS—Five Waltzes	2	6
HARTLEY, LLOYD—Four Miniature Impressions	2	6
Two Concert Pieces .. 3 0 | Moods	2	6
HAWLEY, STANLEY.—Dance Sketch, No. 1..	2	0
HICKIN, WELTON—Suite Mignonne	2	6
HURLSTONE, W. Y.—Capriccio	1	6
JERVIS-READ, H. V.—Five Impressions	2	0
MATTHAY, TOBIAS—Toccata; Albumblatt; Dirge .. each	1	0
QUILTER, ROGER—Three Studies	2	6
SPEAIGHT, JOSEPH—Passepied, 1s.; Miniatures, 1s. 6d.; Legends	2	0
SWINSTEAD, FELIX—Prelude in D	1	6
Variations on a Theme by Concone	2	6
WIGHT, A. N.—Barcarolle. In the Bay	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SERENADE

FROM

"THE WAND OF YOUTH"

(FIRST SUITE)

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

PIANOFORTE SOLO	1s. 6d.
VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE	2s. od.
VIOLONCELLO AND PIANOFORTE	2s. od.
PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS	2s. 6d.

(Separate String Parts, 3d. each.)

ARRANGEMENT FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA.

STRING PARTS	1s. 3d.
FLUTE AND CLARINET	each 3d.
HARP OR PIANOFORTE	1s. od.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SOLEMN MELODY

COMPOSED BY

H. WALFORD DAVIES.

FULL ORCHESTRA.

	s.	d.
FULL SCORE	3	0
STRING PARTS	1	3
WIND PARTS	3	9

STRINGS AND ORGAN.

SCORE	2	0
STRING PARTS	1	3
ORGAN	0	6
PIANOFORTE SOLO	1	6
ORGAN SOLO	1	6
VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE	1	6
VIOLONCELLO AND PIANOFORTE	1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

AUF WIEDERSEHEN

COMPOSED BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE	2s. od.
VIOLA AND PIANOFORTE	2s. od.
VIOLONCELLO AND PIANOFORTE	2s. od.
SMALL ORCHESTRA:
String Parts	1s. 3d.
Wind Parts	2s. od.
PIANOFORTE SOLO	2s. od.
ORGAN SOLO	1s. 6d.
PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS ..	2s. 6d.
Separate String Parts, 6d. each.
ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND	5s. od.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALLEGRETTO

BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME.

VIOLA AND PIANOFORTE	1s. 6d.
VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE	1s. 6d.
VIOLONCELLO AND PIANOFORTE	1s. 6d.
PIANOFORTE	1s. 6d.
ORGAN	2s. od.
ARRANGEMENT FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA:
STRING PARTS	2s. od.
WIND PARTS	2s. 6d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES
FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	Part 1
2.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
3.	SCALES	Part 1
4.	,, ...	,, 2
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	Part 1
6.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
7.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
8.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
9.	,, ,, ...	,, 5
10.	LEFT HAND	Part 1
11.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
12.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
13.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
14.*	ARPEGGIO	Part 1
15.	,, ...	,, 2
16.	,, ...	,, 3
17.	VELOCITY	Part 1
18.	,, ...	,, 2
19.	,, ...	,, 3
20.	,, ...	,, 4
21.	,, ...	,, 5
22.	,, ...	,, 6
23.	,, ...	,, 7
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	Part 1
25.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 1
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	,, 2
28.	SHAKES	Part 1
29.	,, ...	,, 2
30.	,, ...	,, 3
31.	DOUBLE NOTES	Part 1
32.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
33.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
34.	,, ,, ...	,, 4
35.	OCTAVES	Part 1
36.*	,, ...	,, 2
37.	CHORDS	Part 1
38.	,, ...	,, 2
39.*	STACCATO
40.	REPETITION	Part 1
41.*	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	,, 2
42.	,, ,, ...	,, 3
43.*	PART-PLAYING	Part 1
44.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
45.*	ORNAMENTS	Part 1
46.	,, ...	,, 2
47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	Part 1
48.	,, ,, ...	,, 2
49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	Part 1
50.*	,, ,, ...	,, 2
51.	RHYTHM	Part 1
52.*	,, ...	,, 2
53.	EXERCISES FOR THE WEAKER FINGERS. By J. A. O'NEILL.
54.	WRIST STUDIES (Handgelenksübungen). By ARNOLD KRUG.
55.	EXERCISES FOR FACILITATING INDEPENDENCE OF THE FINGERS (Übungen für die Selbständigkeit der Finger). By ARNOLD KRUG.
56.	PRELIMINARY STUDIES IN PLAYING POLYPHONIC MUSIC (Vorübungen für das polyphone Spiel). By ARNOLD KRUG.

* These Books contain Studies composed by Mr. Franklin Taylor specially for this Series.

FIFTY-SIX BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

FROM THE ABOVE:

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS), PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOVELLO'S
ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS.

(TWO VIOLINS, VIOLA, AND VIOLONCELLO.)

The Pieces in the majority of these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte is used, they will sound complete.

No.		s.	d.
1.	DOLMETSCH, ARNOLD—Suite of Four Pieces ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
2.	PURCELL, HENRY—Suite of Five Pieces ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
3.	GERMAN, EDWARD — Three Dances, from the Music to "Henry VIII." Extra String Parts, 1s. each.	5	0
4.	RAMEAU—Gavotte in D ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
5.	HANDEL, G. F.—Six Pieces from the Water Music. 1. Bourrée in F; 2. Air in F; 3. Minuet in F; 4. Hornpipe in F; 5. Aria in G; 6. Allegro in D ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	6
6.	HANDEL, G. F.—Two Bourrées ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
7.	MACKENZIE, A. C. — Benedictus, from Six Pieces for the Violin ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
8.	GOUNOD, CHARLES—Judex, from "Mors et Vita" ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
9.	MENDELSSOHN—Wedding March Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
10.	MENDELSSOHN — War March ("Athalie") ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
11.	MENDELSSOHN—Cornelius March Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
12.	MENDELSSOHN—Funeral March ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
13.	ELVEY, GEORGE — Gavotte (à la mode ancienne) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
14	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 1. Stately Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
15.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 2. Rustic Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
16.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 3. Graceful Dance Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
17.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Four English Dances. No. 4. Country Dance ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
18.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 1. Valse Bohemienne ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
19.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 2. Valse Rustique ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
20.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 3. Valse de la Reine ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
21.	COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S. — Four Characteristic Waltzes. No. 4. Valse Mauresque ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
22.	SPOHR, L. — Andantino, from the Symphony "The Consecration of Sound"... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
23.	LANNER, JOSEF — Five Styrian Dances (Ländler) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
24.	TOURS, BERTHOLD—March in G Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	1
25.	MACFARREN, W.—Bourrée in C ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	0
26.	COWEN, FREDERIC H. — Minuet d'Amour, from A Suite of Old English Dances (Second Set) ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
27.	WEST, JOHN E.—Intermezzo (from "Seedtime and Harvest") ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6
28.	HOLST, GUSTAV VON — Seven Scottish Airs ... ... Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	3	0
29.	LEMARE, E. H.—Andantino in D flat ... ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6
30.	BREWER, A. H.—Auf Wiedersehen Extra String Parts, 6d. each.	2	6
31.	ELGAR, EDWARD—Wand of Youth, The, Serenade from (First Suite, Op. 1a) ... Extra String Parts, 3d. each.	2	6

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S
LATEST SONG AND BALLAD SUCCESSES.

LIZA LEHMANN—
"Daddy's Sweetheart"
"Little Moccasins"
"Clementina's Song"
"Everybody's Secret"

GUY D'HARDELOT—
"My Message"
"Until one day"
"Un Rien" (A Word)
"Come!"
"Till you looked up"
"Thy voice, beloved"
"The Lark's Song"

FLORENCE AYLWARD—
"Solace"
"Sunshine and Daffodils"
"The Romany Fiddle"
"Morning—and you!"
"Dear heart, I love"
"A Tree Song"
"Three"

TERESA DEL RIEGO—
"Little Brown Bird"
"Your Picture"
"Hayfields and Butterflies"
"The red rose wooed the white rose"
"I lay my laurels at your feet"
"Shadow March"

DOROTHY FORSTER—
"Look down, beloved"
"In the Twilight"
"Where violets grow"
"Margaret"
"Mifanwy"
"Rosamond"
"Rose in the Bud"

EMMELINE BROOK—
"To a Seabird"

KATIE MOSS—
"The Floral Dance"

F. PAOLO TOSTI—
"Never"
Two Little Songs: "Could I but tell" / "I cannot tell" } Published together.

S. LIDDLE—
Two Short Songs: "Open my window to the stars" / "Love, pluck your flowers" } Published together.

HUBERT BATH—
"I have a rose"
"Reconciliation"
"Destiny"
"Sea Memories"

KENNEDY RUSSELL—
"The Farmer's Pride"
"Old Farmer John"

BOTHWELL THOMSON—
"The First Kiss" / "The Flower Bird" } Published together.
"Lullaby Lady"
"Velvet eyes"

ERIC COATES—
"When the robin goes a-singing"
"The gates of Spring"
"Sweet-and-Twenty"

NOEL JOHNSON—
"Gray Days"

HAYDN WOOD—
"May in my garden"
"Fairy Waters"

TURLAY ROYCE—
"Billee Bowline"
"Love's window"

GRAHAM PEEL—
"Boot, saddle, to horse"
"Twenty years hence"
"Loveliest of trees"
"Wind of the Western Sea"
"April"
"The Early morning"

FRANK LAMBERT—
"Love that is gone"

EDWARD GERMAN—
"An old English Valentine"
"Love in all Seasons"

HERMANN LÖHR—
"There's a hill by the Sea"
"Little grey home in the West"
"Life has sent me many roses"
"Eyes that used to gaze in mine"
Two Songs of Summer: "Summer in the country" / "If I were a swallow" } Published together.
"Rose of my heart"
"Where my caravan has rested"
"It is not because your heart is mine"
"Unmindful of the roses"

W. H. SQUIRE—
"The Irish Fusilier"

ROBERT CONINGSBY CLARKE—
"The Wind in the Corn"
"Blackbird and Rose"
"A little Geisha singing"
"Poppies for forgetting"
"The charm of Spring"
"O, my garden, full of roses"

PERCY E. FLETCHER—
"Life's blessing"

PAUL A. RUBENS—
"The Admiral's yarn"
"Help me to love"

LESLIE ELLIOTT—
"Hayoma"
"A love song"

MONTAGUE F. PHILLIPS—
"Night is nigh"
"A Soul's Anguish"
"Sleep"
"My Dreamland Rose"
"In Harbour"
"Starry woods"
"Rosette"
"Grey eyes"

NEW AND POPULAR VOCAL ALBUMS.

LIZA LEHMANN—
"Cowboy Ballads"
"Songs of a Flapper"

DOROTHY FORSTER—
"Songs of Farewell"

HERMANN LÖHR—
"Roumanian Songs"
"Romany Songs"

MONTAGUE F. PHILLIPS—
"Dream-Songs"

R. CONINGSBY CLARKE—
"The Perfect Tune" (A connected set of six little songs).

GRAHAM PEEL—
"Songs of a Shropshire Lad"

CHAPPELL & Co., Ltd., 50, New Bond Street, London, W.

NEW YORK, TORONTO, AND MELBOURNE. AND OF ALL MUSIC SELLERS.

London:—Printed by NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited, at Novello Works, Soho, and published at 160, Wardour Street, Soho, W.
Sold also by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, HAMILTON, KENT AND CO., Ltd., Paternoster Row, E.C.—Thursday, August 1, 1912.

This Supplement is part also of the August issue of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, and can be obtained with the REVIEW, price 1½*d.*

The Competition Festival Record

No. 49.

SOME NOTES ON THE PARIS MUSICAL TOURNAMENT.*

BY W. G. MCNAUGHT.

Have we, who are concerned with the Competition Festival movement in this country, much to learn from our experience of the great International Musical Tournament held at Paris at Whitsuntide?

To me, the main reflection is the comfortable one that on the whole we contrive the business of our Festivals better than they did in Paris on this occasion, and I think we can fairly claim that we work on more educational lines than they appear to do in France.

A further reflection is, that in this country—outside Wales—we have something to learn by way of making our Festivals a more popular appeal to those who are non-competitors. At Paris, what with processions and magnificent open-air events, probably no fewer than half-a-million people were directly interested in the proceedings. The weather was magnificent, and no doubt that helped greatly. Can we fancy a musical Festival in London during which, say, the traffic of the whole length of Oxford Street would be held up or diverted for many hours to allow of a procession of some twenty or thirty thousand members of bands and choirs to pass along amidst the enthusiastic plaudits of hundreds of thousands of the populace! Can we fancy a gathering of at least 100,000 people in, say, Trafalgar Square, drawn there solely to hear a foreign choir sing a dozen choruses! Can we fancy Hyde Park being thronged by an excited multitude because 800 or so French children were there to exhibit themselves and their power of song! Yet all this sort of thing happened quite naturally in Paris. I said just now 'outside Wales.' In that country they do make the Eisteddfod a kind of general holiday that affects every class of the community. That is one reason why the Eisteddfod has such an extraordinary hold upon the people.

I do not propose to dwell upon the very inadequate arrangements made in Paris for the accommodation of the 20,000 competitors, and their thousands of friends, who came in response to the attractions offered by the Paris Council. There was much to complain of in this direction. I prefer to deal only with the musical aspect of the gathering. In case any of my readers may not be aware of the fact, I may state that the whole inception and carrying out of the scheme was the responsibility of the Paris Town Council, supported by the Government of the Republic. It was in no way a private speculation, and it must have cost the Council many thousands of pounds. The President of the Republic himself gave a special prize of 10,000 francs in the chief male-voice choir section.

A comprehensive general summary of the French event must include observations under many heads. I shall attempt to deal only with the points that seem most interesting and important.

FRENCH ORGANIZATION.

First, we must consider the organization and classification of choirs that have grown up in France in connection with competitions. We have to remember that the competition movement in France is an old institution, and that in the course of its evolution many customs have been established, the most important of which is the attempt to classify choirs into graded sections. Before I describe these sections, I should say that nearly all—probably forty-nine out of fifty—of the French choral bodies consist of male voices only. It is not the fashion in France to form mixed-voice choirs, or female-voice choirs. There are some, but they are regrettably few. I have seen it stated that there are about 12,000 male-voice choirs in the country. I have no means of verifying these figures, but I do not doubt them. For purposes of competition, the male-voice choirs were classified into nine graded sections. The highest section was distinguished as 'Excellence,' and the next below as 'Supérieure,' and the remaining sections as Divisions I., II., III., each subdivided. The other choral classes were divided as follows: Female voices, three divisions (Excellence, Supérieure, and 1st Division); mixed voices, two divisions for accompanied singing, and two for unaccompanied.

The numerical nomenclature has its advantages and disadvantages. A choir that wins in the Supérieure or 1st Division can be flattered by its friends more than it deserves, but in other respects the description is misleading.

No limits—upward or downward—of numbers of performers were stipulated. The consequence was that in one class the choirs ranged in numbers from sixty to 230, and in another from thirty-five to 200.

In the French competitions, held all over the country, choirs have to climb up this ladder. They must win in an elementary section before they can appear in the next. This plan does not apparently take into account the probability of a choir being very different in membership and capacity from one year to another. It is certain that if some of the French choirs allowed in the 'Excellence' sections really represented the cream, the remaining milk must be very poor.

As the British choirs had no similar records to govern their position in this scheme, they were all allowed to select the class that in their opinion best suited them. This was the only possible course.

Two other rules must be mentioned. First, new Societies were barred. Entries were only received from Societies that had been founded before January, 1911, that is, seventeen months before the event. Secondly, the test-pieces were not published until February 26, that is, three months before the date of the competition.

Another fact to be recorded is that on this occasion no Parisian choir was permitted to compete

* This paper was intended for the meeting of the Association of Musical Competition Festivals, but it was not read.

in the classes in which foreign and French provincial choirs competed. The Parisians regarded themselves as hosts, who should not endeavour to wrest trophies and money-prizes from their guests. About a dozen Parisian choirs competed with one another.

THE TESTS.

Each choir had to sing an imposed test, and was allowed to sing one, two, or even three 'own-choice' pieces. This plan of allowing 'own-choice' pieces is sometimes advocated and sometimes employed in this country. As a musical entertainment it makes for variety, and it is claimed that it enables a conductor to exhibit any special merit his choir may have that might not be afforded scope in the imposed piece. This sounds very well, but it is an almost fatal bar to satisfactory adjudication. How can a judge compare excellent performances of, say, 'O, who will o'er the downs so free,' and Elgar's 'Go, song of mine,' or even a good performance of the former piece with a mediocre performance of the latter piece? A compromise is to limit the choice to a given number of pieces of known equal value. But the best course undoubtedly is to make all choirs in a class sing the same tests. Only in this way can we get scientific comparison.

The imposed tests in all the classes but one were by French composers, and they were all to be new; but exceptions were made in two cases owing to unforeseen difficulties. The one class in which an English piece ('Beauteous morn,' an accompanied trio, S.S.A., by Edward German) was chosen was in the Division Supérieure for female voices, and the other piece, not composed for the occasion, was a chorus for mixed voices, 'Far o'er the bay' (Chœur des Matelots), from César Franck's 'Hulda.'

Few of the imposed pieces were worthy of the occasion. Some were dainty, some melodramatic and even super-melodramatic. They were nearly always about something of real human interest—not merely personifying flowers and sky or beseeching swallows to return. One of the most typically French was the 'Two messages' (Les deux messages), by H. Maréchal, a choral scene for men's voices. First, the murmuring of the telegraph wires is imitated or suggested, and the words speculate as to what message may be going through them. Birds are on the wires, but 'little do they know that beneath their tiny claws tireless rushes an unknown force.' Now we are in the receiving office—two messages are written and handed to the boy to deliver:

> 'Oh! but the way is long;
> Young is the lad and gay;
> Strolling along he goes,
> Eyeing the shops so fine,
> Marching beside the soldiers passing by.'

Now the side-drums and bugles are imitated (ff). Then the sound dies away to pp. The lad arrives at his destination 'up the staircase high.' A gay throng is in the apartment. The glasses clink as the health of the soldier-boy far away is drunk. The lad appears. The telegram is eagerly opened. The company cries 'O heav'ns!' as the telegram is read: (spoken, one voice only) 'Come quickly, son seriously wounded, little hope.' A great shout, and the mother moans, 'My son is dead!'—

> 'Gone, alas! is their joy,
> Their hearts are bow'd with grief,
> And thus the end is played,
> In this drama of few words.
> "He is dead!"'

The telegraph boy unheeding goes on his way. Now he hears the soldiers a long way off (pp). They are approaching, and the music expands to a forte. The boy now climbs to the topmost stair of a dwelling-house:

> 'Ah! how poor the abode;
> An attic near the sky;
> There a woman doth live,
> Her daughter with her,
> Weeeping in their want and despair.'

The boy hands the telegram. They read it slowly. 'O heav'ns!' (This useful exclamation again does duty to the same music as before.) They shriek (ff largamente), (Spoken), 'Call on the notary, you inherit a fortune':

> 'Thus you see, tho' grim
> Death may have knocked at the door;
> He may be passed by joy
> In the drama of a few words,
> "My child, my mother."'

Again we have the humming of the wires and a general moral soliloquy:

> 'Ah! 'tis life, with its changing visions of tears and laughter,
> And led by that blind messenger we know.
> We call him "chance" or "luck" (pp), or our destiny.
> (f) Ah! 'tis life!
> (ff) Yes, 'tis life!'

A risky story to sing. The step from pathos to bathos, from the sublime to the ridiculous, is easy. The drama has a realistic human touch. You have not to ask yourself—as you often have to with words for music—'What in the name of heaven is it all about?' The appeal is wide. The music is effective, if not great. There is much movement in the rhythm; there are exciting climaxes, and many effects of the ad captandum order, the drums and bugles, 'Bouches fermées,' and other local colour resources so dear to the French male-voice composer.

Another piece, 'Aux Aviateurs' (Saint-Saëns), describes the joy and danger of aviation. It ends with an exciting presto:

> 'Men of the field,
> Men of the cities,
> For a dream that shall not die,
> Lay aside your lowly duties,
> And look upon the sky.
> In winged flight
> Victory soareth,
> Rising toward the sun,
> And down the ages ever poureth
> Tales of a struggle won.
> Glory, sing to the heavens,
> Hail to the martyrs we prize.
> Now no limits, no barriers,
> For man has won the skies!'

Another piece, by Auguste Chapuis, recounts the life of charcoal-burners; another tells a very grim and ghostly story (much modified in the English translation) of two phantom fiddlers. M. Laurent de Rillé, the doyen of French composers, contributed a lively chorus, the words of which recount the exploits of 'Les Cavaliers de la Nuit,' and this composer was represented also by 'Les Exilées,' a beautiful unaccompanied trio for female voices.

As the tests were composed to French words it was necessary that editions with English words should be provided if entries from this side were to be hoped for. This proved to be a difficult business, because the full rights in the publication of the tests had been acquired by various French publishers, none of whom were inclined to risk the issue of new editions for an uncertain and limited market. The Concours Committee would not take any pecuniary responsibility beyond undertaking to provide all our choirs with copies free of cost. In January it seemed that there was a deadlock and that the scheme, so far as we were concerned, must be abandoned. The situation being desperate, M. Bonnaire and I went to Paris, and we met the executive, visited all the publishers, and arranged that Messrs. Novello & Co. should purchase English rights and provide new editions of the tests in both notations—a costly and wholly unremunerative enterprise.

In a contest which was designed to be international it was unfortunate that the tests were all, or nearly all, in French. This disadvantage was partly met by the allowance of 'own-choice' pieces. But none of the French choirs were called upon to perform music at all alien in character. How would they have fared if they had been required to sing Elgar's 'Reveille,' or his 'Five part-songs from the Greek Anthology,' or one of Bantock's compositions, or Hegar's 'Phantom Host'?

A really fair comparison might have been instituted if each choir had been required to sing a French, an English, and a German, piece. But this is crying for the moon.

The A Cappella Gantois from Gand (Belgium) chose the 'Credo de la Missa Papæ Marcelli,' by Palestrina. This might very well have been common ground.

Judges—Judging Methods.

Judging in France is looked upon as an honorary task. This attractively economical plan will no doubt make the mouths of our impecunious Festival-promoters water. The four English judges invited, Dr. Coward, Mr. Hermann Klein, Mr. Arthur Fagge, and myself, were allowed twenty francs each for expenses! From four to seven judges sat in each section. So far as my observations extended, it appeared that no systematic appreciation was attempted. It was simply a matter of general and rather indolent appreciation, and the ultimate decision was largely governed by an amiable desire to please all round. There was no reasoned adjudication and no marking system—the only heads used were those of the jury. Personally, I think this plan—if it deserves the name—would be a sorry substitute for the methods adopted in this country by the best-known adjudicators, and through which such tremendous advance has been made in technique and interpretation. The marking system is sometimes assailed, but surely only by those who do not realise that it has no pretence to mathematical precision, and that it provides a refined vocabulary—a mirror of slightly-felt differences that cannot possibly be noted by the 'very nice,' 'rather poor,' 'not very good,' and other miserable verbal refuges of the adjectivally destitute adjudicators.

Another noticeable point was that (so far as my experience went) the jury had no knowledge of the 'own-choice' pieces before they entered the box. This may have been owing to the special difficulties of providing copies beforehand. But it did not add to one's confidence to note that judges were looking over recently-cut copies of 'The Reveille' and 'The Phantom Host.'

Prizes.

The prizes offered were of high money value. Where there were more than seven entries in any one category they were generally divided into two independent groups, each with its set of prizes and separate jury.

The total amount of the money-prizes offered in the choral sections alone for prepared pieces was 105,000 francs (about £4,200), and for sight-singing 13,000 francs (about £520). The money-prizes offered to bands amounted to rather more. The total amount of the money-prizes was about £10,000, and besides this there were crowns, medals, &c., that must have cost a considerable sum. Choirs from Great Britain and Ireland gained about £2,000 in money, and they were also awarded many felicitations and more solid trophies.

The Entries.

Forty British choirs, including 3,000 singers, sang. In all, about 180 choirs appeared, most of them coming from France and Belgium. One came from Prague—the Institut Chant de Prague, conducted by F. Spika; one from Italy (Ferrara); one from Spain; two from Alsace; several from Swiss districts; but none, alas! from Germany. Four of our choirs, The London Welsh (Mr. W. Morgan), Stourbridge (Mr. H. Woodall), Swansea (Mr. Llewellyn R. Bowen), Southport (Mr. J. C. Clarke), entered in the Excellence section for male-voice choirs. I have already, in the Record, given a detailed comparison of singing of the three first-named, and also five of the French choirs. I did not hear the Southport Choir; but as they gained a second-prize it is obvious that they sang very well. What is certain is that our best men's-voice choirs are fully equal in ability to the foreign choirs against which they were pitted, and that in the matter of fine tone they excelled their rivals. The London Welsh Choir gained the 5,000 francs prize in their section, and I firmly believe that they would have gained the special 10,000 francs prize if they had not been somewhat upset by circumstances. In every department our choirs gained high positions, notwithstanding physical difficulties and the annoyances arising from the bungling of the arrangements.

Personally, I derived great pleasure in hearing, not only at the competition but on another occasion, the admirable choir of fifty voices from Prague, conducted by Mr. F. Spika. Their tone was not ideal to my biassed ears, but the unity, vim, splendid technique, rhythmic delicacy, resource for climax, and fine interpretation displayed were a joy to experience.

The Children.

The idea of inviting children from this country to take part in the Concours arose whilst we were discussing affairs at the Hôtel de Ville in January.

It had already been decided to include a competition of Parisian children in the scheme. It was, I believe, a suggestion of M. Bonnaire's that English children should be asked to join, and the idea was readily adopted by M. Alphonse Deville, the president of the Commission of the Concours. As it turned out, this was the most brilliant coup of the whole occasion. There was only one misgiving at the time, and that was whether our London County Council would see their way to accept the invitation, inasmuch as there was some cost involved and there was doubt as to whether it could be thrown upon the rates. The final form of the invitation was that 500 L.C.C. children were to be the guests of the Paris Council, and that schools outside the L.C.C. district or from the provinces would be welcomed, but could not be entertained at the Paris Council's expense. After much discussion in London it was at last determined by the L.C.C. that the invitation should be accepted, and the necessary funds were raised by private subscription. The officials of the Council then set to work to arrange the multifarious details. It is enough to say here that the management from this side was in the highest degree creditable to the organizing skill of the L.C.C. officials, and that the generosity and cordiality on the Parisian side were beyond praise.

The L.C.C. children were selected from eighteen departments and were grouped into six choirs. Seven other children's choirs entered. These were from Canning Town, Forest Gate, Leyton, Stratford, Romilly (South Wales), Carlisle, and Blackpool. In Paris the L.C.C. children were pitted against Parisian children, and the other British children against schools from the outer ring of Paris. The awards of the two groups were quite separate.

In the July issue of the Record I have given a full comparison of the singing of the L.C.C. group and the French choirs that sang in turn with them. There were virtues on both sides. The Londoners were best as regards beauty of tone, but the Parisians excelled in vitality and rhythmic accent.

All the choirs from our side sang an imposed test, 'How merrily we live' (unaccompanied Trio by Michael Este), and an 'own-choice' piece. Also they were tested in two-part singing. Comments, comparisons, and results will be found in the July issue of the Record. It will be enough to note here that the singing of both sets of choirs had admirable points, and that the chief things we had to learn from the French choirs were clearness of diction, rhythmic vitality, sincerity, and warm expression; and that on the point of quality of tone and beauty of blend, we afforded them a model. Honours divided!

But the musical aspects of the children's visit were dwarfed in interest by the extraordinary warmth of their reception by the Parisians of all classes, and by the joy of the children in their new experience.

Another very satisfactory feature of the event was the performance of the Yorkshire Choir, specially recruited from Sheffield and Leeds by Dr. Coward and his enterprising backers. This choir of 200 voices did not go to Paris for competition, but simply to exhibit English choral singing at its best. They sang to enormous audiences in the open air, and they gave a choral concert in the Trocadéro. Everywhere they were received with cordiality and appreciation, from the President of the Republic to the street gamin. The visit was a brilliant episode in the career of their conductor, used as he is to world-wide triumphs.

On the whole the Concours was worth while. Some of us had a wearing time and there were moments of anxiety, but even so they served as a foil to many unforgettable and pleasurable experiences.

THE ASSOCIATION OF MUSICAL COMPETITION FESTIVALS.

President:
Her Grace The Duchess of Norfolk.

Committee:
Lady Mary Trefusis, Chairman.
Lady Winefride Elwes, Hon. Treasurer.

Miss Edith Barran. — Mrs. Commeline.
J. A. Fuller Maitland, Esq. — H. Plunket Greene, Esq.
Gervase Elwes, Esq. — Miss Mary Egerton, } Hon.
Miss Stella Hamilton. — Dr. W. G. McNaught, } Secs.

Acting Secretary:
Miss E. Maddock, 2, Addison Court Gardens, London, W.

The Annual Meeting and Conference of this Association were held at Norfolk House (by kind permission of Her Grace The Duchess of Norfolk, the President) on Tuesday, July 16. The Council met at 10.30 a.m. and discussed various propositions. At the business meeting the report, which records the establishment of several new Festivals, was adopted. It was stated that the medallion memorial to Miss Wakefield would be ready in a few days, and that its production had been delayed owing to the illness of the French artist to whom the design had been entrusted.

The following were among those present:—Her Grace The Duchess of Norfolk, Lady Mary Trefusis, Hon. Mary Trefusis, Dowager Countess of Ancaster, Lady Buxton, Lady Winefride Elwes, Hon. Lady Fitzwilliam, Lady Goodrich, Hon. Rosamond Hanbury, Lady Herries, Lady Mabel Howard, Hon. Mrs. Sandars, Lady Delia Spencer, Lady Ethel Wickham and Miss Wickham, Mrs. Argles, Mrs. and Miss Arnold, Miss Say Ashworth, Miss Frances Baker, Mrs. Bateman, Major Bell, Rev. C. J. Beresford, Mrs. Sydney Blakiston, Miss Nora Byron, Miss José Bytheway, Miss Codrington, Miss Chichester, Miss Inez Colville, Mrs. Commeline, Miss Dorothy Daniel, Mrs. Frank Dawes, Miss C. E. Denison, Miss K. Denison, Mr. Dorg, Miss Gladys Edwards, Miss C. Egerton, Mrs. English, Mr. Harry Evans, Miss C. M. Fisher, Mr. Percy Fletcher, Miss Fowle, Mr. W. E. Frith, Miss Hilda Frost, Mrs. Gadesden, Mr. John Graham, Miss A. Grainger, Mr. Plunket Greene, Miss Greene, Miss Stella Hamilton, Miss Hart, Mr. William Holmes, Mr. Hughes Hughes, Mr. Granville Humphreys, Miss Kelly, Miss Kempthorne, Lieut. and Mrs. Kenworthy, Miss Kindersby, Mr. Layton, Mrs. Mary Layton, Miss Leslie, Rev. E. P. Luard, Miss Lushington, Mr. McClelland, Miss E. McDonnell, Miss McKisack, Dr. McNaught, Mr. W. McNaught, Miss Minty, Miss Lucy Montgomery, Mrs. Bostock Nelson, Miss Margaret Nicholls, Miss Norbury, Miss Nixon, Colonel Orde, Mrs. Peake, Rev. G. Powles, Mrs. Gordon Savile, Miss Ruth Skene, Miss Saumarez Smith, Miss Susan St. Quentin, Mr. Thompson, Miss Thomson, Miss F. Thorne, Miss Trask, Miss Tudball, Miss Tweedie, Miss Usborne. Mrs. Vincent, Miss B. Waller, Dr. Robt. T. White, Mr. Whittington, Miss Whittington, Miss Vaughan Williams, Miss Wright.

At the morning session a discussion took place on:

Musical Phrasing in its Relation to Words in Choral and Solo Performance.

Mr. Harry Evans, who spoke first, said:

The competition movement has emerged from its first stage, and has resulted in an astonishing development of choral tone and technique.

Perhaps there are cases where choirs revel in their technique, making their virtuosity the end of everything, and not using their technique as a means to the end—where the emotional expression runs along the broadest channels of technique.

But judges know of choirs—comparatively few, perhaps—who utilise their superb technique as the means of conveying the message of the piece. What the few have accomplished (all from modest beginnings, and all due to the competition movement) will, it may be hoped, be an incentive to choirs in general and will serve as their goal.

The present cry (from the judicial bench, at any rate) is for interpretation, and no doubt it is the one thing that choirs in future will work for.

Close observation of the work of choirs in various parts of the country brings us to the conclusion that the one thing necessary at the moment is the mastery of what may be called the 'technique of phrasing' and the exact relation of words and music. In the early stages of the competition movement, criticism had of necessity to deal mainly with quality of tone and utterance. Unmusical and ill-balanced tone had to be changed into musical, well-balanced, well-blended tone. Untidy attack has by now been replaced by a precision which is often quite remarkable. The criticising of slovenly utterance led to the study of definite and accurate vowel formation and the clean-cut treatment of consonants. These qualities are important elements in the structure, and speaking generally are nearly always forthcoming. But the insistence on these points of attack, utterance, and so forth as being of the only importance has resulted in many cases in mechanical, unemotional singing.

The words are often spoken clearly at the expense of the sustained musical phrase; curve of melody and rhythmic grace are sacrificed to punctilious and detached utterance. An occasional word is singled out for special treatment. Accentuation is applied from the outside—it does not spring from the natural rhythm of the music. This makes the singing inflexible. Bar-lines are often an obstacle—the first beat in the bar is a constant bogey—the clipping of words and phrases makes continuity impossible. The comma is another temptation to break up the musical phrase.

Marks of expression, which have of course something to do with musical phrasing, often shackle the singers—pp, p, mf, f, ff, sf, cres., and dim. are treated alike in all kinds of music. These things are always relative, and should be governed by the sentiment of the piece. Marks of expression must not control the sentiment. We have all experienced performances where all the marks of expression have been closely and accurately attended to, whilst there has been no real expression.

The values of rests and pauses are important factors in phrasing. A rest has something to do with the balance of phrasing, and should have its value. Rests do not always mean taking breath! A pause also has its value. To come to the main issue: A poem inspires a composer to express in a more beautiful way than words can do, the inner meaning of that poem. He expresses himself in well-defined phrases, complete in themselves, and having that continuity and correlation and movement which make a symmetrical and artistic whole.

Are these musical phrases to be chopped up into small sections (and even detached notes) for the sake of clear utterance and verbal expression? There can only be one answer.

In order to combine the two things—clear speech and melodic outline—the art of sostenuto must be acquired, the art of speaking on a sustained tune without in any way disturbing the flow of melody; that is the great art of the vocalist. Then you have the significance of the poet's message conveyed in a stream of beautiful tone.

In my experience, especially in the music of Bach, I have found it of value to have the good fiddle-player as a model for phrasing. When this sostenuto is acquired there will be no more detached fragments that have nothing to do with each other; it will be possible to dovetail the phrases so as to avoid gaps; there will be no more isolated highly-coloured patches. A good and sound rule is to make the phrases as long as possible, i.e., complete in themselves, not as short as possible. With a clear understanding of the import of the poem, which should also mean an intimate feeling for the composer's setting, will come the correct rhythm which springs from the understanding of the music, the right kind of accent, and the adjusting of accent, which in turn spring from a realisation of the rhythm.

After this will come the use of tenuto, and rubato, that delicate, subtle, unconscious thing that can only spring from the most intimate relation of performer and music.

When this whole technique becomes a natural thing—the means to the end and not the end in itself—then we witness very great results in our choral performances.

We would like to express our appreciation—as judges—of the admirable work done by the conductors, ladies and gentlemen. We have come across ladies and gentlemen—whom we would like to name were we sure of including all—who have developed the art of choral conducting to a high pitch. They have become in truth, real artists. And it is the extraordinary development noticed in these cases (sometimes from very small beginnings) that induces us to put forth a word of encouragement and, if possible, advice to the rank and file. In the old days of stodgy, mechanical, ponderous choral singing the most valuable attribute and the greatest virtue of the conductor (so far as the choristers were concerned, at any rate) was the possession of a fine, clear, down-beat—a beat that could be seen (or felt) by them without raising their eyes from the books. We all know the result of that sledge-hammer beat; in sustained music, for instance, or in a subtle rhythm, or in quiet, undulating music that required no weighty or pointed accents.

We have seen in our later competition Festivals conductors who suggest phrasing, suggest the rhythm, suggest the exact variety of accent by movements of their hands, and the emotional expression by their faces. They do not beat square, rigid beats in calm, quiet music. Each movement of the hand means something; and that is the art of conducting. With small choirs, perhaps, a baton is never necessary, the hands are most affective. But that is an unessential point. The great thing is for the conductor to study the art of beating time, so as to suggest the right accent (smooth, pointed, calm or insistent, deep or shallow, to suggest the sway of rhythm; in short, to treat his choir as an instrument—a human instrument, and the greatest of all instruments.

Mr. Plunket Greene followed, and dealt with Phrasing for Soloists.

He began by saying that he agreed with every word that Mr. Evans had spoken. He (Mr. Greene) would speak from the solo-singer's standpoint. In phrasing one had to consider first what phrases were, namely, a means to an end. Musical phrases were simply the sentences with which to tell the story, and the story was the thing. The phrases were the detailed expression of the song as a whole. Therefore no phrase should stand out except as a definite part of the considered interpretation of the whole work, otherwise the calling attention to it by prominence would be at the expense of the rest. Secondly, phrases were like waves. Motion was inherent in them. The still pools of phrasing were only used for special purposes of illustration. Phrases moved in undulations, and were ever on the move forward. Therefore every phrase must push on. Now, what dominated the song as a whole? Rhythm. Anything that interfered with rhythm must go, and wherever words and rhythm were in opposition words must invariably give way. He would like to see two axioms written in letters of fire in every singer's brain:

(1.) The music 's the thing.
(2.) Never stop a song's march.

There were many ways of stopping a song's march by over-elaboration, but shortness of breath was the chief offender. [Here Mr. Greene sang as an example one verse of the old Irish air, 'Gentle maiden,' and showed the damage done to the phrasing by stopping simply for physical reasons to take breath.] All 'effects' in the musical phrase had to be made within its limits. The singer had ample means to do this, such as tone-colour and word-illustration. In the old days the voice was looked upon more or less as a musical instrument, and the words simply as a vehicle for beauty of sound and phrasing, but nowadays the modern composer had within beautiful music to fit beautiful words with strict care for their agreement. So the singer had only a little reconciliation to accomplish. But he must be master of his technique, and he must be able to sing long phrases. Long phrasing was not a matter of lungs but of will-power, as any singer could prove for himself. [Here Mr. Greene sang a verse of Stanford's 'Fairy Lough'—'An' seagulls all together float round the one green island on the fairy lough asleep'—with a continuous sostenuto without a perceptible break, and he illustrated the various liberties which a fully-equipped singer could take without distorting rhythm.]

Rubato, about which much was written, was a momentary impediment to the impetus—a foil to a tempo. It had no merits of its own; it was simply the advance-agent of rhythm. The rallentandos, which they heard in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred at the end of songs, had nothing to do with the words as a rule; they were purely musical effects. A remarkable study of phrase and rhythmic treatment was Brahms's 'Mainacht.' Here Brahms, by giving the big accent to unimportant words, deliberately invited a sacrifice of the verbal phrasing to the demands of the musical idea.

Prosody demanded close attention. The singer should not feel himself bound by exact note-values, and because a word, say, was written on two crotchets or quavers, he should not feel it incumbent on him to sing the two notes either with the same time-values or pressure-values. The notes were sometimes written thus because musical notation was so limited—it had no other way of expressing values, and the singer had to use his common-sense and feeling for prosody in order to manipulate them.

Schubert's 'Leiermann' (Organ-grinder) was an example of the necessity for the reconciliation of text and music in such a way as to get them to work together, and to the man who knew his business and cared for his work that reconciliation was a labour of love.

A short discussion followed. Dr. McNaught said that the matter dealt with so ably was of the greatest importance. Adjudicators often felt that this or that performance was better than others, and it was part of their duty to analyse their impressions, and state reasons that would help competitors. If was often the case that the outstanding merit of the performance was owing to the proper rhythmical treatment of the phrase being combined with poetical insight.

At the afternoon meeting Miss Margaret Nicholls read a paper on

SCHOOL CHOIR TRAINING,

(illustrated by the Farmer Road, Leyton, Girls' Choir).

The following is the text of the paper :

In dealing with this very important subject of School Choir Training, I will give you briefly from my own experience some simple suggestions which have always made my work in this direction, not merely a task of training, but a work of pleasure. In the school curriculum, singing must never be treated as an isolated subject ; educationally it must be correlated with lessons in English, reading, elocution, and other subjects. True teachers will not fail to see the wonderful effect of all these lessons on the individual child, who soon becomes self-reliant, healthy, and happy.

TESTING VOICES.

The teacher should first test the children's voices so as to know the compass of the individual. She will thus learn of any physical weakness. When testing the voice the teacher should register the age of the child. From my own experience I find that, speaking generally, there is little contralto tendency in the child-voice from 10-12 years of age ; but I have in my mind one exception, when, at the age of 10 years, a child had distinctly pure and deep low notes and found great difficulty in producing good tone on high notes. This child preferred to sing in the lower compass ; but after watching her carefully for some time I found the upper notes developing, and now, at the age of 13 years, this child is one of my best sopranos and possesses a good compass of voice. Generally speaking, I find that when of about 13 years of age many girls lose brilliancy in their extreme high notes, and are best when singing a 2nd soprano or even a 3rd part. I think it best to rely to a great extent on the child's opinion, and let her say where she sings with the greatest ease. After resting the voice for some months by singing a 2nd or 3rd part, I frequently find children asking to be replaced in the soprano division, where they then find themselves able to sing with a settled and easy style.

VOICE-PRODUCTION.

Having gained some knowledge of the child-voice, the teacher will next give lessons on breathing. This subject has been so fully dealt with by Dr. H. H. Hulbert and other experts that I need say very little. I should, however, like to mention that I have known teachers give elaborate lessons on breathing, yet they have failed in getting good results for two reasons. First, they did not impress on the children's minds the importance of the control of the breath, so necessary to the production of good tone and to the maintenance of good tone. Secondly, they have to a great extent treated the subject of breathing as an isolated one, and have failed to connect it with all the points of voice-production.

The children will now demonstrate to you some simple exercises in breathing. These exercises should be used daily, and the teacher should vary them as much as possible.

Exercises.

(1.) Monotoning to numbers with a slight cres. 1-13, 1-15, &c.
(2.) Monotoning to numbers with vowels only, 1-13.
(3.) Single vowels, ee, a, ah.
(4.) On one note, oo, aw, ah, ê, î.
(5.) Three notes of chord, n, î or ah.

When the teacher is satisfied that the children breathe correctly she may then give lessons on or bringing into use the quality-making agencies of the voice. The teacher should first deal with the Head Voice, and in doing so will use downward scales only for some time. The following are the simple exercises I use when developing head tone :

VOICE-PLACING

Exercises.

(1.) n (B♭, B, and C).
(2.) noo, nî, naw, nah.
(3.) ,, ,, ,, ,, continuing vowel on downward scale.

During this period of training (the head voice), suitable unison songs may be taken. These must not exceed the compass of upper E♭ and lower C. When the teacher sees that the children sing with a clear, pure tone, she may proceed further and encourage them to sing with fuller tone in the middle register (middle B♭ to E) with a very open throat. To obtain good tone in this register is sometimes a difficult matter, but if the following exercise is taken the tone will be much improved :

Exercise.

nî, aw, ah, ê, î
nî, oo, aw, ah, ê, î
} B♭ to low E.

At this stage the children may sing two-part songs ranging from upper E to low C.

Having trained the children to sing with good tone, using the head and middle voice, the teacher, providing she is thoroughly acquainted with the subject, may develop what is known as the Chest Voice. The children will now sing with the throat well open and the soft palate raised. The chest will now resonate to its fullest degree, and the vibration will be felt on the breast-bone. Exercises using the vowels o, a, or ah, will be found most helpful.

Providing the tone is now fairly developed the children may sing three or four part-songs, but even at this stage I advise occasional unison singing, as this is the important factor in getting a oneness of tone throughout the choir.

My next point is the blend or unification of registers. To secure this, various exercises may be taken, but here again the teacher must employ great discretion in the compass of the exercises used with regard to the different voices under her control. The following exercise will secure not only uniform tone throughout the individual voice, but a oneness of tone throughout the choir :

Exercise.

Three slow notes at beginning, A, B♭, B and C. o - ah, î - ah, î, ah.

The teacher may then test this unification of registers by suitable three-part exercises. The children will now sing you two exercises to the letter 'n,' and I will ask them to repeat each exercise, adding their own expression.

(Exercises on 'n' were now sung.)

Flexibility Exercises should be frequently taken so as to produce ease and brightness of vocal tone. The exercises I now demonstrate will be found most helpful :

Exercises.

Triplet scales C and D.

î, lî, ah, la, pah.

VOWEL AND CONSONANT PRACTICE.

The next point in Choir-Training should be Vowel and Consonant Practice.—Difficulties in pronunciation arising from provincialisms may be remedied by taking practice on the different vowels, giving each its true colour. By far the weakest vowel in our district of East London to-day is the ê (ê as in êgg) vowel. We have been striving so hard to get a pure a as in the word save instead of sive, and a good i as in night instead of noight that the ê vowel has to some extent escaped notice. The result is, that we now hear people—unfortunately many teachers—singing or even saying tun, eluven, twulve, instead of ten, eleven, twelve. If these teachers would realise that the true vowels are produced by the correct shaping of the lips and not with immovable lips, then their work in this direction would be an easy matter. The teacher should at first exaggerate the correct lip movement, and the children will readily imitate her. It is sometimes advisable to take the words of a song, using only the vowels, afterwards supplying the necessary consonants. You will see on your programmes the words of a national song, 'The lass of Richmond Hill.' I will now ask the children to sing this to the vowels only :

Song.—(1.) Vowels.
,, (2.) Consonants added.

If, however, the final consonants are not clear, extra practice on single words (neat, hill, &c.,) should be given.

SIGHT-SINGING AND EAR-TRAINING.

When the teacher has secured good tone, Sight-singing may be taken.—The selection of suitable text-books in this direction needs much care. My experience teaches me that these books to-day are not what they should be. With few exceptions the books I have seen are graded carefully as to the difficulty of intervals, but not with regard to the compass of the child voice. Consequently much harm must be done by the constant use of these badly-arranged tests. In some books the compass of the exercises is too high or too low; in others many are written almost entirely in the compass of the middle-voice and the voice soon becomes tired; and last, but not least, many exercises are entirely lacking in tunefulness, and the children therefore lose interest. The teacher should use much discretion in her choice of such tests, and set apart a fair proportion of her lesson for dealing with them.

Then again, the training of the ear cannot be begun too early in the child life. This work must be carefully graded from the infant classes, and no child, even if lacking in musical capacity, should be excluded from this important part of the singing-lesson, as it is the duty of the teacher to train the ear by suitable exercises.

In giving musical phrases for imitation, great care must be taken, so that the phrases are musical, such as will strike the ear as natural and pleasant, and will have a lasting impression on the hearer. Many teachers will tell you that they have no ear for music. They complain of children singing flat when really they are sharp, and in spite of this it is their last thought ever to test the pitch of the songs they teach. Even with a limited amount of time for ear-training, much progress may be made. The wise teacher will educate her children in this direction, and thus train the ear in all branches of her lessons, making the children keen and enthusiastic.

OTHER IMPORTANT POINTS TO BE OBSERVED IN SINGING.

Another Important Factor in successful Choir-training is Rhythm.—The teacher should elicit from children the difference between a rhythmic and an unrhythmic song. She should develop in children a love for rhythm not for what it is, but for what it does. Rhythm must be felt in all branches of singing, whether voice-production, sight-singing, or in songs. Many conductors at the present day are inclined to exaggerate the treatment of the words at the expense of the rhythm. This must be avoided. It is therefore a good plan occasionally to practise a song in the following way, so that the children may feel the exact quality of the beat, and the consequent flow of the rhythm.

My next point is Interpretation.—Children should sing only such songs as they can understand and fully express. Let the children show their individuality in their mood, and not try to imitate that of their companions. No two people express joy or sorrow in the same degree. Some children may give and feel the correct mood of a song without showing much expression, while others, likewise having the right mood, are able to express in their faces exactly what they feel. When teaching a song, first use the composer's guide to light and shade, i.e., the expression marks. When this guide has fulfilled its purpose, let children and teacher be guided by their intelligence, and fully express what they feel by adding marks of expression, thus giving their true interpretation of the song, which is one of our great aims in singing-lessons. I sometimes think it would be much better if composers of school songs gave no marks of expression, but left this to the discretion of the teacher and children. Although the composer may feel himself capable of giving true mood by using these, it may still be impossible for others to do likewise, using the same marks of expression.

In training a school choir it is an excellent plan to have a short daily practice from 10 to 15 minutes, and if possible an additional lesson or lessons of 30 minutes during the week.

Before closing my remarks I should like to answer a question which has quite recently been asked me, viz., 'Do you consider this voice-training previous to fourteen years of age and the work of musical competitions will interfere with or injure the future voice of the child?' My answer to this is—'Most emphatically, No,' and for the following reasons:

First.—In elementary schools we invariably have children who have never been taught to breathe correctly: some breathe entirely through their mouths, and others use only the upper part of the lungs. Many of these children leave school when fourteen years of age, and are then expected to begin their future work. Are we then not doing a good work, if during their school life we give them in their singing-lessons a thorough course of breathing exercises which must help to make them healthy women?

Secondly.—Will not the voice of the child in after life be more seriously injured by loud, coarse, untrained singing than by soft, carefully-trained singing? If the child between the ages of eight and fourteen years is allowed to sing carelessly, with no knowledge of the delicate organ she is thus using, it will be a difficult matter in her future life to remedy these faulty habits. Then again, many elementary children on leaving school will perhaps never be in a position to pay for singing-lessons: then surely these girls must benefit, if during their school life we have laid a foundation of voice-production and instilled in them a love for good music.

That voice-training has done no injury to the girls I have had during my teaching at Farmer Road School has recently been proved. I have at present an evening choir formed chiefly of the girls I once had in my school choir, and who are now on an average about eighteen years of age. Although out of practice, these girls have a similar tone to the children present to-day. To satisfy myself as to the quality of voice, I tested each individually, and found little or no change in the voices since they left school.

Thirdly, are we not doing much in the education of the children if, during their school life, we show them the value of vowel colour, and thus eradicate many serious provincialisms?

My last, but by far my strongest point, is this: Speaking generally, the schools which are now entering for competition in our Festivals are doing more good for the children in voice-training and song than those schools where competition is scorned. It has recently been my privilege to come into contact with many class-teachers who are now anxious to begin sound voice-training with their children, and I speak of knowledge when I say that, generally, much harm is being done in many of our schools to-day where voice-training is not systematically taken. If, as in many schools, there is rather a lack of supervision on this subject, then surely the best and safest plan for the teacher and her children is to enter into competitive work where she will not only gain from the work of her fellow teachers, but will be to a great extent musically educated by sound criticism from such adjudicators as Dr. McNaught.

May I add that in order to make our choir-training all that it should be, there must be full sympathy, freedom, and confidence between scholars and teacher. Always encourage children to show originality, to criticise freely, and let children realise that all are working with one great aim to make England even greater and happier through the song of her children.

The choir of thirty voices then sang with rare beauty of tone, clear enunciation, and charming expression the following programme:

'The lark's grave'	Stanford.
'Les Exilées'	Laurent De Rillé.
'How merrily we live'	...Michael Este.
'Weep no more, sad fountains' ...	M. Richardson.
'The snow'	Elgar.

Dr. McNaught was to have followed with some notes on the Paris Competition, but as the proceedings had been unavoidably delayed it was decided to omit this part of the day's programme. The paper is given as the first article in the RECORD.

A performance by Mrs. Mary Layton's Choir now followed. This Choir won the first-prize in the Excellence section (female voices) at the Paris Concours. Nothing that took place during the Conference yielded more pleasure to the audience than the fine singing of this admirably-equipped and finely-trained organization. The programme included: 'Ave Maria' (Marchetti), 'The nightingale' (Weelkes), 'Sound sleep' (Vaughan Williams), and Mendelssohn's Psalm 'Surrexit Pastor bonus.'

This concluded the proceedings of one of the most successful Conferences the Association has ever held.

THE AYRSHIRE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

This took place at Ayr on June 1; our notice of the event was crowded out of our July number.

The Festival is a new one, established under the auspices of Mrs. Savile (a daughter of Sir William Houldsworth, who has a seat in the vicinity of Ayr) and Mr. Frederick Ely, a local professor whose choir was very successful at the Glasgow Festival this year and in 1911.

The Ayr event made a wonderfully good start, and was highly promising in every way. The school teachers showed a tendency to hold aloof. We can only hope that later they will see the great educational advantages and stimulus of the scheme. As it was there were thirteen junior choir entries. In the adult section there were 15 entries for quartet singing, 13 church choirs, two male-voice choirs, and two choral Societies.

In the school classes, Kilmarnock Academy was represented by four choirs all conducted by Mr. W. Griffiths, the music-teacher at the Academy. The singing of the juniors generally was very satisfactory, and the sight-singing was also good. The highest level was reached by one of the choirs from Kilmarnock Academy, in which the test-piece was the two-part song 'The lark's grave' (Stanford).

The church choirs showed excellent training. The test-piece in their class was the solemn and beautiful Anthem 'God so loved the world' (Stainer). It was evident that there is plenty of good material in the district, and that some of the conductors know how to train it.

The High Parish Kirk Choir (Mr. Reid Hughes) was placed first, but Trinity U.F. Church Choir (Mr. A. McGregor Michael) and Grange U.F. Choir, Kilmarnock, tied only a mark or two behind.

Three male-voice choirs sang Edward German's 'O peaceful night,' the first place falling to the G. & S.W. Choir (Mr. J. Simpson), and in the open Church Choir section four choirs competed for the silver challenge cup offered by Sir William Houldsworth. Here the test-piece was Sullivan's 'O love the Lord,' and the Coodham Chapel Choir (Mr. H. Eason) won the trophy.

There was an excellent spirit throughout the Festival. Everyone concerned seemed alert. The organization was smooth, under the direction of Mr. Ely. Dr. McNaught adjudicated.

Next year the Festival is to be moved to Kilmarnock.

LYTHAM.—June 12-16.

The results in the junior choral contests (which we were unable to give in our last issue) were as follows:

PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS (Local).

Tests: 'Sunset Lullaby' (Cliffe Forrester).
'The old brown house' (Hately).

(Four Entries.)

1st. Wheatley Lane Wesleyan (Mr. H. Platt).
2nd. Hambleton C.S. (Mr. T. E. Martin).

The singing in this class was wonderful. Both pieces demand beautiful expression, and they got it.

CHILDREN'S CHOIRS (Local).

Tests: 'Lullaby' (Brahms).
'Sunshine' (E. M. Boyce).

(Three Entries.)

1st. Wrea Green (Mr. T. H. Myles).

ACTION-SONGS.

In the open class for children of ages nine to twelve, six parties entered; Revoe, Blackpool (Misses Garner), were successful with 'The laird of Cockpen.'

CHILDREN'S CHOIRS (Open).

(This was the chief class for children.)

Tests: 'There is a garden in her face' (Ireland).
'Robin, sweet robin' (Bantock).
'Drake's drum' (Coleridge-Taylor).

(Seven Entries.)

1st. Birkdale C.S. (Mr. Albert E. Parr).
2nd. Moseley Road C.S., Fallowfield, Manchester (Miss L. Frost).
3rd. Claremont C.S., Blackpool (Mr. J. Edward Cunliffe).

Five choirs also entered for the sight-test, in which the first-prize winners were: Sefton Street C.S. Southport (Mr. W. T. Barnett).

From the combined result of these two competitions the Garlick Challenge Shield was won by Birkdale.

Dr. McNaught and Mr. Harry Evans adjudicated.

THE NONCONFORMIST CHOIR UNION.

The usual competitions in connection with the annual Festival, which took place at the Crystal Palace on July 20, were held with success. In the choral classes the tests, entries, and results were as follows:

CHOIRS OF 26 TO 40 VOICES.

Tests: (a) 'Come, ye thankful people, come' (Stanford).
(b) A piece chosen by the Choir.
Chatham Wesleyan Central Hall (Mr. Percival Smith).
1st. Goole U.M. Church (Mr. Ernest Johnson).
Brighton Union Church (Miss Celia Burleigh).
2nd. Matlock P.M. Church (Mr. Lubin G. Wildgoose).

CHOIRS OF 16 TO 25 VOICES.

Tests: (a) 'O worship the Lord' (Alfred Hollins).
(b) A piece chosen by the Choir.
Westcliff Congregational Church (Mr. Leander D. Potous).
1st. West Greenwich Central Hall (Mr. P. C. Pearce).

The adjudicator was Dr. Henry Coward.

LLANDEBIE.

The seventh annual 'chair and crown' Eisteddfod took place with success on July 20. The adjudicators were Dr. Caradog Roberts and Mr. W. Dunn Williams. Llandovery Children's Choir and the Tabernacle (Llanelly) Choir divided the prize in the junior choral section, and in the senior Tycroes Choir were the winners.

The Swansea and District Male-Voice Choir (conductor Mr. Llewellyn R. Bowen), winners of the 5000 fr. prize at the Paris competitions, sang before The King and Queen on board the Royal Yacht on June 25. The programme included their two test-pieces: 'To Aviators' (Saint-Saëns) and 'The Reveille' (Elgar).

In the mixed-voice 'Superior' competition at the Paris Festival, it was Willesden District Choir (Mr. J. S. Waddell) that shared the second prize with Ealing Philharmonic and Glasgow Orpheus, and not, as stated on good authority in our last issue, London Scottish.

It should have been recorded in our last number, that the Southport choir, under Mr. J. C. Clarke, was bracketed second in the Chief (Excellence) Male-voice Choir Section, Group B. They divided the prize with the Lyre Havraise.

We regret to hear that Mr. William C. Webb, whom we announced in our July number as organizing secretary of the forthcoming Free Church Musical Union Festival, has been obliged to cancel all engagements owing to a complete breakdown in health.

The Midland Musical Festival will be held at Birmingham on May 20 to 24, 1913.

DATES OF COMPETITIONS AND NAMES OF SECRETARIES.

WREXHAM (THE ROYAL NATIONAL EISTEDDFOD).—September 2 to 7. Mr. W. M. Roberts, Oaklands, Alexandra Road, Wrexham.

MEXBOROUGH.—October 4, 5. Mr. S. R. Johnson, 4, Don View, Mexborough.

STOCKSBRIDGE.—October 4, 5. Mr. A. G. Drabble, Holly Bush, Bolsterstone, near Sheffield.

BLACKPOOL.—October 8 to 12. The Secretary, Festival Offices, Blackpool.

THE
No. 835
MUSICAL TIMES
Price 3d.
FOUNDED 1844
SEPT. 1, 1912.

. . THE . .

BRITISH BRINSMEAD

It is because of its intrinsic qualities that the Brinsmead Piano has attained the unsurpassed reputation in which it is held in all countries. It is the piano that all the world knows, uses, and admires, not because it is British, but because it is best.

WRITE FOR 1911 ART CATALOGUE.

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS, LTD., 18-22, WIGMORE STREET, W.

THE

J. & P. SCHIEDMAYER PIANOS

SOLE IMPORTERS ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN, LTD.,

103, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON; 12, PARK ROW, LEEDS;

AND BRANCHES.

May be had from the Principal Dealers throughout the Kingdom.

PIANO PEDALS

EVERY ORGANIST should investigate the importance and special advantages of

NORMAN & BEARD'S PNEUMATIC PEDAL ATTACHMENT FOR THE PIANO.

Correct relative position of Keys and Pedals guaranteed.
Gives a perfect touch and repetition.
Does not injure the most delicate Piano, all parts of the Pianoforte action being left perfectly free.

Pedals can be instantly removed.
Does not alter the Piano touch.
Every Attachment made specially in our own Factory.

NORMAN & BEARD, LTD., 61, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegrams: "VIBRATING," LONDON. Telephone: GERRARD 9145.

May be inspected in the Pianoforte Salon at SELFRIDGE'S, Oxford Street, W.

CRAMER PIANOS

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS

RECOMMENDED BY

Percy Grainger, Leonard Borwick, Pietro Mascagni, Sir Frederick Bridge, Coleridge-Taylor, York Bowen, Dr. Cummings, Tito Mattei, Emil Bach, Alexandra Canovas, Henry Farmer, Carrie Tubb, Gounod, Benedict, Emil Pauer, Edward Batiste, Joachim, Nilsson, Nikisch, Marie Roze, Scharwenka, Strauss, Thomas, Liszt, Stainer, Guilmant, Saint-Saëns, Carl Rosa, Ketterer, Arditi.

J. B. CRAMER & Co., Ltd., ESTD. 1824.

139, NEW BOND ST., 46, MOORGATE ST., E.C., KENSINGTON HIGH ST.

PURE TONE. PERFECT TOUCH.

THOROUGH CONSTRUCTION.

SPENCER PIANOS

Moderate Prices.
DISCOUNT to PROFESSION.
CATALOGUES FREE.

SPENCER PLAYER PIANOS FROM 85 GUINEAS.

Wholesale & Export:
J. SPENCER & CO.,
REGENT'S PARK, N.W.

Large Variety on Show at

MURDOCH'S MUSIC STORES,

463, OXFORD STREET, W., AND BRANCHES.

Reproduced from a Photograph by Petit.

JULES MASSENET.

1842-1912.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

FOUNDED IN 1844.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 835.—Vol. 53. Registered at the General Post Office for Canadian Postage.

SEPTEMBER 1, 1912.

Price 3*d.*; Postage 1½*d.* Annual Subscription, Post-free. 4*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
Conductor: SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O.

(Season 1912—1913.)

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES. Applicants should have STRONG VOICES OF GOOD QUALITY, and should be prepared to pass an examination in SIGHT-READING. Address, The Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

YORK GATE, MARYLEBONE ROAD, N.W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, K.G.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus.D., LL.D., F.R.A.M.

Michaelmas Term begins Monday, September 23. Entrance Examination Thursday, September 19, at 9.30. Campbell Clarke Scholarship for Female Vocalists. Baume (Manx) Scholarship for any branch of Music, and Scholarships for Singing (any Male Voice), Pianoforte, Viola or Violoncello, and Organ. Last day for entry, September 2.

The Next Session of the Training Course for Teachers (three terms) will commence September 23. Successful Candidates at the ensuing Examination are created Associates (A.R.A.M.).

Prospectus, Entrance Forms, and all further information of—
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

Telegrams—"Initiative, London." Telephone—"1160, Western."

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE CHRISTIAN, K.G.

Director:
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

The NEXT TERM will commence on Thursday, September 26.
ENTRANCE EXAMINATION, September 23.
Syllabus and official Entry Form may be obtained from
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

Examination Regulations, List of College Publications, Lectures, &c. may be had on application.

H. A. HARDING, Hon. Sec.
Kensington Gore, S.W.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

JOHN CARPENTER ST., VICTORIA EMBANKMENT, E.C.
Established and Managed by the Corporation of London.
Principal: LANDON RONALD.

NEW TERM begins September 16.

Individual Tuition by eminent teachers at moderate fees. 110 Prizes, Medals, and Scholarships, giving free and assisted tuition, competed for annually. Subjects taught: Piano, Singing, Organ, Harmony, all Orchestral and Solo Instruments, Stage Training in Elocution, Gesture, Stage Dancing, Fencing, and Opera. Examinations open to general public. Prospectus, Examinations Syllabus, and form of entry, free of Secretary, H. SAXE WYNDHAM, Victoria Embankment. Telephone: 1943 Holborn.

MANCHESTER SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Patron: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart.
Principal: ALBERT J. CROSS (of the Royal Academy, London, and the Leipsic Conservatorium). Sixty Professors.

All Branches of Music taught. Private or Class Tuition.
Full and String Orchestras, Operas, Lectures, Recitals, Chamber and Orchestral Concerts. Prospectus from the SECRETARY, Albert Square.

QUEEN'S HALL.

PROMENADE CONCERTS

AUGUST 17 TO OCTOBER 26.
NIGHTLY AT 8.
THE QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA.
Conductor: SIR HENRY J. WOOD.

1s., 2s., 3s., 5s.

Full programmes for entire season from
ROBERT NEWMAN, 320, Regent Street, W.
Manager for the Queen's Hall Orchestra (Ltd.).

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday,
OCTOBER, 1, 2, 3, AND 4, 1912.

CONDUCTOR: SIR HENRY J. WOOD.

PRINCIPAL VOCALISTS:
MESDAMES
ACKTÉ, DONALDA, ADA FORREST, CARRIE TUBB, CLARA BUTT, MURIEL FOSTER, DORIS WOODALL.
MESSIEURS
GWYNNE DAVIES, GERVASE ELWES, JOHN McCORMACK (by kind permission of Royal Opera), THORPE BATES, WILFRID DOUTHITT, HERBERT HEYNER, CLARENCE WHITEHILL.

PIANOFORTE: HERR MORIZ ROSENTHAL.
VIOLONCELLO: SEÑOR PABLO CASALS.

TUESDAY MORNING.—"ELIJAH."
TUESDAY EVENING.—
SIR EDWARD ELGAR'S NEW WORK, "THE MUSIC MAKERS."
SIBELIUS' SYMPHONY No. 4 IN A (First Performance).
LISZT'S PIANO CONCERTO No. 1 in E FLAT.
AND MISCELLANEOUS.
WEDNESDAY MORNING.—
BACH'S "THE PASSION ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW."
WEDNESDAY EVENING.—
DR. WALFORD DAVIES'S NEW WORK, "SONG OF THE SUN."
MR. GRANVILLE BANTOCK'S NEW ORCHESTRAL WORK.
HAYDN'S VIOLONCELLO CONCERTO IN D.
AND MISCELLANEOUS.
THURSDAY MORNING.—
"THE MESSIAH."
THURSDAY EVENING.—
VERDI'S MANZONI REQUIEM.
DELIUS' "SEA DRIFT."
AND MISCELLANEOUS.
FRIDAY MORNING.—
BRAHMS' GERMAN REQUIEM.
BEETHOVEN'S SEVENTH SYMPHONY IN A.
SCRIABINE'S "PROMETHEUS" (First Performance in England).
FRIDAY EVENING.—
SIR EDWARD ELGAR'S "THE APOSTLES."

Detailed Programmes, containing directions as to applying for Tickets, may be obtained, post-free, on application to
J. ERNEST PRITCHARD, Secretary.
King's Court, 115, Colmore Row, Birmingham.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for degrees in Music are held as follows:—Matriculation, April and October; First Mus. B., March and September; Final Mus. B., and Mus. D., September only.

For particulars, apply Secretary of Examinations, University Office, Durham. Copies of former Examination Papers, 1s. per set.

ROYAL MANCHESTER COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Patroness: HER MAJESTY QUEEN ALEXANDRA.
President: Sir W. H. HOULDSWORTH, Bart., LL.D.
Principal: Dr. ADOLPH BRODSKY.

The NEW COLLEGE YEAR begins Tuesday, October 1, 1912.
NEW TERM began Tuesday, April 23.
Special Houses of Residence recommended for Students.
Students are required to enter upon a complete course of Musical instruction, and are not admitted for a shorter period than one year.
Fee for the year, £30, payable in instalments of £10 at the beginning of each term. Special Fee for Wind Instrument Course, £15.
Systematic Course for the Training of Teachers included in the curriculum.
The Prospectus, with Scholarship information, Diploma Regulations, and Entry Forms, on application.
New Professor of Singing—Miss Marie Brema.
STANLEY WITHERS, Registrar.

UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER.

FACULTY OF MUSIC.

The Prospectus, containing full information as to the Courses of Study for the Mus. B. and Mus. D. Degrees will be forwarded on application to the Registrar. A "Hargreaves" Exhibition to the value of Thirty Pounds per annum is awarded on the results of the first Mus. B. Examination. Under the new regulations, graduates of other approved Universities, who fulfil the requirements of the syllabus, may qualify for the Degree of Mus. D.

CITY OF LONDON COLLEGE,
WHITE STREET, MOORFIELDS, E.C.

MICHAELMAS TERM commences September 30.
Mr. G. OAKEY, Mus. Bac. Cantab., conducts CLASSES in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and THEORY OF MUSIC.
Instruction also in Organ and Pianoforte. Choir meets on Fridays, conducted by Mr. G. Day Winter.
Prospectus gratis. DAVID SAVAGE, Secretary.

INCORPORATED GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS.

Founded 1888.

Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament XXX. and XXXI. Victoria, Cap. cxxxi., § 23.

President: THE VERY REV. THE DEAN OF BRISTOL, D.D.

LECTURE by the Rev. NOEL A. BONAVIA-HUNT, M.A., L.I.G.C.M., "The Sorrows of a Choirmaster," on Thursday, November 28, 1912. Dr. J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc. Cantab., F.R.A.M., in the Chair.

ASSOCIATE (A.I.G.C.M.), LICENTIATE (L.I.G.C.M.), FELLOWSHIP (F.I.G.C.M.) EXAMINATIONS in London and at approved Provincial Centres in July, and December.

COMPETITIONS FOR 1912.

A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Anthem.
A SILVER MEDAL for the best simple Organ Piece.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Kyrie.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Hymn Tune.
A BRONZE MEDAL for the best Quadruple Chant.

GUILD GAZETTE (QUARTERLY) - - TWOPENCE.

REGISTER OF ORGAN VACANCIES.

Organists (Members) have the FREE use of the Register of Vacant Appointments.
Calendar (gratis) and further information of Dr. LEWIS, Warden, 42, Berners Street, London, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
LONDON.

(Under the direction of the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

42, BERNERS STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.
President: THE MOST HON. THE MARQUIS OF ANGLESEY.
Principal: J. H. LEWIS, D.C.L., F.E.I.S., Mus. Doc.
Chairman: J. M. BENTLEY, Mus. Doc. Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
Hon. Director of Studies: CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Mus. Doc., F.I.G.C.M.
Hon. Sec.: GEO. A. STANTON, A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., F.I.G.C.M.

Metropolitan Examinations in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., F.V.C.M., also for the Teachers' Professional Diploma in the Art of Teaching, July, and December.
Local Theoretical Examinations, July, and December.
Practical Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for Competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Secretary, Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES

Returns early in September from Series of CHORAL FESTIVAL CONCERTS IN SOUTH AFRICA,
Where his reception has been most enthusiastic.
Available for Season 1912-13. Terms and Vacant dates, Apply usual Agents, or Mr. CHARLES KNOWLES, Oakroyd, Potter's Bar, N.

VIGGO KIHL
(SOLO PIANIST).
Albert Hall, Crystal Palace, &c.
Concerts and At Homes.

The Times says: "His interpretations, while they remain entirely natural and straightforward, have a charm and individuality of their own."

A few VACANCIES for PUPILS.
For terms and vacant dates, apply,
VIGGO KIHL, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd.,
160, Wardour Street, W.

MR. W. H. BREARE
VOCAL ADVISER AND TEACHER OF SINGING
TO STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

Author of "Vocalism," "Elocution: Its First Principles," "Vocal Faults and their Remedies."

"The most complete guide to singing in English."—"Lancelot," of the Referee.
"One of the sanest of sane expositions."—Musical Courier, N.Y.
"One step nearer to the ideal."—Referee ("Lancelot").
"Is a reliable expert in all branches."—Gentlewoman.
"A magnificent guide to both teachers and students."—Eastern Morning News.
"Do not hesitate to commend."—Glasgow Herald.
"Well up and enthusiastic in his subject, which he handles in a masterly manner. His technical knowledge is minute, wide, and accurate: what he has to say is well worthy of consideration by public singers and music teachers."—Aberdeen Free Press.
"Has had exceptional opportunities of studying his subject. . . . Common-sense in all he utters."—Leeds Mercury.
"Is an acknowledged authority. . . ."—Western Morning News.
"I have not the slightest fear of contradiction when I say that no one knows more about the voice and vocal production than Mr. W. H. Breare."—"Counterpoint," in the Newcastle Journal.

Further Press Opinions on application.

Address: "HERALD" BUILDINGS, HARROGATE,
or 139, NEW BOND STREET, W.

SEVČIK SCHOOL OF VIOLIN-PLAYING.—

MESSRS. ERWIN GOLDWATER and EDGAR SHELTON beg to announce that they have resumed teaching the famous Sevcik System at their West-End Studios to professionals and amateurs.

Private or Class Lessons by arrangement. The latter will be specially adapted to those wishing to master this method at class fees.

Mr. Goldwater studied for two and a-half years with Professor Sevcik, who highly recommends him. Mr. Shelton, Musician in Ordinary to His Majesty The King, has had twenty years' teaching experience. Chamber Music Classes and a String Orchestra will be run in conjunction with the School. A Scholarship, open to both sexes, will be awarded in April.

For full particulars, testimonials, Press notices, apply,
THE SECRETARY, 59, Brondesbury Villas, Maida Vale, N.W.

THE ALEXANDRA PALACE CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

CONDUCTOR - - MR. ALLEN GILL. F.R.A.M.

It is intended to perform the following Works during the Season 1912-13:—

1912.
Oct.	5.	"Elijah"	Mendelssohn
Nov.	16.	"Omar Khayyám"	Granville Bantock
Dec.	14.	"Faust"	Gounod
1913.
Jan.	4.	"Messiah"	Handel
Feb.	1.	"The Man of Sorrows"	Lyon
		"A Tale of Old Japan"	Coleridge-Taylor
March	1.	"Mass in B minor"	Bach
March	21	(Good Friday).—"Messiah"	Handel
April	12.	"Hiawatha"	Coleridge-Taylor
May	3.	"The Golden Legend"	Sullivan

Season Tickets for the Nine Concerts, at 21s. for the 3s. Seats, and 15s. for the 2s. Seats, may now be had on application to the Hon. Manager, Alexandra Palace, N. ('Phone: 41 Finchley.)

Ladies and Gentlemen—Vocalists or Instrumentalists—desirou of becoming Members of this Society are invited to communicate with the Hon. Secretary, Mr. C. J. DUNN, 33, Thornby Road, Clapton, N.E.

THIRTEENTH BRISTOL MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

COLSTON HALL.

OCTOBER 23, 24, 25, AND 26, 1912.

WEDNESDAY Oct. 23.	1.0 p.m.	"Elijah"	Mendelssohn.
	8.0 p.m.	"Das Rheingold"	Wagner.
THURSDAY Oct. 24.	12.0 Noon,	"Die Walküre"	Wagner.
	8.0 p.m.	M. Paderewski. Concerto.	Chopin.
	,,	"Caractacus"	Elgar.
FRIDAY Oct. 25.	12.0 Noon,	"Siegfried"	Wagner.
	,,	Herr Fritz Kreisler. Concerto.	Beethoven.
	8.0 p.m.	"Samson and Delilah"	Saint-Saëns.
SATURDAY Oct. 26.	12.0 Noon,	"Götterdämmerung"	Wagner.
	8.0 p.m.	Grand Miscellaneous
	,,	Popular Programme at popular prices.

VOCALISTS.

Miss A. Nicholls. Miss Perceval Allen. Miss C. Hatchard.
Miss Alice Prowse. Miss Mabel Manson. Miss Alice Hare.
Miss Phyllis Lett. Miss Marion Beeley. Miss Edith Clegg.
Miss Dilys Jones. Miss Maria Yelland. Miss G. Winchester.
Herr Peter Cornelius. Mr. Lloyd Chandos. Mr. Morgan Kingston.
Herr Hans Bechstein.
Mr. Clarence Whitehill. Mr. Robert Radford. Mr. Frederic Austin.
Mr. Dalton Baker. Mr. Charles Knowles. Mr. Arthur Winckworth.
Mr. Percy Heming.

Complete Festival Choir and Orchestra of 550 Performers.
Conductor: Mr. GEORGE RISELEY.

Orders for Tickets may now be booked. Preliminary Programmes post-free.

Mr. A. H. INSALL, Secretary, 4, Colston St., Bristol. Tel.: No. 4408.

HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SEPTEMBER 8, 10, 11, 12, AND 13, 1912.

Conductor—DR. G. R. SINCLAIR.

PRINCIPALS.

SOPRANOS: Miss Edith Evans, Miss Ada Forrest, Miss Marie Houghton, Miss Ruth Vincent. CONTRALTOS: Madame Ada Crossley, Miss Muriel Foster, Miss Phyllis Lett, Miss Sara Silvers. TENORS: Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Gervase Elwes, Mr. William Green, Mr. Roland Jackson. BASSES: Mr. Thorpe Bates, Mr. Campbell McInnes, Mr. Robert Radford. Solo Violin, Miss Evangeline Anthony. Solo Pianoforte, Mr. Leonard Borwick. The Grimson String Quartet.

"Elijah" (Mendelssohn); Alto Rhapsodie (Brahms); Symphony No. 5 (Beethoven); Solo Cantata, "O amantissime sponse Jesu" (Christian Ritter); German Requiem (Brahms); "The Passion" (St. Matthew) (Bach): "The Dream of Gerontius" (Elgar); "Ode on the Nativity" (New Work) (C. Hubert H. Parry); "Parsifal" (Good Friday and Grail Music) (Wagner); Choral Fantasia on Christmas Carols (New Work) (Vaughan Williams); Motet (8 parts, unaccompanied), "Surge Illuminare" (Palestrina); Song of Offering (New Work) (Walford Davies); "Stabat Mater" (Dvorák); "The Messiah" (Handel). New Orchestral Suites by Elgar and Bantock.

Programmes, Tickets, and Books of Words may be had, and places secured, on application to Messrs. Jakeman & Carver, High Town, Hereford.

Hon Secs., REV. PREB. M. HOPTON, Holmer Hall, Hereford. COLONEL M. J. G. SCOBIE, C.B.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

PIANO PEDALS.

THE CATHEDRAL, MANCHESTER,
Nov. 8th, 1910.

DEAR MR. MALKIN,

I think your Patent Pedal Attachment, which you have fitted to my Steinway, is simply splendid. I find the action absolutely silent and its touch beautiful.—Yours truly,

R. H. P. COLEMAN, F.R.C.O., Sub-Organist.

Terms:—Cash, or instalments of 8s. per month.

Write for Lists, Prices, and Clients' Opinions, and references, to—

THE MALKIN PATENT PEDAL CO., LTD.,

Works—Hanley, Staffs. NEWCASTLE-UNDER-LYME.

VOICE TRAINING.

JULIUS WALTHER, of the Opera Houses, Berlin, Vienna, Hanover, Covent Garden, and of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, has VACANCIES for STUDENTS (all Voices). Moderate fees. 49, Leith Mansions, Elgin Avenue, W.

A Pupil Testifies to the Remarkable Results obtained from THE EHREMAYER SYSTEM OF PIANOFORTE SIGHT-PLAYING

Lancaster,
July 18th, 1912.

Dear Sir,

I am very pleased to say there are no real difficulties to report.

I am delighted with the progress I have made, particularly since the fourth lesson. The improvement in my reading of solid chords and passages is simply marvellous, and especially I wish to mention the greatly increased quickness and facility of eye and hand. I scarcely ever look at the keyboard, and my fingers seem to fall automatically on the right notes. The improvement in my piano-playing altogether is most remarkable.

I think your System is wonderful, and so thorough; it seems to solve every difficulty, and in so pleasant and interesting a manner. I shall always be glad I took the lessons, as I am certain that I could never have attained my present proficiency in any other way. Also I feel that by continuing on the same lines, one may receive greater and greater benefits.

I wish to say how very much I have appreciated your kindness and attention shown to me during the whole Course, and your most helpful and encouraging letters and invaluable instructions.

The lessons have fully accomplished the purpose for which I undertook them,—to learn new music more quickly, and to play new and old music at sight.

With many sincere thanks, and wishing you every success in your undertaking, (Signed) C. C. B.

Booklet sent free to any pianist.

L. M. EHREMAYER, 27, CHANCERY LANE, LONDON, W.C.

A FINE MODERN VIOLIN.

MADE ENTIRELY BY W. E. HILL AND SONS.

OUR Instruments have for long been recognised as among the finest examples of modern work, and we are now producing at a moderate price an excellent Violin, constructed upon models founded on the most perfect types of the great schools.

These Violins are made throughout in our workshops. None but carefully-selected and seasoned material, and highly skilled workmanship, are employed in their construction; and particular attention is given to the accurate fitting and regulation of each instrument.

PRICE £12 10S.

SOLD BY W. E. HILL & SONS,

Sole Violin and Bow Makers to H.M. THE KING,

AT THEIR PLACE OF BUSINESS,

140, NEW BOND STREET,

LONDON, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (SOPRANO).
For Concerts, Oratorios. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS DOROTHY BAILLIE-SMITH
(SOPRANO).
Pupil of Professor David Strong. Mitchell Scholarship 1911 and 1912 (Guildhall School of Music). Address: 3, Glenview, Victoria Road, New Barnet, Herts.

MISS ALICE HARE
(SOPRANO).
44, Ladbroke Grove, W. 'Phone 5195 Western.

MISS ESTELLA LINDEN
(SOPRANO).
Of London (Mr. Fagge) and Provincial Concerts; Bristol (Mr. Riseley).
"Beautiful voice and true artistic feeling."—Birmingham Post.
18, Stanley Gardens, Hampstead, N.W.

MISS DASIE E. AVIS
Contralto Soloist. (Former pupil of Mr. EDWIN HOLLAND.)
Oratorios, Concerts, and Musical At Homes.
"Sunnyside," Wroughton Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

MADAME ANNIE GREW
(CONTRALTO; MEDALLIST).
Pupil of Madame Amy Sherwin. Oratorio, Ballad, Opera, &c.
54, Dinsmore Road, Balham, London, S.W.

MR. SAMUEL MASTERS
(TENOR).
"The splendid reputation enjoyed by Mr. Samuel Masters, the well-known tenor, throughout the British Isles is the legitimate result of a remarkably fine voice of great range and almost phenomenal power and his artistic singing."—Kingston Musical Courier.
Telephone: 613 P.O. Kingston.
Address—8a, Station Buildings, Surbiton.

MR. ERNEST PENFOLD
(TENOR).
(Messiah) "Betokened the real artist."—South London Press.
21, High Road, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. JOS. REED
(TENOR).
59, Biddulph Mansions, Maida Vale, W.
Telephone: P.O. Hampstead 6778.

MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE).

MISS
WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. MONTAGUE BORWELL) (SOPRANO).
124, WALM LANE, CRICKLEWOOD, N.W.
Telephone: 415 Willesden. Telegrams: "Soloist, London."

MR. REGINALD HALE
(BARITONE).
Available for Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
21, Park Parade, Palmer's Green, N. Telephone: 61, Palmer's Green.

MR. HERBERT PARKER
(BARITONE).
Leeds Musical Festival, Queen's Hall, and Principal Provincial Concerts.
Address: Rosslyn, Lichfield.

MR. HENRY MALLETT
(BASS-BARITONE).
Receptions, &c. "Chansons Française." 14, Hills Place, W.

MR. HERBERT TRACEY
(BASS).
40, Telford Avenue, Streatham Hill, S.W. Telephone: 203 Streatham.

MR. M. MONTAGU-NATHAN,
Formerly pupil of YSAŸE, HEERMANN, and WILHELMJ,
gives VIOLIN Lessons in LONDON and PROVINCES.
Address: 5, Bechstein Studios, Wigmore Street, W.

DR. A. EAGLEFIELD HULL
MUS. DOC. OXON., F.R.C.O.
Address:
MELBOURNE HOUSE, HUDDERSFIELD.

HERBERT WEATHERLY
(CONCERT ORGANIST).
Canadian and American Press-notices and particulars.
Apply, Rudolph Bennett, 3, Kelfield Gardens, London, W., England.

THE LONDON COLLEGE FOR CHORISTERS.
DIRECTOR: MR. JAMES BATES.
SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Concerts; also LEADING BOYS for Church Choirs can be supplied for occasional or permanent engagements. Address, E. B. Golding, Secretary, 6, Blomfield Crescent, Hyde Park, W.
Telegrams: "Musicomane, London." Telephone: 490 Mayfair.

MUSICAL REVISER TO MESSRS. NOVELLO FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS.
COMPOSERS' MSS.
REVISED and PREPARED FOR PRINTING; ADVICE GIVEN as to most suitable publishers for various styles of composition.
H. ELLIOT BUTTON, "Harewood," Ardwick Road, Hampstead, N.W.
Reference to the following composers kindly permitted:—
Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bt., C.V.O., Sir EDWARD ELGAR, O.M.,
Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., Dr. WALFORD DAVIES.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. and MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities. Diplomas of F.L.C.M., L.Mus.L.C.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., and L.R.A.M. Gold Medals, Silver Medals, Scholarships, Prizes, "Honours," and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of eight hundred and sixty. Dr. Allison is quite willing to teach those who neither require nor desire to pass examinations. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Analysis of Composition by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson St., Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

L.R.A.M. (PAPER WORK).
MR. E. H. BIBBY (Mus.Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M.) has SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE COURSE for the "Form and Teaching" and "Rudiments and Harmony" papers set at the L.R.A.M. Exams.
LATEST SUCCESSES:—
L.R.A.M. EXAMS., 1910-11.—Seventeen Correspondence Pupils successful. Address, c/o Forsyth Bros., Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. BIBBY has also carefully graduated Correspondence Course for the A.R.C.M. (Paper Work Sections). Address as above.

MR. GEORGE R. CEILEY, L.R.A.M., gives LESSONS in the traditional School of SINGING as taught by CHAS. LUNN and Signor CATTANEO.
The late Chas. Lunn wrote: "I take a special interest in Mr. George R. Ceiley owing to his clear perception, high musical knowledge and the skill in which he applies what I have taught him"; and the late Dr. Turpin wrote: "In that delicate and difficult department of Voice Production, Mr. Ceiley is indeed one of our chief authorities."
Change of address: "Highcroft," Muswell Hill Road, N.

MR. CLIFTON COOKE (25 years' experience MANUEL GARCIA method) will TRAIN and introduce a GOOD VOICE on exceptional terms. 80 per cent. of his pupils in the profession in Oratorio, Grand Opera, Musical Comedy and Concerts. VOICE TRIAL on written application.
Studio, 20 Bloomsbury Street, New Oxford Street, London, W.C.

DR. WILLIAM A. HALL, Mus.D. Oxon. (1909), F.R.C.O., specialises in the PREPARATION for UNIVERSITY DEGREES and the RECOGNISED DIPLOMAS, personally or by correspondence. Also personal lessons in Pianoforte, Singing, Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., at 7, Lansdowne Road, Tottenham, N.

DR. CUTHBERT HARRIS, Mus. Doc. Dunelm., F.R.C.O., Author of "Examination Questions and How to Work them" (Novello's Primers, No. 70), COACHES for all Musical Exams., personally and by correspondence.
298 SUCCESSES, including:—
A.R.C.O. Paper Work .. 50; Organ Work .. .. 34.
F.R.C.O. " " .. 52; " " .. .. 37.
(F.R.C.O. "Lafontaine" Prize twice, and "F. J. Sawyer" Prize.)
FIRST MUS. BAC., Oxford, Durham, and Dublin .. 41.
FINAL MUS. BAC., Oxford and Durham .. .. 22.
MUS. DOC. Oxford, Durham, Dublin, and Montreal .. 4.
MUS. BAC. and MUS. DOC. EXERCISES .. .. 27.
Special sets of papers in Composition, fully covering "Exercise" Work.
Also many successes in A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., L.Mus. and A.Mus., &c., &c.
SUCCESSES IN 1911 include:—
MUS. DOC. EXERCISES, 2. FINAL MUS. DOC. EXAM., 2.
MUS. BAC. EXERCISES, 5. FINAL MUS. BAC. EXAM., 4.
FIRST EXAM. FOR MUS. BAC., 2.
OXFORD EXAMS. May, 1912, one in "First" and one in "Final."
MSS. arranged and revised.
48, Braxted Park, Streatham, S.W. Telephone: 487 Streatham.

MISS H. HEALE COACHES for all EXAMINATIONS in MUSIC (at private residence or at West-End studio), in Pianoforte, Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue, Form, Orchestration, "Teaching," Modulation, Transposition, &c. For terms, &c., apply Dunraven House, 41, Albert Bridge Road, S.W.

THEO. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac. Oxon., F.R.C.O., an experienced and successful COACH to Durham Mus. B., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M. 1908 Pupil won F.R.C.O. First Prize. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. ARTHUR S. HOLLOWAY, Mus. D. Oxon., 13, Roseleigh Avenue, Highbury, N., continues to PREPARE CANDIDATES for the various Theoretical Examinations. Music of any description revised or arranged. LESSONS in COMPOSITION, by post if desired.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac. Cantab.; Mus. Doc. Toronto; gives LESSONS by post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM, ACOUSTICS, ORCHESTRATION, &c. Candidates prepared by Dr. Karn have obtained the degrees of MUS. BAC. or MUS. DOC. at DURHAM, OXFORD, DUBLIN, CAMBRIDGE, and LONDON Universities; also F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M. (Composition, Pianoforte, Organ, Bandmastership, and Conducting), A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music, and Pianoforte Teaching), L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M. and T.C.L., ASSOCIATED BOARD, &c. Dr. Karn continues to Coach for all Musical Examinations. Special Preparation in Rudiments, Form, and Teaching for L.R.A.M.

Also PERSONAL Lessons; MSS. revised for publication. Classical Works analysed for Examinations. Terms moderate and inclusive.
106, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W. Telephone, 524 P.O. Hampstead.

DR. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., F.E.I.S., Warden, Incorporated Guild of Church Musicians, gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. 42, Berners St., Oxford St., W.

DR. LEWIS' TEXT-BOOKS:

"HARMONY." (2 vols.) 5s. each, net.
"COUNTERPOINT." 5s. net.
"DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT AND CANON." 5s. net.
"FUGUE." 1s. 6d. net.
"ELEMENTS OF MUSIC." 2s. 6d. net.
"DEVELOPMENT OF ANGLICAN CHURCH MUSIC." 2s. net.
"PRONOUNCING VOCABULARY OF MUSICAL TERMS." 6d. net.
"DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS." 6d. net.
"MATERIAL OF MELODY." 3d. net.

The above, complete, will be forwarded (carriage paid) for 15s.

MR. DAVID MACKENZIE, L.R.A.M.—Lessons in Singing. Vocal Coach. Arthur Thompson, Esq., F.R.A.M. (Professor and Examiner, Royal Academy of Music), writes: "An admirable Teacher, well and variously equipped to impart instruction in a very difficult art." For appointments, &c., write, Breitkopf Studios, 54, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MISS F. HELENA MARKS PREPARES for L.R.A.M. and other Examinations. Pianoforte, Harmony, "Form and Teaching," &c. Lessons (oral or by correspondence). Pupils received and visited for the Pianoforte. Many recent successes, L.R.A.M., &c. Pianoforte Classes, 10, Matheson Rd., West Kensington.

DR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus. D. (Dubl.), F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., makes a SPECIALITY of COACHING FOR DEGREES. L.R.A.M., 1897-1911, ONE HUNDRED AND TEN SUCCESSES; A.R.C.M., 1897-1911, TWO HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-EIGHT SUCCESSES. Equally good results in R.C.O. and other Examinations.

Address, Thornleigh, 6, Elm Park Road, Finchley, N.

MR. PERCY WOOD, F.R.C.O., Specialist in Correspondence Tuition for F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O.

RECENT SUCCESSES: 145 Correspondence Pupils have passed F.R.C.O. or A.R.C.O. RECENTLY as follows:

102 A.R.C.O. (Paper Work).	43 F.R.C.O. (Paper Work).
14 A.R.C.O., July, 1912.	6 F.R.C.O., July, 1912.
15 A.R.C.O., July, 1911.	10 F.R.C.O., July, 1911.
22 A.R.C.O., July, 1910.	11 F.R.C.O., July, 1910.
12 A.R.C.O., July, 1909.	5 F.R.C.O., July, 1909.
12 A.R.C.O., Jan., 1910.	3 F.R.C.O., Jan., 1910.

Both F.R.C.O. Prizes ("Lafontaine" and "Turpin") January, 1912. Many successes in January, 1912, 1911, 1910, and 1909.

8, Harley Road, Harlesden, London, N.W.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40, WIGMORE STREET, W., are specially constructed with every convenience and facility that science and money can suggest, providing a magnificent Entrance Hall, Electric Lift, Telephones, separate Lavatories for Ladies and Gentlemen on every floor, also comfortable Lounges for waiting. The Studios are appropriately furnished, lighted by electricity, one or more Horizontal Grands in every Studio, &c., &c.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are in the centre of London's musical life, known by everybody, and already used by over a hundred of the most eminent London and Provincial Professors of Music.

THE BECHSTEIN HALL STUDIOS are let by the year for exclusive use, or by single days, the charges being very reasonable and inclusive. Applications should be addressed to:—
THE MANAGER, 40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

MR. A. E. TAYLOR, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., COACHES (post) for all Musical Examinations. Pupils have passed the A.T.C.L., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.O., and complete MUS. BAC. Course. Pupil was awarded Stillie bursary (Glasgow, 1906). Compositions Revised. Portland House, Lancaster.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF MUSIC, 37, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.
GRADUATED POSTAL LESSONS IN HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, THEORY OF MUSIC, FORM AND ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ETC.

Pupils prepared for Mus. Doc., Mus. Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., and other examinations by experienced University Graduates in Music.

Personal lessons for L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., &c.
Terms very moderate; from One to Three Guineas per quarter. Prospectus post-free from the SECRETARY. Telephone: 7729 City.

CHORISTERSHIPS.—Miss Handley prepares BOYS, at her Hampstead Studio, for CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS at all the leading CHOIR SCHOOLS. Recent successes at St. Paul's Cathedral; Magdalen College, Oxford; Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford; King's College, Cambridge, &c. Arrangements are now being made for the new term. Holiday address: Milford, Talbot Hill, Bournemouth.

HOLY TRINITY, STROUD GREEN, N.—ALTO WANTED. Good Reader. State salary required. Address, H. J. Timothy, 134, Ferme Park Road, Crouch End, N.

KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

There is Vacancy in the Choir for a Tenor Choral Scholar. Choral Scholarships are tenable by those who intend to take a University Degree. The value of the Scholarship is £80 a year, with certain allowances.

The Competition will be held on Thursday, October 10.
Applications to be sent in not later than October 4.
For further information apply to the Dean, King's College, Cambridge.

ELY CATHEDRAL.—TENOR LAY CLERK WANTED. £86. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent to The Precentor, on a form to be obtained from him, on or before Sept. 14.

ORGANIST AND CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for the Blackheath Congregational Church, Services, Sunday and Wednesday Evening. Choir practice, Friday Evening. Local residence desirable. Apply by letter, stating experience, qualifications, age, and salary required. J. E. Wilson, 18, Charlton Road, Blackheath, S.E.

WANTED.—ORGANIST & CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £60 and Tuition Fees.
Address, Ven. Archdeacon Forsyth, Chatham, New Brunswick, Canada.

ORGANIST & CHOIR-DIRECTOR WANTED, for S. Paul's, Weston-super-Mare. New parish, populous, residential, growing. Beautiful church. Large congregations. Magnificent organ Excellent sphere. State qualifications, experience, salary required. References or three recent testimonials. Only likely candidates answered unless stamp enclosed. Apply, Rev. D. Lloyd, S. Paul's, Weston-super-Mare.

POSITIONS SECURED for ORGANISTS in Churches in the United States. Write for Terms: INTERNATIONAL CHOIR EXCHANGE, 116, Newark Avenue, Jersey City, N.J. (late of 136, Fifth Avenue, New York). VACANCIES ALWAYS.

ORGANIST will give Services and moderate fee for coaching R.C.O., R.A.M., &c., Exams. and experience in good church in or near London. Write, stating full particulars, W. N., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

RETIRED ORGANIST (R. Cath.) could take one or two evenings a week, or would deputise. M. D. G., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

ST. BOTOLPH'S CHURCH, Aldgate, E.C.—ORGAN LESSONS given on the fine 3-manual instrument. Pupils allowed to practise. Address, FREDERIC LACEY, Organist.

CATHEDRAL ORGANIST has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Premium. Fine Cathedral. Magnificent organ. Beautiful neighbourhood. Daily choral services; oratorios and frequent recitals. Excellent opportunity for educated youth. Address, Master of the Choristers, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

DR. THOS. HUTCHINSON, Organist and Choirmaster of Darlington Parish Church, REQUIRES an ARTICLED PUPIL in September. Excellent opportunity for Student preparing for Musical Degree; also for experience in Organ-playing, Choir-training, &c.

MR. H. A. JEBOULT, F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M., REQUIRES RESIDENT PUPIL. Preparation for Profession and Exams., especially R.C.O. Moderate fees to talented youth. 1, Birch Grove, Taunton.

MR. BRYAN WARHURST, A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Thomas's Church, Rhyl, Choirmaster of St. Paul's Church, Colwyn Bay, Conductor Rhyl Choral Society, &c., has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL in September. Splendid opportunities for Voice-Training and Conducting. Apply, "Roualeyn," Rhyl, North Wales.

VACANCY FOR ARTICLED PUPIL.—Important Church, South Coast Winter Resort. Elaborate Mass Music. Orchestra or Festival, Daily choral services and choir-practices. Full Symphony Orchestra of 70 performers. Concerts given in town during Winter season. Coaching for R.C.O., A.R.C.M., and L.R.A.M. Boys trained in private preparatory school for University and Cathedral Choral Scholarships. Successes include St. Paul's Cathedral. Considerably reduced terms to one willing to take active part. Pupil just received good appointment. Apply, H., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

FOR THOSE ENTERING THE MUSICAL PROFESSION.—A bachelor of music, M.A. and F.R.C.O. (married), has room in his house on South coast for RESIDENT PUPIL. Organ, piano, singing, harmony, counterpoint, &c. Good organ in house. Fine climate. Terms moderate. Apply C. Leathes, 3, Goda Road, Littlehampton.

STUDENT-TEACHER.—VIOLINIST with knowledge of piano WANTED in School of Music near London. Good opportunity for young gentleman to study and learn teaching business with view to permanency. Small premium, salary to commence. State qualifications, age, &c., to M. A., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, London, W.

WANTED, at once.—FIRST-CLASS TUNER. Knowledge Players preferred. Other tuners kept. State age, reference, wages. C. F. Hocking, 117-118, Fore Street, Devonport.

YOUNG TUNER WANTED, for district in the North of England. Good knowledge of repairs necessary. State experience and salary required. A. R., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

WANTED, for the North of England, thoroughly experienced REPAIRER and REGULATOR of PIANOS and ORGANS, with a good knowledge of Players and bench repairs. Permanency to suitable man. Apply, Repairer, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

TWO ORGANS, Two Manuals, with Pedals. Superior construction. Suitable for small Churches, &c. Specifications and estimates for Organs on application.—W. E. Richardson & Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE. Various prices. Instruments built for Church or Chamber from £50, on up-to-date principles, at Bedwell & Sons, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

CHURCH ORGANS, built partly with sound, second-hand materials. Inclusive prices, including carriage and erection (if desired), from £200. For particulars, &c., address, Norman & Beard, Ltd., 61, Berners Street, London, W. (Organ Builders to H.M. The King).

FOR SALE.—Lancashire, CHURCH ORGAN. Good mellowed tone. Two Manuals, Pedal Clavier, 17 Speaking Stops, &c. Measures (including case) 12 ft. 4 in. wide, 9 ft. 9 in. deep. 18 ft. high. Delivery when new organ ready in about six months. Price as it stands, £150. Address, J. D., c/o Street's, 30, Cornhill, London.

ORGANS—IMMEDIATE SALE.—Several from 5 to 41 Stops, in thorough order. Good tone and power. Low prices for cash, or deferred payments. Apply, Henry Speechly & Sons, Organ Works, Saint Marks Road, Dalston, N.E.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at Bargain Prices. A 190-guinea Bell, two-manuals and pedals, for 65 guineas; a £180 Karn, two-manuals and pedals, 24 stops, 13 sets; a 60-guinea two-manual Boosey "Evans' Patent" Harmonium, 18 guineas; Karn two-manual and Pedal, stops through, concave radiating pedals, bargain. Several Organs and Harmoniums by Alexandre, Trayser, Debain, &c.; one-third usual price. All guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg & Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

THE POSITIVE ORGAN.—Areal PIPE ORGAN, giving the effects of two manuals and pedals on its single keyboard. Prices from £70. Over 750 supplied. Estimates given for Repairs, Rebuilds, Two- and Three-Manual Organs, &c.
POSITIVE ORGAN Co., Ltd., 44, Mornington Crescent (opposite Tube Station), London, N.W.

O.P.C. ORGAN PEDALS for Pianos. We are makers to Organ Builders and Profession, by whom our goods are pronounced "the only perfect," and we are thrice granted H.M.R.L., for real merit. Write, O.P.C. Works, Brinscall, Chorley.

ORGAN PEDALS, R.C.O., FOR SALE.—Nearly new. Bargain. Radiating and Concave. Piano attachment. Complete with seat. RELIANCE WORKS, Organ Pedal Co., Union Road, Clapham, S.W.

FOR SALE.—A JONES PEDALIER (Case of Piano Wires attached), £10. Stool, 10s. Cost £20. Write, Mrs. Cobb, 2, Blackheath Park, Blackheath, S.E.

FOR SALE.—COPIES OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES" for 27 years, unbound. What offers? Apply, B. H., c/o Novello & Co., Ltd. 160, Wardour Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three-manual Pipe Organ for Practice—good condition; complete set of Couplers; blown by hydraulic engine. 1s. per hour. Hamilton Evans & Co., 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E. (1 minute from Station). Telephone: 693 Sydenham.

WANTED, a Small PIANOFORTE TEACHING CONNECTION, for 2 or 3 days a week, within about thirty miles of Lancaster. Teacher, c/o Novello & Co., Ltd., 160, Wardour Street, W.

TO BE SOLD.—Bound Programmes York Musical Festival, 1835. Names principals, orchestra, f.-s. Signatures Handel, &c. Address, G., 13, Montholme Rd., New Wandsworth, S.W.

COMPETITION.—£4 4s. in cash for the best Song and Pianoforte Piece. Send stamp at once for conditions to the Western Music Publishing Co., 43, Hamilton Road, Southville, Bristol.

CHILD'S MUSIC TUTOR.—Simple and systematic. Sample copy, 9d. post-free. A. Fillingham, A.R.C.M., Crescent, Roundhay, Leeds.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

TO MALE VOCALISTS ONLY.

In his physiological researches conducted for many years past, the advertiser has discovered an exceedingly simple method of treatment by water only, which improves and preserves the tone, strength, and clearness of the voice to old age.
Ample physiological explanation fully given—everything explained.
Vocalist, Naduvatum, Nilgiris, South India.

FOUR HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR PAGES.

ORGANS AND TUNING

By THOMAS ELLISTON.

This work having now reached three times the size of the original edition, the price has necessarily been advanced to Six Shillings, net cash. Postage, 4d. extra.
Weekes & Co., 14, Hanover Street, London W.
Marten & Son, 17, Market Hill, Sudbury, Suffolk.

ESTABLISHED 1750.

Telephone: 1788 P.O. Hampstead. Telegrams: "Cantabile, London."

GRAY & DAVISON,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PRATT STREET, N.W.

48, SOUTHFIELD ROAD, OXFORD.
128, HOLT ROAD, LIVERPOOL.

Specifications, Estimates, and Designs free of charge.

MESSRS. NOVELLO & Co., LTD., beg to announce that they have acquired the copyright of the following

COMPOSITIONS BY

SIR EDWARD ELGAR.

VIRELAI

Violin and Pianoforte	2s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 0d.

PASTOURELLE

Violin and Pianoforte	2s. 0d.
Pianoforte Solo	2s. 0d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES
FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	...	...	...	Part	1
2.*	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
3.	SCALES	...	...	...	Part	1
4.	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	...	...	...	Part	1
6.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
7.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	3
8.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	4
9.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	5
10.	LEFT HAND	...	...	...	Part	1
11.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
12.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	3
13.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	4
14.*	ARPEGGIO	...	...	...	Part	1
15.	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
16.	,,	...	...	...	,,	3
17.	VELOCITY	...	...	...	Part	1
18.	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
19.	,,	...	...	...	,,	3
20.	,,	...	...	...	,,	4
21.	,,	...	...	...	,,	5
22.	,,	...	...	...	,,	6
23.	,,	...	...	...	,,	7
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	...	...	Part	1
25.*	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	...	...	...	Part	1
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	...	...	...	,,	2
28.	SHAKES	...	...	...	Part	1
29.	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
30.	,,	...	...	...	,,	3
31.	DOUBLE NOTES	...	...	...	Part	1
32.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
33.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	3
34.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	4
35.	OCTAVES	...	...	...	Part	1
36.*	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
37.	CHORDS	...	...	...	Part	1
38.	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
39.*	STACCATO
40.	REPETITION	...	...	...	Part	1
41.*	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	...	...	...	,,	2
42.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	3
43.*	PART-PLAYING	...	...	...	Part	1
44.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
45.*	ORNAMENTS	...	...	...	Part	1
46.	,,	...	...	...	,,	2
47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	...	...	Part	1
48.	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	...	...	Part	1
50.*	,,	,,	...	...	,,	2
51.	RHYTHM	...	...	...	Part	1
52.*	,,	...	...	...	,,	2

53. EXERCISES FOR THE WEAKER FINGERS. By J. A. O'NEILL.

54. WRIST STUDIES (Handgelenksübungen). By ARNOLD KRUG.

55. EXERCISES FOR FACILITATING INDEPENDENCE OF THE FINGERS (Übungen für die Selbständigkeit der Finger). By ARNOLD KRUG.

56. PRELIMINARY STUDIES IN PLAYING POLYPHONIC MUSIC (Vorübungen für das polyphone Spiel). By ARNOLD KRUG.

* These Books contain Studies composed by Mr. Franklin Taylor specially for this Series.

FIFTY-SIX BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

FROM THE ABOVE:

SELECTED PIANOFORTE STUDIES

PROGRESSIVELY ARRANGED BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

IN TWO SETS (EIGHT BOOKS), PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH BOOK.

THE present collection of Studies is designed to provide teachers with a short course of Pianoforte Technique adapted to the needs of the average pupil, the intention being to spare the teacher the labour of choosing a sufficiently varied selection from the large mass of material existing, and at the same time to ensure that the different departments of technique shall be undertaken in the order which experience has proved to be the most beneficial.

The Studies are grouped in two Sets, and are so arranged that the different Books in which they are contained may be taken in consecutive order, but pupils who are already further advanced than the elementary stage represented by Set I. may commence at once with Set II., which will be found to be complete in itself, and to illustrate all the essential elements of technique.

Where additional studies are desired, or studies on certain subjects which are not touched upon in this series, the larger collection, published under the title of "Progressive Studies" (from which the present examples have been selected), is of course available.

LONDON : NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(INSTITUTED 1872.)

Chairman of Board:

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O., M.A., MUS.D.

Director of Studies: G. E. BAMBRIDGE, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M.

Director of Examinations: C. W. PEARCE, MUS.D.

MICHAELMAS TERM begins SEPTEMBER 25.

The College provides Instruction and Training in all Musical Subjects.

Both Amateur and Professional Students are received for the Course or for Single Subjects. The lessons can be arranged for day or evening times.

Approved Complete Courses for the University of London Degrees in Music under recognised Teachers of the University. Also preparation for the degrees of other Universities, the Royal College of Organists' examinations, &c.

Students of the College are entitled to attend the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes without additional fee.

Special Subjects: Pianoforte Technique, Elocution, and the Art of Teaching Music; also Lectures on Musical History, &c.

The Operatic Class is open to outside as well as College students. There is also a Class for Training Boys for Cathedral Choirs.

Tuition in the Rudiments of the Theory of Music, Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Instrumentation, Composition, and the Art of Teaching is also given by Correspondence.

Students are admitted to the Junior School up to 16 years of age.

Thirty Open Scholarships are annually awarded, and in addition there are eighteen Scholarships open to Matriculated students of the University of London only, which provide complete instruction in preparation for the degree of Bachelor of Music of that University.

Particulars of the Teaching Department, with list of Professors, Fees, &c., of Scholarships, and the Syllabuses of the Higher and Local Examinations, on application to the undersigned.

By order, SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, London, W.

BIRMINGHAM

FESTIVAL NOVELTIES

(In the Press).

THE MUSIC MAKERS

ODE

BY

ARTHUR O'SHAUGHNESSY

SET TO MUSIC

FOR

CONTRALTO SOLO, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 69.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Paper Boards, 3s.; Vocal Parts, 1s. each; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

FIFINE AT THE FAIR

(A Defence of Inconstancy.)

AN ORCHESTRAL DRAMA

With a Prologue

(AFTER BROWNING.)

COMPOSED BY

GRANVILLE BANTOCK.

MINIATURE SCORE.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BROADWOOD PLAYER-PIANOS

GRANDS AND UPRIGHTS.

THE MOST SENSITIVE PLAYERS ON THE MARKET.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

JOHN BROADWOOD & SONS, LTD.,
CONDUIT STREET, LONDON, W.

THE SHAKESPEARE AND MUSIC BIRTHDAY BOOK

BY

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, C.V.O.

This unique book should be in the possession of all lovers of Poetry and Music, and should be especially appreciated by those music-lovers who wish to possess the autographs of musicians, each "day" being furnished not only with a charming musical quotation from our greatest poet, but also with a stave on which may be written a few bars of music.

Incidentally, it may be pointed out that the book has a persuasively educational value, in that each quotation appears in the original English and also in an idiomatic German translation.

It is one of the best possible gifts for musical young people.

	s.	d.
Illustrated Parchment Covers	3	0	net.
Red Cloth, Gilt Edges	4	6	,,
White and Gold Covers, Gilt Edges ...	5	0	,,
Leather Binding, Gilt Edges	7	6	,,

(Post-free.)

BOSWORTH & CO.,

17, HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON, W.

And at LEIPSIC, VIENNA, PARIS, ZÜRICH, and NEW YORK.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.—ASSOCIATE (A.R.C.O.) AND FELLOWSHIP (F.R.C.O.) EXAMINATIONS, JANUARY, 1913.

The following TEST-PIECES are chosen for the above Examinations, and can be supplied by Messrs. NOVELLO & Co., Ltd.:—

ASSOCIATE EXAMINATION.	Net s.	d.
BACH, J. S.—Choral Prelude, "Nun danket alle Gott" (Edited by J. Pointer, Book 14)	3	0
BACH, J. S.—Prelude in G minor (Edited by Bridge & Higgs, Book 8, page 120)	3	0
BACH, J. S.—Sonata in C (Edited by Bridge & Higgs, Book 5, page 134)	3	0
MACPHERSON, C.—Fantasy Prelude (Recital Series, No. 21) ..	2	0
SMART, HENRY.—Three-part Study (Smart's Original Compositions, No. 27)	1	0
PARRY, C. H. H.—Choral Preludes, No. 7 (St. Ann's)	3	0
MENDELSSOHN.—Prelude and Fugue in D minor	1	0
RHEINBERGER, J.—Sonata No. 10, Op. 146..	4	0
SILAS, E.—Allegro moderato (Silas's Original Compositions, No. 1)	1	0
REGER, MAX.—Choral-Vorspiele (Op. 67) (Book 1, Nos. 10 and 12)	3	0
FELLOWSHIP EXAMINATION.
MOZART.—Larghetto from Quintett (No. 20, W. T. Best's Organ Arrangements)	2	0
BACH, J. S.—Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor (Edited by Bridge & Higgs, Book 10)	3	0
KARG-ELERT, S.—Harmonies du Soir (Original Compositions, No. 403)	1	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

The Musical Times
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
SEPTEMBER 1, 1912.

JULES MASSENET.

By M.-D. Calvocoressi.

By the death of Jules* Massenet, which occurred on August 14, France loses her most popular and, besides Dr. Saint-Saëns, most famous composer—a composer on whose actual merits, perhaps, exacting critics do not agree, but whose career may well be described as an almost uninterrupted series of successes.

Jules Massenet was born, May 12, 1842, at Montaud, then a suburb of Saint-Etienne, the great manufacturing city of the centre of France—the youngest of twenty-one children. His biographers relate many more or less romantic anecdotes showing his early propensity for music; telling us, for instance, how his keen desire to study the art impelled him to escape from home with the intention of going to Paris and the hope of finding there the suitable teacher whom he had vainly sought for in Saint-Etienne. His father, a manufacturer ruined by the Revolution of 1848, left Montaud for Paris, and there the boy became, in 1851, a pupil of the Conservatoire, studying the pianoforte in Laurent's class and winning the first prize in 1859. He began to learn harmony with Bazin in 1853; but after this master (a poor musician and poor teacher) had discouraged him, he became a pupil of Reber. In 1860 he entered Ambroise Thomas's class of composition, and in 1863 he won the first prize for fugue and the Grand Prix de Rome. His first works were principally songs and short pianoforte-pieces, orchestral suites of facile and unpretentious style, a short opera-comique in one act, 'La Grand Tante' (produced in Paris, 1867), and a 'Requiem' (unpublished). In 1868 he made the acquaintance of the publisher, Georges Hartmann, who from the very outset had faith in him and greatly assisted him during the first stages of his career.

Massenet's first ambitious work, the opéra-comique in four acts, 'Don César de Bazan' (Paris, 1872), was an absolute failure. But in 1873 the young composer scored two decisive successes with the incidental music to Leconte de Lisle's tragedy, 'Les Erynnies,' and with the dramatic oratorio, 'Marie-Magdeleine,' both of which were performed at the Théâtre de l'Odéon. As early as 1876 he was decorated with the Légion d'Honneur. In 1877, 'Le Roi de Lahore,' one of his best operatic scores (although comparatively little known), was produced at the Paris Opéra; the following year he was elected professor of composition at the Paris Conservatoire and member of the Institut, thus succeeding his former teacher and vituperator François Bazin.† Since then, and until the end of his life, honours, fame and fortune came to him in profusion. The absolute failure of a comparatively great quantity of his works passed unperceived under the favour of several radiant and protracted triumphs, the most memorable of which are those of 'Manon' (Paris, Opéra-Comique, 1884), 'Werther' (Vienna, 1892; Paris, Opéra-Comique, 1893), and 'Thaïs' (Paris, Opéra, 1894). 'Esclarmonde,' which, when produced in 1889 at the Opéra-Comique, had a very satisfactory run of performances, has never since been revived.

Massenet has certainly been one of the most prolific of French composers. He has written no less than twenty-four operas or opéra-comiques (three of which, 'Panurge,' 'Amadis,' and 'Cléopâtre,' are as yet unknown, but, we are told, are ready for publication), incidental music for several plays, pianoforte pieces, a great quantity of songs, choruses, and a few specimens of church-music. Besides 'Marie-Magdeleine,' he has composed the oratorios 'Eve' (1875), 'La Vierge' (1880), 'La Terre Promise' (1900), and the lyric scenes, 'Narcisse' (1878), and 'Biblis' (1887). His instrumental music is neither very abundant nor very pregnant, consisting chiefly of picturesque suites and other minor works. He never attempted to deal with the more earnest types of instrumental forms except once, and this attempt (a Pianoforte concerto written in 1903) was pronounced a failure even by his most enthusiastic devotees.

The last opera of his performed during his lifetime, 'Roma' (Paris, Opéra, 1911), is also an isolated and not particularly felicitous attempt towards classical severity and grandeur.

'Massenet's prolonged and widespread success,' says Mr. Fuller Maitland in 'Grove's Dictionary,' 'is one of the puzzling phenomena of modern musical history. While those who look a little below the surface find his music inexpressibly monotonous, casual hearers are surprised by his superficial versatility . . . few of the real lovers of music will expect any of his works to remain among the compositions that keep their popularity after the death of the author.'

Harsh as it may appear, I believe this verdict to be a sound one. The chief idiosyncrasy of Massenet, as a man and as an artist, was an overwhelming desire to court success. His object was to seduce; and from the time when he found that his music proved effective and became popular he carefully avoided changing his manner. The characteristic melody 'à la Massenet,' graceful and elegant enough, but almost stereotyped, runs through all his scores, doing duty for Manon and Thaïs alike, for Roman Vestal or for gay Spanish lady, for dreamy German maiden and for haughty princess of yore. His early scores are, for the greater part, his best, with the one exception of the very pleasing and chaste 'Jongleur de Nôtre-Dame' (1902). Later, and for the plain reason that he never attempted to renovate his style, he sank into sheer mannerism. Indeed, one can but marvel that so gifted a musician, who lacked neither individuality

* In spite of the composer's known antipathy to the name Jules, we think it best to use the name by which he was widely known. He preferred to be called 'M. Massenet' simply.

† At that election, Dr. Saint-Saëns was his unsuccessful competitor.

nor skill, should have so utterly succeeded in throwing away his gifts. Success spoiled him. As M. Claude Debussy once humorously remarked, 'he fell a victim to the butterfly-play of fascinating lady admirers.' Hence the monotony of works in the greater part of which he sedulously resorts to his favourite never-failing devices. Hence, also, the 'superficial versatility.' For if the actual progress of musical art during the past forty years left Massenet unmoved (and indeed he has taken no part in the evolution of modern music), the success of certain works appears to have influenced him not inconsiderably, inducing him to attempt a number of changes in manner if not in style. Thus, at a time when Wagner's dramas were becoming the order of the day in Paris, he wrote 'Esclarmonde,' in which the example of 'Lohengrin' is easily traceable. The popularity of Italian 'veristic' opera helps to account for the appearance in 1894 of 'La Navarraise,' and in 1897 of 'Sapho'; and Humperdinck's 'Hänsel und Gretel' seems to have prompted him to write 'Cendrillon' (1899).

The earnest ideals, the thirst for progress that are inseparable from genius remained unknown to him. He directed his ambitions towards a less distant goal. He wrote for his time, and his time has repaid his labours well, as appears from the history of his life and deeds. Avoiding arduous roads, well satisfied with what was within his grasp, he remained untormented by doubt or by longing. As a man he was not only kind, but courteous and eager to court favour, lavish in praise upon all young composers or artists who came into contact with him.

He held the position of Professor of Composition at the Paris Conservatoire until 1896, his principal pupils being Alfred Bruneau, Gustave Charpentier, Gabriel Pierné, Xavier Leroux, Paul Vidal, Georges Marty, Lucien Hillemacher, and Augustin Savard.

He can hardly be said to have exercised a wholesome influence as a teacher, and generally speaking, such of his pupils as have displayed more than ordinary merits as composers did not follow his example. In the works of M. Alfred Bruneau, for instance, no trace of Massenet's methods is to be found, except for a few melodic mannerisms. Not even as much remains in those of M. Pierné or M. Savard.

In addition to the works mentioned above, Massenet wrote the following: 'Bérangère et Anatole' (1876), 'Hérodiade' (1881; London Opera House, 1911), 'Le Cid' (1885), 'Le Mage' (1891), 'Le Carillon' (1892), 'Grisélidis' (1901), 'Chérubin' (1905), 'Ariane' (1906), 'Bacchus' (1909), 'Don Quichotte' (1910; London Opera House, 1912).

The funeral of M. Massenet took place at Egreville on August 17, and in accordance with the composer's wishes, was simple in character. Only members of the family were invited. Wreaths were sent by the Prince of Monaco, M. Gunsbourg (director of the Monte Carlo Opera), and by M. Carré (for the Opéra-Comique).

'THE MUSIC MAKERS,' BY EDWARD ELGAR.

Elgar's new work, 'The Music Makers'—a setting for contralto solo, chorus and orchestra, of Arthur O'Shaughnessy's* poem 'We are the Music Makers'—is interesting and welcome not only for the fine musical expression that abounds in it, but for certain very effective innovations in the matter of structure.

The 'motif' of O'Shaughnessy's poem is the idea that the poets—the music makers and dreamers—are really the creators and inspirers of men and their deeds, and the true makers of history and of human societies. Their dreams and their visions are the foreshadowings of what the rest of mankind are predestined to work out in endless conflict: to-day is the realisation of a dream of the generations past; to-morrow will bring into being the dream of to-day:

> We are the music makers,
> And we are the dreamers of dreams,
> Wandering by lone sea-breakers,
> And sitting by desolate streams;—
> World-losers and world-forsakers,
> On whom the pale moon gleams:
> Yet we are the movers and shakers
> Of the world for ever, it seems.

Cities and empires, and the death of empires, are their work: Nineveh was built with their sighing, and Babel with their mirth:

> For each age is a dream that is dying,
> Or one that is coming to birth.

Soldier, king, and peasant are their instruments 'working together in one':

> Till our dream shall become their present,
> And their work in the world be done.

These have no knowledge of the work they are doing; it lies alone in some man's dream, whose words kindle flame in men's hearts. The poet conceives and shapes: the busy, striving multitudes merely bring to pass:

> But we, with our dreaming and singing,
> Ceaseless and sorrowless we!
> The glory about us clinging
> Of the glorious futures we see,
> Our souls with high music ringing:
> O men! it must ever be
> That we dwell, in our dreaming and singing,
> A little apart from ye.
>
> For we are afar with the dawning
> And the suns that are not yet high,
> And out of the infinite morning
> Intrepid you hear us cry—
> How, spite of your human scorning,
> Once more God's future draws nigh,
> And already goes forth the warning
> That ye of the past must die.

The poet hails the 'comers from the dazzling unknown shore,' bidding them renew the old world with the dreams of what is to be:

---

* Arthur O'Shaughnessy (14 March, 1844—30 Jan., 1881) spent the outer portion of his short life, from the age of seventeen, in the service of the Library and the Natural History Department of the British Museum. His inner life is expressed in four volumes of verse—the 'Epic of Woman' (1870), 'Lays of France' (1872), 'Music and Moonlight' (1874), and 'Songs of a Worker' (published posthumously in 1881). For a critical appraisement of him the reader may be referred to the article in the new edition of the 'Encyclopædia Britannica.'

You shall teach us your song's new numbers,
And things that we dreamed not before:
Yea, in spite of a dreamer who slumbers,
And a singer who sings no more.

The composer, as he tells us in an introductory note, has interpreted O'Shaughnessy's Ode broadly, including among these creative dreamers and seers 'not only poets and singers, but all artists who feel the tremendous responsibility of their mission to "renew the world."' Artistic creation, as so many of the great artists have told us, is a process of sorrowful spiritual birth. Elgar speaks of the changing moods of his music to the poem—'moods which the creative artist suffers in creating or in contemplating the unending influence of his creation. Yes, suffers; this is the only word I dare to use, for even the highest ecstasy of "making," is mixed with the consciousness of the sombre dignity of the eternity of the artist's responsibility.' Hence the atmosphere of the music is mainly sad, though there are enthusiastic, joyous, and even frenzied moments.

While the bulk of the music is new, the composer has made apposite and eloquent use of themes from other works of his, and of phrases of 'The Marseillaise' and 'Rule, Britannia.' The theme of the 'Enigma' Variations is used more than once, the composer's reason being that 'it expressed when written (in 1898) my sense of the loneliness of the artist as described in the first six lines of the Ode, and, to me, it still embodies that sense. At the end of the full score of the Variations, I wrote: '"Bramo assai, poco spero, nulla chieggio (Tasso)." This was true in 1898, and might be written with equal truth at the end of this work in 1912.'

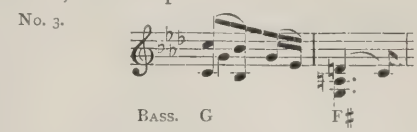
Finally he says: 'The mainspring of O'Shaughnessy's Ode is the sense of progress, of never-ceasing change; it is the duty of the artist to see that this inevitable change is progress. With a deep sense of this trust, I have endeavoured to interpret the Ode as shewing the continuity of art, "in spite of a dreamer who slumbers, And a singer who sings no more."'

The work commences with an orchestral prelude. The first theme, which is frequently wrought into the later tissue, is of a passionate and troubled character:

In some of its later statements it undergoes a change of mood, but in the main it may be taken as symbolising the sadness and spiritual unrest that the composer associates with the artist and his creative gift.

It is immediately followed by a second theme:

which, with its pendant:



is also associated with the poet's mission, but, as the melody will indicate, with the more consoling and hopeful aspect of this. Whereas No. 1 is always used in the form of an orchestral commentary, Nos. 2 and 3 are sung by the solo voice to various words, besides being heard in the orchestra as accompaniment to certain choruses.

After No. 3 has risen to a climax and died away again, the 'Enigma' theme is heard singing in the 'celli and violas (affrettando):

its development being interspersed with snatches of No. 1. The turmoil of the music is gradually tranquillised; and after a quiet ending to the prelude, the chorus strikes in softly with the first lines of the poem:

At the word 'dreams' the orchestra breathes gently the theme with which the 'Dream of Gerontius' opens :

No. 5a.

while the two succeeding lines of the chorus (quoted above) are orchestrally accompanied at 'sea-breakers' by a quotation from the music of one of the 'Sea-Pictures,' and followed by a soft and expressive echo of the 'Enigma' theme.

The contemplative mood of the chorus is maintained in the two next lines, but at the words 'Yet we are the movers and shakers Of the world . . .' the expression hardens, and the music culminates in an fff outburst for the voices, accompanied by a theme in the orchestra :

No. 6. Allargando.

that is occasionally used later as a symbol of power.

Once more, however, the mood becomes tinged with sadness : the 'Enigma' theme steals in again towards the end of the stanza, and is followed once more by No. 1.

The lines that follow describe the building of great cities and glorious empires by the might of the poet's dreams. They are mostly set to vigorous choral music (allegro, con fuoco), the rhythm, and occasionally the melodies, suggesting those of the original 'Music Makers' theme (No. 5). Both No. 1 and No. 6 are worked into the orchestral tissue at different times.

The words :

> And three with a new song's measure
> Can trample a kingdom down.

are accompanied by a mighty passage in contrary motion (fff), the upper melody being written in a whole-tone scale :

No. 7. stringendo molto.

(The same phrase is twice again used as a sort of leitmotive of mortality,—at the words 'And o'erthrew them with prophesying,' and 'Ye of the past must die.')

During this chorus the opening phrases of 'Rule, Britannia' and 'The Marseillaise' are given out with great effect by the orchestra, pointing certain morals in the words.

The succeeding lines :

> We, in the ages lying
> In the buried past of the earth,
> Built Nineveh with our sighing,
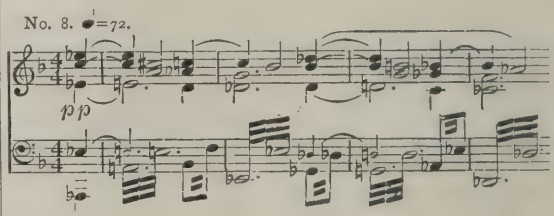
> And Babel itself in our mirth, are set spiritedly and characteristically, the words 'And o'erthrew them' being accompanied, as already remarked, by No. 7. It is impossible to illustrate this part of the work by quotation, or the free and flexible choral writing in the succeeding stanza.

The meditative mood of the commencement comes uppermost again with a return of No. 1, and the chorus strikes in once more with a slightly modified version of what may be called its 'motto' theme (No. 5).

The setting of the lines immediately following, still lauding the creative power of the poets and music-makers, is again too varied for either quotation or detailed analysis. (The first part is largely founded on the themes quoted as No. 2 and No. 3). Mention must be made, however, of a striking choral and orchestral passage at the words 'Unearthly, impossible seeming' : it figures thus in the orchestral part :

No. 8. ♩=72.



This theme is put to expressive use in the final pages of the Ode.

At the words :

> They * had no vision amazing
> Of the goodly house they were raising, the solo contralto takes up the thought, mostly to the strain of Nos. 2 and 3. Then comes one of the most moving moments in the work.

The composer has not hesitated, here and there, to reinforce the general ideas of the poem by associating them with particular instances. Here, at the words :

> But on one man's soul it hath broken,
> A light that doth not depart ;
> And his look, or a word he hath spoken,
> Wrought flame in another man's heart,

* i.e., Soldiers, kings, peasants, and other of the world's workers.

he makes a pointed and eloquent reference to his old friend A. J. Jaeger: the noble 'Nimrod' Variation is given to soloist, chorus and orchestra, the melody merging imperceptibly into a theme from the Finale of the second Symphony that has always been a joy to many of us:

In the succeeding stanzas the poet again describes the realisation of the music makers' dreams in human life, and the setting is appropriately strong and animated. Prominent in the tissue is a typical Elgarian theme that is afterwards employed several times to symbolise the fulfilling of the dream:

In the midst of the working out of these bold ideas the chorus twice interjects effectively its original 'music makers' theme (No. 5).

A re-entry of the passionate, unrestful No. 1, followed by No. 8, recalls us to the main mood of the Ode; and during the following chorus, with the words (quoted above) commencing:

But we, with our dreaming and singing,

we have another reminder of the sadness of the artist's mission, the orchestra giving out a quiet reminiscence of the 'Enigma' theme. The thought at this point,—that the artist and dreamer must by his nature be 'a little apart' from the mass of men—is given further point by two quiet quotations from the Violin concerto:

The lines:

For we are afar with the dawning,
And the suns that are not yet high,
And out of the infinite morning
Intrepid you hear us cry—

begin on the pattern of the original 'artists'' theme (No. 5), but culminate in an exultant cry to the strain of the main theme of the first Symphony:*

The troubled theme of the commencement (No. 1), when it recurs at this point, also takes on a sort of fiery exultation. The main 'artists'' theme (No. 5) is naturally the foundation of the lines:

And already goes forth the warning
That ye of the past must die,

though there is a pause and a sudden hush at the last two words, followed by the ghostly downward-trailing line of the theme quoted as No. 7,—now, of course, pianissimo.

Then the contralto takes up the strain again. Apart from a burst of enthusiasm at the

* These quotations from earlier works necessarily occupy a prominent space in this analysis, but the reader must be warned against thinking that they form anything more than episodes in the work as a whole. The great bulk of the music is quite new.

commencement, her music is couched in a mood mostly quiet and thoughtful. The words:

Bring us hither your sun and your summers,
And renew our world as of yore;
You shall teach us your song's new numbers,
And things that we dreamed not before: &c., have as their thematic basis the themes quoted as Nos. 2 and 3. The chorus strikes in with the words:

O men! it must ever be
That we dwell, in our dreaming and singing,
A little apart from ye, and soloist and chorus jointly develop these ideas at some length. Then we reach the final lines of the poem. The tempo changes to molto lento, and the soloist sings the words:

Yea, in spite of a dreamer who slumbers,
And a singer who sings no more, to the grave melody shown as No. 8, while the orchestra answers with the 'Novissima hora' theme from 'Gerontius.' The following quotation takes up the melody at the point where it ceases in No. 8, and shows the exquisite aptness of the 'Gerontius' citation:

No. 14.

The chorus mournfully echoes the words 'no more,' and the orchestra steals in with the gray-tinged theme quoted as No. 1. The 'Gerontius' theme is again dwelt upon impressively for a moment; then the chorus brings the work to a solemn and barely perceptible end with the softest of reminiscences of the opening words—'We are the music makers,' &c., sung to its original setting (No. 5).

Ernest Newman.

['The Music Makers' will be performed for the first time, on Tuesday evening, October 1, at the Birmingham Musical Festival. Sir Edward Elgar will conduct, and Miss Muriel Foster will sing the alto solo part.

Mr. C. H. Moody, organist of Ripon Cathedral, has been appointed conductor of the Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the country.

THE FUTURE OF CHAMBER-MUSIC.

By Rutland Boughton.

I.

Of late years it has been a subject for frequent comment that chamber-music has ceased to develop. From Haydn to Tchaikovsky it grew side by side with the symphony; all the great symphonists were also writers of string quartets and pianoforte trios; their powerful emotions were expressed in full orchestral colour, their more intimate emotions in the delicate tints of the string quartet and its congeners. But then comes a distinct pause in chamber-music. The symphonic tree sends out all sorts of fresh branches in the form of symphonic-poem and choral symphony; and the same broadly-sweeping instrumental spirit spreads itself into the domain of opera, for in the works of Wagner more especially we are faced with a musical development which is as symphonic as it is dramatic. When Wagner declared that the incorporation of words with the symphonic-form had sounded the death-knell of the symphony as it was then known, he was much derided; and to this day wiseacres are not wanting to point out that Brahms and others have since written valuable music in that same form. But great minds intent on an obvious main principle are no sticklers for details of exception, and Wagner's dogma is sufficiently substantiated by the facts as they stand. From Haydn to Beethoven the symphony developed as a form. No symphony written since Beethoven offers any further constructive development in the same direction. Brahms, the most perfect of the post-Beethoven symphonists, gets no further than the systematised four movements, with their orthodox details of first and second subjects, free fantasia, and the rest; and in the others the disintegration of the symphonic-form, already present in the later works of Beethoven, proceeds with considerable rapidity. Liszt, Berlioz, Tchaikovsky, and Richard Strauss deal with the form in such a way that the title ceases to have any meaning. Tchaikovsky, least heterodox of the four, writes works which might as fitly be called French overtures or suites (in the Bach sense) as symphonies (in the Beethoven sense). It is not necessary to labour the point; nor, indeed, need it have been referred to at all, if some quite unnecessary dust had not been raised in anti-Wagnerian quarters with a view to discrediting the dramatic values, as opposed to the purely sensuous values, of music. This fact stands out clearly: that in making music the more ready vehicle for expression of human feeling, Beethoven was obliged to violate the formulas of sonata or symphony-form; and as he dealt more completely with emotional expression, so did he find himself getting nearer and nearer to the realm of definite external thought, until he made that colossal experiment of uniting the symphonic-form with the definite intellectual concepts of poetic art. Personally, I think Wagner was right in regarding the ninth symphony as the end of 'pure music.' That Beethoven proceeded thereafter to write another ordinary symphony proves nothing. From the point of view of orchestral development both the fourth and the eighth symphonies are reactions. As the fourth symphony was to the third, and the eighth to the seventh, so the tenth might have been to the ninth. Such speculation helps in no way to an understanding of those inner emotional forces which cause the normal growth of the form in Beethoven's hands to become increasingly plastic, responding as to its shape more and more readily to the growing emotional demands of Beethoven's nature. And just to this plasticity no later symphonist has contributed one jot. Whatever of true symphonic development exists to-day occurs in the symphonic-poem and the music-drama. The 'Heldenleben' of Strauss and the second act of 'Tristan' are in the direct line of symphonic descent. Such music is as clearly evolved from the symphonies of Beethoven as they in turn were derived from the Suite of dances. Whatever is good and permanent in the work of the symphonists from Haydn and Strauss, derives not from the conventional form but from the association of that form with life itself—with the desire to find a means of expression for the varying tides of human feeling and imagination. Under the stress of that desire the form undergoes many modifications of shape according to the informing spirit; but such variation no more cuts off the living art from its ancestral line than variations of feature and physique deprive a child of its forefathers.

II.

But while the symphonic tree has been developing luxuriant branches in the form of symphonic-drama, choral symphony, and music-drama, chamber-music has remained at a standstill. As pure lyrical expressions the chamber-works of Brahms, Dvorák, and Tchaikovsky are valuable; but they open out no fresh vistas. As expressions of living feeling they are, if we care to face the facts, less vital than the later quartets of Beethoven. He, the last of the writers of great chamber-music, here as elsewhere intent upon the problem of making an abstract art a factor in everyday life, necessarily developed the form of the string quartet according to his momentary need for emotional expression. If we compare his quartets with his symphonies, we find that whereas both have their origin in the sonata, each undergoes a different method of development, until ultimately the smaller and intimate form diverges from the original stock much more definitely even than does the symphony. The later Beethoven symphonies, notwithstanding all their growth and eccentricity, are much nearer to the statuesque symphonic-form of Mozart than are the later Beethoven quartets to Mozart's chamber-music. But while Wagner and Strauss have carried the symphony into new spheres, nearly all the post-Beethoven quartet writers are reactionaries, and nearer to Mozart in spirit and in form than to the works which immediately preceded them. Grieg, Smetana, and Debussy have added variety to the delicate colouring of the string quartet, but no composer has been moved from within to make a more living and real thing of the form itself. The form has, for the time being, become definitely crystallized; and this indicates either that the need of chamber-music no longer exists, or that whatever need there be is a thing apart from the life of to-day. Now this may be a good thing or a bad thing; in either case it is worth understanding. We should not allow the most delicate and refined form of music to pass from us without knowing the reason.

What chamber-music is we may learn from its name. It is the music of home and intimacy. That realised, we may understand part (at any rate) of the reason for its decadence. Men and women live less at home than they did of old; consequently emotion is more general, less intimate. The delicate and subtle shades of feeling which generated the chamber-music of the 18th century are not so easily available for the modern composer.

Nevertheless, through the coarse fibre of the present age there runs a strong, noble thread of gold, which will probably bind the whole modern life with the spirit of loveliness. The passion of Whitman and Swinburne, the mighty force of Wagner and Strauss, the mystic visions of Watts and the blatant vulgarity of Manet—all these are fitting revelations of the modern world; and they bear with them the power to weld this fierce struggling life into a thing greater than the world has ever known before. But the more completely the value of beauty is recognised in the world we are making, the more surely will each individual soul sink in upon itself, and in the repose of comparative loneliness find a refining power wherewith to counteract the coarsening, and even brutalising, influences of mob-thought. Every great artist has a holy love for little things. The fierce Swinburne of the 'Songs before Sunrise' melts to reverence in his 'Baby Songs.' The rough stormy Wagner of 'The Ride of the Valkyries' becomes quiet and tender in the 'Siegfried Idyll.' The sky-raptured Watts settles into childlike humour in 'Good luck to your fishing.' And while the mighty, violent spirit of these times prefers, as it ought, a mighty, violent art, the day cannot be far distant when strength of passion will be accounted dangerous unless it be balanced by strength of restraint, and the valour of strife despicable unless it can pass into the valour of peace. If restraint and peace have not the exhilaration and glory of the storm, they have subtle beauties for which sooner or later the stormiest souls will most thirst. And such intimacy, delicacy, and subtlety are to be best expressed in chamber-music. The union of a few intimate friends in the seclusion of an ordinary home can rise to its most perfect rapture in the string quartet. It is a kind of music which sounds thin and vapid in a concert-hall. However full a tone the players obtain they are at a disadvantage in a room comfortably seating more than a hundred persons. Indeed, if the music is to have that degree of intimacy which it needs, it will be given in an ordinary room where people regularly live. That will mean rather more carpets and curtains than in a concert-hall, so that a room smaller even than the one already indicated will be no disadvantage. The players should never need to give the sense of striving to make tone. They must always deal with soft rather than loud effects. To see four players of stringed instruments leads one to expect only a small volume of sound. A roughness of bowing, which may be well enough, and even occasionally necessary, in the orchestra, is incompatible with the refinement of chamber-music. The timbre resulting from the easy, unforced emotional playing of a few fiddlers in a comparatively small room has a spiritual quality which can be heard under no other circumstances; and if that refinement be missing the whole raison d'être of the thing has gone. It was entirely missing from the last much-belauded performances of the Joachim Quartet in the old St. James's Hall. But since those days a new era has been inaugurated. The Broadwood Concerts, the Wessely, Walenn, Motto, London, Catteral, and other quartets are on the move. No one will accuse these bodies of being intent on the commercial side of things. String-quartet playing does not pay; consequently only the finest artists take it up. But the mere playing of a few established quartets will not rekindle the embers of this form of music. The two main things to be fostered are frequent performances in thousands of homes by students and amateurs, and a new development of the art-form itself as the æsthetic needs of the time may suggest. The first of these is, I think, already to be noticed; the second has yet to be considered.

III.

We have seen that although Beethoven in his Symphonies afforded new vantage ground for Wagner and Strauss, he was the last writer of chamber-music to develop the quartet-form to any degree worth consideration. We have also seen that his development of the intimate art was if anything more far-reaching than his development of the symphony; and that every divergence from the sonata formula was due to a greater intensity of feeling consequent upon the art being fertilized by definite external thoughts. But there is this great difference between his work in these separate spheres: to the symphony he brought the suggestiveness of title and programme, and finally the clarifying influence of poetry; the quartet he left in the comparative dusk of pure music. The forms of the final quartets are obviously dictated by the exigencies of thoughts which music by itself is powerless to reveal; but he gives us only one or two indications of the inspirational ideas, and never does he indicate the musical scheme by the sure-pointing finger of the poet. In the beginning was the word, and so long as man has intellect as well as feeling, so long will he demand the word to feed his brain even as music feeds his heart. By means of the written word Liszt, Berlioz, and Strauss have given the symphonic spirit a new life of its own; by means of the sung word Wagner has caused the symphonic spirit to serve our spiritual needs as never did art before it —unless, perhaps, we except the drama of the Greeks.

Now what has been done with orchestral art can be done with chamber-music. So I suggest the following lines of development for those musicians who would preserve the most subtle and delicate fragrance of their art:

1. To associate the forms of chamber-music, and especially the string quartet, with definite ideas laid down by title or emotional programme—to write, in fact, tone-poems for concerted music in the chamber. The ideas chosen for association must of course have that quality of intimacy and subtlety which will render them appropriate. Dr. Walford Davies has done something of this sort in his 'Peter Pan' Suite. The nursery is part of that domestic life for which chamber-music can do much; which parenthetically suggests that Strauss's 'Sinfonia Domestica' had more fittingly been conceived as a Quartetto Domestico! But the matter can be carried much further, and into more spiritual and less fantastic paths.

2. To give to chamber-music vocal and even (in a quiet way) dramatic value. The only works of this kind known to me are Dr. Walford Davies's 'Prospice,' for baritone and string quartet; the same composer's Pastorals for vocal quartet, string quartet and pianoforte; and two dramatic works of my own—'The Chapel in Lyonesse,' for three voices, string quartet, and pianoforte, and 'The Daughter of the Sun,' for reader, two singers, and string quartet. Having experimented in this direction myself, I can perhaps give some record of results. The piece involving a reader is not satisfactory, and will have to be remodelled; the speaking-voice breaking in upon the music spoils the hypnotism without which art cannot exist. The other piece has so far seemed satisfactory. Thus Mr. Ernest Newman wrote after a recent performance: 'The combination of the vocal and instrumental factors is as new as it is effective; each is always lending a strange impressiveness to the other.'

I do not apologise for thus referring to my own works in this matter, because apart from Dr. Davies no other composer known to me has followed any definitely new line in this branch of music. Nor do I regard anything yet in existence as more than a hint of what can be done. Dr. Davies himself has written no developed organic work in this style, and satisfactory chamber-music can no more be made out of detached items than can satisfactory orchestral music. The difficulty which composers of this new art have to deal with is how to introduce the vocal element organically; a mere song or vocal quartet with glorified accompaniment will by no means solve the problem.

A provisional programme of the Leeds Triennial Festival of 1913 has been made public. The conductors engaged are Mr. Nikisch, Sir Edward Elgar, and Dr. H. P. Allen. The programme is expected to include Bach's B minor Mass, 'The dream of Gerontius,' Verdi's Requiem, 'Ein Heldenleben' and 'Elijah.'

THE CHINESE AND THEIR MUSIC.

By A. CORBETT-SMITH.

It would seem but in accord with Chinese traditions—a people amongst whom paradox and contradiction reign supreme—that the first really authentic record of the existence of their musical art should be an account of its destruction. The story has often been told how the Emperor Tsin Chi Hwangti (c. 200 B.C.) decreed that Chinese history should begin from his own reign; and how, acting upon the advice of his prime minister, he caused all historical, scientific and artistic literature to be destroyed. So perished all the ancient music, or most of it, and one imagines that the office of Hereditary Court Music-Master (it sounds like Hans Andersen) must have been anything but a sinecure during the succeeding half-century. You picture him, absolutely ignorant of his art, attempting to teach his pupils, inventing one day and forgetting the next.

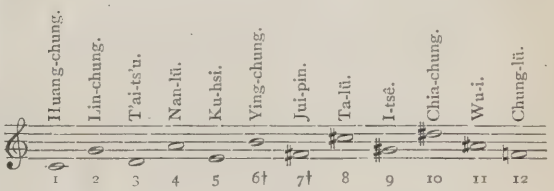
It is, however, safe to assert that music, singing, and dancing, were in constant request for ritual and festival from the earliest dawn of Chinese history. Indeed, it is possible to fix an approximate date, B.C. 2600, and say that Chinese music then began to take definite shape. Ancient writers are all agreed in praising the art: that 'it produces inexpressible sensations of pleasure,' and so forth. And here it may be observed that in the Chinese mind, even to-day, poetry and music are indissolubly united; the latter is incomplete without the former. Similarly, it is most difficult to obtain the melody, without the words, of a folk-song from the old English country folk.

But while strenuous efforts have been made through succeeding dynasties to revive the ancient music or to create new systems, no great measure of success has been won. Like the calling of the actor, the practice of music has fallen into disrepute; both are looked upon in the light of accursed things. And yet the drama in China is pre-eminently the one form of national amusement. Once again a paradox.

Without going deeply into abstruse theories of Chinese musical scales and their problematic origins—a somewhat dull subject—it may be of interest briefly to consider some characteristics, and especially the romantic origin of the primal scale. Musical theory among the Greeks appears to have originated in note divisions obtained by 'stopping' strings; the Chinese obtained theirs by bamboo pipes. The many similarities between the Grecian and Chinese scale-systems gave rise to the theory that the former nation borrowed from the latter. But the Chinese scale appeared two centuries after the Grecian. And yet again we have to remember the 'Burning of the Books' in B.C. 221. Some say that so-called modern Chinese music came by way of Bactria, a Greek Kingdom founded in B.C. 256. The whole subject is so full of conjecture, and likely to remain so, that no definite assertion can be made. Nor, indeed, does it greatly matter.

It is, however, certain that in very early days the Chinese evolved an octave of twelve chromatic semitones by means of varying lengths of bamboo tubes. A particular length was selected to sound a fundamental tonic-note (the corresponding Western notation is uncertain), and the definite method was then adopted of proceeding to the remainder by arithmetical progression, or in a proportion of 3 to 2.* Thus the second pipe measured two-thirds the length of the first, and the note emitted was a perfect fifth higher. Again, another similar length was cut, but the fifth obtained was considered as too remote from the tonic. The tube was accordingly doubled, and a note an octave lower was produced. The following scale in Western notation, taking C as the tonic for the sake of clearness, although D would probably approximate more closely, will show the sequence of the remaining notes:

ANCIENT LÜS (BAMBOO TUBES) SCALE.



It must, however, be noted that only the tonic and fifth are in perfect accord with the Western scale, the remaining notes being too sharp.

A great many modifications and amendments were effected by evolution of time, for the Ming Dynasty found a simple pentatonic scale in general use—C D F G A C D—and this scale is the one now usually adopted, although one of seven notes is theoretically admitted.

Needless to say, the Chinese have no system of staff notation. The characters for the several notes of a piece are written in vertical columns from right to left exactly as a letter or book is written. A character seems to indicate not only the note, but its probable pitch. There is nothing to indicate the time-value of a note, nor are there such things as 'rests,' so that the mode of performance is practically according to the taste of the individual, or in accordance with tradition. No wonder that Chinese music has ever remained a sealed book to the Western mind. With regard to time measure, the only one properly recognised is 4/4 or 2/4, but I have taken down two or three melodies which are certainly in triple time. The Chinese have nothing to indicate accidentals, for such are never used. Sometimes, at the beginning of a piece, a certain 'lu,' or pipe tone, is indicated as a tonic-note.

It has long become a commonplace remark that all forms of Western art and thought were anticipated in some form or another by the ancient Chinese and Egyptians. The collection of national folk-song is a very ancient pastime. Cecil Sharp,

* The figure 3 is the symbol of heaven; 2, that of the earth. Thus such a proportion should be in perfect harmony.

† Nos. 6 and 7 were never understood, and so were rarely used.

Vaughan Williams, and others in this country have been but treading the path which Confucius followed nearly 2,500 years ago. That revered sage made many a long journey through the Empire collecting and writing down national lyrics, songs, and ballads, and this collection is one of the most treasured works in Chinese literature. All these ballads are in rhyme, for rhyme is an essential attribute of Chinese poetry, and the most beautiful treat of various phases of Nature, trees and blossoms, the changes of the year, clouds, and the windy hills. Others are tinged with melancholy, and evince a somewhat pessimistic view of human life. Others, again, partake of the philosophy of old Omar Khayyam—'Come, fill the cup,' and many a good drinking song is to be found. I quote the first three stanzas of a particularly charming specimen, 'On drinking alone by moonlight,' for which I am indebted to Mrs. Archibald Little:

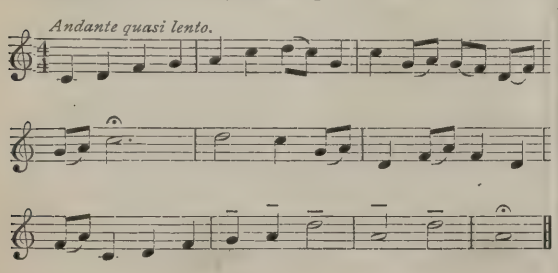
Here are flowers, and here is wine;
But where's a friend with me to join
Hand to hand and heart to heart
In one full cup before we part?

Rather than to drink alone
I'll make bold to ask the moon
To condescend to lend her face
To grace the hour and the place.

Lo! she answers and she brings
My shadow on her silver wings;
That makes three, and we shall be,
I ween, a merry company.

Unfortunately I can trace no music to this very favourite lyric.

It is, I imagine, almost impossible to distinguish between a genuine Chinese folk-tune and the more modern music. The following melody of a song which I noted at a little village far up the Yangtsze from two blind, itinerant musicians may quite reasonably be considered as old, although there are in it distinct traces of modern tendency. I quote it as being one of the best tunes I have heard in China. Additional weight to the folk-song theory is given by the fact that the ballad, which was a very long one, narrated the old and very popular legend of 'The Herdsman and the Spinning Damsel.' The singer accompanied himself upon the 'erhhsien' (two-stringed violin), and his companion kept up a monotonous rhythm upon a small drum. I have, of necessity, slightly lowered the pitch of two or three of the notes which, to the Western ear, would otherwise sound horribly out of tune. The wailing effect produced by the concluding six notes was particularly striking:

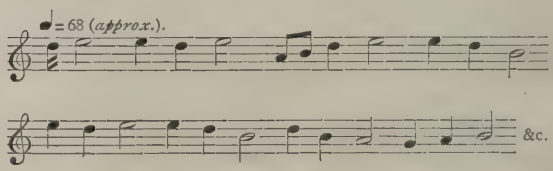


Chinese music naturally falls under two heads—'Ritual,' or music performed at court or religious ceremonies, and 'Popular,' which includes all in use at domestic ceremonials, in the theatre and street. The limitations of a short article preclude more than a passing reference to the former. Mention should, however, be made of the nominal official control of this 'ritual' music.

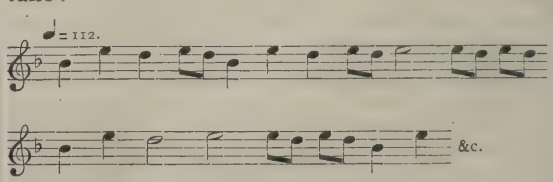
Under the Cabinet and Council of State there are, or were, six Boards of Executive. Connected with the third of these, that of 'Rites,' is a Board of Music, composed of a large number of officials whose duties are 'to study the principles of harmony and melody, to compose musical pieces and form instruments to play them, and then to suit both to the various occasions on which they are required.'

Among the Chinese music is very seldom practised as a recreation: in a sense it is considered rather contemptible. And yet music plays a most important part in all domestic anniversaries, festivals and funerals. Professional musicians, like actors, belong to the very lowest class of society—inferior to a ricsha coolie, for instance.

I am indebted to M. Edmund Dulac for a very interesting piece of information respecting a much-used Chinese funeral march, the melody of which, in a slightly different form, has found its way to Europe, and is played by the bells of Toulouse on similar occasions. The people there use a patois song to this, which means 'Get your shoes on—For you must go—You must go, never to come back.' The Chinese tune is this:



The Toulouse chime is somewhat as follows, the B flat giving a curious, ultra-modern touch to the tune:



The incidental music used in Chinese historical and domestic dramas is of particular interest, although it is more maligned by foreigners than any other form of the art. It appears to be of two kinds—'Erh wang,' used in the domestic drama, with an orchestra of flutes and strings, drums and gongs, and 'Pang tzu,' used in martial and historical scenes, with a similar orchestra, but without wood-wind. By the character of the music, the changes of tempo, &c., the regular theatre-goer knows exactly what action to expect upon the stage. He can tell to a nicety whether the general and his army are going to be victorious or no; whether the village Romeo will be happily united to the maiden of his choice or will suffer a lingering death at the hands of the local apothecary. Certainly the Chinese were the pioneers in 'programme' music. I quote a few bars of a tune which was used in varying forms as a genuine 'leit motif' throughout a certain modern Chinese play:

Chinese music, as it still exists, can never be more than a curiosity, disagreeable or otherwise, to the foreigner. It is as incomprehensible as the inscrutable Chinese mind and character. One encounters so little pure, sequential melody in the songs and dances; harmony and counterpoint are practically non-existent. An orchestra plays entirely in unison, with the rare exception of occasional thirds and fourths, and as the various instruments are not constructed with exact precision the intonation is generally most discordant. Then there is the uncertainty of a scale which contains neither third nor leading note, and also the fact that only the tonic and dominant sound in tune.

But the social reform which is now spreading through China with such astonishing rapidity is beginning to extend to music also, at least in some of the great cities. A few months ago I was present at a concert given by Chinese lady students at which the programme was almost entirely Western. Gramophones and mechanical piano-players too are beginning to find their way into the homes of the wealthier Chinese.

To appreciate in any degree the music of the Chinese we must first of all find ourselves in sympathy with the people. To them much of it is very real and undoubtedly pleasing; at least it suffices for their needs. The Chinese have a very deep and sincere love for poetry, especially when allied with music. The fact that their songs do not conform to the canons of Western art should not necessarily give cause for condemnation. Confucius himself, who was certainly a musician, fully realised the value, both æsthetical and moral, of music. In concluding this brief and totally inadequate review I would quote two sayings of his upon the art. The second may well prove particularly applicable to-day, even in this country:

(Speaking of a piece of music): 'It has all the excellence of the physical beauty of harmony, and also all the excellence of moral grandeur. But if a man is without moral character what good can the use of music do him?'

'In the practice of the art what is valuable is natural spontaneity. Also decoration and colour are matters of secondary importance compared with the groundwork.'

A SHORT BIBLIOGRAPHY.

'Chinese Music,' J. A. van Aalst, Shanghai, 1884.
'The Chinese Musical System,' B. J. Gilman, The Philosophical Review, Boston, 1892.
'Chinese Musical Instruments,' A. C. Moule, Journal of North China Branch of Royal Asiatic Society, 1908 (an excellent article).
'Chinese Music' (a pamphlet), Mrs. Timothy Richard, Shanghai, 1907.
'Chinese Lyrics,' G. C. Stent, Journal of North China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, Shanghai, 1871-72.
'The Phonograph and Chinese Music,' Erich Fischer, Quarterly Magazine of the International Musical Society, January, 1911.

Occasional Notes.

In the July-August (1912) issue of the Zeitschrift of the International Musical Society, Ernest Closson, the Secretary of the Belgian National Section, surveys musical life in Belgium. The following summary of the fourteen closely-printed pages of the article is given in English in the Zeitschrift:

> The following are leading points: Belgians depend to an extraordinary degree on State initiative and support. There are in proportion to the area (about one-third that of Scotland) an enormous number of music-schools: four Royal Conservatoires at Brussels, Liège, Ghent, and Antwerp; two Communal Conservatoires at Bruges and Mons; some eighty minor academies. State aid pervades the system. As a consequence, in outside teaching even an accomplished artist is glad to get half-a-crown for a lesson. The public taste is sound and eclectic. Professional puffing is discredited. The 'renaissance' movement for reviving ancient music has little vogue. The numerous choral Societies are recruited quite from the populace. Belgium is content with one musical newspaper, the excellent but small 'Guide Musical,' Sunday weekly, in its forty-ninth year, editor Maurice Kufferath (b. 1852).

Among the smaller items in this issue of the Zeitschrift we notice the activity of the Choral Society of Helsingfors, which is publishing early madrigals in a Finnish version. Among the composers mentioned are Morley and Dowland. Their delightful inspirations are now, it is stated, sung even by the village choirs of Finland.

In our present issue (pp. 594-5) Mrs. Newmarch, in replying to a letter from Dr. Maclean which appeared in our August issue, amplifies the charge of Chauvinism she made in the Edinburgh Review against the British branch of the International Musical Society in connection with the musical programmes offered at the Congress held in London last year. We think it is fair to Mrs. Newmarch to allow her to explain her views thus fully, although we have to note that her attack on the committee was made in a quarter where no answer was possible. We are glad that it does not appear to be necessary to go over the whole ground again, for it seems to us that Dr. Maclean has already dealt very effectively not only with the statements in the Edinburgh Review, but by anticipation with Mrs. Newmarch's justification of her position. But we feel bound to protest against Mrs. Newmarch's statement that the committee in formulating their scheme were so paltry as to be 'intent upon going one better, &c.,' and 'that the sentiment of cut for cut lay at the basis of the whole policy.' Mrs. Newmarch confesses that a cynical demon whispered the last thought to her, and we can well believe that it came from this tainted source, but it would have been much fairer to those whose action she characterizes if she had sought more respectable inspiration. The dominant motive of the committee was to place before their guests a scheme that would be likely to interest them. It was felt that whereas an offer of a series of cosmopolitan programmes which practically would be slightly glorified Queen's Hall concerts of a perfectly familiar character to everybody concerned, was not likely to achieve this purpose, a well-thought out series of performances historically illustrative of the art of the country being visited would be at once novel, attractive, and educational. If Mrs. Newmarch's wretched demon who has played her such tricks had been a truthful one, our foreign visitors would by now at least have betrayed their disapproval of the fare provided. But what have we found? Here are quotations from what has been said by distinguished and representative foreign musicians whose sincerity even the demon dare not question:

Professor Guido Adler (Vienna):

On the Continent we seldom have an opportunity of hearing English music either classical or modern. In this respect the Congress has been instructive in reminding us that England has not only at different periods in the past achieved much in the development of musical history, but is also doing much honourable and valuable work in the present, while the outlook for the future is most hopeful. . . . I should have preferred to hear in place of the Italian opera ['Rigoletto'] a national opera, classical or modern.

And further, in the Neue Freie Presse, in the course of an interesting survey of English music prompted by the concerts given, he says:

The Historical Chamber Music Concert showed us some of the splendid works that were written in the Restoration period following Queen Elizabeth's time. But the climax was reached with the Purcell scena incomparably sung by Miss Muriel Foster. We historians exchanged looks, and asked: Did the reforms of Gluck, a century later, show any advance in dramatic reality and soul-felt expression? Is not this command of vocal expression complete for all time?

Mons. M.-D. Calvocoressi (Paris):

To the stranger in quest of fresh knowledge, one of the main features was undoubtedly the series of concerts devised for the special benefit of members and affording the possibility of a survey of British music from its beginnings to the present day. The fact that modern British music was almost unknown to the great majority of the guests has been remedied as fully as possible.

Professor Albert A. Stanley (U.S.A.):

It was a happy thought to make the musical part of the programme an outlook over the progress of English music. Covering centuries, as it did, it was an appalling task, and to say that it reflected great glory on those who so successfully grappled with the problem is to use an ordinary expression to characterize an extraordinary achievement.

Dr. Jules Ecorcheville (Paris), in the course of a speech almost entirely devoted to comments on the English music presented:

When we return to France we shall be inunduated with questions giving still further proof of the lively curiosity which our fellow-countrymen feel with respect to your Art. Your music is wholesome. It avoids that perpetual sense of irritation with which Continental music is afflicted, that aggressiveness which, in France at least, gives the impression that our music is always, so to speak, levelled vindictively at someone!

Dr. H. Leichtentritt (Berlin), the Signale:

A long series of concerts gave us a valuable birdseye-view of the development of English music from the 15th century to the present time . . . And before all, Purcell, of whom we know nothing in Germany, was shown to us as a musician of the first importance. Scenes from his dramatic works, church music and chamber music gave us an insight into his strength and versatility. [Much more space is devoted to comments on the music presented.]

Dr. Hermann Kretzschmar (Berlin):

I rejoice that the arrangements connected with this Congress will afford the foreign delegates an opportunity of hearing not only the best modern English music, but some of the great compositions of past times. We shall leave London and the Congress rich with new ideas, with new experiences, and full of thankful feeling.

It may be as well to add that the programmes included the works of seventy-five British composers and nineteen foreign composers. They were therefore inclusively, but not exclusively British. Further, it should be stated that many distinguished foreign musicians, including 'leading creative artists,' as suggested by Mrs. Newmarch, were cordially invited, but they were not able to attend.

After many assurances of his determination and confidence, Mr. Hammerstein has at length decided to retire from his London operatic enterprise, the loser by some forty thousand pounds. Under all the circumstances one is disposed to feel sorry for him, but he will have none of our pity and proceeds, unchastened, to renew the operatic redemption of America. His latest if not last development is one to stagger musical humanity. He proposes to build over forty opera-houses in American towns and to give grand opera in them with his own companies. This will be 'living wholly in the realms of grand opera' with a vengeance. It may be added that moths, even with singed wings, often show a desire to live wholly in the realms of candle-flame.

Richard Strauss's latest work, which he has just completed, consists of incidental music to a German version, by H. von Hofmannsthal, of Molière's 'Le bourgeois gentilhomme.' It will be produced, in conjunction with Strauss's new one-act opera, 'Ariadne on Naxos,' at the Court Theatre, Stuttgart, on October 25. The announcement reminds us that we are getting as behindhand with Strauss's works as we were before Mr. Beecham gave us 'Elektra' and 'Salome.' Will Mr. Beecham step in again?

A book entitled 'An Adventure' (Macmillan), published last year, has been widely read and discussed. It is an uncanny story of a vision alleged to have been seen by two English ladies whilst sight- (in fact, one may say second-sight), seeing in Versailles. We are told with circumstantial detail what befel the ladies when together they visited the Petit Trianon for the first time in their lives in 1901. Whilst searching for their goal a strange feeling came over them, and a still stranger experience ensued. They saw a country house, many people dressed in unusual costumes—notably a lady whose dress is described as only the feminine mind could describe it—one man spoke to them excitedly; and there were other comings and goings, including a merry French wedding-party. After this the ladies took a real carriage—providentially hard by—and drove to a real hotel and had real tea. For some time they said nothing, even to one another, as to their weird experience, but when ultimately they compared memories, they arrived at the conclusion that the Trianon was haunted, for on inquiry it was quite evident that what they had supposed themselves to have seen was non-existent. Later, in 1902, one of the ladies ventured to make another visit to the spot. As she approached it the old feeling was renewed, and again an extraordinary vision of what is assumed to be past history, with all its life and movement, was experienced. On this occasion something occurred which specially interests us. Miss 'Lamont' (the names are not real, but the publisher vouches for the bona fides of the story) says :

> The crowd got scarce and drifted away, and the faint music as of a band, not far off, was audible. It was playing very light music, with a good deal of repetition in it. Both voices and music were diminished in tone, as in a phonograph unnaturally. The pitch of the band was lower than usual. The sounds were intermittent. [The italics are ours.]

The ladies were now convinced that they had been privileged to see Marie Antoinette and her environment, and they set to work to examine the history, manners, costumes, and topography of the period, and they claim that the results of this investigation verify the truth of their story.

Part of the evidence adduced to prove that happenings in 1789 had, as it were, been cinematographed for their special benefit, is musical. It is fortunate for posterity and believers in reproductive manifestation of the departed that Miss 'Lamont,' although betraying musical innocence in claiming the ability to detect that the pitch of the 'band of violins' (sic) she heard was lower than usual (which implies that although she knew they were supposed to be fingering the instruments in, say, key E flat, it sounded like D to her refined sense of pitch), she was able some time after the event to write down from memory about twelve bars 'without the inner harmonies' (by which we understand that she wrote the melody and bass—a circumstance that engenders a suspicion that the lady must have attended some musical appreciation classes), and at the pitch in which they were played. The music, which by a very curious oversight is not printed in the book, was submitted to an unnamed expert, who said that the bars could hardly belong to one another, but that the idiom dated from 1780. That was clever, to say the least of it, and moreover it fitted just nicely. He found a grammatical mistake in one bar, but what it was exactly is not revealed. Yet even this regrettable shortcoming in the music, as we shall see, also helps the verisimilitude of the story. A search was now made through a great deal of unpublished (why unpublished?) music in the Conservatoire de Musique at Paris, and it was 'discovered that the twelve bars represented the chief motives of the light opera of the 18th century, excluding Rameau and his "school" [why, O why! excluded!], and nothing like them occurred in the operas of 1815 onward.' A miserably hard-up century when twelve bars can represent the chief motives of its light operas! But these bovrilised and ubiquitous twelve bars were found in Sacchini, Philidor, Monsigny, Grètry, and Pergolesi, which fact incidentally goes to show that plagiarism of the most flagrant description was rampant. But the crowning evidence is that grammatical mistakes were found in Monsigny and Grètry! This, of course, proves beyond dispute that the twelve bars are veritable old music, because, as stated above, it had been previously noted that they contained a grammatical blunder. Then we are treated —à la Bacon cypher—to the tracing in detail of the general and particular likeness of the twelve bars in specified works of the above-named composers, with the addition of Duni. In Grètry we are told solemnly that hidden consecutive fifths were found. How reprehensible, but still how prophetically thoughtful of him!

Opera-goers should always take the precaution of acquainting themselves beforehand with the plots of the operas they hear, because it is notorious that otherwise the stage action of forty-nine operas out of fifty is exasperatingly unintelligible. This being so, we cannot but be grateful to industrious writers who compile guides for our benefit. But when the information is imparted in an intensely amusing manner, however unintentionally, we have additional reason for gratitude, and this we feel is due in connection with the 'New Opera Glass,' by Fr. Charley, published in 'English' by Feodor Reinboth, Leipsic. The stories of 110 operas are given in this handy booklet. We venture to quote two of the luminous gems of the series.

ROMEO AND JULIA (Gounod).

First Act : Palace Capulet. Masquerade. Capulet greeting his guests. He is introducing his daughter Julia. Romeo, a Montague, seeing Julia, is falling in love to her, which is returning by her without to know another. Romeo hears, that Julia the daughter of Capulet. Tybalt, the nephew of Capulet, is going away with Julia ; Romeo crying : 'God with you.' Tybalt renown Romeo, the enemy of his house ; the two are quarrelling, but Capulet smooths the quarrell.

Second act : Pavillon in Capulets garden. Romeo singing from the love to Julia ; Julia going in the garden, singing also from the love to Romeo. Their hearths are finding togother and after lovely sweers are going from another.

Third act: Romeo visiting Lorenzo, the monk, begging to help him to be united with Julia ; he is ready for that and Romeo and Julia are becomes man and wife. In the battle with Tybalt he murdered him.

Fourth act : Romeo and Julia are sweet united in the room of Julia ; beeing banished from the city he must fly. The dying father of Julia wished to see Julia as wife from the count Paris, but beeing Romeos wife Lorenzo is helping her from the fatal situation.

Fifth act : Romeo enter ; he is seeing his wife Julia in the apparent death. In the meaning of her really death he is thrinking a bottle poison wishing to be united with her also in the death. In the same moment Julia awaked. Willing to fly the death is coming : Romeo falling, Julia takes the sword and murdered herselves.

ESMERALDA (Ambroise Thomas).

First act. Scene in the Court of wonders (Lodgings of the beggars) in Paris. The Chorus is greeting his King, who has condemned the poete Gringoire, who is imprisoned as spy, on dead, if no girl would choose him for her man.

Only Esmeralda has some feeling for him, she is begging for his life. Gringoire is sauved ; but Esmeralda, for which is Frollo fallen in the deepest love, has her carry of, but she is liberating through the guards.

Second act. Room on Fleur de Lys, opened on the garden. Ladies in the garden. In the meantime ladies are seeing a girl dancing on the court for which is Phöbus fallen in love and who is now obliged to get the girl in the room. Esmeralda and her husband are entering in the room and the ladies are astonished about her beauty. Fleur is hatring Esmeralda, perceiving her as rival. Discovering the sash, embroidering from her for Phöbus on the possession of Esmeralda, she is throwing him his infidelity. Esmeralda, molested by Fleur is seeking protection on Phöbus and the is declaring the gipsy publicly as his bridegroom.

Third act. Esmeralda's lodge ment, where she is working with her husband. The latter is going to bed ; Esmeralda is waiting on Phöbus. In the meantime Frollo and Quasimodo are entering through the window, the first promising Esmeralda to do her nothing. Quasimodo is leaving the room, which Frollo is hiding himself behind a courtain. Phöbus and Esmeralda sing together the duett. On the end of the song Frollo is stabbing Phöbus and is flying through the window. Guards arrives, and Esmeralda is imprisoned as murderer of Phöbus.

Fourth act. Esmeralda is condemned on dead ; Frollo is assuring her his live and is promissing her her liberty by accepting his love. Esmeralda is relinquishing. Suddenly Gringoire arrives, followed by Phöbus. The priest must see that Phöbus is still living and enraged is rushing on Phöbus.

Quasimodo looking out for that and observing Frollo, is warping himself between the both and is now stabbed instead Phöbus. Frollo is reknown as murderer and is now imprisoned. Phöbus and Esmeralda embracing another are happily.

It will be obvious from the foregoing that the book is fully worth the half-crown it costs.

It is encouraging to note that one of the most popular and at the same time most poetical and artistic songs of our time is 'Son of Mine,' the music of which is by Mr. William Wallace. It is a trite saying that imitation is the sincerest flattery, but in this particular instance the exemplification of the truth of the maxim is edifying; for many gross and unblushing imitations of Mr. Wallace's song exist. Someone, who shall be nameless, has sent us the following new version of the idea:

When you're running dry,
Son of mine,
Have a careful look at my
'Son of mine.'
There you'll find your inspiration,
Drag in any poor relation,
He won't mind the imitation,
Son of mine.

When you're feeling glum,
Son of mine,
And ideas will not come,
Son of mine,
Study carefully 'The Rebel,'
Though it's scarcely worth a pebble,
Make your baritone a treble,
Son of mine!

Air your bit of swank,
Son of mine.
It's your own; you need not thank
'Son of mine.'
Be it lass or girl or mother,
Take my tune or any other,
That will save a lot of bother,
Son of mine.

When you steal the tune,
Son of mine,
Swear it was your mother's croon,
Son of mine.
But that father* risked the halter,
When with Chords he would not palter,
Who are you to twist and alter
'Son of mine'?

GILES FARNABY.

By H. Orsmond Anderton.

Among the writers represented in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book, Giles Farnaby stands out as a distinct and very attractive individuality. It is curious how some men have this peculiar quality, this gift of impressing one with the magic of their personality, while many others, of larger and ampler calibre, exercise comparatively little of the spell. Hazlitt, in a well-known essay, describes a symposium as to whom one would, if it were possible, call back from the vasty deep, that they might 'Come like shadows—so depart.'

The essay is a little stodgy, and Lamb is made to talk with the unlamb-like solemnity of an old tup; but there are many interesting points raised. When Newton and Locke were proposed Elia's face assumed an expression which it might have worn after a dose of nasty medicine. In spite of his idolatry of Shakespeare, he rejected him: he had seen the Bard's portrait ad nauseam on the stage, on bookstalls, in frontispieces, on mantelpieces. Milton, he feared, would appear starched and Puritanical, with precisian's band and gown. Many others were proposed, but his choice was for Sir Thomas Browne, and Fulke Greville. Garrick, too, Kit Marlowe, and a few other such unorthodox worthies and unworthies were invited, so to speak, rather than the Olympians. In much the same vein Browning chose men like Abt Vogler and Sordello for his dramatic monologues rather than the recognised heroes. And this attitude is a quite intelligible and natural one. It is pleasant sometimes to leave the open highways of thought, and wander through the unfrequented lanes, just as one likes to moor one's punt in a shady backwater away from the glare and traffic of the main stream. Just so, too, one feels about Giles Farnaby. Who yearns to meet Handel, or Hummel, or Cherubini, those dii majores of their own day; yes,—shall we whisper the heresy?—or even Beethoven, and many another of the orthodox and classical College of Cardinals? Whereas the more unassuming men, men like Chopin, Monteverde, or Couperin—could they walk into our study for an hour how pleased we should be!

Among such, all who have studied his unpretentious pieces in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book and felt their curiously attractive individuality, would unhesitatingly place Giles Farnaby; and the spell to conjure up this pleasant shade will soon in some sense be placed within the power of all by the publication (Novello & Co.) during this month of an album of a dozen of his pieces edited by Professor Bantock.

Of his life little is known. He came of a Cornish stock, and was apparently born about 1568-70, since, by his own account, he began the study of music about 1580. In 1589 he was living in London, as we know from the churchwardens' accounts of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, a church connected also with Shakespeare, to whom a memorial window was put up some years ago. On July 7, 1592, says Wood's 'Fasti,' he graduated at Oxford as Mus. Bac., 'stating in his supplicat that he had studied music for twelve years.'

He evidently entered into the life of his time, and made a reputation in his art, for the large number of pieces in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book is sufficient to attest their vogue and his popularity; and when, in 1592, Thos. Este (the assignee of Byrd in music-publishing) issued 'The whole Booke of Psalmes,' with music, engaging men of unchallengeable position to harmonize the tunes, Farnaby, with Dowland and Farmer, was among the number so chosen. He would be familiar with Byrd and all his set, such as Morley, Bull, and Gibbons; and since London was then smaller, and society more manageable, he would most probably be brought into contact also with the group of poets and players taking part, possibly, in some of those far-famed meetings at 'The Mermaid.' Shakespeare and the rest of them constantly needed songs and dances for their plays, and they would naturally turn to the skilled musicians, as is done at the present day. There are two or three 'Maskes' by Farnaby in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book, and these must almost certainly have been written for the stage in their first inception. The theatre with which Shakespeare was connected until 1599 was known as 'The Theatre,' or 'The Curtain,' on the Shoreditch edge of London. The growing Puritanical influences then prevailed in getting the bear-gardens and theatres banished from the City boundaries, and Shakespeare's company built 'The Globe' on the Surrey side; and hither, doubtless, Farnaby, Dowland, and the rest of them must have resorted.

* The father in the last verse of the original.

In 1598 Farnaby published a book of 'Canzonets to foure Voyces, with a song of eight parts,' with commendatory verses by Dowland and others. One of these, 'Ay me, poore Heart,' is transcribed in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book. In 1621 he contributed harmonies to some of the tunes in Ravenscroft's 'Psalter.' Two madrigals of his are known, 'Come, Charon, come,' and 'Construe my meaning'; and among the pieces in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book is a transcription of a third, 'Daphne on the rainbow.'

It is, however, chiefly upon his pieces in this celebrated anthology that his reputation rests; they have a simple charm and a naïveté which arrest all who make their acquaintance, and they are among the most attractive pieces in the collection. There are fifty-one in all—three in Vol. i., and forty-eight in Vol. ii. Of these, the dozen in the album before us give a very good idea, and are as good a selection as could be made, though we may wish it had been possible to include one or two others, such as 'Spagnioletta,' 'Old Spagnoletta,' 'Woody Cock,' the infectiously gay 'Meridan Alman,' and the 'Gigge,' whose curious rhythmical structure Dr. Naylor discusses in his book on the collection. 'Quodling's Delight,' too, is a charming piece, with a strong family likeness to the old ballad, 'The oak, and the ash, and the bonny ivy-tree.' It forms one number of the same editor's 'Old English Suite.' The instrumental technique of the time was of course still tentative, and many of the Virginal pieces consist of popular airs and madrigals arranged and ornamented with semiquaver passages. But Farnaby shows himself a forerunner of the romantic movement in his group of little pieces, quite in Schumann's vein, given in this album—'A Toye,' 'Giles Farnaby's Dreame,' 'His Rest,' 'Giles Farnaby's Conceit,' 'His Humour,' which are irresistible in their appeal. They are delightful and individual pieces with a poetic basis. 'A Toye' has a quaint and catching melody that also is irresistible. The 'Dreame' has a tender vein of sentiment that will appeal to all; in fact, all the group have a distinct and arresting charm. The 'Galliarda,' too, is interesting. The first strain, of eight bars, is a pleasant melody, distinctly in A minor. The second strain shows more of the modal idiom: the two strains are then subjected to variational treatment. 'Rosasolis' belongs to a type very common, as just stated, in the music of the period, being the transcription of a song (in this case evidently with a chorus) which is then, as in the case of the 'Galliarda' and 'Quodling's Delight,' subjected to variational treatment. This seems to have been the method, in fact, by which instrumental music was evolved and attained logical continuity. A similar and particularly attractive case is 'Old Spagnoletta,' not given in this album. 'Pawle's Wharfe' is another example, and is quite a catching, popular tune, distinctly in D, though subsequently modal characteristics appear. One quaint trait that is common to all the writers of the period is the striking of the key-chord (as we should call it) at the end, after the piece is over; much as reciters announce the title of their tale or poem at the beginning, many, in fact, do this at the end.

Interesting in another way is a group of ten Fantasias. They are not Farnaby's most characteristic work, but are a valuable help to an understanding of the period. As hinted above, long instrumental pieces were always an embarrassment; the writers hardly knew how to give them coherence. Orlando Gibbons's fine 'Fantasia of Foure Parts' in 'Parthenia' is the most successful achievement, even his own 'Fantasias of Three Parts' for viols being less mature. Farnaby's Fantasias have interesting points and fine passages, but on the whole they lack organic unity; and in fact his mind seems hardly to have had the large architectonic quality needful for a pioneer in such an art. The specimen given in this album is perhaps as good a choice as could have been made. The opening is imitational, almost fugal, but later on, as is the case in Gibbons's just mentioned, the subject disappears, and fresh ones are announced and worked in succession; so that organic coherence is rather wanting.

Farnaby's tonality, as already indicated, has a modern tendency. The modes, of course, were the musical language of the time, but in many pieces, as, e.g., the 'Conceit,' the 'Toye,' and 'Pawle's Wharfe,' he seems to jump clear into the modern key idiom.

The appearance of this album is a symptom of a welcome awakening in the work of our musical forbears. The notation is modernised; here and there a note or two is added in smaller type, where it seemed to be desirable for modern ears, though such cases are comparatively rare; expression marks and phrasing are added, the original being of course absolutely sterile of such a crop; and Professor Bantock has added at the beginning a short biographical note, along with a few words of discussion of each of the pieces included. Altogether, the book brings this interesting writer within the reach of all, and unless we are much mistaken those who see it will find real pleasure in making or renewing his acquaintance.

THE WAGNERIAN APPETITE.

By Bertram Smith.

At the 1911 Bayreuth festival the seat next to mine was occupied by a German lady, who was stout, comfortable, middle-aged and dressed in black. It would not have surprised me to learn that she was the widow of a successful Leipsic bookseller. At least that was my guess at her estate. In desultory conversation between acts I gathered that she was not at all happy. She had never liked Bayreuth as a town. She thought the food was bad and unreasonably expensive. She was quite alone, and suffered greatly from the heat. Her lodgings were uncomfortable. Except when she was in the theatre life appeared to be a burden to her, and yet 'one had to come.' I asked if she was leaving at the end of that 'Ring' Cycle. She looked at me with a mild surprise. 'Oh, no,' she said. 'I am staying to the end. I have tickets for all the twenty-four performances'! This was startling enough, but when she went on to say that she always did that, whenever there was a festival, I could but regard her in a wholly new light, as one before whose zeal even my own enthusiasm was dwarfed into insignificance.

And yet there are many such—not only in Bayreuth and Munich: they may also be encountered in the gallery at Covent Garden. Surely there has never in the whole history of musical and dramatic art been any phenomenon quite to be compared with the insatiable appetite of the present day Wagnerian. Can one conceive of any other dramatic representation which the average citizen would wish to see repeated seven times within a month, year after year, as my German friend sees 'Parsifal'? Looking back as I can do upon a record of one hundred and seven Wagnerian performances spread over some fifteen years, I ask myself why it is that I begin to show no signs of repletion, that I look forward to the second hundred, should it ever be completed, with the old zest; why it is that at every stage, like Oliver Twist, I ask for more?

It is quite splendid that it should be so. We have ten great works of Richard Wagner's and there can never be another. We know the strict limits of the treasure that is to be enjoyed, and naturally at the outset we ask ourselves how long it will last us, how soon the day will come when we have 'got through' them all and lost our fine appreciation. But it seems, to a great extent at least, to be true that we can both eat our cake and have it, that we are not using up our treasure by repeated hearings; rather that, in the earlier stages at any rate, we are continually adding to it. And here let me say that, for myself, I am thankful to be one who assimilates music slowly. It seems to me that that very disability is a real and valuable asset in this case. I do not believe that my companion at Bayreuth or her many counterparts throughout the world are likely to be persons of a very keen musical perception. For it stands to reason that if one is capable of swallowing a Wagner score whole, so to speak, and of grasping it in all its details after a few hearings, one cannot enjoy, as I have done, the years of gradual discovery and of slow, persistent conquest.

I believe that it is this process of assimilation by degrees, this crescendo of understanding and appreciation, that accounts more than anything else for the enormous appeal of Wagner's music-dramas to the ordinary man. It is as if each of the great works stands in the beginning at a distance from him, and with each representation he is able to come a little closer and to enter into a greater intimacy with it. He is as one who draws away a veil, continually revealing something more beyond. At his first performance he may be impressed with the drama as a whole and stirred by certain 'purple patches' in the music,—the 'Prize Song' or Wotan's 'Abschied,' let us say. He will hear more at a second visit, or at least more of what he hears will reach him and become intelligible. The blanks in the score will begin to fill in for him. What he had thought a long and tedious passage will become coherent and worthy of attention, let us say. Well-known motives will crop up in unexpected places. And so through a glorious process of invigorating discovery and delightful surprises he will arrive at last at a full grasp of the whole work. And even when he tells himself that he knows exactly what to expect, there are a host of minor surprises and small unlooked-for happenings in the score—at least I have found it so—which tell him that he has not yet exhausted its infinite possibilities.

Then again the Wagnerian, as the total number of his performances mounts up and he may count himself in some small measure a critic, is continually shifting his ground; putting new values upon the different acts, different passages, and different works. Again and again he will re-arrange the order, in his opinion, of the four dramas of the 'Ring.' 'Walküre,' which had completely bowled him over at the first cycle, must give pride of place to 'Siegfried,' and finally—it may be—to 'Götterdämmerung.' At an advanced stage in his education 'Rheingold,' which he had unduly despised, springs to a high place in his affections. The keenly anticipated 'moments' which stand out from a performance of the 'Meistersinger' were once the 'Prize Song' and the Sachs 'Monologues'; then he finds they are the Quintette and the 'Trial Songs'; and finally, it may be, his heart is set above all else on the introduction to Act III. and the intermediate music of the second Act, while it is more than likely that there are small orchestral incidents that he has gathered at some former hearing and treasured as his own, knowing full well that few of those about him have noticed them at all. He passes also from the early didactic period when every motive must be separately heralded and he must probe for its intention, to the period when he no longer calls motives by their pet names nor views the score thus painfully disintegrated. It is all a splendid voyage of discovery, whose interest is wonderfully enhanced by the different interpretations, which never fail to throw new light upon the way. When one conductor or one singer has given you all he has to give, another may yet bring to light for you new gems, and it is a question if within the limits of a lifetime all will be laid bare.

I suppose it must be admitted that there are some passages that one has 'got through,' and which have nothing more to say, while what they have said so often no longer deeply interests one. The 'Bridal Chorus' from 'Lohengrin' is threadbare, perhaps. The march from the second Act of 'Tannhäuser' has grown stale, and no longer does one quite rise to the 'Star of eve.' But if the second Act of 'Götterdämmerung' has been found wanting, in the eyes of one humble critic, the second Act of 'Walküre' has painfully and by slow degrees risen to its just place in the order of merit. Already one may dimly foresee a time when Siegmund's 'Spring Song' and Beckmesser's 'Serenade' will have to go. But opportunities are so rare and the forces making for satiety work so slowly, that one can still look forward, as I do now, to the old familiar 'Ring,' after ten completed hearings of it, wondering wistfully if after all it may not hold some fresh discoveries. Only last time, in Munich, I came upon the most bewitching and unexpected turn of events in the introduction to 'Siegfried.'

STRINDBERG'S INTEREST IN MUSIC.

The recent death of Strindberg removed one of the most interesting personalities in the world of letters. As dramatist, novelist, poet, historian, he showed gifts of a high order. He was a remarkable man even in a country which has given to the world many remarkable men, for small as Sweden is in territory, we must not forget that to her we owe Runeberg, Swedenborg, Rydberg, and a host of intrepid explorers.

Strindberg almost rivals Swedenborg in the diversity of his interests. His studies were numerous and varied, and ranged from the Chinese language and national history to experimental chemistry and the social problems which beset the modern world. Among these music held a foremost place. It is hardly mentioned in the available sketches of his career; for he was not brought directly into contact with it, as was Ibsen when he approached Grieg about the 'Peer Gynt' music. A setting has been made, I believe, of 'Lucky-Per's Wanderings,' but it is not widely known; hence the fact that one hears but little of Strindberg in the rôle of musician. He is, however, like Nietzsche and Gainsborough in this, that, though primarily absorbed by other studies, his love of music was great and lifelong.

To obtain full information about Strindberg's views on music is scarcely possible at the present time, very little having been written about the intimate side of his life, apart, perhaps, from the regrettable domestic disturbances which punctuated it. We are told, however, that he had a particular fondness for Beethoven's sonatas. On the whole he seems to have preferred Beethoven to any other composer, which speaks much for his musical intelligence. It is said that he played the pianoforte a great deal and with considerable skill, and that in his leisure hours he enjoyed going through the works of his beloved master.

A large amount of evidence goes to show that Strindberg had no mean theoretical knowledge of music. This man of many parts had penetrated into the secrets of the art. He studied harmony with more than an amateur's seriousness, and was much attracted to the organ, the mechanism of which he knew well. One of his last works was a contribution to musical literature in the form of an original system of notation which was to abolish that at present in general use. Of this work he was very proud. But unhappily his method—which he applied to one or two classical compositions—has been no more fortunate than that of Rousseau or than the curious shorthand of Beethoven himself. It revealed the true Strindberg, for it was personal and revolutionary. The music was written, if I mistake not, in figures.

This love of music makes itself felt in his works. In one of his best poems, 'The journey to town,' he introduces an elaborate description of the 'Appassionata' Sonata, which he deems Beethoven's greatest. He reads into it wonderful things; a depiction of the world and its travail, of the chaos which must precede the dawn of universal bliss. In the autobiographical 'Inferno' allusion is made to Schumann's 'Aufschwung.' A rustic organist is the central figure of one of the novels, and now and again there is much explanation of the structure of the organ and of the technical side of music. In the fine play 'Rausch' he obtains the right atmosphere by introducing a performance of Beethoven's Sonata in D minor (Op. 31, No. 3), and giving directions as to how it must be played. Later in the play the music breaks off, and only a few bars of the Finale are heard as though they were a fragment. It is the practising of a 'night bird.' A somewhat similar use is made of a Bach toccata in 'The Dream Play,' where it has to wage war with a popular waltz. In addition to these there are passing references, to the 'Entry of the Boyards,' for example, and such macabre titles as 'The Dance of Death' and 'The Spook Sonata'—the latter a modern Trillo del Diavolo for aught I know.

One feels with Strindberg that he related music to life, that he saw in it something of the cosmic harmony which he sought so vigorously, and which somehow always eluded him. That one who had suffered so much and had been vouchsafed more than a glimpse into the abyss of the inferno received infinite solace by this means must remain a cause for rejoicing. And it is, perhaps, appropriate that the last impression which we have of the fighter who had weathered so many storms is an entirely peaceful one, and in it we see him surrounded by the things he loved best—his children, his flowers, and his music.

D. C. PARKER.

ON LISTENING TO MUSIC: ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

BY C. EGERTON LOWE.

As a firm believer in the considerable musical and educational advantages to be gained from properly-conducted Musical Appreciation Classes, I should like to make a few remarks on the subject, apropos the article 'On Listening to Music,' by H. P. S., in the July number of the Musical Times.

It may be that the author has not held any such classes himself, invited the opinions of teachers who have, or of students who have attended them; for had he done so he would surely have approached his subject from a different point of view. Speaking from a fairly considerable personal experience, I can safely assert that Musical Appreciation Classes, as so enthusiastically advocated by Mr. Stewart Macpherson, inter alia, and Musical Lectures in connection with the 'Home Music Study' and other Musical Unions, are creating an entirely new interest for the art; and if musical education is to advance in this country as it should do, it must continue on some such lines.

What are the chief elements of a great musical work—not necessarily great in length, but in worthiness as a work of art, be it even miniature in its form, as, e.g., a Grieg song or lyric? It must combine melody and rhythm with harmony and form; and, if of any pretensions as regards length, it must contain the more intellectual art-work of development. Of these five component parts the average untrained listener usually only appreciates two, viz., melody and rhythm. But even here the beauty of 'balance' in the rhythmic phrases which constitute or 'build up' a perfect theme, the development perhaps of a tiny figure or motive, and many another feature of interest to the musician, are overlooked or disregarded by those who have not been taught and trained how to observe at the same time that they listen.

I know that I may be met by the argument that the mere fact that a beautiful, simple tune appeals with instantaneous effect to an untrained multitude proves there is no necessity for analysing it or 'picking it to pieces'; let us revel in the sheer ecstasy of delight, let us, as I believe Mr. Stewart Macpherson has put it, '"bask" in the sound in a merely passive state of sensuous gratification.' But even in the case of a simple tune much that is good and useful can be taught in a class by contrasting the exquisite melodic outlines of gems such as the folk-songs, 'All through the night,' 'The bailiff's daughter,' and hundreds of other national treasures, with the vulgar banalities of trashy ballads and music-hall songs. Musical appreciation, rightly understood, is practically the only rational method of helping us to sift the chaff from the wheat in music.

Melody on the old-fashioned lines is rapidly disappearing; one can easily prove this by comparing the salon-music of to-day with that of the mid-Victorian age, or a modern ballad with those of some twenty years ago. With the great works, operas, symphonies, symphonic-poems, concertos, and such like, the difference is still more remarkable.

Assuredly an understanding of modern music is made much more possible and interesting to our students if we lead them on 'not only to appreciate the beauty of a symphony purely in its sound,' but, by analysing, 'further to value the constructive facts necessary for the composition of its beautiful sound.'

As Mr. H. E. Krehbiel states in his delightful work, 'How to Listen to Music'—a book which should be found in every music-lover's library: 'The capacity properly to listen to music is better proof of musical talent in the listener than skill to play upon an instrument or ability to sing acceptably when unaccompanied by that capacity.' Why then, may I ask, should the training of this musical talent be reserved solely for the professional musician? Wherein lies the difference between the professional and the amateur? By the mere taking or non-taking of fees? Of course not; some amateurs are far better musicians than many professionals. Just as every note in music can be placed as belonging to one of two species—harmony notes and ornamental notes—so also can every listener at a musical performance be relegated to one of two classes—musicians and ornamental listeners. The musician 'sees with his ears' the music which is being unfolded in his presence, not only its melody and rhythm, but its harmony, structure, and development; in rare cases by a natural gift, more often by reason of right training. The average hearer only follows the tune and the lilt of the rhythm.

'H. P. S.' does not believe in educating the listener by leading him through the easy to the difficult, but would sooner see him 'plunged straight away into musical depths where the reason must drown and only the fancy float'! This strikes one as the most amazing educational maxim ever perpetrated. When should the education of the listener begin? When, except with the very first lesson? The whole basis of modern musical teaching lies in training the ear before rather than after the eyes and fingers. Thousands are happily beginning to realise that the art of listening is of even greater value than the art of playing or singing. The one, properly cultivated, lasts for a lifetime; the other fails, more or less, with cessation of practice and advancing years.

Let me take a few of countless cases where knowledge, easily acquired, must serve to enhance appreciation. Is it not somewhat of a reflection on past training methods that a large majority of those who attend church regularly cannot so much as define the cadences or outline the forms of the simple chants and hymn-tunes they hear every week? And yet nearly every girl, in the middle and upper classes at least, is 'taught music' for a period averaging some ten to fifteen years, and devotes more time daily to that particular practice than to any other single subject! But how is she usually taught? Just to play; instead of being shown how and what to observe, and how to listen intelligently. As a beginning, let all young music-students write cadences, chants and hymn-tunes for themselves—the melodies only at first, and then harmonize them by degrees at the key-board; a new interest is almost invariably invoked, which will not be satisfied until bigger things are attempted. The themes of dance-rhythms, gavottes, bourrées, sarabandes, valses, &c., can next be taken in a similar manner. What a lesson, for instance, can be taught by comparing such a hymn-tune as 'O Sacred Head' (A. & M., No. III.) set to Bach's immortal Passion Chorale, with its beautiful harmony, variety of cadence, and modulation, with some of the more popular, sugary-sweet, monotonous doggerel tunes 'appreciated' unthinkingly by the million! How many ordinary listeners understand or are able to follow a fugue? Yet they go in their thousands to Handel Festivals and hear his glorious fugal choruses. It is unthinkable that those who are able to follow their construction do not derive more intense delight from hearing them, or taking part in them, than those to whom the word 'fugue' is a mere meaningless name. One hour devoted at a Musical Appreciation Class to a simple explanation of a fugue is of more lasting benefit than a whole term's music-lessons where nothing but the mere shallow display of performance is aimed at.

Take, again, the modern cadence, wherein harmonic change is perhaps more clearly perceptible than in any other one special form. Let a student be taught through all stages, the easiest to the advanced, to listen to cadences (in chants, hymn-tunes, songs, small pieces, and so on); to notice how these 'points of rest' serve to punctuate the phrase-rhythms; how, further, one phrase 'balances' another; how a phrase is here artistically elongated, and here unexpectedly curtailed; how the actual development of the cadence itself has proceeded from the well-nigh eternal V.—I., IV.—I., I.—V., V.—VI. formulæ of earlier days to its present often complicated but nevertheless very striking and original construction. With such guidance a student will revel in the wonderful beauty of a cadence such as, e.g., that of Grieg's 'An den Frühling,' Op. 43 ('a thing of beauty and a joy for ever'), as much as does the most cultured musician. It is idle to dispute the fact that, as Holmes-Forbes has put it, 'Sentiment becomes more profound in proportion as it becomes more thoroughly pervaded by intellectual comprehension.'

We are told that it is 'better criticism' to compare a Beethoven work (presumably a sonata) 'with a cathedral' than to point out that 'the A flat Sonata (Op. 26) is not a sonata at all'; and again, that it 'does not benefit the promenade enthusiast to be able to chatter glibly about second subjects, recapitulations, developments, codas, and so forth.' Certainly, let it be admitted, the enthusiast has not advanced far in his subject if he places the recapitulation before the development! But with no knowledge of such matters can the listener fully appreciate the beauty and genius displayed in the contrast of first and second subjects—e.g., the masculine virility of the C minor Symphony first subject with the feminine tenderness of its second subject? Can he value at its true worth the ingenuity the great Emperor-composer displays in his marvellous powers of rhythmic development, the delightful changes appearing in his recapitulations, and the grandeur and nobility of his 'summing up' of the previously-heard themes in his priceless codas? The untrained hearer might be likened, in most cases, to a foreigner listening to the impassioned oration of a great speaker, of which he could only understand a few words here and there. 'He who listens to music with a musically untrained intellect, and without an appreciation or knowledge of the laws of construction, progression, and form, can gather no more information, can reap no higher result than is gained by a child peeping into a kaleidoscope,' writes Sir John Stainer.

In the early days of sonata- or symphony-form it must undoubtedly have been taken for granted that the hearer would intellectually follow the construction of the movement. For this reason the exposition was invariably repeated, so that the two subjects should become better known before the development began. As another instance, we find Mozart almost always concluding his 'connecting episode' with a little 'flourish of trumpets,' so as to prepare the listener for the entry of the second subject.

Not long ago at a Symphony Concert I heard a lady solemnly assure a friend by her side at the close of the first movement of a Beethoven Symphony that that was the end of the Symphony; and when the second movement began she was equally emphatic that that was the next item on the programme—which happened to be one of Elgar's 'Bavarian Dances'! She was very concerned because the promised interval was being omitted; but perhaps the lady pictured the Symphony as a church instead of a cathedral, and consequently mentally reduced its dimensions!

It must not be overlooked that when beholding 'the beauty of the Parthenon' one has the necessary time to take in and absorb its noble form and structure, and a mental picture is left indelibly impressed on the mind; even here, however, he who knows the history of this great ruin, who is able somehow to reconstruct in his mind's eye how it stood and dazzled in its glories two thousand years and more ago, has the advantage over him who merely looks upon it as an interesting pile of stones simpley because he knows nothing more about it. But, really, seeing and hearing are two things hardly admitting of comparison. Music moves on so quickly that where there is no acquaintanceship with form (in the very widest sense of the word) only a sensuous, as apart from an intellectual enjoyment can possibly be experienced. If we are listening, say, to Elgar's Symphony in A flat without any analysis, explanation or score, the music may give us an hour's delight from an æsthetic standpoint; but anything approaching complete appreciation of its great worth can only be attained by patient study of its detail and the interplay of its ideas.

In conclusion, surely it is a libel on a British audience to state that they 'do not care two straws' for the critic's attempt to explain to them the composer's work. If this be true, then indeed have we sunk low, and deserve to be stigmatised as a decadent, unmusical nation.

FESTIVAL NOVELTIES.

The Festivals to be held this Autumn at Hereford, Birmingham, and Bristol are not bringing forward much new music by British composers, but to some extent the deficiency, if it may be so described, is balanced by the inclusion of some British music that has already made its way into favour. Among the novelties, one of the most important is that by Sir Hubert Parry, which is to be produced at Hereford. Already nineteen of his works, classed as cantatas, are listed in Novello's catalogue alone, and now we are to hear the twentieth. It is a setting for soprano solo, chorus, and orchestra of an 'Ode on the Nativity,' an old poem by a Scottish poet, William Dunbar, who lived in the latter part of the 15th century and the earlier part of the 16th. The call of the words to thankfulness and joy is marked, and the composer has fully availed himself of their suitability for musical treatment. There are six stanzas, each of eight lines, in the poem. In the musical setting the first stanza is introduced by a distinctively pastoral instrumental movement, which leads to a soprano solo which is soon concerted with the chorus. The pastoral rhythm is maintained to the end of the treatment of this stanza. A short bridge leads to the second stanza, which has a bolder and broader flow in accordance with the words:

> Archangels, angels and dominations,
> Thrones, potestates and martyrs sair,
> And all ye heavenly operations,
> Star, planet, firmament, and sphere,
> Fire, earth, air and water clear,
> To Him give loving, most and least,
> That cometh in so meek manner;
> Et nobis Puer natus est.

In the second line of this, and nowhere else, is the nationality of the poet proclaimed. The third stanza, which is addressed to sinners, is allotted to the soprano soloists. A distinctive feature of this section is the accompaniment over which the smooth vocal part floats. The last line, which in all verses is nearly the same, has a specially effective treatment. Stanza four is for the 'Celestial fowls in the air,' who are enjoined to > Be mirthful now with all your might.

It is set for soprano and alto in a light, flowing rhythm (nine-eight time), with a florid ornamental accompaniment of a delicate and dainty character. At the refrain all four parts join in. The fifth stanza receives the most elaborate treatment. It is divided into three sections, the first of which is a naïve short chorus for all the voices:

> Now spring up flowers from the root,
> Revert you upward naturally,
> In honour of the blessed fruit
> That rose up from the Rose Mary.

The words:

> Lay out your leaves lustily, have an animated section all to themselves; and a big broad passage to the words:

> From dead take life now at the least
> In worship of that Prince worthy;

This leads to the entry of the soli voices and later the choir to the refrain 'Qui nobis,' &c., which is somewhat elaborately treated and contains a great f climax.

The final stanza, which begins thus:

> Sing heaven imperial, most of height,
> Regions of air make harmony!

is most elaborately worked out.

The choir is now divided into eight parts, and the polyphony becomes highly animated and sometimes fugal in character. A soprano solo is concerted with the chorus, and at the refrain

> Pro nobis Puer natus est.

the treatment is highly varied. The last thirty bars or so adopt a tranquil mood, and in this resigned and ineffable spirit the work concludes.

Dr. Vaughan Williams's contribution to the Hereford Festival consists of a Fantasia on Christmas carols, for baritone solo, chorus, and orchestra. Dr. Williams is a whole-hearted believer in the artistic potentialities of the folk-song, and in several of his works he has applied his principles with considerable success. In the present case he has taken four traditional English carols and, adding fragments of well-known carol-tunes, he has welded the material into an artistic unity for baritone solo, chorus, and orchestra, plus organ and bells ad lib. Very appropriately the work is dedicated to Mr. Cecil Sharp.

A feature of the choral treatment is the occasional use of music without words. The choir is required to sing with closed lips, sometimes to 'Ah,' and sometimes with humming tone (with open lips); so the voices add a special colour to the general blend. All the vocal music is easy and flowing. Dr. Williams has no doubt intentionally used consecutive fifths—that happy or unhappy meeting-ground for the oldest and the newest music—to give an archaic suggestion to his harmony, but never, so far as our ears are concerned, with bad effect. The treatment of the tunes is always distinguished by the fine taste and sensibility that we have learned to associate with this composer's name.

Nothing that is to take place by way of novelty at Birmingham is more eagerly looked forward to than the first performance of Professor Granville Bantock's new orchestral work entitled 'Fifine at the Fair.' We are not often favoured with specimens of this composer's purely orchestral music, although his great skill as a writer for the orchestra has been repeatedly demonstrated in combination with vocal resources. 'Fifine' is intended to be a musical comment on the psychological problems of Robert Browning's characteristic poem, which is a subtle introspective soliloquy of an irresolute Don Juan with a laudable leaning towards the path of virtue. We hear the views of an unnamed man who is the victim of the fascinations of Fifine, a young dancer at a fair, but who, after much perturbation, is ultimately restored to his wife, Elvire. The poem is often obscure in its wanderings from the point and because of its puzzling phraseology, but the mist clears now and again, and there are glorious bursts of sunshine and clarity. Naturally, the musician makes no attempt to follow the tortuous sinuosities of the poet. He simply lifts out for musical treatment the picture of the inconstant man and the tempting 'butterfly' Fifine, and contrasts both with the emblem of faithfulness, the constant Elvire. This is a very brief sketch of the psychologic basis of the work. We shall give a full analysis—with music illustrations—in our next number. Many concert-goers and students will be glad to know that a miniature score is to be published by Messrs. Novello & Co.

Of Dr. H. Walford Davies's work, to be produced at the Birmingham Festival, we are unable to say much, because the vocal score at the moment of our writing is not available for reference. The work is a cantata called 'The song of the Sun,' or 'The song of St. Francis,' being certain 'Praises of the Lord as concerning His creatures which St. Francis of Assisi did compose.' The words used have been compiled and adapted from the original from various translations, notably that of the late Mr. Sebastian Evans. There are nine numbers in which four soloists, choir, and orchestra are concerned. Dr. Davies will conduct.

Church and Organ Music.

NEW CHORAL SETTING OF PSALM XLVIII., BY EDWARD ELGAR.

This recently-published anthem was first produced at Westminster Abbey on July 16, on the occasion of the special service held in connection with the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the Royal Society. It is written for four-part chorus, with occasional subdivisions, bass solo and organ accompaniment (printed on three staves). The version of the Psalm used is one constructed by the composer from the Prayer Book, the Authorized Version and the Revised Version.

Beginning in key D, triple time, the altos, tenors, and basses give out a broad theme in unison (accompanied by a stately bass on the pedals), the dignity of which is almost at once enhanced by a transition to the subdominant key:

The treble voices now enter with a more delicate melodic and rhythmic flow and still with the trend to the subdominant, and presently the male voices reiterate their maestoso theme. A subdued passage for the sopranos alone closes the first section, and is followed by an exciting Allegro moderato (four-four time, F sharp minor) to the words:

> 'For lo! the kings assembled themselves, they passed together; they saw, then were they amazed; they were dismayed, they hastened away.'

The interest is now in the agitated rhythm and generally picturesque expression. The voices ejaculate short phrases, while a striking figure of quavers in the organ accompaniment is persisted in almost throughout. A great tonal climax is reached at the words 'they were dismayed,' and after this a poignant passage given to the sopranos and harmonized with beautiful effect:

leads to another climax, with a noticeable bounding rhythm to the words:

> 'As with the east wind that breaketh the ships of Tarshish.'

Again the music dies down to the words 'they hastened away.' This scene, if it may be so called, is followed by a short passage (keys E and B) in a new mood, solemn and grave, to the words:

> 'As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of our Lord of Hosts,' which leads to a bass solo (A flat major, triple time) of a quite simple and tranquil character, the words being as follows:

> 'We have thought of Thy loving kindness, O God, in the midst of Thy temple' and is succeeded by a solemn-dance-like choral movement (Andantino, A major, six-four time), a feature of which is a graceful diatonic theme employed antiphonally by the two main divisions of the choir and a drone bass. The 'daughters of Judah' are pictured as dancing, as David danced:

The diatonic character of the movement is maintained until it merges into an animated connecting passage in triple time, which leads to a resumption of the original theme of the opening, for some time mostly in unison and with a fuller and richer accompaniment, the striking tread of the pedal bass being again a feature of great interest. Later, the music softens down, and a passage low in pitch and in unison for all voices seems to be couching for a spring. It expands to a few bars of massive structure, which culminate in an ff Amen of four bars, and bring the work to an impressive conclusion.

It will be seen that except so far as the beginning and end of the Anthem are related by the use of a theme, there is nothing very formal in the construction of the work, and there are few devices that can be described as contrapuntal, the music always faithfully and simply heightening and reflecting the moods of the verbal text.

This Anthem, it may be presumed, will form a welcome addition to ecclesiastical music. Its elaborateness compared with ordinary anthems is perhaps one of its chief recommendations, because there are not many compositions of the kind in modern musical idiom available for use on important occasions. Viewed relatively to much modern music the vocal parts cannot be said to be difficult, and the fact that the accompaniment is written for the organ only increases the possibility of the utility of the work.

THE EARLY HARMONIZED CHANTS OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

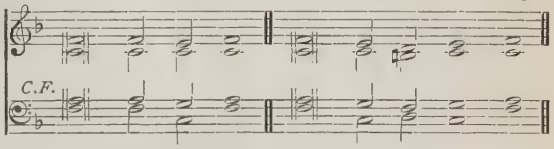
By S. Royle Shore.

It is surprising, with the antiquarian energy which has been devoted of late to the discovery, part transcription, but, it is feared, very moderate publication, of the ecclesiastical music of England of the 16th and the early part of the 17th centuries, that no adequate attempt has apparently been made to inform our minds on the subject of the harmonized psalm and canticle chants which were in use in our cathedral and collegiate churches during this period. The existence of such chants for the Psalms, as a supplement to the Gregorian tones which were taken over from the Latin offices, is sometimes admitted in text-books, musical dictionaries, and the like, but the authors clearly know very little about the subject, or at least give no evidence of knowledge. The notable inadequacy in this respect of the articles on 'Chant' in 'Grove,' and 'Stainer and Barrett' is not atoned for in the new editions of either of these important works. The new edition of the former contains, however, a reference to the Manual mentioned below. Silence on the point is the more remarkable because, without any tedious research amongst ancient manuscripts, such well-known works as John Bishop's score of the Barnard (1641) part-books in the British Museum, and the Rev. Dr. Jebb's monumental collection of Choral Uses should have at least put authors upon inquiry. Two partial exceptions, however, have been brought to the writer's notice. Mr. John Heywood, in his valuable manual on the 'Art of Chanting' (William Clowes & Sons, Limited, 1893), has a chapter on chants, according to the 'Reformation or early harmonized use, 1552-1645.' In this he sets out in full the three psalm settings by Tallis (d. 1585) in five-part harmony, as printed in Barnard. They are harmonized forms, as regards two, of the 1st Gregorian Psalm-Tone; and, as regards the third, of the 7th, with the melodies in the tenor. A footnote on page 15 refers to the existence of other chants of the period in Dr. Jebb's collection, but does not enlarge on the subject. It was hardly necessary for the purposes of the Manual to do this. Mr. Robert Bridges, in two very interesting articles contributed to the 'Musical Antiquary' (Henry Frowde) of April, 1911, and January, 1912, which are re-echoed under the heading of 'Chant, Anglican' in the recently-published 'Prayer Book Dictionary' has also a reference, with examples, to one of the Tallis chants already referred to, and another chant by Byrd (d. 1623), also printed by Barnard, but no mention is made of any other generally accessible chants of the period.

Those who would like to hear the best that can be said on both sides of the vexed question of the treatment of the concluding portion of the Anglican chant, could not do better than study the respective publications of these two well-equipped protagonists. It is only on this point that they are at issue, as both authors agree in advocating the release of the chant from its iron-bound rhythm. This, however, is somewhat of a digression.

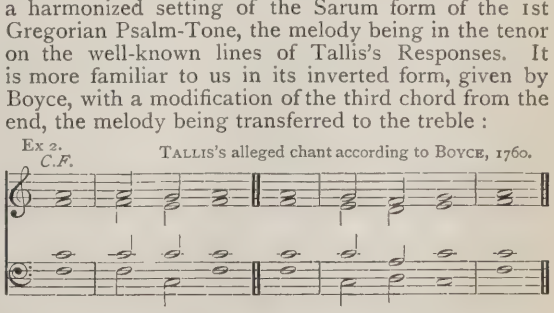
Putting aside these two writers, and taking the two Dictionaries referred to as representing, as they fairly do, the normal and generally received tradition on the subject, the sole fons et origo of the Anglican chant is considered to be the 'Christ Church Tune,' and one or two other chants of the same kind as given by the Rev. John Clifford, at the Restoration, in his 'Brief Directions of 1663,' as follows:

Ex. 1. Christ Church Tune according to Clifford, 1663.



In the sense of being one of the immediate parents of the Anglican chant, the tradition is a sound one. On page 7 of his Manual, Mr. Heywood traces the gradual evolution of the chant through Aldrich (d. 1710) and others, and Boyce's collection (1760) to the present day. The Christ Church chant is merely a harmonized setting of the Sarum form of the 1st Gregorian Psalm-Tone, the melody being in the tenor on the well-known lines of Tallis's Responses. It is more familiar to us in its inverted form, given by Boyce, with a modification of the third chord from the end, the melody being transferred to the treble:

Ex 2. Tallis's alleged chant according to Boyce, 1760.



Following probably a corrupt tradition, this was wrongly assigned by Boyce to Tallis, who ever since has had to endure the comparative odium of having been the composer of this not very inspiring composition. Tallis did in fact compose two chants upon the 1st Tone, as the writer's quotations from Heywood and Bridges have already shown, but these, as will be seen, are much more creditable creations.

To imagine, however, that the Anglican chant had no other predecessors or family relationships at home or abroad is to go hopelessly wrong. It will be found to be a development, in a rigid and cast-iron shape, of one of the smaller and much less important forms of a vast variety of the harmonized chants which were in use in later pre-Reformation times, and continued in use up to the silencing of the choirs in 1645 under the Great Rebellion. The 'Christ Church tune' is one of the types of this. Recognising to the full the useful maid-of-all-work which the Anglican chant has become, the writer nevertheless regrets that the monotonous character of the form to which it has been quite unnecessarily confined, and certain other characteristics which it would be beyond the scope of this article to discuss, should be accepted as inevitable. It is the main purpose of this article to introduce to the readers of the Musical Times a fair number of the lineal and collateral ancestors of the Anglican chant in the hope that a contemplation of their varied and sometimes imposing forms, and splendid 16th-century harmonization, will stir up a feeling of discontent amongst church musicians as to accepting the present state of things as unavoidable and permanent, and encourage the efforts of the present writer and others to make them known; also to inspire the composition of Anglican chants in rather more extended and varied forms, at least for occasional use by skilled choirs.

The principle of using harmonized chants for the psalms and canticles is neither specially English, nor is it the product of the Reformation or the English type of service. They doubtless date back a century or so into pre-Reformation times, but in this country we have at present no absolute knowledge on the point, of anything further back than 1547, the first year of the reign of King Edward VI., two years before the appearance of the first Prayer Book, so far as the facts are before the writer. The appalling destruction of Church music at the dissolution of the Religious Houses in 1536-39, by the Genevan zealots at the latter end of King Edward VI.'s reign, and at the Great Rebellion, compel one to speak with reserve as regards what did and did not take place in the 16th and the early part of the 17th centuries. From what has been left to us, sound conclusions up to certain points can, of course, be drawn.

The writer is not in a position to say when the unisonal plain-chant for psalms and canticles first came to be supplemented by harmonized chants abroad, but there is on record the following example by that wonderful genius, Josquin Després, who died in 1521, before Palestrina was born:

Ex. 3. JOSQUIN DESPRÉS (d. 1521).

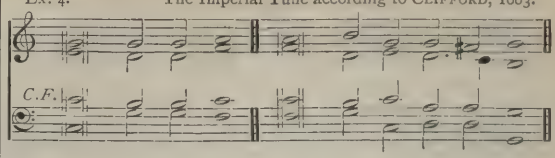
It is a harmonized form of the 8th Gregorian Psalm-Tone, the melody being in the tenor. Its general resemblance to the English prototype of the Christ Church Tune (Ex. 1.) of a century or more later will at once be noticed, but it is even more like another English chant of the period, called the 'Imperial Tune,' because that is built upon the same Psalm-Tone, though the first part or mediation is rather freely treated in the tenor to avoid consecutive fifths:

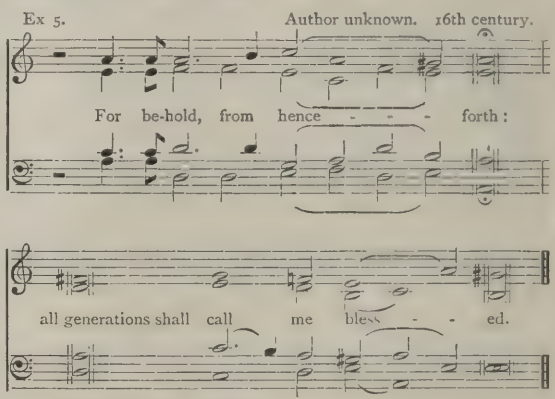
Ex. 4. The Imperial Tune according to CLIFFORD, 1663.



The elementary and simple chant of Després is only one of an immense body of chants which in infinite variety have come down to us under the name of 'Faux Bourdons' or 'Falsibordoni,' and are in regular use to the present day. They are usually sung to psalms and the Magnificat in alternation with the unisonal plain-chant. In the vast majority of cases the plain-chant has entirely disappeared, and the chant is merely more or less conformable to the laws of modal counterpoint, like the polyphony of the period. A collection, mainly the composition of unknown authors, may be found in the third volume of Proske's 'Musica divina.' In a more popular form a collection of 'XXX. Falsibordoni' of the 16th century, edited by Dr. Haberl for the Latin Magnificat, is easily obtainable through Breitkopf & Härtel.

The Plainsong and Mediæval Music Society (44, Russell Square, W.C.) have recently published a selection adapted for singing to the English Magnificat, in alternation with the plain-chant. The following example of one in the 4th Mode in the Society's collection may be of interest in making comparisons with the English developments with which the remainder of and a sequel to this article will be concerned:

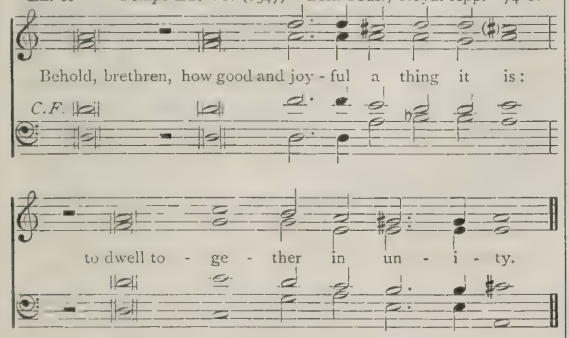
Ex 5. Author unknown. 16th century.



The chants which have come down to us in England are associated with the names of the following composers: Tallis, Parsons (d. 1570), anonymous composers of the Edwardine and possibly Henrician periods, Causton, Knight, Whitbroke, Hooper, Tomkins, Portman, Morley, Marson, Byrd, and Gibbons. Their musical careers may be considered to extend for about a century, approximately from 1530 to 1630. The two first-named composers wrote for both the Latin and English Offices of the Church, during the transitional period, 1544 (the year of the appearance of the English Litany) and 1559 (the date of the Elizabethan Prayer Book and settlement). Whether the chants associated with their names were originally written for use with the Latin psalms and taken over from the Latin rites with the Gregorian plain-chant of the Psalter cannot be determined. There exists no earlier copy of the Tallis psalm-chants than the manuscript of the Barnard collection, which bears the date 1625, and belongs to the Royal College of Music. The bass parts of settings of psalms by Parsons and others have come down to us in a choir-book in the library of Lambeth Palace.

The earliest dated examples may be considered to be contained in an interesting collection of service music in some choir books which are assigned to the first year of the reign of King Edward VI., in 1547 (British Museum, Royal Appendix, 74-6). The part-books are of special value, as they represent almost the earliest settings of the English Office at present known to exist, and consist of compositions of the psalms, canticles, anthems, and some metrical psalms. They anticipated the first Prayer Book by some two years; but there were as a matter of fact even earlier anticipations, in 1545 and 1538. All the psalm settings are by unknown composers, and may have been taken over from the Latin Psalter. The following is from a setting of a well-known psalm, though not the present Prayer Book version, based on the 7th Tone, which as usual is in the tenor:

Ex. 6. Temp. Ed. VI. (1547). Brit. Mus., Royal App. 74-6.

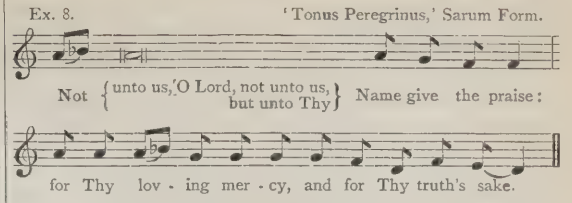


Even more interesting is a rather fine form of the 'Tonus Peregrinus,' transposed up one fourth. The conclusion of the first half, or mediation, is particularly striking:

Ex. 7. Temp. Ed. VI (1547). Brit. Mus., Royal App. 74-6.

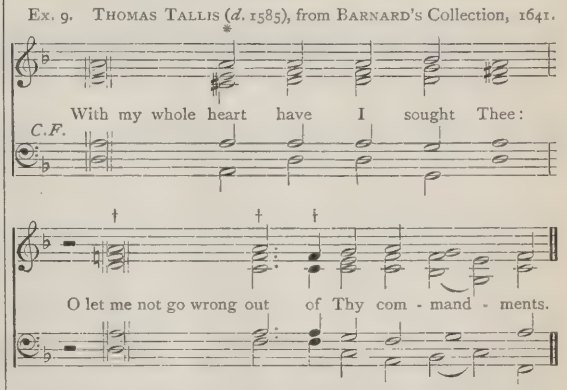
Of these two particular chants the alto and bass parts have been lost. The writer has ventured to supply them from conjecture. The Sarum form of the 'Tonus Peregrinus,' upon which the latter chant is based, is not so generally known as the one which has become so popular in Anglican chant form for the psalm 'When Israel came out of Egypt,' so it is here set out from the 'Manual of Plainsong,' (Novello & Co.):

Ex. 8. 'Tonus Peregrinus,' Sarum Form.



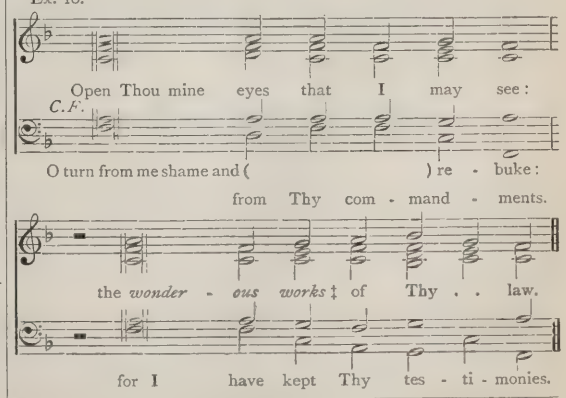
As the three chants of Tallis before referred to must have been composed before 1585, in which year the composer died, they are next dealt with. The first is a setting of the 1st Tone. It should be noted that some of the progressions are omitted in certain verses when there is a deficiency of syllables. This conformity with the rules of plainsong is very interesting, as is the conformity in another matter with the provision of a rest for the voices at the colon. Most of the settings of the period comply with these rules, unlike the contemporaneous 'Falsibordoni' of the Continent, which agree with the Anglican chant in slurring syllables together. See Ex. 5, and the Introduction to the 'Manual of Plainsong' above referred to. It should be noted that Tallis has a struggle with a consecutive fifth between the second alto and tenor at the third and fourth chords from the end, which results in a rather ugly doubled third with the bass. Could he have done any better, seeing that the tenor part was fixed?:

Ex. 9. Thomas Tallis (d. 1585), from Barnard's Collection, 1641.



The following chant is also on the 1st Tone, and is the right Tallis, as the Christ Church Tune and Boyce's inversion are not. Adrian Batten (d. 1637) is generally considered to be the composer of this 'tune,' which is sometimes called by his name. It should be noted that Tallis goes into six parts at the third chord from the end:

Ex. 10.

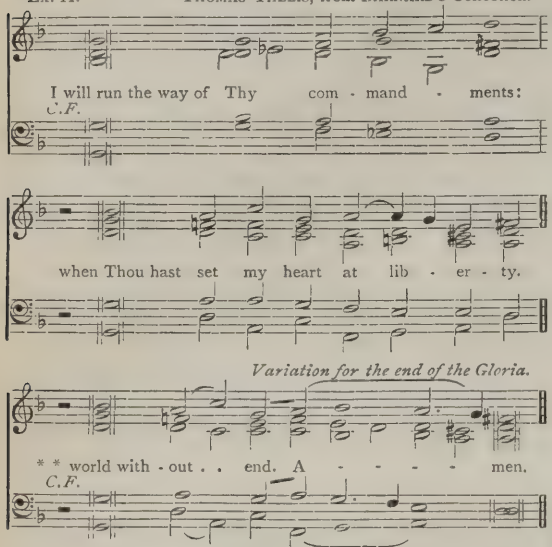


Open Thou mine eyes that I may see:
C.F.
O turn from me shame and ( ) re - buke:
from Thy com - mand - ments.
the wonder - ous works‡ of Thy . . law.
for I have kept Thy tes - ti - monies.

* Omitted in all verses but two. † Omitted in some verses.
‡ Thus in Barnard.

The concluding chant is a truly noble example based on the 7th Tone, and one that can well be described as a work of genius. The treatment of the Tone should be compared with that in Ex. 6. The effective variation at the cadence for the 'Gloria,' a favourite device in chants of the period, which might well be imitated by Anglican chant-writers of to-day, should be noted, as well as a double suspension, and the composer's disdain of a consecutive octave between the treble and the tenor. There was probably a reaction after the successful encounter with the consecutive fifth in Ex. 9 :

Ex. 11. THOMAS TALLIS, from BARNARD'S Collection.



I will run the way of Thy com - mand - ments:
C.F.
when Thou hast set my heart at lib - er - ty.
Variation for the end of the Gloria.
* * world with - out . . end. A - - - - men.
C.F.

A reference to Mr. Heywood's 'Manual,' pages 15-17, will show how Tallis treated these psalm chants in detail.

A selection of these chants, adapted to the evening canticles in alternation with the strict plainchant, and edited by Mr. Francis Burgess and the present writer, will shortly be brought out by Novello & Co. They have probably not been heard in our Cathedrals since the Great Rebellion.

In a concluding article the writer hopes to show the treatment and development of these chants for Psalms and Canticles by Causton, Whitbroke, Knight, Holmes, Hooper, Byrd, Gibbons, and perhaps others (e.g., Marson and Morley).

A three-manual chamber organ was built recently by Mr. Richard Heslop for Mr. F. S. Wykes, at The Mount, Limpsfield, Surrey. It has tubular-pneumatic action throughout, and hydraulic blowing, with special feeders and hydraulic engine by Watkins & Watson in the basement.

The following is the specification.

Manual compass, CC to A (58 notes).
Pedals, CCC to F (30 notes).
Pedal-board radiating and concave.
Detached console in oak case.

GREAT ORGAN.

	Feet		Feet
1. Open Diapason	.. 8	4. Harmonic Flute	.. 4
2. Salicional	.. 8	5. Principal	.. 4
3. Wald Flute	.. 8

SWELL ORGAN.

6. Double Diapason ..	.. 16	11. Gemshorn	.. 4
7. Violin Diapason ..	.. 8	12. Fifteenth	.. 2
8. Röhr Flute	.. 8	13. Cornopean	.. 8
9. Viol d'Amour	.. 8	14. Oboe	.. 8
10. Viox Celestes	.. 8	15. Vox Humana, Tremulant	8

CHOIR ORGAN (separate swell-box).

16. Dulciana	.. 8	19. Flute	.. 4
17. Viol d'Orchestre ..	.. 8	20. Piccolo	.. 2
18. Lieblich Gedacht ..	.. 8	21. Clarinet	.. 8

PEDAL ORGAN.

	Feet		Feet
22. Sub-Bass	.. 16	24. Bass Flute	.. 8
23. Lieblich Bourdon, from No. 6	.. 16

COUPLERS.

25. Great to Pedals.	29. Swell to Choir.
26. Swell to Pedals.	30. Swell Super-Octave.
27. Choir to Pedals.	31. Choir Unison to Great.
28. Swell to Great.	32. Choir Sub-Octave to Great.

ACCESSORIES.

3 Pneumatic Pistons to Swell Organ.
3 Pneumatic Pistons to Great Organ.
Oak case with carved mouldings, &c. Decorated front pipes.

As recorded in our last issue a recital was recently given on the organ by Mr. John E. West.

For its coming session the 'Glasgow Society of Organists' has extended its field of membership to include the whole of Glasgow. The arrangements for the meetings of the Society, which occur at the Athenæum on the first Saturday of every month, include a varied list of practical and æsthetic topics for discussion, from the construction of an organ to the humanity of Bach. The officers of the Society are the Rev. George Bell, Mus. Doc. (hon. president), Dr. R. Fox Frew (hon. vice-president), Mr. W. Schofield (president), Mr. A. M. Mackay (vice-president), Mr. Sydney L. Crookes, 66, Sinclair Drive, Langside (hon. secretary and treasurer).

Mr. W. L. Biggs has recently completed his thirtieth year of office as organist of St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, Oxford.

ORGAN RECITALS.

Among the recitals given recently at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, during the vacancy of the post of organist, was that of Mr. Reginald Goss Custard, whose chief work was Bach's Prelude and Fugue in A minor.

Mr. G. Stephen Evans, English Congregational Church, Portland Street, Aberystwyth—Romance in D flat, Lemare.

Mr. W. A. Roberts, St. Paul's, Princes Park, Liverpool—Scènes Pittoresques, Massenet.

Mr. Edward Bartlett, Arundel Parish Church—Fugue in G, Bach.

Mr. Wilfred Arlom, N. A. Baptist Church, Adelaide—Sonata No. 1, Guilmant.

Mr. Bryan Warhurst, St. Thomas's Church, Rhyl—Finlandia, Sibelius.

Mr. Charles F. Nidd, First Baptist Church, Calgary, Alberta—First Sonata da Camera, A. L. Peace.

Mr. William H. Collins, organist and choirmaster, St. Mary's Church, Chiddingstone—Sonata No. 2, Mendelssohn.

Mr. Frank Proudman, Town Hall, Durban—Intermezzo, Hollins.

Mr. W. Wilson Foster, St. Nicholas Church, Whitehaven—Fantasia-Overture in D minor, C. B. Rootham.

Mr. Frederick J. Parsons, Ventnor Parish Church—Concerto in D minor, Friedmann Bach.

Mr. F. Gostelow, St. John's Church, Lowestoft—Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach.

Mr. George H. Rees, Royal Arcade, Boscombe—Prelude and Fugue in C minor—Bach.

Mr. George Tootell, Wesleyan Church, Keswick—Theme with Variations, Hesse.

Mr. A. T. Akeroyd, St. Margaret's Church, Ilkley—Chorale Prelude on 'St. Ann's,' Parry.

Mr. G. Stephen Evans, English Congregational Church, Portland Street, Aberystwyth—Fantasia in D minor, Merkel.

Mr. W. J. Comley, Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Brancaster—Overture in C, Hollins.

Mr. Albert Orton, Walton Parish Church—Andante in D, Silas.

(Continued on page 593.)

O Saving Victim.

SHORT ANTHEM OR COMMUNIO.

Composed by GEORGE H. WESTBURY.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A

Andante espressivo. ♩=80.
p Sw.
Quartet. Soprano.
p
O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The Alto.
p
O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The Tenor.
p
O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The Bass.
p
O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The
rall.
a tempo.
Org. ad lib.
gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thine gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thine gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thine
gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thine

Copyright, 1912, by Novello and Company, Limited.

FULL.
p aid sup - ply, Thy strength be - stow. . . O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The FULL.
p aid sup - ply, Thy strength be - stow. . . O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The FULL.
p aid sup - ply, Thy strength be - stow. O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The FULL.
p aid sup - ply, Thy strength be - stow. O Sav - ing Vic - tim, o - p'ning wide The p gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thy gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thy gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply Thy gate of Heav'n to man be - low, Our foes press on from ev - 'ry side, Thine aid sup - ply, Thy cres.
dim.
strength be - stow, Thy strength be - stow.
strength be - stow, Thy strength . . be - stow.
strength be - stow, Thy strength be - stow.
strength be - stow, Thy strength be - stow.
cres.

Full. a tempo.
All praise and thanks to . . Thee as-cend For Full. a tempo.
All praise and thanks to Thee as-cend For
Full. a tempo.
All praise and thanks to Thee as-cend For
Full. a tempo.
All praise and thanks to Thee as-cend For dim.
rall.
f
a tempo.
ev - er - more, Blest One in Three, O grant us life that shall not end, . . O
ev - er - more, Blest One in Three, O grant us life that shall not end, . . O
ev - er - more, Blest One in Three, O grant us life that shall not end, . . O ev - er - more, Blest One in Three, O grant us life that shall not end, O mp
cres. poco a poco.
grant us life that shall not end, . . O grant us life that shall not end, O grant us life that shall not end, . . O grant us life that shall not grant us life that shall not end, . . O grant us life that shall not grant us life that shall not end, O grant us life that shall not end, O cres poco a poco.

grant us life that shall not end, O grant us life . . that . .
end, that shall not end, O grant us life . . that .
end, that shall not end, O grant us life . . that . .
grant us life that shall not end, O grant us life that . .
shall not end In our true . . na - tive land with shall not end . . In our true na - tive land with shall . . not end In . . our . . true . . na - tive land with shall not end In our true na - tive land with Thee. A - - - - - men, A - - - - - - - men.
Thee. A - - - - - men, A - - - - - - - men.
Thee. A - - - - - men, A - - - - - - - men.
Thee. A - - - - - men, A - - - - - - - men.

(Concluded from page 588.)

Mr. Arthur Clements, United Methodist Church, Bridgwater —Prelude and Fugue in C minor, S. Wesley.

Dr. T. Keighley, St. Mary's, Newton Moor—Melody in B flat and Toccata in D minor, Max Reger.

Mr. Herbert Hodge, All Saints' Parish Church, Birchington —Fantasia on 'Ein' feste Burg,' Karg-Elert.

Dr. Caradog Roberts, Rehoboth, C. M. Church, Prestatyn—Funeral March and Hymn of Seraphs, Guilmant.

Mr. Allan Brown, Crystal Palace—Overture in C, Hollins.

Dr. A. W. Pollitt, Parish Church, Tibberton, Glos—Sonata No. 6, in E minor, Merkel.

Mr. C. E. Blyton Dobson, Central Mission, Halifax Place, Nottingham—Fantasia and Fugue in A minor, Bach.

Mr. Claude A. Forster, Parish Church, Gorleston—Fantasia in E minor, Merkel.

Dr. R. Fox Frew, Govan Parish Church—Sonata No. 7, Rheinberger.

Mr. Edgar A. Miller, Green's Norton Church—Intermezzo, Hollins.

Dr. T. H. Collinson, St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh—Sonata in A minor, Rheinberger.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. William H. Collins, organist and choirmaster, St. Mary's Church, Chiddingstone.

Mr. Sydney T. Cox, music-master and organist, St. Anne's Schools, Redhill, Surrey.

Mr. W. H. Glanville, choirmaster, Broadwater Parish Church, Worthing.

Mr. W. Meacham Haley, organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, South Hackney.

Mr. A. Holroyd, organist, George A. Clark Town Hall, Paisley.

Mr. R. H. Pack, organist and choirmaster, St. Michael's Church, Millbrooke.

Reviews.

Report of the Fourth Congress of the International Musical Society, London, May 29—June 3, 1911. Pp. 432.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

In our July issue (p. 446) we gave a résumé of the contents of this substantial volume, which has now been published. A cursory perusal of its reports of meetings and papers read, and the programmes of the numerous functions in which music figured, provokes a feeling of wonder that so much was successfully crowded into one memorable week. The Report gives a list of all the members of the general-committee and sub-committees, numbering nearly three hundred persons, seventeen delegates from foreign Governments, delegates from foreign institutions, the nine vice-presidents (all foreigners), and all the foreign visitors. The early history of the arrangements for the event are epitomized, and the report of the opening ceremony, at which the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, M.P., the President of the Congress, spoke with so much ability, is a full one. The text of addresses sent by two Moscow Societies is given. There are numerous evidences in the volume that the event excited worldwide interest. The programmes are given in full, with the numerous learned annotations that appeared in the books that were used on the occasions. It is erroneously supposed in some quarters that foreign music was barred in accordance with a fixed policy of the committee; but the fact was that the committee decided that while a very comprehensive view of British musical art from its earliest manifestation to the works of living composers should be placed before visitors, there was no desire to exclude foreign music. As a matter of fact nineteen foreign composers were represented by twenty pieces.

The papers read in the various sections are given more or less fully. Twenty-five are in English (eight of which are by foreigners), eighteen in French, twenty-two in German, and three in Italian. One of the most useful features of the book is the abstract, in English, of all the papers. As we stated in July, the whole volume has been ably edited for the Congress committee by Dr. Charles Maclean, who is the honorary co-secretary for the British section and the honorary secretary for the full Society. The task was a remarkably laborious one, entailing as it did numerous communications with contributors spread over the world. As the contents of the volume become familiar, they will no doubt provoke some useful discussion. We have already printed some of the papers in the Musical Times, and we hope to be able to arrange for others of interest to appear shortly.

Catalogue of the printed music in the British Museum (1487-1800). Two vols. By W. Barclay Squire.

[Printed by order of the Trustees.]

The publication of this catalogue will be a great boon to many students of musical history, as it will save them the annoyance of having to waste a large part of their time in the Library in studying the general catalogue. Moreover, Mr. Squire has not simply reproduced the existing matter. The preface (by Mr. G. K. Fortescue) states that 'each volume or piece has been examined, and in the majority of instances re-catalogued, while in the case of rare and valuable works, the descriptions have been more fully and accurately set forth.' In determining the date of printing, a difficulty was caused in many cases by the custom that long prevailed among music publishers in Great Britain of omitting to put the date on record. The two volumes of the catalogue contain no fewer than 1,529 pages, with two columns on each page. They are a monument of extraordinary labour and painstaking. The result does not submit easily to a reviewer's analysis, but some interesting points come to light. The music of Bach barely occupies a column, while that of 'Hændel' occupies nearly forty. The catalogue of Dibdin's stage-works and songs is given in twenty-five columns, and many queer titles the list of lyrics contains. Beethoven has one entry, consisting of a volume of three sonatas. There are some sectional headings such as Psalms, the list of which covers fifty pages. Writers on topics connected with old music will doubtless find a helpful stimulus in this work.

CHORAL MUSIC.

The Wandering Jew. For baritone solo, chorus, and orchestra. By Friedrich Hegar.

Rhapsody. For alto solo, male chorus, and orchestra. By Johannes Brahms.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

'The Wandering Jew' is an English edition, with a translation by Paul England, of a cantata originally published in Germany under the title of 'Ahasvers Erwachen.' The poem, if uneventful, is eminently suitable for, and suggestive of, musical treatment. In the opening the spirits of the mountains and the forests summon peace for the slumbers of Ahasver, the Wandering Jew. Waking, he thanks them, and welcomes the premonition of his coming death and release, and the spirits still offer him solace and comfort. But his remorse again overtakes him, and the 'eyes of his Saviour pursue him for aye,' and goad him on. Again he is wandering, and the spirits speed him with the words: 'The songs we have sung to thee, long may they linger in thy soul. In many a night of anguish may'st thou feel on thy burning brows the cooling breath of the snow-clad mountains on mem'ry's pinions wafted!'

There is abundant contrast of mood here. Those who only know Hegar by his 'Phantom Host' and 'Walpurga' will recognise the stamp of his individuality in the more rugged sections and in the moments of calm will make acquaintance with his gift of smooth melodic writing. A characteristic feature of the music is the avoidance of all exaggerated feeling. Mood and style are kept under control, and the musical unity of the work is complete. The choral writing is distinguished, and there is much eloquence in the baritone solos. From beginning to end the composer has kept guard on the quality of his ideas, and has achieved a work of considerable individuality and interest.

Brahms's well-known and much-admired 'Alto Rhapsodie' is now available, with German and English texts, for the modest outlay of one shilling. Mr. W. G. Rothery's English version answers every requirement, and should help greatly to spread knowledge and appreciation of this beautiful work.

SONGS.

A little song of Picardie. By Cyril Scott.
Dewdrops. By Ethel Barns.
A white rose. By Edgar Barratt.
Two Red Indian love-songs. By Hope Squire.

[Elkin & Co.]

The first of these songs is concentrated essence of Cyril Scott. It is sheer mannerism in its vocal curve, its harmony, and its figure of accompaniment. It is prettily devised, falls on the ear very gratefully, and probably will earn many encores. Why the composer should suddenly decide at the last moment to end in E flat, after firmly establishing D, is not clear.

'Dewdrops' does not claim a high place in the artistic scale, and should be leniently criticised. It is an unconsidered trifle that has several points of superiority to the average drawing-room ballad. 'A white rose' endeavours with some success to emerge from this rut, largely by going the round of the keys F, A, D♭, F. It has a graceful swing of rhythm, which would be improved by the removal of the pause before the entry of the voice. The title-description of the songs by 'Hope Squire' promises some interest of character, but there is little in the music that is definitely Red Indian or even indefinitely exotic. Apart from questions of characterization, however, there is much merit in the songs and some artistic aspiration that is not unfruitful.

The Months. Twelve pianoforte solos, in four books. By Frederic H. Cowen.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

It is well for us that the composer of 'The Veil' does not turn away from smaller forms and is content to write a collection of pianoforte miniatures. The twelve pieces that he has dedicated to the twelve months of the year are of the kind that are strongly needed as a corrective to the flaccid sentiment and second-hand exotic harmonies of modern light pianoforte music. They are clear-cut in melody and design; their harmonization has a dash of modern tonal freedom, discreetly measured; and their detailed workmanship is not confined to the upper notes in the right hand. If it is necessary to make comparisons between the four volumes of the series, we give the palm to the first. 'January,' a lullaby for the new year, is melodious and delicately fanciful. February is typified by a St. Valentine's Day flirtation, which proceeds with gay spirits and apparent smoothness. Apart from their meaning, the musical ideas are clever and pretty. 'March' is duly boisterous, and is vigorous in conception as well as in manner; it has a middle section that distinctly suggests a low temperature. The next book contains a gentle Spring study for April, an Italian serenade for May, and an echo of the songs of birds for June. 'July' brings the composer into the familiar ground of butterfly music, and this number is one of the most charming in the collection. 'August' is a mid-day reverie that carries thought beneath the surface of things. 'September' breaks the spell with a merry harvest tune. There is nothing better in the series than the soothing autumn evening song that is chosen to represent October. In November we have a burly but not too solemn civic procession, and 'December' brings the tale to an end with sounds as of a church on Christmas morning.

The composer has not cramped his ideas to obtain simplicity, nor does he make exorbitant demands on technique. The pieces may be described as being of average, or less than average, difficulty.

VIOLIN MUSIC.

Four characteristic pieces. By C. H. Lloyd.

[Novello & Co., Ltd.]

Dr. Lloyd's violin pieces pursue a path so placid and so untroubled by intellectual problems as to suggest that the type of exponent he had in view was the promising but still youthful amateur—such, for instance, as one might expect to find at Eton College. With all their variety of manner and matter they are clear and straightforward in utterance and design, and they express a serene outlook on life. It need hardly be said that their melody is refined and their workmanship a model, and that the violin part is essentially violin music. The opening number is 'In modo d'una sonata.' It has its first subject and second subject, and proceeds to the development; this opens with an ingenious passage in which the pianoforte deals with the principal theme, pp, in high octaves, while the violin accompanies in measured arpeggios pizzicato. There is a combination of themes and a concentrated recapitulation. It might he said that the Cavatina, Mazurka, and Moto Perpetuo that follow are the remaining movements of the Sonata (it is suggested that the pieces should be played consecutively when practicable). They have the same distinction and felicity of idea, and the four pieces are sufficiently unified in spirit to be considered as one work. It may be added that the pianoforte part has abundant interest.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Bayreuth and the Wagner Theatre. By Anna Bahr-Mildenburg and Hermann Bahr. Translated by T. W. Makepeace. Pp. 96. Price 2*s.* 6*d.* (London: T. Fisher Unwin.)

The Value of Old Violins. By E. Polonaski. Pp. 78. Price 2*s.* 6*d.* (London: William Reeves.)

Correspondence.

CHAUVINISM IN MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

SIR,—In the August number of the Musical Times Dr. Maclean makes some misleading criticisms upon my recent article in the Edinburgh Review, entitled 'Chauvinism in Music,' which seem to call for a reply. That Dr. Maclean should conceive it to be his 'official duty' to protest on behalf of the International Musical Society against my reproaches respecting the narrow policy which ruled the musical arrangements of the Congress held in London last season, was perhaps inevitable; but the shafts he aims at me in defence of a Society of which I have the honour to be a member do not fly true.

In the first place he dismisses one of the books which form the basis of my article as 'a not over-wise booklet.' Now, however greatly individual opinion may vary as to the wisdom of Mr. Cecil Forsyth's theories as set forth in his 'Music and Nationalism,' it cannot be accurately described as 'a booklet.' It is obviously meant as a serious contribution to musical literature. Published by Messrs. Macmillan & Co. in an edition not very dissimilar to Sir Hubert Parry's 'Style in Musical Art,' to which I devoted some space in the same article, Mr. Forsyth's book is an octavo containing some 350 pages and priced at five shillings. If this constitutes 'a booklet,' then all the volumes noticed in my article must be placed in the same category. Moreover, 'Music and Nationalism' had been widely read and discussed—including, if memory serves me rightly, an important review in your own periodical—before, in Dr. Maclean's words, I 'honoured' it with a seven-page notice in the Edinburgh Review. This plain statement of fact will, I imagine, clear me of the imputation that I was foisting on one of our leading reviews a criticism of an unimportant 'booklet.'

Dr. Maclean also suggests that I went out of my way to link the I.M.S. with the reflections that followed the reading of Mr. Forsyth's book. Not in the least. This institution did not require to be 'haled in to be bracketed' with 'a certain booklet.' From the regrettable expression of exaggerated patriotism which struck me in some pages of 'Music and Nationalism' to the recent action of the British section of the International Musical Society was a perfectly natural transition of thought. This organization and its policy fell inevitably into the ugly picture of musical Chauvinism for which I had material and to spare.

To turn from Dr. Maclean's criticism of my article to his defence of the I.M.S. What are his vindications of the all-British programmes presented to our guests in May and June last? They seem to be threefold. First, he argues, there was the justification of German precedent. If Germany had to a great extent ignored British claims at the previous Congresses, let us go one better and exclude the foreigner altogether from the London programmes. This is what I mean by 'a retaliatory policy of a weak and short-sighted kind.' But of course the proceedings of the council of thirty may have been actuated by much higher motives. The idea may really have been the didactic one of instructing the many learned and enthusiastic musicians who attended the first British Congress in the things that it was good for them to hear. Let us hope so; but a cynical demon whispers to me that the sentiment of cut for cut lay at the basis of the whole policy.

Dr. Maclean shifts the reproach of Chauvinistic action from the British section to the entire Society. In a Society styled 'International' it is doubtful diplomacy for one country to save its face at the expense of another. But since the pot has now called the kettle black, let us see what special justification the latter may have for its blackness. Since the foundation of the Internationale Musikgesellschaft in Berlin in 1899, three Congresses have been held in Germany. The whole idea of the International Society emanated in the first instance from that country, and it was a very natural thing in the infancy of the organization, when the German membership was probably largely preponderant, that the first Congress should be held there, and should be devoted to native music. But it was not the music of their contemporary composers that was pushed into prominence. With wisdom and dignity, the German Committee decided to give nothing but the works of Bach in the centre which had witnessed his greatest activity. Considering the almost divine significance of this composer, could a more glorious start have been made by any budding institution than the performance of his music, isolated from that of all secondary names? The universality of Bach's genius must surely have excluded all questions of international claim on that occasion. The second Congress took place at Basel in September, 1906. The music performed there was, says Dr. Maclean, 'with the exception of one short piece by Purcell, all Continental music of a particular type.' Why not say what type? The uninformed might infer that it was Strauss, Debussy, Max Reger, Ravel, Sinigaglia, or Sibelius —anything, everything in fact, that rigorously excluded the henpecked British school. The simple truth is that the music given at the second Congress was sensibly limited to the kind known as 'antiquarian.' The programmes were fairly evenly divided between the early schools of the Netherlands, Italy, Germany, and France; the latter, represented by Couperin, Rameau, Leclair, and others, taking a slightly prominent position. English music was represented in the programmes by Purcell, Dowland, and Morley. Of the third Congress, held at Vienna in 1909, Dr. Maclean says: 'Although an effort was made towards having one concert with an international programme, the local committee did not see their way to it, and all the music given was Austrian music.' As an officer of the Internationale Musikgesellschaft Dr. Maclean might have frankly alluded to the special justification for this second national display; it was the centenary of the death of 'Papa' Haydn, and the Viennese performances were very properly consecrated to his music, or to that of his immediate predecessors and contemporaries. In all this we can but admire the wisdom and moderation of the German committees who, putting aside the temptation to set their living representatives of music in the forefront of the pageant, restricted their programmes impartially to names that have been consecrated by the judgment of generations.

If at our first British Congress, held in May and June, 1911, the committee thought fit to break with this admirable precedent, they might at least, in striking certain contemporary British notes, have struck also the international one. The result would in the opinion of many have made for harmony rather than discord. There is nothing to be said against the choice of representative works from the 'Golden Age' of English music, although we think Dr. Maclean overstates the case when he says that but for the Congress our foreign guests might have died in complete ignorance of our 17th- and 18th-century music. Some of it has been actually published in Germany, and it is occasionally startling to find that well-informed Continental musicians know as much about it as we do ourselves. It is not, however, the selections from the 'Golden Age' that are open to reproach or criticism, but those from an age which has not yet proved its claim to be so distinguished. When it comes to dealing with metal that has hardly yet been minted and stamped as current coin in the musical marts of the world, a very tactful and delicate method of exploitation becomes necessary.

Among the thirty who sat weekly in anxious conclave over this ticklish question, Dr. Maclean tells us some of the 'best business heads' were included. The obvious deduction is that a 'best business head' is not necessarily combined with an impartial or impeccable artistic taste.

I have dealt with two of Dr. Maclean's lines of defence—the plea of precedent, and the shifting of responsibility from the British committee to the whole organization of the I.M.G. There remains yet a third which I prefer to indicate in his own not too-happily chosen phrases: 'The London Congress Committee, in deciding what musical entertainment should be given, considered first the fact that the patriotic motive was the only one likely to take money out of the pockets of private individuals.' If this were a true picture of unmusical England, my article on 'Chauvinism in Music' would be justified indeed! But after all it would only represent one side of the question. The subscriptions gathered in when, metaphorically speaking, Britannia's helmet was handed round to individuals thus stigmatised as being too inartistic to contribute to music for its own sake, were certainly not ungenerous; but who can say that they might not have been still more liberal, had the appeal been made on a more liberal basis?

The Congress is over and done with, but we have its records enshrined in a weighty volume, so that it is inevitable that we should think over its results, and we are surely justified in asking ourselves: Did we make the most of a great opportunity?—Has the Congress really been beneficial and strengthening to our musical life? If the majority of our British representatives reply in the affirmative, so much the worse for majorities. Personally, I can picture to myself a Congress at which the social functions might be less brilliant—if indeed they were brilliant—and the ultimate results more artistic and further reaching. I do not believe I am in a minority of one in feeling that the Congress of 1911 was in many ways an expression of our weakness rather than of our strength; but even if I stand alone, I must still unashamedly express the hope that when the opportunity recurs, England, ignoring all precedent, however justifiable, may set the generous fashion of a truly International gathering at which we shall welcome not only the critics, professors, and learned musicians of other lands, but the leading creative artists as well. It should be possible to organize a Congress that would do us honour in our neighbours' eyes as well as in our own limited vision.—Yours obediently,

ROSA NEWMARCH.

[We comment on this letter on p. 575.—ED., M.T.]

WILLIAM VINCENT WALLACE.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

DEAR SIR,—I have read with much interest Dr. Grattan Flood's centenary notice of the composer of 'Maritana,' but as it contains some inaccuracies I shall esteem it a favour if you will be good enough to allow me to correct them in the next issue of your paper. In the first place, your contributor claims Wallace as a convert to the Church of Rome as far back as 1830. I fail to see how this could be, seeing that he was admitted into the mysteries of Freemasonry many years after this date in New York. On his return to London Wallace was affiliated to the 'Mount Moriah' Lodge, of which he remained a member to the day of his death. I have had his certificate of this Lodge in my hand, and I am given to understand that it is now deposited in the Grand Lodge, Great Queen Street, W.C. As Dr. Flood is a Knight of St. Gregory, I need not point out to him that the Church of Rome does not allow her sons to become members of Masonic Societies, and it is therefore highly improbable that the composer ever embraced Roman Catholicism. I well remember that when the fund and concert were organized for his aged widow in 1895, Cardinal Vaughan at first refused his patronage on the ground that Wallace was a Protestant. When it was explained to him, however, that Mrs. Wallace was a Catholic, he immediately allowed his name to be added to the list of patrons. Vincent Wallace was buried in Kensal Green Cemetery on October 25, 1865, with Protestant rites, and this could not have occurred had he died in the Roman Catholic faith.

Again, Dr. Flood tells us that the composer separated from his wife (née Kelly) in Sydney in 1835, 'whom he never saw again.' He then goes on to say that he was 'lovingly attended by his wife' on his death-bed in 1865. This is absolutely incorrect, for in this year Mrs. Wallace was bedridden in Dublin and bereft of her reason. I am afraid the late Sir Robert Stewart is responsible for all these absurd stories about Wallace, and Sir George Grove was fully alive to this fact when he admitted to a friend of mine, in 1895, that 'Sir Robert had drawn on his imagination.' Sir George Grove promised to make the necessary corrections in the Dictionary, however, and this has been faithfully done by Mr. Fuller Maitland, the present editor.

In 1850 the New York Herald gave currency to a report that Wallace had married Miss Hélène Stoepel, the pianist, but his son often assured me that no such marriage had ever taken place either in America or elsewhere. Miss Stoepel was a talented pianist, but she was also possessed of commonsense, and as she was well aware that Mrs. Wallace was alive in Dublin, it is highly improbable that she would consent to enter into a bigamous contract with the composer. It was a liaison simply, and two sons were the issue of that unfortunate attachment. They both committed suicide in America, and Miss Stoepel died in New York, in 1885, aged fifty-eight. After the death of the composer, a concert was organized in London 'for the benefit of Mrs. Wallace and her family.' It was a failure, however, as the following extract from the Illustrated London News, January 13, 1866, clearly proves :

'The Committee of Musicians and persons connected with the musical profession for the purpose of raising a "memorial fund" for the benefit of the widow and children of the late Vincent Wallace gave a concert (announced as the first of a series) for this purpose at the Hanover Square Rooms, on Thursday last. But it proved a failure, in so far as regards its object, for there were not as many persons present as could defray the advertising, lights, attendance, and other necessary expenses ; the use of the Rooms and the services of the performers having been given gratuitously.'

The concert was never repeated, for awkward questions were being asked in the Press, and the lady on whose behalf the benefit performance was organized returned to New York to earn her livelihood by teaching. The composer had one legitimate child only—William Vincent Wallace ; he died in the Charterhouse on December 13, 1909.

Vincent Wallace was a gifted composer and musician ; when one has said this, very little remains to be added with benefit to the public. His poor wife died in Dublin in 1900, after a long and painful illness—R.I.P. Believe me, Yours very truly,

July 20, 1912. SUSANNE COLE, A.R.A.M.

[Before being printed the above letter was submitted to Dr. Flood, whose reply is as follows ; and this letter in turn was submitted to Miss Cole, whose final reply is also given.]

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

DEAR SIR,—Miss Cole implies that Wallace was not a convert to the Catholic Church in 1830, on the ground that he was admitted to a Masonic Lodge in New York in 1842, and she adds that 'the Church of Rome does not allow her sons to become members of Masonic Societies.'

Let me briefly say that Wallace undoubtedly became a Catholic in Thurles, and there it was he assumed his new name of 'Vincent.' But he also reverted in 1842. However, Miss Cole is much mistaken in thinking that Catholics in 1830 could not become Freemasons.

As to my statement that Wallace was attended on his death-bed by his wife, I made it relying on the published obituary notice in the Revue et Gazette Musicale de Paris for October 27, 1865. I now admit that Miss Stoepel was the lady who was with the dying composer, but the New York Herald distinctly announced the 'marriage' of Wallace to this lady in October, 1850, an announcement which was copied into the Musical World for November 9, 1850. Furthermore, in the announcement of the benefit concert in January, 1866, quoted by Miss Cole in her letter, the concert was stated to be 'for the benefit of the widow and children of the late Vincent Wallace.' In charity, I therefore assumed that Miss Stoepel was Mrs. Wallace No. 2, but this would make the composer out a bigamist if he had really married her, which was not the case.

Miss Cole is mistaken in her statement that at the time of Wallace's death his wife was 'bedridden in Dublin and bereft of her reason.' A friend who knew Mrs. Wallace well tells me that he received music-lessons from Mrs. Wallace in Dublin in 1865 and 1866. She died in Dublin on July 25, 1900.

Let me take this opportunity of announcing that an influential committee, including the Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, Lord Roberts, Count de la Poer, the Mayor and High Sheriff of Waterford, Mr. Percy Fitzgerald, Mr. Edmund Downey, Mr. Joseph O'Mara, and others, has been formed to hold a Vincent Wallace Centenary Celebration in Waterford next November.

Yours faithfully,

W. H. GRATTAN FLOOD.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

DEAR SIR,—I am obliged by your communication of the 3rd inst., and thank you for giving me an opportunity of reading Dr. Flood's letter. I merely wish to say that all my information is derived from the son of the composer, and as he administered his father's estate in 1865, I presume he knew the correct state of affairs better than any one else. I am not concerned with the religious views of the composer, and the point I wish more particularly to emphasise is that Miss Stoepel was never his wife. It is quite correct to say that the concert given in 1866 was advertised (erroneously) as 'for the benefit of Mrs. Wallace and her children.' It appeared in The Times in January of that year, and the announcement of my own annual concert appeared in the same paper a few days after. Artists were asked to volunteer for a second 'Wallace' Concert to be given in the following February, but it never took place, for the reasons stated in my first letter. Mr. Vincent Wallace informed me that his mother was seriously ill in Dublin at the time of his father's death, but Dr. Flood could not have been in close touch with this lady, or he would have known that she was not at the composer's death-bed in 1865. He now admits his error, and my point is gained. I have no desire to prolong this correspondence, and thank you for allowing me to state my views in your paper.—Believe me, yours very truly,

August 12, 1912. SUSANNE COLE, A.R.A.M.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL, LIVERPOOL: FIRST LADY PERFORMER.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

SIR,—In your issue for August, under the heading of 'Church and Organ Music,' you mentioned a recital, given on Willis's magnificent organ in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, by Miss Lilian Frost, and you state that she is the only lady who has played on this organ. Will you permit me to contradict this statement by saying that I was present, on Saturday, June 8, 1895, at two organ recitals given in this hall by Miss Emily Edroff, and that I have copies of her programmes before me as I write.—I am, Sir,

Yours faithfully,

'Lismore,' Hampton Hill, Middlesex, August 14, 1912. HENRY T. SILBERTHORPE.

The Musical Times. EXTRA SUPPLEMENT. September 1, 1912

No. 1247. NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK. Price 3*d.*

(SECOND SERIES.)

MY BONNIE LASS SHE SMILETH

FOUR-PART SONG

THE WORDS OLD ENGLISH

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; NEW YORK: THE H. W. GRAY CO., SOLE AGENTS FOR THE U.S.A.

Allegro giocoso.

SOPRANO. mf

My bon - nie lass she smi - leth, When she.. my..heart be

ALTO. mf

My lass she smi - leth, When my heart . she be -

TENOR. mf

My lass she.. smi - leth, When my heart she be -

BASS. mf

My lass she smi - leth, When my heart . . she be -

Allegro giocoso. ♩=132.

(For practice only.) mf

pp mf

- gui - leth, With a fal la la . . . la la la la la la ! Smile

pp mf

- gui - leth, With a fal la la la la la la la ! Smile

pp mf

- gui - leth, Smile less, ... smile

pp mf

- gui - leth, With a fal la la la la la ! Smile

pp mf

Copyright, 1912, by Novello and Company, Limited.

less, dear love, there-fore, And you shall love me.. more, less, dear love, there-fore, And you shall love me more, and you shall less, dear love, . . . And you shall love me.. more, less, dear love, there-fore, And you shall love me more, and you shall and you, ... and you, ... and you shall love me love, ... and you shall love, ... and you shall love me more, ... love, ... and you shall love me more, . . love me more, . . love me more and more! With a fal la la . . . la la la la la la la la la la la la
. . . and you shall love me more! With a fal la la la la la la love me more! With a fal la la la la la la la la more! With a fal la la la la la la la la la la . .
f

MY BONNIE LASS SHE SMILETH.

Broader.
la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la !
Smile
la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la !
Smile
. . la la la la la la la la ! Smile
Broader.
rit.
less, dear love, there - fore, And you shall love me more ! . .
la ! Smile less, there - fore, And you shall love me more ! . . less, . . . there - fore, And you shall love me more ! . . When less, dear love, there - fore, And you shall love me more ! . .
a tempo.
Oh ! how my heart it burn - eth, With a
Oh ! how my heart burn - eth, With a she her sweet eye turn - eth, Oh ! how my heart it burn - eth, my Oh ! how my heart it burn - eth, With a

f
Broader.
fal la la . . . la la la la la la la la ! Dear love, dear fal la la la la la la la la ! Dear love, dear heart, ... Dear love, dear fal la la la la la la ! Dear love, dear Broader.
f
p love, call in their light, Or else you burn me quite ! Yes, quite ! . .
love, call in their light, Or else you burn me quite ! Yes, love, ... Or else you burn me quite ! Yes, love, call in their light, Or else you burn me quite ! Yes,
mf rallentando.
. . yes, quite ! . . My bon-nie lass, my bon-nie lass, my . .
quite ! yes, quite !
rallentando.
quite ! yes, quite ! My bon-nie lass, my bon-nie lass, quite ! yes, quite !
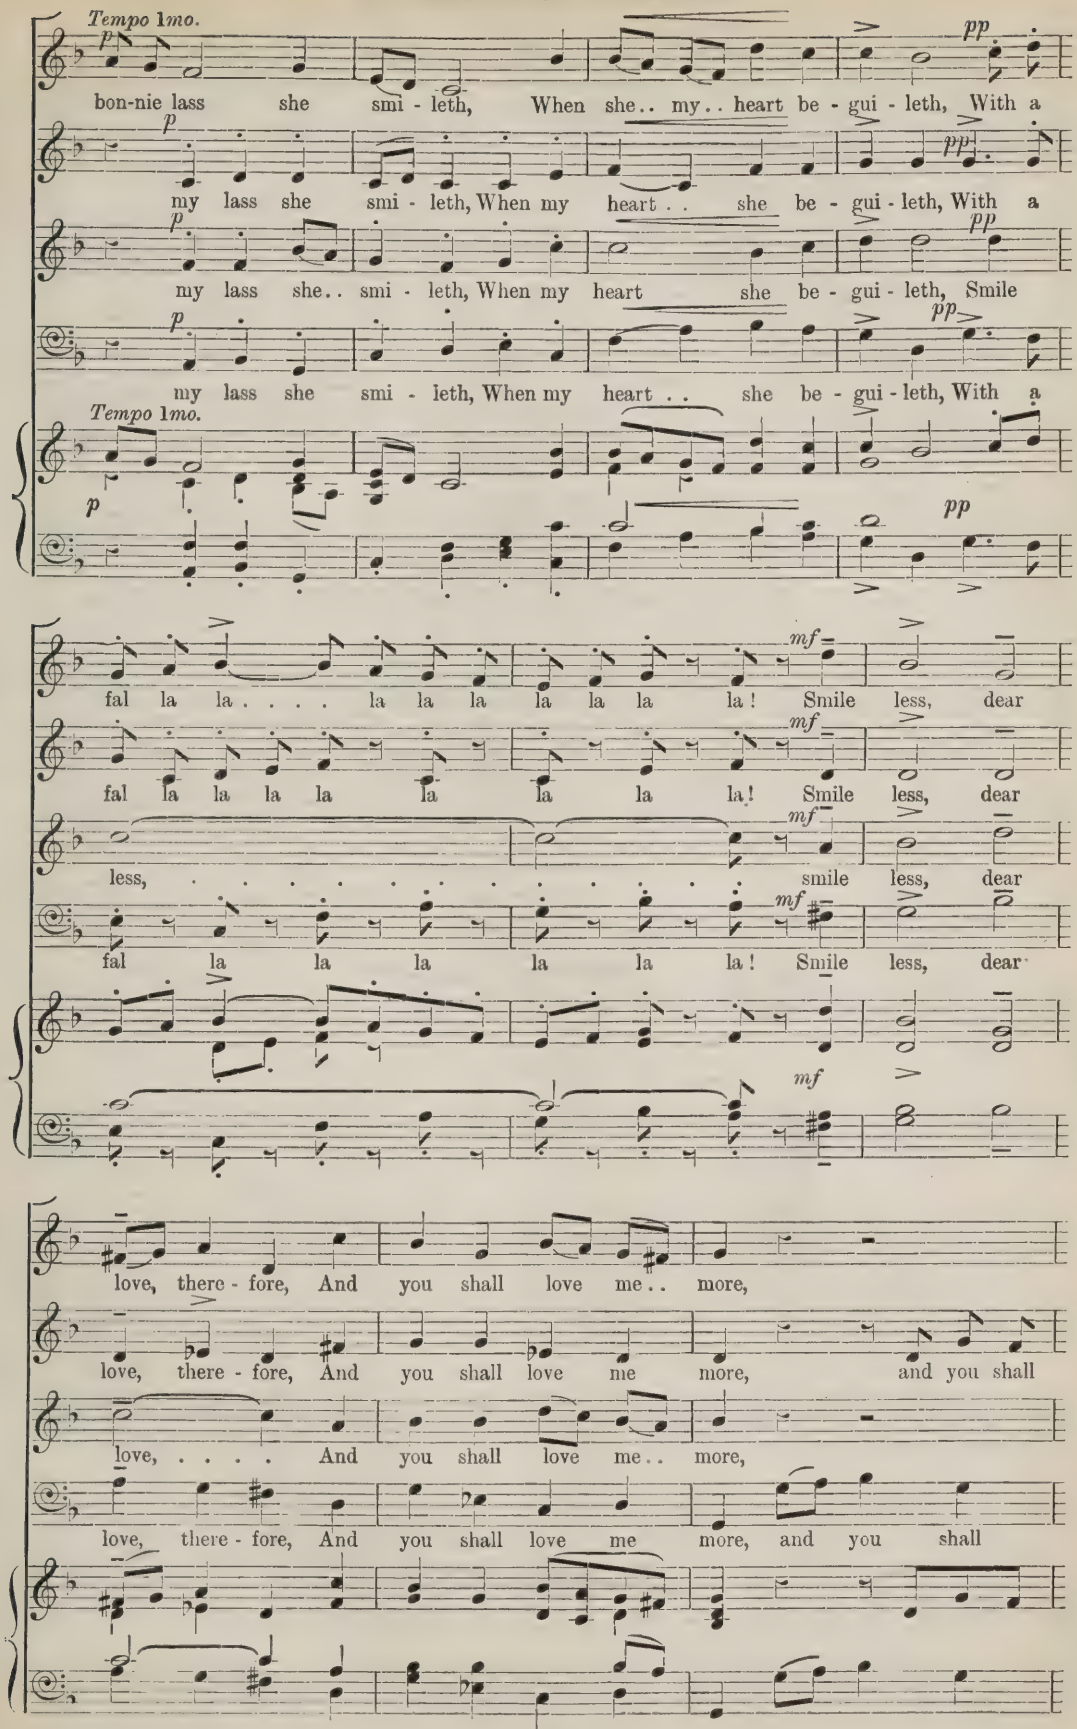
mf rallentando.



Tempo 1mo.
p
pp bon-nie lass she smi - leth, When she.. my.. heart be - gui - leth, With a my lass she smi - leth, When my heart.. she be - gui - leth, With a my lass she.. smi - leth, When my heart she be - gui - leth, Smile my lass she smi - leth, When my heart.. she be - gui - leth, With a Tempo 1mo.
p pp
mf
fal la la.... la la la la la la la! Smile less, dear fal la la la la la la la la! Smile less, dear less, smile less, dear fal la la la la la la! Smile less, dear
mf
love, there - fore, And you shall love me.. more, love, there - fore, And you shall love me more, and you shall love, ... And you shall love me.. more, love, there - fore, And you shall love me more, and you shall and you, ... and you, ... and you shall love me love, . . . and you shall love, . . . and you shall love me more, . . .

love, . . . and you shall love me more, . . love me more, . . love me more and more! With a fal la la . . . la la la la la la la la la la la la
. . . and you shall love me more! With a fal la la la la la la love me more! With a fal la la la la la la la la more! With a fal la la la la la la la la la la . .
Broader.
la la la la la la la la la la la la la la! Smile la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la la! Smile
. . la la la la la la la la! Smile
Broader.

rit.
a tempo. delicato.
p less, dear love, there - fore, And you shall love me more! With a fal la la la rit.
a tempo.
p la! Smile less, there - fore, And you shall love me more! La rit.
a tempo.
p less, . . . there - fore, And you shall love me more! La . . . . .
rit.
a tempo.
p less, dear love, there - fore, And you shall love me more! La delicato.
rit.
a tempo.
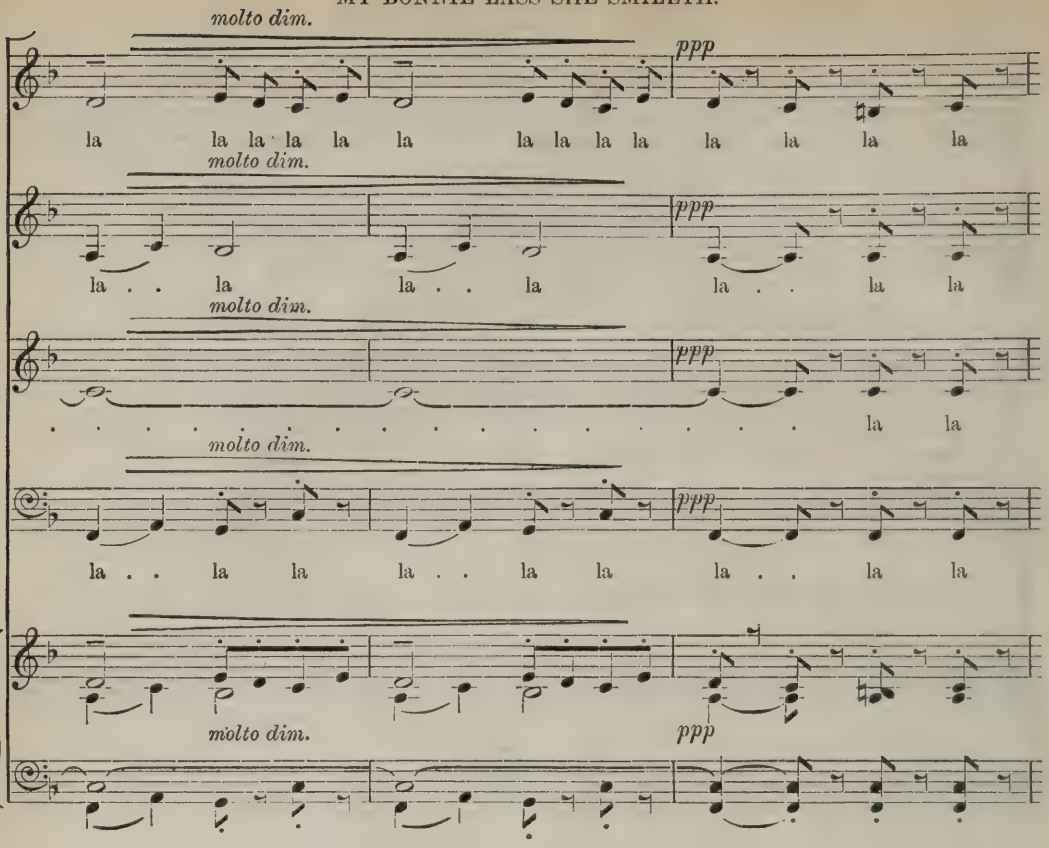
p la . . la ... la with a fal la la la la, . . with a fal la la la
delicato.
la, with a fal la la la la . . la la la
. . la la la la . . . . . la . . . .
la la la la la la



molto dim.
ppp la la la la la la la la la la la la
molto dim.
ppp la . . la la . . la la . . la la
molto dim.
ppp
. . . . . la la
molto dim.
ppp la . . la la la . . la la la . . la la molto dim.
ppp

Allargando.
ff
rit.
la la la la la, with a fal la la!
la la la la la, with a fal la la!
la la la la la, with a fal la la!
la la la la la, with a fal la la!
Allargando.
ff
rit.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1247, price 1*d*.

LONDON OPERA HOUSE.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

DEAR SIR,—With Mr. Klein's article on the past season at the London Opera House (which appeared in the August number of the Musical Times) one must to a great extent agree, though one may differ from some of the reasons given for Mr. Hammerstein's failure to appeal to the London public. When Mr. Klein speaks of Mr. Hammerstein's want of business policy in 'challenging Covent Garden on its own ground' he is entirely in the right, considering that his artists were all far and away below the general level of those to be heard at the older House. It strikes one as well nigh beyond credence that the American impresario should claim (as he does) to have brought thousands of singers to their inheritance, by which it is reasonable to suppose that they have become celebrities on the operatic stage; and yet none of these thousands were forthcoming during any period of operatic performances at his theatre. One or two did excellent work, and with further study may achieve an enviable position later on; and though a laudable ensemble was often to be found, yet to imagine that the public in London would be induced to support such an enterprise at Covent Garden prices was surely the wildest of chimeras imaginable, and even at reduced figures they declined to respond. Seriously, Mr. Klein considers that English texts supply not merely Mr. Hammerstein's best but his one chance of success. With this I disagree. Permanent opera the London public does not want (as has been proved dozens, nay, scores of times) in any language. Would not it have had an all year round (almost) National Opera or Cosmopolitan Opera years and years ago had it so desired? Has not time and money been spent hopelessly in trying to induce Londoners to patronize that form of entertainment in the vernacular as in Italian, German, and French, with the best procurable performers and conductors of the first rank? Educate, educate, educate, is the perpetual cry, but the masses will have none of it in regard to opera, and prefer Telephone Girls, Runaway Girls, Sunshine Girls, &c., and it is quite useless to insist further on this state of things, as the number of the theatres that bring forward such effusions when the theatre season is in full swing sufficiently demonstrates. Covent Garden Opera is all Londoners can 'do with' for a limited season, which this year has been longer than usual owing to the attractions of the Russian Ballet. It is surely only necessary to mention the names of Carl Rosa and Charles Manners to bring to mind the heartbreaking work these two must have experienced for so many years, giving their energies, time, and money to try and educate Londoners in opera—and with what result?

Yours, &c.,
CLAUDE TREVOR.

PRESERVATION OF CHILDREN'S VOICES.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

SIR,—I frequently observe, with alarm, classes in vocal contests for girls 'under sixteen.' Between the ages of thirteen and sixteen is a critical period for female singers, because their voices are undergoing a process of change. They should therefore have a rest. Such classes, I fear, are likely to prove an inducement to over-sing just at the harmful time, with disaster in after years to the mature organ. In the last forty years I have seen many young singers 'go up like a rocket and come down like a stick' through disregard of this necessary precaution.

Yours truly,
W. H. BREARE.

AN ANALYSIS OF CHORAL TONE.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

DEAR SIR,—The article by Mr. J. A. Rodgers, which appeared in your July issue, is not only interesting but highly instructive to those who study the tone and vocal characteristics of persons and choirs.

One portion of the article is to my mind open to discussion. Mr. Rodgers says: 'I purposely exclude the Three Choirs Festival from this comparative analysis, because its constitution is unique. Salaried lay-clerks, presumably drawn from all districts, form the nucleus of this body; the contralto tone is stiffened by an amalgam of male alto quality.'

This statement is not only incorrect, but bestows praise where it is not due.

The choir probably numbers about 200, and of these the number of 'lay-clerks,' including male alto, would not exceed twenty-seven to thirty. During the period of rehearsals, which are held twice a week for about thirteen weeks, 'the nucleus of this body' only attend about seven rehearsals.

There is perhaps a great amount of truth in the statement that the sopranos unconsciously adopt the boy-chorister tone, but Mr. Rodgers would have found it very interesting, and possibly instructive, had he made a more exhaustive analysis of the whole choir and, again, the three independent choirs which go to form the whole.

Perhaps after September we may look forward to this.

Yours faithfully,
Worcester, July 29, 1912. PERCY POTTER.

'ADESTE FIDELES.'

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

SIR,—The reviewer of Dr. Terry's 'Westminster Hymnal' suggests that the inclusion of the above hymn-tune among plainsong melodies is a slip on the part of the Doctor, and states that the composition is an English air first published in 1744 as 'Air Anglois.'

That date is only 168 years ago. In France, where there are many Noëls going back to the 13th century, it is thought that the tune is a very ancient one. Laroussi's 'Universal Dictionary,' published thirty-four years ago, speaks of it in the following terms:

'Ce morceau de plain-chant, completement en dehors de la forme habituellement reçue pour ce genre de musique, nous a été transmis d'age en age par la tradition. Comme tous les chants populaires dont le souvenir se pérpetue, il se recommande par une coupe nette et un rhythm franc. De nos jours, tous les maîtres de chapelle de nos églises ont, plus ou moins, brodé sur ce thème; mais, à toutes ces variantes, si hereuses qu'elles soient, nous preferons, et de beaucoup, l'antique melodée dans toute sa simplicité primitive.'

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
ADAM SCOTT.

[We believe our reviewer is correct in stating that the oldest known copy of the tune was published in 1744. Of course, it may have existed long before as a tradition.—ED., M. T.]

TEACHERS' METHODS.

Mr. Gaston de Mengel, of 17, Colville Square, London, W., sends us a letter, in which he comments on the reluctance of teachers to give up accustomed methods. He says:

'Is there any valid reason, apart from the weakness of human nature, and the inability to grasp a scientific exposition of the truth, that can justify teachers in not altering their methods of teaching at any point when they are shown something better?

'Do you think it would be possible to form a Society, which all professors of standing would be invited to join, for the purpose of examining and reporting upon new methods of teaching, whether general or dealing with special points, and from whatever source they come? Naturally, the members would have to be willing to call in the aid of experts in acoustics, mechanics, physiology, or whatever other branch of science was involved in the point under discussion, and to stand by their united decision.

'If any of your readers should think this a feasible scheme, I should be glad to communicate with them, with a view to meeting and discussing ways and means.'

[In an ideal community there would be no difficulty in carrying out this idea. But human nature, especially teachers' human nature, being what it is, we fear that it would be very difficult to arrive at unanimous conclusions. We are reminded of the eleven obstinate jurymen.—ED., M. T.]

THE MOST POPULAR COMPOSER.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

